The appearance of an unknown man between forty and forty-five years of age with his right hand and face bruised at a farm house near Digby on Saturday evening is regarded as having possibly thrown some light on the mystery of the murder of Thomas Berry at Guisnes, near Clementsport. MEETING FAVORS FEDERATION OF OUR COLLEGES

Representatives of maritime colleges, gathered in Halifax, yesterday agreed that, subject to a satisfactory solution of the problems involved, it was in the interests of the people of the provinces and Newfoundland that there should be a confederation of the existing higher institutions of learning at Halifax. The report as adopted provided that the colleges removing to Halifax should retain each its name, charters, endowments, property and governing body. Dr. Foley said that the archbishop of Halifax, the archbishop of St. John's (Nfld.), bishop of Harbor Grace (Nfld.), and the bishop of St. Georges (Nfld.), all favored federation. Premier W. E. Foster, speaking for the New Brunswick government, said that he was unable to make any pronouncement until a something more definite than that available today could be submitted. He came to the meeting as an observer, he said. Delegates to today's conference include: Mount Allison—Senator F. B. Black, Dr. B. G. Borden, Rev. J. W. McConnell, Rev. H. E. Thomas, J. T. Burdill, H. A. Power. University of New Brunswick—Dr. W. S. Carter, Chancellor C. C. Jones. Government of New Brunswick—Premier W. E. Foster.

OPERA HOUSE

Bob Ott Company in Musical Comedy Entertainment "Out of Luck."

"Out of Luck," a musical comedy, in which the Bob Ott company opened their farewell week at the Opera House last Monday, scored a success which easily outpoints that of any of their previous productions. The continuous laughter and applause which greeted each sparkling specialty and comedy turn was proof positive that the bill had registered. Everything about the bill is new, the comedy, the songs, the dance specialties and the delightful costumes. The speed is remarkable. In a whirlwind song and eccentric dance number, Miss Ann Ott easily takes the top of the specialty honor list. Bob Ott in the heavy end of the comedy proved a good mirth-maker. Raymond Marr has already become a favorite for his comedy talent. Miss Florence Breen sings a song of good value, finishing with a peppy demonstration of the Highland fling, in which she is joined by Misses Edith and Anna Breen. Louis Adams, Mary Ott, Fred White and James Gullbridge all gave enjoyable musical turns.

TONIGHT THERE WILL BE A BATHING BEAUTY CONTEST, OPEN TO ALL LOCAL GIRLS. TOMORROW A COMPLETE CHANGE OF PROGRAMME. THE FINAL BILL OF THE ENGAGEMENT WILL OPEN ON FRIDAY NIGHT, AN AMATEUR NIGHT. ON SATURDAY MATINEE A SONG CLASS AND DOLLS FOR THE LADIES AND CHILDREN.

CZARIST GEMS A BURDEN TO SOVIET AUTHORITIES

Moscow, Oct. 25.—The enormous collection of jewels that belonged to the late Emperor Nicholas has become a burden to the Soviet authorities, and what is to be done with them is a question puzzling the officials, who declare the stones are so large that nobody appears to want them. Talking with Colonel Haskell of the American relief organization regarding the cash realized for the famine sufferers through the sale of confiscated church treasures, Leo Kameneff said the Soviet Government was eager to dispose of the collection as a whole or in part, but that as yet no one had stepped forward even with the suggestion of an order. Therefore, he declared, the royal ornaments of other days might be advertised and knocked down to the highest bidder, and if that were not the fate of the jewels, then perhaps some of them would be sent to Warsaw in partial payment of Poland under the terms of the Soviet-Polish peace treaty.

BAPTIST NOTES

(Maritime Baptist). Word has reached us that Rev. M. B. Furry, who, for a number of years, was pastor of the Cornwallis street church, Halifax, N. S., died in a hospital in Germantown, Penna., on May 6.

We are under obligation to Rev. W. J. Rutledge, B. D., pastor of the First Baptist church of Whitman, Mass., for copies of the programme of the centennial celebration of the organization of the church of which he is pastor. Pastor Rutledge preached the historical sermon, and the names of three other maritime men appear on the programme as filling leading parts—Revs. York A. King, D. D., A. T. Kempton, D. D., and I. S. Nowlan, Ph. D.

Still another centenary celebration in which a maritime man was deeply interested has been held. It was that of the First Baptist church of Schenectady, N. Y., Rev. Gordon H. Baker, pastor.

For the last two or three weeks, Rev. James Dunlop, a native of Scotland, who has been in pastoral service of recent years in British Columbia, has been in and around St. John. Mr. Dunlop preached on October 8 at Lewisville, and on the 15th in the First Baptist church, Moncton, and spent a week between Rev. W. H. Johnson at Hampton. Mr. Dunlop is a man in his early prime, well educated a writer of grace and power on theological subjects as some of his articles published in The Review Evangelist of Louisville, Ky., testify. We think he might be induced to settle with some one of our pastorless churches. Mr. Dunlop preached at the Central church, St. John on last Sunday.

FATALLY BURNED AT SWITCHBOARD

Electrician's Clothing Reduced to Ash and Flesh Burned from Body—Died Later in Hospital.

Montreal, Oct. 25.—Coming into contact with an electric wire of the switchboard in the new power house of the Harbor Commission of Montreal, at the foot of Beaudry street, one morning last week, Claude Smith, 28 years of age, suffered burns that caused his death.

Flesh Burned Off. Information obtained by Captain Rondeau of the Harbor Police, was that Smith, who was employed at the new power house as an electrician, had climbed to the switchboard and was alone at the time of the accident. None of the other employees was able to tell Captain Rondeau exactly how the accident occurred; their attention had been drawn to Smith when they heard a shout. They went into the switchboard room, found Smith lying in a semi-conscious state on the floor, and called the ambulance from the Montreal General Hospital. The flesh on Smith's body from the abdomen to the toes was burned off and his clothes were reduced to ashes.

When the hospital doctor examined Smith it was found that there was no chance of saving his life, but he was removed to the hospital and everything possible was done for him. Smith quickly lapsed into unconsciousness and died at 8 o'clock.

LONGFELLOWS SON LEFT AN ESTATE OF $509,901. Toronto, Oct. 25.—A New York special to the Mail and Empire says that Ernest Wadsworth Longfellow, painter, son of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, left a gross estate of $509,901 and a net estate of $478,900.

Local architects appeared last evening before a meeting of the permanent home committee of the New Brunswick Protestant Orphanage and discussed plans for the erection of the new modern orphanage to be erected near the Manchester property in the Manawagonish road. The meeting was held in the office of L. P. D. Tilley who presided. Adjournment was made until early in November to give the members of the committee an opportunity to study the methods of the modern orphanages in the United States and Canada with reference to buildings.

SNAP. Off comes the furnace grime. The fortnightly social and dance of the Coldbrook A. A. Club was held last evening at the Manor House, Glen Falls and was largely attended. Excellent music was provided and refreshments were served by the management.

Bread Below Cost. For many months Robinson Bread has been baked, thousands of loaves a day, and sold below cost. More of nature's finest foods have gone into Robinson Breads and more pains have been taken with its process. It has been the aim, regardless of expense, to have the Robinson Loaf known as the Healthy Loaf, the Master Loaf, the loaf that is man-planned and machine-made, scientific and sanitary and yet "homey." At no more cost you have in Robinson Bread MILK, more sugar and more shortening, while the flours are unquestionably the finest made. The extra expense of these extra ingredients, in which economy has so long been sacrificed to quality, has cost us more than our profit over many months—to put the facts plainly. But it has been wonderful advertising. Take advantage of the bread economies offered you at the expense of Robinson's, Limited.

PREVENTS MOLD
IN TUBS OF BUTTER
Treatment Includes Soaking
in Water and Use of Live Steam.

Many forms of treatment for the prevention of mold forming in butter in tubs have been devised by various people, but that proving most effectively under comparative experiment carried out by the United States Department of Agriculture consists in soaking the tubs in cold water, steaming them with live steam, paraffining the inner surface, and then rubbing over the paraffin with salt. In addition, the liners for the tubs are soaked for thirty minutes in a saturated solution of boiling brine. Under the supervision of the department several million pounds of butter have been packed in tubs and liners treated in this manner and no cases of mold have been reported.

A number of methods of treating tubs and liners have been tried out in comparison with one just described, but no other has been equally successful. Some tubs and liners were merely soaked in cold water, and in these mold made an abundant growth. When the tubs and liners were soaked in a saturated solution of cold brine the growth of the mold was somewhat reduced. Butter in tubs that were soaked in water and steamed for thirty minutes with live steam, and then treated with a solution of boiling brine, developed very little mold, but results were still better when paraffin and salt were used as described above.

The treatment found most satisfactory is to treat the tubs and liners with a solution of brine and paraffin and salt.

of the French colonies in North Africa, laid the foundation stone. The ceremony, says a Paris cable to the New York Times and Montreal Gazette, was a demonstration of the sympathy of France for the Mohammedan religion and for the Mohammedan peoples. Of the sympathy, said Ben Chahry, one of the leading Moslems present, France would never have cause to repent. During the war the Mohammedan citizens of France had shown their gratitude, and the future would show that they were ready to repeat the sacrifices. In the Mohammedan religion gratitude was one of the first duties and in the mosque which was about to be erected the prayers which would arise would be always for the glory and welfare of France and of Islam.

In his speech of dedication Marshal Lyautey made particular reference to the "clear-sightedness, firmness and pacific attitude of Premier Poincare in the recent Near Eastern trouble, which had gained him the approval of the immense majority of his countrymen and of Moslems everywhere." For the Coincidentally with the success of the French policy of friendship toward Turkey, there was laid the other day in Paris the foundation stone of the first Moslem mosque to be built in France. The scheme for its erection was projected and had governmental approval some time ago. G. FRED FISHER'S PLATFORM

- No. 1—(a) The completion and signing of the contract with the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission for Musquash Power.
(b) The appointment of an independent Civic Hydro Electric Commission to construct a Civic Distribution System and operate same.
No. 2—Completion of Plans and Specifications for a Civic Distribution System.
No. 3—That an offer be made by the city to purchase the entire property of The New Brunswick Power Company, at the sum named by the Supreme Court of New Brunswick, March 7, 1920, $2,577,655.56. This sum to be the maximum, and the offer to remain open for ten days only.
No. 4—In the event of the offer not being accepted by the Power Company, in the time specified, the city to proceed immediately with the construction of its own distribution system.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

A western journal chides those merchants and others who say that business is not as good as it should be, and asks if business is ever as good as we think it should be. To inquire those who complain with a more optimistic feeling it says:
"Will business improve? Cold facts provide the answer. Western Canada has produced this year 372,000,000 bushels of wheat; 419,400,000 bushels of oats; 61,000,000 bushels of barley; 54,000,000 bushels of rye; 8,000,000 bushels of flax and a few other things beside. Now we can talk of debts, taxes and everything else as long as we like, but we must admit—so many of us do not seem to like admitting anything optimistic—yet we must admit that that crop means new money or money's worth which we would not have had if the crop had not been produced. But it takes a little time to get it circulated."
The new money that will help the west will also help the east, for a great deal of it will be sent east to purchase goods; and this will benefit the manufacturers, importers and transportation lines. The general trade outlook in Canada has been steadily if slowly improving for some time past, and the outlook still grows brighter. There will be unemployment in the winter season, but less than there was last winter, and the spring will see the country squared away for still greater progress.

AN EXAMPLE FOR ST. JOHN

The Toronto hydro-electric system has saved that city $28,000,000 since 1911 by the reduction in rates from those prevailing under previous monopoly conditions.
The authority for this statement is Mr. George H. Ross, Toronto's finance commissioner. What better evidence could the people of St. John need to convince them that they should get the full benefit of hydro at the earliest possible date, freeing themselves for all time from the grip of monopoly and making possible a great industrial expansion.

But Mr. Ross said much more than is above quoted. Somebody had written to Canadian Finance of Winnipeg questioning the wisdom of Toronto's heavy municipal expenditure. It was pointed out that the city's gross debt per capita in 1917 was $211, and had risen to $249 at the end of 1921. Mr. Ross wrote to Canadian Finance, and said:
"A moment's thought will show that a comparison of gross debt figures does not give a true picture of the situation. The whole of the recent increase in the debt is due to the city's heavy investment in self-supporting utilities. The net general debt, i.e., the net burden of debt on the tax payers, in 1917 was $90.62. Today it is $86.31. That should satisfy the most critical. Toronto is a firm believer in public ownership and has pledged her credit to the extent of $69,000,000, in this connection. The waterworks system—representing an investment of nearly $17,000,000—not only pays all its charges, but produces an annual surplus—$400,000 in 1921—that goes to reduce the tax rate. The Toronto Hydro-Electric System, with a capital cost of $11,000,000, has saved its customers $28,000,000 since 1911 by the reduction in rates from those prevailing under previous monopoly conditions."

Mr. Ross next took up the street railway question, and said:
"The city has spent millions, and will spend more, on its transportation system. The property of the Toronto Railway Company was in wretched condition when the franchise expired in 1921. Tracks and rolling stock had so far deteriorated that adequate service was an impossibility. In the short space of one year the Transportation Commission has rebuilt the whole system, extended the lines, and installed new cars and equipment. They are now giving service far superior to anything the city has ever had before."

After pointing out that the expenditure on Toronto harbor front will be more than repaid by the industrial land created and the shipping facilities provided, Mr. Ross goes on to say that the city's credit is first class, and concludes as follows:
"The real acid test of a municipality's credit is the price its bonds bring in the open market. The development of public ownership in Toronto has never endangered the city's credit. On the contrary the city is always able to borrow on terms at least as advantageous as the provincial governments."

If St. John should eventually secure ownership of all its public utilities at a fair price it would have the same experience as Toronto. In order to make itself safe in any negotiations

LIGHTER VEIN

His Calling.
A good old lady said to her nephew, a poor preacher—
"James, why did you enter the ministry?"
"Because, aunt, I was called," he answered.
"James," said the old lady anxiously, "are you sure it wasn't some other noise you heard?"
Long Spaces.
"What do you work at, my poor man?"
"At intervals, lady."
Good as Goose With Golden Eggs.
A Connecticut country newspaper contained the following advertisement:
"Full blooded cow for sale, giving milk, three tons of hay, a lot of chickens and several stoves."
Question and Answer.
The youthful naval cadet candidates were appearing before the board of examiners and being questioned to test their knowledge.
Admiral—"How did you come here, my boy?"
Candidate—"In a taxi, sir."
Admiral—"And what was the number of the taxi?"
Candidate—"3348, sir."
Admiral—"Good; you'll do."

SOME STRIKING FIGURES ABOUT NEW YORK

(New York Evening Mail)
Five billion dollars. Yet it takes five billions to represent the value of one year's product of New York city's factories. Of largest monetary amount are the apparel industries, with a product valued for 1919 at $1,920,087,190. The product required the labor and services of 296,408 persons in 11,926 establishments.
Three-quarters of the women's clothing is manufactured in New York city.
Forty-one per cent of the men's clothing is manufactured in New York city.
Three-quarters of the fur goods, 80 per cent of the tobacco pipes, 95 per cent of the paper patterns, 94 per cent of the pens, 48 per cent of the millinery and lace goods, 46 per cent of the men's furnishings goods, 49 per cent of the men's hats and caps, 23 per cent of the printing and publishing, 18 per cent of the candy and ice cream are produced in New York city.
The value of manufactured food products in New York city amounts to more than $600,000,000.
New York city employs 113,021 in metal manufacturing, while Pittsburgh, called the city of iron and steel, employs only 102,857. Brooklyn makes more boots and shoes than Boston and New York produces more shirts than Troy.
One year's manufactures in New York city would pay all the expenses of the government of the United States, including all the interest on the Liberty and Victory bonds, all the cost of the army and navy and all the pension—everything.

THE DEBATE ON TIPPING.

(Halifax Herald)
There has been quite a current of discussion in these times in regard to tipping. Many complaints are made about it as an alleged evil. But it has its defenders. The only thing that appears to be certain is that it will continue. We have seen an suggestion to how or when or where it might be either wiped out of existence or lessened.
There is nothing to indicate that the recipients of tips are combining for the purpose of bringing about abolition of the system. Those who are determined to bring about abolition are taking all the risks of being reduced in moral stature by acceptance of the donations. The employers of the system, here and elsewhere, are quite willing to hold out their hands or have tips thrust upon them give no sign that they are opposed to the system and are ready to bring about its abolition. Nor is there any indication that the people who complain of having to contribute tips intend to stop the practice, or have any idea as to how they could bring about universal concord for abolition of tipping.

HOURS OF WORK.

(Toronto Globe)
That it is necessary for men to work twelve hours a day in manufacturing industries is the substance of a report made by the Committee on Work Periods of the Federated American Engineering Society to the Executive Board of the American Engineering Council.
The report is the result of two years' careful investigation of industrial and economic conditions in all parts of the United States. In all manufacturing except iron and steel the number of employees working eight hours, but the number working twelve hours, but if iron and steel were included the majority of employees work twelve hours. The United States Steel Corporation, with its 150,000 employees, presents the most notorious case of long hours, but the report declares that a change from twelve hours to eight hours would be practicable, both economically and technically.
The engineers by their investigation and report confirm the arguments of social workers in favor of abolishing the twelve-hour working day.

BRITISH FIRMS SUDAN CONTRACT

(London Times)
A contract for new irrigation works in the Sudan, the amount of which is approximately £4,000,000, has been secured by Messrs. S. Pearson & Son. Mr. Humphreys, of Messrs. Pearson & Son, yesterday informed a news agency that the scheme includes building of a dam across the Blue Nile, extending nearly two miles in length, and also some 650 miles of canal and drainage. The scheme, when completed, will irrigate between three and four thousand acres of land, which are to be laid out as cotton gardens.
"We have secured the contract," Mr. Humphreys stated, "in competition with the leading firms of the country. Our contracts will be placed with our delay, and will include the manufacture of a considerable amount of steel and engineering material. Unskilled labor will be employed at the outset, and for this we shall utilize local and native labor, but all skilled labor will be obtained from this country. When in full swing we shall have 7,000 hands on the scheme."

USE OF EAR LOBES.

(Indianapolis News)
What we commonly call the ear—that is, the external part—is little more than a "telephone receiver" as it were, to the inner, or true ear, with which all hearing is done. Of this "receiver," the lobes form an essential and necessary part. In nature's wonderful way they are made to serve a very important purpose in keeping the drum of the ear properly stretched. Many waves of sound would be lost to the real ear were it not for the lobe. The lobes of hunted animals, such as the hare or stag, point backward, and of hunting animals, such as a dog, forward. Originally, it is believed, human lobes were movable, but as with the advance of civilization man had to depend less and less upon his sense of hearing for protection against danger, the muscles connected with the lobes fell into disuse and resulted in the lobes becoming practically a fixed part of the hearing machine.

THEN AND NOW

The following is reproduced from The Telegraph's report of a public meeting held on the night of March 27, 1922:

H. R. McLellan said:
"I am in favor of municipal control and municipal distribution, and my slogan is: 'No truck or trade with the Power Company.'"

Continuing, he said, the citizens could no longer go on permitting the Power Company to maintain its position of privilege and monopoly.

On the assumption that he actually meant what he said, the citizens, by a great majority, made him Mayor.
And what is he saying, and doing, now?

ST. PETER'S Y. M. A.

Choosing Officers for Important Year, Marking 25th Anniversary.
This evening St. Peter's Y. M. A. will nominate officers who will occupy their positions in an important year of the association's life—the 25th. The silver jubilee is to be observed in the Autumn of 1923. Stressing the work and aims of the organization, a circular has been distributed to the members and co-operating of all being asked.
It is set out how St. Peter's Y. M. A. in 1898, succeeded St. Aloysius' Society, which was organized 50 years ago. The new society carried on along the same lines. Accomplishments by the Y. M. A. in physical, moral and mental development of its members are set forth. In athletics particular mention is made of the success achieved in baseball, in connection with which the organization was able to be of much assistance in the sending of Hilton Belyea on his journey to the United States which resulted so well for the prestige of St. John.
There is reference to dramatic performances, lectures, debates and other features which have helped the members in mental development and in connection with the country and there is a call for stronger support of this phase of the work. The circular closes with an urging note to its members to help make the coming year a big one.

MURDERERS TO PASS THE DEATH CHAIR SAFELY

Oswego, Oct. 25.—For the first time in the history of Oswego a walk through the "little green door" to the heavy steel-plated door, leading from the condemned cells to the execution chamber where the electric chair is located, is called. Heretofore no murderers who passed through that door have lived to tell about it, as it was his last walk, and led to the death chair.
Twenty-six condemned prisoners awaiting execution are to be taken through this door and out of the execution chamber within the next few days. They will pass through, one at a time, on their way to the new death prison which will be moved to the new structure. The slayers will be moved under personal supervision of Warden Lewis E. Lewis Wednesday or Thursday. Extra guards will be stationed between the old and new death-house so none can break away while crossing the prison yard.
Among the murderers who will be executed are—
Winn Greasy, convicted of the murder of Edith Layoy, school teacher, at Freeport, L. I.; Robert Raffaelo and Antonio Marino, who kidnapped and killed five-year-old Giuseppe Varotta in Manhattan; Angelo Tumbarello, who shot Louis Balsamo in Brooklyn; and Rutger Bowler, who helped to kill Henry Werner of Ilion, N. Y.

APPEAL TO COAL USERS.

October 24, 1922.
St. John, N. B.
To the Editor of The Times:
Sir—I want to ask the public looking for American coal to be patient for a moment. He is doing his best to protect his customers in price even to the extent of loss of business. He can obtain American coal at a price—make his profit and let the consumer pay. He is not doing so, but is waiting his chance to buy at regular price. You see the authorities regulated the price at the mines, but did not regulate the wholesaler and broker. We are trying to overcome this. You must do your share by using substitutes. Welsh coal of suitable size gives great satisfaction for kitchen range, set-feeder stoves and furnaces. Soft coal has been used by many in ranges and furnaces.
It is only about seven weeks since the strike was settled, and we have received about 2,500 tons of American coal, with 1,500 tons on the way. A little increase in quantity per month will give our percentage by March 1, 1923. A cargo of stovetops and another of Welsh coal is on the way.
If you have some kind of coal—even though it is not satisfactory as to grade or preparation—why worry?
GEORGE S. CUSHING,
Provincial Fuel Administrator.

LEST WE FORGET.

(Canadian Finance)
When Kipling wrote "The tumult and the shouting dies, the captains and the kings depart," he did not mean the shouting dies. He was thinking along different lines. But for many of us his words may be adapted to a very good purpose. Early this month we had what was called "Fire Prevention Week." Everybody talked Fire Prevention but now the tumult and the shouting dies, and the captains and kings are back at their regular work. Have we learnt the lesson they sought to teach us. As a commencement a Fire Prevention Week is good but until we have Fire Prevention Years which commence on January 1st and end on December 31st, we shall not have done all that we should.

FIFTEEN MINUTES OF RADIO EACH DAY

By Edward N. Davis
Formerly Technical Electrical Expert For U. S. Government

THE ELEMENTS OF RADIO RECEPTION.

The modern radio receiving system must perform in a satisfactory manner five distinct functions and the efficiency with which it accomplishes them determines its relative value as compared to any other set on the same basis. First, the signals must be picked up or intercepted; second, the receiving system must be tuned to the same wave length as the transmitting station; third, the radio frequency signals, in themselves inaudible, must be amplified so as to have plenty of volume of sound when it is reproduced in the fifth step.

For accomplishing the first function, that of interception of the signals as it traverses space in the form of an ether wave, there are two common devices employed. First, we have the well known exterior wire system suspended high above the cat's surface, called the aerial; second, the coil, or frame aerial consisting of several turns of wire on a 8 or 4-foot frame may be substituted for the exterior aerial where signals are strong or amplification is available. Either of these devices when cut by an ether wave has radio frequency current induced in it and thus serves as an interceptor or radio waves.

Tuning may be accomplished in several ways, as adjusting the receiver to resonance with the transmitter is reached by slightly different methods in the various types of receivers. Two circuits are in resonance when they are adjusted to the same wave length and since the wave length is dependent upon the inductance and capacity of the circuit it either or both of these are made so that they may be varied the wave length of the circuit can be changed at will. One, two and three slide tuners, loose couplers and variometers all have sliding contacts, switches or moving coils for varying the inductance of the circuit in which they are placed. Variable air condensers are usually shunted around such coils to furnish additional means of changing the wave lengths.

The third function, that of detection of the radio signal, may be performed by either two devices. A crystal of silicon, galena, molybdenite, carborundum or other similar substance exhibiting one way characteristics when connected in alternating current circuits may be used in the detector when damped or discontinuous waves only are to be received. For more efficient reception of damped waves the vacuum tube detector is commonly employed. In any event the purpose of the detector is to render the radio signal capable of so acting on the telephone receivers as to cause a sound to be heard.

Amplification, the fourth function, is often entirely in the more moderately priced sets, such as the crystal set. In the crystal set all the energy which actuates the telephone receivers, is derived from the signal itself. While in sets having amplifiers, the initial energy serves only to release larger quantities of energy, from a local source to actuate the receivers. Most amplifiers make use of the characteristics of the vacuum tube which causes it to function as an amplifier of alternating current.

Reproduction of the sound omitted at the transmitting station is accomplished at the receiving station by some form of telephone receiver in the case of crystal detector sets and where an amplifier is used sufficient energy may be available to actuate a special form of telephone or loud speaker which throws the sound out into a room so that it may be heard by a number of people sometimes at considerable distance.

RECENT DEATHS

John Hickey.
The death occurred at Point Wolfe, Albert county, on October 8, of John Hickey, aged eighty-five years. The late Mr. Hickey was born in Charlotte town, P. E. I. While a young man he went to Halifax and resided there for some time, later moving to St. John county, where he was employed as bookkeeper and clerk for the Prescott Lumber Company. Finally he moved to Pt. Wolfe, which place was his home for many years. Fifty-one years ago he married Miss Mary Crane, of St. John, who survives him. Ten children were born of this union, of whom the following survive: Three sons—Frederick J., of Great Salmon River; Edward, of St. John; and George Copp, Riverside; Mrs. Harry Wilbous, Pt. Wolfe; Mrs. Warren Sealey, Great Salmon River; Mrs. W. W. Orchard, Deerwood, (Man.); and Miss Nina, at home.

William R. Burns.
A great deal of sympathy will be extended in the city to the relatives of William R. Burns, who died on Monday in Toronto at the age of sixty-five. He was a native of this city, a son of George Watters.

George Watters, a well known and prosperous farmer of Lakerville, near Woodstock, died yesterday morning at his home. He was eighty-six years of age. He leaves five children, a brother and a sister.

James Wallis.
The death of James Wallis, a well known printer and publisher, occurred on Sunday at his home in Yarmouth. He formerly ran the Yarmouth Daily Post but was compelled by failing health to give it up some years ago. He leaves three sons and several daughters.

At a meeting of the local members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association held here last evening, several matters of interest were discussed. H. R. Thompson of Amherst, secretary of the maritime branch of the C. M. A., was present.

PARIS ORGANIST DELIGHTS MANY

Centenary Church Packed to Hear Marcel Dupre in Wonderful Musical Treat—A Scholarly Performance.

Masterpieces from the pen of famous composers, combining magnificent chords, intricate fingering, a beautiful blending of harmony in major and minor passages, delicate and fascinating themes, was the treat accorded St. John music-lovers in Centenary church last evening by Marcel Dupre, organist of Notre Dame Cathedral, Paris. It is the first time in many years that an organist of such high standing visited the city, and he attracted a large and enthusiastic audience, all eager to hear him perform.

The programme was selected from among the classics and was scholarly performed. Mr. Dupre depicting a perfection of finger technique which was a revelation. As some of the beautiful passages were played so plaintively and again with brilliancy and volume, the silence was electric and unfolded breathless moment of beauty in which the player and his great talent were quite forgotten in the perfection of the music itself—the highest achievement of interpretation by a master of all the technical intricacies of his instrument.

To fully appreciate the masterful performance it was essential that the audience have at least some knowledge of music, but it would require a life's study to really absorb the beauty, charm and perfection combined in the evening's entertainment. For that reason many would have greatly appreciated the rendition of one or more of the popular classics with which they are more familiar.

In addition to being a player of unusual merit, Mr. Dupre proved himself a composer of no mean ability when he played his beautiful Preludes and Fugues in G Minor, which he wrote in 1912 and had published in Paris.

The programme was as follows—PROGRAMME: 1. FANTASIE AND FUGUE IN G MINOR... J. S. BACH
In this magnificent work Bach transcends all the music of his time. The Fantasia is a series of gorgeous preambles, with harmonies unheard of in his day. It is a most interesting structure, very important from the point of view. Two different themes, exposed and treated alternatively, are used, as later he used similarly shaped ideas in the development of symphonies. The Fugue, known as the "Great G Minor," is based on a virile, lively theme, which the artist to a freedom unsurpassed by any other mutations, and permits the artist to reconstruct the one-colors employed by Bach himself in his playing.

2. NOEL AVEC VARIATIONS... CHAQUIN
Léonide Claude d'Acquin (1894-1972) was "Organiste et Claveciniste du Roi." This Noel, founded on a popular theme, "Proverbe," (Dorothy and Miss Nora), is a fine example of the XVIIIth Century French organ music. Its delicate developments should be played with a rich organ, provided with soft and delicate stops. Several Noels by d'Acquin were published by the firm of Lesclapart, "Les Archives de l'Orgue."

3. FANTASIE IN A... C. FRANCK
One of the most stirring, the most pathetic—of Franck's pieces, written for the organ, whereas the "Fugue in A" are plainly repeated; the first appearance of the grand form of his three chorals, the supreme expression of his genius. The eighth subject, so tender and contemplative, is no other than a subject for a choral, spreading over the whole work an atmosphere of sweetness and serenity, like a vision of paradise.

4. FINAL OF THE THIRD SYMPHONY... VIERNE
A powerful crescendo, which runs throughout its various presentations; a lively subject, but energetically accented. Concluded by a glorious climax, dominated by the pedal, taking up the subject again in a movement half as quick again.

5. CHIMES... E. BOURDON
This particular successful representation of French chimes, with pure tones, which peel out into the air on a spring morning, we owe to the pen of one of the best modern composers, Mr. Emile Bourdon, organist of the big organ of Monaco Cathedral, whose ten organ pieces have lately been published by the firm of Leduc in Paris, one of the favorite pupils of L. Gillman at the Paris Academy of Music.

6. PRELUDE AND FUGUE IN G MINOR... MARCEL DUPRE
This is one of a set of three preludes and fugues, written in 1912 and published by Leduc of Paris. The theme of the prelude appears first in the pedal, accompanied by murmuring flutes. After a development, it is repeated by the vox celeste stops. The Fugue is animated, clean-cut in rhythm, and with an element of quaint humor throughout. In the middle section the theme of the Prelude appears in the pedal, later in the soprano voice. The conclusion is a combination of the themes of the Prelude and Fugue, with full organ.

7. IMPROVISED SYMPHONY on themes to be submitted by Mr. James S. Ford during the course of the recital. At the close of the programme the great organist played "The Marseillaise," followed by God Save the King.

At the conclusion of the programme Mr. Dupre played "The Marseillaise and God Save the King," thus bringing to an end one of the biggest and most noteworthy musical recitals of the season.

SOME THEORIES ABOUT EGGS ARE SENT SKYWARD

Deep Yellow Yolk Same Food Value as Pale—Color of Shell Does Not Affect Nutritive Values.

"No, I don't want white-shelled eggs. I don't think they are as good as the brown-shelled," one frequently hears a housekeeper remark. Or just as often it is, "I want white-shelled eggs; we don't care for those with brown shells."

Each group is confident they are in the right, but extended investigations made at some of the agricultural experiment stations, in which many analyses were made of eggs from different kinds of hens have shown plainly that there are no uniform variations in the physical properties and chemical composition of the few as compared with white-shelled eggs. Such tests justify the statement that the eggs of any given breed of hens, whatever the color of the shells, are, on an average, as nutritious as those of another breed, provided the eggs are of the same size and freshness and the hens are equally well fed.

The color of the egg content is also a matter of interest with respect to market value and to domestic uses. Many egg white has a more or less greenish tinge, which is apparently influenced by the color of the shell. This tinge, though no specific coloring matter has been isolated from it. When the albumen is coagulated by heat in cooking, the color varies from white to pale greenish or yellowish tones, hard to define, yet distinct. There is a belief that eggs with shells of the same color should show the same color in the cooked whites and that the cooked albumen of white-shelled eggs is decidedly whiter than that of eggs with tinted shells.

Perhaps few persons carry preferences so far as to refuse an egg because of the color of the white. Yet it is stated on good authority that in high-class hotels and restaurants, where great attention is paid to details, it has been found that the boiled eggs served in the shell with shells of the same color should show the same color in the cooked whites and that the cooked albumen of white-shelled eggs is decidedly whiter than that of eggs with tinted shells.

The egg yolk owes its characteristic yellow color to a pigment whose chemical nature has been carefully studied. The depth of the yellow color apparently depends—in large measure, at least—upon the presence of green feed in the ration, and pale-colored yolks indicate that such food is deficient.

Although, as stated above, variations in color do not imply variations in food value, it is not at all unlikely that there are differences in flavor corresponding to the color of the egg yolk, that which is deep yellow having a more pronounced flavor than the pale one. At the same time, as preference for deep-colored yolks and pale whites exists, the poultry raiser who chooses to raise white-shelled eggs is decidedly handicapped.

Flavor of Eggs.
It is generally conceded that eggs which are perfectly fresh have a delicate flavor. After they have been kept for a time the flavor deteriorates, even if there is no indication of spoiling. The flavor of fresh, perfectly fresh eggs is not always satisfactory, since it is influenced more or less by the character of the food eaten by the laying hens. Highly-flavored food such as wild-onion tops and cabbage, may also have a bad effect on the flavor of the eggs produced. This is a matter of importance, especially when poultry is kept to supply eggs for table use.

BOY RESCUES THREE AT FIRE

Drags Ladder to Chimney Burning Home and Saves Family.

Scotsdale, N. Y., Oct. 25.—Delmot D. Bogart, twelve years old, is looked upon today as a hero because he rescued three persons from a burning house.

He was awakened by the screams for help of his chum, Leonard James, nine-year-old son of Arthur James, a neighbor. Delmot saw his chum's home was in flames and rushed out to his father's garage, where he got a ladder. This he dragged across the street and raised it against a porch in the rear of the James home, where Mr. and Mrs. James and Leonard were huddled. The James family then descended the ladder to safety.

The fire caused a loss of more than $15,000.

Then he came to the collar. A deep cape resulted with four rows of fur gathered above the lapels in a crush. Two horizontal pockets, a pull through belt to permit varying drapes, two banded cuffs and a lining of alic blue silk surmounted by oriental flowers made up this new mode in Muskrat—the fur that never fails. WEDDING NOTICE IS FOLLOWED BY BIGAMY ARREST

Dr. John Seddon Held in Philadelphia Under an Indictment Returned in New York.

New York, Oct. 25.—Confronted in Washington by two women claiming to be his wife, and followed to Philadelphia by both and these arrested, charged in this county with bigamy, was the experience of Dr. John Seddon, two years ago of London, but now of Philadelphia, Washington and other places. It was the publication of his marriage in a Philadelphia newspaper that started the investigation and led the two women to combine to bring the doctor to court.

The bigamy complaint was brought by Mrs. Mary Hopper, a well-to-do widow of Langhorne, Pa. They met and after a brief courtship were married in the Municipal Building here on Sept. 25, it is charged. The other woman in this Frances Webb of Atlantic City, who says that exactly two months before his marriage to Mrs. Hopper, she was married to the doctor in Philadelphia.

The investigation that led to the arrest was conducted by a brother of Miss Webb. It resulted in the two women meeting in Philadelphia and comparing notes. Then Mrs. Hopper came to New York and laid the case before Assistant District Attorney John F. O'Neill. Dr. Seddon was indicted by the grand jury.

According to information received at the district attorney's office, the two women went to Washington after a meeting in Philadelphia. They were to disclose the doctor. He was trailed to Washington, however, and was confronted by the two as he entered the Union Station in that city. Both "accomplices" him back to Philadelphia, where he was placed under arrest.

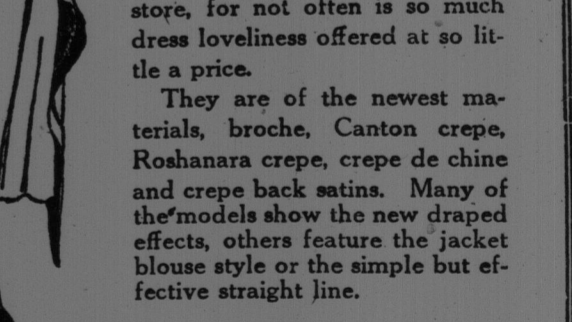

CUBAN CONSUL AWAY.
Senor J. N. Stable, Cuban consul in this city, left today for New York. His reason for not remaining in St. John was ill-health brought on by an attack of bronchitis and a heart affection. He will report directly to the consul-general for the United States in New York, and his place here will be temporarily filled by Senor L. Bravo. Cuban consul in Montreal. Senor Stable has made a great many friends in St. John and was remarkably popular here. Senor Stable was born in Santiago de Cuba and has been about twenty years in the Cuban consular service, serving four years in Germany, ten in Switzerland, two in the United States, two in France, one in Spain, and nearly one year in St. John.

The annual meeting of the Natural History Society was continued in an adjourned session last night in the society's rooms in Union street with Rev. Dr. David Hutchinson, the president, in the chair. The only matter of business before the meeting was the resolution moved by W. F. Hatheway and seconded by Geoffrey Street, that the council of the society be enlarged so as to be composed of seven members instead of twelve. The resolution carried unanimously.

THE HUMAN SIDE OF TOM LAWSON

The Story of Dreamworld, of Love's Nest and a Woman's Grave.

Light in the Window—Property on Which $8,250,000 was Spent Sold Under the Hammer—How Lawson Wrote Frenzied Finance.

Boston papers in recent weeks gave a great deal of space to the affairs of Tom Lawson, who was some years ago described as a wizard of finance. He has fallen upon evil times financially, and his famous property Dreamworld, on the road between Boston and Plymouth, was sold with all its treasures by auction. Those who attended paid five dollars each for the privilege of entering the grounds. The following article appeared in the Boston Sunday Globe a few days before the auction:

"If there were dreams to sell Merry and sad to tell And the cry rang the bell What would you buy?"

Dreamworld is going under the hammer. On the 18th the spectacularly magnificent summer home which "Tom" Lawson made for himself and his family back in the days of his prosperity will pass from his hands forever. "Look, stock and barrel" it will be sold in a two-day auction beginning Oct. 12, and the proceeds will go to satisfy the claims against the estate.

blinded horses on the estate. Near the racing stable is a riding academy, which is said to be unquelled so far as private estates in this country are concerned. It seats 8,000 persons, and is 160 feet long by 120 wide. In this building were held horse shows, and here the Lawson children learned riding. A carriage shed close at hand is 200 feet long and contained, when Dreamworld was at its best, scores of carriages and wheeled vehicles of every description.

On a hill the racing stable is a half-mile race track. There are three dog tracks, and the Lawson children were built to test the speed of some of the products of the racing stable. Next comes the exercise track, and the central enclosure was used as a polo field. The track is in a natural amphitheatre.

Dog lovers found much to interest them at Dreamworld. His kennels contained scores of pedigreed dogs, many of them blue-ribbon winners at Mechanics' Hall and Westminster. The famous Lawson bulldogs were the most conspicuous, but the women visitors went into raptures over the "dream world spaniels," pretty, but rather weedy intermediates between the ordinary King Charles and the Japanese spaniels. For these little yellow and white dogs a special class was made at the annual New England Dog Club show.

The Lawson dairies were once famous. In 1907 they received high praise from the state officials as being models in every particular. At one time the two long cow barns, one 220 feet long and the other 180, housed ninety head of thoroughbred stock which produced 200 quarts of milk a day. At this period Mr. Lawson was taking blue ribbons all over the country with his twenty-two prize bulls.

The poultry farm was another feature of the estate and housed representatives of about every sort of feathered stock. At one time Mr. Lawson made a specialty of pigeons.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Ready-made for $2.00. It is pure, and saves you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup. To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pine in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.00. It is pure, good and pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough of cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be very persistently loose from the formation of inflamed membranes—and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—phlegm. The cause is the same—did, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment, and is famous as a household remedy for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes upon coughs. With directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Finex Co. Toronto, Ont.

were required and for them dormitories and cottages were provided. Gymnasiums were provided for the men, as well as recreation supplies with books and magazines. A miniature fire department, equipped with chemical engine, hose wagon and hook and ladder truck, was manned by a trained force of employes. The overhead expenses were estimated at more than $10,000 a year. In recent years the work force was cut to fifty, and the estate has been run on a greatly reduced scale.

A feature familiar to every passer-by are the really marvelous roses. In summer the low walls surrounding the estate are veiled with masses of crimson ramblers. It is said to be the finest display of rambler roses in the country.

Nothing was allowed to interfere with the realization of Lawson's ideal. From the windows of Dreamworld Hall could be seen in the early days a tall steel standpipe, unobscured, but thoroughly practical for the purposes of the town water system. "Tom" decided to change this. The town fathers gave their permission and presently the standpipe was the core of a picturesque round tower of the old French chateau style, with a chime of ten bells.

It is some years since Dreamworld was in its prime. Since his wife's death Dreamworld is to be sold he says that "having given up my home in Scituate and being desirous of being relieved of the responsibilities of the estate, I have decided to dispose of it to make adjustment with creditors. The trustee under the deed say that this does not mean that he is insolvent.

Bills against the estate total approximately $225,000, of which $80,000 is for taxes. The balance of the money realized by the auction will go to Mr. Lawson.

PRINCE REJECTS HIS ALLOWANCE

$12,000 Not Enough to Pay Debts and Support Him, George Tells Cabinet.

Belgrade, Oct. 25.—Prince George, the eldest son of the late King Peter of Yugoslavia, and until March, 1909, heir to the then Serbian throne, appeared before the Yugoslav Cabinet today and refused the offer of his younger brother, King Alexander, of a civil list of 600,000 dinars, approximately $12,000 annually.

Prince George read a declaration before the members of the cabinet saying that the amount suggested would not suffice to pay his debts and support him in accordance with his rank.

As a Prince Royal, he considered himself entitled to live almost in the same style as the king. Under no condition, he said, would he accept his brother's offer to retire to Nish, Serbia. He declared that such an order would dishonor him, and was equivalent to being interned.

A lively exchange of words took place between certain ministers and the Prince during the meeting. M. Prebitchewitz, minister of public instruction, in speaking treated the Prince as a revolutionary.

"It is you who are the revolutionaries, for you have depouled me of my throne," answered Prince George. British Prince Talked Of.

Public opinion is much disturbed by the prolonged conflict between Prince George, the government and the court. It is not alone considered as a mere incident in the private life of the Prince, but as an indication of his political ambitions.

A great part of the army sides with him, according to the Tribune, while all the discredited minorities and a group of the Croats muster around him to such an extent that there is already talk of removing the Karageorgevitch dynasty and replacing it by a British prince.

BRITISH LORD WHO IS POOR WISHES HE COULD SHED TITLE

London, Oct. 25.—It is hard to be poor yet compelled to hold up one's end as a member of the British nobility. A certain lord writes to a London newspaper:

"I have to wear the tall hat and the tail coat of conventionality. I have to tip well and cheerfully, and at the same time count every penny. When friends from abroad come to town I have to entertain them, which is a pleasure, but oh! the plotting and the planning and mean little economies that I have to practice! Without a title I should be a comparatively happy man. But I inherited it and I cannot shed it.

"A wealthy American once said to me: 'You British peers have a jolly good time!' I tried to explain to him that we too had responsibilities, but he countered this by saying, 'I would give anything to be a man of title.' I would have given a great deal to be plain 'Mr.' with his money."

HAT IS WOMAN'S ENEMY.

Paris, Oct. 25.—Women are hiding the light of beautiful hair beneath a bushel of ridiculous hats, according to Monsieur Marcel, the fiftieth anniversary of whose invention—the Marcel wave—is to be celebrated here by the hairdressers of France today.

"There can be no really popular beautiful mode of dressing women's hair so long as women hide their tresses and curls beneath unsightly picture hats and laughable toques," Marcel declared today. "The present day hat is the enemy of women's best appearance. A beautiful mode of dressing hair cannot exist as long as women grasp their head-gear and pull it down over their hair with a rush.

"While no specially beautiful coil-ure will be invented until women's hats are made suitable to receive it, a new style of dressing hair is coming into fashion this winter. It is a Greek coil-ure—an adaptation of a mode of 800—in which the hair is brought to the back of the head and with the aid of hair waving is converted into a mass of curls."

The Sunshine class of the Charlotte street Baptist church held its weekly meeting last night at the home of Miss Reta Carleton in King street, West End. One of the interesting features of the evening was the entertainment provided by a ventriloquist. Plans were made for a rummage sale to be held this week. An enjoyable evening was spent and dainty refreshments were served.

ONE OUT OF EVERY 17 BIRTHS IN B. C. IS NOW A JAP!

In Last Ten Years, Canada Has Lost 1,288,000 People to U. S.—Ottawa Women Hear Startling Immigration Figures—Lonely Isolated Women Call to Their Sex to Study Nation's Problems.

British Columbia statistics show that in 1910 Japanese births in that province were about 1 to 233 white births, in 1914 about 1 in 61; but in 1920 about 1 in 17!

From 1911-22 there have been more Japanese women than men admitted to Canada!

Such were the startling figures given in an address, "Some Aspects of Our Immigration Problem," at the annual meeting of the Ottawa Women's Club by Miss Charlotte Whitton, Convener of Immigration for the National Council of Women.

Startling figures of Canada's increasing numbers of the yellow races and her loss of 1,288,000 Canadians in ten years to the states were sensational features of Miss Whitton's address. In beginning her survey of Canada's immigration problem, Miss Whitton pointed out that the first aspect is perhaps its financial one. As the result of war and war's aftermath, a Canadian generation yet unborn would know a mortgage heritance. Canada, with a population of 8,769,484, finds herself with a net national debt of $2,477,266,298 in 1922, where in 1914, it had been $838,000,000. As a result, every Canadian today was facing a per capita obligation of $276.00, as his or her share of the national debt. Interest charges alone ran up to over $10.50 per capita. Adding to this the necessary expenditure of national administration and development, it was evident that the responsibility of citizenship in Canada today, was not light. But with that, the deposits held by the general public in the Canadian banks in 1921, averaged $209,222 per capita, compared with $55 in 1914, so that the finances of the public were sound. But taxation assessed from the angle of raising revenue solely, without reference to the taxability of the units of the nation would be disastrous.

Canada's recovery from her financial burdens would depend on broadening the base of her population. 8,769,000 people were scattered over Canada's 3,862,910 square miles of land, whereas her railway deficits, her wrong balances, would be advantageously affected by the development of her natural resources, by increased population for this purpose, which in turn makes possible increased production in all fields of national endeavor; and consequent invasion of foreign markets. Every settler placed in Canada's best lands meant $746.83 annually to the Railways alone, in tonnage and passenger traffic; apart from all other contribution to national development and hence reduction of the National Debt.

Hence, Miss Whitton declared, all organizations such as the Council of Women, etc., must concentrate on this arm of the increase of Canada's population by carefully selected immigration, and the retention that immigration to Canada's industrial situation at a given time the revival of this nation's prosperity than the settlement of Canada's uncultivated lands by desirable immigrants, carefully selected and judiciously and scientifically aided in their undertakings.

What Canada Offers.

But it will be folly to throw our national strength into building up immigration unless we can retain those who bring.

Canada has to offer 300,000,000 acres of agricultural land, of which only one-sixth is under crop, at least 20,000,000 being tributary to existing railways in a belt of land 15 miles wide. Of 178,000,000 acres fit to farm in the prairie provinces only 85,347,000 is under cultivation.

Yet what do we find? From 1881-1921 we admitted 4,784,790 immigrants. Of these 1,750,754 came from the British Isles, but 1,478,017 from the United States, 1,056,019 from other countries. In the 20 years from 1900 to 1921 we admitted 3,677,311, or over three-quarters of the total, while over one-quarter of the total immigration admitted in the years 1911, 12, 13, 14. In those 4 years Canada admitted on the average immigrants a day. The high water mark was reached in 1913, when an average of 1,102 immigrants a day were admitted in Canada and abroad this Dominion spent from 1900-19, $19,847,694 and what happened? In 1911 by our census we have 7,226,648; our immigration, 1911-1921 brought 1,975,938; our natural increase in population amounted to 1,836,407; we should have had in Canada 11,018,443; but our census in 1921 shows 8,769,484! Canada has lost 2,248,959 in ten years—a proportion out of all relation to our war losses or losses from natural causes. And if we look in U. S. A. reports we find that in 1910 there were 1,204,837 former Canadian citizens living in the United States, and that from 1903-1919, 1,288,000 Canadians entered the United States for permanent residence, while in 1920 Canada could not distribute more immigrants to the U. S. A. than any country except Italy.

But this movement southward is bound up with the movement from country to city, and it will only be checked, and the immigrant will only be retained when we can make life on the land attractive, when we as Canadian citizens, dedicate ourselves to binding the foreign-born, the new-comer Britisher and the Canadian together. We blame the immigrant for becoming a public patient in a hospital, for needing public relief, and lay the blame on him or her, as an immigrant, when the fault is not in the immigrant but in the circumstance. A Canadian, in or out of luck, or in trouble, his friends or relatives, or connections to save him or her from entering a public institution or requiring public funds. The immigrant, alone, friendless, unacquainted with our customs, has only the chance of public assistance to seek, and then we speak of him as an "undesirable," often there is nothing undesirable in the person, he or she is alone and strange in a strange land.

Present Day Problem.

Canada's present problem is not one of the war. From 1901-1911, Canada's growth and expansion were unparalleled, but population poured in to be absorbed in the building of railways and mines—the drift south and to the cities was not evident, then, but very shortly, when the railways were complete more than half of her immigrants flocked to the cities. By 1913, our wheat export trade was ceasing to balance our national debts and credits, and in 1914, the cities of Canada were facing a crisis as bad as that of 1920-1921. The war enlistment and industries simply postponed the situation until after the war.

Now the current is starting again. Last year, 1920, immigration from Great Britain increased 25 per cent. over 1919-20. From the U. S. A., 3 per cent.; from the continent, 224 per cent.; from Japan, 25 per cent.; from China, 347 per cent., though decreasing 23 per cent. from the average 1910-20. While the total immigration increased 27 per cent. In 1921-22 immigration decreased 39 per cent. due largely, no doubt, to the barrier of the emigration Council, 2668. Immigration from the United Kingdom had decreased 47 per cent. in the year; from the U. S. A., 49 per cent.; from other countries, 17 per cent.; from China, 28 per cent.; from Japan, 11 per cent. Of the immigrants entering, approximately 43 per cent. came from the United Kingdom; 3 per cent. from the United States; 4 per cent. continental; 2 per cent. from China and Japan. The decrease in 1921-22 was not because of non-desire of others to enter Canada, but because of restrictions, necessary in Canada's interests. If Canada would it, thousands were at her gates, but she must select her immigrants for their own good, as well as her own.

The immigration problem presented itself from three angles—the matter of temporary restrictions, governed by Canada's industrial situation at a given time; the question of certain agreed principles of permanent restriction and the question of Oriental immigration. The question of a certain minimum standard of health, morality, mentality and literacy being demanded of all immigrants—was the best method of enforcing them. Temporary restrictions tending immigrants was one on which all sincere Canadians were agreed. The such as P. C. 2668 were decided by the Canadian situation at a given time.

The Oriental question was one of decision as to whether Canada's policy should be restriction or total exclusion. Canada's attitude had always been one related to a just personal exclusion. The continuous passage cause operated that in the last 10 years, scarcely 100 Hindus had entered Canada. Japanese immigration was restricted to a limited number each year by the Lemieux Agreement of 1908. Since that time to March 31, 1921, 16,694 have been admitted, of which 7,280 entered 1911-1921. Of the Japanese citizens in Canada in 1921, 84.7 per cent. were in British Columbia. Of those entering 1911-21, 97 per cent. went to British Columbia. In the census of Japanese in Canada, Oct. 1, 1920, 95 per cent. (16,897) were in British Columbia. While 3,110 Japanese entered Canada 1914-19; 3,692 were born in Canada in that time. The Chinese head tax has netted over $1,100,000 annually to Canada—since 1906.

In 1911, there were in Canada, 27,063 Chinese, of whom 29.4 per cent. were in British Columbia. Admissions 1911-21 numbered 29,021, of whom (29,374) 80.5 per cent. went to British Columbia. Of these only 856 were women.

In 1911, there were in Canada 4,092 Japanese males to 100 females, in B. C. 608. These are the facts which British Columbia's women bring to our conventions, these are the problems our sisters from that province claim are as much ours as theirs. And this whole field of Oriental immigration and our attitude on admission, and our treatment after admission was one that must be part of the study of any woman's group on this subject. But granted the settlement of restrictions on these lines, Canada's problem becomes essentially one of inducement and development of immigration. Her railways, her unsettled acreage, her natural resources demand it. We have 23 persons per square mile, and 1 mile or railway for every 296.3 of our population (in the west 1 for every 110), where the United Kingdom has 574 people per square mile and 1 mile of railway to every 1,804 of population.

But Canada cannot absorb for some time to come, industrial workers, except in limited quantities. She seeks the agricultural settler with capital, for her free homesteads are exhausted. And seeks him with Australia in the field as her great British competitor, Australia, whom the Financial Post claims is securing 600,000 British this year under the Empire Settlement Scheme. The United States, by virtue of the great number of her citizens who have relatives in other lands, is also a great inducement. She is also a great inducement by her free homesteads and equitable terms, adequate transportation fair rates and good marketing facilities. But the question of retention depended on the extent to which a man and his wife were made happy in their new community. The psychology of a lonely, isolated woman becoming discontented and unhappy was often left out of immigration calculation. Canada's women could play a great part in the absorption of the new-comer into our life.

In closing, the speaker directed attention to the Canadians in the U. S. A., to Britain's 10,000,000 surplus population, to the U. S. A., the Scandinavian countries, Holland and Switzerland as the sources of possible immigration.

MARINE LOSSES IN WAR GIVEN OUT IN GERMANY

Berlin, Oct. 23—(A. P. by Mail)—With time at his command to make a careful investigation, and the disposition to delve into statistics, Dr. Christian Siegfried Toech-Mittler, a German publicist, has announced that a total of 19,800,000 tons of enemy merchant shipping was sunk by German submarines during the war. Of this aggregate, he says 14,300,000 tons went down during the unrestricted campaign beginning on February 1, 1917, including 12,300,000 tons in English ships.

Dr. Toech-Mittler gives the total German shipping losses during the war as follows: One ship of the line (the Pommer, lost in the Skagerrack attack); seven armor-clad cruisers (of which the newest and largest was the Luettow, of 26,000 tons, and launched in 1913, also lost at the Skagerrack); seventeen protected cruisers, ten gunboats, three special ships, two surveying vessels lost at Tsingtau, forty-eight large, twenty-four small and thirty-eight old torpedo boats of various sizes; twenty-eight mine-sweepers, 199 submarines, seventeen auxiliary cruisers, twenty-two other auxiliary vessels, and more than 100 fishing steamers. In addition thirty naval balloons were lost, some through fire from land, some because of storms, and others on account of landings on enemy soil.

The sinkings at Scapa Flow are given as five large cruisers, ten ships of the line, five small cruisers, and thirty-two torpedo boats. Dr. Toech-Mittler describes these sinkings as "a noble self-chosen fate which atoned for the damage done the honor of Germany by the revolution and which manifested to the enemy the German defiance."

LIGHTNING STRUCK PLANE
Lack of Connection With Earth Saved Airship.

Speculation on the possible fate of an airplane struck by lightning while in the air has been set at rest by the experience of Capt. E. D. C. Herne, whose plane was recently hit by a bolt while halfway across the English Channel on a flight between London and Paris. The plane was unharmed and neither Capt. Herne nor his mechanic suffered discomfort. The Indian population has been slightly increasing for sometime; and in many parts of Canada we have flourishing groups of natives, fast adopting our methods of earning a livelihood and clamoring for an education.

The Dominion Government realizes the importance of providing proper educational facilities for its wards, and to pass into the direct path of the bolt, but escaped disaster because of the lack of connection with the earth. The plane, with its content of metal, afforded a halfway stopping point for the discharge, but the flash lasted so short a time that the metal did not become heated. After spreading on the surface of the wings, the bolt again concentrated and proceeded down the trailing wire antenna to the water beneath.—Pop. Science Monthly.

EDUCATION OF THE INDIAN

(Prepared under the Direction of Dr. Duncan C. Scott, Deputy Superintendent General of Indian Affairs, by Mr. Russell T. Ferris, Superintendent of Indian Education.)

The familiar "Red Man" of history and romance is fast becoming a figure of the past. In his stead, we find the Indian of today, once again a virile, strong type that is being assimilated rapidly into the composite Canadian race. Association with the white man has won a partial immunity from the diseases that played such havoc with the health of the Indian at the time of his initial contact. The Indian population has been slightly increasing for sometime; and in many parts of Canada we have flourishing groups of natives, fast adopting our methods of earning a livelihood and clamoring for an education.

The Dominion Government realizes the importance of providing proper educational facilities for its wards, and operating provide further funds to finance them. These grants are supplemented from Indian Trust Funds when they are available.

Special training or assistance is offered to the promising graduates of the day and residential schools. About ninety young Indian men and women are attending high schools and colleges in Canada. Financial assistance and careful supervision for these special pupils are arranged for by the Department of Indian Affairs. Other energetic graduates are given grants for stock, implements, household equipment or building material. This programme has been a great stimulant to progress and has resulted in early independence.

An important factor in the general scheme is field work. In addition to nearly forty field matrons and graduate nurses who are working on the reserve, day school teachers, Indian agents, missionaries, and farm instructors take an active interest in the affairs of the Indian in his own habitat. Housewives and mothers are being raised and clean living is promoted. Although the work is slow the forces of the Church and State combine to create steady progress.

The promotion committee of the Maritime Baptist convention held a night session last night in the Grand street Baptist Institute, with Dr. H. T. DeWolfe, of Wolfville, presiding. Seventeen members were present and before the meeting the committee was entertained at supper by the Institute by the Philadelphians of the Grand street church.

Owing to a high wind today they were unable to continue their efforts, but will do so as soon as weather conditions are more favorable.

MRS. PARKER NOW CHARGED WITH MURDER

Change is Made in Connection With Case Arising from Death of Girl—Preliminary Hearing Begun.

Mrs. Bessie Parker, held in connection with the death of Mary Emily Frontin now faces a formal charge of murder. E. J. Henneberry announced this morning that he had been instructed by the attorney-general to have the charge against Mrs. Parker changed from one of procuring abortion to one of murder and the preliminary hearing was begun. E. S. Ritchie appeared for the defense. Evidence was given by Thomas Frontin, father of the dead girl, Dr. C. M. Kelly and Dr. Anna Creighton and the case postponed until Friday morning at eleven o'clock. The hearing this morning was marked by some sharp clashes between counsel as to the admissibility of certain portions of evidence much of which was of a technical nature.

The Evidence.
Thomas Frontin said his daughter died in the General Public Hospital on October 2. He had first observed that she was ill about eight or ten days before she had gone to the hospital. He had called Dr. McDonald in and after his visit the girl had gone to the hospital. She was twenty years old in May. She had worked for the N. B. Telephone Company. He had not known her condition before she went to the hospital.

To Mr. Ritchie he said he had not called any other doctor than Dr. McDonald in the eight or ten days before she had gone to the hospital. She stopped working for the telephone company in the latter part of July.

Dr. C. M. Kelly said he knew the girl in the hospital. He had seen her first on Friday, September 29. He had got an account of her condition from Dr. Creighton. He had found evidence of peritonitis and had told her that she would have to be operated upon. He told of the operation.

Dr. Creighton had assisted him and Dr. McDonald had been present at the first operation.

Dr. Anna Creighton, an interne at the General Public Hospital, said she had been present when the magistrate was at the hospital. The dead girl had made a written declaration and she had seen her sign it. She had been present when the accused had been brought to the hospital.

To Mr. Ritchie she said there had been a detective there at the time. She understood that the accused had been brought to the hospital by the authorities.

Mr. Ritchie took the objection that it had not been pointed out to the deceased that the accused was under arrest.

Dr. Creighton said she had heard the deceased say "Yes, Judge" and that was all she could swear to.

To Mr. Ritchie she said she could not remember whether the accused was present when the statements of the deceased were reduced to writing.

St. John Needs Beware

A Striking Halifax Warning to The Voters in The Coming Election

(Halifax Herald.)

The persistency of corporation interests in the endeavor to control municipal utilities is exemplified in the continued efforts of the New Brunswick Power Company to bring our sister city St. John under its heel. The city commissioners decided some months ago to hold for the people control of light and power and refused to make a contract which would give the city over to the Power Company. But the company appears to have an aggressive advocate in the person of Mayor McLellan; the question has been kept pending, and the situation will no doubt continue to be manipulated in the hope of wearying citizens, city commissioners, city council, and possibly winning out in the end.

The matter was again before the city commissioners a few days ago; but they stood solidly by the policy of city control—the mayor alone favoring the company. Just now the commissioners are firm in their stand, and it may be hoped that they will remain steadfast; but they will need to be on guard. The interests back of such concerns as the Power Company do not rest or sleep; they are on the job morning, noon and night, waiting for an opening that will give them a chance to win, and ready to take advantage of the chance. We know too well how it worked out in this city.

UTILITIES BOARD IN SESSION HERE

Farmers' Rural Telephone Co. Refused Long Distance Connection With N. B. Company—Issue of Securities Approved—Other Matters Up.

The New Brunswick Utilities Commission, in session here this morning, dismissed an application from the Farmers' Rural Telephone Co., Ltd., operating in the Kingston peninsula, for permission to make long distance connection with the New Brunswick Telephone Co., Ltd., chairman of the board, presided. An application by J. S. Leighton on behalf of the Farmers' Telephone Co. with head office at Hartland, for an order to increase their rates, was adjourned until the November meeting.

In the matter of application of the Farmers' Rural Telephone Co., Ltd., for permission to issue debentures amounting to $325,000 was granted.

The application of the Maine and New Brunswick Electric and Power Co., Ltd., for approval of an issue of $250,000 securities for further development of the plant and an issue of $275,000 to retire outstanding indebtedness. After hearing further evidence the board approved the issue and an order was issued accordingly. E. L. Gould, vice-president of the company, presented his case.

A few matters of routine nature were disposed of and the board adjourned until next month.

BIG RALLY IN HYDRO CAMPAIGN

Campaign Headquarters of G. Fred Fisher to be Scene of Great Activity Tonight—Details of Organization.

This evening at eight o'clock a grand rally to mark the opening of the headquarters of G. Fred Fisher in the coming hydro campaign will be held. The organization has taken rooms in the hall in Coburg street near the corner of Union, and this location will be the scene of great activity going to remain until November 18, when the people of the city will be afforded an opportunity to strike a blow for hydro at cost. The people's candidate and several of the leaders in the fight for the right of the citizens to enjoy the benefits of the Musquash development will discuss plans for the campaign with the workers.

With the election only three weeks away no time is being lost in building up a fighting organization which is intended to make its work thorough. The definite stand taken by many representative citizens in signing the nomination papers of Mr. Fisher has strengthened the hands of those working for the interests of the people, and at the same time has taken a great deal of wind out of the sails of backers of the New Brunswick Power Company's cause.

Tonight's meeting will be of an informal nature, the idea being to lay down plans of organization. The issue of the campaign is clear beyond doubt. It is this—Is the city going to remain tied up to a public utility which has offered no means of industrial expansion or of cutting living costs to their proper level; or is it going to cut loose from this mill-stone and accept the opportunity of power and light at greatly reduced rates. "Power at Cost" is the slogan and it is the ace card in the hand of the Fisher organization.

GRAND LIGNE MISSION REPORT

Matter Relative to Catholics Taken Up at Baptist Convention in Toronto.

Toronto, Oct. 25.—At the Baptist convention here yesterday, M. F. McCutcheon, reporting for the Grand Ligne Mission said that evangelism among the French Catholics was progressing slowly but surely. Out of 165 persons enrolled at Feller Institute, he said that thirty were from Catholic homes. Bible women and catechists had entered 1,700 Catholic homes in which they had read 955 chapters of the Bible.

Rev. George MacFaul, of Ottawa, made an aggressive speech, defending missions among Roman Catholics who had a splendid influence in the community. On the upper Gatineau also was noted "a manifest dissatisfaction with Romanism."

Rev. J. K. Pettit, of Oil City, raised the question while Rev. George MacFaul of Ottawa, was discussing missions work among Catholics, he said "do not know their Bible and they do not know the Church of Rome." The trial and fate of Adelard Delorme, Catholic priest, was discussed by the Baptist convention.

FORD GAINING AT LAST REPORT

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 25.—Capt. Morrissey set up his stayall at 1.10 and at once the Ford began to overhaul the Bluebird. In ten minutes the U. S. boat had cut the lead of the Bluebird to a half mile and was holding a better breeze. The race instead of being a Canadian affair became an exciting contest again.

At 1.20 the boats were within four miles of the second mark, with the Bluebird leading by 700 yards.

My son has been laid up for nearly four years with rheumatism in his right ankle. THE medicine of Tanlac as a family medicine is again very forcibly demonstrated in the home of Mrs. Josephine Decker, 1112 Bank St., Baltimore. After putting this splendid tonic to the test with herself and three children, Mrs. Decker says:

"John Frank, aged six, and Carolina, who is four, both complained of headaches, pains in the stomach and were very restless at night. They had no appetites, were thin and pale, and took no interest in play or anything else. After Joseph Paul, two years old, was in just about the same fix, I could not get him to eat, he was very thin and pale. They have taken about two bottles of Tanlac each now, and health is a happy thing. I certainly have good reasons for praising Tanlac." The experience of the Decker family is only typical of thousands of others.

BEGGAR HAS A RANCH AND $3,000 SEDAN

Legless Man, Arrested, Drives Policeman in Car to Station

Displays Five Bank Books—Held in $500 Bail, He Offers to Quit City if Case is Dropped—Lives in His Auto.

New York, Oct. 25.—Frederick Hammill, a legless beggar, who has five bank books and a ranch in North Dakota, drove the detective who arrested him for begging to the West Thirtieth street station in a $3,000 sedan and later insisted on taking his captor and himself to Night Court in a taxicab.

"What were you to court with the hump," he asked the station, pointing to other beggars and noting offenders who were about to be crowded into the police wagon. Hammill was told that he could not drive around any longer in his sedan, but he was permitted to hire a taxicab and ride comfortably to court with Detective Nathaniel Snyder of the 100th Precinct. As a beggar de luxe, Hammill in every way surpassed the young mendicant who was lately a guest at the Hotel Marlborough on Broadway, who, too, traveled in his own automobile. Hammill drove around the country cooking and sleeping in his car, a big sedan, fitted with a kitchenette and a small bed and a trunk. He made $2,000 a month, mostly from passing by. I never saw a beggar get money faster. I stayed close to him for half an hour and he made me $200. He made $2,000 in that time and I thought that was enough.

Mrs. Wm. Robinson, Yonkers, N.Y., writes: "I suffered from stomach and liver trouble, and used to have bilious attacks so bad that I could do nothing for weeks at a time. My stomach would be so weak that not even a drink of water would stay on it. On my sister's advice, I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and must say that they have made me feel like a new woman."

ISMET PASHA ONE OF VON DER GOLTZ ABLEST PUPILS

A Professional Soldier, He Received Training at Potsdam—Still a Young Man.

General Ismet Pasha has been in command of the Western Turkish front since the spring of 1920, with his G. H. Q. at Ak-Shehr, about sixty miles east of Atsum-Karabissar, on the Bagdad Railway. He is an Anatolian Turk, and like all the officers of the Turkish Nationalists army, is still a young man between forty and forty-five years old.

From Kemal down, there are no high officers in the present Turkish army who can be accounted old. Fevzi Pasha, Chief of the Turkish General Staff, is the oldest. He will never see fifty again.

Like Kemal Ismet is a professional soldier, but, unlike Kemal, he supplemented his course at the Turkish War Academy in Constantinople with a course Potsdam in Germany, where he was one of von der Goltz's ablest pupils. He did not share the hatred for the Germans which made Kemal so unpopular at Constantinople during the war, possibly because he has been exclusively a soldier, and has never succumbed to that temptation to become a politician which played havoc with the careers of so many Turkish officers before the war, and which first broke and then made Kemal's career, says "C." in the Express.

Physique of Iron. Ismet has stuck to his trade from first to last. He is a slight figure of a man, rather neat in his left eye, but with a physique of iron, and a brain which has built up the western front out of practically nothing. He took command at Ak-Shehr when the Greeks were already well into the hinterland of Smyrna. In his rear at Angora, Kemal and Fevzi Pasha were creating the Turkish army of today out of the dismantled artillery and demobilized troops which the armistice of 1918 had left them.

In the meantime Ismet had been given the task of holding up any further Greek advance until the army was ready to drive the Greeks back into the sea. He had a front of over 800 miles to cover, running in a great semi-circle from the Meander Valley in the south to the shores of the Sea of Marmara in the north.

Waiting Two Years. That was two years ago. For these two years Ismet has been engaged in sitting tight and waiting—probably as difficult a task as any soldier can be given. Some weeks ago the time had finally come when Kemal and Fevzi were ready, and at dawn of August 29 last Ismet struck. The result of that Turkish offensive all the world knows. But Smyrna was not the ultimate objective. Ismet continued his advance towards Adrianople and the Turkish Nationalist government, ordered Ismet Pasha, the man who could wait, went into conference with the Allied generals at Constantinople to determine the terms of an armistice preliminary to a peace conference.

CAMPAIGN OPENS IN ST. STEPHEN

A large audience gathered in the parish hall of the Presbyterian church in St. Stephen on Monday evening when the St. Stephen Red Cross society presented an attractive programme as an opening of their membership campaign. Mrs. G. A. Kuhring was present and one of the spectacles of the Red Cross program was given, illustrating her address on the ideals and urgency of the Red Cross peace programme. In addition to this, the local society presented two beautiful tableaux, "The Greatest Mother in the World," and "Be Yours to Hold It High." Mrs. Ross, Mrs. N. Marie Mills and Miss Murray were the stage managers. L. Smith acted very ably as the Historian and the St. Croix orchestra played several delightful numbers. Walter deWolfe, president of the society, was in the chair. The program was beautifully decorated with flags and the children and others taking part were much applauded as the various features were presented. The Red Cross peace programme has been taken up most enthusiastically in St. Stephen and there is every prospect of an eminently successful campaign there.

A NOTABLE LIFE

Lady Georgiana Peel, Dead Recently, was in Close Touch With Prominent People of Victorian Age.

London, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press)—Lady Georgiana Peel, whose death occurred recently, the daughter of the famous prime minister, Lord John (afterwards Earl) Russell, knew intimately many of the great personages of the Victorian age. She remembered, as a little child, being taken into the dressing room of Queen Victoria and being danced around the room by the queen, then only a little more than twenty years of age, and when her streaming all over her shoulders.

Lady Georgiana treasured several little things given her by Queen Victoria, whose marriage she could just remember. One was a China doll dressed in Chinese clothes. She remembered, too, as a child of eleven, going over to Ireland with her father, to stay with the lord lieutenant. She went with her father to Vienna on the mission of peace after the Crimean War, and during his term of office, while they lived at Pembroke Lodge, given him by the queen, and in Chestnut Place, she met everyone of note at the time, including Dickens, Thackeray, Macaulay, Bright, Lord Brougham, Garibaldi, Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone, Longfellow, Tennyson, Melbourne and Clarendon.

Lady Georgiana's marriage to Archibald Peel, son of General and Lady Alice Peel, and nephew of Sir Robert Peel, was a union of Whig and Tory. After their marriage, they lived chiefly in the country, and brought up a large family of children. After her husband's death, 1910, the king gave her the Cardinal's House in Hampton Court Palace as a residence.

Lady Georgiana was beloved by everyone who knew her for her cheerful, witty talk, her kindness, her charm, and above all, the never-failing gay courage with which she met all the incidents of life. She never showed depression, but was always glad to see her friends, and interested in all they had to say. She was the centre of a large and devoted family, both her own and her step-children, and for them, and for many of her friends, the blank she has left will never be filled.

"How is your son getting along at college?"

"I think the boy is going to do me honor."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. The football coach already considers him sufficiently promising to be photographed for the press." — Birmingham Age-Herald.

MILK PRODUCED ON ROUGHAGE ALONE

Cow Under Test Gave 14-210 Pounds of Milk on Alfalfa Hay and Silage.

Toronto, Oct. 24.—A mature Holstein cow was pastured on irrigated, tame grass at the Department farm at Huntley, Ontario. During the winter months she received nothing but corn silage and alfalfa hay. She was under test and was milked three times a day. For 140.5 days and 98 nights she was on pasture. During the rest of the year she consumed 9,014 pounds of alfalfa hay and 8,988 pounds of corn silage, a rather large amount of bulky feed. While this ration was fed the cow maintained her weight at practically what it was at the beginning of the test, and produced 14,210.1 pounds of milk and 470.24 pounds of butter fat. For the 12 months following the next fattening this same cow was milked three times a day and given, in addition to roughage, all the grain she would eat. The surprising fact is that she ate 7,056 pounds of grain and practically the same amount of roughage as before. The actual quantities of roughage were 10,053 pounds of alfalfa hay, 8,228 pounds of silage and 4,230 pounds of beets. She was on pasture 180 days and no nights. The milk production for the year was 25,499.4 pounds and butter fat 823.11 pounds, and the gain in weight 200 pounds.

But notice the difference in the nutrients required to produce the product the first year and the second year, when 75 per cent. more butter fat was produced. The first year, over and above maintenance and in addition to pasture, the cow consumed for each 100 pounds of butter fat 156.37 pounds of digestible protein and 558.69 pounds of total digestible nutrients, and for each 1,000 pounds of milk yielded she used 51.7 pounds of digestible protein and 184.8 pounds of total digestible nutrients.

COUNTRY COUSIN.

English People Who Have Never Been to London.

How many thousands of people are there living in the country who have never been to London? asks a correspondent of a London paper. Traveling through Worcester the other day, he writes, on a branch line of the Midland Railway, I got into conversation with an old man, very hale and hearty, of the agricultural type, who entered the train at a wayside station.

When I mentioned that I was traveling "up to town," he asked, "Which town?" and when, rather surprised at his query, I said "London," his look of mild interest caused me to ask him if he had ever been there. "No, sir," he said, "I have never been farther than surrounding towns like Bristol, Gloucestershire and Cheltenham, and there are thousands like me in these parts."

"But wouldn't you like to go to London?" I asked. "Oh, I don't know," he replied. "If I did go, I darsay I should get lost, and anyway I am told it costs a heap of money to go and stay there."

A MESSAGE FROM OLD WORLD TO THE NEW

A Guide's Remark, But It Conveys a World of Meaning.

(Canadian Finance)

Mrs. McWilliams, a worthy citizen of Winnipeg, recently returned from an extensive tour through Europe, and brought with her a timely message from the old world to the new. This message had its origin in the commonplace remark of an Italian guide, Marcellino, at the wonderful buildings and scenic beauty of both the ancient and modern sections of the city of Rome. Mrs. McWilliams expressed her astonishment to her guide, and he replied in words which are worthy of admiration and emulation. "But we build for ever." What a wealth of meaning there is in that sentence, and how clearly it sets forth the great difference between the old world and the new.

Canada is a new country, but it is a great country, because the fathers of confederation built for all time to come. The Canadians who fought in Flanders Field were great Canadians because they built for the future. The men who built the Canadian Pacific Railway were great men because they had a vision—a vision which came true. It was the thing that carried them on from near failure to success.

And yet all around us today we have men who live for today, who pay no heed to tomorrow, who imagine that individuals and nations can do great things in a day, who pronounce judgment on any project which cannot be completed in a year or so and deem it to failure.

"We build for ever." What a great objective for a young people! To the business man it means that he will give and demand a square deal—how else can he build a business that will stand the test of time? To our governments it means that every immigrant shall be a Canadian in the making—how else can we build a great nation? To our city fathers it means that they will courageously tackle civic problems with a view to the future—how else can we get great cities? To us, the citizens of the west, it means a wonderful opportunity to really make good. Surely, "there today and gone tomorrow" is a phrase that has been played out. We are here to stay and our sons and daughters will succeed in it. In all our undertakings we can profitably keep before us the words of the Italian guide, "We build for ever." Let us get as far away from the "there today and gone tomorrow" of our forefathers had vision and built accordingly—we can and should do likewise.

According to ancient tablets strikes exceeded 8000 years ago.

BAKER'S COCOA

"My mother and my mother's mother used it, and I have used it all my life. There never has been anything better, never anything quite so good. Indeed, it seems to me that Baker's Cocoa is better and better as time goes by. No other cocoa seems to have such a delicious flavor or such an attractive color."

Walter Baker & Co., by processes peculiar to their method of manufacture and by the use of the most improved machinery have produced a cocoa which can be and is used as a standard for purity in chemical analyses.

BANDIT POSING AS SHERIFF

ROBS ALL CARS OF LIQUOR

Fort William, Ont., Oct. 23.—A modern Dick Turpin, who poses as a sheriff of Cook county, Minnesota, is operating on the Scott Highway, an automobile road connecting Fort William with Duluth. "With a congenial 'Sorry, folks, this is my duty,' the highwayman is reported to be relieving southbound cars of any liquor they might be taking back. He stops the cars with a gun.

Provincial police on the Canadian side are on the lookout, while United States officials are searching the woods below Pigeon River bridge for the bandit who halts and searches cars "in the name of the United States government." So far as has been reported, he has not touched valuables excepting Canadian whiskey.

"No matter in what way I am cooked—just a few drops of Lea & Perrins' Sauce and you'll enjoy me infinitely more than without it."

GOOD food is made all the better by the addition of a few drops of Lea & Perrins'. It enhances the flavor of full-flavored meat dishes. Its piquancy to quite ordinary dishes. Its wonderful strength makes it most economical to use.

BATTLE ON FLOOR OF THE EXCHANGE

Operations of Oposing Speculative Forces Cause Irregular Price Movements in Wall Street.
New York, Oct. 25.—(10.30)—Operations of opposing speculative forces were responsible for the irregular course of prices at the opening of today's market. Shares of eastern railroads, Mexican Oil companies and a number of specialties were in good demand, but some of the steel, equipment and motor shares were under pressure. Heading and Western Maryland 2nd Pfd was the most active stock, rising 1 1/4 points, the former at 85-3/4, up 1 1/4. Other strong spots in the rail group were Western Maryland common, Jersey City, Great Northern Pfd and N. Calif. C, up 3-4 to 8 points. Mexican Oil shares were under professional pressure, yielding 1-8 points. Standard Oil of California, Houston Oil, American Gas also were heavy.
Noon Report.
New York, Oct. 25.—(noon)—Continuation of record coal shipments found expression in the brisk demand for shares of coal carrying railroads, many of which registered substantial gains. Some of the other rails improved in sympathy, gains of a point or more being recorded by New York Central, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, Elgin, B. and O., Southern Railway Pfd, Wheeling and Lake Erie Pfd, and New Orleans, Texas and Mexico. Elsewhere in the list, however, bearish pressure was predominant. Davidson Chemical slumped six points to 30, a new low for the year, and losses of two to three points were registered by Studebaker, Baldwin, Associated Oil, Marine Pfd, Fisher Body, American Brake Shoe and Corn Products. Consolidated Gas was the one outstanding exception, yielding 1-2 points. Call money opened at 4-1/4 per cent.

INVITING HELP FOR LOWLY MARK

Berlin, Oct. 25.—It is semi-officially announced that the German government will invite prominent financial experts to come to Berlin to discuss measures for the stabilization of the mark.

FAMINE IN ZINC

"A virtual famine in zinc has almost arrived in Europe as well as in the United States," says A. J. M. Sharpe, one of the world's leading authorities, reviewing world zinc conditions in the American Zinc Institute. "With production somewhat below consumption in Europe, stocks are steadily decreasing and are just as constantly advanced. European consumption is growing, production is not increasing, stocks are virtually nonexistent, so the elements are all present for an excited market." He points out that while producing capacity is far beyond requirements of normal trade, the "mushroom plants, born at the height of war demand for zinc, can now be discarded." This makes the statistical position inherently sound, with market price highly profitable. Mr. Sharpe says that in the past large accumulations of zinc in the United States have affected European prices adversely, but now Europe and the world generally are awakening to the fact that the "United States accumulation has to all intents and purposes disappeared, and European stocks have similarly become exhausted."
It is reported that oyster beds at the River Denys, on the Bras d'Or Lakes, Cape Breton, have been opened up by Halifax interests. The area comprises 100 acres of barren bottom at the mouth of the river. Fifty to one hundred men and employment in this new industry in that district.

MONTEAL MARKET.

Table with columns for Montreal, Oct. 25, Open, High, Low. Lists various stocks like Abitibi, Asbestos, Bell Telephone, etc.

Your best friend lives right here

CANADA is a rich market for the national advertiser when the daily newspaper is a vital part of his merchandizing organization. It is a business graveyard for those who look far afield for miraculous help.

When your special salesmen, window dressers and sampling crews are building up sales in our trading area this month what possible effect has "national" circulation a thousand miles away on their effort, except to add the burden of wasted dollars to the product they sell.
With consistent intelligence you use this circulation to carry today's selected message today. If tonight's conference reveals tomorrow's big problem, tomorrow's newspaper will meet the task. This kind of advertising is not easy. It is not "publicity." It is controlled and directed merchandizing force.
"The flexibility of newspaper advertising and the choice it presents of the amount, class and location of circulation enable the advertiser quickly to direct his campaign wherever and whenever it is most needed," says The Canadian Shredded Wheat Co., Ltd.

Your good product, intelligently merchandized with the help of the daily Newspaper will widen its market faster than production can keep pace with the increase.

Issued by the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, Toronto.

CRISIS IN COTTON TRADE.
Manchester, Eng.—Steps to protect capital aggregating more than £500,000 are projected by the Lancashire cotton manufacturers as the sequel to the almost unexampled depression now existing in the trade.
The movement began in the spinning branch, and Sir Charles Macara, one of the leaders of the cotton world, presided over a meeting called to devise means of rescuing the industry from its deplorable plight. Representatives of more than fifty per cent of the spinning companies attended.
Leading spinners declared that at present the capital of most of the cotton concerns is gradually disappearing, and that if drastic action is not taken immediately a far-reaching financial crisis cannot be prevented.
It is urged that there is no sympathy in the trade for the present condition of mills that were sold during the boom and reconstructed on a higher capital basis.
It is suggested that there should be an inquiry into the question of fixing minimum prices for standard counts of yarn, and it is proposed that a stronger policy should be adopted to secure curtailment of production.

DEATH OF 14 IN FIRE TRACED TO ACT OF MADMAN

New York Police Search for Man Who Set Fire in Baby Carriage

Eleven in Two Families Dead—One Woman Leaps to Death, Another Faints and Falls Into the Flames—Two Reported Missing.

New York, Oct. 25—Fourteen are dead and many are in hospitals badly burned through the act of a madman who started a fire in a baby carriage in the hallway of a five-story tenement on the southeast corner of Lexington street and 110th street at 1 o'clock Sunday morning.

Flames leaping from the roof alarmed the neighborhood for blocks in all directions before the tenants in the burning building were themselves thoroughly roused. The fire had raged up the stair-well so swiftly that all escape by that route was cut off before the sleeping occupants of the building knew their danger.

Many were burned to death on the fourth and fifth floors before they could reach the fire escapes. Most of the men, women and children who first reached the fire escapes clung there, too crowded to move downward, and were later taken off by firemen with ladders. Others were rescued from windows and from the roof.

With flames surging in the room behind her, one woman jumped from a window on the fifth floor, and was killed.

Eleven in Two Families. Six members of the family of Abraham Sugarmann, who lived on the fifth floor, were burned to death. Five members of the Silver family, who also lived on the fifth floor, lost their lives in the flames.

Many daring rescues were made by passersby, firemen and policemen. The night clothes and wraps of several were in flames when they were rescued. Twelve of these were at hospitals badly burned yesterday, and a score of others were painfully scorched and under treatment in the homes of neighbors.

Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy and other firemen and detectives who investigated the fire found clear evidence that it had started in a baby carriage in the hallway, the blackened steel skeleton of which was found beside the charred woodwork.

Early Crime of Pyromania. A total of twenty-one lives are believed to have been sacrificed by the same fire menace within a month. Seven lives were lost at a fire of similar origin on Sept. 27. The earlier fire tragedy occurred in West 109th street, near Columbus avenue. The hand of a pyromaniac could be easily traced in the loss of life on that occasion, because two baby carriages were ablaze in different hallways at almost the same time. One carriage started to burn at 201 West 109th street, and the other at 245 West 109th street.

Detectives Are Busy. Thousands of residents near the scene of the fire were greatly excited. Scores of detectives were sent out from Police Headquarters. Hundreds of persons living in the neighborhood were questioned. Mr. Dennis said the same probable was started by some defective who hitherto had been regarded as harmless.

100,000 STARS TO BE REALLOCATED

Yale Scientist Hopes Thus to Solve Problem of True Universe

Question Whether the Stars Drift in One Current or if Two Intermingling Streams are Involved.

(By Isabel M. Lewis, of U. S. Naval Observatory)

The astronomer has a big job laid out for him. Forty years ago the position of 100,000 stars had been determined. Now Dr. Frank Schlesinger, director of the Yale University observatory, believes that the locations of these many stars in the heavens should be observed and recorded again.

Not that the observations of two score years ago were inaccurate. Astronomers are so satisfied they are correct that they intend to compare the proposed measurements with the earlier ones. This comparison may show that around a quarter of an inch whether the stars about a true universe or whether two separate entities are concerned.

Dr. Schlesinger says: "Perhaps in the whole domain of physical science there is today no problem of greater philosophical import. If the project were completed, astronomers would be in possession of the motions across the line of sight of more than 100,000 stars, showing how far and in what direction across the heavens each of these stars has moved in the forty years that have elapsed since its position was recorded in the Astronomische Gesellschaft catalogue."

Neither of these hypotheses entirely fits in with the available data derived from a consideration of the individual motions of the stars or explains the tendencies of stars to form local groups and moving clusters, as well as into more extensive streams or drifts. There is for this reason, Dr. Schlesinger believes, a real need for many more determinations of motions of the stars by comparing their old and new positions.

Locating 100,000 or more stars as proposed would be well within the capabilities of a few observatories or even of a single one, he believes. If wide-angle, double camera were used, there would be at least twofold gain in accuracy. The gain in economy of effort would be still greater and a hemisphere could be covered by the new method with as little effort as was required to cover a single zone of narrow width by the method formerly used.

THE DUTIES OF A CITY MANAGER

Western Civic Ruler Outlines Them and Approves of the System.

Speaking at Brandon recently on the city manager system, Commissioner Yorath said:

"To facilitate the work of the city council, two committees should be appointed on its behalf to keep a check on finances and by-laws and legislation. It is not necessary to have four or two standing committees."

"The next step to complete the plan of civic government is to obtain the highest standard of efficiency, to see that the council's policy is strictly carried out and to see that full service is given for the money expended. To do this means experienced management and direction of administration."

"The duties of an appointed commissioner or manager will be generally (1) to keep the council properly informed upon every phase of civic finance, taxation, etc.; to advise upon the most economical methods of development and service and (2) to see that the council's policy on any subject, policy or expenditure are strictly carried out and adhered to by the respective civic departments and officials. Efficient and business-like government means a more contented community, because the citizens realize they are getting value for their money."

Duties of City Manager. "The specific duties of the appointed manager will be (a) at the first meeting of the financial year, to present a report on the work of the year, to submit a report upon the contemplated capital and current expenditures during the year, setting out in detail the appropriation for each department. These estimates should be passed by the council at the earliest possible moment, so that the work of the year can be planned and organized immediately."

(b) To report to the council and committees from time to time upon matters affecting the best interests and welfare of the community. (c) To direct the preparation of plans and specifications and obtain estimates on the work before carrying it out and to submit same to the council for its approval and acceptance."

(d) To supervise the expenditures of the various departments to see that appropriations are not exceeded, and that proper steps are taken to ensure prompt collection of revenue. (f) To direct the work of the department in accordance with up-to-date municipal methods.

CHURCH SPONSORS MATRIMONIAL CLUB

Organization Formed to "Take Match-making Out of the Hands of the Devil"

—Sows Seeds of Romance

New York, Oct. 25—An amateur and non-commercial "matrimonial parlor" has been opened by the Union Methodist Episcopal Church in West Forty-eighth street for the purpose, set forth in a circular sent out by the church, of taking "match-making out of the hands of the devil."

The organization is known as the National Lonesome Club, an organization originating with an unmarried Wall Street business woman. The "matrimonial parlor" has the blessing of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. John G. Benson, and the public announcement of the non-professional match-making enterprise was sent out yesterday by the Council of the Boards of Benevolence of the Methodist Episcopal Church at 150 Fifth Avenue.

The club has had three meetings and two "hikes" under the chaperonage of the woman who invented this plan of accelerating matrimonial alliances under church auspices.

There have been no matches made yet, but several couples who never met before the club was organized are now "going together," and being watched by the council's decision on any subject by the council is strictly carried out and to see that full service is given for the money expended.

Speaking at Brandon recently on the city manager system, Commissioner Yorath said: "To facilitate the work of the city council, two committees should be appointed on its behalf to keep a check on finances and by-laws and legislation. It is not necessary to have four or two standing committees."
