ABOLITION OF BOARD OF COMMERCE MAY COME

SUGAR REFINERS MUST BARE ALL BOARD OF COMMERCE TRANSACTIONS WHEN THEY APPEAR BEFORE CABINET OCT. 26

Question of Profits Made During War Will Be Subject of Fullest Investigation--Flood of Protests Continues To Reach Government-Cab inet Minister Says Order Was "Bolt From Blue."

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—By the Cana dian Press.—When sugar refiners appear before the cabinet on October 20 full particulars will be required on all profits made in recent years. The present situation of the refiners is regarded in official circles as one undoubtedly worthy of sympathetic consideration. But it is felt that inquiry should not rest with the present financial difficulties of the refiners. There is also with the present financial difficulties of the refiners. There is also with question of profits made during the war period—whether such profits were distributed or placed to reserve—in fact, the whole recent financial history of the refineres.

This history will have to be given by the refiners. With anything less it is felt the inquiry would be incomplete.

An emphatic denial is made tod ay to statements that the cabinet any way inspired the order of the board of commerce. One cabinet minister describes the order as "a bolt from the blue."

"We knew nothing of it," he added. "It was a complete surprise."

The flood of communications on the order continues. One branch of the representations now being made to the government is illustrative of the manner in which industries interlock. The refiners had appealed for assistance in the marketing of their manufactured products; low, industries which use refined sugar as a raw material are presenting their side of the controver sy. The confectioners are a case in point. They complain that candy made from the cheap sugar of the cheap sugar across the line or to be better protected against cheap candy from the United States.

MEIGHEN GOVERNMENT IS TOOL OF INTERESTS. SAYS LIBERAL LEADER

Pentictonfi B. C., Oct. 15.—By the Canacian Press—Although it was after 11 o'clock last night before W. L. Mackenzie King began his address here, owing to the delays en route, a large crowd greeted him. Denuaciation of the recent board of commerce sugar order featured his remarks. He charged that the Meighen Government was the too' of the big interests, one of which the sugar order was designed to placate. "I hesitate" he said, "to go to the length of saying that personal or business interests of any member of the present administration may help to account for the chromstances that account for the circumstances that io account for the circumstances that the consuming public of the Dominion of Canada find themselves today so completely at the mercy of a monopoly controlling this all-important article of food. I do, however, think that it is in the rubile interests that there should be an immediate disciosure of the persons who, at the present time, and who, within fecent years, have acted as members of the board of directors of the sugar refining companies in Canada, the St Lawrence refinery at Montreal, and others, by which the stocks of these companies are held. I challenge the Government to see that these facts are immediately given in the Canadian public. A knowledge of them is the necessary first step in them is the necessary first step in helping to clear up the situation, which is of concern to every consumer in the Dominion.'

PRESBYTERIANS URGE TOTAL PROHIBITION

Race Track Gambling Strongly Condemned by

Montreal, Oct. 15 .- Urging total pro hibition, criticizing the operation of the wine and beer law and asking that gambling on race tracks be prohibited, the Presbyterian Synod of Montreal and Ottawa yesterday placed itself on record in the following terms:

(1) That the synod record its conviction that there is no remedy for the traffic in intoxicants but total prohibition, and appeals to her membership in order to exert every effort in the coming referendum to secure as large a majority as possible in favor of crushing out this great evil.

(2) That the synod expresses its belief that the wine and beer law in the province of Quebec, has so far proved a conspicuous failure; that it deplores the flagrant way in which this law is violated in the large centres, and that it calls on the Government of the province either to enforce the law rigidly or put upon the statute books a measure of total prohibition, with adequate machinery for its enforcement.

(3) That whereas the Parliament of Canada has, in the criminal code, prohibited the business of gambling in general, at all times and in all places, but has expressly exempted the business of gambling race meetings; and whereas race track gambling has become a serious evil in our land, exerting a demoralizing influence (1) That the synod record its conviction that there is no remedy for the traffic in intoxicants but total prohibition, and appeals to her membership in order to exert every effort in the meetings; and whereas race trace gambling has become a serious evil in our land, exerting a demoralizing influence on many of our people; be it resolved that this synod earnestly appeals to the Federal Government to take steps to

Sugar Order Likely To Spell Doom of the Present Commission.

GOVERNMENT'S ATTITUDE

Meighen's Administration Believed To Have Doubted Legality of Order.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, Oct. 15.—That the sudden and violent clash of opinion between the Government and the board of commerce upon the sugar situation may have conceivable result, either in the abolition or the complete reconstruction of the commission, is believed in some quarters here. The suspension of the board's order pending a full hearing by the Government of all interested parties was based first on the doubtful legality of the order and second upon its expediency frow the viewpoint of the object of the board.

The ill-starred order endured but for a day, during which brief period, however, it aroused more widespread protests than has been created by any order for many a long day past.

The hearing will, it is anticipated, be an important one. Prominent among those who will attend will be the refiners who profess faith in the justice of their claims and declare that the situation is primarily of the Government's own creation and not theirs. For former artificial restriction on the tred ment's own creation and not theirs. Fo situation is primarily of the Government's own creation and not theirs. For former artificial restriction on the trade they hold the Government responsible, but it appears to be a moral rather than a legal responsibility, and there is no definite contract involved.

Refiners Claim Losses.

Had there been, the refiners might have had recourse to the exchequer court to secure reimbursement of alleged losses, but the Government will not grant a fiat for the hearing of such a claim. The refiners claim losses, but the refineries will be requested to show what gairs they actually made, by which they were enabled to pay the dividends which they did pay, and on such information will very much depend the strength of their case. Bare hints have been thrown out that the "ruin" of the refiners will drag down others, and that the whole commercial fabric of the Dominion is threatened, unless protection is accorded. If this is so, then it is to be expected that those interests whose fate is so closely bound up with that of the refiners will also plead their case. If the banks who backed the refiners are threatened, then it will be for them to come and say so. At any rate, the public will know all about it by the time the hearing is over. The canners will be here also, as well as the cardy manufacturers, who at present must compete with the at present must compete with the United States candy made from 11-cent sugar. It is further rumored that the boot men and others, who claim that they are as much entitled to protection on a falling market as the re-

That this spirit of leadership is manifesting itself is evident by the women's institutes, which have developed so rapidly throuchout the country, and it is possible for every teacher to find some field for her talent in the program of work which is drawn up by the institutes. Reading circles, drama leagues, literary societies during the winter months will do a lot for the advancement of the community, and there is nothing better for young people than well directed reading."

May Only Modify Order.

That the Government's action constitutes suspension and not reversal of the boards order is a fact which must not be lost sight of. There is considerable mystery as to the authorship of the order and also as to the degree of knowledge which the Government had of it. The order has had the effect of testing public opinion and the moral to be derived from the test is that the public can be more easily worked up on questions of prices than upon the League of Nations.

Bound hand and foot with ropes, their hair clipped in ragged streaks, clothes orn to tatters, with many bruises and faces covered with great ugly blotches of red, administered by a paint brush, the thirty men were piled in a heap on the ground after a bitter fight lasting well over two hours. So that their victory will be immortal, the sophs secured the services of a photographed freshmen in all their misery.

Were Outnumbered.

It was a heartbreaking battle from the viewpoint of the fishmen, for un-be derived from the test is that the public can be more easily worked up on questions of prices than upon the League of Nations.

The attitude of the Government appears to be that while the refiners have reason for their demands, this order was thrust upon an unsuspecting public which had not been made aware of the facts. If such facts are brought out in full hearing the public, the Government believes, may be more ready to acquiesce in whatever action may be taken or permitted.

It was a heartbreaking battle from the viewpoint of the fishmen, for undoubtedly the victory would have been theirs if the second year men did not have reserves in the offing in the person of senior men. Coming at the crucial moment the six third and fourth year men turned the tide of the battle in favor of the sophs, with dire results for the freshmen in all their misery.

Chief Engineer Gaby Again Examined by I. F. Hellmuth, K. C.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—The famous letter of Premier Drury to Sir Adam Beck, dated March 18, 1920, and asking for particulars of various power and radial projects being undertaken by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission, was read to the royal commission on provincial radial purchase and extension this morning. In this letter the premier informed Sir Adam, as chairman of the commission, that he had instructed the auditors to report on the state of affairs in each system and approximate the amount of money to be advanced by the province to the commission, to complete works and liquidate maturing liabilities.

The auditor had also been asked to express his opinion on the soundness of each undertaking.

"In the meantime," wrote Premier Drury, "I shall appreciate if the commission will let me know what the estimated costs of the construction of the Chippawa Power Canal will be . . . and when finished I would also like a report as to the situation of the Hydro-Electric radial railways, with particulars of lines which the commission contemplates constructing and operating, and estimated cost of construction and Great Britain's Vital Industries To Suspend Operations With Commencement of the Walkout of 1.000.000 Miners On Saturday—Railwaymen Considering Whether or Not To Join Coalmen.

London, Oct. 15.—Unless some wholly unforeseen intervention develops, more than 1,000,000 coal miners throughout the United Kingdom will begin a strike on Saturday, and the country's all important coal industry will be paralzyed.

This decision was reached this morning at a conference of the miners' delegates, who announced that in view of the Government's unsatisfactory reply to the miners' claims for an increase in wages there was nothing left to do but strike.

It was announced that some of the men in the engineering departments could remain at work to keep the mines in order. Coincident with the strike decision came the announcement that the Government had placed a ban upon the export of coal, which move will have far-reaching effect upon neighboring countries more or less dependent on Great Britain for their supplies. Many of the British industries, notably in the iron and steel branches, and some of the shipbuilding and engineering works already are arranging to close down.

The question whether the railwaymen would unite with the miners was the subject of deep public concern today, but no indication as to its course was forthcoming from the railway union. The Government has made every preparation to cope with the situation, maintaining food supplies and the provision of other

His arrival is looked upon as confirmation of insistent rumors that Finland and Poland have made a secret agreement, and that neither will complete a separate peace with the Bolsheviki until the two countries reach a perfect under-standing and lay the foundation for a Baltic union, in which the two coun-tries would be the backbone.

Letvia. Esthonia and Lithuania, being smaller than Finland, and Poland, have regarded them with suspicion and Poland's aggressive action against Lithuania has added to this distrust. The three small countries, however, are so learful of the Bolsheviki that they realize they cannot stand alone and it seers likely the organization of a Baitic union may be effected soon. Lithuanians are greatly agitated by the announcement by Polish authorities that two Polish regiments are moving against Vilna to dislodge Gen. CHOICE OF THIS COLLEGE—WHERE THE HEINTZMAN & CO.
PIANO IS IN DEMAND.

No capable teacher of the planoforte will think of using a second-rate instrument in teaching. A good plano has much to do with successful teaching. This is a point practically illustrated in all the leading conservatories of music. Take for example, the Toronto Conservatory of Music. This institution has a preponderance of planos manufactured by Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited. 242 Dundas street. London—twenty-six Uprights and three Grand Planos. Mr. Vogt, musical director of this institution, has said: "It gives me pleasure to testify as to the superior quality of the Heintzman & Co. Plano now in use by me in my class at the Conservatory of Music. The pure and singing quality of the tone, and the admirable evenness and elasticity of the action, as well as the artistic regulating and the fine finish in all parts of the instrument, are such as to reflect the utmost credit upon your house and upon Canadian skill and enterprise."

NEW HOTEL TO BE READY FOR FAIR VISITORS

Holders of Second Mortgage Bonds Banquet At Hunt Club.

GREAT YEAR FOR CITY

Large Number of Tourists Will Be Attracted-Mayor Little Eulogized.

London's new hotel will be ready for visitors to the 1921 Western Fair, was the confident prediction made by President George M. Reid to holders of second mortgage bonds in the project, during a luncheon at the London Hunt and Country Club last right. Plans were thoroughly explained, and a campaign for the disposal of first mortgage bonds was outlined.
W. S. Sample, Canadian representative of the George A. Fuller Company, direction of Mr. Reid, for the past two years had been one of the city's greatest institutions. The need of a new hotel was too apparent to need any testimony from him. He believed it was a greater nevessity than factories. He predicted that present hotels would not be injured, but that they would be expanding, because tourists would be attracted here in large numbers when they knew there was adequate accommodation.

they knew there was adequate accommodation.

W. S. Sample gave a clear outline of the building situation. He said that the Fuller Company had carefully examined the proposition here, and from their experience with their own hotels in the United States things were apparently favorable.

He was confident that the $1,000,000 being raised would be ample to give the city what it was looking for in the way of an hotel. He advised thorough consideration of the plans, and urged that his company be given the opportunity of preparing detailed estimates, no matter how great the desire in hasten the erection of the building might be. Laying one stone upon another is the easiest part of the work, he stated. The real work was preparing the plans and procuring the right materials at the right time.

The Schedule.

When construction is started a time schedule will be prepared. Herizontal lines will indicate the various trades, and vertical lines the dates on which and vertical lines the dates on which schedule will be prepared. Horizontal lines will indicate the various trades, and vertical lines the dates or which they will commence and finish their parts of the contract. Detailed working estimates will be given every two weeks, together with cost estimates, to that bondholders will not have to wait until the completion of the task to know whether it has varied from the estimates.

B. G. Hines said that the need for a new hotel was so apparent, the city was so good, and everything was so lavorable, that details were hardly necessary. The operation of hotels is now on a strictly business basis, he esserted.

"It was one of the last to really get flow to an efficiency hasis but it is

They were convinced of the need of a flew hotel here, and that the citizens would be back of it. The bond issue will be primarily a London one, he said, as it is essential to have the support of the citizens. He urged holders of second mortgage bonds to give the project their strongest support.

Good Augury.

Fifteen canvassers associated with
Mr. Brent in Victory Loan campaigns were most enthusiastic when asked to take up the sale of these bonds, and he regarded it as a good augury to find such a willing spirit in this direction.

Ald. Bridge said that he had ha Ald. Bridge said that he had had some doubts regarding the hotel at first, but was now convinced that it was a tremendously good investment. He was daily coming across instances commercial travelers transacting heir business here in the shortest possible time to avoid an overnight stay, and this with other indications had convinced him that the hotal was a vital necessity for the city.

Just how barefaced and deliberate was the attempt of certain parties at Ottawa to force the Canadian public to pay prefiteering prices for sugar in the face of a declining market is shown in the following official reports regarding the market situation published by Canadian Grocer. That the storm of protest from all parts of the country was amply justified, and that the Meighen Government has cause to hide its head in shame for allowing such a proposition to even be considered is apparent.

"It was one of the last to really get down to an efficiency basis, but it is sthere now," he said. "Cost production has been a feature of many manufacturing businesses for years, and hotels, particularly since the elimination of the bars, have found it necessary to systematize. The interior checking of a hotel today is as good as in most businesses. Of course, the big element is the origial cost, and it largely will determine the dividends."

Tourist Come.

Mr. Hines, too, was of the opinion that existing hotels would not be injured. He could not recall one instance in which one of the Benson-Hines hotels had done so. It had been found that the supply created the demand to a large extent, because tourists came where they knew there were first-class hotels.

The third desideratum in the physical regeneration of the race is the public health instruction of teachers during their high school and Normal days. Such instruction should not be confined to anatomy or physiology, how to brush the teeth and the proper hours of sleep. These are all good but the instruction should also include special consideration of the things the race needs most—and what is that? Surely the answer is the finding and correction of those defects which, beginning with the child, lead on in the young adult to the enormous percentage of unfitness already described.

Today we are turning our attention to the children themselves. The surrounding needs must have attention, but these are looked out for now far better than before. We are in a position to realize now that however good the surroundings may be, however much they may aid in protection against some forms of disease, they will not, cannot correct defects of eyes, ears, throats—they will not insure high physical and mental development. The method of operation seems to have been the same in each of the three stores visited by the strangers. Entering the store one or other of the men would ask for some trivial article and when it was wrapped up, present a $20 bill in payment. When the change was brought either the same man or another of the party would suddenly find that he had just the necessary amount of small change in his pocket and that there was no need for changing the big bill.

In the meantime one of the men had picked up the change, but hearing his companion's remark would immediately offer it back and receive the $20 bill in exchange. Ottawa has not yet published the results of the physical examinations of young Canadian manhood made during the war. If, however, these approximate as they probably will, those of the U. WINDSOR BANKERS PREDICT COMING OF EASIER CREDIT

About.

Windsor, Oct. 14.—Credit conditions in Canada, which have been unusually tight during the past few weeks, may be expected to ease up immediately following the marketing of this year's grain crop, according to managers of the local banks.

As a result of the increased transportation, labor and production costs this year, more money than usual has been advanced, the local bank managers declare, than ever before, to manufacturers and farmers.

The prediction is also made that credit will be easier to obtain in Canada than in the United States or other foreign countries.

We have not doubt that the sugar barons are still pleased to refer to their industry as an "infant industry." After having made vast profits during the war period and after having queezed the people of this country tight this last year, these people fly to cover at the oncoming of fair competition, and a willing and easy Government sees to it that they shall continue to make big profits, even though every home in Canada suffer.

SNOBBERY PREVAILS.

When the war was on and there was need for the production of hospital supplies, comforts for soldiers and other such like activities, women of all classes of society gathered together and worked in unison and good fellowship with one another for the good of the cause. It was hoped that the friendly intercourse thus established would continue after the circumstances which had called it forth had ceased to exist. It is regrettable, however, that such is not the case, and that there is in evidence a disposition on the part of certain members of society to ignore to whom they had been brought in friendly course during the period of their war time activities. It was hoped that the influence that during the war had operated to bring int described as "the different classes of society." would create such a community of interest and friendliness of feeling as would last beyond the period for which the association existed. Close questioning of Stinson had yielded the information which his uncle had not seen fit to volunteer in regard to lear night; alongwater with the learn of the sense of the se had not seen it to volunteer in regard to last night's clandestine visitors at the Island residence—Nickleby, president of the Interprovincial Loan and Savings Company; Alderson, of the Alderson Construction Company; Blatchford Ferguson, the lawyer. If, as the Honorable Milton had intimated, it Honorable Milton had intimated, it had been a business meeting merely, they must be planning a raid on the stock market to account for all the secrecy with which the meeting had been shrouded. His uncle, Phil knew, had invested heavily in mining stocks, and J. Cuthbert Nickleby was the man who had been most closely associated with him in these private investments, while for some time now Ferguson had been favored with Waring's legal patronage in such deals as had come to Kendrick's notice. As for Alderson, he was a comparative stranger to Phil—a contractor who had risen rapidly during the real estate boom, and who very reasonably might be taking a fiyer on the market.

> reasonably might be taking a flyer on the market.
> It must be something of this sort, and in the face of his uncle's evident desire for him to mind his own business Phil was inclined to let it go at that. It was scarcely to be expected that his uncle would break the custom of years in a sudden burst of confidence just because his nephew happened to surprise him in one of his difficult situations. His life was full of such difficult situations, no doubthad been for years—and the Honorable had been for years—and the Honorable Milton was accustomed to relying upon himself to surmount them as he saw fit.

Far from feeling any resentment of his uncle's refusal of his boyish offer of assistance, therefore, Phil now regarded the offer itself as somewhat ridiculous from his uncle's standpoint. To one of such large connections ten thousand dollars was the same as a hundred-dollar bill to the average man. Yet his uncle had thanked him for his good intentions and tactfully had made him feel that the appreciation was sincere. At no time had the two been in closer sympathy than during this unexpected interview. His uncle was not given to sentiment. Perhaps the not given to sentiment. Perhaps the Phil paused in the act of lacing his boot to frown out the window. The Honorable Milton Waring undoubtedly Honorable Milton Waring undoubtedly was greatly worried about something—financial affairs maybe. Or was that only one side of it, incidental to something not so simple of adjustment? The searching look, the solemnity of the words which had followed that sudden outburst against political conditions of the day, that reference to one man fighting a pack of wolves—what about that? No matter what happened he wanted his nephew to continue believing that he had tried to do his duty.

No matter what happened! It was this remark, more than any other, which fostered Kendrick's disquietude. Something was liable to happen, then?—something calling for a blind exercise of faith in his uncle; something which on the surface might seem to question his—his what? Integrity? Political honor? Social standing? Or was it merely an emphasis of speech with no special significance? Phil shifted uneasily on the chair as he thought of his aunt's position if some catastrophe befell his uncle. If any trouble of that kind were likely to develop, surely his uncle would have told him. Well, there was no use in getting himself all worked up over

The smile with which the Honorable Milton Waring had welcomed the promised change of subject faded slowly. He wagged his head in reproof.

"Very feolish of you, Philip—to take any notice of that sort of thing. Let 'em talk!" Yet he looked at this nephew of his with a new interest. "Grafter, eh? Didn't believe it, eh?" "Anyone who looks up your political record, Uncle Milt, must respect you," said Phil seriously. "These newspapers that are so fond of handing out roasts seem to overlook the fact that you were the man mainly responsible you were the man mainly responsible of them have got the nerve to some of them have got the nerve to some of them have got the nerve to shint that the present government—"

If he had only known then what he knew had only known then what he knew had had only known then what he knew had builton. Wait, she had been spying upon the Waring residence, upon this secret what had transpired? It was lack of this information which made it difficult to mailyze the situation intelligently. Had he done right is withholding from his uncle the fact of his unusual form his with which the Honorable would not hide it all, but it might help. He tried tying his handserchief over his eye as a bandage, but felt so foolight had been spying upon the whole had the redoubtable Mr. McCorquodale around the next corner. Phil breakfasted alone. Although the sun had climbed high enough to dispel the fog his uncle still slept the heavy sleep of utter exhaustion. Without disturbing him, therefore, Kendrick had

"Ye gods!, What a fall was there.

As he shook hands with Conway, the young student who presided over the outer office, Kendrick was conscious that the office boy and the stenographers behind him were enjoying the mil sensation which his black eye inspired. Even Conway was grinning like an idiotic cat from Cheshire. The two had known each other, somewhat casually, at the university.

There is great interest around Western University these days regarding the rugby game on Monday with St. Michael's College fourteen. Both the team and the rooters were hard at practice today, and everything is in readiness to stage the opening game in the intercollegiate series for this year. The team had a full hour's signal drill and the rooters were hard at practice again the plays are going more smoothly each day. The men will practice again this afternoon after the Collegiate field day.

"My vindication will come if ever Carpentier meets Dempsey," said Levinger. Carpentier meets Dempsey," said Levin-sky. "In the second round he hit me harder than I have ever been hit be-fore. From that moment to the end of the contest I was dazed."

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phiegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare, in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it ½ plut of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one table-spoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.—Advt.

Everyone in the grandstand will be given a song sheet, so that the songs can be followed. The Western Athletic Association have invited the patients at the Byron Sanatorium to their guests at the game, and it is expected that about 100 of them will accept the offer.

The weeping was done by little Earl Sande, the jockey who was slated to ride the Ross horse until the announcement was made at the last minute that Keough would pilot him.

Little Sande looked upon the race as the big event of his career as a jockey and was not notified until nearly noon that his place in the saddle was to be taken by another rider.

He knew that Keough had made the trip from Kentucky for some special purpose, but never dreamed that it was to ride in the big race. When he was told that his services would not be required, the little fellow wept like a baby, and was so affected that it is doubtful if he will be able to ride for a few days.

There are various rumors as to why Sande was not allowed to ride. He has had the mount on Sir Earton in a.l his races this year, and was thought to know more about the horse than any other rider. It was rumored that Commander Ross was trying to have Carroll Shilling reinstated in time to ride, but all attempts along that line were futile, as it was announced that Shilling was through as far as being given a rider's license was concerned. It is alleged that the reason for the change was owing to a conversation a few days ago. In talking over the event, Sarde expressed the opinion that in the stirrups," is the way the story has Ross replying to the lad.

Sportdom "Sande, if you think that way, you are beaten before you put your foot

At any rate the switch was made at the last minute, and Sande is a broken-hearted boy. He lost the big fee which was given, and also lost a great deal of the prestige that he had gained as a jockey.

With this weapon in his hand, a weapon which even last-hour panic efforts of the Government cannot deprive of its tremendous force, the prospects of W. G. Charlton, Liberal candidate for the east riding of Eigin, have enhanced to what the experienced politicians of the district describe as "a sure winner."

The news of the Government's attempt, through the action of its tool, the board of commerce, to make the housewives of Canada rob their home of a life necessity in order that the Government's friends might not suffer, has roused the women of East Eigin as porhaps no other issue could have done, and has already switched many of the female voters who had Government leanings to the progressive party.

The candidate, W. G. Charlton, will reply to the statements and claims made by Premier Meighen as the recent meeting of the National Liberal-Conservative supporters held in the same place.

MME. FRANCES ALDA, WHO COMES TO LONDON NEXT WEEK, IS A NEW ZEALANDER.

Talented Soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company Was Born Under the British Flag.

By reason of her great and generous service to the cause of democracy, the name of Frances Alda, who will be heard here at the Grand Opera. House next Wednesday evening in a first of a series of four great concerts by the London Musical Art Society, is a clarion call to patriotic endeavor. An idea of the extent of her work in this cause may be gleaned from the fact that during the season of 1917-1918 she appeared in thirty-seven patriotic concerts and benefits. Those most notable, of course, was the one at the Metropolitan Opera House on June 10, 1918, which she organized and directed herself.

It was an event unique in musical annals and will go down in history to the glory of the name of Mme. Frances Alda. Two notable achievements stand. She succeeded in getting together on that occasion the world's five leading tenors, and in raising the astonishing sum of $44,000 for the worthy cause of providing musical entertainiment for the boys "over there."

But her great war work is not needed to prove that she is thoroughly an upto-date Britisher. Born in New Zealand under the British flag and of English parents, she developed early in her career an affection for the land of Uncle Sam, which was destined to become the scene of her greatest triumphs.

Mme. Alda will offer a wonder recital in London next Wednesday evening under the auspices of the London Musical Art Society and marks the first of four great concerts to be given this season. Edward Johnson, Canada's own Caruso will follow a week later, with the world's greatest violinist, Vasa Prihoda, early in November, and concluding the series with the London Musical Art Society Symphony Orchestra with Lois Johnston, soprano, as soloist. Course tickets for the entire series are availted.

LONDON, Oct. 12.— By Canadian Press.)—During the war the energies of the British and Foreign Bible Society were directed into new channels to meet the changed requirements, but the old work in distant fields was not forgotten, and preparations were made to resume it at the earliest possible moment. There is evidence of this in the fact that last year the society printed the Scriptures in nine languages in which they had not hitherto been written. Five of these editions were for Africa, one for China, one for Northern Canada, one for Argentina, and one for the Southern Seas. These additions bring the total of the society's historical table of languages up to 528. This list includes the complete Bible in 134 forms of speech, and in addition the complete New Testament in 124.

The annual report shows that the society's issues for the year 1919-20 amounted to 8,515,930 copies of the Scriptures. - Here it is, men! A bold, decisive cut, crystallizing into action the public's demand for lower prices. This is the public's fight through us, their representatives in the world's clothing mark ets, elected by their patronage to a position of leadership in the men's we ar business.
- To accomplish success in this drastic cut, we must double our turnover. It's L the only way we can hope to break a nywhere near even. This, then, is your opportunity to show the sincerity of your campaign against the high cost of living.
- The Dowler Stores accept the responsibility leadership involves, and however great the cost will force the issue. All right-thinking people know that this reduction is not possible out of profit alone, but will squeeze the very heart out of operating expenses.
- Any intending purchaser can see the genuineness of this reduction. Here there is no juggling of prices or camo uflaging of facts. The same tickets that were originally placed on these gar ments still remain. The prices are unchanged. BUT YOU PAY 20 PER CENT LESS.
- The public's tangible appreciation and confidence is necessary to insure the success of this bold stroke. Without that appreciation and confidence in the past, the Dowler Stores could never have ranked with the foremost in Canada. To betray that confidence for immediate gain now would be to sacrifice the labors of nineteen years.

Was he going to have ice cream? Bud loved ice cream better than any other food, and he hadn't had any for ages and ages. No; he felt it would not be ice cream, for ice cream usually came after supper and he believed whatever it was that was going to happen was going to happen before dinner.

He ran to the front expecting to find the dog catcher there or some other mysterious person, but it was just a very kind-looking stranger, who smiled at the sight of the little dog that ran to greet him. "What a nice little dog you are!" he said, and then when he caught sight of Bud's bad eye his voice was filled with pity. "How did you do that?" he asked.

Bud always liked sympathy and wiggled about to try and tell his newfound friend all about it. Just then his new master came out, and told the stranger the story of Bud's accident. "Why I can fixe that eye" declared the stranger when he looked at it closely. "It's a simple operation, and if you let me take him to my dog hospital in the city I will send him back to you in a few weeks, and it will be all better."

Bud's spirits went down again. What if he was just made worse by this strange thing they called an operation. But his spirits rose again quickly. He didn't care—let them try anyway, he thought.

Prevention of Goitre.

Simple goitre is more prevalent among young persons, especially school girls from 10 to 16 years of age, in certain parts of the country than others. The Great Lakes basin is such a region. Here the condition is remarkably frequent. Among 2,305 school children in Ohio cities, observed by Drs. Marine and Kimball, 495 showed some enlargement of the thyroid gland. In other words, every fifth child had goitre in this particular section.

The reason why simple goitre prevails so frequently in the Great Lakes hasin (and there are inland sections in England and in other countries where goitre is abnormally frequent) is not

I have been taking a raw egg beaten up with milk and sugar for breakfast every morning, along with bread and butter or whatever else there might be to eat. But now a woman tells me the raw egg must be taken apart from all other food in order to get the greatest strength from it. Please give your advice about this.

Answer.—It is immaterial when you take the egg, or whether you take other food with it. There is so much nutriment in an egg, and whether you absorb all the nutriment depends rather on the cooking of the egg. A greater part is absorbed if the egg is cooked (to your individual taste) than when the egg is taken raw. The rest of it is imagination. the food or both. At least, Drs. Marine and Kimball, in thorough investigation of the subject. have found that it is possible to prevent goitre in children by giving iodine or a compound of iodine internally in very small doses for ten consecutive days each spring and autumn. Thus, in 2.190 school pupils who were given once a day, dissolved in the drinking water. three grains of sodium iodide each, but five showed any thyroid enlargement. Compare that with the number who developed goitre without this prophylactic. Moreover, of 1,182 pupils who showed thyroid enlargement at the first showed thyroid enlargement at the first examination, and were given the three grains of sodium iodide once daily for ten days, 773 showed a decrease in the size of the neck, which would indicate that iodine may cure simple goitre even after the thyroid is enlarged.

People living far from the sea get little sea food, and since sea fish and shellfish and seaweed and sea water and sea salt contain iodine, and we know that much iodine is stored in the thyroid in health, and that iodine is the natural stimulus of this gland, it seems probable

Sale of Leather Goods

We have been busy the past couple of weeks rearranging our stock of leather goods after our big DAMAGED BY WATER SALE and have set to one side every Suit Case, Club Bag, Trunk or in fact anything in the store that was at all damaged. The majority of these are just very slightly soiled, but we are determined to start out afresh with an absolutely new stock. New goods are arriving every day and we are crowded for room, so we are going to make a big effort to clear out the balance of all damaged goods in the store in a

"BRINGING UP FATHER" COMING TO THE GRAND.
Though "Father" will always be the same, despite what environment his creator, George McManus, chooses to place him in, the fact remains that a change of scene is bound to make anything he says or does doubly interesting. We refer to the dear, lovable and always welcome old Irishman in "Bringing Up Father," the comics which have set the whole world a -laughing these many merry years. Manager Gus Hill first saw the success of placing the highly humorous cartoons upon the stage. This was about seven years ago and ever since then "Father" has been the hero of such enjoyable and hilarious concoctions as "Father Abroad," "In Politics," "At Home," "In Society," etc. The present attraction, which comes to the Grand Monday and Tuesday evenings next, Thanksgiving matines Monday, is entitled "Brinking Up Father at the Seashore." Any we have don new lines, running the gamut of ideas sure to be acclaimed original, diverting and thoroughly modern. AT THE PATRICIA.

All those who have never had the pleasure of seeing sceries which correspond exactly to those of the years after the civil war should go to the Patricia and see the feature film, "Hitchin' Poets," with Frank Mayo, a Universal star, playing the leading role. As in all of Frank Mayo's plays it thrills the audience to the utmost. The scenes are taken along the Mississippi River in the '70's, when the old river boats were running. Frank Mayo plays the part of the gambler who spends his time on the boats. He is known by all gamblers to be a fair winner and a fair loser. It was on one of these boats that he met Col. Brerton, one of the aristocrats. He and Col. Brerton engage in a game of cards, in which the colonel loses heavily. As a last resort to gain what he has lost, he bets four of his race horses, the finest in the county. When AT THE PATRICIA. horses, the finest in the county. When the cards are shown it reveals that the colonel loses. He forces Mayo to take his horses and gives a note to Castiga, a brother-in-law of the gambler, to give to his daughter in Belleville, saying that he was going to kill himself that night. When Mayo learns that the colonel had killed him-self he goes to the colonel's daughter and asks her to keep the horses he Castiga arrives at the home of the Brertons in time to tell Barbara, the colonel's daughter, that it was through Mayo that her father took his life. Mayo that her father took his life. When Barbara learns this, she hates him. Before Mayo is induced to go, he challenges Castiga to a duel in which Castiga plays faise and slightly wounds Mayo. He is just given until midnight to leave the country. Castiga does not take heed of this, and when the "Night Hawks," a band of rough riders, come to kill Castiga, Mayo stops them, and Castiga leaves the country in peace. Barbara then learns the truth and asks forgiveness.

Castiga leaves the country in peace. Barbara then learns the truth and asks forgiveness.

The following day finds both Barbara and Mayo leaving for the West to take up land which the Government is disposing of to the people of the country. Both go without knowing of the other's presence. When they meet in a small town, Mayo learns that Barbara is forced to go West because of the financial circumstances her father left her in when he died.

In the morning when all people are ready to hear the blast of the bugle and plunge into "fields of gold," Barbara and Mayo find that they are going to be tricked by Castiga from getting to the best part of the country. During the race for the fields, Castiga's horse falls, and he is left to proceed on foot. Consequently he does not arrive till the land has been staked off. He comes to the camp of Mayo and asks to become a partner of theirs. This is not granted, and then a fight begins on the side of a gorge, in which the hated Castiga meets his death by the fall.

After Barbara learned the truth about Mayo, a love that nothing can set aside crops up between them.

One reel of laughts is given by Charlie Chaplin in "The Champion." Eddie Polo in the second episode of "The Vanishing Dagger," and a clever mystic vaudeville act complete the program which will be shown today and tomorrow.

Liberal Leader Says Language Inadequate To Express Indignation.

WELCOME AT VERNON

States Canadian Nation Outraged by Action of Meighen Government.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 14 .- (By Canadian Press).-Referring in his speech adian Press).—Referring in his speech at Vernon this afternoon to the sugar order passed by the board of commerce on the previous night, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King said: "I doubt whether language, which it is permissible to use in public can be found which will adequately express the indignation and outraged sense which the Canadian people have a right to feel at this latest arbitrary and anti-social act of an autocratic executive."

The Liberal leader was more than two hours late in arriving here and was at once whisked to the Empress Theatre, where a large audience was Theatre, where a large audience was awaiting him from all parts of the fruit centre of the Okanagon Valley. It was his first address in the Yale constituency, where a by-election is now pending to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hon. Martin

Real issue Appears.

When he launched into the sugar question and the effect of the Government's recent action on the cost to the ultimate consumer he said that day by day the real issue between the political of the one cal parties as represented on the one hand by the Government and its sup-porters, and on the other hand by the progressive forces, allied against them was becoming more and more clearly defined.

Identifying the present Government with the big interests of the country, Mr. King stated that the nature of one at least of those interests had been disclosed by an order which the Government had just sent forth through its appointees on the board of commerce, directing that the transactions as to the buying and selling of sugar should be tied to definite channels, which found their fountain head in the half dozen refineries which constituted one vast monopoly in this country.

Demands Election.

Towards the close of his address he demanded again that the Government should make an appeal to the country. It was a busy day in Vernon, there having been many gatherings of an important character taking place. As Mr. King and his party arrived in the city, the railway commissioners, who were to hear the grievances of the fruit growers, stepped from a private car attached to the same train on which Mr. King traveled, while the superintendent of the Dominion Express Company, and a large party of Grand Trunk officials also emerged from their respective private cars. But all those things did not prevent big interest being taken in the visit of the Liberal leader.

ANTI-SOCIAL LABOR IN WEST BACKS FARMERS FOR TARIFF CUT

Both Parties Favor Liberal Policy Before Board of Inquiry.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14.-(By Canadian Press.)-Final arguments for the reduction of the protective tariff were presented to the sessions of the tariff commission here today by representatives of the western farmers. Winnipeg manufacturers presented statements in which they alleged that the high tariff is essential to the continuance of many industries in Canada. The prairie section of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association presented their final documents, in which they argued against various appeals for considerations put in by the farmers during the western sessions of the commission.

Premier T. C. Norris, on behalf of the Provincial Legislature, read a resolution, passed unanimously by the House at the last session which put the Legislature on record as approving of the demands of the farmers. The resolution was similar in detail to the one passed by the Saskatchewan Legislature.

W. D. Bailey, M. L. A., for Assinibola, represented the Dominion Labor party before the commission at the afternoon sessions. He presented the viewpoint of this body on the tariff question and practically supported the arguments of the farmers for a reduction of the tariff, although he claimed that a more general co-operation between all parties affected was necessary before any solution could be arrived at.

T. R. Deacon, president of the Manitoba Bridge and Iron Works, advocated the continuance of the present tariff the business could not continue. Polling 600,000 Voters In Six Pivotal States

In this week's LITERARY DIGEST the first installment of THE DIGEST'S poll of 600,000 voters in the six big doubtful states of New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and California, is published. These votes have been polled from all classes of voters with entire impartiality, and the results of the poll are extremely interesting because the electoral votes of these six states total 140, or more than half of the 266 votes necessary for a choice by the electoral college.

The article accompanying the tabulation brings out many interesting sidelights on the political situation this year. This week's number of THE DIGEST will be read and studied with unusual interest by men and women of all political faiths.

SAYS HUNS' ACTS FOR REPRISALS

Asquith Terms Reprisals Blind Vengeance, Not Self-Defence.

London, Oct. 14.-The political tem-est which has been aroused by the recent pronouncements of prominent men on the Irish question, notably by Premier Lloyd George and former Premier Asquith, received a fresh impetus today when Mr. Asquith bitterly attacked Mr. Lloyd George, while at the same time Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster Unionist leader, made an equally acrimonious assault on Mr. Asquith. Speaking at Ayr, with reference to Mr. Lloyd George's Welsh address, Mr. Asquith declared that "all the premier's flippancies and all his vulgarities have flippancies and all his vulgarities have not diverted and cannot divert attention from the outstanding fact of his confession of political bankruptcy."

He said that the premier's speech would be interpreted as at least condoning the reprisals in Ireland.

Critical Moment.

Sir Edward Carson, on his part, in a speech in London, asserted that Mr. Asquith, at the most critical moment in the Irish situation, was attempting to minimize the efforts for a solution. A man who would do that for the purpose of gaining support for his party issues, he declared, was a traitor to his country.

Regarding the reprisals, Mr. Asquith said he was confident that when Parliament reassembled, it would insist upon an independent and impartial inquiry into the reprisal cases, which were "not acts of self-defence, but were blind vengeance."

Burning Creameries.

Referring to the burning of creameries, he declared that no parallel to these reprisals could be found, except in the achievements of the Germans.

Sir Edward Carson, discussing the measure put forward by the premier for home rule for the south and west counties, and another for Ulster, said that a majority for this was secured, but he personally thought it was cruel to the people of Ireland at present to try to lead luciand into a political war for independence. given to all interested for and against, to be heard by the governor-in-council, if they so desire, and Wednesday, October 20, at 10:30 a.m., has been fixed as the date of the hearing.

Stopped importation.

The order-in-council, after quoting the paragraphs of the Board of Commerce order which would have had the effect of prohibiting the importation of refined sugar into Canada, proceeds to quote the opinion of the minister of justice, which forms the basis of the decision arrived at. It is in part, as follows:

"The minister observes that there arise on the face of the regulations embodied in said paragraphs, questions of the gravest importance, among others that of the power of the board to enact these regulations. Upon consideration of these questions the minister is convinced that the board had no power under the statutes applicable to it to make said orders or regulations, but even if the provisions of the statutes could by any ingenuity be contrued as conferring upon it such power. statutes could by any ingenuity be construed as conferring upon it such power, the minister cannot conceive that such a construction would be in accordance with what was intended or contemplated by the Government in introducing, or by Parliament when enacting the provisions of the board of commerce act and the combines and fair prices act, 1919, nor that it was contemplated or intended that the powers thereby conferred could, or would be exercised in the manner they have been by said orders or regulations, or for purposes such as those sought to be attained by the said orders and regulations; that is to say, so as to restrain for the purpose of enhancing or maintaining prices, buyers or sellers of commodities from dealing with the public at large, and to limit them to buying or selling from or to only specified classes of the community with the effect of practically prohibiting importation into Canada.

ned classes of the community with the effect of practically prohibiting importation into Canada.

Order Rescinded.

The minister further observes that in view of the above, he is strongly inclined to the view that the said orders and regulations ought to be, in the exercise of the powers conferred by section 41, of the board of commerce act, upon your excellency-in-council rescinded, but having regard to the grave importance of the questions involved, as outlined above on the one hand, and the serious consequences that even the temporary enforcement of said orders or regulations might entail, on the other, he recommended that the said orders or regulations should not be operative until such time as a hearing can be had before your excellency-in-council, at which all parties interested may be represented and heard."

merce fixing the price of sugar in Canada.

The grocers consider that such an order is unjust to the consumer. In an interview, Michael Dwyer, president of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild of Nova Scotia, said: "The whole enormous advance in sugar was caused by speculators and the refiners of this country were not the least of the speculators. They have appealed successfully to the Government to protect them by mulcting every householder who consumes a pound of sugar to the extent of six or seven cents. It is most vicious class legislation, offends the sense of justice of everyone, and cannot be defended on any grounds. A protest against this class legislation should go up from one end of Canada to the other."

should go up from one end of Canada to the other."

PUBLIC BEARS LOSS.

HAMILTON, Oct. 14.—Commenting on the sugar situation, the Spectator today says in part: "Whatever shred of popularity the board of commerce may have retained with the general public has been entirely lost by its action in fixing the minimum price of sugar to the consumer at 21 cents per pound and preventing importation from the United States. The refiners have miscalculated the trend of the mark st and the consequence of their miscalculation is to be borne by the public rather than themselves.

"If the board of commerce is going to be invoked every time the manufacturers are threatened with a falling market the process of getting back to normal is going to be a sad and tedious experience, indeed."

The Times says: "As we understand it, it is not the function of the board of commerce to keep up prices or to prevent them from falling. Rather it is to reduce or regulate them, and there is some doubt as to the legality of its act. The public will not be satisfied to let the matter rest here. They will look to the Government to take a hand. If the embargo is to hold and the people be prevented from getting the Benefit of cheap sugar they will want to hold the Government responsible, and it might as well take action on its own account.

"No matter what justification the board may have had for giving the refiners this advantage the public will hold the Government guilty of keeping up the prices of sugar at a time when they were expecting a lowering of the price. The sugar question is now up to Mr. Meighen."

Toronto, Oct. 15.—The effect of the suspension by the government of the order of the board of commerce regarding sugar was early apparent on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, when Atlantic Sugar dropped in a few moments to 101, after opening 6 points down at 109.
