A spiendid day once more ined the par-ings of the horse ring half a dozen deep all round, and there is no denying the fact that the semblance of racing is a popular card with the multitude. Never mind how featle the contest, the amphitheatre is crowded to the last seat. Yesterday the model horses nut in an appearance, and a crowded to the last seat. Yesterday the saddle horses put in an appearance, and a little jumping was dene over the hurdle. A trio of side-saddlers also competed in the stigmon, while the judges of carriage horses held a well-attended levee all day at the vest end of the ring, over one hun-dred animals claiming their attention. but it is pretty well understood awarded, but it is pretty well understood that the judges had come to a decision which would be assumed to day. There was the well-known Royal George (chest-nut) owned by Harley & Ellis; the grand Goldust (chestaut) from Petrolis; a large Clavelaud bay from the neighborhood of Brockville named Duke of Edin-burgh, and the veteran champion of thest hard Darky from Walton. Potter & burgh, and the veteran champion of that herd Derby from Walton. Potter & that herd Derby from Walton. Potter & Williams of Napunes showed a brown speci-men of treating and coach blood combined, while Hendrie & Douglas had an show the imported racehorse Orange Boy, by the famous steeplechaser New Oswestry out of a mare by Newminster—blood all too light and racing for the class under discussion. Long did the judges pause as one after the other the dozen competitors same under examination. Fore and aft, meeting and following, walking, standing and trotting, they were submitted to merciless criticism, the postmaster pulling out his tape line and girthing them as well as measuring them all under the mee. The imported horse Duke of Edinburgh, a real Cleveland from Yorkshire, will probably gain the red rib-bon, leaving the chocolate chestnut and the golden chestaut to fight out the battle for second honors. Ne horse put his foot for second honors. No horse put his foot to the ground more bravely than the Royal to the ground more bravely than the Royal George, and perhaps the magnificently topped destination is just a little weak below the knee. Old Derby, too, may have a look in. In the harness classes nothing is more remarkable than that a majority of the best great slap-ping 16-handers were got by thoroughbred sires; though Derby claimed the paternity of half a dozen shown in the youngster classes. Mr. Fuller of Woodstock had a pair of light chestnuts, 16-2, in a dog cart, one by Stockwood, the other by Comet, and but for a slight trembling in one of his knees the latter was pronounced by compe-tent authorities the finest-actioned horse on the grounds. Mr. Howson of Ash Grove tent suthorities the linest-actioned horse on the grounds. Mr. Howson of Ash Grove had a pair of 4 and 5 year old sisters by Peacock, in the same class, which chal-lenged admiration, but the St. Catharines team seemed rather more fitted for the gen-eral purpose class. In the class under 16.2 to less then there were seened ride eral purpose class. In the class under 16-2 no less then twenty pairs were ranged side by side, all with more or less merit; some gay and airy, others proud and passive, and all no doubt ranking as phenomenons in the neighborhoods whence they hall. A pair, the get of the thoroughbred horse Baron Rothschild, met with most favor, Mr. Shan-Notnschild, met with most favor, Mr. Shan-non's heavy mares being just a little on the vulgar side, while one of them had decidedly puffed hind fetlocks. The judges, in fact, to relieve them-selves of embarrasment, seemed bent on discovering any trivial blemish which would due the number of agnizants to first discovering any trivial blemish which would reduce the number of aspirants to first hon w. Tenderness in a foor, splents or thick breathing were speedily hailed as eliminative factors, and attention was con-eliminative factors, and attention was con-centrated on four or five pairs who will come up for final examination to day.
