DISAGREE ON FIVE COUNTS Overcrowding Found Dangerous IN RAILWAY INDICTMENT

Justice Riddell is Frankly Disappointed with Jury's Attitude After 7 1/2 Hours' Deliberation - Case Will Be Resumed on Monday - Judge Addressed Jury at Length on Overcrowding.

"We find that the Toronto Street Railway Company endangered the property and comfort of the passengers by overcrowding, and are unable to agree on the other counts."

The above was the verdict brought in by the jury before which the Toronto Street Railway Co. was on trial on six counts of maintaining a nuisance at 1.20 this morning, after fighting a case out in the jury room, when they were not busy getting additional instructions from Mr. Justice Riddell.

In discharging the jury, Judge Riddell said he regretted that they had not arrived at a more satisfactory verdict, and he thought that if those who had failed to agree with the majority had given better attention to the evidence they would have been able to arrive at an honest verdict.

He announced his intention of beginning the hearing at 9.50 o'clock tomorrow morning, but Hartley H. Dewart, K.C., counsel for the company, declared that the defence was in no position to proceed and that he would take by adjournment the jurisdiction would even think of reopening the hearing on such short notice.

His lordship stated in no uncertain terms that he had set the hearing adjourned for Monday morning, and that he would hear no argument as to a reserved case until he had been given a verdict on the other counts in the case. Furthermore, he intended finishing the case by this sitting of the assizes and did not think it should be permitted to take up the time of another court.

The jurors were John Glendenning, Scarborough, farmer; G. Crayford, West York, farmer; Melville McCallum, East King, farmer; Chas. Anderson, Georgina, farmer; F. Bodfish, King, farmer; John E. Saiter, E. Gwillimbury, farmer; Wm. C. Galloway, farmer; Ernest Jones, S. Main-st., Toronto, farmer; Wm. Doherty, Scarborough, farmer; Wm. Grant, Scarborough, gentleman; Fred Hill, East York, farmer; and J. H. Hamilton, East Markham, farmer. Fred Hill was foreman.

Counts in Indictment Originally there were six counts on the indictment, but the fifth count, with reference to the district of property by crowded conditions of the cars, was eliminated.

Briefly, the points that the court asked the jury to decide were: "1. Whether the company had used reasonable care and precautions to prevent danger to human life?" "2. Whether every care had been exercised and every reasonable safety appliance had been used which might have killed David Goldenberg on Queen-st.?" "3. Whether the company used every precaution to prevent accident when G. Evelyn met his death on Yonge-st. when a car was backing up?" "4. Whether every reasonable precaution was taken to prevent danger to life and limb when the company's cars were running reversed?" "5. Did overcrowding exist?" "6. If overcrowding did exist, was it a nuisance to life?"

The jury retired at 5.40 p.m. and at 6.45 p.m. court adjourned until 8.15 p.m. At 8.30 p.m. the jury returned for further instructions, as some were under the impression that the counts should be discussed in rotation, while others were not. Again at 9.30 they returned for instructions in the first count, ten of them holding one view, while the other two refused to vote matters in the same light. By about 9.45 Judge Riddell had given them the information required by the court, and the jury returned after the foreman announced that they had gone over the whole on law and had been unable to agree on any of the counts.

His lordship endeavored to enlighten the jury on the charges to be decided upon and sent them back to the jury room at 11.30 p.m., after intimating that if they failed to agree they would probably be let on for the night. He had spent six days on the case already and did not feel inclined to waste any more time on it.

No Menace to Health. There is no evidence to show that any person's health was endangered by overcrowding, said the foreman, with an expression on his face that betokened an ardent longing for a downy bed, when the jury returned for further instructions at 11.30 p.m. "You don't have to consider whether any particular person's health was endangered," said his lordship. "What you are required to determine is whether or not the conditions existing endangered health."

The foreman then said that they found the company guilty on count 6, that is to say, the company endangered the property and comfort of the passengers by overcrowding. He requested that the jury be permitted to retire to further consider count 8, that is the overcrowding clause in chief, and at 11.55 they once more filed out to the jury room.

There was another visit of the jury to the court room at 12.18 a.m., with still another question. They wanted to know whether endangered meant the same as affected in reference to the health of the passengers. His lordship explained that it was not necessary to show that passengers had been affected. All that was necessary was to show that they were put in a position to become affected.

A SUICIDAL COURSE

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—That reciprocity was a suicidal course on the part of Canada was the dominant note of the address of the president of the board of trade, Mr. George L. Cairns, at the annual meeting this afternoon. In part he said: "We, in Montreal, are perhaps more vitally interested in this question than any other part of the Dominion. Not only have we the three great transcontinental lines centering in this city, but the country has spent enormous sums of money in equipping our port so that we may be able to properly handle not only the present large traffic but also that increase which we are entitled to expect in the future."

"It cannot be doubted that the proposed arrangement received far more attentive study in the United States than it has in Canada. We could not believe that our government would ever seriously consider the question of reciprocity, and certainly not the consulting those interests which will be adversely affected. Probably it is realized at Ottawa that its legitimate conclusion, will be suicidal to the trade interests of Canada."

PASSED A RESOLUTION AGAINST RECIPROCITY

Such a Treaty, Say Montreal Board of Trade, Would Involve Country in Grave Dangers.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—By a vote of 60 to 44 the annual meeting of the board of trade this afternoon passed a resolution declaring against the reciprocity agreement with the United States. The resolution reads: "Resolved that we, the members of the Montreal Board of Trade in annual meeting assembled, believe that the sober sense of the country as a whole is against any change in the trade policy under which Canada has grown to her present admitted state of prosperity."

"That we consider it to be the bounden duty of every Canadian to resist to the last everything that might endanger our status as a component part of the British empire, and that we fear such a treaty as proposed might easily prove to be the entering of a wedge that would eventually result in the separation of our interests from those of the motherland."

"That we hereby record the unalterable opposition of this board to the proposed reciprocity treaty, with the United States, which treaty would involve the country in grave dangers, not fully realized, and we consider that the government should first ascertain the opinion of the whole country on this question and receive a definite mandate from the people before attempting a change so revolutionary as this reversal of its entire policy, threatening not only the trade, but also the more vital interests of Canada as a nation."

A committee composed of the members of the council and a number of leading members of the board were appointed to wait upon the government and place the resolution before it.

TRADE WITH CANADA

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—(Special).—An interesting return tabled in the commonsense today tells of the unsuccessful negotiations which have been conducted between Canada and Australia for 11 years with the hope of bringing about a reciprocal trade agreement between the two premier colonies of Great Britain.

The latest information on the subject is to be found in a letter in which the Canadian trade commissioner in Australia says that representatives of the Australian Government will be prepared to discuss the matter at the time of the approaching imperial conference in London.

BIG STEEL PLANT FOR B. C.

It is understood that they will hold a conference with Sir Donald Mann, who is now in Ottawa before approaching the government.

SPEND $1,000,000 FOR HYDRO LINES

Extension of Power System Chief Item in Provincial Supplementary Estimates of Nearly $2,700,000 - Legislature Get Indemnity Raised to $1400.

Members of the Ontario Legislature had the fact impressed upon them yesterday afternoon that the imperial government is an august body and that the procedure of intercourse thru viceregal channels was one of form and ceremony. This was brought home by the explanation of Sir James Whitney that in sending the resolution of thanks to the imperial government, adopted on Monday, for volumes donated to the library of the legislature, it was necessary to adopt an address to the lieutenant-governor, requesting him to transmit the resolution thru the official sources. Such an address was then read by the leader of the government and agreed to.

Hon. W. J. Hanna introduced a consolidation bill with respect to the Municipal Act. The provincial secretary said that the measure was more than a mere consolidation, as it took the portions relating to local improvements and grouped them together. When the bill was before the members of the house he desired the changes to be carefully considered; even this caused a little delay.

Expectation was on the tip-toe when the leader of the house announced that he had received a communication from Government House, in which the lieutenant-governor transmitted the supplementary estimates.

Members to Get $1400. In presenting these estimates, which are supplementary to the main estimates adopted at the beginning of the last session of the legislature, Sir James announced an increase of the sessional indemnity. He said that the question was discussed in an informal way last year, but now the government had taken the full responsibility and had treated the subject on its own responsibility. There had been no bargaining and no round robin. The question was not discussed at the general elections, neither was that of the increase of salaries of cabinet ministers, but the latter had been afterwards condemned by the public. The increase of the indemnity and the increase of salaries of members of the cabinet were in accordance with changed conditions and the increased cost of living.

The prime minister expressed the opinion that rules regulating the number of absent days which a member might be absent, and a straight party division should be made for absence over that number, should be adopted. The amount of indemnity proposed was $1400.

The increase of $400 additional for each of the 106 members is included in the supplementary estimates. The item reads: "To provide indemnity to members, $42,400."

Supplementary Estimates. The total supplementary estimates aggregate $2,659,000.

Among the estimates of public interest are: Hydro-Electric Power Commission (capital and operating), complete Niagara power transmission lines including additional extensions to Tillsonburg, Weston, Port Credit, Brampton, Mitchell, Seaforth, Agricultural College, London and Hamilton Asylums, $1,100,000.

To complete Port Arthur station and transmission line (in addition to $29,900.00 expended in 1909-1910, which is approved), $30,000.

Enfranchisement License Act in local option districts, $5000.

Fish and game, $5000.

The supplementary estimates contained a total of $39,900 for technical education, and grants to the requests of the Hamilton school board for a vote of the $2400 and of $5000.

Agricultural training in high schools will receive $6000.

Colonization and immigration, $26,280.75.

New Government House, $50,000.

FIELDING'S HONOR WAS VINDICATED

Commons Vote Down Resolution Calling for Disclosure of Names of the Contributors to $10,000 Testimonial - Finance Minister Only Accepted it When Assured That No Other Who Could Expect a Favor from the Government Was on the List.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—(Special).—For the second time within a year an attack on Hon. W. S. Fielding, minister of finance, in respect to his acceptance of the testimonial of $120,000 last spring was voted down by the house of commons to-day, after a protracted debate, on a straight party division of 118 to 68. It was a delicate situation, and A. C. Boyce (West Algoma), who moved the amendment to the motion to go into supply to consider the question of ministers of the crown receiving gifts of money from those having pecuniary relations with the government, did his best to make it appear that he had no desire to embarrass the minister of finance.

As soon as Mr. Boyce had finished, Mr. Fielding made a brief, manly statement of his knowledge of the facts and withdrew from the house, taking no part in the division.

Mr. Boyce urged the government to have the list of subscribers to the Fielding testimonial made public, claiming, in the words of Sir Richard Cartwright, 20 years ago, that the pledge of secrecy was a "direct aggravation of the offence."

Hon. George E. Foster, who was the last speaker, claimed that the circumstances were not parallel with those of 1891, and said that if the news went abroad that Hon. William Pugsley, minister of public works had received a testimonial of $100,000, it would almost provoke a revolution in the country.

Objects to Secrecy. A. C. Boyce (W. Algoma) in moving an amendment to the motion to go into supply, offered a resolution declaring that acceptance of gifts or testimonials by ministers of the crown or by any members of their families, from contractors, government officials, etc., was calculated to bring parliamentary government into contempt, that the source of any such gift ought not to be surrounded with secrecy, and an authentic statement of the names of the donors should forthwith be made public.

The second paragraph was added by Mr. Boyce in view of the alleged participation of W. R. Travers, late general manager of the Farmers' Bank to the extent of $2500 in the $120,000 Fielding memorial of last year.

At the outset Mr. Boyce made it clear that his resolution was not a want of confidence motion, but he desired to intercept the house to consider the principles involved on the resolution. He had no desire to injure any public man.

The member for West Algoma then urged with considerable force that the withholding of the list of subscriptions to the Fielding testimonial placed the

WILL NOT SWITCH POWER RATES CONTROL

Sir James Whitney Repudiates Charge, But Proposed Amendments Giving Railway Board Control of Plant Cause Uneasiness - Mayor Will Make Enquiries.

Sir James Whitney gave The World a denial yesterday afternoon to the rumor that his bill to amend the Power Commission Act, and the Ontario Railway Act, aimed at putting the control of hydro-electric rates under the Ontario Railway Board rather than under the electric power commission.

"It is absolutely untrue," said the prime minister. Sir James reserved any further statement respecting the bill in question until it is discussed on the floor of the chamber.

The bill is No. 102. It repeals these clauses in the Power Commission Act, and places them in the Ontario Railway and Municipal Act:

The board may from time to time make orders and regulations as to the construction, operation, protection, and inspection of the works, plant, machinery, appliances and equipment for transmission and distribution of electrical power by municipal corporations and railway power or transmission companies.

Any municipal corporation, company or person neglecting or refusing to obey and carry out the order or directions of the board or the member thereof before whom the complaint was heard, or to comply with any order or regulation under the next preceding sub-section, in addition to any other liability, shall forfeit to his majesty, for the use of the province, the sum of $100 for every day during which such refusal or neglect shall continue.

Mayor to Enquire. The report that hydro-electric rates were to be fixed by the control of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board was referred to at the meeting of the board of control yesterday. Mayor Geary asked that he be allowed to investigate before the board took any action.

From the comments made by aldermen and others discussing the matter, it appears possible that a vigorous effort will be made by the municipalities directly interested to induce the government to refrain from transferring the jurisdiction involved from the hydro-electric commission to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

DO NOT AS BOUNDARY 'TWIXT FIRST AND SECOND WARDS

Civic Sub-Committee Recommends Change to Equalize Population.

At a meeting of the sub-committee of the civic legislation and reception committee, having charge of ward boundaries, held yesterday afternoon, changes were suggested in the boundary between ward No. one and two, whereby all territory west of the Don, now in ward one, will be added to ward two. This will mean the addition of about 4000 population to ward two, including about 800 voters. Ward one population is reduced by that amount. By the proposed arrangement the boundary between wards one and two will start at the northern limit where the Don River enters the city, and follow the course of that stream to the bay.

The population of ward one will now be reduced to approximately 61,900, and that of ward two raised to 48,713. The population in the other wards is quoted by the assessment department as follows: Third ward, 58,123; fourth ward, 62,499; fifth ward, 58,875; sixth ward, 60,032; seventh ward, 12,000. This makes a total population of 341,991, with an area of 17,929 acres.

SHOT DOWN BY VETERAN

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—About 11 o'clock last night in front of the Wanderer Cafe, Carroll-street, John Flax of Montreal, a young man, 22 years of age, was shot down by Alfred Rowach, a veteran of the British army. The enemy had existed between the two, it was purely and simply the sudden and unaccountable act of a brain crazed with bad whiskey.

Flax had been in the city less than a year, and the affray took place the eve of his departure for home. Doctors to-night say there is little hope for his recovery.

HONORS FOR AVIATORS

LONDON, Jan. 31.—The feature of the dinner of the Royal Aero Club tonight was the presentation of the Gordon Bennett aviation trophy to Claude Grahame-White and the Baron de Forest prize to Thomas Sepwith, the English aviator. Grahame-White's victory was scored at the Belmont Park meeting last October, while Sepwith captured the De Forest prize of $20,000 for the longest flight, including the crossing of the English Channel, on Dec. 18.

The Duke of Argyll, who presided, expressed the hope that the British Government would spend more in the development of military aeroplaning. Admiral Sir Edward Seymour referred to McCurdy's flight across the Florida Straits as a noteworthy and striking achievement.

Major Sir Alexander Bannerman evoked dissent by expressing doubt whether for military purposes the aeroplane was much ahead of what it was when Wright made his first flight.

"HUNDRED POINT CLUB"

Toronto Salesmen of National Cash Register Co. Earn Distinction.

The World has just received a copy of "The Hundred Point Club Despatch," which is a record of the proceedings of the Hundred Point Club at its annual convention at Dayton, Ohio. Every salesman of the National Cash Register Company who maintains a certain standard in his sales throughout the twelve months of the year is elected a member of the Hundred Point Club and has all his expenses paid to the convention, where he listens to addresses from the chief officials of the company, but otherwise has a pleasant week's holiday. The meeting opened this year on Jan. 9 and continued through the week.

Four Toronto men succeeded in getting into the club this year. Messrs. Robinson, Irvine, Digby, and "King" Hirston, along with the local office manager, Mr. Harry Pearce, all attended the meeting. There was a bigger membership this year than ever, 188 getting into the club. The club is another link to bind employer and employee more closely in the National Cash Register Co.

TO CONSIDER FIREMEN'S PAY

Increase to Be Dealt With by Special Committee.

A motion introduced by Controller Church at a previous meeting of the civic fire and light committee, to have Chief Thompson submit a list of the employees in his department entitled to increased pay, came up before the committee yesterday.

It was arranged to have a sub-committee of Ald. Anderson, Sweeney and Maguire gather information and report.

Controller Church thought the chief should be in a position to decide who was entitled to an increase. His motion to have the chief furnish the information was defeated.

It was decided to have the bylaw amended relating to the storing of oil tanks containing 11 barrels or over must be placed 25 feet away from any building and 3 feet under earth, with a thickness of at least 6 feet on every side of them.

The proposal of Controller Church for a night fire patrol of the various colleges, schools, hospitals and hotels will be drafted into a bylaw.

She writes:—"Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the best cough syrup I ever used. My baby had a very bad cold. I was using Dr.'s medicine but that didn't seem to help the awful cough she had until I got a bottle of this great syrup. I have it in the house at the present time for the children and I think I couldn't get along if I didn't have it. I wish to thank you for all the good it has been to my family."

Problem National One, Requiring Careful Study and Analysis.

T. A. Russell, chairman of the tariff committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which held a special meeting yesterday afternoon to discuss the proposed reciprocity agreement, handed out the following statement at the conclusion of the meeting:

"The tariff committee, while aware that some manufacturing interests will be seriously affected and will require special investigation, felt that the problem was a national one, involving the whole future of the country, and requiring to be dealt with in that light rather than in its relation to any special industries.

"The proposed agreement is so far-reaching and introduces conditions so different from those under which Canada has developed and prospered, that the most careful study is required to even fairly estimate its future effects.

"The committee felt a grave anxiety to obtain more information from different sections of the country, and to report the whole subject for the fullest discussion before the executive council of the association."

Over twenty members were present, besides representatives of several manufacturing industries, who oppose the proposed arrangement. A number of telegrams and letters of protest were also received yesterday, although the majority of manufacturers would be in no wise affected by the measure. Another meeting of the tariff committee will be held before the matter is submitted to the executive council.

Rev. Father Morriscy

Father Morriscy's "No. 11" Cures Stomach Troubles.

When your stomach is working right you never know it is there. But when it feels as heavy as lead—when you have Heartburn, Belching of Wind, Sourness, a gnawing hunger, with distress after eating—when you feel irritable and depressed—then you may know that the digestive fluids in the stomach are not sufficient to digest what you eat.

Father Morriscy's "No. 11" Tablets supply these fluids in concentrated form. Each tablet, dissolved in the stomach, will digest 1 1/4 pounds of food, which is more than an average meal.

Read what Father Morriscy's treatment did for Mr. Gosline, of Salmon Lake. He writes Nov. 30, 1908:

"I was troubled with indigestion, so severe that I really thought I had cancer of the stomach. I took much doctors' remedies, till I was forced to seek another resource, and this was the Rev. Father Morriscy. His treatments worked miracles, until I have been entirely cured, so that now I do not look to the quality of the diet but to the quantity."

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEB. 1, 1911.
 THE CITY AND SIR JAMES.

Mayor Geary and the board of control should have something to say about Premier Whitney's idea of giving the control of hydro-electric equipment to the municipal and railway board. The city has had some experience with the municipal and railway board, and it has had some experience with the hydro-electric commission, and is in a position to say in which it has most confidence.

We believe the municipal and railway board has done its best under the circumstances, but these circumstances are not such as to justify the proposal to place hydro-electric matters under its control.

When the Toronto Electric Light Co. objects to the city erecting poles or stringing wires, the railway and municipal board is not the court of first resort which the city would choose to rule upon the question. There has been no injustice done to the Toronto Electric Light Co. under the hydro-electric commission.

Neither has there been any injustice done to the city. When both parties are getting justice, there is no good reason for changing the venue. Ottawa, London and many other places as well as Toronto are concerned about this questionable proposal. The city authorities should make it clear to Sir James what the people think.

DON'T SWAP HORSES.
 Sir James Whitney is understood to be a good Conservative, and he will therefore understand the wisdom of the good old proverb about swapping horses when crossing the stream.

There are several other proverbs more or less applicable to the situation, but one will serve. Sir James has been riding the good even-tempered, sound and valuable horse of the hydro-electric commission on the most satisfactory journey any Ontario premier ever traveled.

Apparently he desires to swap this trusted steed for another, that of the municipal and railway board, about which it is not entirely satisfactory to the provincial veils. The imputation is that Sir James is not a good judge of a horse. Without going as far as that we fall back on the old proverb, which says nothing of the quality of the horses, but dwells on the danger in mid-stream.

What has the hydro-electric commission done to what Hon. Adam Beck, Hon. J. S. Hendrie, and Mr. W. K. McNaught have been guilty that Sir James should accept the advice of Sir Henry Pellatt and his friends, and slight them in this way?

Does Sir James wish the public to understand that he has more confidence in Messrs. Leitch, Ingram and Kittson, than in his two cabinet colleagues and the trusted member for North Toronto, that he takes the risk of swapping horses at this juncture?

We believe Sir James would be well advised to ignore the "interests" who never had and never will have any use for him, and stick to the people who placed him in power, and who kept him in power when the "interests" had him with his back against the wall. Sir James will well reflect that advice from such a source to swap horses when crossing the stream of the hydro-electric installation is no more friendly than the threats to ruin the credit of Ontario and to upset the Whitney government of a little while ago.

It will be time enough to transfer the control of the equipment and rates to the municipal and railway board when the municipalities that have contracted with the hydro-electric commission have their systems completed and in operation. If Sir Henry Pellatt and the "interests" urge haste the people know, and Sir James must realize, that there is all the more need for delay.

CITY GOVERNMENT AND BUSINESS.
 An excellent example of how business is done under the present council system with its wire-pulling committees is to be found in the handling of the Sunnyside railway crossing construction. After months of consideration the works committee is still considering. We would like to see the date of the next meeting of the committee will fall into error for want of deliberation. There is hope, it is said, of arriving at a decision before Feb. 5.

Business men on a civic government commission with business reputations to lose, would have had this problem settled in the most satisfactory way long ago. The council will settle it, since it has no business reputation to lose, in the least satisfactory way, probably, at the greatest expense, and after the longest delay. The papers who oppose government by commission rejoice over this state of affairs, and the opportunities it affords for their beneficent influences.

The World's plan of having a man who knows his business, the best man to be had for the money, who will determine the city's best interests and settle affairs to that end, is all very well perhaps when it is private matters that are being dealt with. In such a case one has to have the best, and the idea of fumbling along for weeks without doing anything in a private case would be scorned by any of these papers.

Imagine The Telegram laying a private conduit into the lake according to the method it declares to be the only one for the city.

Imagine The Globe developing its real estate thru such a body as the committee of works.

Imagine The Star summoning the board of control in special session to decide the issue of a special edition.

These papers declare there is nothing the matter with the system.

There is only one thing the matter with the system. It does not do business. Imagine The Star summoning the board of control in special session to decide the issue of a special edition.

Mark x. 6. Nowhere in the New Testament, nor for the matter of that in the Old Testament, is Moses said to be the writer of all "the books of the law." The only statements actually made by Jesus, as far as I have discovered, on the question, are in Mark xii, 26 (where the "Book of Moses" may, in my opinion, be as reasonably "the book about" or "concerning Moses," as "of" or "by Moses"), and in Luke xxiv, 44, in which He refers "the law of Moses." I do not think that the fact of Jesus having quoted Him to any expression of belief in any theory concerning the books of the law is more than with the authority. But there is another, and an equally important point I wish to raise. According to the Twentieth Century New Testament—which will doubtless be known to your correspondent as a translation from what is regarded as the best, if not actually the best Greek text—Westcott and Hort, I find that Jesus quoted from or referred to the Book of Enoch some 30 times. While many of these quotations or references are on eschatological questions, not all of them are by any means. For instance, in Matt. xxv, 14 (repeated in Mark xvi, 23; in Luke xxi, 10; in Luke xxv, 19; in Luke xxv, 26-27; in Luke xxv, 35; in Luke xxv, 36; in Luke xxv, 37; in Luke xxv, 38; in Luke xxv, 39; in Luke xxv, 40; in Luke xxv, 41; in Luke xxv, 42; in Luke xxv, 43; in Luke xxv, 44; in Luke xxv, 45; in Luke xxv, 46; in Luke xxv, 47; in Luke xxv, 48; in Luke xxv, 49; in Luke xxv, 50; in Luke xxv, 51; in Luke xxv, 52; in Luke xxv, 53; in Luke xxv, 54; in Luke xxv, 55; in Luke xxv, 56; in Luke xxv, 57; in Luke xxv, 58; in Luke xxv, 59; in Luke xxv, 60; in Luke xxv, 61; in Luke xxv, 62; in Luke xxv, 63; in Luke xxv, 64; in Luke xxv, 65; in Luke xxv, 66; in Luke xxv, 67; in Luke xxv, 68; in Luke xxv, 69; in Luke xxv, 70; in Luke xxv, 71; in Luke xxv, 72; in Luke xxv, 73; in Luke xxv, 74; in Luke xxv, 75; in Luke xxv, 76; in Luke xxv, 77; in Luke xxv, 78; in Luke xxv, 79; in Luke xxv, 80; in Luke xxv, 81; in Luke xxv, 82; in Luke xxv, 83; in Luke xxv, 84; in Luke xxv, 85; in Luke xxv, 86; in Luke xxv, 87; in Luke xxv, 88; in Luke xxv, 89; in Luke xxv, 90; in Luke xxv, 91; in Luke xxv, 92; in Luke xxv, 93; in Luke xxv, 94; in Luke xxv, 95; in Luke xxv, 96; in Luke xxv, 97; in Luke xxv, 98; in Luke xxv, 99; in Luke xxv, 100).

WARNING TO MILLIONAIRES.
 Sir William Mackenzie left $6000 lying around in Ottawa one day in his private car, while he was paying a visit to the minister of railways. Sir William is so accustomed to millions that he never bothers about his small change. A colored man, however, found the little wad and took two $500 bills. His moderation was so much in contrast with the standards Sir William is accustomed to that he refused to prosecute him. The incident is a warning to careless millionaires to look after their pocket money.

T. L. Snow writes, quoting our remark in "We are only half-way thru eternity and have still a lot to learn." He comments as follows:
 "You have, indeed, my dear sir, if that is your measure of eternity."
 If eternity has neither beginning nor end, any point in time must be half way thru eternity.

POLICE COURT CONDITIONS.
 Editor World: Two parties deserve credit:
 First—"American" for his excellent description of the Toronto police court and the disgraceful manner in which it is conducted.
 Second—"The World," as the only paper in the city with the courage to publish such a letter.

More than one man has tried thru the medium of the daily papers to draw attention to the disgraceful court of justice, but in reality a combination burlesque show and bear garden in which the man who can shout the loudest apparently gets the best of the show. The World is, to my knowledge, the only paper that ever published such a letter. Had "American" remained longer in Toronto, he might have heard rumors as to other matters in connection with the police court, such as real estate, which are terrible, if true. I regret that I cannot congratulate The World further in that not one paper, daily or weekly, in Toronto, appears to have the courage to expose and endeavor the present disgraceful manner of conducting trials in the police court. Physician.

OUT OF WORK.
 Editor World: I am a Toronto man for over ten years. I have lost an eye, also two fingers. I have worked for the city for four summers, and they put me off and put Italians in my place. I can't get work anywhere on account of my eye and fingers. I would like to let the city know how this town used an unfortunate man like me, so I would kindly ask you to put this in the paper for me. R. Dineydy.

A CHANCE TO CHANGE.
 Kingston Whig: The Toronto World urges Sir James Whitney to reorganize the municipal board. In what manner? By the removal of the chairman, who is a lawyer, and the city authority of questions of law, or the two who are laymen, and, on the street railway appeal, are against the chairman? The World suggests a way out of the difficulty. The government should have for Ontario a public utilities commission, such as New York State possesses. The enlargement of the board would give occasion for changes so that the weakness of the board, as it is at present, will not be further emphasized. Quebec has such a commission, and its members appear to have been carefully selected. It represents a larger field of operation, and promises to be in business, and giving satisfaction, when the Ontario board has passed away and been forgotten.

A PROBLEM FOR MR. McLENNAN.
 Editor World: In The World some days since there appeared a letter of higher criticism, to a part of which I would like, by your courtesy, to reply. With the courtesy to Rev. G. Jackson of his theology, I am not concerned with your correspondent's raising a point which I think is interesting and not without importance. He says that the fact of Jesus having quoted from the Pentateuch settles the question of the Mosaic authorship. He gives a number of quotations from the synoptic gospels in support of his contention. The number of quotations given by your correspondent from the Pentateuch is as follows: Matt. xiii, 14; Matt. xiii, 15; Matt. xiii, 16; Matt. xiii, 17; Matt. xiii, 18; Matt. xiii, 19; Matt. xiii, 20; Matt. xiii, 21; Matt. xiii, 22; Matt. xiii, 23; Matt. xiii, 24; Matt. xiii, 25; Matt. xiii, 26; Matt. xiii, 27; Matt. xiii, 28; Matt. xiii, 29; Matt. xiii, 30; Matt. xiii, 31; Matt. xiii, 32; Matt. xiii, 33; Matt. xiii, 34; Matt. xiii, 35; Matt. xiii, 36; Matt. xiii, 37; Matt. xiii, 38; Matt. xiii, 39; Matt. xiii, 40; Matt. xiii, 41; Matt. xiii, 42; Matt. xiii, 43; Matt. xiii, 44; Matt. xiii, 45; Matt. xiii, 46; Matt. xiii, 47; Matt. xiii, 48; Matt. xiii, 49; Matt. xiii, 50; Matt. xiii, 51; Matt. xiii, 52; Matt. xiii, 53; Matt. xiii, 54; Matt. xiii, 55; Matt. xiii, 56; Matt. xiii, 57; Matt. xiii, 58; Matt. xiii, 59; Matt. xiii, 60; Matt. xiii, 61; Matt. xiii, 62; Matt. xiii, 63; Matt. xiii, 64; Matt. xiii, 65; Matt. xiii, 66; Matt. xiii, 67; Matt. xiii, 68; Matt. xiii, 69; Matt. xiii, 70; Matt. xiii, 71; Matt. xiii, 72; Matt. xiii, 73; Matt. xiii, 74; Matt. xiii, 75; Matt. xiii, 76; Matt. xiii, 77; Matt. xiii, 78; Matt. xiii, 79; Matt. xiii, 80; Matt. xiii, 81; Matt. xiii, 82; Matt. xiii, 83; Matt. xiii, 84; Matt. xiii, 85; Matt. xiii, 86; Matt. xiii, 87; Matt. xiii, 88; Matt. xiii, 89; Matt. xiii, 90; Matt. xiii, 91; Matt. xiii, 92; Matt. xiii, 93; Matt. xiii, 94; Matt. xiii, 95; Matt. xiii, 96; Matt. xiii, 97; Matt. xiii, 98; Matt. xiii, 99; Matt. xiii, 100).

DAMMING THE HUMBER.
 Editor World: Quite a breeze has sprung up over the G. T. R. wanting to place an obstruction in the way of the Humber River, and no doubt if you want to see a piece of work like that look at the G. T. R. bridge over the River Credit. In the first place, over a hundred feet of the original river was filled up with earth to reduce the height of the bridge, and then when the structure inside down to the river, those in small boats can get under it. The filling up of so much of the river from the eastern bank has caused a big marsh to form, in which the water lies stagnant. I think the people in Port Credit and vicinity must have been asleep when this turned-upside-down bridge was being erected. Reverting to the Humber, how many people know that La Salle twice paddled up this stream on his way to his discovery of the Mississippi River? H. C. F.

The Hamilton Bank yesterday took out permits for three new bank buildings, as follows: Southwest corner of King-street and Bay-street-road, $15,500; southwest corner of Queen-street and Lee-avenue, $12,750; southwest corner of St. Clair-avenue and Vaughan-road, $8500.

Austin v. Riley—A. J. R. Snow, K.C., for plaintiff. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., for defendant. An appeal by plaintiff from the judgment of Garrow, J.A., sitting as a judge of the high court of June 29, 1909. This appeal was argued before, but at request of counsel and by direction of the court, now came on for re-argument.

The plaintiff bought from Martin L. Clement the mineral rights in lot 30, in the 17th concession of Monmouth, which rights had been reserved by the crown, and which, therefore, Clement had no right to sell.

Subsequently 8 Ed. VII., cap 17, rescinded and made void all such reservations, and plaintiff sued for a declaration that he is entitled to a conveyance from defendant, &c. At trial judgment was given for plaintiff. Appeal argued and judgment reserved.

The defendant was convicted on Nov. 4, 1910, for selling papers containing information that could be made use of by bookmakers and others in making bets at the races held in Toronto in September last, and at request of defendant, the police magistrate stated a case on the question whether the sale of papers containing records of the races two days after the races were run was intended by the defendant when he sold them, to assist in betting and is the only one upon the crown to prove that intent. The stated case argued and judgment reserved.

Rex v. Hogarth—E. A. DuVernet, K.C., and E. Bayly, K.C., for the crown. The defendant was convicted for willfully and knowingly sending and transmitting messages by telegraph conveying information relating to

NATIONALISTS WILL SUPPORT FIELDING

MONTREAL, Jan. 31.—(Special.)—It now looks as if Messrs. Bourassa and Monk would support the Washington arrangement, for, following a three days' absence, Mr. Bourassa writes in Le Devoir thus:

"At first sight I do not believe that one can accuse Messrs. Fielding and Paterson of having sacrificed the general interest to local or special necessities in lowering the duty on agricultural imports. What remains established, I think, is that the agreement forms a very ample measure of reciprocity, of which the total effect can only be to stimulate agricultural production and so to benefit the great majority of the Canadian people, and that advantage does not seem to me to have been gained at the expense of Canadian industries.

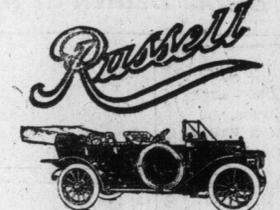

"One of the clauses which have retarded the whole idea of reciprocity between the two countries more and more unpopular, not to say distasteful, has been the general conviction in Canada that the Americans would never consent to free trade in agricultural products and fish, without obtaining in compensation a considerable reduction in the duties of Canada against their industrial products. The agreement destroys all fear in this direction."

"Free trade in lumber, Mr. Bourassa says, should give a considerable impulsion to this industry, and it should be taken advantage of by the provincial governments for the benefit of the province. On the pulp and paper question, Mr. Bourassa says he believes that our governments should encourage, by every possible means, the manufacture of paper in Canada. In this case, as in the dairy industry, he asks, will not the removal of the duty on paper enable American manufacturers to insure their works in Canada and to manufacture thru the various stages from the raw material to the finished article?"

Winter Resorts.
 To the many who are compelled to seek a warmer climate, the attractions of the Sunny South, California, are becoming more and more desirable, and before deciding if you will drop in and see Mr. C. E. Hornig, the City Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Grand Trunk, at the northwest corner King and Yonge-streets (Phone Main 4209), he will save you lots of trouble, and arrange a comfortable trip.

These Voters Aesthetic.
 Lack of interest on the part of voters whose names are on the supplementary list for the board of education is shown by the fact that of the 822 men and 11,894 women on the list, only 75 men and 421 women, or a little over 5 per cent, voted.

This was despite the sending out of notification postcards.

minister of finance under grave suspicion, and that the whole transaction was in bad odor. He charged Sir Wilfrid Laurier with the gravest offence to the granting of the information to the house and country. He read from Sir Richard Cartwright's remarks in 1891, that the practice would become "normalizing to a high degree." It was the minister's duty to see that not one penny went into his pocket until he saw that it was honorably and fairly received.

Mr. Fielding said it was his intention to reply to the statements of the member for N. Algoma, but as the matter was so personal to himself, to make a statement and then withdraw from the issue. Some years ago, a personal friend had approached him on behalf of a group of other personal friends, and asked him to accept a testimonial. He requested that the proposal be dropped, and upon his second time, the proposal was dropped. Subsequently that friend passed away.

Some years later, said Mr. Fielding, the proposal was again renewed by another friend, and his first decision was to decline to take the proffered gift, for several reasons. One was that in the case of gifts made to public men in former years it had been alleged that contributions had been made by contractors or men receiving favors from the government.

Mr. Fielding said that this friend continued to press the matter, on the ground that the finance minister was getting old, but he remained obdurate. Finally his friend said that he had been advised by his associates to say that they would guarantee the amount, penny would be taken from any government contractor or official, or from any one who would at any time be likely to have any favor to ask of the government. A order that he might not have any sense of obligation to anyone whatever, it was proposed that the list of subscribers should not be made known. The object of secrecy thus was good, and not harmful in its purpose.

Mr. Fielding said that he had suggested that, should the time come when he might be out of office, he might care to know who had been his friends, but he was informed that even under such circumstances it was not proposed to reveal to him the names of the subscribers.

In view of these assurances and the man having had the approval of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, he finally agreed to accept the testimonial.

Ungenerous Comments. The finance minister then went on to say that before the testimonial had been actually presented some ungenerous comments had been made by members of the house and in the press. On account of this he went to the gentleman in charge of the testimonial, and in the house at the propriety of the testimonial to Sir John Macdonald about 1887. Sir Wilfrid referred to Pitt having refused a gift from his friends. Pitt was a bachelor and had no family dependent on him. "If he would draw a contrast between Pitt on that occasion and the minister of finance on this occasion, I have but my much right to draw a comparison between the minister of finance and another man in this country, a great man in some respects, Sir John Macdonald," declared the speaker.

Conditions Were Made Plain. Continuing, Sir Wilfrid asked who would blame the finance minister if he thought of his wife and family when the occasion was given to him. Mr. Fielding was not a rich man and the conditions of the testimonial were made plain, but notwithstanding his distress he would not accept a dollar unless he knew it would not bind him.

Admitting that publicity was the best thing to provide a safeguard in such matters, Sir Wilfrid thought, after the assurances had been given, Mr. Fielding was justified in his own confidence if he did not seek to obtain a list of the donors.

Cheers—greeted R. L. Borden when he rose to reply. He said he had seen Sir Wilfrid Laurier's name in the list, but he had never seen him struggle so hard as in the present instance. Mr. Fielding had pointed out that there should be publicity in all matters of this kind, in order that no paper, writ or tort would dare to utter a word of suspicion.

There was evidently a preconceived arrangement on the part of members of the government, and the minister's conduct upon the gentleman who had introduced the matter. One speaker had referred to Mr. Boyce as a scavenger. He would like to ask him who the scavenger was in 1891. In his opinion Mr. Boyce's speech was more temperate than that of Sir Richard Cartwright, and there is a rumor in circulation that Sir Richard was not much more satisfied with the conditions in 1891 than in 1891.

He accepted absolutely every word Mr. Fielding said, but he said in his own mind, but he believed that in stipulating for secrecy he had made a serious mistake. He ought to have taken the ground of full publicity, and he could not understand why the minister of finance should want to keep the names secret.

Both Sides Contributed. H. H. Miller (South Grey) said he had read the money came from the fund which assisted in collecting the Fielding fund and had been urged that there should be no publicity. Not one of the contributors, he declared, came under the act, and the Fielding testimonial in the 1891 resolution. Conservatives as well as Liberals, subscribed to the testimonial.

H. Sinclair (Gaysborough) said that as a member of the Fielding testimonial commission he could say that neither Travers nor the Farmers' Bank, nor any other bank had contributed. Every dollar of the testimonial was clean money. H. H. Haughton Lennox (South Simcoe) referred to some of the names connected with the testimonial, and described Senator Jeffrey as a "White Robed Angel" bespangled with real gold. Was he not a contractor with the government? He was connected with the Toronto Globe, which got $80,000 a year from the government. There had been a general levy for the fund through Canada.

Hon. Sydney Fisher said that in spite of assurances of the minister of the resolution that it was not intended as an attack on anyone, it could not but be regarded as a determined effort to do injury to Mr. Fielding, whose good name was above reproach. He was ashamed of any man who would make aspersions of the character of the finance minister.

Mr. Fisher demanded an apology. Mr. Fisher said he would apologize if the speaker ruled that he was out of order. The speaker after consulting the authorities said that the remark was not unparliamentary.

The minister of agriculture concluded by saying that the same principles involved was the same as in 1891, the circumstances were entirely different.

DISAGREE ON FIVE COUNTS IN RAILWAY INDICTMENT

"Don't pin your faith with the idea that you have to have proof that some one actually took such a high lordship, for you do not."

By way of illustration, he explained that a smallpox patient traveling on a crowded train would endanger the lives of the other passengers, although they might not be affected.

At 12:25 a.m. the jury took another trip to the jury room. At 12:35 a.m., the jury once more straggled into the court room, and the case was now on the basis of an ordinary criminal case. The case was not one between the City of Toronto and the Toronto Railway Company, but between the people of the whole country and the Toronto Railway Company.

The duty of the company was not confined to the agreement between it and the city. It was under a legal duty to exercise reasonable care and precaution for the safety of life in the operation of its cars.

Company's Obligations. It was the duty of the company to carry all passengers who presented themselves so long as there was room on the cars, and to exercise precaution to prevent unnecessary danger to health or life. The city engineer had determined on May 5, 1895, that the capacity of a closed car was 50 per cent. over the actual seating capacity, allowing 18 inches seating space to an individual, while the actual seating capacity for open cars, as approved by the city council, but there was no evidence that any attempt had been made by the company to limit the number of such a capacity. In criminal proceedings, however, they were not guilty of overcrowding unless they endangered health or life by so doing. If they found that the company had allowed the cars to be crowded to a greater extent than the engineer had recommended but not enough to endanger life they must return a verdict of not guilty on the count of overcrowding. If they found that life had been endangered by permitting more than the number specified to enter the cars a verdict of guilty would be returned. If one passenger more on a car endangered the life of those already on the car it was clearly the duty of the company to prevent that passenger getting on the car. The jury would have to determine whether they had used every means within their power outside of physical force to prevent overcrowding.

Referring to the complaint that a young lady had her dress disarranged by coming into contact with a working man in a crowded car his lordship ventured a suggestion that the company would be liable to indictment for permitting to allow a laboring man to get on a car in his working clothes if he was not unduly offensive. He took it that the people of Toronto were not finicky or oversensitive fools to complain because they were obliged to come into contact with a laboring man.

In conclusion he asked the jury to bring in a verdict according to the evidence submitted, being guided by the law as explained by the court.
