Mary Bourgeau Galvin.

The Armprion Watchman of the 13th says: Many were grieved to hear of the death of Mary Bourgeau Galvin which took place Thursday, Oct. 12th, at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Galvin, Elgin St. Deceased had been suffering for two years, which was borne with rare patience and calm resignation. Mary was born at Armprion, twenty-four years ago, and had endeared herself greatly to many friends. She attended the Armprion high school here for some time, later taking a course at the Gloucester St. Convent, Ottawa. Besides the many friends who mourn her death are her parents, three sisters, Gertrude Kathleen and Cora, of town, and five brothers, Michael and Francis, of town, Mr. P. C. Galvin of Timmins, James of Dakota, and Bernard of Montreal.

Predict Mild Weather.

Indians assert that the coming winter will be one of the mildest in recent years. They base their assertion on the following signs:
The oak trees have no acorns.
Squirrels are seldom seen.
Muskrats have not started to do their building.
Fur-bearing animals have their coats.
Bark on poplar tree is loose.
We sincerely hope the above signs are true as our coal bin is rather low at present.

The people who think the newspapers are making money out of the war are suffering from a great delusion. All the expenses are up, and going up, like the expenses of the household, and the rates of printing and advertising are not going up with them.

Successful anniversary services were observed in the Ashton Presbyterian church last Sunday, when Rev. Mr. McKenzie, of Pakenham, was the preacher. Last night the usual soiree was held, but the very bad weather interfered seriously with the attendance. The music for the social was rendered by the choir of Knox Church, Black's Corners.

METHODIST ANNIVERSARY

Inspiring Sermons—Good Music—Large Congregations.

The anniversary services in connection with the Carleton Place Methodist church were observed on Sunday last, and were a pronounced success in every respect. The congregations were large, the music was good, and the sermons most impressive. The preacher of the day was Rev. T. Brown, of Perth, whose discourses were most highly appreciated. The rev. gentleman took for his morning subject, "The Mission of the Church," the text from I Cor., 1, 2: "The Church of God which is at Corinth." Mr. Brown has a pleasing voice, is quite eloquent, and his message found a most sympathetic response. The evening theme was "The Imitation of Christ," from the words: "Be ye followers of me, even as I am of Christ," I Cor., 11, 1. It was a masterly effort, with a strong evangelistic ring, and stirred the people with the directness of its appeal for greater service to the cause.

There was special music at both services by the choir, under the leadership of the organist, Miss Hazel Allen, acquitting themselves most creditably.

In the morning three anthems were rendered, "Great is the Lord and Marvellous," "Jerusalem the Golden," and "Great is the Lord." In the evening Miss M. Helene Allen sang "Fear Ye Not, O Israel," the choir rendered "I will Feed my Flock," with solo by Mr. R. Powell; and "To Thee, our God, we Fly," with solo by Mrs. W. W. Taber.

On Monday evening the social feature was observed, although the usual tea was dispensed with, a musical and literary programme being rendered in the church. The night was most disagreeable on account of the teeming rain, and as a consequence the attendance was not as large as usual. The programme opened with selections by the Sunday School orchestra, followed with an anthem by the choir. Rev. Mr. Henderson, very lame still as a result of his recent accident, offered a short prayer after which he made a brief statement of the work of the congregation for the past year, which he stated was a most successful one. Personally he had made 468 calls, baptised 28 little ones, officiated at 34 funerals, and received 30 communicants into the church. He had preached twice every Sunday in addition to the many addresses delivered during the week, showing how busy the life of a pastor was. In closing his brief remarks the pastor invited Rev. Mr. Stevens, of Almonte, to occupy the chair for him, who discharged the duties most gracefully. There were addresses by Rev. A. A. Scott, Rev. E. T. Newton, Rev. J. J. Monds, Rev. Mr. Stevens, who each brought their greetings and spoke optimistically of the future. Rev. Mr. Scott pointing out the necessity for a spiritual revival that was heartily concurred in by all. Rev. Mr. Brown, of Perth, was the chief speaker, whose subject was "A Message of Encouragement," pointing out the great work of the church in reform as evidenced by recent developments in temperance, missionary effort and the response of our young men to champion the cause of liberty. Miss Muriel Barber, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Barber, gave a recitation most pleasingly, and responded with an encore. Solos were rendered by Mrs. (Rev.) Stevens of Almonte, and Mrs. J. J. Monds, the latter accompanied with a violin obligato by Miss Helene Allen; duets by Misses Simpson and McRostie, and by Rev. Mr. Newton and Miss Helene Allen, the meeting closing with the national anthem and the benediction. The collections on Sunday were most liberal and with the subscriptions will reach about $600.

Sudden Death in Beckwith.

Last Friday morning Miss Isabella Stewart, daughter of the late Neil Stewart of Beckwith, was stricken with a slight stroke of paralysis, and not having been previously ill, no serious results were at first anticipated, but the shock was more severe than thought and two days later, on Sabbath morning, death resulted. The deceased lady was 58 years of age, and was well known throughout the township and most highly esteemed. She is survived by two brothers and two sisters—John B. 8th Line Beckwith, and Duncan at Goodlands, Man., Mrs. Albert Lewis of Brockville, and Elizabeth at home. A Presbyterian in religion, she was a member of Knox church, Black's Corners. The funeral took place this morning to Dewar's Cemetery.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

SCHOOL OF MOTHERHOOD.

There have been innumerable projects for schools or school courses in the art and science of motherhood. Some of them may have been successful, for all anyone knows, although in the rush of news on the advance styles in corsets and earrings and other necessities there seems no place for reviewing the motherhood situation. But the will of the late Mrs. Lizzie Morill Palmer, of Detroit, is attracting some attention, momentarily. Mrs. Palmer left some thing like one million dollars to found a school of motherhood. The million surely twinkles in the ear, even if motherhood doesn't mean much to some mothers.

Mrs. Palmer's idea went deeper than the mere vocal and instrumental teaching of motherhood. And properly so. For the fundamentals of motherhood can be picked from a ninety-eight cent dictionary, while what we want to see taught is the responsibility, not the medicine of it.

Mrs. Palmer understood that. Her plans provide for no ordinary clinic in obstetrics, but for a school that shall train girls of ten years and upwards, mentally, morally, physically, and religiously for the discharge of the functions of wifehood and motherhood and the management, supervision and inspiration of the home. Poor girls will receive the training free. Rich girls will pay—if it should strangely happen that any girls with money to spend are interested in such affairs.

The will of Mrs. Palmer may never be executed in its finest intention. Ours is a busy world, and motherhood is hardly more than an incident as some women view it. But it's a good will. The beautiful idealism of it may impress a few, even if people do snort at the thought of going to school for posterity's sake.

A trifle eccentric, no doubt, but hearken to these words of Mrs. Palmer: "I hold profoundly the conviction that the welfare of any community is divinely and hence inseparably dependent upon the qualities of its motherhood and the spirit and charity of its homes."

It sounds like the music of an old song. You couldn't get trot to it to save your soul, but it does have a certain melody.

Boys, do not forget that profanity is a mark of low breeding. Show us the man who commands the best respect; an oath never trembles on his tongue. Read the catalogue of crime. Inquire into the character of those who depart from virtue. Without a single exception you will find them to be profane. Truth is one of the rarest gems. Many a youth has been lost to society by allowing it to tarnish and foolishly

Generous Canada.

From the London (Eng.) Times (week-ly edition).—It was the Province of Ontario which responded with such unparalleled generosity to the appeal of the Red Cross made on 'Our Day,' 1915, and sent over £300,000 'to help at the Front our wounded from home and overseas.' Canada, like other of the great Dominions of the Empire, has her own peculiar responsibilities towards the sick and wounded of the armies which she has despatched to serve in France and is training at home. She is bearing that responsibility through the admirably organized Canadian Red Cross, the support of which must necessarily be the first care of the Canadian people. But they do not forget the wider needs of the community as a whole. The Joint Committee of the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John carries on its work in all theatres of the war for the benefit of all the sick and wounded of His Majesty's forces from whatever part of the Empire they are gathered. That is why whatever local efforts are made in inhabitants of the Dominions and Colonies recognize the claims and generously supply the needs of the central body.

Standard Hotel Regulations.

A standard hotel shall be a place of public accommodation approved and licensed as such by the Board and containing such number of bed-rooms to-gether with complement of bedding and furniture and public waiting and serving rooms and conveniences as in the opinion of the Board are suited to the needs of the locality and the travelling public. Each such standard hotel shall be a well appointed eating house with appli-ances requisite for daily serving of meals to guests of the hotel. The pre-mises shall be kept comfortably heated, properly lighted and ventilated and sanitary clean at all times. The sign "Licensed as a Standard Hotel under the Ontario Temperance Act" shall be placed over the main entrance. On the inside of the door of every guest chamber shall be posted the rates of the hotel and whether on American or European plan. Standard hotels located where water service are available shall have adequate modern lavatory and water closet and bath, accommodation for both sexes. Licensees are warned that under the Ontario Temperance Act liquor cannot be sold, served or kept upon the pre-mises of a standard hotel. Fire escapes must be provided in accessible places.

throwing it away. If this gem still shines in your bosom, suffer nothing to displace it or dim its luster.

It has been well said that a single bitter word may disquiet an entire family for a whole day. One surly glance casts a gloom over the whole household, while a smile, like a gleam of sunshine, may light the darkest and weariest hour. Like unexpected flowers, springing up along our dusty road, full of fresh fragrance and beauty, so kind words and gentle acts and sweet di-positions make glad the home where peace and blessing dwell. No matter how humble the abode if it be thus garnished with grace and sweetened with kindness and smiles, the heart will turn longingly toward it from all the tumults of the world, and home, if it be ever so homely, will be the dearest spot beneath the circuit of the sky.

The best sauce for any meat is cheer-fulness. Never grumble while eating; laughter aids digestion.

A clean, well aired and well managed house results in good natured inmates.

True ladyhood is heightened rather than lessened by housewifery traits.

If you love, love more. If you hate, hate less. Life is too short to spend in hating any one. Why war against a mortal who is going the same road with us? Why not expand the flower of life and happiness by learning to love, by teaching those who are near and dear the beautiful lessons? Your hands may be hard, but your heart need not be. Your form may be bent and ugly, but do you know that the most beautiful flowers grow in the most rugged, un-sheltered places? The palace for care, the cottage for love. Not that there is no love in a mansion; but somehow if we are not very careful, business will crowd all there is of beauty out of the heart. This is why God has given the Sabbath and Saturday nights, that we may leave business and have a little heart cleaning.

Take the trouble to get well acquaint-ed with your children, and to interest yourself in their pastime, etc. By this means they will learn to trust and con-fide in you, and are not easily led away by outside influence.

The person that has wiped wet eyes, moistened parched tongues, put a new star in the sky of a dark life, added beauty and bloom, the song of birds and the blossom of flowers to the lot of another is—whether he be rich or poor, known or unknown, bond or free—one of God's nobility.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Land of Economy.

Haiti is one country where almost everything is utilized, particularly if the substance be wood or tin. Lumber is $60 per thousand, and any substitute for it is eagerly welcomed. For instance, a partition fence belonging to some well-to-do people on a prominent street is made of the tops, bottoms, and sides of packing boxes that contained cans of condensed milk; two doors farther on is a fence made of old barrel staves and packing-box strips for fencing is by no means uncommon. Job carpenter shops and manufacturers of cheap handmade furniture are always eager bidders for packing cases. They are utilized whenever possible in building houses and for interior work. Tin cans, with the solder melted off and the tops and bottoms re-moved, are flattened out and used as shingles, in mending fences, patching holes, and for numerous other purposes. The five gallon oil cans, however, are prized and cherished family possessions. These cans have a regular market value of 15 to 20 cents gold. It is no usual occurrence for a woman to buy a five-gallon can of kerosene, hoist it to her head, and tramp all day peddling the oil in small quantities—at cost, if she can do no better—just for the sake of obtaining the tin. These receptacles are used for carrying water, boiling clothes, and storing and cooking food.

Discovered.

"Who gave the bride away?" asked Mrs. Jones of her daughter, who had just returned from the wedding. "Her little brother," replied the daughter; "he stood up in the middle of the ceremony and yelled, 'Hurrah, Blanche, you've got him at last!'"

THE BEGGAR'S PENNY.

A generous man gave a beggar a penny. The beggar went on his way until he came to a baker's shop. He was just going to buy some bread with the penny when an old man came up with a pilgrim's staff in his hand. The pilgrim was selling pictures of the city of Jerusalem in order to get money to ransom his brother, who had been taken prisoner by the Turks at Jeru-salem.

The poor beggar was moved by the story of the pilgrim. He gave him the new penny and told him its story. The baker saw this kind act of the lame beggar, and as a reward he gave him more bread than he could have bought for the penny.

When the pilgrim came to Jerusalem he went at once to the Turkish gov-ernor and offered him all the money he had gathered for his brother's freedom. The governor, however, wanted more money and would not let the brother go. The pilgrim said, "This is all that I have except one copper penny," and then he told the story of the penny. The governor asked to see the penny that had done so many good actions. "I will keep it," he said, "and wear it next my heart, and perhaps a blessing will go with it." Then he gave the pil-grim all his money back again and let his brother go free.

Soon after this the Turkish governor was in battle. An arrow struck him on the breast, but it glanced off without hurting him. It had struck against the penny, and thus his life was saved.

When the war was over the gov-ernor went to his master, the emperor, and as they talked together he told how his life had been saved by a penny. He showed him the penny and told its story. As the emperor gazed at it he exclaimed again and again: "It is won-derful! It is wonderful!"

The governor, seeing his delight, gave him the penny, and the emperor fas-tened it with a golden chain to the hilt of his sword. One day soon after this the emperor was about to drink a cup of wine when the empress asked to see the hilt of his sword. As he held it up the penny dropped into the cup of wine. When he took it out he saw that the copper had turned to a green color. Some one had mixed poison with the wine, but the change in the color of the penny warned the emperor, and his life was saved.

Then the emperor had the penny put in his crown, surrounded by diamonds and jewels of great value.

THAT SUNBURN.

How to Cure This Ache of All Thin Skins.

Sunburn is often extremely painful. In many cases where a girl has been out in the sun practically all day the skin blisters and causes very real suf-fering. It is a wise girl who knows how to care for her own sunburn, for she will save herself a good bit of pain by doctoring it at once.

When you return to the house after a day in the open and find your arms, neck and face all rose colored from the sun don't stop to question why, but start in treating it at once. The burn never hurts the first day, and some-times it does not the second day, but you will certainly get it the third un-less you are very careful. Don't wait until the skin begins to itch and smart before you put on a cream, but at the first sign of rose color where white usu-ally is start your doctoring at once. Cocoa butter is excellent to take the sting out of sunburn, and witch hazel cream is another fine emollient. Rub either one in well at the first appear-ance of the burn and then again the next day, and you will not be bothered so much by the pain and itch.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

Poultry owners are in a quandary over the expense of feeding their flocks. Farmers in many cases believe that grain is too high for the profitable rais-ing of ducks and chickens. Many practical owners claim that unless they adopt an economical system of feeding the high market value of grain will force them out of the poultry industry.

So far as duck raising is concerned, it never could be profitable without a study of economical feeding and mar-keting. The best way to get rid of heavy grain bills is to dispose of the ducks at the age of about two months, when they should weigh three to four pounds. The cost of feeding is the highest up to this age that it ever can be in raising these fowls. Very little grain is required. Young ducks need a sloppy ration, mainly of wheat bran and middlings, in which may be stirred a small proportion of stale bread or crackers. Young fowls are also fond of skim milk with a small portion of bread or boiled potato. With this kind of management and the use of an acre or two of clover or alfalfa for range and forage ducks will return a satis-factory rate of profit.

It is folly for those who have to buy grain to raise large flocks of ducks to maturity. As the birds attain their growth they require heavy feeding, and there is little profit in them. This is not the only point to be considered. Ducks at two months bring the high-est price per pound that they ever bring, and this meat is produced at the lowest cost. Therefore I can state in a few sentences that for the average poultry owner the only way to succeed with ducks is to sell them when they are somewhere around three pounds, or four pounds at the highest. See that the feed consumed up to this time is along the line indicated. For in-stance, there is not much expense in supplying skim milk and stale bread or crackers, and these are among the most valuable foods for them. A thin mash of bran and middlings, in which may be placed some boiled potato or turnip and stale bread, is also one of the cheapest rations. Skim milk can be used here also. Clabbered milk and cottage cheese will also afford a maxi-mum amount of nourishment at a mini-mum cost.

Owners who can secure malt can make up a cheap ration with that for a basis. Nearly every family can supply culled potatoes and vegetable tops, and it is also possible to buy from bakeries and restaurants a great deal of wholesome food that has become stale. This is a suggestive outline of feeding and can be varied. A low grade of flour is sometimes available in place of the other mill supplies. If cornmeal and beef scraps can be mixed with this a good ration is secured. Either skim milk or water will do for the moistening. The proportion should be one pound of low grade flour, one of cornmeal, four of bran and one of beef scrap. It will do no harm to add a little boiled potato or turnip to this. Keep within these lines, and the ex-pense will never reach more than 20 or 30 per cent of the market value of the fowl.

Those who made a success last season had been prudent enough to recast their business according to this plan. The marketing of young ducks is also of vital importance. It is foolish for an owner to raise fowls unless he can get profit out of them, so careful inquiry among experts who are supplying the Chicago market show that it is best to sell the birds when they are about two months old, after they have been raised on the kind of diet here de-scribed. A duck at two months ought to bring 60 to 75 cents, and the cost of feeding up to this age need not be above 10 or 15 cents. In contrast to this high rate of profit is the unfortu-nate experience of many who keep their ducks to maturity, feeding high priced grain for three or four months. This is about the same as throwing money into the fire. Only those farm-ers who have considerable cheap grain and vegetable waste and who raise their own meat can afford to keep ducks beyond eight or ten weeks. The cause of many failures will be under-stood by those who study the sugges-tions in this article.

One Killed, Many Injured.
ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 9.—One man was killed, another is missing, and 22 persons, including eight mail clerks, were more or less seriously injured when the Mercantile Express on the Pennsylvania Railroad crash-ed into the rear of a stock train at the west end of the Lewistown yards. The express was attempting to make up fifty minutes' lost time between Pittsburg and New York at the time of the wreck, it is reported, and the engineer failed to see a red signal, owing to a prevailing fog.

Nineteen Vessels Sunk by Mines.
LONDON, Oct. 9.—Further evi-dence of the heavy toll neutral ship-ping is paying in the world-war is contained in a statement given out by the British Government showing that 19 such vessels have been sunk "by enemy mines," between June 1 and September 24. During the same period, says the statement, 16 En-terprise allied vessels also were sunk.

Censured Presidents.
Twice has a president been censured, once by the senate and once by the house of representatives. Jackson was censured by the senate for violation of the constitution and laws in the re-moval of government deposits from the United States bank. After three years of protest the resolution of censure was expunged from the journal of the sen-ate.

Tyler was censured by a committee of the house for his improper veto of the tariff bill of 1842. He protested, but as a senator he had voted against Jackson's protest, and the house sent him a copy of the senate resolution against the reception of Jackson's pro-Test.

One Popular Irish Secretary.
Thomas Drummond, the best of Irish secretaries and the only English official to whom the Irish people have erected a memorial, counted among his most daring and successful achieve-ments the establishment of the Royal Irish constabulary. All before Drum-mond had sought to keep the peace by the use of soldiers, but he planned to replace the troops by a police force drawn from the ranks of the Irish peasantry. Officialdom was aghast and talked of the possibility of treason, but Drummond had his way, and the British government has never had a more faithful body of servants than the Irish constabulary.—London Chronicle.

Too Sensitive.
It was the first night after the show. The leading woman's mother was downcast.

"What's the trouble, dear?" asked the leading woman in surprise. "I made a brilliant hit tonight." "The old lady was surprised."

"Did you, Sophie? I heard the audi-ence shouting 'Play right! Play right!' and I thought you had failed."

And the leading woman laughed in amusement.

"Why, my dear, they were shouting 'Playwright! Playwright!'"

Embarrassing.
Conjuror—Now, to help me with this next trick, I want the services of a boy—just any boy in the audience—yes, you will do, my little man; come along. Now, you've never seen me before, have you? Boy (innocently)—No, father!—London Telegraph.

Altruism of Speculation.

Few days pass when farmers, young and old, are not asked to invest in financial concerns, in speculations which dangle untold riches before their longing eyes. The agents are clever and persevering. They have a thousand strings to their bow. Town lots, mining claims, natural gas and oil wells, patents, are all means of enticement, all the more alluring since the risk which accompanies them is hidden more or less honestly under the name of some master of finance, or by an advertisement cleverly inserted in a conspicuous place in a newspaper of wide circulation. It is a veritable scourge, a plague. One must live in the country and hear the wails of the victims, to grasp the whole situation. I do not think that I exaggerate when I declare that in the one county where I live, $100,000 and more have simply been thrown away by our farmers. Some of these, seized by a fatal frenzy, have not hesitated to sell their beautiful farms, the heritage received from their forefathers, in order to barter the value for a scrap of paper which guaranteed them the ownership neither of an inch of land nor a pennyweight of silver. Can this evil not be remedied? Is it necessary to leave the farmer to learn wisdom at his own expense by becoming the prey of greedy plunderers? Is it necessary to allow him and his descendants to be deceitfully allured from their ancestral calling and brought to ruin?—Mr. Choquette, at Seventh Annual Meeting of Commission of Conservation.

How German Troops are "Renewed."

German army authorities have hit upon a novel scheme for preventing their troops from going stale. Each company at the front sends home on leave every week about five men serving. These men, as a general rule, never return to their own command. They report, when their leave has expired, to a functionary called the bezirkskommandant, who has charge of troops in the district in which their home is situated. They are kept on garrison duty for a time, and amalgamated with wounded men released from hospitals as cured and some men withdrawn from the communication service. Soon a whole company is formed, wholly or partially equipped with new uniforms, and this company is sent to join a command at the front which, because of the men taken away by this system and casualties, has been shaken up and is one company short of its former strength. Bands play the "new" company through the streets, the men are crowned with flowers, their departure accompanied by maximum publicity. Another evidence has been afforded to the people that Germany's man power is inexhaustible. Though the moral effect of this process on civilians is considerable, the main reason for the complicated and continuous formation of new companies and disbanding of old ones is the psychological effect on the soldiers themselves. Men get "in a rut" if they are kept in the same old trenches month after month, even if given leave and compelled to return to the same ground. They do not fight so well in an advance if they know the ground and the difficulties they have to face, according to the German theory. A change, it is figured, puts new life into a war-weary and dispirited trench veteran, who may have stagnated in a Flanders dugout for months until he would surrender if he got the slightest opportunity, but who, if given flowers, cheered in the streets, sent with new comrades to a new front, will go into action with the spirit and vim of the old 1914 days.

At a meeting of the Roads and Bridges Committee of Lanark county council, held at Perth on Wednesday, it was decided to have stone taken out during the coming winter to be used in the early spring in the Good Roads work. The ninth line of Ramsay, between Carleton Place and Almonte is one of the sections to be so treated.

A fire broke out in a hay barn on the farm of Mr. Abram Bingham on Tuesday afternoon, and over forty tons of hay were destroyed before the fire was subdued. The threshers were busy within hail and Mr. Ed. Duncan drew his water tank over and with the help thus given and by other neighbors who turned out, the fire was confined to the one spot. How it started is a mystery, as no one was known to have been about the place for some time before the fire broke out.

THE CARLETON PLACE HERALD.

Gen. Joffre Is a Strong Unselfish Man, Declares Man Who Interviews Him

MANY photographs, many lively cinema films had familiarized me with the direct gaze, the white moustache, the brooding smile of General Joffre, says Paul Scott Mower in a recent article. They had given me an impression of a full-cheeked energetic man not over medium height and inclining to stoutness. How would the original compare with the pictures?

Our automobiles came to a halt. We followed our soldier guide, straightening our neckties and nervously brushing the dust from our clothes as we walked. Presently, in the gravel pathway, we met General Pelle, Joffre's special chief of staff, a trim slender man with a small grey moustache. He had the jaunty figure of a boy, but his eyes looked old—old and tired.

"This is the fellow who really does the work!" one of my colleagues whispered admiringly. The implication was that Joffre is merely a puppet, so to speak, in the hands of General Pelle. I have heard several such legends since the war began. Some journalists have a peculiar way of complicating things. The plain fact is not sufficient. They must give you the "inside story," and where there is none, somebody's invention quickly supplies the deficiency. Doubtless Gen. Pelle is a very able officer, but I do not believe General Joffre is his or anybody's puppet.

Second to the generalissimo in command is General Castelnau, chief of staff. This famous leader received us in his chart-papered headquarters. Small, stern, well-built, with piercing black eyes, and a grey tuft, French style, on his under lip, he seemed the embodiment of decisive energy.

The building where the command-in-chief of the French armies stays when he is not touring the front is at once elegant and simple, calm and dignified. It is marked by an absolute lack of military nonsense.

No splendidly mounted cavalry mount guard at the door, no soldiers present arms along the corridors. Doubtless the general is well guarded, but he is certainly guarded unobtrusively. We filed through a dining-room where a table was laid for eight or ten people. The menu card lying face up on the snowy cloth bespoke plain and moderate fare. Then, spoke plain and moderate fare. Then, spoke plain and moderate fare. Then, spoke plain and moderate fare.

We ranged ourselves in a semicircle, facing Joffre. He stood in front of his flat topped desk, shifting his weight from one gaitered leg to the other. He was dressed in the uniform of an artillery officer—black jacket and red riding breeches, with wide black stripes. He wore no weapon, no medal. Only the three small silver stars on his coat sleeve denoted his rank. Was this, after all, the man I had seen so often at the cinema? He seemed the same, and yet not. Instead of a medium-sized rather stout man, I saw a man tall and powerfully built.

In comparison with the latter's swift decisiveness, Joffre seemed slow and meditative. His gaze, as he talked, wandered across our faces, then fell thoughtfully to the floor, then rose again. Only occasionally did I catch a flash of the clear blue eyes. He accompanied his words with a slight movement of his heavy shoulders, as if to give them additional weight. His voice was low, reflective, matter of fact, almost hesitating.

The measured confidence of Joffre is impressive. For him the victory of the Allies is as certain as his own mathematics. The movements of the planets are not more inevitable than the defeat of Germany—such, at least, is the certitude which emanates from this deep, taciturn, powerful personality.

PAID IN CORN AND RYE.

Two Old Time Offenders and the Way They Were Punished.

Two poets, both honest and peaceable and one a Quaker, were fond of telling anecdotes of two old time delinquents, the one quarrelsome and the other thievish. John Greenleaf Whittier was exceedingly fond of quoting the lines, handed down from time immemorial in the Haverhill countryside:

The man who whipped old Timothy Swan
Paid his fine in Indian corn.
He paid his fine and he paid it quick—
A peck of corn for every lick!

Whether the fine imposed on old Timothy's assailant was judicially decreed and legally assessed—nobody knows. But in the case of a fine of three bushels of rye once ordered paid by Ebenezer Snell, grandfather of William Cullen Bryant, it is quite certain that neither judge nor jury had anything to do with the matter. Nevertheless it was paid and promptly.

"My grandfather," Bryant used to relate, "once found that certain pieces of lumber, intended for the runners of a sled and called in that part of the country sled crooks, had been taken without leave by a farmer who lived at no great distance. Such timbers were made from a tree, the grain of which was curved so as to correspond with the curve required in the runners.

"The delinquent received notice that his offense was known and that if he wished to escape a prosecution he must carry a bushel of rye to each of three poor widows living in the neighborhood and tell them why he brought it." He escaped prosecution. But if the tongues of the three poor widows were as lively as those of most country gossips and the public opinion of the village as strict as in most New England communities he did not escape punishment a good deal in excess of three compulsorily bestowed bushels of rye.—Youth's Companion.

Oil of the Porpoise.

The porpoises killed in winter are the fattest and produce most oil. The largest size measure about seven feet in length, five feet in girth and weigh about 800 pounds. Such a porpoise yields from six to seven gallons of oil. The blubber of a big porpoise weighs about 100 pounds and is one and a half inches thick in summer and two in winter. The jaws of the porpoise yield a superior quality of oil. When hung up in the sun it readily drips away into cans provided for the purpose, the quantity of oil thus procured, however, being not more than half a pint to the jaw. The oil from the blubber gives an excellent light.

When Great Men Meet.

Joseph Jefferson was wont to tell about meeting a modest looking man in a New York hotel who said he had seen the actor with pleasure in a performance at Washington. Jefferson smiled and asked the gentleman's name. "Grant," was the reply. It was the ex-president. Jefferson's embarrassment was intense, but not more acute than that of a famous fellow actor, Booth, when he asked Tennyson for his autograph with a verse and on Tennyson's inquiring what the verse should be answered, "From 'The Brook' or 'The Bridge.'" Booth then realized that he had asked for a verse from one of Longfellow's poems.—Harper's.

Byron's London Home.

No. 139 Piccadilly was, in the year of Waterloo, the home to which, from his bachelor chambers in the Albany, Lord Byron went with his bride, Miss Milbank. Almost exactly a twelvemonth later Lady Byron quitted the house and never saw her husband again. It was while living there that the two poets, Byron and Scott, met. In a letter to Moore Sir Walter wrote how "report had prepared me to meet a man of peculiar habits and a quick temper," but "I found Lord Byron in the highest degree courteous and even kind." Their meetings, "almost daily," took place at Mr. Murray's in Albemarle street, and once at Long's hotel in Bond street.—London Chronicle.

After graduation he is to enter the diplomatic service, beginning as secretary to the legation at Paris. We decided on all these things long ago."—Life.

PUSH MACKENSEN BACK

Russo-Roumanian Forces Make Progress in Dobrudja.

Did Not Lose a Man—Claim That Incursion Into Bulgaria Was Wholly Successful—Serb Back in the North—Roumanians Temporarily Withdraw Before Superior Forces.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—On the Dobrudja front the Roumanians, co-operating with the Russians, have made further progress against the army under the German Field Marshal von Mackensen. On both the centre and left wing the Austro-Germans have been pushed back, according to the Bucharest report. A statement from Petrograd reiterates the claim, stating that 300 prisoners were taken.

Both Berlin and Sofia deny a retreat in this region, claiming that despite heavy attacks, many of "which were delivered at night, the troops of the Central Empires and Bulgaria held their ground.

The Roumanian invasion of Bulgaria is now completely at an end, Sofia announces, "the last Roumanian soldier having been driven from Bulgarian soil."

The German War Office gives out a report from Field Marshal von Mackensen, announcing that the Roumanians were severely cut up by German and Bulgarian columns thrown out from Rustchuk and Turtukal.

Bucharest makes no further reference to this move, but a wireless despatch from Rome, sent out by a Matine agency, declares that the "Roumanian raid was successful," in that it resulted in the destruction of several Bulgarian military depots, and that the "invaders withdrew without the loss of a man."

FARMER MURDERED.

Walter Montgomery Killed With Club While Sorting Apples.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 9.—The body of Walter Montgomery, a bachelor farmer, aged 55 years, residing in the township of Madoc, was found in his drive house, and it is believed that the man was murdered. He lived alone on a 100-acre farm, and was in good circumstances financially.

He was last seen alive by a neighbor on Tuesday last week, and his absence about the place was noticed by W. J. Moorecroft, a neighbor, who notified relatives of Montgomery and a search was made. Montgomery was fully dressed, and, from appearances, was sorting apples when he was dealt violent blows on the head with a blunt instrument. An examination showed that his skull was fractured.

Montgomery was an eccentric man, and had no faith in banks. He always carried considerable money in a pouch, which was attached to a strap about his neck. The pouch was found by his side, having been cut open and money extracted.

Canada's Finances for Nine Months.

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—The Dominion financial statement to the end of September shows the thirty million dollars increase in revenue, announced by Sir Thomas White, the total revenue being $103,589,680, as compared with $73,243,524 in this period. The expenditure is given as $49,757,711, as against $46,272,622. The capital expenditure amounts to $116,057,905, of which $104,038,895 is on war account. In the same period of last year this total capital expenditure was $61,962,760, of which $44,327,893 was on war. The gross debt has risen from $774,896,755 to $1,071,657,373, and the net debt from $290,050,121 to $391,381,928. This increase is $20,654,174, as compared with $12,432,748.

To Investigate High Cost of Living.

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—The Dominion Government at a Cabinet Council, presided over by Hon. Robert Rogers as Acting Premier, appointed a Ministerial sub-committee to investigate the cost of living.

Earlier Hon. Mr. Rogers received a delegation of officers of the Trades and Labor Congress, who brought before him one or two of the more important matters dealt with at the recent Toronto congress. The desirability of regulating, if possible, the steadily-advancing cost of domestic necessities was one of these. The labor men pointed out that since the beginning of the war food prices had gone to phenomenal heights, while wages had remained stationary. Mr. Rogers received the delegation sympathetically, and promised that the Government would look into the situation with a view to providing practical relief if possible. This promise was acted upon at once in the appointment of the sub-committee, which consists of Hon. Robert Rogers, Hon. C. J. Doherty, and Hon. T. W. Crothers. The committee will make a general investigation into the question, but the lines upon which the inquiry will be made have not been determined upon. The delegation made no concrete suggestion for reducing the cost of living.

The Connecting Link.

The connecting link between the merchant and his customer is the newspaper advertisement. In it the merchant may make plain to the housewife or the househusband, the advantages of his store and the commodities he has to offer, in a way that would be impossible otherwise, because of the limited time, and the interruptions when the customer visits the store.

When people go out to shop, they want to get what they need, and go home again. They want the business news, but they want it when they have time at their disposal. You can give it to them through the advertising columns.

The Directors of National Service have issued a summary of their conclusions and proposals for utilizing Canada's man-power to the best advantage for the rest of the war.

LIBERAL LEADERS ON PUBLIC ISSUES.

Toronto, October 13.—Quite an extraordinarily successful banquet was the one held in connection with the annual meeting of the Liberal Club Federation of Ontario at London on October 11th. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. N. W. Rowell, Hon. T. C. Norris, Prime Minister of Manitoba, Hon. George Graham and S. N. Jacobs, K.C., of Montreal, were the leading speakers and a high level of oratory was maintained throughout the whole evening. There was an attendance at the banquet of at least 1500 people, coming not only from London City but from more than eighty other places in the province.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in his speech presented the noblest kind of ideals to the Federation and the young men of the Liberal Party.

"You have a safe guide, an unfailing light, if you remember that faith is better than doubt, and love is better than hate. Banish doubt and hate from your life. Let your souls be ever open to the strong promptings of faith and the gentle influence of brotherly love. Be adamant against the haughty. Be gentle and kind to the weak. Let your aim and your purpose in good report or in ill, in victory or in defeat, be so to live, so to strive, so to serve, as to do your part to raise the standard of life to higher and better spheres."

Sir Wilfrid emphasized the fact that the war was at present the one task for all men. "This war has got to be fought to a finish," he said. "Germany has to be fought firmly and resolutely until victory is won. But then, when it is won, let the better angels of our nature again guide us in our course."

Sir Wilfrid did not pay much attention to politics, but did criticize the Government with great severity on account of their extravagance in civil expenditure during war time, when all the resources should be conserved for the one main object.

Mr. Rowell made a profound impression by his speech, in which he too declared once more that the successful prosecution of this war transcended in importance all other considerations and problems.

In their relation to the war he discussed three main issues.—Prohibition, Nickel and Hydro. "The Legislature," he said, "by the consent of both parties has put the responsibility of finally determining the Prohibition question upon the people themselves in a referendum, and no political party dare withdraw from the people that right now conferred upon them." "I would a thousand times over," he added, "bring a message of hope to homes where there has been discouragement and despair, than be Premier of this Province." Mr. Rowell assailed the Hearst Government in the most vigorous terms for its laxity on the nickel question, and also declared for keeping the Hydro strictly out of politics. He criticized the Government's effort to draw it into the arena of partisan control.

The Prime Minister of Manitoba gave an interesting review of the progressive legislation put into effect by his government in its first session and made a stirring appeal for clean politics.

The Liberal Club Federation has received hundreds of congratulations on the success of its annual meeting, not only the wonderful banquet in the evening but the business meeting during the afternoon which was attended by hundreds of Liberals from all parts of the province who took part in a most interesting discussion of public affairs.

Mr. George Gibbons, of London, is the new President of the Federation, and Mr. B. H. McCreath, of Toronto, remains secretary-treasurer.

In banking up houses for the winter, do not use leaves, straw or other inflammable material, unless entirely covered with earth; a chimney spark, a carelessly thrown match, or a cigarette or cigar stub may ignite it.

The sudden death from apoplexy of Mr. Spencer Page, of Regina, superintendent of Neglected and Dependent Children of Saskatchewan, is announced. In 1911 Mr. Kelso paid a visit to that Province for the purpose of organizing Children's Aid Societies in the various centres of population, and in 1913 Mr. Page, who was clerk of the Legislature, received appointment as superintendent of the work.

It would be difficult to make every farmer father believe that lack of sanitary equipment, for his household and neglect of his barnyard caused sickness and deaths in his family. It may be impossible to convince him that the death of his wife at an early age was a result of too much pumping, churning and washing by hand; but they are really so closely related as cause and effect that one might almost declare that only the willfully blind will or can fail to see their relation.—Community Builder, in American Lumberman.

ROUMANIANS HIT BACK

Counter Offensive Against Von Falkenhayn's Army Begun.

Allies Are Making Every Effort to Stem the Advance of the Teutons In Order to Prevent a Repetition of the Drive Through Serbia.—German Losses Are Heavy, and They Have Retreated in Disorder at One Point.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Roumanian counter-offensive has opened. If it is turned back Falkenhayn will have battered open the road for an invasion of King Ferdinand's country. If it succeeds, Roumania will have been saved from the fate that overtook Serbia.

Every effort is being made by the allied command to stem the Teuton tide. King Ferdinand has taken command of the Roumanian and Russian armies opposed to Falkenhayn. The Czar's generals are sending large reinforcements into Roumania. And a mission of French officers—among them General Brothelot, well known as a strategist—are on their way to Bucharest to aid the Roumanian staff.

On two fronts the counter-attack has been launched. On the western wing, where the enemy drove them back toward the Vulkan Pass, the Roumanians struck heavily Saturday and Sunday. Mount Sigulio, six miles north-east of Petroseny, and Muncukumare, on the border line, were carried by storm, as were also the summit of Mount Negri and Zancasa.

In this battle the Germans sustained great losses and retreated in disorder, says Bucharest. The drive here purposes to flank the Teuton columns further east, which have retaken Hermannstadt and Kronstadt.

In Eastern Transylvania, north-east of Kronstadt, the Roumanians have begun another counter-blow. Here they won back the village of Socmez, 12 miles south-east of Orna. In all their operations the Roumanians have a total of 15,000 prisoners, Bucharest announced Saturday.

In the other sectors of the Transylvanian front the Germans continue to forge ahead. South of the Hermannstadt-Kronstadt line King Ferdinand's troops were forced further back, and in the fighting around Osk Szerada, in Northern Transylvania, the Teuton advance has not yet been halted.

EXPULSION FROM TRENCHES.

Bulgars Have Met With a Reverse on Left Bank of Cerna.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Serious fighting occurred Saturday along the entire Serbian front, according to a Reuter despatch from Salonica. The Bulgars were expelled from some of their trenches on the left bank of the Cerna and Bulgarian counter-attacks were repulsed.

The British official report reads: "There has been moderate artillery action on the front as a whole. Serbian troops have advanced on the left bank of the Cerna and a French squadron has cut the railway line south of Sere." "British patrols Saturday came in contact with Bulgarian forces on the railway south of Sere."

"Struma front: Hristos, the Sere station, and Barakli Juma have been shelled by our artillery."

In Macedonia strong attacks made by Entente allied forces west of the Monastir-Florina railway failed, according to Berlin. Fighting is in progress in the bend of the Cerna River, in Southern Serbia.

The Bulgarian report says: "The situation is unchanged. Between Lake Presba and the Cerna River there has been lively artillery activity, and in the Cerna bend the usual artillery fire. Several weak enemy attacks were repulsed. Friday night the Serbs in considerable force attacked to the north of the village of Slivitsa, but were repulsed with sanguinary losses."

"In the Moglenica valley we easily repulsed an attack on Bahovo height. On both sides of the Vardar River there has been intermittent weak artillery activity, and on the Struma encounters between reconnoitring parties."

SUSPECT KILLS HIMSELF.

Joseph Montgomery Commits Suicide After Arrest for Brother's Murder.

BELLEVEILLE, Oct. 16.—Joseph Montgomery, of Madoc Township, Hastings County, who was under arrest on suspicion of murdering his brother Walter Montgomery, on the 4th of October, is dead as a result of self-inflicted wounds. On Thursday last the inquest over the murdered man was concluded and the suspected brother was placed in the lockup at Madoc Village, pending his removal to the county jail at Belleville to await preliminary hearing, which was to have taken place next Tuesday. It was intended to convey Joseph to Belleville on Friday night, but for some reason this was not carried out. During the night from some source he secured a small pocket knife and with it he slashed his throat. He was found in a dying condition at eight o'clock on Saturday morning. After having the wound dressed by physicians at Madoc the victim was brought to Belleville hospital where he expired at 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

After committing the act Montgomery threw the knife in a stove in the lockup where it was found later with dry blood stains upon it. An inquest was opened before Coroner Dr. Yeomans, of this city. The jury, after viewing the remains and hearing some evidence had the enquiry adjourned until Monday night.

The suicide was a man about 48 years of age and unmarried. The affair is shrouded in mystery and is complicated by events which have transpired. Since Joseph's incarceration his residence with all of the contents has been destroyed by fire.

SUCCESSES ON SOMME

Gen. Foch's Men Capture German Line on a Mile Front.

The British Have Succeeded in Clearing Two Miles of Enemy Communication Trenches Especially at the Schwaben Redoubt.—Hamlet of Genemont Is Taken by French Forces Who Have Also Captured 1,100 Prisoners.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The French won fresh successes south of the Somme on Saturday. East of Belloy-en-Santerre Foch's troops captured a first German line on a front of more than a mile. To the southwest of this region they swept forward from Bovent for nearly a mile and seized the hamlet of Genemont, while they also extended their lines near Ablaincourt, winning a strongly-defended sugar refinery. Over 1,100 Germans were made prisoner in these operations.

German troops Saturday night launched several counter-attacks against the positions which the French had occupied during the day south of the River Somme, says the statement issued by the French War Department.

Enterprises undertaken Saturday by British troops in the neighborhood of the Stuff and Schwaben redoubts, in the River Somme region, were highly successful. The official statement issued Sunday by the British War Office. More than 300 Germans were taken prisoner. North of Stuff redoubt two lines of enemy communication trenches were cleared for a distance of nearly 200 yards. One officer and 100 men of other ranks were taken prisoner in the course of this operation, which was carried out by a single company. At the Schwaben redoubt the British gain was greater and the line was advanced well to the north and west of the redoubt. Heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy.

Despite the cloudy weather and active barrage fire at a range of from 200 to 300 metres, the Allied aviators co-operated in a most effective fashion in the fighting Saturday south of the Somme. They surpassed all that was expected of them. One machine that returned had been struck by two hundred bullets. North of the Somme two pilots, flying very low, used their machine guns at short range against the enemy in his trenches.

In Ablaincourt, at the tip of the salient held by Foch's troops north of Chaumes, a furious assault on Friday enabled the Germans to seize several positions and some trenches to the north-east of the village. These they did not hold for long. Showing a surprising ability to rally quickly from the effects of the enemy's charge, the French wave recoiled and swept the Germans completely out of the positions they had gained a foothold in.

The French again attempted to swing their lines through Sailley, Sailley and into the sector south of Transloy, but in hand-to-hand fighting of the most desperate character they were driven back to their starting points. By their furious resistance in this region the Germans have given notice that they intend to defend the Bethune road to the limit of their resources.

Berlin admits that the British north of Thiepval gained a firm hold on the German trenches, and that the French south of the Somme have won a footing in the sugar refinery at Genemont.

TWO YEARS IN WAR.

Second Anniversary of Arrival of 1st Canadian Force is Celebrated

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The second anniversary of the arrival in England of the first Canadian overseas contingent was celebrated on Saturday evening by a dinner at which over 400 officers, non-com's, and privates of the Canadian army and navy were present. Colonel W. R. Ward presiding. In toasting the army and navy, Colonel Ward paid a warm tribute to the navy, by whose protection the safe arrival of the Canadian forces throughout the war had been possible. Referring to the development of the pay corps services, which from two officers and six men has grown to over 2,500, Colonel Ward suggested that the time had perhaps come when a combining-out process might begin. He would like to see all the eligible volunteers for active service. The Canadian correspondent was informed that about 60 per cent. of the staff are entitled to the gold stripe, which signifies that the wearer has been wounded. Mr. McLaren Brown, the chief civilian guest, spoke of Canada's men as being essentially fighting men. Colonel Ross and Colonel S. Robertson also spoke, the former emphasizing the fact that the gathering was not of a festive, but of a commemorative character, and that the well being of the conscientious work of those present.

TRANSPORT CAPTURED.

Russian Submarine Captures the Turkish Steamer Roditso.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 16.—The Russian submarine Tula on Oct. 13, after an engagement near the Bosphorus, captured the Turkish 6,000-ton armed war transport Roditso, says Sunday's Russian official statement. The Roditso, which was commanded by German officers, was taken to Sebastopol. The statement reads: "Black Sea.—On October 12 our submarine Tula, under command of Lieut.-Commander Kityzin, captured the Turkish armed war transport Roditso, of 6,000 tons displacement. The transport was under command of German officers, and despite the damage which it sustained during the engagement, was safely escorted to Sebastopol."

DISTRICT NEWS.

APPLETON.

Special to THE HERALD.

There was no service in St. Andrew's church last Sunday on account of the anniversary services at Ashton.

Wedding bells are due to ring here on the 25th, when one of our prominent young men will take unto himself a life-partner.

Anniversary services are to be held in St. Andrew's church here next Sabbath, when Rev. S. G. Brown, of Almonte, is to preach. At the annual soiree the following might the music is to be rendered by the choir of the Almonte Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Snedden have returned to Appleton to reside.

BOYD'S

Special to THE HERALD.

Ploughing is now the order of the day amongst the farmer's here.

Mr. John Echlin, Dairy Instructor and cheese inspector, spent a day at the cheese factory here last week, and found everything o.k.

Our school was closed Thursday and Friday, the teacher, Miss Cross, being in attendance at the Teachers' Convention in Perth.

Mr. Wes. Willows has men engaged putting in a cement wall for an addition to his barn of 50 feet. The building to be raised the early part of next season.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Kellough of 11th concession Ramsay, spent Sunday here visiting relatives.

The potato crop has been harvested, and in some cases a complete failure is reported, in others a bumper crop.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Willows are visiting here at present.

ALMONTE.

From the Times.

Mr. Frank Bond, son of Mr. R. L. Bond, of Ottawa, a former townsman, paid Almonte a visit the latter part of the week. He has been a resident of British Columbia for a number of years, and is a conductor on the C.P.R. His run is from Vancouver to Kamloops.

Mr. S. R. Finlayson has resigned the managership of the Sterling Bank, which position he has filled with conspicuous success during the past four years.

Mrs. H. H. Cole is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Lewis Coulter, in Ottawa. Miss Ruth Coulter has been laid up with ptomaine poisoning for some time.

Fire of a mysterious origin broke out last Tuesday night in Mr. Ab. Bingham's stable, Ramsay, which was destroyed, as well as the cow byre, and a quantity of hay. The adjoining buildings, and several stacks of hay, were saved by the strenuous efforts of the neighbors. The loss is about $400.

Mrs. Alex. Rosamond, accompanied by her second eldest daughter, Nora, returned from Folkestone, England, on Saturday.

LANARK.

From the Era.

Mr. and Mrs. John Darou, Miss Hazel and Master Kenneth, of Carleton Place, spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Ed. J. Buffam.

By the death of the late Charles Cross, 4th Concession of Lanark, on Sunday the 8th inst., the township loses one of the oldest residents. In the early years of the last century his father, the late John Cross, emigrated from Ireland and settled on the farm now owned by his grandson, John E. Cross. There, on the 4th day of April, 1823, Charles was born, the youngest of a family of ten, all of whom are now deceased, and there he lived during all his lifetime.

It is with much regret that we have to announce the death of Norman T. Stewart, the brave young Canadian, who was killed in action "Somewhere in Flanders" on September 20th last. He was thirty-six years old when he met a soldier's death.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Watt and children, of Carleton Place, spent Sunday and Thanksgiving Day here with the former's mother, Mrs. Robert Watt.

Rev. R. J. Drysdale, who has been quite ill at his summer camp, Dalhousie Lake, for nearly four weeks, has returned to Rochester. During his illness, he was under the professional care of Dr. H. C. Hagyard of McDonald's Corners. Mrs. Drysdale and Master Howard accompanied Mr. Drysdale by train, while Master Raymond and Mr. H. B. Hodgson returned with Mr. Drysdale's car.

On Sunday morning last the village of Lanark was shocked by the news of the death of Edie Wilson, beloved wife of A. A. Stewart, hardware merchant. A little baby girl had been born to them on Friday, 6th inst., and both mother and child were reported to be doing well until Saturday evening when complications arose which caused death the following morning. Mrs. Stewart Thomas Wilson of Hopetown and was only 27 years of age.

Mrs. Donald McIntyre died at her home on the 8th line of Drummond on Tuesday morning, Oct. 3rd. Deceased was in her 83rd year and had not been enjoying good health of late years. Her maiden name was Margaret Gould, a daughter of the late James P. Gould, who came from England in the early days and settled in Quebec, where deceased was born. She was married fifty-eight years ago to Donald McIntyre, and was predeceased by her husband thirty-one years. To them a family of three sons and four daughters was born.

PERTH.

From the Courier.

Mr. Sidney Orser is still making progress with his feldspar mine near Maberly and the only drawback is for the want of cars. An American firm is looking over properties at Silver Lake and Mr. L. E. Austin of Toronto, is looking over the Burns property at Christy Lake.

Mr. Wm. Farrell of town, received particulars on Wednesday of the death of his son, Alphonsus, who was accidentally shot near Cranbrook, B.C. He went out to a shooting camp with two friends on Sunday, Sept. 24th.

Two friends returned to Cranbrook on Tuesday, but he remained, and the accident occurred the following day, Wednesday, Sept. 27th. A bullet jammed and exploded in the barrel of a 25-35 Winchester rifle which he was using and in some way he received its contents. He was able to crawl to the road, and was discovered in an unconscious condition by an auto party, who took him to Moyle, the nearest station, and sent word to Cranbrook for spiritual and medical aid. This necessary aid came from Cranbrook very quickly and after attending to his injury he was later taken to the hospital at Cranbrook, where he died the following day. The remains were interred in the R.C. cemetery there. Alphonsus was remembered by many in Perth and vicinity, though he left here twenty-one years ago, and was a general favorite.

The beautiful little red spaniel belonging to Mr. W. P. McEwen was found dead at the roadside in front of the house on Monday morning, it having evidently been struck by an automobile. Everyone in town knew, and were fond of little "Vic," and so the regret will be widespread.

Word has been received in Perth of the death of Mrs. John Bell, of Grand Forks, formerly of this town. Mr. Bell years ago conducted a blacksmith shop on the site now occupied by James & Reid garage. Mrs. Bell, before her marriage, was Miss Margaret Allan of Perth, and a cousin of Mr. James Allan.

Wm. Rathwell, of Innisville, who has been running a gas traction engine for some time has bought a new model Ford Car from James & Reid. Mr. Rathwell is quite a handy man around machinery and no doubt will keep his Ford in good shape.

Mr. Ed. Young has sold his property on Grant street to his sister, who is coming to town from Glen Tay to reside, and has purchased a house and lot from Mr. Michael Dixon. Mr. and Mrs. Dixon are leaving Perth to live in Sudbury.

As soon as to-day's issue of the Expositor is printed work will commence removing the old press upon which this paper has been printed for many years, and erecting the larger two-revolution Scott press. There is a great deal of work connected with this change, and while we will do our best to have next week's issue of the paper appear on time it is hoped that our advertisers and readers will exercise patience, and make allowance if the paper of next week is not up to its usual standard of excellence.

When is a Bath Not a Bath?
Sometimes I lived with my grandmother. She always bathed me herself before she put me to bed. The bathtub was very long and deep. Grandmother stood on the step which ran beside it with a big towel pinned about her. She held my neck tightly between her thumb and second finger, scrubbing me with her other hand. I slipped and fell from one side to the other, splashing the water high over the edges, so that when she finally lifted me to the floor the towel and her dress were drenched.

"There," she would say, "that is hardly better than a sponging off. You won't sit still while I give you a real bath."

I used to go to sleep wondering how she would give me a real bath.—Katherine Keith in Atlantic.

She Ran For President.
Only one woman was ever a presidential candidate. In the campaign of 1884 Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood was the candidate of the Equal Rights party, advocating woman suffrage. She obtained only about 2,300 votes out of a total of 10,000,000. Mrs. Lockwood in 1873 had been admitted to the bar of the supreme court of the District of Columbia and in 1870 was admitted to practice in the United States supreme court.

TO REORGANIZE SERVICE.

Medical Arm of Canadian Forces

Will Be Co-ordinated More Closely

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—Important recommendations for the reorganization of the Canadian Army Medical Service in England, and to some extent in Canada, are contained, it is understood, in a report submitted by Colonel H. A. Bruce, special inspector-general of medical services, to the Minister of Militia.

A complete reorganization of the Canadian Medical Service is recommended, with the suggestion that the medical arrangements in Canada, England and overseas be co-ordinated. Other recommendations are that Canadian casualties be as far as possible treated in Canadian hospitals, and that the care of Canadian sick and wounded be the first duty of the Canadian Army Medical Corps, that the Canadian hospitals be concentrated and voluntary hospitals for Canadians be abolished, hospitals now conducted or equipped by the Red Cross being taken over by the Medical Service for administration, that incapacitated Canadian soldiers be returned to Canada as soon as they are fit to travel, for further medical treatment, and that the three Canadian hospitals now at Salonica be returned to England immediately if they can be spared by the Imperial authorities.

A number of recommendations affecting arrangements in Canada are made. These are, that "immediate steps be taken to provide hospitals with a thousand beds each in Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, and Vancouver, with a smaller one in Ottawa, and that these provide accommodation for a limited number of officers; that for the purpose of assisting in the organization of these hospitals a number of Canadian medical officers who have had experience at the front be detailed for duty in Canada; that all ranks before leaving Canada be examined by an independent medical board, a number of these boards to be established in various parts of Canada, this to be done for the weeding out of unfit; that no medical units be organized in Canada in future for overseas duties; that the officers of the Canadian Army Medical Corps in future be thoroughly trained at well-equipped depots to be established in Canada.

Conflict in Volhynia Has Been Resumed With the Utmost Fiercely.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The battle on the Stokhod River, in Volhynia, has broken out anew.

The Russians leaped from the trenches to the attack Saturday morning, and before darkness came the fighting had assumed the ferocity that characterized the days of early summer.

Brussiloff had prepared for his movement in his usual methodical manner. For nearly 48 hours preceding the infantry charge the heaviest guns that could be mustered poured a deluge of shot and shell into the enemy's entrenchments. Along the five-mile front from Korytnia north along the winding marsh-flanked Stokhod, hardly a foot of the German and Austrian trench lines escaped immersion in the flood of metal hurled from the Russian artillery.

At dawn the thunder of the Russian guns ceased for the first time in hours, and masses of Muscovites leaped over the parapet and poured forward into the German trenches. The rest of the story is told in the laconic statements of the War Office.

Several lines of Teuton trenches were carried, prisoners and guns were seized, and the despairing efforts of the enemy to wrest back their temporary homes failed.

On other parts of the far-flung lines in Volhynia and Galicia the Russian guns are battering at the enemy's trenches with the same ferocity, preparing for similar charges by the infantry. Neither in Galicia nor to the north have the Russian commanders despaired of smashing through the opposing lines to victory. That is what is read in the renewal of the battle on the Stokhod.

Kaiser's Slogans to Troops in East.

BERLIN, Oct. 16.—During his visit to the eastern front last week Emperor William, in a speech to the troops of General von Eben, said:

"When you again move against the enemy take with you these two slogans: 'First, He shall not get through,' and second, 'He must be beaten.' We are fighting for a just cause. Every one of you knows why you are risking your life, but many of the enemy know not why they fight. Numbers do not impress you, and I am convinced that you will show yourselves just as plucky in the future as in the past.

"Let the enemy crush his head against a wall of iron. God help you in this great work!"

In a speech to the troops under General von Boehm-Ermolli the Emperor said:

"We are all convinced that we are fighting in a good cause, and we have the confidence that the Lord God of Hosts will help us to victory."

Sir Thomas Tait Resigns.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—It is announced officially that Sir Thomas Tait has resigned his position as Director-General of National Service. He will be succeeded by Mr. R. B. Bennett, M.P.

Mr. Bennett is a man of great ability, energy, and enthusiasm. He has had a long and successful career at the bar, and during the past five years he has represented the City of Calgary in the House of Commons. On several important questions he has taken a very independent attitude. Mr. Bennett is a very strong Imperialist, and most earnest in his desire to aid in every possible way in the vigorous prosecution of the war. He will act without any remuneration or compensation, although in devoting his whole time and energies to this work he is making a very considerable personal sacrifice.

General Smith Dorrien

Heads Campaign Against

London's Unclean Stage

GENERAL SMITH-DORRIEN, who lately started a crusade against what he asserts are objectionable features in London theatrical performances, read a letter which he received from a Canadian at a meeting a few days ago. "It is a simple fact," asserted the writer, "that such plays could not be shown in Canada. If shown they would be hissed off. You have at the back of you all the better feeling of Canada. A great many Canadians are going home with the idea of Britain as a hotbed of iniquity. It is practically all they have seen of it. Our boys at home would never dream of accosting women. Here, unfortunately, the followers of the camps have taught them disrespect for womanhood. I have heard ladies from Canada say if they had known the conditions here they would never have allowed a son or brother to come." It ought to be noted that many responsible people consider the worst thing against most current theatrical performances is their utter banality.

Priests Fight for France.

When the history of the great war is written, one of the finest chapters will be dedicated to the heroism of "France's soldier priests." Serving as private or military chaplains to the troops, they have shed fresh lustre on the glory of France.

When the war broke out, France needed men to place against the strong and numerous German forces, and as the French regular troops and reserves were not sufficient to cope with the invading Teutonic hordes, the French War Office had to call for volunteers. The Archbishop of Paris endorsed the appeal of the War Office and urged the young priests who could be spared from their clerical duties in the different parishes throughout France to join the forces.

Thousands offered their services as army chaplains, others joined the rank and file of the army, and to-day there are more than 20,000 priests on the battlefield, either fighting or giving the last rites of the Catholic Church to the dying in hospitals or on the field of honor. Many have sacrificed their lives for their country, others have been taken prisoners, and are now doing their benevolent work in the prison camps in Germany.

Many heroic deeds on the battlefields have been reported, and many a wounded French and German soldier has been carried on the back of a "soldier priest" to places of safety.

Held Up War Office.

The story is told in London of a large contractor, who, when the war began, offered to build huts for no payment beyond the cost price, but subsequently, when he was in possession of the work, and the orders given him were consequently increased, he represented to the War Office that he ought to be paid a commission, naming 5 per cent., with 1 1/2 per cent. to cover standing charges. The awkwardness of the position was pointed out to him, and that it involved other contractors who had followed his first patriotic example, and were performing the work on payment of out-of-pocket expenses only.

It was suggested to him that, under the circumstances, he could, with greater propriety, work for some definite fee, the reasonableness of which was not disputed; but he persisted in his demand, with the result that, under the necessity in which the military authorities found themselves of avoiding the delay which would otherwise have been caused, it was decided after considerable controversy to pay him the commission stipulated on all work additional to that originally undertaken free of charge.

The total expenditure for which this contractor became responsible is stated to have been $16,000,000.

Esad Pasha Declared War.

A report on the death sentence passed by a court-martial in Constantinople on Esad Pasha, former provisional President of Albania, has been received in Amsterdam, according to a despatch to Reuters. The commanding general at Constantinople says in the report that Esad Pasha was proved at his trial to have conspired with bands against the Turkish Empire and to have declared war on Turkey. By doing so, the report says, and by his hostile attitude he rendered service to Turkey's enemies. The sentence of death was confirmed by the Sultan.

FACTORY REORGANIZATION.

Steps Being Taken to Increase Ontario's Output of Munitions.

One of the outstanding problems that the industrial leaders of Canada will have to face in the immediate future is the reorganization of our factories so that the supply of munitions to the men who have gone to the front will be adequate for the need. Great Britain is now reaching the point when they will be able to exert her maximum power against the enemy, and to maintain the pressure necessary to insure for the Allies the successful conclusion of the war the supply of munitions must be increased. Daily the splendid armies that Great Britain and her colonies, France, and the other allies have gathered together are moving forward they continue the great offensive movement which has brought so much encouragement of late, and men are readily stepping out to fill the places of those who have fallen. Ammunition is being used on a colossal scale, and the brave men at the front must be sustained in their work.

The Imperial Munitions Board is engaged to-day in studying the practicability of utilizing women in munition plants. A start has already been made in several plants around Montreal with most gratifying results, and with the view of demonstrating what can be accomplished in this direction a number of munition manufacturers recently went to Montreal as the guests of the Imperial Munitions Board to see for themselves.

At one plant visited some 200 women are engaged in various operations on the heaviest shell now being made in Canada, and after a month's experience have shown that they can readily be adapted to this class of work. Care has been taken in the classification of the women for the different operations with the result that the large plant is running without friction and the output is already going up. Special conditions naturally obtain in a munitions plant under war conditions, and to meet these conditions the female force is in charge of a young lady who has done social service work for many years and is therefore familiar with the problems which daily present themselves. Her testimony was that the women readily lend themselves to the impulse that calls for their services at this time, one part of the factory vies with another to make the best record, discipline is easily maintained, and there is general contentment throughout the plant.

So much for the heavy work. At another plant there are over 600 women and girls engaged upon lighter and more intricate work. Here where the operations are more delicate and intricate the more sensitive touch of the women makes them admittedly superior to men, and their reliability from day to day is leading to good results.

It was declared by several members of the party that women could easily be utilized in munitions work if an adequate supply was forthcoming. Time would have to be spent in organization and in making the factory suitable for them to work in, as well as the training that would make them efficient not only in the handling of any particular machine or operation but in making themselves familiar with shop conditions so that they would know the proper thing to do under all circumstances.

The phase of the whole question that the Munitions Board is seeking to impress upon the people of Ontario is that Canada has undertaken to raise an army of 500,000 men; we have contracted as well to supply a certain quantity of munitions. The Empire needs the soldiers, the soldiers need the munitions, and the economic organization at home must be kept as nearly normal as possible, with every element of self interest subordinated to the object for which the Allies are fighting—the maintenance of civilization throughout the world. These ends can only be secured by co-operation in every section—every home in the country, and that is the task which all will be called upon to take up.

Ontario's Latest Gift.

Ontario has again come to the front in a practical way. The Government has announced that it will give $1,000,000 out of the amount collected from the war tax this year to the Canadian Patriotic Fund, to assist that organization in providing assistance for the dependents of men who have left their work and their homes here in order to fight the Empire's battles against the menace of German aggression. To maintain payments to dependents of soldiers for the coming year the people of Ontario will be asked to contribute $6,000,000. Representations were made to the Government by the officers of the Ontario Branch of the Canadian Patriotic Fund, with the result that a grant of $1,000,000 will be made, to be used in the Province for assisting the wives, children, and other dependents of soldiers who have gone to the front. In taking this action the Government is in a most satisfactory way rendering to the people some tangible service from the war tax.

Commission From Australia.

According to a report received by the Department of Trade and Commerce from Canadian Trade Commissioner Ross at Melbourne, the Commonwealth Government has appointed a commission to visit Canada and the United States to investigate and report upon methods of manufacture and production and the conditions of employment on this continent. The commission will consist of six representative manufacturers of Australia, together with six representatives of the workers. It will spend about four months in Canada and the United States, and the industries to be specially investigated are iron, engineering, and allied trades, timber, building materials, leather, textiles, paper, and trades in the preparation of foodstuffs.

Too often bad motives are attached to good acts.

1,000 Invalided Soldiers at Halifax.

HALIFAX, Oct. 9.—Over a thousand invalided soldiers for points in Quebec, Ontario, and the West, disembarked in Halifax and are speeding toward Quebec, many of them are to receive their discharges and where different trains will be made up to convey them to their homes. Halifax might be called the port of wounded, hundreds of men leaving the gigantic steamer that kept them only four nights at sea.

A few were under escort and eleven poor fellows were manacled. They had given not their life but what to them was infinitely greater, their reason. One of these soldiers had lucid moments and would talk brightly and rationally and then would come over him a spell during which his facial contortions and evident suffering were such as would bring tears to the face of the most callous hearted and add bitterness to the deserved curses of the Kaiser and his ilk.

BULGARS WEAKENING.

British Pressure on Eastern Balkan Line is Having Its Effect.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—While the Entente forces holding the centre of the Macedonian front remain inert, both flanks continue vigorously on the aggressive.

Reports indicate a weakening of the Bulgarian resistance to the British pressure on the eastern end of the line, beyond the Struma. Here the Bulgarians have evacuated the town of Nevoljen, which has been occupied by the British, and are reported on the retreat. The British forces have withstood numerous Bulgarian counter-attacks, and the consolidation of all the ground gained is now reported.

The British official report reads: "On the Struma front the enemy showed no activity. Our troops have now consolidated all the ground gained. The total number of prisoners captured in the recent operations now amounts to three officers and 339 men.

"Our artillery commenced a bombardment of Nevoljen, but after a short time the enemy was seen evacuating the town, and it was occupied by us without loss."

The Berlin War Office report concedes that successes have been achieved by the British forces. The statement says the Bulgarians have evacuated remote villages on the east bank of the river.

To Repair Eastern France.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—The Chamber of Deputies adopted a resolution calling on all the French people to make good the damage caused by the war in the invaded departments of eastern France. The decision was unanimous.

A Soft Answer.

"What did you do when Jimmy called you a liar?" said the teacher to one of his class.
"I remembered what you said about a soft answer turneth away wrath," replied the boy.
"Good lad! What soft answer did you make?" inquired the teacher.
"I hit him with a gone-bad tomato!"

The Modest Bridegroom.

From a story told in Little Rock it would appear that a certain young man of that town was terrified by the conventionalities that appeared to him to be necessary in the case of his marriage to a girl of that town.

The youth sent a letter to a large clothing concern in New York to ask: "What is the proper dress for a groom?"

Now, it seems that the clerk who opened the mail referred this inquiry to the lively department, and that the head thereof dictated a brief reply:

Bottle-green coat, fawn-colored trousers, with top boots, silk hat cockade. We can quote you prices as follows: "In a short time came this plaintive letter from the young man in Little Rock:

"I always knew it was expensive to get married, but can't you suggest something a little less elaborate?"

Dressing Station, Firing Line—Official Film, "Battle of the Somme."

An urgent call for help again goes forth from the Motherland's mighty life-saving agency—the British Red Cross. The Empire is called upon to give greatly, give lovingly, give quickly, that the sick, wounded and suffering on all the battle fronts may not languish and perish in their hours of deepest need.

Here is a great work in which all can share. The Joint War Committee of the British Red Cross Society and Order of St. John is the only institution which carries voluntary aid to the sick and wounded of the British forces on land and sea in every region of the war. Thousands of our brave and best are saved through this splendid work. YOUR gift may save a life. Isn't it worth doing? It is. GIVE!

Red Cross Gift Day
Give on October 19th

Ontario's princely gift in 1915 of $1,514,000 rang, a clarion mercy call, throughout the Empire. The British Red Cross were grateful beyond measure, and their appeal through Lord Lansdowne, President, now comes to us as to friends who sympathize and help. The need is greater to-day than a year ago—it is ever growing. Will Ontario do less than she did last year? No! GIVE—give a day's pay, give all you can, GIVE!

Premier Hearst Has Seen the Work

"My visit to England and France has aroused deeper appreciation than ever of the splendid work of the Red Cross. It deserves every support, and I trust the people of Ontario will respond with their usual generosity to the British Red Cross Appeal for October 19th."

HON. W. H. HEARST,
Prime Minister of Ontario.

He gives twice who gives quickly.
Your help is needed NOW!

The Motherland's only direct appeal to us for help in this great war is her great Red Cross mercy work. Ontario's response must and will be quick and generous. Give through the Treasurer of your Local Committee—or, send your subscription to the Clerk of your municipality—or, make it payable to Hon. T. W. # A TALE of RED ROSES

By
GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

"I did," returned Marley calmly. "I thought it might help the price of my stock. It's been going down of late."

"Who gave you the word?"

"I didn't need it," Marley reminded him. "I'm still president of the road, you know."

"I've called it off," Sledge informed him. "You got no franchise."

"I beg your pardon," Marley smilingly interrupted. "The original franchise granted a line to the end of Grace street. When it was cut through to connect with Ridgewood avenue the authorization of the cut and all the condemnation proceedings were for an extension of Grace street."

"May I tell Mr. Sledge what we intend to do out there?" Molly pleasantly inquired.

"I don't mind," granted Mr. Marley, beaming upon his child.

"We plan to carry out the original idea of building an amusement park on the Porson property and to drop the Lincoln road project if the stockholders don't object at their meeting tomorrow," she happily told him. "Mr. Glider thinks it a much better location. Shall you be at the meeting, Mr. Sledge?"

In reply he chuckled at her.

"You're a corker!" he complimented her.

"You don't own much stock any more, do you?" she went on, delighted with her catch.

"Enough to stick around," he reminded her. "Marley, are you figuring to put something over at this meeting?"

"Are you?" returned Marley blandly.

"Huh!" Sledge half laughed. "Molly, my Bob is matched against the champion forty pound bull of Chicago tomorrow night. I can arrange for you to see the scrap without these roughnecks getting a peek at you."

"Thank you," she replied. "I'm sure I can't come, however. I've never seen a real dog fight, and I don't want to see one. But I hope Bob wins."

"He'll win," declared Sledge confidently. "He's never been licked yet."

"Everybody gets it some time, don't they?" Molly dimpled up at him.

"Uh-huh!" he gruffly assented.

Full of thought, he went over to see Bozzam, who now had an office in the newest palace of commerce.

"Ready for the meeting tomorrow?" he inquired.

"Quite," replied Bozzam, who, when with Sledge, was sparing of words.

"Is the slate fixed?"

"Sure! Bozzam, I got your record."

"Yes?" returned Bozzam carelessly.

"You served two bits before you got educated, a one year and a two stretch."

"Yes," agreed Bozzam, still carelessly.

"Well, if you try to pull anything here I'll be ten."

Mr. Bozzam laid down the pencil with which he had been tapping lightly on his desk and leaned slightly forward.

"Look here, you big slob," he gently observed, "you can't bully me, and you can't bluff me. When you get the goods on me is the time for you to get

"I'm glad I didn't sell my stock day before yesterday. I almost took thirty-five for it, but the man didn't come back."

His neighbor, a wattle necked man with a crooked nose and towlike hair which swept down his forehead and curled up over his eyebrows, said through his nose, like the wheeze of a penny whistle:

"Nyah; everything's all talk."

Up rose Attorney Tucker, a sharp nosed little man with beady eyes and the crisp business air which frowns on a smile and hates a holiday.

Let his fellow stockholders beware of too much optimism. He himself had been, next to President Marley, the largest individual holder of stock in the company. He had sold all but an extremely small portion before the panic and wished that he had sold the balance, for the outlook was very gloomy. He did not wish to make his remarks in the form of a personal tirade, but he did feel it necessary to point out that the downfall and ultimate ruin of their company was due, not to mismanagement, but to political manipulation.

"Let me tell you the truth!" he shouted. "We have with us today, at this very meeting, a man of tremendous power and influence; a politician of national renown; one who is at this moment under the searching eye of the law; an omnipotent friend and a relentless foe, and this man has chosen, for reasons of his own, to wreck and devastate and turn to useless rust

"Everybody gets it some time, don't they?" Molly dimpled up at him.

Sledge regarded him fixedly for a moment.

"You're in it, all right," he decided. "Huh!" And he walked out.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Stockholders Wield Their Mighty Ballots.

IF a slight feeling of panic threatened Sledge when he stepped into the stockholders' meeting of the reorganized street railway company nobody knew it, for he sat off to one side of the president's table, facing the gathering, as heavily indifferent as ever, his big face expressionless and his small gray eyes gazing steadily straight ahead at nothing.

Marley was far more nervous than he, waiting impatiently, gavel in hand, for Acting Secretary Hunt to finish his tedious job of clerical work. Considerable stock had been brought in to be entered on the books, and, as the certificates were displayed to him, Hunt, with a lavender silk handkerchief tucked in his cuff, looked occasionally across at Sledge, evidently worried that he could not catch the eye of the big chief.

Bert Glider was the last man in line at Hunt's desk, and as he handed over a large bundle of certificates Hunt glanced at the name on the back of the top one and coughed loudly. He scraped his chair. He dropped his corporate seal on the floor with a loud clatter, but Sledge looked straight ahead. Whatever had happened to him he would know in good time, but in the meantime he was going to rest mind and body and nerves, and, if the big boss had one faculty which more than another had helped him to success, this was it—his putty-like inertia.

Marley, waiting, gavel in hand and pulling with rapid strokes at his goatee, watched this little tableau until, with another perspiring glance at Sledge, Hunt handed back the bunch of certificates to Glider and closed his books. Then, at last, the president's gavel fell, and he announced the special stockholders' meeting of the Ring City Street Railway company open for business.

Immediately he made a neat little speech to his faithful friends, the stanch investors, who had believed in the future of their heretofore prosperous organization well enough to hold to their stock or to purchase more in the face of apparent adversity. It was true that certain purely manipulative transactions had seemed to militate against the company and had temporarily depressed the market value of its stock.

Bendix stole a sly look at Sledge. He had never batted an eyelash. However, the president went on, the intrinsic value of the stock was still there, and, with that thought constantly in mind, there was no need for a panic. The stock was worth and should command par. The improvements, for which the reorganization had been made, were to be carried out, and others vastly greater were in immediate contemplation.

It was a hopeful speech, a rousing speech, a reassuring speech, and President Marley felt when he sat down, bathed in self approbation and perspiration, that there being six reporters present by special invitation, he had raised the market value of his stock from ten to fifteen points.

So impressive was his speech that little Henry Peters, whose cheeks were shrunken and pale and whose wrinkle framed eyes were bleared from the loss of sleep, turned to his nearest neighbor and said, with a sigh of relief:

"I'm glad I didn't sell my stock day before yesterday. I almost took thirty-five for it, but the man didn't come back."

His neighbor, a wattle necked man with a crooked nose and towlike hair which swept down his forehead and curled up over his eyebrows, said through his nose, like the wheeze of a penny whistle:

"Nyah; everything's all talk."

Up rose Attorney Tucker, a sharp nosed little man with beady eyes and the crisp business air which frowns on a smile and hates a holiday.

Let his fellow stockholders beware of too much optimism. He himself had been, next to President Marley, the largest individual holder of stock in the company. He had sold all but an extremely small portion before the panic and wished that he had sold the balance, for the outlook was very gloomy. He did not wish to make his remarks in the form of a personal tirade, but he did feel it necessary to point out that the downfall and ultimate ruin of their company was due, not to mismanagement, but to political manipulation.

"Let me tell you the truth!" he shouted. "We have with us today, at this very meeting, a man of tremendous power and influence; a politician of national renown; one who is at this moment under the searching eye of the law; an omnipotent friend and a relentless foe, and this man has chosen, for reasons of his own, to wreck and devastate and turn to useless rust the Ring City street railway company."

Every eye was turned to Sledge, but that omnipotent friend and relentless foe, without moving a corpse, gazed straight ahead at nothing.

"He is no friend of the working man!" swore little Henry Peters.

As if infuriated by his impassiveness, Attorney Tucker, who was paid by Sledge for the purpose, figuratively ripped the big boss up the back, skinned him alive, hung up his hide to dry, and scattered his ashes to the winds, painting him as an insatiable monster, and chiefly calling attention to his habits of ruthless devastation. Wherever the present street car company had a line the new one would have one on an adjoining street, with newer and better and swifter cars, and a closer schedule, and unless something radical were done he would not give a continental cuss per bale for the stock of the now rapidly dying Ring City Street Railway company.

A long low sigh, like the midnight sighing in a churchyard, arose from that meeting, as Attorney Tucker sat down. Little Henry Peters, with a livid face, clutched the arm of his wattle necked neighbor.

"If that man had only come back I could have got thirty-five for my stock!" he wailed. "I'm ruined. I shall lose my home! Frank Marley is a rotten business man!"

"Yeh!" intoned the crooked nosed one. "They're all thieves."

Jim Delancy, who, with a clear eye and a straight countenance, could make louder speeches than any man in the Eighth ward, painted even a blacker picture than Attorney Tucker, and when he sat down he had bankrupted every stockholder within the sound of his voice. It even seemed incredible that a street car should still be whizzing outside. Little Henry Peters sat numbly, with his hair clutched in his hands. If he could have swapped his $9,000 worth of street railway stock for a jackknife with two broken blades his conscience would have hurt him, and every stockholder was in his class. Misery sat enthroned on every countenance.

Daniel B. Atkins, a rising young lawyer, with no capital but an empty conscience and a silver tongue, was the first individual since Marley to offer a gleam of hope.

He admitted all that the preceding gentlemen had said and believed, himself, that the company was reduced to pauperism unless something radical could be done. He had believed this so thoroughly that he had lain awake nights trying to evolve a plan for their salvation.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

She Learns Too.

There had been a family row.

"Well," remarked the alleged head of the house, "a man learns a few things when he gets married. Yes, sir, a man learns and learns."

"That may be," retorted the frowning wife, "but the school of experience doesn't hurt coeds."

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson IV.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 22, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xxvi, 1, 24-32. Memory Verses, 28, 29—Golden Text, Acts xxvi, 19—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

With the king and queen and all their pompous retinue, and the chief captains and principal men of the city (xxv, 23), this was probably one of Paul's greatest opportunities to tell to earth's great ones the wondrous story of redeeming grace. Festus, having had Paul brought in before this great gathering, said to the king and all present that, although the Jews were demanding his life, he had not been able to find that he had committed anything worthy of death, but that, having appealed to Caesar, he was going to send him to Rome, though he could not signify any crime that he had been guilty of, but he hoped that after Agrippa had heard him and examined him he might have something definite to write.

The king, having given Paul permission to speak for himself, he began by saying that he was happy to be permitted to state his case before the king because he knew him to be expert in all customs and questions among the Jews. He therefore asked to be heard patiently (verses 1-3). With a word concerning his early life at Jerusalem and his being brought up a Pharisee and well known to all the Jews, he said that the accusation against him was that he had become a follower of Jesus, risen from the dead and coming again to restore the kingdom to Israel, according to all the promises made by God through the prophets to the fathers (verses 4-8). We hope to consider or refer to some of these later in this lesson. He then confessed that, like the Jews who were now persecuting him, he had himself been a persecutor of the followers of Jesus of Nazareth, under the authority of the chief priests and a very cruel one, even going to distant cities to arrest them (verses 9-11). Then he told of his experience on the way to Damascus and of his commission from the risen and ascended Christ and of his subsequent obedience to this commission up to that day (verses 12-23).

We may be sure that such an assembly never heard such a testimony before, and we can only hope that some of those who heard became followers of Jesus as Paul prayed that they might (verse 29). Festus certainly heard more about the "One Jesus" (xxv, 19) than he knew before, but he had no use for such talk and told Paul that he was mad and beside himself (verse 24). It was not pleasant to be told so publicly, but this also was fellowship with the Lord Jesus, for they said of him, "He hath a devil and is mad; why hear ye him?" (John 8, 20). Long ago it was said of the servants of the Lord, "The prophet is a fool; the spiritual man is mad" (Hos. ix, 7), and the wisdom of this world is still of the same mind.

It is possible that some in the assembly thought Paul to be more sane than Festus, and it looks as if the king was inclined to that opinion (verse 28). The revised version reads, "With but little persuasion thou wouldst fain make me a Christian," and Paul's heart went out to God in great desire, that not only Agrippa, but all who heard him speak, might become Christians, or, as he put it, "almost and altogether such as I am, except these bonds" (verse 29). The king and governor and others having gone aside to consult, their decision was that Paul had done nothing worthy of death or of bonds, and that if he had not appealed unto Caesar he might have been set at liberty (verses 30-32). But with such fanatical Jews about, who were determined to kill him, liberty would probably have meant death to him, and we know from the Lord's night message that it was in the plan for him to go to Rome. Going back in our lesson to Paul's account of his commission by the Lord Jesus, at the time of his conversion, which is a little more full here than in the other two records, note the assurance of deliverance from the people and from the gentiles (verses 16, 17), and compare Jer. 1, 8, 19; Isa., xlii, 2. Then in lesson verse 18, how full and clear and simple his instructions, showing that all unsaved people are in darkness and under the power of Satan, but that by the gospel they may obtain light and deliverance, the forgiveness of sins and an eternal inheritance, the only condition being that they repent and turn to God and then prove the reality of their repentance by their works (verse 20). Not that God needs any works of ours to prove to Him our sincerity, for He reads the heart, but good works prove to men the reality of our faith in Christ (Tit. iii, 8). Paul declared that by the help of God he had continued to teach the death and resurrection of Christ that He might be a light to Jews and gentiles, as Moses and the prophets had testified (verses 22, 23).

Wheel Came Off Motor Car. ELMIRA, Ont., Oct. 9.—Through a wheel coming off, a motor car driven by O. Barber of Palmerston, crashed into a telephone post on the Floradale road near Elmira, at 11.30 o'clock last Thursday evening, seriously injuring Miss Louisa Nicol of Listowel, who is lying unconscious at the Zilliox Hotel here. The driver and two other occupants of the car escaped with minor injuries. Miss Nicol is not expected to recover.

Five Years for Robbing Cars. BROCKVILLE, Ont. 9.—Benson Dickson, G. T. R. trainman, who pleaded guilty to stealing merchandise from G. T. R. and C. N. R. freight cars, was sentenced by Judge Dowley to five years in the penitentiary. A fellow-worker, Donald Beach, regarded as the tool of Dickson, was let go under suspended sentence. Previously Dickson had served a term for a similar offence.

Ontario Indians Starve?

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—An Associated Press despatch from Marshfield, Wis., says: "Indians in the northern part of Ontario are starving as a result of the action of a large trading company in abandoning a yearly credit system, according to Howard E. Pullins and Burton E. Livingston of Baltimore, Md., research professors in plant physiology at the Johns Hopkins University. The two professors arrived here the other day after spending two months in the Canadian wilds near Fort Churchill, seeking specimens of vegetable and tree life for laboratory use. Many of the Indians, they declared, were unable to obtain sufficient food from the woods and streams to carry them through the summer."

Over and Under. "Archie is fairly going crazy over his new motorcar."

"That's strange. Every time I've seen him he has been going crazy under it."

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine—Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:—

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and I left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. MAYME ASBACH, North Crandon, Wis.

Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all women because it has done so much for me."—Mrs. A. L. McCLELAND, 509 Have St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were bearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and I am pleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—Mrs. B. M. Osgood, 1 Haynes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

CARLETON PLACE COUNCIL.

The Carleton Place Council met on Wednesday evening last, the Mayor in the chair and every member present except Mr. Baird.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Letters were read as follows: From the Organization of Resources Committee, Toronto, asking Council to take the necessary steps to organize for a subscription to be taken on Oct. 10th in aid of the British Red Cross Society.

From Brown Bros., nurserymen, acknowledging receipt of balance of account, and agreeing to replace the trees which were damaged.

From Dr. M. A. McFarlane, asking for have business tax remitted from June 19th, as he had not been practicing from that date.

From the Hamilton City Council asking for co-operation in petitioning the Government for an investigation into the high prices of the necessities of life.

From the Hydro Electric Railway Association soliciting membership.

From the Municipal Association asking Council to petition the Ontario Government to amend the law so that fees collected by the magistrate be retained by the corporations.

A number of accounts were also read and referred.

Moved by Mr. Pattie, seconded by Mr. Nichols, that the following accounts be paid and that the Mayor grant the necessary orders on the collector's bond.

W. H. Allen, premium on collector's bond	$23.00
Jas. Halliday, tile	$7.65
Hall Tel. Co., exchange service, 6 mos.	$7.15
C. H. W. H. work on hall #4: painting	$24.00
St. George's, stoves, lamps, etc.	$15.00
Lighting, $18.27	$38.75
Gas, Percha & Hubert, Ltd., hydrant	$3.13
Pay sheet ending Sept. 30th	$7.20
J. A. Dack, locker, and chains	$0.00
M. J. Hughes, blues one	$1.00

W. A. Nichols, lumber and wood	$26.82
T. J. Bros., sundries	$15.00
J. A. McKen, exams for insanity	$5.00
Frank Taylor, drawing board	$1.00
Thos. Stevens, do	$0.50
Fred. Stanzel, do	$0.50

The Mayor took up the letter from Niagara Falls Council left over from last meeting, asking the Council to co-operate in petitioning the Government to have the pensions paid disabled officers and privates based on the same level.

It was moved by Mr. Donald, seconded by Mr. McNeely, that the Council express sympathy with the proposal of the Niagara Falls Council, and the resolution be forwarded to the Secretary of State, Ottawa.

No action was taken on the request of the Hydro Electric Association, and the petition re the high cost of necessities. No action on the request for a remittance of business tax.

On motion of Messrs. Cameron and Donald, the balance of account of Messrs. Brown Bros., $3.85, was ordered to be paid on the understanding that new trees be sent to replace those damaged.

The British Red Cross Society's request was then discussed, after which the Mayor appointed Messrs. Nichols, Donald and Bates a committee to call a meeting of the Committee of the Patriotic Fund, Red Cross Fund, Board of Trade and Council, to discuss the question and decide on what method will be best to adopt to deal with the collection of this fund.

Hints for Housekeepers.

Use paper bags to cover the hands when cleaning the stove.

Apply talcum powder to burns. This has a cooling, pleasant effect.

Iron embroidered pieces on the wrong side on a soft, smooth foundation till dry.

Stir milk and flour together with a fork. This prevents the mixture from getting lumpy.

Occasionally burn a small piece of zinc in the stove to clean the soot out of the chimney.

Boil a little lye in kettles that have had something burned in them. Rinse thoroughly afterwards.

Scrub men's and boys' overalls with a scrub brush, then rinse and hang up to dry without wringing.

Rub the hands with a piece of lemon or a ripe tomato to remove the stains made by handling fruit.

Place the sheets of sticky fly paper in the sun; darken all other opening and see how many flies you will catch.

Add a pinch of salt to the white of eggs when beating. They will beat up smooth in less time and with less effort.

Dip brooms into boiling water when through using and hang up to dry. Hang up all brooms and brushes when not in use.

Canadian Methodists plan to raise $300,000 for missions next year.

ANOTHER WAY OF HELPING

Dear Sir:—

The Ontario W. C. T. U. in November 1914, became responsible for all the necessary money outlay in connection with the work of a Y. M. C. A. representative in France.

In Jan. of 1915, two such men were taken under our care. In all we have had five Y. M. C. A. representatives. Two of these—Capt. Oscar Irwin and Harry Whiteman—died in France. A third was invalided home. We are now supplying all the needed support for Capt. Ed. Archibald and Charles Sharpe.

The following letter from Capt. Ed. Archibald has recently arrived:

Dear Mrs. Thornley:—
I received the marked Testaments and the leaflets, O. K., for which accept our hearty thanks.

Having been appointed to oversee the physical recreation and sports for the whole Canadian Corps, I am in a position to use anything in the way of outdoor or indoor games—baseball, football, lacrosse, tennis, checkers, chess, dominoes, etc. etc.—anything out of which the boys could get pleasure and exercise.

I also want all sorts of small musical instruments—concertinas, flutes, piccolos, bones, mouth organs, etc.—for they are a great factor in our entertainments.

We have been having some very trying times lately and have lost a large number of our men. But there must be no pause in our service whatever the casualties.

Yours in the work,

Ed. B. Archibald.

No one can read the accounts of life at the Front without realizing the intolerable strain under which our men live.

Again and again Capt. Archibald and other Y. M. C. A. workers, have mentioned the absolute need for recreation and the soothing helpful influence of music and games.

In thousands of Canadian homes there are just such unused articles as Capt. Archibald needs. The boys have grown to men and gone their ways out into the world; and the once cherished flute or mouth organ or football, is lying away in some forgotten corner. Look for its mother dear, and send it to us, that it may help those other brave lads to bear their almost intolerable burdens.

But if you should have nothing of the kind—perhaps the grandchild have taken possession—and you are still minded to help, you can send us money to buy anything you designate. Should you decide to purchase yourself, please do not get several instruments when the money you expend would procure one article that would give real satisfaction. For instance, the 25 cent mouth organ is not to be compared with the 75 cent make in the range and durability. The K. C. desired is C, if that is procurable. Where the keys are alike, or can be harmonized, trench concerns can be arranged.

And that box of dominoes, or the checker board or chess set—hunt them up and send them along to the City W. C. T. U. Headquarters, 435 Park Ave., London, Ontario, Canada, where all the supplies for Capt. Archibald's work are being gathered.

Please do not forget the last two items of this address, for since the war began many a letter intended for this town has crossed the ocean.

As fast as enough material is received to fill a barrel, it will be shipped.

Both Capt. Archibald and Sharpe are anxious for Gospel portions.

They can also use an unlimited quantity of the specifically prepared soldier's leaflets. These are daintily gotten up and $1.00 buys 50 copies. They carry the Good News in winning language and attractive dress.

Hoping that those who can, may help promptly; and, on behalf of the Ontario W. C. T. U., heartily thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space so kindly accorded, etc.

(Mrs.) May R. Thornley,
Pres. W. C. T. U. Patriotic & Missionary Board, 843 Dundas St. London, Ont.

Son of Mr. Thomas Bryce of Carleton Place, aged 20 years, who enlisted at Smiths Falls with the 38th Batt., in the fall of 1914. Went overseas in August, 1915, and a month later went to France, and was at the front until September 9th, 1916, when he was killed in action at the Battle of the Somme.

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

King Ferdinand of Roumania made an urgent plea for allied assistance.

Allied aviators carried out an effective raid on the German rifle works at Oberdorf.

Jacob Tobias, aged six, of Toronto, died from injuries received when he was struck by a motor car.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier told the Women's Canadian Clubs at London he is a convert to woman suffrage.

Harry Yates fell 63 feet in a Royal Bank building elevator shaft, Toronto, alighted in water and was not killed.

The jury found that Walter Montgomery of Madoc township was murdered on Oct. 3, but did not name the slayer.

Judge Macbeth, in London, ruled on Saturday that churches are not exempted from local improvement and similar taxation.

Joseph Montgomery, accused of the murder of his brother Walter, cut his throat in Madoc jail and died in Belleville Hospital.

Jack Couston, a farmer, of West Broughton, Que., was found dead in his wagon on the highway, and murder by tramps is suspected.

Capt. Frank Montour of the Six Nations, who enlisted as a private and won promotion on the field, has been recommended for the Victoria Cross.

Wapioak, one of the Indians on trial at Kenora charged with the murder of Mrs. and Miss Erma Heubner, admitted in detail the murder, and was found guilty.

Women and girls have displaced men in the ticket offices of theatres and railway stations in England. They work in the munition plants, collect fares on the busses and even drive them.

Work is to be begun at once on an aeroplane factory to be established by the Imperial Munitions Board at Toronto, the total cost to be about a million dollars and the capacity six machines a day.

Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent quotes the Tageblatt, of Berlin, to the effect that classes of 1870 to 1875 (men between the ages of 58 and 63) will take place this month in the Province of Brandenburg, in which Berlin is situated.

The tallest recruit in the British army is Frederick Kempster, only 21 years of age (and still growing). He stands 8 ft 2 ins., weight 378 pounds, size of boots 22½. He can span two octaves on a piano and light a cigarette at a lamp post. The military authorities are wondering what to do with him.

During the past week the British War Office has issued a statement showing the number of casualties officially admitted by the Germans up to the end of September. The dead alone reach the enormous total of 870,182, while the prisoners and missing aggregate 428,829. That is 1,299,011 definitely out of the war. The wounded number another two millions and a quarter. And in this connection it has to be remembered that the German casualty lists are notoriously incomplete.

At an auction sale of Americana in New York a few days ago, Charles Fred Hartman, a representative of the Library of Congress, at Washington, D.C., purchased a quaint old letter from a priest in Canada, Father Sequenet, to a woman who as a child was taken captive in an attack by the French on Dover, N.H., in 1689, brought to Montreal and educated and later escaped to the British colonies. When she died, in 1773, she was Mrs. Thomas Baker, of Dover. With the letter was a reply written by Governor William Burnet, of the Colony of Massachusetts. This brought $30.

A WOMAN'S WORK

sometimes reduces her strength to the depths of weakness—her devotion to household cares prevents sufficient rest and recreation. Thousands of women in this condition find Scott's Emulsion exactly what they need; it is predigested body-food so medically perfected that every drop yields direct returns in strengthening the organs and tissues and in making healthy, life-sustaining blood. Scott's Emulsion is devoid of alcohol or any harmful drugs, and overcomes tiredness and nervousness in a marvelous way.

ST. VITUS DANCE CAN BE EASILY CURED

A Tonic for the Blood and Nerves
With Rest all That is Needed.

Many a child has been called awkward, has been punished in school for not keeping still or for dropping things, when the trouble was really St. Vitus dance. This trouble may appear at any age but is most often met between the ages of six and fourteen. The most frequent cause of the disease is poor blood, aggravated by indoor confinement, or mental strains at school.

Under these conditions the blood fails to carry nourishment to the nerves and the child begins to show listlessness and inattention. Then it becomes restless and twitching of the muscles and jerking of the limbs and body follow. A remedy that cures St. Vitus dance and cures it so thoroughly that no trace of the disease remains is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which renew the blood thus feeding and strengthening the starved nerves. This is the only way to cure the trouble, and parents should lose no time in giving this treatment if their child seems nervous or irritable. Mrs. Wm. A. Squires, Cantoning, Ont., says: "My only daughter, now fourteen years of age was troubled for several years with St. Vitus dance. She was so bad that at times she would lose control of her limbs and her face and eyes would be contorted. We had medical advice and medicine, but it did not help her. In fact we thought the trouble growing worse, and finally we had to take her from school. About a year ago we began giving her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and by the time she had taken five boxes she was completely cured, and is now a fine, healthy girl. I firmly believe we owe this to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and are very grateful for her restoration to perfect health."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $3.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

According to unofficial figures now available, the Province of Alberta produced approximately 1,870,000 pounds of wool during the current year. Southern Alberta is reported to have shipped, in all, about 1,318,000 pounds, the district centering on Calgary about 285,000 pounds, and the remainder of the Province approximately 267,000 pounds.
