WHO ARE THE TRAITORS?

The Hamilton Spectator never tires of lying about the Reform party, and in every issue endeavors to create the impression that the Northwest rebellion was under Liberal auspices. To intelligent people the absurdity of such twaddle must be apparent, but we suppose that kind of pabulum is just what is wanted by the readers of the Spectator. The principal men responsible for the Northwest rebellion are Sir John Macdonald, Sir David Macpherson, Edgar Dewdney, and Louis Riel. None of these men were Reformers—all are dyed-in-the-wool Tories. The minor participants were also Tories, one of them, Scott, having told a Mail reporter that he was "a Tory from away back." A number of Riel's counsel were Dominion Government appointees, and some of them were under salary from Sir John while carrying arms against our volunteers. In addition to all this, when Riel was arrested certain documents which implicated well known persons were found upon him, and were suppressed by the Government. When the counsel for the defence asked to have the documents produced in evidence, Mr. Christopher Robinson, for the Government, objected as follows:

"With regard to another application which my learned friends say they will think it right to make or they do make now, an application for an order for the production of certain documents which were found in possession of the prisoners at Batavia, all that I can say is that we regard those documents as State documents, and that it is the duty of our solicitor to refuse to give up any papers which are in the nature of confidential correspondence, or which could implicate our Government, or which it is in the public interest and in the interest of society to keep properly suppressed."

The Reform party is anxious to get full information as to who are Riel's guilty co-partners. We are satisfied that our leading statesmen have had no communication with the rebel chief, and have not now, or on any previous occasion, offered him financial or moral aid. We want to have those suppressed documents published; we want to have Riel's confessions brought to the light of day; we want to have all the guilty punished. Dam the Spectator and its friends strive for that object!

Hon. JOHN COSTIGAN has lately been the recipient of a valuable present, in the shape of a house and lot at Ottawa. His subordinates in the Inland Revenue department are the donors, and the Hon. John must feel proud that his underlings have selected him as an object of charity, and given of their substance accordingly. We understand circulars were sent to the different officials of the department throughout the Dominion, and, as a matter of course, those importuned had to "whack up" for fear of the displeasure of the head of the department. Over in the "Old Sod" where the Honorable John and ourselves came from they would call a healthy man who solicited aid a beggar; but here they call the Minister of Inland Revenue, the Honorable John.

Hon. Tom White is the latest addition to the Dominion Cabinet. He has been appointed Minister of the Interior, vice Sir David Macpherson, "removed" for blundering on the Northwest policy. The Hon. Tom's claim to office lies in the fact that he believes in "lying when political exigencies require it." He will thus prove a source of strength to Sir John, who is a creature of "political exigencies."

Now that Riel has been tried and sentenced for his share in fomenting the Northwest troubles, we think the other principal in guilt, Edgar Dewdney, should be indicted and duly found guilty. If there is going to be any hanging result from this Northwest trouble we would like to see the authorities begin at the top, and work down.

RIEL SENTENCED.

After a trial regularly conducted, Louis Riel has been sentenced to be hanged by the neck until he is dead on the 18th of Sept. A strong effort was made by his counsel to secure his acquittal on the plea of insanity, but the jury returned a verdict of guilty against him, and the death sentence has been passed. Despite this fact there are many who believe the sentence will be commuted, and that the arch-agitator will not suffer the extreme penalty of the law. Already the French-Canadians are moving in the matter of commutation, and great pressure will be brought upon the government to affect that end. The following opinions from some of our exchanges will prove of interest to our readers.

From the Toronto World.

That Riel should have been found guilty was only what was to have been expected. There was never any reason to expect anything else. A great many people laugh at the idea of his being hanged, and a few think that we can afford to spare the wretch's life. The government will certainly be vigorously importuned for a commutation, and the example of our republican neighbors will be cited as a good precedent. We incline to the opinion of those who hold that Riel will find mercy. There is little in his case to entitle him to consideration, but great offenders often go unhung.

From the Toronto News.

Riel, the Canadian Quixote, has been found guilty of treason-felony. It is the opinion of The News, as well as of the court, that Riel is guilty, but it is not our opinion that he deserves any mercy. He is not nearly so insane as Guitau, the murderer of Garfield, was proved to be, and yet Guitau was hanged. Riel should be treated likewise. His history as an assassin dates back to the murder of Scott fifteen years ago. His latest exploits show him to be too dangerous and bloodthirsty a man to be let live. To use the words of Guitau, "he must be removed." It was never the intention of the government to hang him, and he will not be hanged, yet he richly deserves it. We want none of the "professional" insanity business in Canada. A man who is sane enough to organize two rebellions and cause the death of scores of his fellow-citizens is sane enough to furnish material for a hangman. Riel's comrades had grievances; Riel had none; show that mercy is to be shown to the misguided followers but show none to the arch assassin himself, who suffered nothing, dared nothing, won nothing, but tried his best to raise the Indians and massacre the whites.

From the London Free Press.

That Riel must die the death is now a foregone conclusion. So long as the evidence against him had not been legal, it formulated there was reason to suppose that he might have been held by the court to have not been altogether responsible for his acts. But his sanity has been made manifest; only it was a sanity that was mingled with a diabolical craft, bent upon the sacrifice of friend and foe alike in the pursuit of personal aggrandizement. That such a man should have any claim to a further clemency it seems impossible to suppose. An example will be made of him, at least, which will strike terror into any restless spirits that remain, and be the means of re-establishing the reign of law and order within the new empire of the North-West.

By the extreme solitudes expressed for the Reform party, and the amount of advice given by the Tory organs concerning the Reform leadership, one would almost be led to suppose that the Tory press was anxious to see the Liberals in power in the Dominion. Now, we all know if that was to ensue their private subsidies would be cut off, and without their present opportunities for plunder many of our Tory confederates would go to the wall. Such being the case, we cannot believe our cotems would advise against their tread and butter, and it follows as a sequence that their talk against the leadership of Blake is only to strengthen their own position. If Blake is the incapable that they represent him to be, why do they work so strenuously to awake the Reform party from the delusion under which it labors—why not let the Liberal party sleep, while the Tories are engaged in plundering? There is an inconsistency about their action that we cannot comprehend. And, now, since we are speaking about incapable leaders, wouldn't it be in order for the Mail, Hamilton Spectator, London Free Press and others of that kind, to discuss the supplanting of William Ralph Meredith? The Hon. Josiah Burr-Plumb, the silver-toned tenor of the roaring cataract, would like to lead the Tory procession in the Local House. Give the warbler of Niagara a fair show, gentlemen; give him a show, to lift the tail of the Tory rooster out of the dust in Ontario.

W. T. R. PRESTON, will contest East Durham in the Reform interest at the ensuing election.

MUSKOKA MUSINGS.

Huckleberrying and Picking—The Man With the Canoe—Seeing Old Faces—Too Many Fish—A Rainy Day in Camp—Playing with Fire.

BELLE-MARIE ISLAND, LAKE JOSEPH, MUSKOKA, August 1, 1885.

Did you ever go huckleberrying? The huckleberry is not so general as the ruddy raspberry, and in the more settled portions of Ontario the blue fellow manifests an affinity for swamps and low ground, where one must wade in mud, or bog, or water ankle deep a good part of the time while picking. We are more fortunate here, on the Muskoka islands. There is no swamp land hereabouts. The islands lift their pine-covered crests proudly out of the water, on substantial foundations of granite rock, which show themselves through the gray, green and brown moss, which form

THE NATURAL CARPET of this rugged region. We have to step either upon the hard, unyielding rock, which would wear away shoes of iron and brass, or else tread the soft and springing moss, so pliant and yielding, that the weary feet feel new vigor as the tourist roams over the solitary isle in quest of berries, wild flowers or ferns. The snug little island owned by our party is covered with huckleberries, and every day we have eaten heartily of the dainty blue berries either raw or boiled, or both. The appetite never seemed to weary of them. But as many of our set are desirous of "putting down" a half dozen or a dozen of gem jars full of berries, we occasionally go to some unoccupied island near by, and return in a few hours laden with cans and baskets of huckleberries. Little at present grows upon many of these islands but pine, huckleberries and juniper berries. On many of the islands there is not a single stick of hard wood.

THE HUCKLEBERRY GROWS on low bushes, not over a foot from the ground, and the berry, after becoming ripe, keeps for a few weeks on the bush before it spoils. The season consequently lasts for a month or two, according to the time of picking. Seated on the soft moss, and sheltered by a pine tree, the hand can be quickly and comfortably filled with berries. When a good spot is found, and the picker settles down to business, two or three quarts an hour can be harvested. There are no complaints as yet about the "patches" being "skinned."

WE HAVE FATHERS HERE occasionally. A pricier substantial lunch is put up, and we take boats to some spot on one of the many islands where we have not yet landed, and while some prepare the tea or coffee and spread the cloth on the clean moss, the others pick berries or fish, or lie on the soft moss bed that nature has spread, and read or meditate. These little outings are very popular with us, and all hands are ready for the picnics. The first day we went off to one of them we made the terrible mistake of not bringing enough lunch with us. Now we go loaded and double-barrelled, as it were, and the way the victuals disappear would spread consternation among the people who run town boarding-houses.

THE MAN WITH THE CANOE. I saw the prettiest canoe yesterday I ever set eyes upon. The canoeist hailed from Peterboro', and had spent a month roaming over the chain of lakes comprising the Muskoka group. The canoe was about 16 feet in length, and was neatly striped with cedar, 3-16th of an inch thick. It was neatly covered, and the solitary paddler carried 150 lbs. of luggage hidden somewhere about the dainty little craft. She carried two sails, and when the wind was blowing showed more canvas than any of the sailboats we have seen here. She carried two passengers during the earlier portion of the outing, but the canoeist had been playing it alone of late. We presented the wanderer with a couple of newspapers, and he took for a new camping ground.

I took a run on the steamer "Nipissing" on Tuesday last as far as Port Carling, to order some "grub," and other necessities. On the return I had as fellow passengers Col. Ross, M.P.P., and S. Malcomson, of Goderich. They had not yet selected a camping ground, but are going to settle somewhere within a mile or two of our island. I guess that

SOME TALL FISH STORIES will be told by the Provincial treasurer before long that will make Arthur Sturgis Hardy as incredulous as Creighton or Carnegie profess to be over the budget speech; and unless Malcomson sends his biggest fish to Ira Lewis, to be weighed on the market-scales, and the weight endorsed by that most accurate of mortals, the general county clerk, we fear that the master in chancery will lose his reputation for veracity. There was "fah" in the eyes of the Goderich prospectors, and the question of bait was the all important one as I got loose on one of my most cherished fish yards. But, speaking of fish, I have to say that we don't know what to do with all we catch here. In fact,

WE HAVE TO GIVE THEM AWAY in large quantities, and cease from fishing, to prevent criminal waste. Bass and pickerel are freely caught, the former being most esteemed. We don't care to keep anything under a pound weight.

Aug. 3rd, 1885.

Well, here is a wet day. The rain keeps up a constant pitter on the canvas overhead, the wind blows fiercely, and the frothy waves dash themselves angrily against the immovable rocks that form the base of our little island. Looking out the tent door at the islands over the way, they appear misty and indefinite, and no boat is venturesome enough to cross the waters for the daring's sake. Yet to me this wet, dismal, trowning, sullen day is

A WELCOME CHANGE from the bright, over bright, dry days of the past fortnight; for we were getting into an idle, monotonous swing in our camp life. Fishing was becoming tiresome, rowing irksome, and the other little occupations of outdoor life were boring us. This day or two of rain, therefore, comes as a pleasurable change, just as woman will appreciate the pleasure of a homely and stupid man after a long period spent in the society of none but the fairest and wittiest of her own sex. So I am enjoying this damp day, because I know that it is a break for but a short time in the delightful weather we generally find here; and that when the bright, grand sunshine again greets us, we will find fresh pleasure in the rowing, the fishing, the picnics, and various outings. The rainy day in camp is

A SORT OF SOCIAL SALT, an antiseptic which prevents the sports and recreations of camp life from growing stale. Others, (but not in our camp) may curse at the rain, and inveigh against wet days, but as for me, I try to keep dry, and enjoy it. There is another reason why I welcome the rain today.

A CARELESS CAMPER a week or so ago left a fire behind him on a point of the mainland not far distant, and although our party on several occasions thought they had smothered the flames, the fire broke out with renewed vigor yesterday, and glared fiercely at us across the water last night. A number of camping parties had yesterday agreed to send over members with pala today to put out the fire; but owing to the storm the meeting did not come. But the rain came, and we are in hopes that the fire in the moss and tree roots will be put out by nature's own fire brigade. We had preaching over on Johnston's Island yesterday afternoon. Rev. N. Wolverson, principal of Woodstock Baptist college, gave

A CLEAR AND FORCEFUL SERMON on the resurrection from the dead. Among the congregation I noticed Hon. A. M. Ross, M.P.P., Mrs. Ross, Miss Aggie Ross, Mr. Malcomson and Mrs. and Miss Malcomson, of Goderich, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Meyer, of Wingham. This party is encamped about a mile or so above our island, and they appear to enjoy camp life. We had no evening service, as Judge Boys was not on Lount's Island. I do not often hear such hearty congregational singing as we hear over at Johnston's at our open air service on Sunday afternoons. Fishing continues to be fair, but I have no big stories for you this week. We have no difficulty in getting all we want for the purposes of the camp, and give a frequent and liberal supply to a mainland neighbor. The black bass, which abound here, are prized above the pickerel. They are gamey, and it is amusing to watch the excitement of some of our party when they get a big fellow who will jump two or three feet out of water on their hook. The girls, especially, I like to see catching them; but alas! for me, the law of compensation comes in, and it generally falls to my lot to have to put the worms on the hooks for the fair fishers!

THE CANOES are getting thicker on the lake. They ride the waves in fine style, and look beautiful as under a big stretch of canvas they scud along before the wind. The canoe to many of the tourists is his vehicle, bed and storehouse. Into its fifteen or twenty feet the paddler will crowd all that he needs in the way of necessaries and comforts, and he moves along the lakes free and independent, here today and away tomorrow, like a nautical butterfly. It is getting late in the afternoon, and the storm shows no sign of abatement. Our tent has been carefully pitched, and the canvas is of good quality, and we have found no leaks. There is a heavy sea on, and it is yet uncertain whether or not we will be able to row over to the postoffice with this in time to reach you. I will likely write you another letter from here before my return, but as we have no excursion so far mapped out, I don't know what there will be fresh to write about.

P. S.—I am beginning to think that a rainy day in camp is not so delightful a thing after all.

QUEEN VICTORIA is reputed to have accumulated a fortune of over $40,000,000, and yet if any of her sons or daughters get married she allows them to go abegging to the British parliament for an annuity. Hoarding up useless wealth is not a good occupation for a woman who professes to be a consistent follower of the Saviour of men. It too nearly approaches the action of a miser. Eccentricities of this kind are fast leading the people—the great, throbbing heart—of England to believe that Queen Victoria is a woman of very ordinary type. $40,000,000 hoarded up by the Queen, and her son-in-law all paupers on the British public, is a strange sight to contemplate. There is no other woman in England who would be guilty of such a President Cleveland named the following pallbearers for General Grant's funeral:—Gen. Wm. T. Sherman, U. S. A.; Lt. Gen. Philip H. Sheridan, U. S. A.; Admiral David D. Porter, U. S. The situation in England is tending toward the evolution of a definite Radical party. The Whigs are thoroughly alarmed both for their principles and themselves. A combination between them and the respectable Tories is quite possible, and may be hastened by the strong action Radicals will take everywhere soon. The signs of this are remarkable—the Liberal tone of the Standard lately; Hartington's attack on the Parvillites; Chamberlain's increasing boldness; the general uneasiness at the prospect of an enormous Irish vote in the next Parliament; the Liberals calling for a platform from the leaders, and saying everywhere that the cry of "Old man, old cause and old umbrella" was not good enough; that mere phrases like "dealing with the laws" are useless, and they must face the electors with definite proposals. Mr. Chamberlain, with his usual sagacity, is preparing to satisfy these desires from a Radical standpoint, and will see on this wave.

TO BE HANGED.

Riel Found Guilty of Treason-Felony.

The 18th of September named as the Day of Execution.

ROMA, Aug. 1.—The jury in the Riel trial were out about thirty minutes. They returned a verdict of guilty. Judge Richardson, when he began his charge to the jury, confined himself chiefly to reading extracts from the evidence. He then reviewed the law upon which the court was established and the trial conducted. The charge was concluded at 2:15, and the jury retired. The oath was administered to the guard to keep the jury without meat or drink, fire or lodging. At 3:15 there was a murmur in the court, and it was whispered that the jury had agreed. All was bustle and excitement. Riel prayed fervently, kneeling in his box, and looked unmoved as the jury entered with a verdict of guilty. Francis Cosgrove, the foreman, while crying like a child, announced that he was asked by his fellow jurors to recommend the prisoner to the mercy of the crown, and the judge said the recommendation would be considered.

In answer to the question if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed on him, Riel addressed the court over an hour and said the verdict of guilty was a great advantage because it showed him to be not insane. He had a mission to fulfill and so long as he was looked upon as insane he could not do it. Now he would begin to succeed. One of his difficulties was beginning to disappear. He thanked the jury for the recommendation of mercy. It would be easy now for him to make an incendiary speech against the selection of the jury and the legality of the court, but he must take advantage of the situation to show himself responsible. He had a call from God to do something for the Northwest. His suffering would prove him to be a prophet. He himself had suffered nineteen years. Riel fifteen, and he had two more years to suffer. The Saskatchewan troubles were only the continuation of the troubles of sixty-nine.

The Dominion government had sent delegates to treat with the rebels of sixty-nine and it was reasonable to expect that they would do the same in the Saskatchewan, and grant the rights of the half-breeds now as then. He explained the plan of how he was going to invite the Irish, Germans, Jews, Bavarians, Poles, Scandinavians, Italians, Belgians, Norwegians and Swedes to come and assist him, and give each a share in the Northwest and British Columbia. The condition of the Jews was they must acknowledge Jesus Christ as the Saviour of the world. Gabriel Dumont and the Fenians were active in his behalf in the States and their assistance was the last resort. He complained that Archbishop Tache and the ministers of the crown had broken the promise of an amnesty in 1872. Dubuc had given him the name David as a souvenir in 1872. Archbishop Tache came and said his Lower Canadian friends wanted him to leave the country because he would embarrass them during the election. He and Lepine got 2400 from Archbishop Tache to go. He agreed only because his benefactor, Archbishop Tache, asked him to. After Sir George Cartier was defeated in Quebec, Riel was asked to give up Provenccher for him. Before the election in 1873 Sir John Macdonald sent an offer to him of $35,000 to leave the country, and if that was not enough how much would he take to cross the ocean? If he had the right to that money then, had he not the right to ask it last year? He declared himself the prophet of the new world, giving some rather comical instances in proof. He wanted a medical commission of doctors and lawyers to try him, not on account of the outbreak on the Saskatchewan alone, but on his whole career during the past fifteen years, and determine if the execution of Scott was a murder. He complained that the judge had charged all against him, but felt entire confidence that he would yet be spared to fulfil his mission. The voice told him that.

Judge Richardson, before passing sentence, referred to the enormity of the prisoner's crime, and said he could hold out no hope whatever, but to prepare for the end.

When the jury returned to court, Riel continued praying fervently till the verdict was given. He then rose without the slightest agitation apparent. This demeanor he maintained till the end, and a smile spread over his face as the judge pronounced sentence.

The 18th day of September was fixed as the day of execution.

It is not yet settled how the other half breed prisoners will be charged. It will probably be treason felony, in order to obviate the necessity of serving an indictment ten days before trial. A majority of the prisoners will be charged with murder, although some may be indicted for treason felony or levying war. The latter charge is not necessarily capital.

FROM OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Aug. 2.—The French Canadian population here are greatly agitated over the news of Riel's conviction and sentence. The general complaint is that the trial was unfairly conducted, and that evidence was suppressed by the government. Petitions to the governor-general, asking for a commutation of the sentence, will at once be prepared.

HOW HE LOST THE WIDOW.

Mr. Podmore Tempary felt very much disgusted when the jeweler...

Just at this inconvenient time a friend of Mr. Tempary's—to whom he was under obligations in the way of business—must needs get married, and Mr. Tempary felt compelled to give him a wedding present.

However this may be Mr. Tempary dispatched the bracelet to his friend's with a neatly worded letter of congratulations and good wishes.

'All in the way of business,' muttered Mr. Tempary, feeling faint.

'What horridly vulgar places. How absurd you are, Podmore!' exclaimed the widow, looking at him rather curiously.

'I shouldn't if I were you,' said Mr. Tempary, earnestly. 'Very inconsiderate of her, I call it, to swoop down upon you like that.'

'I am extremely sorry, madam,' he answered, with calm deliberation.

'Impossible! Why, here it is!' said the widow, producing the ornament.

At times that to the jeweler's must be fairly complete his discomforts...

'I will make a good job of it,' replied Mr. Bevis, putting the case on one side.

'By-the-by, Podmore, dear,' she exclaimed, showing her head out of the window as she drove off.

'Mistakes will sometimes happen in the best regulated establishments,' said Mr. Bevis, with humility.

'I never heard the name,' said Mr. Tempary, uneasily.

What you say I exclaimed the widow, while she brought on the assembly.

'Excellent!' cried Mr. Bevis in a tone of emphatic admiration, for which Mr. Tempary smiled at him.

Behold, does a base thing in zeal to... serve his friend turns the golden thread that ties their hearts together.

There is nothing so true that the... damage of error have not warped; nothing so false that a spark of truth is not in it.

Good temper is the philosophy of the... heart; a gem in the treasury within, whose rays are reflected on all outward objects.

We meet in society many beautiful... and attractive women who we think would make excellent wives for our friends.

There is no mortification, however... keen, no misery, however desperate, which the spirit of woman cannot in some degree lighten or alleviate.

Most men call fretting a minor fault... a foible, and not a vice. There is no vice, save drunkenness, which can so utterly destroy the peace, the happiness of a home.

The crowning fortune of a man is to... be born to some pursuit which finds him in employment and happiness, whether it be to make baskets or broadsword, or canals, or staves, or songs.

Those really anxious to grow plants... will always find out ways and means to gratify their tastes, even under apparently insurmountable difficulties.

A property arranged window-box, judiciously... planted and cared for, may sometimes give more pleasure to its owner than a large garden.

You can clear your room of mosquitoes... by taking a piece of gum camphor about one-third the size of a hen's egg, and evaporating it by placing it in a tessel, holding it over a lamp or candle, taking care that it does not ignite.

Fare to the Falls, $1.75; fare to Grimsby, $1.50; children half fare. As this is no private venture, and is for the good of a suffering church, we hope it will be well patronized. Tickets are good to return on the following Monday on payment of an extra dollar.

A THANKSGIVING SERMON.—On Sunday last at St. George's, on the safe return of the volunteers, and timely quell of the insurrection, a very plain matter of fact sermon was given by Rev. Mr. Tocque, Toronto, from the text 2nd Cor. iv chap. and 18th verse, illustrating St. Paul as a true living example of the man living for the eternal things which are not seen rather than for the temporal things which are seen—also a fine illustration of the mariner putting all faith in his compass, even never wavering when the sun, moon and stars are hidden from sight by dense clouds; never wavering when storms howl, making his compass turns to the north pole, which no man has ever seen. The hymns were most appropriate for the Thanksgiving Service especially the 319 and 320 hymns entitled "Warfare and Pilgrimage" from Eph. 6 chap. 10th and 12th verses. "Soldiers of Christ arise, and put your armor on" and "Stand up, stand up for Jesus, ye soldiers of the cross."

Miss Louisa Trainer has sent in her resignation to the trustees of the Methodist church, of which she has been a member for some years. The Stratford Age says: On motion of Messrs. FALL PAINTING.—If you want neat and cheap fall painting go to THE SIGNAL job room. We employ no amateurs to do first-class job work in oil colors, carriages, shopwork, black frames, etc., and none of our work looks as if it was turned out of a junk shop. We have before us samples of "amateur" work done in this town, and we must say that it fills the bill for "cheap and nasty." We don't profess to sell the best of everything, but we have lines of any kind of type across the top for nothing. We believe in sticking to our regular trade, and living by our legitimate business. Our friends will please see these facts in mind when they kindly solicitors go regarding to them for work.

THE CHURCH OF THE MARY S. GORDON.—On Monday last the North street Methodist choir took passage on the schooner Mary S. Gordon. The intention was to sail at 10 p. m. for the coast of Lake Huron and Georgian Bay, for a week or ten days, and every preparation was made to ensure a "good time." Unfortunately the weather was not propitious, and after roughing it out on the lake some time the Mary S. was rounded about 9 o'clock in the evening. The excurionists, over twenty in number, were pretty badly used up with seasickness, but as yet no serious results have happened. The party has the intention of continuing the cruise, but has decided to put in the balance of the time at the falls, where they propose to camp for the next week. "A Life on the Ocean Wave," is not a favorite air with any of the present company.

THE TORONTO INDUSTRIAL FAIR.—It is generally conceded that the Great Industrial Fair which is held annually at Toronto takes rank as the largest and most important one held in Canada, offering as it does the largest prize list in all departments, and drawing the best from all classes of the community throughout the Dominion as well as the adjoining States, and this has been accomplished without the aid of a dollar of Government money. The attendance at the present fair is estimated to be far exceeded at the coming fair to be held at Toronto from the 9th to the 16th of September next, for which unusual preparations are being made. This fair, after the great St. Louis Fair, ranks second to none in America, and its fame has spread to such an extent that delegates have been appointed to visit it this year from many of the large Fair in the United States, even as far west as the State of Iowa. The entries and applications for spaces already made far exceed those of any previous year, and the managers are being put to their wits' end to know how to provide for them all. The Directors claim that the special attractions which they have prepared for the coming exposition are far ahead of any previous one, and they are determined that the supremacy which their Fair has reached shall be maintained. Cheap rates and excursions will be given last year were 150,000, and they will be disappointed if they make up their minds to pay Toronto a visit at the time of the Fair. All entries made on or before the 23rd of August, and intending exhibitors should not fail to make a note of this fact. For more particulars and information can be procured by dropping a post-card to Mr. Hill, the Secretary, at Toronto.

Dedication Ceremonies in Connection With the New Hall at Clinton.

Last Thursday was a gala day in the Oddfellows of this town. Invitations had been issued to the neighboring Lodges to take part in the celebration of the day, and right nobly did they respond to the call. Lodges at Hensall, Brucefield, Guderich, Wingham and Seaford, were represented, besides quite a number of the different Encampments. The visiting brethren were met by the Reception Committee of the Clinton Lodge, and every effort was put forth to give them a hearty welcome.

The members of the Guderich Encampment, in full uniform, arrived on the morning train, and were met by the Clinton Lodge, accompanied by the Town Band. A procession was formed and marched to the hall. Here every arrangement for enjoyment and comfort had been made. Luncheon was spread in one of the side rooms, and the new hall, with its ante rooms, thrown open to the visitors. They all expressed surprise at the commodiousness and beauty of the new premises. The room in hand was carpeted and tastefully decorated with appropriate mottoes and emblems.

At 4 o'clock the members of the Order assembled to dedicate the hall, which was presided over by the acting Grand Master, and was assisted in the various offices by Brothers F. F. Lawrence, Guderich; J. A. Morton, Wingham; H. W. Ball, Guderich; G. Baird, Jr., Brucefield; Manning, White, Worsell and Smith, Clinton. The musical part of the ceremony was under the charge of Brothers Jones and Cole, with Mr. L. Smith as organist. The ceremony is a very beautiful and appropriate one. In the centre of the room, at the corners of a square table, were seated four heralds. On the table were four vases filled with flowers, wheat, water and oil. The parts of the ceremony dealing with charity, purity, fidelity and the sowing of the good seed, are illustrated by the music of these. Fidelity was represented by lighting the oil to make it fire on the altar; the good seed by scattering the wheat; purity by the clear water, and the death of charity by the fragrance of the flowers. At the conclusion short, pithy addresses were given by Rev. G. F. Sallou, Judge Toms, and Bro. Lawrence, Baird, Ball and Manning.

At 7 o'clock in the evening the members of the different Lodges and Encampments met to take part in a street parade. Headed by the town band, which performed with great credit, the procession marched along Albert, Eastman, Huron and William streets, tumbury Huron and William streets. The drilling and manoeuvres of the Guderich Encampment were very generally admired, their fine uniforms made them the centre of attraction. Although the evening was excessively warm, every brother was in his place.

In the evening a lecture was given by the Rev. Dr. Wild, on the interesting subject of "The destiny of Britain and Canada."

Fort Macleod, N. W. T., July 21.—For some time there had been bad blood between Thompson and Charlie Wright, cowboys on the Walrus ranch. Last week the men met in the corral of the ranch, when Thompson insisted on fighting, and both men pulled their revolvers at the same moment. Three shots were fired by each party. The first two did not take effect on either side. At the third shot the fates went against Thompson, and he fell with a bullet in his shoulder. He was taken to the Fort Macleod hospital, where Dr. Kennedy extracted the bullet. The patient is recovering. Immediately after the shooting, Wright mounted his horse and struck out for Montana.

The public have not yet heard the last of the celebrated case of McLaren v. Caldwell, out of which arose the foundation for the equally celebrated river and streams bill, and indirectly the provincial rights agitation. This second action commences with a writ issued and an interim injunction granted on Saturday by Mr. Justice Oiler restraining Mr. Caldwell from floating timber over Mr. McLaren's improvements on the Mississippi and its tributaries at the present time upon the river at low water, or at any time other than the spring and fall freshets, the previous suit having determined the right to use the improvements at high water. The injunction will continue in force till Tuesday week, the 11th of August, when an argument will take place upon the motion to continue. Mr. McLaren claims to have stored up a lot of water to use during the season of low water, and that he objects to this being used by the defendant.

In Dundas lives a family of brothers and sisters named Edwards, who recently came to this country from England. Up to Friday night there were four girls and two boys. Their parents are dead. One of the girls, Jennie, worked in Lennard's knitting factory. On Friday evening she received her week's wages and took it home. It seems that her sisters wished her to put the whole of the money into the common household fund, but Jennie wanted to retain some of it for her own private uses. A quarrel ensued, and words were used which so wounded Jennie's feelings that she threatened to drown herself. Little attention was paid to the threat at the time; but when the girl did not return home on Friday night, and nothing was seen of her on Saturday, the family grew alarmed, and on Sunday they began searching for her. The hat which the poor girl had worn when last seen alive was found floating in the canal. This discovery confirmed the fears of the family that Jennie had carried out her threat, and the search was continued. Yesterday morning the dead body of the girl was taken out of the canal by Mr. Norton. She was only 17 years old.

July has been a fatal month for presidents and ex-presidents. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson died July 4, 1826; Monroe, July 4, 1831; Taylor July 9, 1850, while in office, and Grant, July 23, 1885, while Garfield received his death wound on the 2nd of the same month, 1881.

At Cheltenham Beach, Chicago, on Saturday, W. L. Smith and A. L. Talbot ascended in two balloons for a race in mid air. When a height of about 1200 feet had been reached the machines collapsed. Talbot came down with his wreck comparatively uninjured, but Smith fell the whole distance, striking some telegraph wires before reaching the earth. He still lives, but will die.

A society incident that caused quite a flutter, happened recently in Repton Row. The Prince of Wales was driving along with his court when they met Mrs. Langtry, who was also out for an airing, and the couple, with a knowledge of coming events, "As soon as His Royal Highness recognized the Lady he left his horse and joined the women, whom he accompanied through the park. Theatergoers speculated that this royal favor secured a boom for the lady during her next professional tour. The Prince of Wales, it is said, has cancelled all the invitations which had been extended to her by Sir George Chesterton and Lord Northcote to attend receptions at Marlborough House, the Prince's city palace. This action was taken because of their fast-light over Mrs. Langtry the other day. The Prince, it is said, was very angry when he discovered that both gentlemen have claimed consideration for the beauty. The Turf club has also given the combatants the cold shoulder since their unseemly battle. The prospect of a duel between the two noble lovers is again revived, as the only means by which they can relieve themselves of the claims incurred by both in reporting to prize ring methods to settle their jealousy.

Beaded bonnets are obsolete.

White china silk is worn with silver braiding.

The most deadly foe to all malarial diseases is Ayer's Agree Cure, a combination of vegetable ingredients only, of which the most valuable is used in no absolute and certain specific, and succeeds when all other medicines fail. A cure is warranted.

THE WORLD OVER.

As mirrored in the columns of our outside contemporaries.
The Chatham Banner says: Rev. N. H. Martin, of Christ Church, has declined both the calls to Stratford and Godfrey. Having been years here, and becoming attached to his surroundings and charge, he has decided to remain.

The Georgia House of Representatives on Saturday passed by a vote of 111 to 22 a general local option law for counties in Georgia which have not already adopted a Prohibition Act. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Mr. Gladstone's popularity caused him much inconvenience lately. He happened to go into a London bookstore, and was unable to leave, on account of a crowd of 3,000 persons before the door. Finally a carriage was procured and he departed amid great enthusiasm and loud cheering.

An aged woman entered a Montreal hotel Monday evening and asked for dinner. She had an infant in her arms, and asked a room to put it in while dining, which was complied with. After she had finished dinner she departed, leaving the infant and also an unpaid bill. The infant, which is a little girl, three or four days old, was duly attended to, and the police were communicated with, but no clue as yet has been obtained.

John Goodman, a farmer living in Ontario county, boarded the C. P. R. express going east Saturday night, evidently under the impression that the train stopped at Burketon. When the train started he jumped out on the platform and jumped off. The train passed on without noticing Goodman's wild act, but it was afterwards learned that the wheels of the third car amputated his left arm. His head was also badly cut. He died yesterday. An inquest will be held.

Michael Davitt, the Irish patriot, having been invited to become a candidate for a seat in parliament, has written a public letter in which he declares: 'I have determined that I will never sit in an English parliament. This determination is irrevocable. Fifteen years ago I was sentenced, in the name of the queen, to a term of servitude which is now expiring. I cannot perform an act which would compell me to seal my forgiveness and forgetfulness of all this personal wrong and inhumanity by invoking God's name as testimony of my loyalty and devotion to the power which inflicted this wrong.'

WASHING CLOTHES.

How to Clean them and at the Same Time Preserve the Materials.
Washing is so common a thing that one might readily suppose every housewife-familiar with the mysteries of it, says a writer in the "Cook." And so they frequently are so far, at least, as applies to the making things look clean, but how few can combine this cleansing process with the preservation of the articles which are washed.

First: Never put your clothes to soak the night before wash day, unless you use warm water and soap them well. It is not necessary to soak them at all. For washing, prepare a tub of warm water with a little soda, which is not at all injurious to the clothes if used in reasonably small quantities. If there are spots on any article, wet them first in cold water, then take each article separately and put it into warm water, soaping well all parts that are much soiled. When your tub is well filled, push the clothes back and add more hot water, but be careful not to pour in on the clothes, or you will be likely to scald the dirt into them. Wash them twice before boiling, and rinse thoroughly after.

Second: The washer women of Belgium and Holland, so proverbially effective in their work, use borax instead of soda; it saves soap, softens the hardest water, and does not in the least injure the texture of the linen. Colored muslins or lawns must be washed one by one in cold water. If they are very dirty, the water may be lukewarm, but no more. But, above all, be careful not to use the smallest particle of soda. The best soap for articles of this material is the common yellow, and a small piece of alum should be boiled in the water in which the lather is made. The alum should not be allowed to remain any time in the linen, but the article washed should be rinsed immediately after washing and hung out to dry. Leave all articles beside the tub, washing each separately. They must be ironed as soon as they are dry, and not allowed to remain damp over night or be sprinkled. Do not iron with hot irons. Pink and green tints may withstand the washing, but will be likely to change color as soon as a hot iron is put on them.

Third: The reason why disease is so soon expelled from the system by Burdock Blood Bitters is because that excellent remedy acts in a four-fold manner—that is to say, upon the Bowels, the Liver, the Blood, and the Kidneys.

Old Men are Getting Younger.
Either our young men are growing older or our old men are growing younger. Before the war 40 or 45 were not classed as young men in this country. They were spoken of as middle aged men. But now nothing is more common than to hear a man of 45 spoken of as 'a promising young lawyer' or 'young statesman.' There is good reason for this change. The average of human life is lengthening, and as the increasing requirements of our civilization grow more complex, men of middle age will be considered young, if we measure him by his knowledge and experience. The real young men of the country are glad to have in their ranks a set of lively old boys who claim to be still enjoying the freshness and vigor of youth. You can do as you like, he replied calmly, but the only book I shall need is my pocketbook.

THE HURON SIGNAL.

Boys, at a certain transitional age, are apt to be awkward. Outdoor exercise and sports do much to make them strong and vigorous. It is a very common error among those who are growing fast, especially if they read or study a good deal, to find the head throbbing, the shoulders round and stooped, and a slouching, ungainly carriage. Until these things are corrected, no boy can be thoroughly strong and vigorous.

Biting the nails is one of the most annoying habits, and yet one which almost any boy will fall into, unless his mother 'nips it in the bud.' Not only is it almost unendurable for a nervous person to sit in the room with one of these nail-biting boys, but the young man's hands are injured in appearance, and, if the habit is carried to excess, they will become almost deformed. In these days of 'professional manures,' mothers, at least, to see that there are no ragged nails and raw fingers among their children.

Words of Wisdom.

Take care to be an economist in prosperity; there is no fear of your not being one in adversity.

Reason and faith resemble the two sons of the patriarch; reason is the first born, but faith inherits the blessing.

Who is injured by dust and benefits from a marble? He who is lost on him who sees with an eye that feeling eye. For him there's a story in every breeze and a picture in every wave.

Persons who are always innocently cheerful and good humored are very useful in the world; they maintain peace and happiness and spread a thankful temper among all who live around them.

We often think we are of great importance to other people; that they must be thinking of us and our affairs; that they watch our actions and shape their course accordingly. In general we are quite mistaken.

The people of a country like ours are peculiarly like a single great individual man, full of passions, prejudices, often, but with a great heart, despising anything like show or pretense, and always striving forward in a general right direction.

The truest lives are those that are cut rose-diamond fashions, with many facets answering to the many planned aspects of the world about them. Society is always trying in some way or other to grind us down to a single flat surface.

An excellent and useful maxim is this: "Be content with what you have, and be content with what you are." The lot of man is disappointment, but his worst enemy is despair. Resolute confidence, when all other means fail, may often avert danger and overcome difficulty; may, more, it may convert the bane into a blessing.

Right-doing is first hard, then easy, then delightful. Such is the history of each virtue in the race and in the individual. Its beauty may be hidden in the root of self denial and effort, but it comes into full bloom when at length the effort has grown into a pleasure that we would not willingly forego.

The faith of a man that fall unperceived on the earth, the seemingly unimportant events of life spaced one another. As the snow gathers together so are our habits formed. No single flake that is added to the pile produces a sensible change; no single action creates, however it exhibits a man's character.

It is a fatal mistake to think that industry and a talent or ability in the least degree sufficient to insure success in the world. There are needs, needs, needs. A single man, a single woman, a single child, fully alive to his or her needs, and faithful to every demand, will occasionally infuse into his work a value to mankind that can never follow the most urgent efforts of a different character.

Household Hints.

Better than an iron spoon for mixing sponge for bread, and for similar uses is a "muddle," or a piece of oak shaped into a round smooth handle at one end, and the other end fashioned like a thick knife blade, then sand-papered smooth.

Scaly legs is caused by a minute insect. Keroline Oil applied with an old brush two or three times will cure it. The shanks may be immersed in oil for a minute. The foot should be kept on a bed of slugs or hay until the oil has dried off. Some recommend an application of lard and flour of sulphur.

All loose parts of a stove, such as the legs, poker, etc., should be wrapped in coarse paper and put inside the stove before it is put away. Then you'll know where to find them next fall. Mark the joints with chalk so you'll know how to put them together again.

When a knob comes off a door handle you can fasten it on again by filling the cavity in the knob with sulphur, then heat the iron end of the handle which goes in the knob just hot enough to melt the sulphur, put the knob in, and let it cool. It will be firmly fixed in place.

The leaves of geranium are an excellent application for cuts, where the skin is rubbed off, and other wounds of that kind. One or two leaves must be bruised and applied to the part, and the wound will be cicatrized in a short time.

The gutter carpets are shaken the longer they wear. The dirt that collects under them grinds out the threads. Do not sweep carpets oftener than is necessary. A broom wears them very much. When a carpet is badly strong salt and water will often restore the brightness of the color.

The Wedding Cake.

"I'm going to get married," said he, as he placed a hand upon the shoulder of a large Dutch cheese, "and I want a wedding-cake."

"It is customary," said the pretty bakery girl, "nowadays, to have the materials of the cake furnished with the calling of the bridegroom. For a physician now, we have an oxtake; for a man who has no calling and lives upon his friends the sponge cake; for a newspaper paragrapher, spice-cake, and so on; what is your calling, please?"

"An apothecary," said he.

"Then you want pound-cake."

Promotion for Mary's Bean.

"What does your bean do for a living, Mary?" asked a fond father, addressing his daughter.

"He's an entry clerk," she replied with a bright blush.

"Gets about seven dollars a week, I suppose?"

"He gets eight."

"Indeed. Well, I think I can get him something better than that."

"Oh, pa!" she exclaimed with a glad sparkle in her eyes, for she fancied her father was about to admit her bean to an equal partnership in his business.

"Yes," continued the father, "as he is able to sit up all night when he comes to see you, I think he would make an excellent night watchman in a large store. I am willing to recommend him for such a position, being able to testify to his qualifications. He might get as much as fifteen dollars a week."

Mary ran up stairs and threw herself on a sofa with a sad, sad pain at her heart, while her father departed for his office with a smile on his face.—Boston Courier.

AN ANNUAL SUBVENTION OF 44,000 CROWNS HAS BEEN VOTED TO THE CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC AT STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN, FOUNDED IN 1771, DURING THE REIGN OF GUSTAVUS III.

There is in the historic loan collection in the London Inventories, a case containing four violins, valued at 10,000 each. The Mayence Pralter, in the same collection, is insured for $50,000.

Henry Russell, who wrote the music to "Woodman, Spare that Tree," "Life on the Ocean Wave," and other popular songs some forty years ago, is still living in England.

The oldest collection of Scotch tunes extant is known as the Skene manuscript and is the property of the Faculty of Advocates of Scotland. It contains forty Scotch airs.

It is said that Arthur Sullivan does his musical compositions between midnight and sunrise, as at this time he is sure of being undisturbed, which carries the further consolation that Arthur must live in a neighborhood where there are no cats.

About one hundred and fifty thousand strangers visited London during the Handel festival. The American contingent numbered ten thousand, and France, Germany, Italy and other foreign countries were largely represented. The Vienna opera house employs 563 persons all told, including 105 members of the orchestra and about as many in the hall. The solo singers are about twenty ladies and twenty gentlemen. The chorus includes nearly 100 singers—thirty-one for soprano, twenty-two for alto, twenty-two for tenor, and twenty-two for bass.

He was Warned in Time.

In a Scotch parish church a young and very energetic preacher was officiating for the parish minister. As he warmed with his subject in the sermon, he used liberties with the old pulpit not quite consistent with ministerial order, and sometimes throwing his weight on it, at other times bringing his hand down with a heavy thump. An old laird, sitting in a square table-seat below, had been anxiously watching all this with visions of a ministerial censure on his mind. At last things seemed to be approaching a crisis, as the preacher, piling his periods, had wrought himself into a state of intense fervor, which would inevitably have vented itself on the rickety pulpit. Just as he was gathering himself for the final burst, he was snuffed out by the warning voice of the laird: "Noo ma man, mind, gin ye break that, ye'll pay for it."

They Didn't Bite Him.

From the Wall Street Daily News.

"Father," he said, as he let go of the crossbar to straighten his aching back, "they say that fish have begun to bite."

"Yes."

"The Burns' boys caught a big string yesterday, and are going again this afternoon."

"Yes."

"And I thought—being as—I thought—"

"Henry," said the old man, as he spit on his hand and reached for the saw, "you just let the Burns' boys go, and you stay here and help me saw. Put the date down on the barn door, and fifty years hence see who is worth the most clean cash. Pull away on your end."

Quick to Decide.

Your duties will be responsible explained a Kentuckian to a gentleman who applied for a situation, and will require great quickness of thought, there will be no time for deliberation. Do you think you are capable of this?"

"I think so, sir."

"Very well, I will think the matter over. Will you go out and take—"

"Don't care if I do."

The promptness of this decision so pleased the employer that he hired the man on the spot.

Take a horse hair and double it, leaving a loop. If the mote can be seen by the loop over it, close the eye and the mote will come out as the hair is withdrawn. If the irritating object can not be seen raise the lid of the eye as high as possible, and place the loop as far as you can, close the eye and roll the ball around a few times, draw out the hair; the substance which caused so much pain will be sure to come with it. This method is practiced by axemakers and other workers in steel.

Good cider vinegar is recommended for diarrhoea, two ounces for an adult and one teaspoonful, moderate diluted, for a child of 1 year. An excellent remedy for hiccough for young and old is granulated sugar moistened with pure vinegar. For an infant give from a few grains to a teaspoonful. Bear in mind that lemons are the most useful fruit in domestic economy. The juice of half a teaspoon of strong, black coffee, without sugar, will often cure a sick headache. Lemon juice and salt will remove ordinary iron rust. If the hands are stained there is nothing that will remove the stain so well as lemon. Cut a lemon in half, and apply the cut surface as if it were soap. Lemon juice is also a remedy for rheumatism and for the so-called biliousness of spring. In the latter case take the juice of a lemon before breakfast; the pulp may also be eaten, avoiding every particle of skin. Lemon juice, with sugar, mixed very thick, and taken at intervals, relieves coughs. It must be very acid as well as sweet.

Fruit Recipes.

RASPBERRY VINAIGRE.—Pour one quart of vinegar over three quarts of raspberries, and let stand three days. Strain them, and to each pint add one pound of sugar, boil for 10 minutes, skin closely and bottle up. A few spoonfuls in a glass of cold spring water or ice water make a most refreshing summer drink.

BLACKBERRY ACID.—To 12 pounds of fruit add two quarts of boiling water and five ounces of tartaric acid. Let stand 48 hours, and then pour into a bag and let drip. To each pint of juice add one and one-half pounds of sugar; heat but do not boil. When the sugar is all dissolved, strain again, bottle and cork tightly. Use same as above.

There is in the historic loan collection in the London Inventories, a case containing four violins, valued at 10,000 each. The Mayence Pralter, in the same collection, is insured for $50,000.

Henry Russell, who wrote the music to "Woodman, Spare that Tree," "Life on the Ocean Wave," and other popular songs some forty years ago, is still living in England.

The oldest collection of Scotch tunes extant is known as the Skene manuscript and is the property of the Faculty of Advocates of Scotland. It contains forty Scotch airs.

It is said that Arthur Sullivan does his musical compositions between midnight and sunrise, as at this time he is sure of being undisturbed, which carries the further consolation that Arthur must live in a neighborhood where there are no cats.

About one hundred and fifty thousand strangers visited London during the Handel festival. The American contingent numbered ten thousand, and France, Germany, Italy and other foreign countries were largely represented. The Vienna opera house employs 563 persons all told, including 105 members of the orchestra and about as many in the hall. The solo singers are about twenty ladies and twenty gentlemen. The chorus includes nearly 100 singers—thirty-one for soprano, twenty-two for alto, twenty-two for tenor, and twenty-two for bass.

Many questions have been asked in regard to the wool—it is of linen thread, but perfectly concealed by the delicacy of the workers. If you sigh for a band of color at the top or bottom, then make one ball of some color—red is usually chosen—and it can be wrought in after the fashion of a braid.

Buy mothers will find that helping to get the curtains ready will be a delight to children who have arrived at that unfortunate age when they do not know what to do with themselves. If they are careful, there is no reason why they should not do the cutting, providing that a pastboard measure is given to them so that the width will be correct. "Helping mother" is a good watch-word for girls, both little and big, and when the help is towards beautifying the home and the home life, then it is specially to be commended.

Little Things Worth Knowing.

That a bag of hot sand relieves neuralgia.

That warm borax water will remove dandruff.

That salt should be eaten with nuts to aid digestion.

That milk which stands too long makes bitter butter.

That rusty flat-irons should be rubbed over with beeswax and lard.

That it rests you in sewing to change your position frequently.

That a hot, strong lemonade taken at bedtime will break up a hard cold.

That a warm meat is made tender by laying a few minutes in vinegar and water.

That a little soda water will relieve sick headache caused by indigestion.

That a cup of strong coffee will remove the odor of onions from the breath.

That a cup of hot water drunk before meals will prevent nausea and dyspepsia.

That well ventilated bedrooms will prevent morning headaches and lassitude.

That consumptive night-sweats may be arrested by sponging the body nightly in salt water.

That one in a faint should be laid flat on his back, then loosen his clothes and let him slumber.

That a fever patient can be made cool and comfortable by frequent sponging off with soda water.

That cold tea should be saved for your vinegar barrel. It soups easily and gives color and flavor.

That to beat the whites of eggs quickly, add a pinch of salt. Salt cools, and cold eggs froth rapidly.

That the hair may be kept from falling out after illness by a frequent application to the scalp of saze tea.

That you can take out spots from your goods by rubbing them with wash of eggs before washing.—[Ex.]
