TERCENTENARY IS BRINGING RACES CLOSER TOGETHER

French Roman Catholics Turn Against France, and Some Even Threaten to Insult Her Representative.

QUEBEC, July 10.—The elaborate festivities shortly to be conducted within the walls of this historic city, commemorating the three hundredth anniversary of its foundation, will unfortunately leave many lasting impressions on the minds of the multitude, but standing forth pre-eminent to all this worldly grandeur is that most desirable of all objects, which the approaching celebrations bid fair to accomplish, that of crushing out racial and religious differences, which unfortunately have been too pronounced heretofore, and of bringing the French and English-speaking elements in this province in closer touch and union.

TRACING TO RESTORE THE HOP INDUSTRY IN ENGLAND

Parliamentary Committee Considering What Steps Would Be Advisable. LONDON, July 11.—The select committee recently appointed by the House of Commons to consider means for re-habilitating the Hop Industry issued a report last night. It says that in view of the fact that the importation of foreign hops during the last 30 years has shown a tendency toward decline, the committee does not favor the levying of a duty on hops or other measures to restrict the importation, but it recommends the application, as far as possible, of the laws relating to the marketing of hops to foreign products and that the use of substitutes be prohibited by Parliament.

IMMERSE OIL FIELDS DESTROYED BY FIRE

CHICAGO, July 11.—A despatch to the Tribune from Mexico City says: A lake of oil covering an area of more than a square mile and of unknown depth in the State of Vera Cruz, is on fire. It has been burning for five days and has created the wildest terror among the natives of that section. The blaze is seen for more than 200 miles at sea according to mariners who have arrived at Vera Cruz and Tampico. The scene of the fire is about 75 miles east of Tampico. It is remote from any river. An oil field was being developed at that place by the Pennsylvania Oil Company, which is composed of Pittsburgh men. The company had bored a number of wells and all of them were flowing oil in large quantities. The product was placed in earthen storage tanks preparatory to shipment.

BROADWAY SCHOOL AT WOODSTOCK BURNED

Building Was Totally Destroyed Early This Morning.

Loss is $12,000—A Fine New Brick Building Will Be Erected on Same Site—Cause of Fire Unknown. The Broadway schoolhouse at Woodstock, N. B., was totally destroyed by fire this morning. The origin of the blaze is not definitely known, but fire was evidently smoldering all night, for a large section in the basement was eaten away when the flames broken through, and the big chimney on the main building fell a very few minutes after the alarm was sounded. The fire was discovered about one o'clock and despite the efforts of the department backed by a good water service, the flames soon had complete control. By half past eight it was all over and nothing but a heap of ruins remained. On the other side of the bridge Woodstock had an old school which would be well out of the way but unfortunately it was the newer building that was burned, no other buildings were damaged. The Broadway was a wooden building and quite an imposing structure when erected some years ago. It cost about twelve thousand dollars and was insured for six thousand.

GOING TO HAVE A LOOK AT SOUTH AMERICA

Capt. Hood, British Naval Attaché Sails From New York on Departmental Business. NEW YORK, July 11.—Under orders from the British government, Capt. Horace Hood, Royal Navy, will sail today on the Royal mail steamer Orinoco to South America, where he will inspect naval conditions. Capt. Hood is the naval attaché of the British embassy at Washington, and he denies that his mission has any diplomatic object. Captain Hood said yesterday: "The three great warships building for Brazil have nothing to do with my trip, although this is the first mission of its sort since 1885. I shall be in Peru, Brazil, Chile and Ecuador for five months, all told, and then I shall send a report to London. I knew months ago that I should go to study the South American navies, and the purpose of the trip is entirely departmental."

WRECK WAS DUE TO THE OPERATOR'S FAILURE

MEDICINE HAT, July 11.—The wreck of the eastbound train from the Crown Point Pass on Thursday through a head-on collision with a light engine, by which seven persons lost their lives seems to have been due entirely to the failure of the memory of Operator Ritchie. He has fled over the border, but it is known that after giving Engineer James Nicholson his orders to run west Ritchie failed to record the fact that the train from the Crown Point was two hours late and had not arrived.

ENTERED A MONASTERY WHEN TROUBLE CAME

CHICAGO, July 11.—A despatch to the Tribune from Dubuque, Iowa, says: Mayor H. A. Schunk, who disappeared recently was yesterday found in the Trappist Monastery, 18 miles from here. Troubles in legal and political affairs are assigned as the cause of the official's desire to shut the world. It is stated he is following out strictly the rigid discipline of the monks. WANTED—A young man, 28 years old, of good habits, a stranger, in the city, wants work at once. Had some experience in machine shop. Star Office Box 465 11-7-1.

SHARPE WAS CONVERTED BY A FALLING STAR

Leader of Band of Lunatics Now Terrorizing the West is a Deperate Crank—Says He Will Not Be Taken Alive.

SINCLAIR, Man., July 10.—The wandering band of Filigree or Dreamers, passed here this morning at 11:30, still headed towards the north. They are being trailed by two members of the Mounted Police, while twenty men of the R. N. W. M. P. are being held at Antler, seven miles west, who will take charge of the situation if the wanderers enter Saskatchewan. Sections of the country are terrorized by the presence of the armed band, who, while they have not yet used their guns, have threatened a number of people. They have travelled north from Estevan, parallel with the Manitoba-Saskatchewan boundary, and two miles inside the Saskatchewan line. They spent yesterday and last night at Jas. Adams' farm, six miles southwest, striking their tent at 5 this morning. A number of residents of the vicinity drove across, but were not allowed to come within certain limits, being held off at the muzzle of loaded Winchester. Jim Sharpe, leader of the band, is at first impression a harmless fanatic burning with religious zeal, but at times his fanaticism takes a violent turn bordering on acute mania. "WILL NOT BE TAKEN ALIVE." A constant armed guard is kept at the camp, day and night. In conversation, Sharpe is usually gentle, but breaks out at times violently, almost foaming at the mouth. "I will not be taken alive," he announced yesterday. "If I am not Christ, I am greatly distressed. If I am not right, I might just as well be dead." With this utterance he brandished his rifle, a 38-calibre Winchester, and the other members of the band grouped themselves about him at the word, "Come, my children." The band is most suspicious of strangers.

EFFECT OF THE PURCHASE OF BRAZILIAN WARSHIPS

Japan By Securing Them Would Have Greater Strength Than U. S. Atlantic Fleet. NEW YORK, July 10.—A despatch to the Herald from Washington says: So powerful are the three 12,500-ton battleships being built by Brazil in England for the alleged purpose of sale to Japan that United States naval officers believe the relative naval strength of the United States and Japan will soon be greatly changed in favor of the latter nation. "Counting in fighting ships" only first-class sea-going battleships, the three Brazilian vessels will make a difference of 151 per cent in the relative strength of Japan and the United States, according to whether they are disposed of to one or the other country. While there is no thought that the United States will buy them, naval officers assume possible purchase by the Navy Department in order to emphasize the importance of the ships in the balance of naval power. Should the ships be sold to Japan the Japanese navy will have 67.8 per cent of the "fighting ships" class tonnage of the United States. The ships come into the United States the Japanese strength in fighting ships would be only 52.5 per cent. The sale of the Brazilian Dreadnaughts to Japan would mean that the Japanese fighting ships combined into a fleet headed by the three 12,500-ton vessels would be nearly twice as powerful as the battleship fleet which yesterday left San Francisco on its return globe-girdling cruise.

POINT OF DEVELOPMENT

In the past month more than a score of permanent positions have been recorded by the Employment Bureau of the Currier Business University commanding salaries of $300 to $300, and as many more pupils have been earning money executing orders outside for the C. B. U. public service offices where stenographers and bookkeepers are supplied to merchants, etc., by the day, by the hour, or permanently. This school is the higher development of the old time business college and enjoys the largest attendance in eastern Canada.

BRYAN'S FINISH.

By unanimous agreement of representatives to the Democratic National Convention in Denver yesterday, William J. Bryan was voted out of existence as a political leader. He will not be elected, and he will never again receive nomination.

Twelve years ago Bryan sprang into prominence when in a disorganized convention he delivered a remarkably eloquent speech. Previously he was unknown. Since then he has been the recognized leader of the Democratic party, and although he retired from the contest the year Alton B. Parker was nominated, his influence has always been strong in shaping the policy of the party. But people are getting a little tired of Bryan. He has been unsuccessful for so long that even his exceptional abilities—beyond doubt he is one of the cleverest men and perhaps the cleverest of all politicians in America—cannot insure his hold on the support of the people. If Bryan were able to control the Democratic party, he would be elected, but many of his own party favor the Roosevelt policy, or else are lacking in confidence in the brilliant Nebraskaan, and there is much greater loss to the Democratic cause by this than there is to the Republicans through dissatisfaction with the methods of Roosevelt. There should be room in America for two such men as these, but the fact that Bryan is seeking the highest office in the face of unsurmountable opposition renders his ability valueless to the country. He is now near the end, and on election day will disappear from the front rank of Democratic fighters. His career has been spectacular, and although it has not brought him the honor of a White House, it has conferred that prominence which has resulted in providing him with a very satisfactory income. He has done well in politics.

IN THE DAYS OF OUR YOUTH.

The development of a country means as a rule a great increase in the public debt. It should mean an increase in the personal wealth of the people. In Canada the present generation is given an opportunity which should not be missed. National old age is the time of individual extravagance, but a nation may die prematurely through unwise expenditures on the part of its youth. During the present half century the people of this country should be holding on to their spare cash. Truly the national tendency of the time is proclivity as children want to toy with the habits of their fathers, so young countries emulate the customs of those older than themselves. We can see in the world around us many examples of extravagance, but it will be well for Canada if we disregard them and adopt for ourselves those methods of life which will lead to a fuller enjoyment of life. Candy is bad for children until their stomachs are strong; extravagance is bad for the people of any country until they have laid by sufficient wealth to warrant large expenditures as a nation. The best policy is in saving. Putting aside each day, each week or each month a portion of our earnings is the real road to comfort and contentment. Members of the Jewish race are spoken of as ideal in this respect, and there is much truth in the assertion. If a Jew earns ten dollars in a week he lives on nine—not on eleven as do many of his Christian neighbors. He is always within his income, and so long as he earns more something against the date of misfortune. The habit of thrift is painfully lacking in Canada, and yet we come of a race that appreciates the true value of money.

Those six Democrats who, declaring their intention of liberating the Doukhobors, are defying the Mounted Police, are liable to have a rude awakening. Some few years ago a gentleman known as Almighty Voice took a bunch of leaves with him and, as the riotous reds started on the charge of murder, we don't hear much about Almighty Voice these days. The happy hunting grounds had an increase in population.

Because a newspaper hinted that she and her family were not only extravagant in dress, but also dressed with bad taste, a woman and her two daughters in Vienna committed suicide. In spite of their desire for sensational news stories, Halifax papers are more considerate of the feelings of their lady readers.

Speaking at Queenstown of the growth of the Roman Catholic church in the United States, Cardinal Logue said that in 1808 there was only one Catholic Bishop in the whole of the States and its Territories, whereas in 1898 there are fourteen Archbishops, thirty Bishops, 14,444 priests, 11,588 churches and chapels, and 20,000,000 of a Roman Catholic population.

London Board of Trade returns show that the world's total production of gold in 1906 was worth $410,000,000. Of this the British Empire supplied 61 per cent. The total value of the world's output of minerals was $4,245,000,000.

The Hamilton Spectator remarks that Taughed laughed when the result of the first ballot was announced. Well, Bryan isn't crying.

CAMPING.

My white walled castle stands aglaim, Reflected in the limpid stream, And I, seated in solitude, Am king of river and of wood. My kingdom is the world afar, The trees and hills my subjects are.

My boat with which to cross the sea Lies idly swaying 'neath the trees; It is the only battleship I need on such a lonely trip. My rod, my only tool of war, Stands close beside my castle door.

Up, up between the trees of green A spiral streak of smoke is seen; It is my captive burning low And fading in the afterglow. All sounds of strife have died away, And quiet crowns the close of day.

My white walled castle is my own, I rule supreme upon the throne, I'm guarded by each towering tree, I own the waters under me, I drink of earth and sea and sky— What worldly king so rich as I?

JOE CONE.

"No," said the tressome man, "I never knew a woman who could tell a story well. Most women appreciate that fact and don't try." "Yes," interrupted the bored one, "and most of the men appreciate it, too."

"What, then," asked the professor, "is the exact difference between logic and sophistry?" "Well," replied the bright student, "if you're engaged in a controversy, it's just the difference between your line of argument and the other fellow's."

Hubbard (arriving with his wife at the station just as the train steams out): "There! If you hadn't taken such a fearful time dressing we shouldn't have lost that train."

Wife: "And if you hadn't hurried me so all the way here we shouldn't have had such a long time to wait for the next one."

SATURDAY SERMONETTE.

WHY SHE WAS NOT MARRIED IN JUNE.

Because, in the first place, courtship, like all other luxuries, is getting more expensive all the time. It did not cost our fathers more than fifty cents a week. Now it costs from five dollars up.

In the city there are theatres, concerts, carnivals, restaurants, roses, Rockwood Park, ice cream and other pleasures, and it makes getting a wife something that is all well to do young man can afford.

In the country our grandfathers and grandmothers went to the circus and camp meetings once a year and their one extravagance was luncheon and their dowry was a feather bed, a cow and half a dozen sheep. They could drive and carry on their backs all the worldly good, with the exception of the farm.

Grandmother could card the rolls and spin and weave. She could make her own hats and dresses.

The dowry of her granddaughter is a silk (not very large), a piano, and wedding presents that cost from one to two hundred dollars and are worth for practical purposes from ten to fifty dollars.

It cost her husband more to court her than her grandmother had to furnish her house with. Now he has a rubber tire, shining harness, a fast trotter, horse and tailor made clothes. The ring cost twenty-five dollars (and he came near making it fifty). She can't make butter nor darn his socks, but she looks well in the rubber tire, and makes him a good wife, but she does not pay very large dividends on the ring, buggy and trotting horse. His brother came to see him and said that he could not get married for a few years, he would wait until he could afford it. And that is the reason she was not married this last June.

The girl in town was one of the best golf players on the links, and she looked very pretty when she was playing, and he almost fell in love with her, but he was a very practical young fellow, and when he went away to see his father's laundry was sent out and sent in, and the daughter should have done it. The button holes were worn too large and the one which in time that would have saved some profanity when the collar button would not stay in, was not given, and as he was very particular about his linen, he did not propose. And that is the reason she was not married in June.

She is one of the best bookkeepers stenographers, typewriters, etc., in the city, but she can't mend her own clothes. My sister says that there is quite often a hole in the heel of her stocking. She can't make bread or biscuit, and if the cook should get mad and leave, he would have to go to a restaurant to get his meals. The monotony of married life would spoil her temper, and she would long for the link pots of her old Egyptian opium. And that is the reason why she was not married in June.

The blind god is getting his eyes open. He lived in the twilight and moonlight once and quoted Byron and Shelley and the sentimental "Tenny" books, and his quotations are the price of stocks, and he does not see Miss Muller and her rake now, as he rides by, but rides straight on to Miss Antique and her money. And that is another reason why she was not married in June.

A DIAMOND RUSE THAT SUCCEEDED.

A few years ago a man purchased a small farm in an adjacent colony of Johannesburg, and built himself a nice house and stables on the property. He did very little in the farming line, but as he was supposed to be rich, people assumed he had only gone in for farming for his own amusement. But if he was rich enough to play at farming, it did not concern his neighbors. This farmer had a small parcel of rough and uncut diamonds which he had brought with him, and he was anxious for their safety or his own, he buried them on his farm, carefully locking the spot. After a year or more, a bright thought struck him. What was the use of going in for farming unless he had good water supply? Of course he must have water and that at once.

POCKETED DIAMONDS. Accordingly he started next day for Johannesburg and consulted a firm of eminent engineers, and they agreed to send out a man with the necessary apparatus and machinery and start boring at once. The man duly arrived, fixed his gear, and after setting up the spot indicated by the farmer as the one on which he was most likely to be successful.

On the second day he was astonished on withdrawing his tube to find several diamonds. The next day the same thing occurred—a few more diamonds. These he carefully pocketed, never mentioning the matter to the farmer. On the Saturday he had to return to Johannesburg and showed his find to his employers. They were equally astonished and told the man not to open his mouth about the discovery he had made until such time as they could see his house and after they had seen it, while thoroughly tested, meanwhile rewarding him with an extra $25 for his smartness.

BUSY FARMER. Now during the engineer's visit to Johannesburg the farmer must also have been busy, for the man found a few more stones the next day he resumed work, and there he also took over the Saturday and handed them over to his employers, who informed him that in company with the declared experts to be undoubted diamonds and of the best quality. He again consulted the engineer, how the water bore operations were progressing one of the partners proceeded to the farm and in company with the farmer, went to inspect the work. Everything appeared satisfactory, they left, the farmer invited to drink and a smoke they had after a drink and a smoke they went to farming operations.

WHAT HE DID OBJECT TO. The author of "Kings of the Hunting Field" says that since certain English churches many years ago while the clergyman was reading prayers a man walked in, shouted, "I've got 'em!" and immediately withdrew. He had sounded a well known call. Every farmer and laborer who possessed a gun soon followed him and in an hour or two brought to the village inn the fox they had shot. Spirituality was in those days a very low ebb and some clergyman cared more for sport than for the example they set to their flock. Bishop of Exeter, who called to account several sporting clergymen, his diocese the most one of them at a friend's house.

"I am told, my lord, that you object to my hunting," said the clergyman. "Dear me, who could have told you so?" answered the bishop. "What object is it that you should ever do anything else?"

No married man in Vienna is allowed to go up in a balloon without the consent of his wife and children.

The term "tabby cat" is derived from Atab, a famous street in Bagdad, inhabited by the manufacturers of silk, and is given to cats of various colors, watered silk, resembling a "tabby" cat's back.

Sugar does not appear to have been known until the year 636. It was not imported into Europe until 1159.

The bones of an average human male skeleton weigh twenty pounds. Those of a female are probably six pounds lighter.

It is estimated that the amount of water precipitated on this globe annually in the form of rain, snow, etc., is 29,000 cubic miles.

CAREFUL INSPECTION. Together with one of his friends he again visited the farm and a gain critically examined the work in progress, and after a while, suspecting that the great attention, the gentleman to the farmer that he did not think they would be so successful in finding water at any rate on that particular spot where they had been working and suggested trying another place.

"No," said the farmer, "if you do not find water there I will give you as much here as I like."

Here the offer to purchase was renewed but the farmer would not hear of $100,000. "Well," said the financier, "would $125,000 be an inducement?" You know there is no mistake or anything else on your farm, and $125,000 is a big price. "I never said there was anything on my farm," said the farmer, "but I will consult my wife about selling and let you know."

"Very well," said they, "just find the matter over, but you must give us a decided answer this day week as we have another farm in view, and the price is much less."

CUTE FARMER. The farmer promised to do so, and Store open till 10 p. m. Friday, July 10, 1908.

KINDNESS OF QUEEN ALEXANDRA

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Victoria, paid a surprise visit to St. Luke's House, Haymarket, London, the afternoon previous to this day. Their Majesties called for Russia, and spent half an hour with the patients.

The visit was an absolute surprise to all the officials of the institution, of which Her Majesty is the patroness, and also to the poor girl for whose benefit Her Majesty specially made the call. It appears that some days previously Martha Massey, one of the patients in the house, the existence of which is for the reception of cases of mental illness in their latest phase, had surreptitiously written a letter to the Queen, saying how much she would like to see Her Majesty.

QUEEN'S KINDNESS. The unfortunate girl, in respectful terms and delightfully simple phraseology, explained that she had been unable to see the Queen when Her Majesty drove through London, owing to her illness. Would Her Majesty gratify her dying desire by coming to see her before going abroad, because she was afraid she would not be living when Her Majesty returned.

Touched by the sincerity of the missive, Her Majesty, with characteristic thoughtfulness, decided to visit Miss Massey. No intimation of her intention was communicated to the house, which was reached at 4:45. Her Majesty driving from Buckingham Palace in her private automobile. Arriving at the principal entrance, the Queen inquired, "Is Miss Massey in?" The astonished servant who opened the door and at once recognized Her Majesty replied in the affirmative, and invited the Queen to the room of the matron, who was equally astonished.

Her Majesty, who was carrying a lovely bouquet of orchids, lilies, carnations, and asparagus fern, was at once escorted to the ward where Miss Massey was lying. For a moment the poor girl was overcome with surprise and joy, but Her Majesty's kindly and sympathetic manner quickly put her at ease.

TOUCHING INCIDENT. The Queen thanked the girl for her letter, and after expressing the pleasure it afforded to her to respond to the invitation, handed to her the bouquet of flowers, telling Miss Massey it was specially for her, and that the flowers were out from the Palace gardens. The girl, with eyes bandaged with tears of joy, was too full to do more than briefly reply, "Thank you, Your Majesty."

The Queen then passed to other patients who had been envying the good fortune of Miss Massey, and distributed some lovely roses amongst them, besides addressing a few words of sympathy and encouragement to each.

A touching incident occurred as Her Majesty was about to leave. Whilst chatting with the matron in the hall, the Queen heard some one cough, and asked who it was. Being informed that it was Miss Massey, the Queen ordered cough-lozenges to be brought from her automobile, and returned with them to the girl's bedside, while she herself placed one of the lozenges in the girl's mouth, and handed a number of others to the matron, with a request that they should be given to the patient when she was attacked by severe fits of coughing. Again shaking hands with Miss Massey, the Queen with a charming smile once more bid her good-bye, and then left the house.

THE DEATH PENALTY

The Legislative Situation in France and Its Causes

(London Standard.)

Amongst the drafts of law in the portfolios of the Government is one for the abolition of capital punishment, and the Parliamentary Commission entrusted with reporting on it, after being primarily under the chairmanship of M. Cruppi in favor of the bill, has now vested round, under M. Castillard's chairmanship in the first place, and, second, under the impression created by the ever-increasing number of dastardly murders; and today, by a majority of eight to two, has recommended the retention on the code of the death penalty. There is, of course, no question of re-establishing the permanent guillotine on the Place de la Greve, and the right of pardon will still remain with the President of the Republic, but it will be exercised with discretion, and not, as lately automatically on every occasion. This has been so much the case that it has come to be forgotten that the exercise of it is not a pure presidential prerogative, but is subjected to criticism through the minister responsible before the Chambers, who has to counterbalance it. The objection to capital punishment has always been based on the sacredness of human life, but in practice the force given to this objection has led only to the respect of the lives of criminals and a growing contempt for the lives of their victims.

It has now been borne in on the public that it is high time that "Apoche" and "thieves" should be taught that it is no longer a question of indifference to add murder to their

OTTAWA, July 10.—A check for $100,000, being Ontario's grant to the Quebec battlefields fund, was received today by J. M. Courtney, treasurer of the fund. The total amount so far received in cash by Mr. Courtney is now over $250,000, with remaining provincial grants and other subscriptions amounting to over $150,000 to come in during the next few days. Among the subscriptions announced today is one of $20 from Six Nations Indians of Brantford.

LAND FOR ALL WAR VETERANS

House Deals With Soldiers' Grants

HUGHES WANTS HIS

House Discusses the Grain Act and Makes Substantial Progress

OTTAWA, July 10.—The commonsense legislation today made substantial progress toward the grain act.

The grain act was discussed most of the afternoon. It is of great importance to Canada, as it further guards the grades of Canada's wheat, which is a great national asset. The Conservative members complained that they had not been consulted in its preparation. However, the government seems to have done very well without them, as there was no substantial criticism from the Conservatives of any provision in the bill.

The evening was spent dealing with the bill to grant to South African veterans the special right to acquire 320 acres of land each in the West. Sir Frederick Jordan said the government had to give lands to veterans from all the provinces, as many of them had failed to make and cultivate their own lands toward a reward for their sons who had served the empire.

Progress was reported on the veterans' land grant bill.

The patent medicine bill was also advanced.

This morning Hon. Mr. Lemieux moved a resolution in favor of prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of opium for other than medicinal purposes. He was proceeding to explain the reasons for and purpose of the resolution when there was a general outburst of protest, and without any discussion the resolution was adopted and a bill giving effect to it introduced and read a first time.

On motion of Hon. Mr. Aylesworth a resolution was carried and a bill introduced providing for salaries for an additional county court judge in Manitoba and for two additional district court judges in Ontario.

Grant to Volunteers

Hon. Mr. Oliver moved a resolution providing that the act authorizing a land grant to the volunteers who saw service in South Africa be applicable to all who at the time of enlistment resided or were domiciled in Canada, and that in the case of the death of a volunteer between date of his enlistment and December 31, 1901, the grant may be made to his legal representative. In answer to questions he said that those who enlisted in the South African Constabulary would be eligible for grants.

Col. Hughes thought that provision should be made for those Canadians who went to South Africa or Britain and enlisted in other than Canadian corps and saw service in South Africa. Mr. Richardson and Mr. Scott (Oxford) thought the Fenian raid veterans should be included.

The resolution carried and the second reading of the amended bill, making the grants, was moved. Col. Sam Hughes again raised the point mentioned above and the minister's amendment to that effect, otherwise, he said, many Canadians, including Colonel Sam Hughes, who had not been able to get a place with the Canadian contingent, but who saw service with the British forces in the war just the same, would be barred.

Hon. Mr. Oliver thought all were anxious that the men who had served the Empire should be rewarded in a Canadian way. He was anxious to get opinions from the House as to how far they should go. Then he would try to draft a clause to meet their decisions.

E. M. McDonald thought the measure should be restricted to men who enlisted in Canada, in Canadian corps. A line would have to be drawn somewhere.

READ THIRD TIME AND PASSED.

After considerable discussion Prince Edward Island members the bill was reported read a third time and passed.

The bill providing for payment of bounties on crude petroleum was also passed.

In committee the House considered Hon. Mr. Fielding's resolution to allow the government to withdraw coasting privileges of foreign vessels in Canada in any particular case as occasion demanded. Mr. Fielding said that any general cancellation of coasting privileges might work a hardship to companies in the Maritime Provinces, and the government desired to be in a position to make an exception when it seemed desirable.

The resolution was passed and first reading was given to the bill based thereon.

The House adjourned at 11:15 a. m.

Cited Several Cases

Col. Sam Hughes maintained his point, citing cases in which he had been unable to get a place with the Canadian contingent, but who saw service with the British forces in the war just the same, would be barred.

Hon. Mr. Oliver thought all were anxious that the men who had served the Empire should be rewarded in a Canadian way. He was anxious to get opinions from the House as to how far they should go. Then he would try to draft a clause to meet their decisions.

E. M. McDonald thought the measure should be restricted to men who enlisted in Canada, in Canadian corps. A line would have to be drawn somewhere.

Disposing of Drugs

Mr. McIntyre (Perth) asked whether provision was made for disposing of drugs in stock at the time of coming into force of the act.

Hon. Mr. Templeman said druggists would have until January 1 next to dispose of their stock.

Mr. McIntyre asked whether the Minister had devised any plans by which a limit could be placed on the advertising of medicines that were not of a reputable character.

Hon. Mr. Templeman said the point had been considered but it was difficult to decide how far they could go in attempting a censorship of advertising. In recent years there had been a very great improvement in the Canadian market.

adrian press in respect to the class of advertising referred to.

The bill was reported and passed. Hon. Mr. Graham moved the second reading of a bill authorizing the construction of a railway from Harmony, on the Souris branch in Prince Edward Island, to Simons. The Minister said that the line would extend over 13 miles and would cost $400,000.

Mr. Bonner thought that before undertaking branch lines the government should deal with the question of branch lines generally.

Hon. Sydney Fisher moved the second reading of the bill from the Senate respecting the manufacture of gold and silver, which fixes the minimum at nine carats. Replying to Mr. Borden, Mr. Fisher said he was satisfied that the public would be protected by the bill against fraud and imposition.

Mr. Zimmerman, who spoke in support of the bill, said that the manufacturers, wholesalers and retail jewelers in Toronto to discuss this bill, and in its present shape the measure was practically unworkable.

Hon. Mr. Oliver moved the second reading of the act to amend the Manitoba grain act.

Opposition members complained that the measure had been introduced in the corner conference of Mr. Oliver and the government supporters in and out of the House, and that they had not had a chance to present their views.

Hon. Mr. Oliver accused the opposition of trying to make the question a party one and of obstructing very important and necessary legislation.

Mr. Borden declared that the hot weather was affecting Mr. Oliver and wound up with the remark that the minister was a little bit of his base.

A discussion on the measure continued during the afternoon. Mr. Connors protested against the authority given in the bill for the mixing of grain in the Winnipeg elevator. He moved an amendment that the Winnipeg elevators which cleaned and mixed wheat and shipped it east should be regarded as public terminal elevators. This would put them on the same basis as Port Arthur and Port William elevators. Mr. Schaffner, who had moved that the mixing of grain be prohibited in all elevators, withdrew his amendment in favor of Mr. Connors.

Hon. Mr. Oliver contended that as the grain was bought, sold and sampled on grade there must be some point of assembly and inspection. That point happened to be Winnipeg, and it would not do therefore to prohibit mixing there. The making of grades at Winnipeg was, he argued, a species of making.

The amendment was declared lost.

Progress was reported on the bill when the house rose at 6.

Hour's "nd" in today's issue. A big surprise is in store.

GREAT SATURDAY SHOW AT NICKEL

With the half holiday generally observed, the spirit of merry-making in the air, the big comfortable Nickel is always very largely patronized. Last Saturday the crowd was in evidence from the opening hour until closing time. The programme for today is both educational and laughable. The Flemish scenes are worth a quarter to see, the stone quarrying for Paris street repairs a bit of municipal enterprise of educational value, while the comedies, The Masqueraders, Desperate Lovers and Music vs. Poetry are far from being uninteresting.

Mr. Cairns will sing his farewell songs and leave on the late train for a sojourn in the Halifax Nickel. He will be succeeded on Monday by Mr. Jack Curney of Bangor, a lyric-baritone, who has been making a tremendous hit in the New England houses of the Nickel circuit. Miss Foley, the remarkably fine mezzo, remains at the St. John house for an indefinite period.

THE NEW CEDAR

New Cedar last night was crowded to hear the new singer, Miss Ada Smith of Birmingham, Eng. Miss Smith proved a great drawing card to this popular house and everybody was pleased at her singing of The Song That Reached a Heart. The management has engaged Miss Smith to sing at tonight's performance and every afternoon and night next week.

The names of the pictures are: Enoch Arden, drama; Miracles of the Chartable Youth, drama; Modern Hotel, comedy; Wrongly Charged, drama; Miss Lee will sing the latest hit, "I Hear You Just the Same." Admission 5 cents.

PRINCESS THEATRE

At the Princess Theatre this afternoon those attending will receive souvenir packages. Yesterday afternoon the programme of pictures is excellent and well worthy of witnessing.

FOLEY'S AUTO SERVICE

TO ROCKWOOD BEGINS

First Car Left King Square

Yesterday Afternoon—Large

Crowd on Board

FARE IS TEN CENTS

The automobile service to Rockwood Park was inaugurated yesterday afternoon. The first car left King square at 2 o'clock with a large number on board.

The car is owned by Thomas Foley, proprietor of the Hotel Miramichi at Newcastle. It is a Rapid touring car of 20 horse power and is capable of going twenty-five miles an hour and will seat comfortably twenty-five persons. It contains cushions on every seat and a large covering on top. On all sides are also waterproof canvas in case of rain. The car is in charge of a competent chauffeur and there is also an attendant to look after the comfort of the passengers and to collect the fares.

The car conveyed a number of passengers yesterday, but was not as well patronized as it should have been, on account of its not being advertised. Mr. Foley purpose running it on a half hour schedule. Yesterday he found that the machine was not properly gauged and experienced some little difficulty in climbing the steep hills on the route. He overcame this defect last evening, however, and the car is now in the running condition. The route that the machine will take will be Brussels to Wright, thence to the lake, where a stop will be made at the bridge near the pavilion.

John Russell's car will soon be ready and with his machine running along with the present one an excellent service is assured for the patrons of Rockwood. On arrival at the park the visitor is right in the midst of all of Frank White's attractions. The new car will be running today, and large crowds are expected to see it.

The fare to the park by the automobile is ten cents. The trips will start every afternoon at 2 o'clock and continue until six. In the evening the service will begin at 7 o'clock and last trip will be made at 10:30.

Mr. Foley has not yet decided whether he will run the machine on Sunday or not.

AGREED WITH HIM

Father (calling from head of stairs at 11:30 p. m.—Jennie, don't you think it's about time to go to bed? Jennie: Yes, papa dear. What on earth keeps you up so late?—Pathfinder.

AMUSEMENTS.

HAPPY HALF HOUR.

The new programme at the Happy Half Hour was witnessed by large crowds yesterday and it is an exceptionally good one. It is doubtful if a more interesting picture than British Man-of-Warman at Play has ever been shown here. "Jack" is seen at his sports, including boat racing, and there are many exciting races. One of the funniest pictures seen here for a long time is a Pugilist Woodor, and while it was being shown nothing but laughter was heard. A beautiful scenic picture, River Avon at Christchurch, New Zealand, made a hit with the audience. The Clever Nephew's Scheme is a comedy picture, showing how a miserly uncle was fooled into parting with his money. Fabrications of Diamonds is a burlesque on the alleged discovery of the manufacture of diamonds. Prof. Tutis received generous applause for his singing of "Take Me With You in Your Dreams," and Larry LeRoy in his novelty song, "In Monkeyland," made a hit. Some promising new acts are being introduced for the children's matinee today. Music lovers and those interested in moving pictures should not fail to read the Happy Half

LARGE MOOSE SCARES

BATHERS AT SEASIDE

Appears Suddenly on the Beach and Sends Crowd in All Directions

Considerable excitement was caused among the bathers at Seaside Park yesterday when a large cow moose appeared on the beach. The animal seemed somewhat afraid and had undoubtedly been chased from among the trees, for upon reaching the beach it lost its footing in dashing into the water and swimming out into the bay.

Several bathers were enjoying a dip in the surf when the animal loomed up before them. At once there was a scramble for the beach. Bathers fell over rocks and other obstacles in their haste to reach shore; children cried and young girls screamed. But the moose was probably more afraid of them than they were of it and selected a vacant spot on the beach to take its plunge.

The moose swam for some distance out and then turned and landed again several yards farther down from where it entered the water. It quickly made for the woods again and was lost to view.

Several persons who saw the animal say that it was a very large moose.

When The Red Terror Reigned in City of Paris

The city of Paris seems to the foreign visitor a great capital of pleasure—brilliant, easy-going, and anxious only to gratify every possible taste and whim. Art and science have combined to make it beautiful. Its people seem to live from care. The ed. polite, and free time time and glitter of lights at evening time continued movement and joyous activity by day, make Paris always attractive and delightful.

On the evening of the day in question, the news was brought that the king, Louis XVI, had dismissed his minister, Necker. A surge of excitement swept over the multitude. A young man, Camille Desmoulin, a leader of the revolution, stepped forth and poured forth a torrent of red-hot words denouncing the king, the government, and the whole existing order. His fire and fury kindled the passions of the multitude.

MARTYRDOM OF ARCHBISHOP. In 1830, as has just been said, was fought a sanguinary conflict. Again, in 1848, the revolution which expelled the last French King, Louis Philippe, found its fiercest champion in the person of a man, Camille Desmoulin, a leader of the revolution. He stepped forth and poured forth a torrent of red-hot words denouncing the king, the government, and the whole existing order. His fire and fury kindled the passions of the multitude.

REIGN OF TERROR. A few weeks later another swarm of red-capped villains descended on the Tuilleries, armed with muskets, pikes and swords. This time the mob was bent on bloodshed. The royal family escaped for the moment, but the Swiss Guards, whom the king had forbidden to fire, were slaughtered to a man, as were all the noblemen who were found within the palace.

NO BACHELOR'S BUTTONS. Buttons are sewed on to stay, which will be about the angle man-and-the-housewife too. Pen-Angle is guaranteed to hold. Pen-Angle is guaranteed to hold. Pen-Angle is guaranteed to hold.

THE MUSICAL D. D. The professor was complimenting the violin virtuoso on the excellence of his playing. "By the way," he said, "do you play the 'Doctor of Divinity'?" "That is a piece I have never heard of," answered the violinist. "Never heard of it?" exclaimed the professor. "Fiddle D. D."

EXTREME REMEDY. A French general is reported to have said that, at least once in every twenty years, Paris needs to be bled; that twenty or thirty thousands of its vilest wretches ought to be stood up against convenient walls and shot to death. Only in this way, he thought, could the savagery of the Parisian populace be tamed and the city kept in something like a state of real security.

ORGANIZING THE MOB. From that moment dates the beginning of the great revolution which was to shake all Europe and deluge it with blood. Desmoulin began to organize and arm. He won over some of the stunts and suburbs a host of desperate characters, both men and women. Two days later, he led this howling, shrieking mob against the great fortresses known as the Bastille.

SCENE AT PALACE. The beautiful gardens which lie between the Rue de Rivoli seem peaceful enough today, with the muses sitting on the chairs under the trees and the children playing happily about them. Yet here once stood the Palace of the Tuilleries which saw the degradation of King Louis XVI. In 1793,

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION. Today it looks very much as it did a hundred or more years ago, though it is no longer fashionable. Yet the following are the names of the men who were the leaders of the revolution: Desmoulin, Danton, Marat, Robespierre, and others.

he inherited from her and from his uncle sums of money amounting to $40,000.

Elwes was peculiar in two respects. First, because he struggled and pinched to save pennies so far as his personal comfort was concerned, while at the same time he squandered thousands of pounds in gambling.

He was a member of some of the most fashionable clubs in London, which, however, he frequented solely for the sake of gaming. He used to boast that few men played more recklessly than he. On one occasion he even sat at the gaming table for two whole days and a night with a Duke, and when at last he recited out of the room exhausted he was the loser of a small fortune.

All his time his personal expenses were less than those of a poor clerk. When he went into the country he hired a room in a farmer's cottage in which he lived in the meanest possible clothing. He was fond of hunting, yet he tried to hunt at slight expense. He made his buttermilk the cows and cook his meals.

As he grew old, he gave up hunting, and practised a still more rigid economy. He owned many houses in London and would occupy whichever one of them happened to be empty. His sole furniture consisted of two beds and two chairs. His sole attendant was an old woman.

He died at the home of his son, and his will was read in the presence of his family. It was a money-bag which he had brought with him, and which he declared, with tears, was all the money he had in the world. After his death, however, his estate was found to be worth nearly one million pounds.

The records of avarice now and then show gleams of humor. They appear in the case of an English lady, Miss Elizabeth Bolaine of Canterbury, who had been well brought up, and was a sister-in-law to a countess. Miss Bolaine was a born miser. Personally, she was attractive, and received a good many offers of marriage, but she always tilted any one in favor of another who had a little more money. Finally, suitors became scarce, and finally one was suggested that so man should propose to her unless she would give a bond of two thousand pounds, to be forfeited if she failed to marry.

At last she accepted a man who was much older than herself, but who appeared to her fancy because he could wash and iron clothes and keep the house clean, and thus save her the expense of a servant-maid. Also, he was an obliging creature as to his food, for he would eat anything from mouldy crusts to tainted meat.

His records of avarice were such that she was obliged to set up a carriage such as it was. It was drawn by two clumsy farm horses. The coachman's livery was a moth-eaten military uniform. When he drove out for any distance, the top of the carriage was covered with a host of pickle jars, garden tools, a ladder, and a warning sign.

It happened finally that, during an excursion one of the horses dropped dead from starvation. Immediately Miss Bolaine—for so she called herself even after marriage—descended from her carriage, and ordered the baker to sell her cat's meat, who happened

SOME NOTED MISERS
Starved to Death Surrounded By Bags of Gold

(London Saturday Journal.)

It is one of the laws governing the workings of poetic justice that a man wallowing in any one of the greater vices which best humanity shall be allowed to work out his own destruction. And particularly noticeable is this in the case of the miser. He starts on his get-rich-at-any-cost path, denying himself the little luxuries of life, and ends, alas! in begrudging even the necessities. The inevitable result is that in nine cases out of every ten he dies of starvation.

A striking example is the death by weeks ago of a man at Havell. Once a compositor, the evidence at the inquest showed that since the death of his father (a cab proprietor) he had lived an altogether eccentric life.

He never spoke to his neighbors and refused to see his friends and acquaintances. Every day, wet or fine, he made a journey to the nearest baker's shop to buy a loaf of bread. This, with a small quantity of milk, left regularly at his door, was his only food. Yet, on his death, brought about by starvation, gold and silver was found in his house to the extent of several pounds, while his bank book showed deposits amounting to nearly £500.

UNPLEASANT SURPRISE FOR SHAREHOLDERS
Call on Double Liability on Their Shares is to be Made

FALCONER COMING

TORONTO, July 10.—The shareholders of the defunct Ontario Bank will be unpleasantly surprised to learn that a call on the double liability on their shares is to be made at an early date.

A. B. Morin, solicitor for the liquidators, said the call would be made probably towards the end of September. Nothing is likely to be done until after the long vacation period. After proper legal steps have been taken, a meeting of the shareholders and creditors will be called, at which announcement of the call will be made.

"How much is it likely to be?" "I really cannot say. Of course, if you wish to make a guess at it you

NEW SERVICE TO THE WEST INDIES

MONTREAL, July 10.—Hon. Joseph Chabre of Jamaica, one of the leading members of the Council of the Governor of the Colony, is in conference with the C. P. R. authorities with the object of inducing them to establish a line of steamers between Montreal and the West Indies.

A well informed member of the C. P. R. headquarters staff stated today that it was not improbable the company would establish such a line, but as both President Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and Vice-President McNeill are away, nothing definite can be said on the subject.

DEXTER, Me., July 10.—Richard Alexander, the New York broker, who shot himself at Dover, is still alive and holding his own tonight. Notwithstanding the rally the doctors express no hope of his recovery.

15-YEAR-OLD BOY TRIES TO PASS RAISED CHECK

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., July 10.—Leon Rushee, a 15-year-old boy, was arrested in the Vermont National Bank by Deputy Sheriff C. I. Knapp, the boy having attempted to secure money on a check which had been raised. A warrant for forgery was served upon him, but as the municipal court did not have authority to sentence him on that charge another warrant, charging petit larceny, was served upon him, to which he pleaded guilty, and Judge E. W. Gibson sentenced him to Vergennes for the rest of his minority.

The Enormous Demand WHICH HAS BEEN CREATED FOR KUMFORT Headache Powders

Since their introduction in 1896 has been built up on Merit and Merit alone. This has caused a number of imitations to appear but they lack the merit of the Genuine. Avoid substitutes, which you know nothing about and which often contain opiates and other dangerous drugs. Demand and insist on KUMFORT Headache Powders and avoid cheap substitutes. Remember there is nothing "just as good," as in that case the article would be good enough to sell on its own Merits. Kumfort Headache Powders are not an unknown quantity, but are endorsed by physicians who are familiar with the formula.

TESTIMONIALS:

MR. J. F. DAVIDSON, Burnt Church, N. B., writes: "I have used Kumfort Headache Powders, and my experience is that they will cure nervous headache in a few minutes."

CHOOSE BRYAN'S RUNNING MATE

DENVER, Colo., July 10.—The Democratic national convention, concluded its labors late this afternoon by the nomination of John Worth Kern of Indiana for vice-president, completing the ticket on which William Jennings Bryan was made the nominee for president during the early hours of this morning.

He thinks that his place in history will be big enough to have been author of a new policy.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 10.—John W. Kern was born Dec. 20, 1840, at the village of Alto, Howard county, Indiana. His father, Dr. Jacob W. Kern, was a Virginian by birth, who removed to Shelby county, Ind., in 1838, and lived there until 1866, when he moved into the new northern county.

John Kern's mother was Nancy Liggett, and she and Dr. Kern were married in Warren county, Ohio, in 1834, when John was five years old, the family removed to Warren county, Iowa. From the time he went to Iowa when he was fifteen years old he did not see a railroad until the family moved back to Howard county in 1861.

He was still in Iowa, Mrs. Kern died. Two children, John and Isaac Engel of Danville, Va. John was educated in the district schools and continued his education by attending the Indiana Normal School of Kokomo, Ind., riding horseback ten miles each way every day. Later he taught school near Alto. He earned money to enter Ann Arbor, graduating from the department of Michigan University in 1883.

He immediately began practicing in Kokomo, Ind., where he remained when he was twenty-one years old to make the race for the legislature in the Republican county of Howard, but was defeated. He was chosen city attorney of Kokomo for six terms over Republican aspirants. In 1888 he was elected to the legislature and served the county in the legislature and was the leader of his party in the state senate. He was city attorney under the last two administrations of Mayor Thomas Taggart, from October, 1891, to October, 1891.

BYRANIAN FOR YEARS
DENVER, Colo., July 10.—Perhaps the most significant thing, so far as Eastern Democrats are concerned, about this convention is that the great power which is driving Bryan's nomination is working more for Bryanian than for the presidency.

DREAM OF UNIVERSAL
PENNY POST

By the impending introduction of a penny post between the two English-speaking nations, Great Britain and the United States, the dream of a universal penny post comes appreciably nearer fulfillment. The reform comes into operation on October 1, so that from that date the rate of letter postage between the two countries will be as at present.

The penny post will greatly increase the Transatlantic freedom of personal and commercial intercourse and strengthen the mutual good feeling which happily exists between Britain and the States.

WHOLE CONTINENT.
It only remains now to commemorate the well-known "centenary cordials" between France and Great Britain by a similar agreement. The Channel is much narrower than the Atlantic. Paris is as soon reached from London as Aberdeen or Glasgow. It might then be the turn of Germany, when, no doubt, the whole Continent would follow suit.

LARGE INCREASES.
"Ten years ago the estimated number of letters sent from Great Britain to the United States was eleven millions. In 1907, five years later, the estimated number had grown to thirteen millions; last year it reached twenty millions, showing an increase in the ten years from 1897 to 1907 of 82 per cent. Similar increases are also shown in the numbers of letters received from the United States addressed to Great Britain.

PROPHETCY FULFILLED.
Incidentally a prophecy of Mr. Asquith's has been fulfilled. Two years ago a deputation which waited on him in London, at 230, Strand, and proposed the adoption of a penny postage between Great Britain and the United States and was told that there was no chance of this. The adoption of the ideal which was in view, but that in the year 1908 it might be hoped that the loss of the penny postage between Great Britain and the United States would be a pleasure to put this accurate prophecy on record.

That nasty taste in your mouth, with the dull, run-down feeling, which accompanies it, the loss of appetite, loss of strength, loss of interest in life, means that your stomach is out of order and must be put right, or worse will follow. Mother's Syrup strengthens stomach, liver, and bowels, restores them to natural action, and so makes an end of all digestive disorders.

A very interesting fact concerning birds is the enormous age to which some of them live. For instance, a turtle dove has been known to live forty-one years. The turtle dove lives to a considerably more advanced age than its other relatives. Ordinary pigeons do not live so long by about one-third.

There are several erroneous impressions concerning birds which it is difficult to eradicate. For instance, it is generally believed that the ostrich buries its head in the sand when pursued, in order to delude itself into the belief that it is unseen.

CHANGE IN METHODS OF POST OFFICE WORK

Railway Service to Come Under the Inspector—Sandy Thompson Likely to Get the Job.

In the supplementary estimates, an item of $1500 appears for the salary of a second assistant post office inspector to help with the work now done by Dr. Collier, W. C. W. Inspector. This means, so far as can be learned, that the office of superintendent of railway mail services, which was held by Mr. George Ryan, will be done away with. Since Mr. Ryan's death, the work of this department has been carried on by Mr. Charles Murray, chief clerk, under the direction of Inspector Collier. By the appointment of the new assistant inspector, all the railway mail work will hereafter be done through the Inspector's office, as was the case before Mr. Ryan's appointment. While no announcement has been made regarding the new position, it is generally understood that it will go to Alex. Thompson. Mr. Thompson some time ago was promoted and it was stated that he was an applicant for the position made vacant by the death of Mr. Ryan. A number of others in the railway service were also looking for this and the appointment was deferred. It seems now apparent that Mr. Thompson will get the job.

McLeod, Wesley Williams, Frank Stanton, pianist.

The degree work was splendidly performed and elicited warm compliments. At the close strawberries and cream were served, and before adjournment brief addresses were made by C. Skinner and Joseph Mosher. Three applications for initiation have been received.

MUCH WATER GOES TO WASTE IN ST. JOHN

Suggestion That Meters Shall be Generally Used

But There is Not Much Reason for This as the Supply is Abundant—The Leakage Loss.

At the present time it takes about two hundred gallons of water per day to supply each person in St. John with the food they require.

This does not mean that everyone from the smallest infant to the oldest inhabitant actually uses that amount every day. The amount of water coming through the mains however, amounts to that large figure.

How large the allowance is may be better judged when it is stated that the usual average in large cities is about one-tenth of that amount or 20 gallons per head. Even this might seem a liberal allowance for a city with St. John's reputation. This average includes however, the quantity used for manufacturing purposes, which is a large quantity used for watering the streets, which is not any larger than it ought to be and a quantity used for other general purposes in addition to that devoted to satisfying thirst for purposes of cleanliness.

When other cities manage to get along on twenty gallons per head it does not look as if St. John does not need two hundred.

The explanation lies in the fact that about one hundred and eighty gallons are lost each day in the city. At present the water works officials explain this by referring to the frequent and numerous breaks as well as the constant leakage throughout the system of mains due to the frequent pressure in the city was connected with Loch Lomond. When the additional supply was laid on, pipes, which had withstood the former pressure well enough, began to break and have been breaking at regular intervals ever since. In addition to the breaks which are large enough to draw immediate attention there is a constant leakage which is not so readily discovered. There are many places in St. John where, owing to the formation of the soil, a small break might occur and a large quantity of water drain away without giving any evidence of the fact on the surface. As far as the supply pipes there are in many places owing to the heavy pressure constant leakages going on at the joints of the pipe. And all goes to raise the figures on the city's water meter.

There is another reason for the large figures also and it is one the importance of which is not often apparent to the persons who are responsible for it. This is the waste at the taps in residences.

Although when it comes to notice, the water department does all in its power to check on the practice yet it is quite a common habit to leave the water running at the tap.

In winter this is done quite regularly in some houses to keep the water from freezing. In the summer it is done so that the water will not stand in the pipes, and so a fresh coal supply may be instantly available.

At other times it is done accidentally. Taken all in all the amount that goes to waste in this way would surprise most people if they had the figures of the quarterly board.

In many cities this wasting of water has become such a serious problem that it has been met by putting meters on every residence and making the householders pay for the actual quantity used instead of so much per annum as is the case here.

It has been suggested that such a plan might be adopted in St. John. In Halifax, also, this plan has been suggested and the city is discussing the value and the disadvantages of the plan.

It is true that such an arrangement would lessen very materially the quantity of water required for the city supply. It is equally true, however, that the saving would not be so desirable if made at too great cost to the people.

There is no greater safeguard to the health of any than an unlimited supply of fresh, pure water, and anything that would tend to limit its use even if it did make a noticeable saving in the cost of operating the water department would be very carefully scrutinized before being put into effect.

In certain factories in this city where a large quantity of water is used the meter plan is adopted. To put one of these instruments on every house in St. John that used water would cost at a very moderate estimate $20,000. This expenditure would not be favorably viewed by the citizen who would have to pay the bill.

As long as St. John has as large a supply of water as it has in proportion to its population this is not one of the bogies that need alarm the citizens.

GOOD WORDS FOR THE COPS

Editor of The Star.

Sir—I am enjoying a visit to your lovely city. Yesterday I made the discovery that some consummated scoundrel had entered my room and carried off my overcoat. I immediately communicated with your detective police department, with all possible promptitude and ability they took the matter in hand; and this morning I had the pleasure of having my coat handed back to me.

It seems to me that a word of acknowledgement is due for such faithful and effective service.

Your citizens and your council have a right to be proud of such a complete force.
