SOBERING EFFECT

Baldwin's Final Offer to Coal Miners in Hands of Executive Today

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Revived negotiations for a settlement of the British coal strike took a drastic turn today, when a statement was issued from Number 10, Downing Street...

The statement said that if the miners should accept the terms offered by the government, the Baldwin ministry would proceed with legislation to make them effective, despite the mine owners' objections.

NEW DEPTS. TO AID PUBLISHERS

Traffic and Mechanical Sections Expected to Save Millions

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The general stoppage and the coal strike, involved by the trades unions throughout the country, in order to help the miners, has cost the British people more than $30,000,000, or approximately $1,750,000,000.

The adverse trade balance for the first 10 months of the year amounts to approximately $1,750,000,000, which has been spent on the importation of foreign coal.

The National Union of Railworkers of which H. Thomas is the head, had $10,000,000 on hand six months ago, now it has an overdraft of $4,000,000.

It is only natural that these figures have had a most sobering effect and will be remembered as long as the present leaders are alive.

The miners, who have been on strike since May 1, with a resultant loss to them of millions of dollars, are now in a position to be added for losses in affected industries.

FINAL OFFER

ADVERSE TRADE BALANCE SHOWS IMMENSE SUM

The pessimism which was evident amongst the farmers of the province about a year ago is gradually being dispelled, and there is a brighter outlook in the rural communities today than there has been for some time, according to Major E. H. Ashton, Maritime Superintendent of the Land Settlement Branch of the Department of the Interior. Major Ashton has spent the last 14 days in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, inspecting available farms for soldier settlers from the British Isles. He expressed himself as being quite satisfied with the success of this work for the present year.
"I believe that New Brunswick is turning the corner on the way to prosperity, if it has not already turned it," he said.
The establishment and operation of an abattoir here, he felt, was going to prove a big incentive towards the raising of more and better livestock, and he hoped that the canning factory, which was running here during the last summer and fall would remain with us and be kept in constant operation. He felt that there was a possibility for great development in the agriculture and stock raising fields in the Maritime, and with the employment of modern methods of farming and the provision of adequate means of distribution and marketing, there would be a bright future in store for the agriculturists of New Brunswick.

TERMS GIVEN OUT.

The Government's memorandum was given out early this morning. The main point at issue, the question of increasing miners' hours of work beyond the statutory 7 hours daily was conceded in principle yesterday. The contingent question of district settlements for both hours and wages also was conceded. The memorandum concludes both these points.
"While the miners are thus called upon to abandon part of their position, the mine owners undertake to pay temporarily in every district, except Northumberland, Cumberland and North Wales, the wages at the general rate prevailing before the strike began May 1. They also undertake to reinstate strikers as opportunity offers without prejudice to the men now working.
A. J. Cook, secretary of the Miners' Union, said: "Nothing was done to give me that substantial progress was made. We propose to examine the memorandum very carefully. A settlement has not been reached."

Major Ashton of Land Settlement Branch Speaks of New Brunswick

The pessimism which was evident amongst the farmers of the province about a year ago is gradually being dispelled, and there is a brighter outlook in the rural communities today than there has been for some time, according to Major E. H. Ashton, Maritime Superintendent of the Land Settlement Branch of the Department of the Interior. Major Ashton has spent the last 14 days in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, inspecting available farms for soldier settlers from the British Isles. He expressed himself as being quite satisfied with the success of this work for the present year.
"I believe that New Brunswick is turning the corner on the way to prosperity, if it has not already turned it," he said.
The establishment and operation of an abattoir here, he felt, was going to prove a big incentive towards the raising of more and better livestock, and he hoped that the canning factory, which was running here during the last summer and fall would remain with us and be kept in constant operation. C. P. MANAGER GOES TO HALIFAX BRANCH

J. B. Livesey, general manager of the Canadian Press, who came from Toronto as a special guest at the Armistice dinner at the Admiral Beatty Hotel last evening, proceeded to Halifax on the noon train where he will inspect the most easterly branch of the news service under his direction. Mr. Livesey said his short stay in Saint John yesterday and the two commemorative functions he attended were highly enjoyed by him and will linger long in his memory as interesting occasions.
From the standpoint of current news Mr. Livesey was asked by a Times-Star representative if he thought the Maritime Province were looming up more conspicuously than ever. The Canadian Press chief agreed that they were. He predicted furthermore that when the recommendations of the Duncan Commission report are made known and thoroughly digested by the people as a whole the three lower provinces will not only enjoy a closer and more enthusiastic relationship with the larger sections of the Dominion but will become a still greater factor in the Confederation. From his own standpoint of news-value the Maritime Provinces will naturally, therefore, be more interesting by long odds than the already interesting present.

Geo. J. Here in Saint John, Mr. Smith's college has rapidly forged to the front, absorbing both the Saint John Business College (Kent's) and the Standard Business College in Moncton and can point to the largest attendances in the Maritime Provinces.

MORNING POST'S CRITICISM

WHY, one wonders, is the Morning Post, London's old and out conservative daily newspaper, so severe on Canada's immigration policy?

Other Views

DISCOURAGING CRIMINALS (Buffalo Commercial-Express) TO SAY that punishment is not a deterrent of crime is to go contrary, it seems, to all human experiences.

THE APPEAL

THE Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, the final court of appeal in the Empire, has upheld the right of appeal in criminal cases, despite that section of the Canadian Criminal Code which states that: "No appeal shall be brought in any criminal case from any judgment or order of any court in Canada to any court of appeal of authority by which in the United Kingdom appeals or petitions of His Majesty-in-Council may be heard."

Editorial

would be an insult to the Crown and the beginning of Imperial disruption. Possibly the most cogent argument is the unarguable impartiality of the Privy Council and the superb legal talent it commands.

On the other hand, it is contended that every court is representative of His Majesty, in whom justice is vested, and therefore no affront can be implied from the proposal to settle finally Canadian cases in Canada; that the Britisher's right to appeal to his King is met equally by granting a hearing in the Supreme Court; that the talent, if not so eminent, is eminent enough, and that Canadian judges can be trusted to act impartially.

Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, was a welcome guest at the Armistice Day celebration in Saint John yesterday. Hon. Mr. Ralston is no stranger to Saint John, and his friends are by no means confined to one political party.

There is now a Canadian Federation for the Blind, and a New Brunswick branch will be organized. The particular purpose is to serve the interests of those afflicted with blindness, and among other things to secure a pension for those utterly unable to earn a living.

Why Not Canada?

THE "Peterboro" Examiner pertinently calls attention to the fact that there are 34,000 persons registered with the American Consul at Saint John, ready to enter the United States, and asks if there is any reason why Canada should not get a big share of these people.

More Fun—Less Work

ROGER BABSON says no one wants to work any more. We are living in apartments where the janitor does all the work that is done; where we use the apartment to sleep in, the car to live in, the golf course to recreate in, and so have no time for work.

SEEDLESS APPLES

THE seedless apple is the best born promised. Already it is claimed, a tree in Canada is bearing apples that will take all the point out of the schoolboy's plea, "Give us the core." The apple without a seed or core would be a real benefit to everyone except manufacturers of coring implements. It is to be desired. But if by any freak of climate, it turns out that the coreless and seedless apple will not thrive in this climate, most of us will continue to prefer a New England apple to its inedible centre to the best coreless and seedless product from the Western orchards, which look perfect but which lack the flavor that is the apple's chief asset.

FAMILY DUTIES

IF WE are an Empire we must do as Empires ought to do. Each must stand by the other in exchange and interchange of all sorts of commodities, products and manufactured goods. It does, and will, pay us all well.

The opening this week of the new "beam" wireless service between this country and Canada came quite appropriately at a moment when the Imperial conference is sitting in London.

What Sort of Boys Do Modern Girls Like?—Has One Who Loved and Lost Any Chance of Finding Happiness Again?—Are There Any Arguments in Favor of Common-Law Marriage?

DEAR MISS DIX—We are two young chaps just beginning to step out with the flappers and we would like to know what sort of boys the girls like.

ANSWER:
Well, boys, I put your question up to a girl about your own age and this is what she says:
"A girl does not like a boy who is too slow or too fast. She prefers one that travels in medium gear. She doesn't like a boy who must always be running around somewhere. Neither does she want one who is a typical freckle companion. She doesn't like a boy who throws his money around all over the place nor does she like a tightwad."
"She likes to be taken to places where she can enjoy herself, but she loathes going to common dance halls and bootlegger roadhouses. She likes to go to clever plays and movies, and to have nice, clean, good times."
"She likes a boy who has a good line of conversation, but who doesn't spend all the time talking about himself."

"She likes a boy to jolly her, but not to put the flattery on too thick. She doesn't mind a petting party now and then, but she doesn't want a boy to be a cheap skate who thinks he can collect a kiss every time he takes her out."
"She doesn't like boys who smell of liquor, and who can't live without a cigarette in their mouths, and who make every girl run after them."
"And she hates boys who make dates and break them."

So, there you are, boys. It should not be difficult to live up to these specifications of a drugstore sheik.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Don't you believe there is only one man for every woman, and only one woman for every man? You seem to think that if something happens to a girl's love affair that there is always some one else in the world that she may find.
Do you think love is a game, and that if you are unlucky once you may still win out you keep on playing? I would like to have your opinion on these subjects.

ONE WHO HAS LOVED AND LOST.

ANSWER:
I believe that for some men and women there is only one love and only one woman or man. These are people of deep feelings and strong emotions—people with souls torn by great and stormy passions.
But most people are no more capable of the grand passion than they are of singing in grand opera. They have little loves, little hates that never go beneath the surface, and that are as transient as a breeze that blows over a pool and makes only a passing ripple.

You see this illustrated in a thousand ways. A pretty face attracts a man, or he is taken with the cunning way a girl looks up at him from under her bobbed hair, and he thinks himself in love with her. A girl fancies herself in love with some good-looking youth, because he is tall and upstanding and has slick hair, or is a peppy dancer.

For a week, a month, a year, they spend their time telling each other how great and undying is their love. Then something happens that drifts them apart, and the little spurious love flicker dies down and is forgotten, and somebody else comes along and lights a fresh taper in their hearts. And so it goes on, ad infinitum.

All about us we see widows and widowers who have been truly fond of their first husbands and wives, and who really mourned their loss when they were with their first husband and wives.
Fortunately, most people can easily transfer their affections from one object to another and love the one who is present when the other dear charmer's away. They are pretty much in the position of the comic opera hero who sings, "I Must Love Somebody and It Might as Well Be You."

So that is why I advise those who have been unlucky in their first love venture to try, try again.
The chances are that they had no consuming passion for the loved and lost. They were in love with love. They had to have some one to care for, to pet, to chum with, and almost any nice young chap or girl could fill the bill.

For those who are capable of the grand passion there is but the one love, but for the common-law marriage there are many who are blessed in matrimony. For this would be a sad old world if all who had unhappy love affairs went about with broken hearts that never healed.

DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a friend who believes in the common-law marriage. Do you know anything in its favor? Is it ever permissible under any conditions?

ANSWER:
Only in a few of the States is the common-law marriage recognized as a marriage to the extent that if a man dies the woman who has been living with him as his wife can claim a widow's share of the estate. Socially, the common-law marriage is never recognized and the common-law wife has no standing among respectable people. She is always outside of the pale. Always ostracized.
No man who really loved a woman, who respected her, or who intended to be faithful to her, would offer her the insult of making her a common-law wife. He would marry her honorably and openly, in compliance with the law of the land and the usages of good society.

The common-law marriage is the refuge of the ronder, the philanderer, the selfish egotist who is willing to sacrifice a woman to his pleasure. Have nothing to do with the man who wants to persuade you into a common-law marriage. As the old-fashioned novels used to say, "be good to you no good."

DOROTHY DIX

There is not one single, solitary thing that can possibly be said in its favor, unless it is that the common-law marriage gives a man a better chance to get up and leave the woman who has given herself to him and has possibly borne him children when he gets tired of her than he would have if he were legally married to her.

Fashion Fancies.

A HANDKERCHIEF TO MATCH ADDS CHIC TO BRIGHT BLUE WOOL CREEPE

ROMANCE may be divine under a yellow moon just like the right companion, but under the huge glaring lights with the cameras clicking and mechanics and carpenters pounding it is an entirely different matter. At least so says Myrna Loy, and, as one of Warner Brothers' stellar vamps, she ought to know.

It is a pretty difficult matter to register intense emotion and love making under the most trying conditions and have it appear convincing and inspired. While making "Across the Pacific," Myrna and Monte Blue went through some terrific sequences while the heat from the kilns was terrific and Miss Loy suffered the added discomfort of having her body dyed and greased. While it grew hotter and hotter the pair had to continue with the scene for production couldn't be stopped because of physical discomfort.

When the handsome heroine gazed soulfully into the hero's eyes she probably isn't even thinking about him. She's wondering how many hours it will be before the director will call it a day and she can escape from the heat and glare of the lights and scrape off the grease paint.

It is said that some real romances have developed while working on the set but, well, we'll never know unless under the conditions which Myrna Loy encountered in "Across the Pacific."

No, sir, glaring light, terrific heat, dye and grease don't make for romance.

H. G. Wells' novel, "Marriage," will be released under the title, "Wedlock." It is a Fox release.

When James Cagney completes "The Winner from the Ritz," he will produce "R. U. R." by Copek Brothers. The initials stand for Huxson's Universal Robots, weird tale of mechanical men.

When Gloria Swanson demanded $400,000 from Famous Players-Lasky to co-star with Adolphe Menjou in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," they decided to star Menjou alone. Greta Nissen may play the role in which they hoped to place La Marquise.

Raymond Hitchcock is to make one picture for Hal Roach. If it goes across he will appear in a series of 12 two-reelers within the next year.

Encouraged by the success of "One Minute to Play," his first movie venture, Harold "Red" Grange is planning to start work on his second picture for F. B. O. about January 15.

HEALTH SERVICE

Those Healing Springs

By DR. MORRIS FISHBIN.

THE value of a rest or convalescence at some natural mineral springs never has been doubted, and physicians regularly refer patients to one resort or another when they believe the spas and resorts of Europe are familiar to many, and such places as French Lick, West Baden, Saratoga, Excelsior, White Sulphur and other springs are widely known in this country.

Physicians and investigators have not been thoroughly convinced, however, as to the exact factors which are responsible for the benefits to be derived from visits to these health resorts. Some of the waters are of value because of their mineral content, but unfortunately equally good results do not seem to be secured when patients inhale the vapors of these waters at home or in the hospital.

Therefore scientific students of the value of health resorts in the treatment of disease believe that such benefits as are derived are largely the result of a change of climate and atmosphere.

It is these factors that seem to be primarily responsible for the benefits that are derived from such resorts. The most recent reports now have good medical staffs which see to it that the patient has the best of care, and that his hygiene of life is suitably regulated.

Menu for Today

MENU HINT.

Bananas are a little heavy to serve by themselves for the breakfast fruit, therefore we will mix them with a little orange juice. Boiled rice is a nice change from the regular breakfast cereals and the raisins may be added or not, as you like. The rice may be cooked in the double boiler, but a cup of rice thrown into a quart of boiling water will steam and cook rapidly until the water is absorbed and will be delightfully fluffy and palatable. The saucepan in which it is cooked may be stood in another containing hot water to keep warm. Try cooking the breakfast cereals in the double boiler and never forget to add a pinch of salt.

The Rhyming Optimist

Across the earth man joys to roam as a rhyming head, yet finds no spot as dear as home, for love has made it so. Love lights bright candles in the eyes that gleam with welcome, sends love rings through childhood's shrill, sweet cries that still the voice of care. The lover's hand he may find, by kindest ways caressed, still lacks the bonds that home can hold about his feet may move from ways that childhood knew, but at the last the heart will prove to home's old ties still true. No spot beneath the sky's blue dome, though it be fame and glory, can ever be as dear as home, for love has lodged there.

This Editor Writes Heads in Rhyme

WEBSTER, S. D., Nov. 10.—There is an editor in Webster who has committed with the muses. Will A. Wells, of the Journal, writes his heads, in rhyme.

For all ordinary stories, Mr. Wells uses a single cross-line, followed by two pyramid banks. Where a head in verse is not appropriate, Editor Wells resorts to a prose caption which flows in continuous thought.

When the owner of an illicitly operated still was arrested, the Journal said: "A great big still and a hot gin mill, were found the other day—Sam and Sol made quite a haul, and put the man away. At the beginning of school, 'The class of 1926, a bonny bunch of kiddies fine—The start to school, which is the best, you ought to see their faces shine!"

With vegetables. Beet cubes added to the water in which vegetables are cooked gives them a rich satisfying flavor.

Don't over-cook. Vegetables should be cooked until tender, but no longer. Over cooking makes them starchy-flavored and indigestible.

Wool for Polishing.

Use woolen cloths for waxing, oiling or polishing floors. Wash them when they become dirty in boiling water and soda.

Prevent Waste.

Cereals spoil very easily, so it is advisable to keep only a small supply on hand and replenish often.

Keeping Lettuce.

Lettuce and asparagus can be kept fresh by standing the root ends in a pan of cold water.

Avoid Flavor.

Steel imparts a very disagreeable flavor to cooked fish, so a silver knife or fork should always be used in serving it.

May Come Handy.

When you have added too much salt to a stew or any soup, add a raw potato. As it cooks, it will absorb the salt.

Farmers with corn bearing the right kind of shucks make more money on this by-product than they do on the corn, it is said.

LESSON OF ARMISTICE.

"The Armistice should remind us of this lesson and the Englishmen might take it to heart too on Armistice Day. Often enough he too has a narrow conception of empire. Often enough the British Empire means to him a corner of the earth—London, Manchester or Liverpool—rather than an ideal that has circled the globe, an ideal on which the stars in their courses have never set. If we all realize what have been the Empire's efforts for the advancement of civilization rather than the geographical parts which make it up, if we realize that the man in London has the same inheritance and is the custodian of the same ideals as the man in Montreal or Melbourne or Cape Town or Calcutta, then we shall not face the inevitable alternative—the break-up of empire. I most sincerely trust that our Empire premiers meeting in conference in London will see this truth.

"One hundred and fifty years ago Edmund Burke laid down the principles of common ideals for an empire. 'Parliament,' he said, 'is not a congress of ambassadors for different and hostile interests, but Parliament is a legislative assembly of one nation, with one interest, that of the whole, where not local purposes nor local prejudices are to guide, but the general good resulting from the general reason of the whole.' 'I am a member,' he said, 'of a rich commercial city, but that city is but part of a rich, commercial nation, whose interests are various, multifarious and intricate. We are members for that great nation which is in itself but part of a great empire extended by its virtue and our fortune to the farthest limits of east and west.'

"All these wide-spread interests, he said, must be considered, must be reconciled if possible. 'We are members of a free country.'

"Once again, may I hope that this fact, this ideal will not be forgotten by our representatives at the Imperial Conference.

"Armistice Day should tell us finally that we are no longer sleeping partners in the affairs of empire. That interest if we analyze it has proved one of the most potent instruments for good in the spread of civilization. It must be maintained. Look at the endless procession of nations that have moved across the stage of time. Some of them with power and the majesty and the pride of place which in their thoughts they dreamed meant immortality. Many of them have disappeared. Of some of them we can scarcely find a trace. Scattered blocks of decaying marble, worn inscriptions on ruined tombs, dusty garments in excavated places, — these are the crumbling relics of their ephemeral splendor and their transitory pride. It may be that from some of them the

CANADIAN DEFECT.

"One of our defects as Canadians today is the absence of a definite pride in our inheritance. To many of us distant hills are green and distant fields look more attractive than our own. I do not mean that we should travel abroad with our baggage labelled with nothing but maple leaves, nor do I believe we should shout about our nationality with objectionable egotism. But surely we should rejoice and take pride in the splendour of our inheritance. Surely we can remember the ideals and traditions to which we are heirs. We should remember that the empire to which we belong is not bounded by the limits of Londontown, nor by the coast line of our mother's land. It represents to us as not a geographical territory but a great ideal. The advice of Joseph Howe, that great Canadian statesman, of whom you men of the Maritimes must be justly proud, might well be echoed in our day, and especially in this part of the Dominion. He told them to boast of their country more and he said that as a last resort he would speak of the tides of the Bay of Fundy, knowing full well that there was elsewhere influence of their laws, their traditions, their literature still remains. But we sigh in vain for the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome.

"Eternal summer gilds them yet, but now 'alas their sun is set!'"

"Other empires, too, have totally disappeared and their fame is forgotten. They have passed into the oblivion of history. Why they failed because of disunion from within and because of the loss of their ideals.

"Will the waves of our past as the pessimists are so fond of telling us? Shall we, too, follow the path of degeneracy, that path in which despotism in any form, whether political, economic, social or religious, becomes a weakness, where corruption and luxury and indolence trample down the virtues our fathers cherished, honesty, frugality and industry? Will the men of death deal over us, leaving as a monument nothing but the scattered blocks of decaying marble? No, we say, not while Armistice Day remains and the memory of what it stands for strengthens and guides, not while we remember the souls of the Empire rather than its geographical parts. Not while the spirits of our ancestors, be they Anglo-Saxon or French, remain with us to lead us and to demand of us whatever sacrifice may be necessary for us for the realization of our dreams.

"I believe the dreams of golden years of the British Empire has not come yet, but it will come if we keep our heads and our hearts right. For good or for ill we are committed. Along the path we must go, marching to our destiny all together. To get the best out of democracy we must appeal to the spiritual as well as to the material side of human nature. For deep in the recesses of every man's soul is the desire for an ideal; dim, inarticulate, indistinct, but yet existent and insistent. For an ideal true or false every man must sacrifice much. Our British ideals are based on the noblest qualities and I for one believe that there yet is an innate desire in our race to work for and sacrifice for those ideals.

"We have removed sufficiently from the war to look at its bloodstained calmly and to ask if it were worth while to preserve our ideals. We think today of the Canadian youth waging that war with courage, unshrinking and with sacrifice unrivalled, so many of them sleeping tonight the peace that is unending, where they fell on the field of honor. And we wonder of the Canadian youth of today and tomorrow, we wonder if they, too, will remember. Will they, too, hold our ancestors' ideals as sacred as did their elders? The future is in their hands. It is useless on Armistice Day to listen merely to the shouts of victory, to remember only the flying flags and the dancing feet and to burn the incense of applause. We must likewise keep our inner vision fixed firmly on the high and eternal ideals for which our comrades fought and died. That, to me, is the real meaning of Armistice Day.

"After the response to the toast by General Sir Arthur Currie the gathering broke up into smaller groups, renewing old associations, and meetings of old comrades who had not met since the war days.

The arrangements were carried out by the committee in charge without hitch and this, the second annual Maritime reunion was voted the most successful yet held. All during the evening an orchestra rendered popular war time music, and old war songs were sung with a vim and spirit.

A vote of thanks was tendered by the chairman to General Sir Arthur Currie, Colonel Haldon and Captain Rev. F. M. Lockary for their "inspiring" addresses.

SERGEANT'S MESS HAS ITS THIRD ANNUAL BANQUET

Excellent Function in 'Royal' Marks Armistice Day Celebration

The third annual banquet of the Garrison Sergeant's Mess was held at the Royal Hotel last night and proved to be a delightful function. It was presided over by Sergeant-Major W. E. Ross and nothing was left undone to make the affair a success. There were present over one hundred members and guests and all thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

The dinner was served in the usual excellent manner by the Royal Hotel staff and addresses were heard by Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, K. C. B., K. C. M. G.; Col. J. L. Ralston, C. M. C., D. S. O., minister of defence; General A. H. Macdonell, C. M. G., D. S. O., and Col. W. B. Anderson, C. M. G., D. S. O. The music was furnished by William Jones' orchestra and pleasing vocal solos and readings were given.

After an excellent dinner had been served, Chairman Ross called for a toast to "The King," which was responded to by the singing of the National Anthem.

The toast to the invited guests was proposed by Sgt. Major Simons and was responded to by Lieut. Paul Cross, of the R. C. N. V. R., and Captain Watson, of the Dragoons. Other officers at the table were Lieut. White, A. S. C., and Captain Walsh, of the artillery.

A toast to the press was proposed by Sgt. Maj. Griffin and responded to by a representative of The Telegraph-Journal and Amos Macle of The Globe.

At 10:30 o'clock Sir Arthur Currie, Col. Ralston, General Macdonell, Col. Anderson, Col. Sparling and other officers arrived and received a hearty welcome.

Col. Anderson gave a brief address, in which he introduced Sir Arthur Currie and Col. Ralston. Col. Anderson said that he was happy to be present as a guest of the Garrison Sergeant's Mess, and said he was proud of the local Mess.

Sir Arthur stated that although he had held many official positions in the Canadian militia he had never been a sergeant, but was happy to be present and to hear the local Mess.

The work of the Canadians during the great war proved wonderful, and anything that was given for the Canadian soldier to do was done and done well. There is a problem to be solved in Canada today, he said, and the returned men are the ones to do it.

Colonel Ralston was the next speaker and made a brief address, and said he was happy to be present at the gathering of members of the Sergeant's Mess. He was told by Colonel Anderson how everything was being conducted in this district, and how well the Sergeant's Mess was being conducted.

The speaker said that he felt honored on receiving the position which he at present holds, and proposed to give a square deal to the entire force.

COL. SPARLING.

Colonel Sparling was next called on and presented the Garrison Mess shield to No. 1 company of the Saint John Fusiliers.

The toast to fallen comrades was proposed in a feeling address by Lieut.-Col. Norman P. McLeod, and silence of one minute was observed by those present.

General Macdonell presented the McAvity cup to the shooting team No. 2 of the Saint John Fusiliers. He spoke briefly of his kind recollections when in command in this district.

Solos and readings were given by Steve Matthews and Sgt. Simons; songs by Lindsay E. Perrin, George Carruth and Harold Needham, with Ken Jones pleased the gathering with a saxophone solo.

The happy gathering broke up about midnight with the singing of God Save the King.

The committee in charge of the program, besides the officers were: H. E.

English Air Affects American Watches

LONDON, Nov. 10.—American visitors to England, must set their watches ahead at least three minutes as soon as they land because of the effect of the enervating climate on the works. Many visitors find it necessary to adjust their watches at least twice a week.

Inquiry among watch makers disclosed that change of altitude was more likely to affect watches than change of temperature. "It is likely, however, that the watches of American visitors, used to a dry, crisp climate, find London a trifle enervating and react accordingly," one manufacturer said.

ANOTHER GOLD FIND IN NORTH ONTARIO

Sensational Discovery Made at Savant Lake, According to Reports

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 12.—According to reports a stampede has started to the latest goldfield in the north, that of Savant Lake.

At least fifty prospectors have passed through Buckle station, on the National Transcontinental, en route to Savant Lake which lies about twenty miles north of the railway and is accessible by a fairly good water route from Buckle.

Recent reports are to the effect that a very sensational find of gold has been made in this field, which is one of the portions of the province where the formation is especially likely to reward prospectors. Many years ago when the lake lay 400 miles from any where, an engineer reported that he had found huge gravel beds in the district, which would carry gold enough to pay for sluicing. If it were possible to use a hydraulic plant.

PACKING PRODUCTS OUTPUT INCREASES

There were seventy-four plants reporting in 1925, in which the capital investment amounted to $54,816,043. The industry gave employment to 10,700 persons, to whom $13,849,945 was paid in salaries and wages.

The value of the products of the slaughtering and meat-packing industry exported from Canada during the calendar year 1925 was $30,076,537, an increase over the preceding year of $14,068,824. The imports had a total value of $18,010,989, compared with $15,829,218 in 1924.

TWO TO HIGHER COURT.

Robert Finley and John Arthurs were before Magistrate Adams yesterday on charge of breaking into the house of Peter Clinch at Acamaac in July. C. S. Hanington appeared for Finley, who was sent up to higher court. John Arthurs was acquitted through lack of evidence. Kenneth Lunnin, who was before the court on Nov. 3 on the charge of entering the same house in November, was yesterday sent up to a higher court.

ASSIST IN PROGRAM.

The Arlic Marks Company gave several numbers during the dinner. Among some of the performers were: "The Dancing Goodwines," Alex. Lesser, Charlotte street merchant, donated a red fox stole to the mess to be raffled off for the Sergeant's Mess Christmas tree fund.

MILITARY MEN ARE GUESTS OF THE BYNG BOYS

Sir Arthur Currie Pays High Tribute to Canadian Troops

Many distinguished visitors were the guests of the Byng Boys at their bungalow at Pleasant Point yesterday afternoon. Those present were in the city to attend the Armistice reunion dinner held at the Admiral Dextley Hotel last evening, and included Sir Arthur Currie; Colonel the Hon. J. Layton Ralston, C. M. G., D. S. O., Minister of National Defence; Major-General the Hon. Archibald Macdonell, C. M. G., D. S. O.; J. F. B. Livesay, general manager of the Canadian Press and former war correspondent with the Canadian troops; Captain F. M. Loch Murray MacLaren, C. M. G., M. P. During the afternoon tea was served and the guests were introduced by the O. C. of the club, W. J. Ryan.

General Currie asked to say a few words, expressed his pleasure at being with his old comrades again. He was glad that the veterans in Saint John had kept together in such an organization as the Byng Boys, because the war, he declared, had disclosed in Canadian manhood a wonderful force.

NOTHING THEY COULD NOT DO.

"There was nothing that the Canadian troops could not do," he said. "I know that; the British officers knew that; even the commanders-in-chief Sir Douglas Haig knew that. I know that Haig was regarded as a

PLAN TO OBSERVE ITS ANNIVERSARY

Preparations for the observance of the church anniversary on Dec. 12 were made at the meeting of the quarterly board of Centenary church last evening when satisfactory reports were received and much routine business dealt with. Rev. R. G. Fulton presided. It is expected that a special preacher will take part in the anniversary observance. Arrangements were also made in connection with the coming of the new organist, A. E. Collins, Mus. B.Sc., F.R.C.O., who is expected to take up his duties on the first Sunday in December.

COSTLY MISTAKE

Thieves Take Wrong Bags, and Miss $500,000

LONDON, Nov. 12.—New York police, at the request of Scotland Yard, are keeping a close watch on liners arriving from England with a view to solving the mystery of the Hatton Garden diamond mall robbery.

Scotland Yard are satisfied that John Hamilton, the driver, who disappeared with three other men in a grey car after the robbery, has left London for America.

Scotland Yard's investigation has revealed the fact that the thieves made an extraordinary mistake. Instead of taking the Amsterdam and Continent mail as they planned, they took three bags of registered letters addressed to the provinces.

Instead of securing a haul of probably £100,000, the whole amount of the property stolen by the men does not exceed £2,000.

South Carolina taxes gasoline five cents a gallon, besides taxing soft drinks, smoking and chewing tobacco, theatre admissions, ammunition, candy, and promissory notes.

EX-KAISER PAYS TOO SMALL TAX, DUTCH BELIEVE

Hollanders Becoming Tired of Guarding Former Emperor

By H. C. BURMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
DOORN, Nov. 11.—The German ex-Kaiser's position in Holland has recently entered a new phase.
Not many days ago the long struggle between Wilhelm and the Dutch fiscal authorities came to an end and the amount of the taxes the ex-Kaiser has to pay were finally fixed. Nevertheless—through the actual figures are secret—it is already known that the Dutch are angry about the smallness of the sum paid.

There are several rich people in the village of Doorn who pay more than the ex-Kaiser, and a good many people in Holland doubt that Wilhelm's income in Holland is as small as he pretends. They suspect him in short, of tax-dodging.
What the Dutch particularly resent is the fact that while on the one hand the ex-Kaiser screws his taxes down to the very lowest possible sum, the Dutch government for its part for the last eight years has been under a very considerable burden of expense in paying guards to watch the ex-Kaiser and a still greater expense in maintaining the nation in a sort of "armed neutrality" against possible attempts to rescue Wilhelm from his exile.
They also resent seeing him on one hand parading down his taxes and on the other telling his Dutch friends how much he admires Holland and above all of his ardent admiration for Queen Wilhelmina. Annually on her birthday he decks out himself and all his staff in enormous orange bows—the queen's favorite color—and promenades through the village.

PRaises GOVERNMENT

He praises the Dutch government for the measures they took for his personal protection when millions of persons in the Allied countries were wanting to lay hands on him, and he thanks them in that he is able to enjoy the peacefully happy life of a country where the queen's favorite color—and promenades through the village.

THE CAMERA'S EYE IS SHARPER THAN THE EAGLE'S

Patience and perseverance rewarded a British photographer with these exceedingly rare pictures of an eagle aerie, perched high in a lofty evergreen in Scotland. Despite their keenness of vision, the great birds appeared totally oblivious that the camera's unerring eye was watching them. Above, the mother bird centers) and two fledglings. One of the parent eagles is shown in the view on the left just departing for a flight for the two young eagles and, on the right, the parent, having returned, is seen dismembering a hare for the young.

length to the effect that in the first place he is a comparatively poor man, in the second, that he is simply an interned officer, and in the third, that he entered Holland entirely against his own will.

For these and other reasons there has grown up in Holland an "anti-Kaiser" party which argues that not one single Dutchman invited Wilhelm to come to Holland in November, 1918, that he is an expensive luxury, and that Holland would be better off if he were clear of its borders.

They are also angry because the ex-Kaiser does as he pleases, and leaves it to the Dutch Government to protect him from all annoyances even to the point of arresting any one who tries to photograph him.

Wilhelm's own words on the subject of being photographed are: "Why do they want to photograph me? Let them take the young girls here. They are nicer to look at than I am."

TRIMMING HEDGES

During the last few weeks the ex-Kaiser has been busy trimming the hedges around his castle. Clad in gleaming yellow and orange-colored pull-over, loud enough for a daring flapper, with enormous gloves on his hands and his beard and hair blowing wildly in the wind, day after day he has been clipping away at though his life depended upon the early completion of his job. He starts his clipping at 9:30 in the morning and quits sharply at 11:30.

He is assisted in the work usually by the Dutch Captain Wilhelm von Lisemann, and two or three German officers of the ex-Kaiser's staff. Prior to the daily attack on the hedges, Wilhelm holds a sort of drumhead court martial after which he directs his "troops" where and how to attack the "enemy" hedge.

It is curious to see Wilhelm watch them as they march to their posts after he has given them their "orders" and the smile of satisfaction that spreads over his face when they have started in their "attack." Then he starts working himself.

Sometimes he calls one of his "generals" and talks to him for a quarter of an hour, his face full of animation and with wild gestures of both his arms. In such cases he even forgets to hide the shortness of his left arm and it is hard to believe from the fierceness of his gestures that he is discussing only the peaceful clipping of innocent hedges.

It is well known that old soldiers sitting by firesides of wintry nights get wildly excited when they fight over again their old battles, and very often at such moments matches and teacups are made to take a part in the re-pictured action with a precision and imagination that makes the auditors think they are in the midst of the battle once again. One never knows but from the look of his face when he inspects his clippers before attacking the hedge at such moments, it seems possible that Wilhelm is fighting over again the battles of the Somme and the Marne, and imagines his enormous clippers as they bite their way through the hedge, are his armies smashing through the French.

At about 10:30 attendants bring hot coffee to the clippers and he and his staff stop work for a while. Sometimes during the rest period, Hermine comes out for a little chat, and if there are not too many strange onlookers kisses Wilhelm through his grey beard before going for a walk.

What the Dutch do not like about this hedge clipping business is that it

HIGHER PRICE NOW FOR CHAMPAGNE

Increase in Grapes Said to be Cause For Rise in Costs, is Paris Report

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Champagne of the 1926 vintage will be the most expensive in the history of France's sparkling wine.

The quality, flavor and bouquet of the wine, however, will be on a par with its price, say wine agents who are visiting the trade. They have been warning their customers to stock up as the "price is likely to double within the next year."

Already there has been a big increase. Fifteen francs per bottle was paid last year for A1 Extra Dry in baskets of 25 bottles. Today the same wine is being quoted at 28 francs.

The fundamental cause of the increase is in the grapes. The best are being sold at 40 francs for forty francs per pound. They cost 2.50 francs last year.

While complaints are general of business depression in Japan, the theatres apparently are prosperous. More than 400,000 persons attended theatrical performances in Tokyo during September, or about 20 per cent. of the population.

GETS ESTATE, HOME JUST IN TIME TO CLAIM

Detroit Mechanic Had Estranged From Parents Over Trivial Matter

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 12.—Estranged from his parents since 1911 over a trivial quarrel, Ernest Meuser, an Austrian mechanic, who has made his home here since that time, returned to his former home in St. Polten bei Wien, near Vienna, last month just in time to claim the valuable estate of his father, which would have passed into the hands of a distant relative at the end of this year.

Details of the death of his parents while he was in America, and information regarding the estate reached here in a letter received by Meuser's wife, who indirectly was the cause of his return to Austria.

WIFE WRITES

The quarrel that caused young Meuser to leave his home at the age of 19 was an inconsequential matter, Mrs. Meuser said, but the young man took it deeply to heart and never corresponded with his parents. Four years ago he married. During the last year or two his health failed. Mrs. Meuser believed her husband's ill health was caused by his worrying over his estrangement from his parents and some weeks ago, unknown to him, she wrote to his mother.

The letter was returned to the Vienna postoffice marked "Addressee dead" and was opened by the postal authorities. From it the Austrian authorities learned of Meuser's address here and they wrote to him telling him that his father had died soon after the Great War and his mother about two years ago.

By his mother's will, all the property, consisting of valuable manufacturing plants, was left to a distant relative unless the son claimed it before the end of the present year. On receipt of this information, Meuser at once left for Austria and arrived at St. Polten the end of last month, in time to establish his identity and claim the estate.

Mr. Meuser is arranging to join his husband in Austria and will sail from New York on Dec. 1.

CONTINUES COURSE

In the lecture in the Public Speaking Course at the Y. M. C. A., last night, Rev. J. S. Bonnell dealt fully with his theme "How to Prepare an Address or Speech." He spoke of the introduction under three headings, the body of the speech under five headings and the conclusion of the speech under three headings. Rev. Mr. Bonnell pointed out that the people of Canada have a dislike for the reading of speeches but forgot that much time was spent in the preparing of every speech.

LIMITATION OF ARMAMENTS IS BIG PROBLEM

New Issues Face League of Nations Committees.

By HENRY WOOD
United Press Staff Correspondent
GENEVA, Nov. 12.—The economic, financial and industrial aspects of disarmament have now become a more difficult problem to solve than that of merely curbing hostilities, reducing military effectiveness, and limiting aviation.

NEW DEVELOPMENT.
This new development of the problem of disarmament is recognized to be due purely to the changes in warfare which the last great war established. As a consequence the problem of disarmament now has to be approached not simply from the standpoint of cutting down armaments and ending "fruitless armament competition," but from the standpoint of the total "war potentiality" of every country.

Some idea of the complexity of the financial, economic and industrial aspects of disarmament can be gathered from the following questions which the League's various disarmament sub-commissions are now trying to solve at Geneva:
1. Can the magnitude of armaments of the various states be compared by comparing their military budgets, and if so what method should be followed?
2. What would be the consequences from an economic point of view of inserting in the convention relative to disarmament or in that regarding the prohibition of certain forms of warfare provisions similar to those contained in articles 411-420 of the Versailles treaty relative to appointing commissions of investigation to see that the treaty is being carried out?

3. Is it possible that a limitation of armaments could be effected by the reduction of limitation of expenditure on national defense?
4. On what principle will it be possible to draw up a scale of armaments permissible to the various countries, taking into account particularly:
a—Population;
b—Resources;
c—Geographical situation;
d—Length and nature of maritime communications;
e—Density and character of the railways;
f—Vulnerability of the frontiers and of the important vital centers near the frontiers;
g—The time required varying with different states to transform peace armaments into war armaments;
h—With a view of ascertaining the influence of the material resources of a country on its war strength, the commission is asked to furnish:
a—Its general observations on this question;
b—A list in the order of their war importance of raw materials, products and industries of every kind which may be profitably considered;
c—A detailed statement of those essential material resources the absence or insufficiency of which may paralyze a country's activities in war; d—Details regarding the financial elements on which the power of a country in time of war depends;
e—What actually are the elements of a country's power in time of war which may be accurately expressed in figures and can be found in public documents, such as population, annual output of coal, steel or petroleum and what relative importance should be attached to them;
f—Can peace-time factories such as dye works and chemical plants be quickly transformed into poison gas factories, and if so, how much time would be necessary for their transformation?

SMUGGLERS FINED

Maine Court Assesses Two Runners $250
BANGOR, Me., Nov. 11.—Lewis Norton of Steuben, was on trial in the U. S. District Court today on an indictment for conspiracy against the prohibition laws in attempting to land cargo of alcohol at Corea, a fishing settlement in Gouldsboro. Coast guardsmen told of chasing into Corea a boat from which cases of alcohol were thrown overboard and arrested the occupants, Norton and Joseph Wood of Corea. The latter ended his life a few days ago, blowing himself to pieces by exploding a dynamite cartridge in his automobile. After a conference of counsel the charge of conspiracy against Norton was dropped, and he was fined $250, which he paid. George Bradford of Bluehill, for rum running paid a fine of $250 and a six months' jail sentence was suspended on probation.

Speed of Birds Found 25 to 46 Miles An Hour

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Scientific measurements of the speed of a bird's flight show some of the feathered fliers capable of approaching a mile a minute. Prof. August Thibonmann, at his bird observatory at Rossitten, East Prussia, has added considerably to the knowledge of bird speed. Tests showed the carrier's speed to be nearly equalled by that of the starling, which he measured as 46.05 miles per hour. Other speeds were: The jackdaw, 38.22 miles; the parrot finch 37 miles, the finch and the rook 32.65 miles, and hooded crows and gray gulls 31.05 miles per hour. The slowest of the birds under observation was the sparrow hawk, which made only 25.70 miles per hour. The tests were made in calm air.

Armistice Event in North End Last Evening Enjoyable Affair

The Armistice dinner served last night by the Ladies' Aid of the Portland United Church in the schoolroom was one of the most largely patronized and most enjoyable of the functions that the society has held in many years. Its proceeds will go towards church funds and will amount to a considerable sum. The room was decorated with bunting and flags and the large motto, "United For Service" done in red, white and blue, was prominently placed. The five large tables which filled the school room were decorated with bands of red white and blue and evergreen. A small Union Jack and red candles were also used in the pleasing scheme of decorations. Mrs. Allan Lingley and Mrs. A. J. Myles were joint conveners in charge of the affair and they had very able assistants. The committees in charge were as follows:
First table—Mrs. Charles F. Brown and Mrs. George Chase, conveners, assisted by Mrs. George Higgins, Mrs. Troop Thorne, Mrs. Roy Baskin and Miss Sarah Armstrong.
Second table—Mrs. William Bromfield and Mrs. Baker, conveners, assisted by Mrs. John Chowen, Mrs. J. J. Cummings, Mrs. Edward Harrington, Mrs. John Howe, Mrs. R. T. Hayes, Mrs. Fletcher Peacock and Mrs. M. E. Grass.

OVERSEAS NURSES' CLUB CELEBRATES

Observes Armistice Day With Dinner—Officers Elected For Coming Year

The Overseas Nurses' Club held its annual Armistice dinner last night in the Admiral Beatty hotel and during the serving of that excellent repast speeches and toasts were given and heard with much appreciation. Table prizes were won by Mrs. F. A. Scott and Miss H. B. MacKay. The remainder of the evening was very pleasantly spent in bridge and fortune telling and in a brief business session the officers were elected.
Miss Mary Barnhill was unanimously re-elected as president and Miss Ella Cambridge was appointed secretary. A number of the distinguished military leaders in the city visited the nurses at their banquet during the evening. Among the visitors were General Sir Arthur Currie, K. C. B., K. C. M. G., Col. J. L. Ralston, C. M. G., D. S. O., Col. W. B. Anderson, C. M. G., D. S. O., Colonel Murray MacLaren, C. M. G., V. D., M. F., Lt.-Col. N. P. McLeod, M. C., V. D., Lt.-Col. H. C. Sparling and Major Gale.
The reunion of the overseas nurses was a most delightful occasion and the members of the Club are looking forward to a similar gathering on next Armistice night.
JUDGMENT RESERVED.
Argument of counsel was concluded yesterday afternoon before County Court Judge J. A. Barry in the matter of the appeal of William J. Dean from the valuation of the Board of Assessors in the parish of Musquash. Judgment was reserved until a later date.

MRS. LYDIG SCORES LOVELESS UNIONS
Declares Marriage for Money or Social Prestige is Suicide Compact
REAL-LIFE TRAGEDIES CITED

TODAY a certain woman is famed as a leader of New York social life. Her husband owns one of the world's most valuable collections of art treasures. Her home is a mecca for nabobs and billionaires. Just a few years ago the same woman was a hopeless outcast. But she learned a little secret and started on the way to social prominence. What was the price she paid? How did she finally remove the last obstacle—the man who threatened to expose her methods and even bring her husband to financial failure?
This is only one of many such incidents that Mrs. Lydig gives with astonishing frankness in her article: "Frauds of Smart Society." This article is published exclusively in the December issue of The Red Book Magazine now on sale at all news-stands.

Is the Unwritten Marriage Law Passing? As Discussed by JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY

OUT of the hodge-podge of thousands of tangled human relationships, Judge Lindsey has evolved a philosophy so courageous, so removed from old standards—so daring—that the nation is staggered.
People, he declares, are making their own rules and laws, to suit their happiness and needs.
For example, he says—The love triangle is often a happy solution to marriage problems! One's love-life is his own and as long as he hurts no one, Society has no right to criticize or condemn.
That Infidelity is NOT at the root of marital troubles—but lack of fair play and a feeding of green-eyed jealousy.
That Freedom in love affairs, in marriage, leads to a monogamous marriage of itself. You will gasp mentally when you read his article in the December Red Book Magazine—The Moral Revolt; never before has any publication let such frankness go uncensored. You will wake up to changes in thought and action that are cropping up all about you! It is a vital issue—and will be thrust into your own life with tremendous force, if it has not entered already. Which side of the fence are you on—have you the courage to agree with Judge Lindsey? Who understands people in all their pretense and sham, groping and floundering, better than the author—the real author who does not exaggerate or color—but who paints word-pictures as true and realistic as any snapshot of life!

And never before have we been able to offer you a group of such popular and beloved writers as in this December Red Book Magazine—authors who write of the people of today with a shrewd understanding that is uncanny in its realism. Such as Rupert Hughes, Owen Johnson, Rita Weiman, Leroy Scott, Virginia Dale, Struthers Burt, Samuel Spewack and others—all names that mean stories that live for you, packed with the pulsating romance of Life—its ecstasies and tragedies.

Baxter Optimistic After Conference on Colonization; Declares Trip Worth While

Points Out Large Opportunities for New Brunswick Farmer in Stock Raising and Dairying; Says Saint John Port Offers Easy Access to Overseas Markets

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—At the conclusion of a conference here today of the premiers of the three Maritime Provinces with representatives of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways and of the Hudson's Bay Company, it was announced that while many details remained to be worked out before public statements could be made, yet the premiers felt substantial progress had been made in raising a basis of understanding as to colonization measures to be adopted for the Maritime Provinces.

The announcement was contained in an official statement which declared the meeting was "a preliminary conference, the results of which may be of the utmost importance to the Maritime Provinces," and also added: "Further meetings will be held and it is expected that within a short time concrete proposals will be made to the Dominion government with a view to meeting Maritime necessities in every way. The premiers were all very much encouraged by the sympathetic attitude of Hon. Robert Forke, minister of immigration, and were plainly hopeful of satisfactory results from the co-operation of the Dominion and Imperial governments, the provinces themselves, and the transportation and immigration agencies."

The meeting was called at the invitation of President E. W. Beatty of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Besides Mr. Beatty and Premiers Stewart, Rhodes and Baxter, there were present A. V. Sale, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, Colonel Stanley of the Hudson's Bay Overseas Settlement; G. W. Allan, director of the Hudson's Bay Company, and Dr. W. J. Black, representing the Canadian National Railways. While the premiers themselves made no separate statements on the conference, Hon. Mr. Baxter when asked if he thought the trip had been worth while from the point of view of results, declared that it was. Apart from the conference and its plans Premier Rhodes of Nova Scotia today announced important developments which the government of his province were working out. Full information will be forwarded to the province's agent-general in London regarding some 3,000 farms available for settlers and an attempt will be made to secure a good type of agricultural immigrant. It is hoped to reach an arrangement by which in addition to the $1,500 loan available from the Overseas Settlement Board, immigrating farmers may be relieved of paying interest charges during their first three years. The Nova Scotia government plans to establish a farm on which 250 boys will be trained every year. A farm in the vicinity of Falmouth, N. S., is under consideration. Premier Baxter of New Brunswick also described the cooperation of his province with the Overseas Settlement Board and the Canadian department of immigration for the settlement of vacant lands in New Brunswick. The New Brunswick premier felt there was a large market for the New Brunswick farmer in stock raising and dairying. "We are not feeding ourselves. We are importing beef when we should be exporting it," he said. He pointed out that good cattle could be raised

Montreal Paper Supports Nationalization of This Port

MONTREAL, Nov. 11.—The Montreal Star this evening, in an editorial article captioned "Saint John Port," strongly supports the idea of nationalization. The Star says: "SIR ARTHUR CURRIE'S plea in favor of making Saint John, N. B., a national port has more to commend it than any political expediency that might suggest itself. The situation of the harbor is strategic. As a point of shipment and entry it offers, therefore, exceptional facilities, so far as location is concerned. But so long as it remains under civic administration and control, its capacity must of necessity be limited by the financial resources of Saint John, and these are inevitably much smaller than the requirements of the port demand."

"If, however, the harbor were placed under a federal commission, like Montreal harbor, and the port administration transferred from civic to federal authority, Saint John would be able to take its proper place. "The necessary funds for development and improvement would be forthcoming, and their expenditure would be carried out under expert supervision and free from the numerous besetting issues that enter into municipal politics. "THE Maritime Provinces have long had a strong conviction that they were not being treated fairly by the federal government. The nationalization of Saint John port would go far to remove that deep-rooted impression, and would also open the way to the development of other Maritime enterprises. It is an idea well worthy of the serious consideration of the federal government when it meets after the Imperial Conference. "All that would be required would be for the citizens of Saint John to approve of the statute passed by the federal parliament in 1919, authorizing the Dominion government to take over the harbor of Saint John, amended to meet the city's requirements as to compensation for money it has already spent upon improvements. This ought not to be a difficult matter to arrange."

Despite certain aspects of the present situation which were not encouraging the premier felt there was confidence in the province of New Brunswick of increasing prosperity. The fact that foreign capital was willing to come in, as instanced by the International Paper Company, was an evidence of this. The pulp and paper industry would be of the highest importance in the industrial future of the country. The development at Grand Falls and the utilization of its power would mean the employment of thousands of men.

Diagrams will yet be found in the north, according to Mr. Miller. In Ohio the glacial drift included volcanics with diamonds in them, and these came down from the Labrador-Uganda country. Mr. Miller's plans at present are to use his beryl and polished quartz in the manufacture of beryl and quartz made-in-Manitoba souvenirs. While tea still is the national drink of Japan, coffee drinking is on the increase and last year the importation of coffee amounted to more than 1,500,000 pounds.

BERYL FOUND NEAR WINNIPEG

Discoverer of Semi-Precious Gem Deposit Stakes Claims

Canadian Press WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 12.—Beryl, a semi-precious gem, worth, when cut, from $5 to $20 a carat, has been found in the pegmatites of the Bird river, only 100 miles from Winnipeg. Two claims, comprising 104 acres, have been staked by a discoverer, Kenneth Miller, of Winnipeg. He reports 25 to 30 outcrops over a length of 2,000 feet. The width of the shistose-mica banded area in which the crystals occur is about 1,000 feet, and within this area are often lenses widening to 1,000 feet, in which numerous fractured crystals can be seen on the surface. Many of the crystals, as in the State of Maine, where the only deposit being worked on the continent is situated, are fractured through the later rocks being laid down under great heat and pressure. Many others are perfect, but milky, and so are of no commercial value. The clear fractured crystals are valuable provided that they are not too shattered to permit of cutting and polishing small stones.

MANITOBA YIELDS GARNETS. Many other semi-precious stones have been found from time to time in Manitoba. Garnets, too small in size to be commercially valuable, but interesting as curios, can be picked up on the Winnipeg river and on Clear Water lake. They have also been reported to have been found in the Pasture Lake area. Amber, a fossilized resin, from prehistoric forests, is being found today in the same district by Indians, who guard their secret jealously. This finds a ready market locally and on the markets of the world. Amber Lake is a spot about 18 miles out of the Pas, and every spring after high water the Indians make their finds on the east shore of that lake. The source has so far baffled all searchers. Diamonds will yet be found in the north, according to Mr. Miller. In Ohio the glacial drift included volcanics with diamonds in them, and these came down from the Labrador-Uganda country. Mr. Miller's plans at present are to use his beryl and polished quartz in the manufacture of beryl and quartz made-in-Manitoba souvenirs. While tea still is the national drink of Japan, coffee drinking is on the increase and last year the importation of coffee amounted to more than 1,500,000 pounds.

Excellent Reports at Monthly Meeting of Aid Society Held Yesterday

The monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held last night with A. M. Belding, president, in the chair. In the absence of Rev. George Scott, who is suffering from a heavy cold, J. L. Sugrue acted as secretary. It was announced that Mrs. Letha had returned to Pointe and would resume her position as matron of the Home today. The report of the agent referred to several pitiful cases with which he had dealt during the month. The number of children in the Home at that date was reported to be 21. The report of the ladies committee showed that everything was running very satisfactorily at the Home. The chief interest of the members of the committee centered on the Rosebud Day appeal for the Home which is to take place shortly and which it is hoped will make a much needed substantial addition to the funds of the institution. It was decided to change the date of regular meeting from the second Thursday to the second Tuesday of each month as that date was more convenient to the members.

RITCHIE M'COY MAY NOT BE ABLE TO PLAY FOR WANDERERS

LOSS OF STAR MEANS SEVERAL TEAM CHANGES

Has Dislocated Shoulder and Bruised Leg—Team on Way to Fredericton

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 12—The Wanderers' Rugby Football team, Halifax City League champions, and last year's winners of the Maritime Province championship, left this morning at 8 o'clock for Fredericton, where they will play the University of New Brunswick in the second game of a home and home series.

EXPECT TO WIN.

The Reds, who will enter the fray with an eight-point lead over their opponents, expect to not only maintain but increase their lead.

The team, according to announcement this evening, will be the same as that which played in Halifax.

U. N. B. UNCHANGED. FREDERICTON, Nov. 12—University of New Brunswick's list of competitors means that there will be no change in the U. N. B. line-up for the game against the Wanderers here tomorrow.

While Nairn McCaffrey, whose speed and "straight arm" made him one of U. N. B.'s main attractions, was out in uniform at practice at College Field yesterday, the injury he suffered to his shoulder has temporarily paralyzed his arm so that it is useless and, unless a complete recovery in the meanwhile, Doderidge will be in his place when the Wanderers start play at 2:30 p.m. Jack Babbitt and McNally are out for the season.

Nothing will be certain as to the U. N. B. line-up against McGill on Monday afternoon in the final game of the season until it is seen how the local collectors come through their hard game with the Wanderers tomorrow.

Maritime Players to be Invited to Meet Boston A. A. Sextette

Realizing that the large portion of its support is from fans in the Maritime Provinces, the Boston A. A. hockey team plans to have a series of games in Boston during the winter, and with this project practically a certainty, invitations to visit the Hub will be sent to teams in Chatham, Sussex, Saint John, Moncton, Sackville, Fredericton, Bathurst, Campbellton, Shediac, Dorchester and Marysville.

It is possible that an elimination series will be suggested so that a championship title can be arranged late in the season.

The New Brunswick teams are favorites in Boston because of the ability of the skaters and their invasion of Boston would be welcomed by the fans.

Lord Bishop of London Plays Tennis With American Stars

OAKLAND, Calif., Nov. 12—Discarding his ecclesiastical raiment for a suit of white flannels, the Right Honourable and Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram, Lord Bishop of London, yesterday crossed racquets on the tennis court with two foremost American stars, Helen Wills and William Johnston.

Paired with Miss Wills, the Lord Bishop was on the losing end to Johnston and Dr. Sumner Hardy, a former champion, 4-6, 2-6.

After that match he played with Johnston against Miss Wills and Hardy and again was on the losing side, 4-6, 7-5. "I think this the longest session of tennis I ever had on hard courts," he said. "I'll know better tomorrow how I liked it."

The Lord Bishop is 68 years old.

TY COBB FIRST MILLIONAIRE BALL PLAYER

DETROIT, Nov. 12—Ty Cobb, during his 21 years in the American League, has broken a few financial records aside from the countless playing feats that are to his credit.

The Georgia Peach is baseball's first millionaire player. That is a fairly conservative statement.

Cobb hasn't amassed the cool million from baseball's compensation alone; he has been mighty fortunate in his investments.

In sound figures Cobb has made $500,000 out of baseball. Starting with a salary of $1,800 in his first year, he so capitalized his prestige and ability that he drew down $60,000 as player-manager of the Detroit club last season.

That sum was not salary alone. It included a share in the profits of the club. It is said that Tris Speaker and Cobb are the only two managers, aside from John McGraw, who have ever been given a contract entitling them in on the profits.

It is estimated that Cobb's salary for 18 years as a player averaged about $15,000 per year, making a total of $270,000.

When he became manager, not only was his salary as a player substantially increased but he received a big sum for shouldering the managerial responsibilities, plus a cut in the profits.

Despite the fact that Cobb never won a pennant during his six-year regime, his club always was threatening and the fans were always hoping. The Tigers did a big business.

As player-manager Cobb has averaged $35,000 per year for six seasons, a total of $210,000.

The greatest player of all time, his fame has been such that his name has been in constant demand for advertising purposes. It is a low figure to say that he has earned $75,000 in that manner.

The sum of $225,000 earned in 16 years as player, the $210,000 for his services as player-manager and $75,000 through the medium of using his name for advertising brings Cobb's baseball earnings to $510,000.

A tip on General Motors stock, which Cobb played last year brought him a profit of $150,000. He has put over several big coups in the cotton market and is one of the big stock holders in the Coca Cola Company.

Nick Altrock says if he had only what Cobb has over a million dollars he would consider himself a wealthy man. Nick may be a clown, but not at all funny.

LATTER MAY GO TO ATHLETICS OR BOSTON RED SOX

Eddie Was Member of Connie Mack's Famous $100,000 Infield

CHICAGO, Nov. 11—Ray Shalk, veteran catcher of the Chicago White Sox, has been named by President Charles A. Comiskey as pilot of that team in succession to "Eddie" Collins, who came to the White Sox from the Philadelphia Athletics 11 years ago, where he was a member of the famous $100,000 infield. The latter probably will be given his unconditional release.

"Shalk always gave the game his best efforts and has been one of the hardest workers on the club, and I feel that he is entitled to the chance of leading the club which he has served so well," President Comiskey said in making the appointment.

Talk on the baseball radio tonight was to the effect that Collins probably would return to the Athletics, where he started his major league career, and serve as pilot, while it was also said he might become leader of the Boston Red Sox.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—The passing of Eddie Collins as manager of the Chicago White Sox marks the sixth change in major league baseball management since the close of the 1925 campaign.

Four of the replacements have come in the American League, which is experiencing one of the biggest shuffles in its history. In addition to Collins, Ty Cobb, of the Detroit Tigers, Lee Fohl, of the Boston Red Sox, and George Staley of the Browns, now have relinquished the reins.

Slater was succeeded by Dan Hooley, manager of the Toronto Leafs last season, and Cobb by George Moriarty, former umpire. The Red Sox have not yet named Fohl's successor.

In the National League, Arthur Fletcher has turned over management of the Phillies to Stuffy McInnis, and Bill McKelchie has been supplanted by the Pirates by Donie Bush.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—Ray Shalk, diminutive backstop of the Chicago White Sox, who will succeed Eddie Collins as manager of the American League Baseball Club next season, said today he expected to be working besides handling the team. His contract is for one year.

CANADA COMES WELL TO FRONT IN THEATRICALS

Dumbells' Manager, Visiting Saint John, Instances Production Advances

DOMINION TALENT BEING DEVELOPED

Saint John May See D'Oyly Carte Opera Co. of England

George G. Garrette, who has been the business pilot of Capt. W. M. Plunkett's Dumbell shows since their general public appearances following their war shows at the front, and who left Saint John yesterday for Moncton, Jaffray and Newfoundland to complete arrangements for the appearance of the ex-soldier entertainers, spoke yesterday to a Times-Star reporter on things theatrical in Canada in this reconstruction period. He emphasized the assertion that the Dominion is showing sure progress as a producing country. He thinks the next few years will find the Land of the Maple Leaf contending with the adjoining republics and the Northland in creating and sending forth worthwhile units of entertainment.

"MISS TORONTO." Beginning with the Dumbells, which the Zeigfeld's Polles in New York, the Vanities, Varieties and Winter Garden show, is an annual, the Canadian field has widened into a second group under the same business incorporation known as Capt. Plunkett's Revue of 1928. This is a girl show and sparkles with wholesome dancing, singing and sketched numbers, somewhat after the model of American shows but suited to the tastes of Canadian family folk. Jean Ford Tomlin, who as Miss Toronto won the international beauty contest at Atlantic City last year, and Patricia O'Shea, who as Miss Winnipeg won third place in that battle of comeliness, are included in this wing of the Dumbells' incorporation. The revue is moving east and is due to hit the Maritimes early in the spring. Jeanette Garrette, 8-year-old ballerina, is one of the features of the Capt. Plunkett girl aggregation. The genial George is father of the little star.

PROSPECTS BETTER

However, with the brightening prospects in the Maritime Provinces it was expected the English attractions would not find it necessary to exclude Saint John, Moncton and Halifax from their Canadian itinerary, particularly since it was necessary for them to debark or embark at one of the Maritime ports in the winter season, which is usually the period they choose for playing this country. The picture business, Mr. Garrette thought, was not so deeply rooted in the estimation of the Maritime entertainment-loving attractions as it was in the States. Matheson Lang, noted English touring Canada in some of his successes, including the "Wandering Jew," "Typhoon," "The Chinese Bungalow," "The Tyrant." This man's name was a household word on the other side and his company included not only some of the most talented play people in the British Isles, but three of the loveliest women of the English stage. In Toronto alone recently Mr. Lang did $86,000 business in a fortnight.

BUDDING TALENT

Speaking of the development of Canadian talent Mr. Garrette cites the Leonard and Rogie Russian dancing school at Toronto where an average attendance of 850 pupils is affording a great deal of dancing talent, at least 12 to 20 promising youngsters each term. Singing schools and private tutors are developing vocal entertainers whilst in schools of acting there are many showing talent of sufficient value to warrant entry into professional ranks. Canada could well live within its own people, as far as supplying the lighter form of entertainment at this juncture, the Dumbells manager thinks. A chain of houses controlled by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation from Toronto westward to the coast is lending patriotic support to British shows. It is not only using Canadian talent for prologue and atmospheric picture settings but gives guarantee of housing traveling English shows to such an extent that some of the best companies and stars of the Motherland have no hesitancy in packing up and crossing the ocean. Conditions in the Maritime Provinces for the last few years, however, have been bad for expense-laden overseas companies when the people down this way have been denied many of the best attractions. A notable instance last year was the visit of Sir John Martin-Harvey who contented himself with playing Halifax only. His offer for Saint John was so low that a local theatre could not entertain it without facing certain loss. Sir John's previous visit during the war when he presented Garrick and the Burgomaster of Stillman, was so unprofitable to both him and the house that no argument could induce him to try the experiment again; without greatly increased terms in his favor, terms which could not be entertained by the theatre.

NEWFOUNDLAND FOLLOWING THE HALIFAX RUN, would be the first visit of the Plunkett show to the ancient colony. The Newfoundlanders were on the qui vive over it. Next season the Dumbells would not come to the Maritimes—that is the spring show—but would work from Vancouver as a starting point down the Pacific coast on the American side, Seattle, Portland, Spokane and all that route of theatres. This would be an extreme novelty for the show and for the American west-erners.

THE D'OYLY-CARTE people would arrive presumably in this port of Saint John, around about Yuletide and would be of at least 80 people, including orchestra.

Bert Lang of Montreal has charge of the Canadian itinerary and some attempt will be made, it is understood, to have this splendid aggregation sing one or two of their shows in Saint John, though there is no guarantee they will be able to do so, having fairly close connection between approximate date of arrival and their official opening in Montreal.

Mr. Garrette says the visit of the Dumbells for a week's engagement in

Across Canada

MONTREAL—Plans for the erection of an antimony refinery by the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company at Trail, B. C., have been completed, and it is expected that construction work will start shortly.

TORONTO—Married in November, 1919, separated after twelve months, re-united a year later and again separated by agreement, Mrs. Nellie Hicks Woods, middle-aged, began suit against her 70-year-old husband for alimony here.

ST. THOMAS, Ont.—Delegates to the executive meeting of the National Council of Women in session here again passed resolutions emphasizing the desirability of banning from Canada all pernicious literature from other countries.

BELLEVILLE, Ont.—Expert evidence concerning the mental condition of David Arthur Moon, charged with murdering Clayton McWilliams on April 6, 1925, was declared inadmissible by Mr. Justice Howat at Moon's trial here. It is expected the case will go to the jury Saturday morning. McWilliams

HAMILTON, Ont.—Rev. A. E. Smith, Toronto, president of the Ontario section of the Canadian Labor party, will contest Centre Hamilton as the candidate of the Hamilton central council of the Canadian Labor party. Mr. Smith was chosen candidate at a meeting of delegates at the Labor temple. The feature plank in the election manifesto calls for a federal government liquor control which will provide for the buying and selling of alcoholic liquors by the Dominion government solely.

CALGARY—Dogs have become so numerous in Calgary that the city council is discussing regulations requiring owners to keep their dogs locked up at night or on the leash. One alderman was in favor of forbidding the streets to dogs altogether, unless they were on the leash. An aldermanic dog fancier wished to retaliate against cuts. A similar discussion some time ago ended in such a hot argument that the subject was dropped.

SUBURBY, Ont.—Charles McCrea, Ontario minister of mines, was unanimously selected to contest Suburby in the tions at a Conservative convention here. The minister of mines supported the liquor policy of the Ferguson government, coming provincial general election, stating that he would sooner have his children brought up under conditions that existed prior to the Ontario Temperance Act than under present conditions.

Major Cheesman Tells of Mysterious Settlement of Jabrin in Book

Special to The Times-Star LONDON, Nov. 12.—Stories of the mysterious settlement of Jabrin are told by Major R. E. Cheesman in his book, "In Unknown Arabia," published recently. Major Cheesman was formerly private secretary to Sir Percy Cox, High Commissioner for Iraq. Some of the punishments of Arabia, which he mentions, sound harsh to western civilization. Thieving, for instance, is punished by the loss of a hand.

PRIMITIVE PUNISHMENT The cutting off of the hand is a punishment that seems primitive to us today, but it is generally accepted for that particular crime in the Arab legal code as well as by most Eastern potentates.

Major Cheesman was received by the Amir, who said that the southern parts of his lands had been without rain for two years, and that it was six years since they had had good rains. Of the tribes whom Major Cheesman met, some of them reminded him of features to be seen on early Sumerian sculptures. "It is not unreasonable to suppose that they are the representatives of this earliest civilization. The conquests and passing of nations from the trade routes would leave them unaffected and unchanged in the fastnesses of their desert strongholds."
