NEW UNIVERSITY BUILDINGS FOR SMALL OPENED

BRILLIANT GATHERING FILLS NEW UNIVERSITY BUILDINGS FOR THEIR FORMAL OPENING

Chancellor W. J. Roche Carries Out Historic Ceremony This Afternoon.

BRIEF ADDRESSES

Procession of Delegates 1:
Unique Sight—Distinguished Delegates Present.

In the presence of a brilliant gathering, including delegates from every university in Canada, Chancellor W. J. Roche this afternoon formally opened the new buildings of the University of Western Ontario.

The ceremony was held in the large auditorium in the main building. Chancellor Roche speaking to an audience which filled the hall, and which was crowded long before the ceremony began.

The invocation was spoken by Rev. S. Floyd, a Western graduate of '17. The procession of delegates in their hoods and gowns marched from the science building where the invocation took place, before the formal opening ceremony in the auditorium.

This procession from one building to another across what is today bare ground freshly seeded to grass, which in time will be a green carpeted campus, with its 50 visiting delegates and members of the faculty of the university, in the bright hoods of their degrees, presented a pageant of color and history.

Included in the procession were such prominent men as General Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University; Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University of Toronto; Dean Gordon Laing, of the University of Chicago; Dr. L. E. Kinck, president of the University of British Columbia; Chancellor Roche, who is chairman of the civil service commission, Ottawa; and the members of the board of governors of the university.

Short Addresses.
After the buildings had been declared formally open by Dr. Roche, three 15-minute addresses were delivered by Dr. Roche, Dean Gordon Laing, and Sir Robert Falconer. A. T. Little, chairman of the board of governors, presented an interesting statement of the progress of the new buildings, detailing the work that had been accomplished and the efforts made in getting the necessary financial support for the university.

Following the addresses, the guests were conducted over the main and science buildings in several parties, under the direction of special guides. On all sides one heard enthusiastic comments on the beauty of the site of the university, and the autumn tints in the distant trees lent a seasonal touch to the ceremony in keeping with the opening of a new university term, and the last echoes of the workers' hammers in the science building.

Dinner For Delegates.
At 6 o'clock a dinner will be given by the men's Canadian club in the Tecumseh house to the delegates from the sister universities, and at a quarter past eight there will be a special convocation in the Winter Garden to confer honorary degrees on several distinguished visitors. The day will conclude with a governor's reception in the Winter Garden to students of the university and a dance will follow.

Tomorrow a long program has been arranged in which at 3 o'clock General Currie will unveil the bronze memorial tablet in the hall of the main building commemorating those men and women of Middlesex county who gave their lives during the war years in the service of the country. At 6 o'clock there will be a banquet in the university cafeteria to the university alumni and the faculty at which more than two hundred guests are expected to attend.

MEREDITH REPORTED COMING TO LONDON

Stated Chief Justice Will Exchange With Mr. Justice Riddell.

Will Mr. Justice Riddell try the eight remaining non-jury cases at the fall assizes?
Dame Justice says that his lordship will return to Toronto over the week-end and exchange "jobs" with Chief Justice Meredith, who is presiding at the fall assizes in the Queen City.

This would mean that the chief justice would probably open court here next Monday morning on the non-jury cases.

Five non-jury cases have already been postponed until the fall assizes, according to the court calendar.

At the rate Mr. Justice Riddell is disposing of cases, there is a possibility that he will try one or two of the non-jury cases before Saturday night.

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE, former commander of the Canadian forces and now head of McGill University, who is in London for the opening of the university buildings.

DROP SILLY ACTS, IS CURRIE'S ADVICE

Head of McGill Would Maintain Tradition in Any University.

Hazing, as practiced in some universities, makes a man lose his self-respect. Use of brute force in perpetrating "vulgar, disreputable traditions" only stultifies the freshman and lowers the dignity of the university. Don't abolish sacred traditions, but seek to bring dignity to them, he slipped from the last coach of the 1932 C. N. R. train from Montreal, and a few military friends and drove away by way of Clarendon street, avoiding the crowded depot platform.

A picture of health, Sir Arthur looked not a day older than when he took a British Columbia battalion overseas in 1914. The passage of years, 48 of them, has not been in the least apparent.

Greenwood Must Fight Hard To Retain Seat
Sir Hamar's Chances Greatly Weakened by Entrance of Liberal.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Oct. 16.—Sir Hamar Greenwood's chances of election in East Walthamstow, where he is an "anti-socialist and constitutionalist" candidate, are jeopardized by the presence of a strong Liberal opponent, who has declared that he will probably let the Labor candidate slip in. Sir Hamar is a Liberal.

There will not be a Liberal candidate for either of the city of London seats. The London Liberal association has reconsidered its recent decision to put candidates in the two ridings against the Conservatives, and has concluded not to do so. E. C. Greenfield and Sir Thomas Bowdler were the Conservative members of the city of London in the late parliament.

Craigie Atchison, a well-known king's counsel, is likely to be the Labor candidate in South Edinburgh. Atchison made an unsuccessful run in South Edinburgh last year as a Liberal.

BULGARIANS TO FIGHT SOVIET PROPAGANDA

Associated Press Despatch.
Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 16.—News is received from Vienna that the bolshevik organization in Moscow has ordered the establishment of a Balkan section, and that an order signed by Zaidnik, president of the executive committee, says the Tsankoff regime in Bulgaria is near its end.

The Bulgarian government professes not to be concerned by the news, a high official declaring: "We are fully prepared to deal with any enterprise the bolshevik organization in Moscow might undertake to destroy the Bulgarian state."

SCORES DIE AS REDS SET CITY AFIRE

Chinese City of Canton Suffers
Damage of Seven Millions.

RAGED ENTIRE DAY

British Naval Authorities Advised That Conflagration Brought Under Control.

Associated Press Despatch.
Hong Kong, Oct. 16.—The naval authorities here were advised today that the great fire, supposedly of incendiary origin, which was raging yesterday in Canton had been put under control this morning when the damage was estimated at $7,000,000, and when it was believed there probably had been a large loss of life.

A conflagration which resulted from the hostilities, burned in Canton all day Wednesday, but was brought under control today, after damage totalling an estimated loss of $7,000,000 had been done and a large number of persons were killed or burned to death.

The message received by the British authorities added that the merchant volunteers had been defeated by the Chinese "reds," who were said in despatches yesterday to be attacking the British ships.

The "reds" are said to have set the blaze by pouring kerosene in gutters and setting fire to it thus igniting the inflammable buildings.

Foreign missionaries and hospitals called upon the United States consulate to use gunboats in the harbor for their protection. Looting by the "reds" is said to have been going on continuously and further serious trouble is expected. The principal streets of the city are crowded with refugees.

U. S. SECRETARY HUGHES ATTACKS LA FOLLETTE

Republican Attitude Toward Opposing Parties Outlined by Secretary.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Oct. 16.—The Republican attitude toward the November elections was further demonstrated last night when Secretary of State Hughes fired his main broadside, in an address here, toward the La Follette movement. The Republican party continues to profess in official statements and by the actions of its leading campaigners no fear of the Democratic strength, but real alarm at the growing sentiment for La Follette. Charles G. Dawes, Republican candidate for vice-president, has made attacks on the La Follette movement his main theme during an intensive campaign in the west. Last night Mr. Hughes took the same subject.

The secretary of state told his hearers that a victory for the La Follette party would result in the destruction of prosperity in the United States and that only the reelection of President Coolidge would ward off a "serious disaster."

In a passing reference to the Democratic party he said this party "would be incapable of coping with the La Follette movement as it seemed probable that in this election it will be virtually cut to pieces."

Greenfield Declares Rates Appeal Certain
Canadian Press Despatch.
Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 16.—"Unquestionably an appeal will be taken to a higher authority," said Premier Greenfield in a statement issued for the Alberta government last night, dealing with the Crow's Nest Pass rates judgment. "What the nature of the appeal will be will not be decided until the government has had an opportunity to study the government and confer with the governments of Manitoba and Saskatchewan."

SHENANDOAH IS READY TO RESUME JOURNEY

Associated Press Despatch.
San Diego, Cal., Oct. 16.—After an enforced stay of five days at the North Island aviation field because of inclement weather in the North Pacific, the mammoth naval dirigible, Shenandoah, was ready to cast off from her moorings today for the flight to Camp Lewis at Seattle, Washington.

RUSSIAN RIVER FLOODS.

Moscow, Oct. 16.—A rise of 12 feet in the level of the river Arur has caused disastrous floods in the Nikolaevsk region, where two native villages were submerged with the loss of 400 lives.

P. N. MAINGUY, new branch manager of the London office of the Ford Motor Company. Mr. Mainguy will arrive in London on Saturday.

CABINET HEARING BANDITS' APPEAL

Definite Decision To Be Reached in Case of Montreal Murderers' Sentence.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Oct. 16.—The cabinet is in session today to consider among other business the case of the six Montreal bandits sentenced to be hanged on Oct. 24 for the murder of Henri Cleroux, bank of Hochelaga chauffeur, on April 1st last.

Although the case is under consideration at today's meeting, it is possible that no definite decision will be arrived at, and if one is reached it will not be announced officially until after the applications made to the supreme court are dealt with next Monday.

The case of Leo Davis, who was sentenced to be hanged by the trial judge in Montreal, and whose appeal to the court of appeal of Quebec was dismissed with two judges dissenting, is being taken up with the other five.

An application for writs of habeas corpus for Tony Frank, Frank Gambino, Louis Morel, Giuseppe Scarpino and Mike Valentino will be made to the supreme court on Monday, and an appeal on behalf of Leo Davis will be heard by the court on the same date. It is probable that the judgment of the court will be given without delay in both cases.

Lipsticks Cause New Indigestion

German Doctors Claim Cheap
Cosmetics Doing Much Harm.

Associated Press Despatch.
Leipzig, Germany, Oct. 16.—Lipstick indigestion has developed here among young women who use rouge too freely, according to physicians. Many of the cosmetics, particularly the cheaper kinds, contain harmful ingredients, assert the doctors, which cause complications when they come in contact with food.

Victims of lipstick attacks always maintain that their illness has been caused by food or drink, and are not inclined to change their habits unless they have suffered three or four severe seizures after dining in restaurants or cafes where they have applied an unusual amount of red in endeavors to look their best.

SQUIRES BONDS CANCELLED.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Oct. 16.—In a decision handed down by the supreme court this morning, Sir Richard Squires was discharged from his bonds. This follows the finding of "no bill" against him by a grand jury in connection with the charges brought against him of larceny of public funds while prime minister of Newfoundland.

Prince Plays Squash Racquets After All-Night Social Whirl

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Oct. 16.—Despite the fact that his royal highness the Prince of Wales attended three informal dances last night, and during the early morning, returning to his hotel at 6 o'clock, he was up at 9 and one hour later was whirled away to Hart House at the University of Toronto, where he played squash racquets. In characteristic fashion the heir to the British throne danced his way into the hearts of matrons and debutantes last night at the semi-official ball held in his honor at York Club. Again his memory stood him in good stead, as he recognized and danced with several whom he met overseas and later on the occasion of his last visit here in 1919.

Why I Shall Vote O.T.A.

OLIVER G. KEENE,
Secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Furniture Company and a former alderman.

"Government control is practically as bad as the bar. Government control is letting down the barriers, making it easier to obtain whiskey, and anything which does that is sure to make conditions worse."

"There are many men who haven't the legs to stand on their own who have benefitted greatly from the O. T. A. If government control is enacted then these men will be as badly off as before and their old habits and temptation will get the upper hand of them again."

"Premier Ferguson and Attorney-General Nickle have promised that if the O. T. A. receives the support of the electors at the forthcoming vote, then that act shall be rigidly enforced. Hon. Mr. Nickle is a real man and he can be depended upon to enforce the act through all the power of his department. We should give the O. T. A. a thorough trial, longer than the eight years it has had, before throwing it overboard. Government control is not better conditions; the present situation in Quebec, Manitoba and British Columbia proves that fact only too clearly. Stick to the O. T. A. and give it a chance."

SMITH WILL FACE TRIAL ON MONDAY

Jarvis, Peppall and Matthews
To Be Arraigned at Same Time.

DELAY REFUSED

Chief Justice R. M. Meredith Sees No Reason For Postponement.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Oct. 16.—Peter Smith, former Ontario provincial treasurer; Amelius Jarvis, the elder; Amelius Jarvis, the younger; Harry G. Peppall and Charles Matthews, former deputy provincial treasurer, will have to answer the charges of conspiracy, fraud and theft preferred against them on Monday.

Such was the order made by Chief Justice R. M. Meredith in the assize court today, despite the various pleas of many counsel that the trials should be postponed, some arguing that they could not go on until they were supplied with particulars of the charges by the crown, others on the ground that all their time had been taken up preparing the defence of Home Bank clients.

To all pleas the chief justice replied that he saw no reason why the trials should not go on. "It seems to me," said he, after hearing the arguments, "that the defendants, if they need it, have had abundant time to prepare their defence."

All the accused were present in court. Peter Smith occupied a seat in the grand jury box, while the Jarvisses, father and son, along with Harry Peppall, had seats in the same box. Charles Matthews, accompanied by his wife, sat in front of the grand jury box, the body from the well of the court.

BRITISH WOMEN ARE ENTERING CONTESTS

Feminine Aspirants for Parliamentary Honors Greater Than Last Year.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Oct. 16.—Thirty-nine women candidates have entered the contest already, five more than were in the last election contest.

A squabble over the question of candidature has arisen in the first Conservative stronghold of Harrow, Middlesex, whose former member, Oswald Mosley, is now fighting as a Labor candidate against Neville Chamberlain, Conservative, in the Ladywood division of Birmingham.

Many Harrow Conservatives are supporting the unofficial Conservative candidate, Capt. Sholl, a local resident with proprietary interest in a number of local newspapers. At the headquarters of the Harrow division, Major Salmon, head of the Lyons Tea Shop group which has 1,600 employees at its main factory within boundaries of the Harrow division.

The situation is complicated by the appearance in the contest of Robert A. Balfour, who recently retired from the important post of education officer of the London county council, as the Liberal candidate. Labor has a candidate in Harrow in the person of Kenneth Lindsay, an old Oxford university blue, former president of the Oxford union, and a veteran of Flanders.

MANY ARE PAYING TAX AND OFFICIALS BUSY

Delinquents Are on a Par With Former Years, Houghton States.

Bundies of mail, coming to the office of the city tax collector this morning, boosted the income from the third and last installment of city taxes to considerably over the $290,000 mark. Yesterday was a heavy day in tax collecting circles.

"Delinquents are no greater than in any other year," Ed. Houghton, city tax collector, said today. "Income has been collected. The number of delinquents are less than 10 per cent of all the ratepayers and their debts possibly reach something over $200,000."

INDIAN IS ACQUITTED.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Nelson, B. C., Oct. 16.—Casimir Philip, St. Mary's Indian, who killed Jacob Andrew of the same reserve last June, when all were drunk, and Andrew was attacking his own wife, was acquitted yesterday at Cranbrook on a charge of murder.

MOTORIST GIVEN SEVEN-DAY TERM

Wilmer Cantelon of Watford
Is Convicted in Strathroy Court.

Special to The Advertiser.
Strathroy, Oct. 16.—Wilmer Cantelon, chief of the Watford Inn, Watford, was this morning sentenced by Magistrate Trueman to seven days imprisonment for driving a car when under the influence of liquor, and fined $200 or three months in jail for a breach of the O. T. A., by having liquor in his possession.

Late last evening, Cantelon ran into a car driven by Mrs. J. H. Thompson, banker of Kerwood, on the fourth line of Adelaide, overturning and wreck Mr. Thompson's car and throwing the occupants out. Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Murby, who were in the overturned car, were slightly injured and badly shaken up.

COMMUNIST TO OPPOSE BRITISH HOUSE SPEAKER

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Oct. 16.—An unexpected situation has developed in Halifax, where Speaker J. H. Whitely, probably will have a communist opponent in Notting Roy, who is said to be a member of the Indian national constitutional party. Roy at present is on the continent.

The local Labor party of Halifax recently decided not to offer any opposition to Speaker Whitely, thereby maintaining the tradition that the speaker of the house of commons should not have to fight for reelection.

The Weather

Light to moderate winds; partly cloudy; day and on Friday; not much change in temperature.

The pressure is high over Manitoba and the northwest states, also on the Atlantic coast, with a very shallow trough of low across the great lakes, and fairly low pressure over Alberta and the Rocky Mountain states.

Except for light showers in Cape Breton, the weather has been fair from Alberta to the maritime provinces.

QUEBEC SPENDS 49 MILLION TO SATISFY LIQUOR DEMAND

Colossal Sum Is Diverted Each Year Into Traffic—One-Quarter of Total Sold Passes Into Hands of Bootleggers and Rumrunners.

ONE THOUSAND DRY DISTRICTS IN PROVINCE

The following is the first of four articles reporting the results of government sale in Quebec. These articles conclude the series of twenty which have described in turn The Advertiser's inquiries in Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia.

ARTICLE NO. 17.

So many persons I had met in western Canada told me that the ideal form of government control was that in vogue in Quebec that I approached Montreal in a high state of expectation. The view of these westerners was that the extent of bootlegging to be found in provinces west of Ontario under government control was due to the regulations being over-strict.

In Quebec, so I was assured, reasonable facilities for getting liquor were provided and bootlegging was not prevalent. My experiences out west rather encouraged the feeling that the liquor question, boiled down, was a choice between prohibition and government control; they have it in Quebec and that anything in between would be a temporary halfway house.

From the government liquor commission I secured a copy of the Quebec law which is officially cited as "The Alcoholic Liquor Act." I was also supplied with copies of the commission's annual report and given information about the workings of the system.

Permits Not Required.

The permit system, authorizing citizens to buy intoxicating liquors, which is used in Manitoba and British Columbia is not operative in Quebec province. It is urged that it would be unworkable with such a large population. The Quebec authorities think that liquor prices in the west are too high to give good results for government control because they make bootlegging on a large scale inevitable. It is said that the west may stand for more restrictions that would be possible in Quebec—in other words, the western brand of government control may be all right for the west but would not do for a French-Canadian province. But Quebec government controllers rather fancy the idea that the western provinces will yet make their system more like Quebec's.

Local residents and visitors from any part of the world may buy liquor at almost any easily reached center of population in Quebec province. Many kinds of liquors are authorized to sell. The number of licensed places is about 2,200, made up like this: Government stores for the sale of whiskey, spirituous liquors and wines..... 80

Taverns for the sale of beer by the glass..... 426

Hotels for sale of beer and wine at meals..... 540

Restaurants for sale of beer and wine at meals..... 59

Brother shops, etc., for sale of beer by the bottle, to be taken away..... 1,004

Clubs for sale of beer and wine to members..... 400

Hotels for sale to retailers..... 12

Steamboats for sale of beer and wine at meals..... 7

Railway dining-cars for sale of beer and wine..... 3

Trading posts for sale of beer and wine..... 9

Total of all kinds of permits to sell liquor..... 2,184

There are variations in permits which need not be described beyond indicating that some restaurants may sell until long after midnight and some hotels may sell on Sundays.

Hotels in cities which have 50 rooms may sell on Sunday and those up country having 25 rooms have a similar privilege. During the last year the commission has opened four wine shops in Montreal and two in Quebec, which are more attractive than other government stores and which are widely patronized by women. Men are not debarred.

1,000 Dry Municipalities.

It may be surprising to outsiders to learn that Quebec has 1,000 dry municipalities where no local sale takes place and only 250 municipalities in which the two thousand odd licenses permit sale. The bulk of the population is in the places where sale takes place. Persons in rural communities can get whiskey by sending in mail orders. By vote of the municipal councils, places now dry under local option may go wet or wet places go dry. During the last year eleven dry places went wet and six that were wet went dry.

Altogether there are nearly thousand places in Montreal, including more than 300 taverns, where liquor may legally be had. I understand that prior to 1919 there were only 200 licensed taverns and 200 licensed groceries in the whole province. At that time the Quebec government was disposed to enact prohibitory law. But it was persuaded to submit the matter to a referendum, which was voted on with only three weeks' notice. The question was:

"Deauville"

The new Hudnut creation from their French factory. A full toilet line of this beautiful new odor.

STRONG'S DRUG STORE

184 Dundas Street.

"Is it your opinion that the sale of light beer, cider and wines, as defined by law, should be allowed?" There were 173,000 votes in the affirmative and 48,000 in the negative.

Called In Prohibition.

Oddly enough, the law giving effect to the sale of light wines and beer was called the "Quebec Prohibition Law." Many persons to whom I spoke during my visit to Montreal even referred to the present system as "prohibition." The wine and beer law was passed in 1919. It set up "Authorized Vendors" to sell the hard stuff but only for medicinal, commercial, scientific and sacramental purposes. The referendum was taken on the understanding that "light beer, cider and wine mean beer and other malt liquors containing not more than 2.51 per cent of alcohol, weight measure, and cider and wine containing not more than 6.94 per cent of alcohol, weight measure."

The vendors did a huge business and made fortunes, much of their sale being really for beverage purposes. The law was violated on all sides. So the government, without a further vote from the people, upset the whole system and substituted another for it, that which obtains today, with hard stuff legally sold in 80 places and beer and wine in more than two thousand other places. This act came into operation on May 1, 1921. None of the beer sold under it is supposed to be more than 4 per cent alcoholic weight.

The Quebec government controls calls for a control commission of five members, with its head office in Montreal. Each sale of alcohol or spirits is limited to one bottle, but the act does not stop a man from ordering one bottle every day, or so far as the wording of the statute is concerned, getting one bottle from a number of different stores on the same day.

Cost of Licenses.

Brewers pay a $5,000 fee but if their sales are under $100,000 are entitled to a rebate. They must collect a five per cent duty on beer sold. Special permits to serve liquor at banquets can be had on payment of $10. City hotels must pay $500 for a license to sell beer and wine at meals; town hotels, $150; and other hotels, $100. If sale is allowed between meals the fee is $500. To sell beer in stores, groceries, etc., costs from $300 to $500 in Quebec and Montreal, down to $150 in small places. To sell in a tavern the fee runs from $500 down to $150. Clubs in cities whose members are authorized to keep liquor there pay $10 if in a city or town and $5 if elsewhere.

The Liquor Commission may sell on Saturday until 1 o'clock or until 3 o'clock, according to its bylaws. Brewers may sell from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. No tavern or store may sell before 9 a.m. or after 10 p.m., most stores closing at 7 p.m. Persons selling beer and wine during meals are forbidden to sell between 10 p.m. and 9 a.m. Liquor may be carried in the baggage of a traveller for his personal use.

Sale of liquor without permit may lead to an arrest without warrant, and to imprisonment for from one to three months without the option of a fine. Permit holders who sell illegally are liable to a fine of $1,000 or three months' imprisonment for the first offence, and to three months' imprisonment for subsequent offences. Persons selling beer over strength may be fined $100 or given to whom an imprisonment for the first offence, and to a month's imprisonment without fine for the second offence.

Liable For Wife's Offence.

Any married man living or residing with his wife during any violation of the act by his wife "may be prosecuted and convicted in the same manner as if he had committed the offence himself." This unusual provision, more drastic than anything in the O. T. A., is supplemented by a further provision that "in any proceeding instituted under this act, the burden of proving that such delivery was by purely gratuitous title shall be upon the defendant." Another clause referring to the sale to minors says "the burden shall be upon the defendant to prove that the person to whom sold for whom the alcoholic liquor was sold is of the age of more than 18 years."

Reasons For Higher Prices.

The government control board explains in its annual report that the high price of liquor is due to the cost of production having doubled since 1914 and to federal duties. It says that the dominion customs, excise and sales tax on each imperial quart bottle containing 40 ounces of four standard classes of spirits, before anything whatever is added by the commission to cover actual cost, distribution and profit, works out thus:

Scotch and Irish whiskey..... $2.51

Gin..... 2.45

Brandy..... 2.39

Canadian dry whiskey..... 1.77

Alcohol, 65 overproof, per gal..... 14.85

The Quebec control board, which has been charged with assisting rum running to the United States, and whose liquor is the mainstay of the bootlegging in Ontario, as shown by the seizures of bottles bearing their labels and trade marks, is suffering itself now from the smuggling in of alcohol manufactured in the United States. When this comes across the border without paying the $14.85 per cent duty, the smugglers can retail it at $10 and make a big profit, at the same time underselling the government control board by a large margin. It is said to be conservatively estimated that one-fourth of all Quebec's sales of liquor go through the medium of liquor bandits to the United States.

Many Violations of Law.

The control board's report says: "Many bootleggers obtain the alcohol in which they traffic from licensed manufacturers operating excise bonded warehouses. Responsibility for much of this illicit commerce may be attributed to the latter. This alcohol, on which no excise duty has been paid, is sold by agents, who, when arrested, absolutely refuse to incriminate their accomplices." The authorities of all the other government control provinces report that unfavorable conditions are due to the excise or export bonded warehouses.

The commission reports 1,186 cases of selling without permit in Montreal, an increase of 539 during the last year. Cases of illegal possession totaled 547, an increase of 389. The total number of violations of all sorts as dealt with by the Montreal police was 2,041, an increase of 1,245. The commission says it has reduced "the serious abuses which in the past had arisen from the sale of wines on Sundays in clubs and restaurants and the smaller hotels." The privilege is now confined to the larger hotels, steamboats and trains.

The commission says that in three months in 1923 the sales of wines equaled the entire amount sold in 1922. It announces a fine selection of "wines" and liquors from France, Spain, Portugal, Algeria, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium and Holland, and says it has established an information department in Paris, France. By its direct contact with producers, vendors and maritime transportation, it is able to obtain important concessions from which the Quebec consumer directly benefits."

Experts From France.

In France the French Wines Exportation Commission publicly claims to have played a leading part in swinging the western provinces from prohibition to government control, by drawing up and distributing pamphlets, and "furnishing funds at the right moment." It adds that "we have occasion to express our point of view to the French government upon certain details of the working of the Quebec Liquor Commission and quite recently we organized a campaign in British Columbia for the adoption of certain measures favorable to the sale of our product." The Quebec Commission keeps experts from France busy in its wine cellar. It sells Chinese liquors and vodka.

Quebec does not divide its liquor profits with the municipalities. The profits amount to 4 1/2 millions. Made up of three millions from the sale of whiskey and well on to a million and a half from the 5 per cent tax on beer, seized liquor, etc. Previously there had been a profit from the wine and beer law.

The sales of alcoholic liquors has rapidly increased under government control and now reaches the colossal figure, at retail prices, of $47,000,000. Even assuming that 17 million dollars of this goes to bootleggers and rum-runners in the United States and Ontario, that would leave an average of $60 of liquor sold to every family in the province.

HUSBAND KILLS SELF AFTER SHOOTING RIVAL

Foreigner Enraged at Countryman For Attention To Wife.

Canadian Press Despatch. Saskatoon, Oct. 15.—In a blood-spattered room in the basement of a local cafe two men were found late this afternoon—one dead, the top of his head blown off, the other dying with a rifle bullet in his chest.

Enraged because Peter Tabasnik, a dishwasher, had been paying attention to his wife, Mike Batik followed him to the basement. There Batik shot down his rival and then turned the weapon on himself, blowing out his brains. Tabasnik was rushed to the hospital, but died a few minutes later. Police held Mrs. Batik as a material witness.

MAN STRUCK BY TRAIN HAS FOOT AMPUTATED

Norman Derrough, Kingsville, in Hospital Following Accident.

Special to The Advertiser.

Dutton, Oct. 15.—Norman Derrough, aged 23, a track inspector for the M. C. R. lost his left foot, was seriously injured about the head and it is feared may be internally injured, when he was struck by a fast train about one-half mile west of the level crossing here about 6:30 this evening.

He was found lying beside the track about 7 o'clock. He has been in charge of the work of raising the tracks between Dutton and Westbourne. It is thought he was struck by a fast express.

Dr. John Turner rendered first aid and the injured man was rushed to Amasa Wood hospital in St. Thomas on train No. 8.

Special to The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Oct. 15.—Norman Derrough, brought here tonight from Dutton, where he was hurt, suffered amputation of his left foot just above the ankle and is suffering from a slight fracture of the skull and cuts about the head.

Late tonight officials at the hospital reported that while Derrough is very seriously injured they have hopes that he will recover. His wife has come from Kingsville to be at his bedside.

BISHOP CRONYN HALL REOPENED YESTERDAY

Many Alterations Made in Building During Past Summer.

The congregation of St. Paul's cathedral celebrated the reopening of Bishop Cronyn hall last night, after undergoing extensive alterations and improvements during the past three months.

The excavation of a basement underneath the hall and the furnishing of it as a comfortable banquet hall and clubrooms will provide the congregation with more up-to-date facilities with which to carry on the church.

As has been pointed out by Very Rev. Dean N. L. Tucker, rector of the cathedral, the hall was first built as a place of beauty rather than a place of service. Though used for some time past as a Sunday school room and synod offices, the accommodation provided by the hall has been kept pace with the increasing demands made upon it by the ever-growing congregation, with its attendant formation of new societies and organizations.

Bishop Cronyn Hall was built in 1890 in memory of Rev. Benjamin Cronyn, the first Anglican minister in London, and later the first bishop of Huron.

"Eczema All Over Arms Suffered for 12 Years"

Mrs. Murray Hough, Warton, Ont., writes:

"I had eczema for twelve years. Every once in a while it would break out and spread all over my arms. I tried all kinds of treatments to relieve it, but without success. One spring it broke out and nothing gave me relief, even the salve I got from the doctor did no good. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment and it healed the eczema in a short time. That is over a year ago, and I have had no return of the trouble."

Day in Provincial Capital Is Brimming With Brilliant Events.

FALLS FROM HORSE

Wales Unhurt When Thrown During Hunt—Two Foxes Killed.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—His royal highness has had more tumultuous welcomes, but none more warmly spontaneous than that which was extended to him here.

The feelings of the thousands who acclaimed him cannot be better epitomized than by an incident which occurred at the union depot, when a little gray-haired lady, pushing aside a burly policeman, seized the prince's hand and gave it a hearty shake. Everybody felt like doing the same thing. And they doubtless would have but for the conventions and the quick departure of the prince in a motor car.

Mayor Hiltz was one of the callers at the hotel in the evening, and in the prince's expressed his regret at not being able to spend a longer time in the city.

Gay Social Events.

The prince spent his one night in Toronto in a round of the gayest social activities that have marked any night of his trip to date.

At 7 o'clock last night he was the guest of honor at a splendid banquet given by the Lieutenant-Governor at Government House. About twenty-five of the leading citizens of Toronto sat down at the banquet, including Sir Robert Falconer, president of the Toronto University, Col. Gordon, O.C. military district No. 2; John W. Beaudre and other distinguished citizens.

A unique touch was given to the banquet by the presence of several of Ontario's younger set, including Miss Marion Beck of London. Others present were Misses Dorothy Cassels, M. Kirkpatrick, Anna Clarke, Jean McPherson and Misses Cockshutt, daughters of the lieutenant-governor.

The prince left Government House at 11:15 for York club, headquarters of Toronto's millionaire clubmen, where he danced until 1:30.

A pleasing reunion took place at the York club dance, when the prince recognized Mrs. Basil Wead of Toronto. Mrs. Wead served with distinction overseas during the war, and met the prince there.

The prince showed his pleasure at seeing her again by dancing the first dance and three other numbers with her, and by having her as a supper partner.

About 1:30 the prince left York club, accompanied by one of Toronto's millionaire clubmen, and went to his home, where another dance was in progress. A number of the younger set accompanied the prince's party. About 3 a.m. the party moved on to another well-known Toronto home, where the prince danced until the early hours and then returned to his royal suite at the King Edward hotel.

When the prince arrived in the city at about 9:30 Wednesday morning he was met by the Lieutenant-Governor, Premier Ferguson, representing the Ontario government, and Mayor W. W. Hiltz, representing the city. He immediately entered a waiting automobile and drove thirty miles up Yonge street, Canada's longest thoroughfare, to the country home of Sir William Mulock, adjacent to the pretty little town of Aurora, where he breakfasted and was greeted by a distinguished gathering. On the way to the home of his host the prince to the British throne was royally welcomed by large crowds of citizens who gathered at vantage points to see him pass.

The hunt started shortly after breakfast and the foxes took the royal huntsman and party over some of the prettiest farm land in Canada. The prince enjoyed the chase immensely, and declared on his return that the Mule was the best he had the finest ride to bounds which he had participated since last fall.

ONLY 2 QUESTIONS TO GO TO PEOPLE

Electors To Vote For Purchase of Road or Extension of Franchise.

DROP FOUR CLAUSES

Only two questions will be placed on the street railway ballot which will come before the electors in the December elections. Crosses of the voters will be marked either after a clause calling for the purchase of the road at $1,250,000, or else after the clause favoring the extension of the present franchise for a 15-year period, with the city retaining the option of purchasing at the end of any one year.

That's the way the majority of No. 1 committee accepted the question last night. They voted down four other alternative clauses, declaring that a simplified ballot was necessary to get intelligent sympathy from the electors. The most important clause lost in the committee's discussion was that favoring purchase of the street railway by arbitration. Little consideration was given to the clause calling for cancellation of the present contract, or that favoring a motor bus system for transportation.

Ald. Douglas, chairman of the committee, brought out some discussion by leading questions, but he voted against all the forms of ballot which were submitted. When the clerk opened the matter with a reference to the council turning back the question to committee, an alderman was called to the telephone and the discussion lagged. Another matter came up and then another. Finally, after some minutes, the mayor remembered the L. S. R. item and had it brought up again. Voting on three clause proposals was fairly keen, though discussion was haphazard. Ald. Ed Smith was the only committee member absent.

Scores Delay.

Mayor Wenige charged obstruction when the chairman asked if the shareholders of the company could be depended upon to support the offer of sale by the company officials. "Don't let us wait until the eleventh hour and then force a hurriedly prepared issue on the people. Let's discuss it," invited the mayor.

"But you are just saying that I am blocking the purchase when I open the discussion," criticized Ald. Douglas. He believed the city would buy a lot of junk in the deal, as the present Richmond street line outside the city would have to be torn up and placed in the center of the road. It would take $40,000 to rehabilitate this section.

Ald. Anderson called for a single question on the form of ballot. Douglas refused to vote on this, and the voters, "Absolutely," agreed the chairman.

"Don't you think it would be better to vote on this in 1924," ventured Ald. Drake. "Fares might come down by then, and the road could be bought for a song."

Ald. Anderson thought the company was seeking arbitration, anyway, if the purchase were turned down by the voters. Ald. Douglas believed the famous law 415 was either good and safe enough for the people.

Two-Clause Ballot.

The committee finally decided to recommend a two-clause ballot to the council. The first is worded: "Are you in favor of the purchase of the London street railway at a price of $1,250,000, plus the increase of capital expenditure since Jan. 1, 1924?" Ald. Douglas and Ald. Drake opposed this.

Only Ald. Douglas voted against the other clause, which carried. This was worded: "Are you in favor of the extension of the London street railway franchise for a period not exceeding fifteen years, under the new agreement which will give the city the option of purchasing the road at the end of any one year?"

Fire Chief John Aitken made a brief report concerning the attendance of he and six men, with the city's pumper truck, at a farm fire in Lobo last week. "I might say that I did do wrong, but it was under conditions that I must get there quickly," was the explanation offered by the chief.

While it was generally admitted that a serious breach of the bylaw had been made, the only action taken was the filing of the chief's report. Mayor Wenige suggested, sarcastically, that if the chief and six men, with a valuable piece of apparatus could be sent 14½ miles from the city and the city not be endangered, then the city might as well sell its pumper truck and lay off a half dozen men. The chief declared that he had never refused any call from outside the limits and had gone as far as Ingersoll and Woodstock. He had always had permission, though.

Concerning unemployment no action was taken. It was decided that relief work came under the jurisdiction of No. 2 committee to initiate. Part-time employment for the present board of works employees and putting others to work was suggested by City Engineer Near. Opening of sewer work as relief measures was advocated.

NOTED SPEAKERS COMING TO CITY

Program Drawn Up For Baptist Convention Opening on October 24.

The 36th annual Baptist convention for Ontario and Quebec will open in Talbot Street Baptist Church on Friday, Oct. 24, and will continue for ten days.

The convention will be attended by several brilliant preachers of the Baptist denomination throughout Canada and the United States.

One of the many questions of importance to be discussed at the coming convention is that of transferring McMaster University from Toronto to Hamilton, the Ambitious City having made an attractive offer to the Baptist church to have the institution rebuilt within its precincts.

Convention Sunday, Oct. 25, will be marked by special services in Talbot street church, in which the preachers will be Rev. G. R. McFall of Ottawa and Rev. G. R. Maguire of Montreal.

Special speakers during the convention will include Rev. P. G. Buck of Bolivia, Rev. J. B. McLaurin of India, and Rev. John MacNeill, D.D., pastor of Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto. Dr. MacNeill will deliver the "coronation address" or concluding address of the convention.

Rev. I. J. Vanness, D.D., one of the most outstanding men of the Southern Baptist Church, and Rev. Wm. Holloway Main, assistant general secretary of the American Baptist publication society of Philadelphia, will also attend the convention.

Several city pulpits will be occupied on Sunday, Oct. 26, by well-known clergymen attending the convention. Dr. John MacNeill will preach in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church in the morning and in First Methodist church in the evening. Rev. A. J. Vining, D.D., Presbyterian church in the morning and St. Paul's cathedral in the evening.

FISHING IS HINDERED BY SHALLOW WATER

Only Nine Out of Twenty-Five Tugs Remain at Port Stanley.

Although the fall fishing at Port Stanley is satisfactory, the summer catches for the last three years have been on a continual decline.

These boats are five of the largest in the harbor and include the Henry F. Jelly, the Iona, the Douglas H. Fry, the Brotherton, the Long Point, and the Port Dover. They were purchased by fishing concerns in Port Dover, where fall fishing is yielding immense profits to the large fleet of tugs.

Fishing at Port Dover during the summer months has increased the huge schools of pickerel and hering inhabiting the Long Point waters during the warm weather, owing to the fact that at this point the deepest water in Lake Erie is to be found.

Statistics show that six years ago 25 boats fished off the north shore of the lake, making Port Stanley as their headquarters. This year only nine remain.

Negotiations are nearly completed in the sale of two other fishing boats at Port. This will again cut down the total to seven tugs.

CROSS WORD PUZZLE NO. 3

In The Advertiser appears each day a cross-word puzzle which is arousing intense interest, and which is rapidly becoming the favorite indoor game, now that the long, dark evenings have come again.

"One cross word leads to another" is the slogan of this game, and the key to its solution. All the words in these puzzles, across and up and down, horizontal and vertical, interlock. When you find a word crossways, it helps you at the same time to determine the other, up-and-down, word.

Cross-word puzzles form ingenious patterns. You will be fascinated in working them out.

In order that you may not forget directions for working out the puzzle, they are reprinted below:

Each number in the puzzle indicates the position of the first letter of a word.

Each word reads from left to right (horizontal) or downward (vertical), according to position. Lettered in correctly, words that cross will interlock.

Each number in the white squares also refers to a definition in the accompanying table.

Each definition suggests a word possessing the exact number of letters to fit the white spaces allotted to it.

Each white space is to receive one letter only. Words start only in numbered squares.

City's Official Welcome To Miss Grace Fairley Is Attractive Function

Hundreds Visit Victoria Hospital Nurses' Residence Yesterday Afternoon.

IMPORTANT EVENT

London has met Miss Grace Fairley, newly-appointed superintendent of the Victoria hospital nurses' training school. And London is delighted with the personality of the woman who has come from Hamilton to preside over this important institution. Her official introduction to the women of London came yesterday when she was the guest of honor at a reception tendered her at the nurses' residence, by the Victoria hospital women's auxiliary board, the hospital trust, the war memorial hospital committee, and the Victoria nurses' alumnae.

Hundreds of Londoners visited the hospital to be present at this function, which was one of the most important social events of the season. The reception room had been transformed with the gold and bronze autumn foliage while the lights were shaded in the purple and gold colors of the school. Great masses of bronze and yellow dahlias from the garden of Mrs. John McLeod, Evergreen avenue, appeared here and there in tall standards and bowls.

Guests Arrived

The guests were received by Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, chairman of the auxiliary board, who wore a modish French gown of black with inset panels of white pleated georgette and a small black and white hat; Mrs. A. E. Miller, acting chairman of the children's hospital committee, was attractively gowned in black crepe, prettily beaded in steel and wearing a black velvet hat; and Miss Agnes Malloch, president of the Victoria hospital nurses' alumnae, who wore a brown and a becoming brown hat and handsome fur wrap.

Miss Fairley, the guest of honor, received in her white silk uniform and nurse's cap. The reception committee also included Col. W. M.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, have sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied. Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful. This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks are wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Advt.

ERUPTIONS ON HEAD AND FACE

Red, Swollen and Sore. Cuticura Heals.

"I had my trouble from childhood. It took the form of white, scaly, sore eruptions which caused terrible itching and burning, also loss of sleep. My head and face and parts of my body were affected. The skin on both my head and neck was red and swollen and awfully sore. The breaking out caused disfigurement, and I lost nearly all my hair."

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they afforded relief, and at the end of three months I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. W. A. Miller, Marshall, Washington, Nov. 8, 1923.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for all toilet purposes.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address Canadian Depot, Cuticura, P. O. Box 107, Montreal, P. Q. Price, Soap 25c, Ointment 10c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Try our new Shaving Stick.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

The Bachelor Who Is Prevented From Marrying Because of Dependent Relatives—The Girl Who Traded Love for a Comfortable Home—Shall She Put Off Wedding Until She Can Buy Trousseau?

Dear Miss Dix—I am a man twenty-nine years old, and I have been in love with a girl of the same age ever since we were children. I think she loves me, but I have never told her of my affection or asked her to marry me. I don't go to see her often for fear I will tell her how much I care for her, because I have to support my mother and two sisters, who have depended on me all these years.

What shall I do, Miss Dix?

A LONESOME BACHELOR.

Answer: It is your duty to support your mother, but why do you not rid yourself of your parasitic sisters so that you can go along and marry the girl you love, and who has evidently loved you and waited for you all these years? Unless your sisters are bedridden invalids, there is no earthly reason why they should not support themselves.

One of the most pathetic things in the world is the way in which men suffer themselves to be made the victims of their grasping female relatives, who find it easier to work dear brother than they do to work for a stranger. All of us know dozens of men like you, Lonesome Bachelor, who either through the death of their father, or because of father's failure, had the family dumped on their shoulders when they were boys, and who had to stagger along under the crushing load of the balance of their lives. For when the girls grew up they lacked the selfishness and the honesty to say to themselves, "Brother has already done more for us than he should have done and we will relieve him of our further support."

No. They didn't like the idea of working in a store or an office. The prospect of going out and fighting their way in the world covered their coward souls, and so they just muddled around home doing nothing worth while and let brother support them. Yet they were bound to know that they were bleeding brother's heart white; that they were keeping him from having the normal life of a man; that he could never marry and have a wife and home and children of his own, because of the old woman of the sea who was upon his back. They knew that they were ruining not only his life, but the life of the woman he loved and who loved him.

But such knowledge was never enough to send them out to look for a job or into the old ladies' home, rather than be the bar to the happiness of the one who had done so much for them.

Now there is no profit in unnecessary martyrdom, nor does any good come of a man's sacrificing himself without reason for his family. Any able-bodied woman can make a good living in these days.

And so I earnestly advise all bachelor brothers to rid themselves of clinging vine female relatives, and marry and set up homes of their own instead of running easy-money institutions for their sisters and their cousins and their aunts, who would be much better off and happier if they were forced into an honest independence.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a contented wife and care enough for my husband, to be interested in him and to make him a good wife. But I do not love him as a wife should. Before I married my husband I loved a poor boy, who loved me, but he had no money on which to get married. We would have had to wait for many years, and my people persuaded me that it was better to marry the man who could take care of me.

As I have said, I am a contented wife, and I keep myself happy just by thinking of this other boy, and that makes my heart sing for joy. Is this right? I am only twenty-three years old now.

MRS. A. B.

Answer: No. When you are married to one man it is certainly most distasteful to keep thinking about another one. More than that, it is as dangerous as if you were playing with dynamite. Sooner or later the sentiment you are cultivating will explode and blow your home into smithereens.

To begin with, my dear lady, you do not know what true love is, because if you had really cared deeply for your boy sweetheart, you would have waited for him. The thought of giving him up and marrying another, would have been so repugnant to you that nobody could have persuaded you into doing it. You would not have traded off love for bread and butter and shelter.

Now you are gratifying your fondness for romance by imagining yourself in love with a boy that you never truly experienced. You are dramatizing yourself, but believe me, it is a perilous thing to do.

Any woman can think herself in love with a man. She can magnify her heart throbs until she honestly believes she is experiencing a grand passion, and this is particularly easy to do about the man to whom you are not married, with whom you do not have to live, and who does not vex you with his peculiarities.

Better use some of your excess powers of imagination on your husband. Hold the love thought on him for a while. Idealize him a little and forget the other man. That way happiness lies.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am a poor girl engaged to a splendid man. I have put off marrying for two years, as I have the proper clothes, and I want to work and make a few more for my trousseau. My sweetheart doesn't like the idea of me working for myself and urges me to marry him at once. He says he does not mind my not having any trousseau, but I do. Please tell me what to do.

E. W. D.

Answer: Marry your man. He shows a very beautiful spirit and is evidently worth having. Nothing gives a generous man more pleasure than to give pretty clothes to the woman he loves. So, under the circumstances, there is no humiliation to you in accepting the things he wishes to bestow upon you. Meet your big-hearted fiancé with a generosity of soul equal to his own.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSES.

At a recent meeting of the London public health nurses' association, Miss Florence Fraser was named president for the 1924-25 season, and Mrs. James Stapleton was made secretary-treasurer.

A CANADIAN PHYSICIAN HONORED.

A United States professional journal, The Therapeutic and Dietetic Age of New York City, published for physicians only, has come to Toronto for the talent to edit its Dietetic department. Robt. G. Jackson, M.D., being the favored physician.

Dr. Jackson, although a Canadian, formerly taught Dietetics in one of the Union's great Medical Schools. He is the same Dr. Jackson who won the $1,000 Physical Culture prize for 1924, who won the 1,300-mile bicycle contest in 19 days against C. J. Gregory, 30 years younger, who invented Roman Meal and whose marvelous physical development has been used as photographs of "Youth at 65" to demonstrate the growth and body-building qualities of Roman Meal throughout Canada, Britain and the States.

It seems clear that if Roman Meal can develop such a physique after 55 years of a broken down old man, it behooves us to find a place in our diet for Roman Meal. And Dr. Jackson says it will do far more for those under 40 and that it is especially valuable for the development of young bodies, therefore ideal for nursing and expectant mothers and children from the 10th month.

Hooty the Great Horned Owl Strikes Surely and Very Quickly

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Little Whitefoot the Wood Mouse knew that he had made a mistake. He had made a mistake in thinking that Hooty the Owl had gone away to another part of the Green Forest. He found it out when it was just too late to turn back to the safety of the little hole in the ground from which he had come. His heart had almost stopped beating with fright, as when it was just too late he saw Hooty the Owl come sailing out from his watch tower. He knew that Hooty had seen him leave that hole in the ground. There was nothing for him to do but to trust to his legs and the chance of finding a hiding place before Hooty could catch him.

Now one of the first things that Little Whitefoot the Wood Mouse learned when he was young and first went out into the Great World was to hide. His soft, dark eyes were always watching for a possible hiding place. Being so small, he could get into very small places. He soon learned how to dart under a few fallen leaves; how a knot hole in a tree or stump meant safety; how to dart behind a fern leaf or into a pile of brush. No matter where he was going or what he was doing, even in times when he had no reason to suspect that danger was near, he never failed to look for every possible hiding place.

Now Whitefoot can run fast for a short distance. Those little, slim legs and white feet of his can take him over the ground very fast. They did now. He kept in the Black Shadows, for he knew that there Hooty the Owl could not see him as well as if he were out in the moonlight. As he ran his heart seemed to be almost up in his mouth for fear of being caught. But he wasn't too frightened to watch for a possible hiding place. He dodged behind a tree. On the other side of it was a little heap of brown leaves. Quicker than you can wink your eyes Whitefoot was under those leaves. There he stopped and held his breath.

Hooty the Owl was almost within striking distance of Whitefoot when the latter dodged behind that tree. A second later Hooty was around that tree, his big eyes staring hungrily for Whitefoot. But Whitefoot was no longer in sight. Hooty checked his swift flight and turned quickly. Then he flew back and forth all about near that tree. He knew that Whitefoot was hiding somewhere close by. He was looking for that hiding place. He guessed that Whitefoot was under those brown leaves, but just where he wasn't too sure of knowing. He flew to the top of an old stump close at hand. Then he hooted with all his might. It was a startling sound. Hooty meant it to be. He made it as startling as he knew how. He made it as startling as he almost sure to make Whitefoot start in fright, and that in danger he would rustle a leaf under which he was hiding.

Now Whitefoot expected Hooty to do just this thing. He was prepared for it. Nevertheless that sudden terrible sound caused him to start to jump in spite of himself, and he did rustle the leaves under which he was hiding. But there was a louder rustle of dry leaves at the same time just back of an old log. Hooty's wonderful ears heard this. His great, silent wings took him over there in an instant. His great eyes saw something move. Like a flash he struck at it with his great feet armed with cruel, curved claws. He had no doubt that it was Whitefoot the Wood Mouse.

THE SEA HAWK

Then silence followed, all three remaining motionless a short time; Rosamund with a sense of Oliver's grim and sardonic, Lionel limp, and overwhelmed by the consciousness of how he had been lured into self-betrayal.

At last it was Rosamund who spoke, and her voice shook and shifted from key to key despite her strained attempt to keep it level.

"What—what did you say, Lionel?" she asked.

"He was about to add proof of his statement, I think," he jeered.

"He was about to mention the wound he took in that fight, which left those marks in the snow, thus to prove that I lied—as indeed I did—when I said that he took Peter unawares."

"Lionel," she cried, "he said as if to hold out her arms to him, then let them fall again beside her. He stood stricken, answering nothing."

"Lionel!" she cried again, her voice growing suddenly shrill. "Is this true?"

"Did you not hear him say it?" quoth Oliver.

She stood swaying a moment, looking at Lionel, her white face pale, her hands clenched.

She checked his advance, and by a supreme effort controlled her weakness. Yet her knees shook under her, ready to support her, fearing that she was about to fall. But she checked his advance, and by a supreme effort controlled her weakness.

She sank down upon the divan and covered her face with her hands. "God pity me!" she moaned, and sat huddled there, shaken with sobs.

Lionel started at that heart-breaking cry. Covering, he approached her, and Oliver, grim and sardonic, stood back, a spectator of the scene he had precipitated.

He knew that given rope further would enmesh himself, and he would damn him utterly. Oliver was well content to look on.

"Rosamund!" came Lionel's piteous cry. "Come! Have mercy! Listen ere you judge me. Listen lest you misjudge me!"

"Aye, listen to him," Oliver flung with his soft, hateful laugh. "Listen to him. I doubt he'll be vastly entertaining."

That sneer was a spur to the wretched Lionel.

"Rosamund, all that he has told you of it is false. I—I—it was done in self-defense. It is a lie that I look him unawares." His words came wildly now. "We had quarrelled about—about—a certain matter, and as the devil would have it we met that evening in Godolphin Park, he and I. He taunted me; he struck me, and finally he drew upon me and forced me to draw that I might defend my life. That is the truth. I swear to you here on my knees in the sight of heaven! And—"

"Enough, sir! Enough!" she broke in, controlling herself to check these protests that but heightened her disgust.

"Nay, hear me yet, I implore you, that knowing all you may be merciful in your judgment."

"Merciful?" she cried, and almost seemed to laugh.

"It was an accident that I slew him! I never meant to do more than ward off his sword. But when swords are crossed more may happen than a man intends. I take God to witness that his death was an accident resulting from his own fury."

She had checked her sobs, and she considered him now with eyes that were hard and terrible.

"Was it also an accident that you left me and all the world in your hands? Did you but know how I loved you—even in those days, in secret—you would perhaps pity me a little," he whimpered.

She leaned forward and seemed to spit the word at him.

"Death, man! Do you sue for pity—you?"

"Yet you must pity me did you know the greatness of the temptation to which I succumbed."

"I know the greatness of your infamy, of your falseness, of your cowardice, of your baseness. Oh!"

He stretched out suppliant hands to her; there were tears now in his eyes.

"Or your charity, Rosamund—" he was beginning, when at last Oliver intervened.

"I think you are wearying the devil, he said, and stirred him with his foot. "Relate to us instead some more of your astounding accidents."

They are more diverting. Elucidate the accident by which you had me kidnapped to be sold into slavery. Tell us of the accident by which you succeeded to my property. Expounder to the full the accidental circumstances of which throughout you have been the unfortunate victim. Come, man, ply your wits. 'Twill make a pretty tale."

And then came Jasper to announce that All waited with the brazier and the heated manacles.

"They are no longer needed," said Oliver. "Take this slave hence with you. Bid All to take charge of him, and at dawn to see him chained to one of the oars of my galleon. Away with him."

Lionel rose to his feet, his face ashen.

"Wait! Ah, wait! Rosamund!" he cried.

Oliver caught him by the nape of his neck, spun him round and flung him into the arms of Jasper.

"Take him away!" he growled, and Jasper took the wretch by the shoulders and urged him out, leaving Rosamund and Oliver alone with the truth under the stars of Barbary.

CHAPTER XX.

THE SUBTLETY OF FENZILEH. Oliver considered the woman for a long moment as she sat half-crouching on the divan, her hands checked, her face set and stony, her eyes lowered. He sighed gently and turned away.

Now that truth had been dragged from her well, and tossed, as it were, into Rosamund's lap, he felt none of the fierce exultation which he had conceived that such an hour as this must bring him. Rather, indeed, was he saddened and oppressed. To poison the unholy cup of joy which he had imagined himself draining with such thirsty zest, there was that discovery of a measure of justification for her attitude towards him in her conviction that his disappearance was explained by flight.

He was weighted down by a sense that he had put himself entirely in the wrong; that in his vengeance he had overreached himself, and he found the fruits of it, which had seemed so desirably luscious, turning to ashes in his mouth.

Long he stood there, the silence between them entirely unbroken. Then at length he stirred, turned back upon the divan, and paced slowly until he came to stand beside the divan, looking down upon her from his great height.

"At last you have heard the truth," he said, and as she made no answer, he continued: "I am thankful it was surprised out of him before the torture was applied, else you might have concluded that pain was wringing a false confession from him."

He paused, but still she did not speak; indeed, she made no sign that she had heard him. "That," he concluded, "was the man whom you preferred to me. Faith, you did not flatter me, as perhaps you may have learnt."

THE WORLD OF SPORT

REASON FOR EXONERATION OF PLAYERS MADE PUBLIC

O'Connell's Story Does Not Jibe With What Actually Happened.

ALL THREE CLEARED

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Oct. 15.—Frank Frisch, George Kelly and Boss Young, New York Giants veterans implicated by Jimmy O'Connell in the latter's attempted bribery of Heinie Sand, Philadelphia shortstop, were exonerated of all connection with the scandal by Commissioner Landis because O'Connell's story did not jibe in any respect with the circumstances at the time of his action.

This was disclosed today by a source close to Commissioner Landis, and established for the first time the reason why, apart from their own denials, Frisch, Kelly and Young were cleared in the investigation which preceded the world's series.

According to this source, O'Connell's story of what happened before and after he approached Sand during the game at the Polo grounds on Sept. 27 was diametrically opposite to that related by Sand, and also the accounts given by the others called before Commissioner Landis.

Asked by Landis what he did after offering Sand $500 to "throw" the game, O'Connell was said to have related that he walked to the batting cage, and there told Kelly what had happened. Then, O'Connell said, he took part in batting practice.

According to Sand, however, O'Connell did not approach any other player at once, but went to the bench and sat alone in one corner.

Local Collegians To Play Twice Next Week.

Two switches have been made in the local intercollegiate group, which gives Western university two stiff games next week. The game which O. A. C. was to have played here yesterday was played in Eugene on Wednesday, Oct. 22, and on the following Saturday, Oct. 25, the Aggies will have on the O. R. F. U. Unless the dates are not known yet. The intercollegiate dates are not known yet. The intercollegiate dates are not known yet.

From a Giant standpoint the outstanding development of the world series was the rise of young Lindstrom. Tossed into a breach that would have ruined the nerves of most boys of his age, he thrived on it. In the Giant infield, none could foresee the heights to which he would climb in this one. He hit the ball well, touching the peak in the final game in New York, when he made four hits off Walter Johnson in five times at bat, and he fielded magnificently. In this set of seven games he made secure his place among the Giants and laid the foundation for a brilliant career.

Other players more seasoned than Lindstrom added to their reputations. Among these were Art Nehf and Hank Gowdy. Nehf hung up a victory and sustained one defeat, but in the game he won he was not quite as good as in that which he lost. He has taken a place among the great world series pitchers of the past, not in the matter of victories and defeats, but for his four victories are balanced by as many defeats, but in the matter of hits and earned runs, Gowdy, the old war horse of the Giants, was as splendid in defeat as he possibly could have been in victory. He caught every inning and caught them well.

Stanley ("Bucky") Harris has entered the world of finance. The manager of the world's champion Washington Senators has signed a contract to sell bonds for Redmond & Co., Wall street investment banking house, with branches in Washington and in other cities.

Harris will tackle bond salesmanship immediately after a short hunting trip on which he shortly is to embark, and plans to continue at it until it is time to take his squad of players to Tampa, Fla., for spring training next March. The terms of his contract were not made public.

MISS WETHERED, MRS. HAMBRO LOSE AT RANELEIGH

Associated Press Despatch.
Ranleigh, Eng., Oct. 15.—The second round of the autumn women's golf, a handicap tournament for the Evening Topics cup provided a thrill today, when Mrs. Joyce Wethered, leading British woman golfer, and her partner, Mrs. Olaf Hambro, last year's winners, were eliminated by Mrs. K. W. Bamber and Mrs. W. Neilson. The victors had a 12-stroke mark, and won by two up and one to play.

Miss Cecil Letch and Miss Grant Suttie, playing the first game for the cup presented by Major Drew Thompson, defeated two and one by Mrs. Dorothy Huntington and Mrs. McNair. Her partner, Mrs. Olaf Hambro, last year's winners, were eliminated by Mrs. K. W. Bamber and Mrs. W. Neilson. The victors had a 12-stroke mark, and won by two up and one to play.

Mrs. Hurd and Miss Fowler went through the second round, but were eliminated in the third by Miss Doris Chambers and Miss Allen Macbeth five up and four to play.

COMISKEY RAPS ATTITUDE OF BAN
White Sox Owner Declares
Judge Landis Absolutely Straight.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, Oct. 15.—The Landis-Johnson controversy, this year's season and world's series and the prospects for 1925 were discussed by the Comiskey, internationally famous manager of the great American game and owner of the Chicago White Sox, when he appeared at Windsor station this morning prior to his departure for Quebec, where he will sail today with members of his team and of the New York Giants for an extensive tour of Europe.
Ban Johnson's charges, Mr. Comiskey asserted, "Judge Landis is a fine man, absolutely straight, and baseball, I am weakest in at the present moment, and then I think the White Sox will be right up with the leaders. All the teams have good prospects for next year. The race should be very close. They were never better than they are now."

JAMAICA RESULTS

FIVE ON TEAM

The first team which will give Western University this afternoon its intercollegiate track meet will leave for Kingston today, where this year's annual competitions will be held in Queen's stadium on Saturday.
The trials held yesterday gave places on the team to McFarlane, Cam Wilson, Ken Hunter, Basil Flood and Jordan, and though out of the track forming owing to rugby duties, it is believed this quintet will make a good showing in the events in which they are entered. Dr. Leonard Pritchard, a member of the athletic directorate of Western University, will accompany the team which leaves on the 12:20 C. N. R. train.

The team members are entered in the following:
100 yards—McFarlane, Wilson, Jordan.

The Word of "Respectable Men."

George M. Murray of Vancouver, as chief speaker at a meeting of London's moderation league, has attempted to discredit articles appearing in The Advertiser reporting the results of government sale in British Columbia.

Mr. Murray told his audience that these articles are malicious and untrue, and stated: "I challenge any paper here which prints these scandalous statements to go to any responsible men in Vancouver to get the truth." Mr. Murray suggested such men as Lieut.-Governor Walter Nichol, Premier John Oliver and Attorney-General A. M. Manson, and said: "You would think reputable newspapers would go to men such as these for their information instead of going to the gutter to see what they pick up."

Mr. Murray is a visitor to London, and The Advertiser has no wish to treat him with courtesy. But one is compelled to believe that Mr. Murray belongs to that unfortunate class described as "none so blind as they who will not see." Mr. Murray, in his hurried trip to London, has evidently not read the articles which he so boldly challenges, and his friends have been unkind enough to permit his indulgence in a rather absurd performance.

Had Mr. Murray read these articles he would have observed that they are based on personal interviews in British Columbia, not merely with some of the very men whom he suggests, but also with: (a) Mr. Pooley, Conservative leader in the British Columbia legislature; (b) Rev. A. H. Sovereign of St. Mark's church, president of the ministerial association; (c) A. Johnson, chairman of the liquor control board of British Columbia; (d) Robert McPherson, new police commissioner of Vancouver; (e) Mayor Manning, the Salvation Army's police control representative in Vancouver; (f) Mayor Choquette of Nelson, B. C.; (g) representatives of the Retail Merchants' Association of Vancouver, and a host of other men of less prominence, but of equal respectability.

The statements regarding British Columbia's experience with government sale do not originate with The Advertiser. They are the personal statements of the very men in British Columbia in whom Mr. Murray has expressed his confidence. And if Mr. Murray wishes further reply to his challenge it is supplied in the following direct quotations, most of which are merely reprinted from the articles which Mr. Murray has attempted to discredit without first reading them:

1 A. M. Manson, attorney-general of British Columbia: "The greatest bootleggers of all are breweries and export liquor dealers."

2 H. H. Stevens, M.P., Conservative member for Centre Vancouver, minister of trade and commerce in the Meighen government: "Never in the history of the country was bootlegging comparable in magnitude and murderous results to what it is today."

3 Premier John Oliver: "Conditions in Vancouver, so far as the sale of beer is concerned, are as wide open as they could be. When I was in Vancouver last week I saw 'Welcome' signs on the entrances to beer clubs. Nothing could be much more open than that. No matter what legislation we pass, certain interests will endeavor to weaken its effect."

4 C. E. Tisdall, mayor of Vancouver in 1923, said in a city council meeting: "We must do something at once. Conditions are deplorable. In every mail I get letters from wives complaining that their husbands are coming home drunk after they have spent their wages at the clubs."

5 Major R. V. Rurde, M.L.A. from Port Alberni, speaking in the legislature of British Columbia: "I can take you to a dance hall in Vancouver where any night you can find 300 young people, and among them boys of 16 and 17, who do not consider themselves as having 'class' unless they can produce a 'mickie' from their hip."

6 Andrew Blyth, J.P.: "Vancouver today is more wide open than ever before, and any night may be seen cabarets in which no liquor is sold to be sold, but in which 50 per cent of the people show signs of intoxication. Dance halls are a scandal, with young girls slipping out to the back alley to take a drink from the hip flasks of escorts."

7 A. Johnson, chairman of the B. C. liquor control board, was questioned as follows: Question—"What is your greatest difficulty in enforcing the law?" Answer—"Bootlegging." Mr. Johnson at a previous time was reported as follows: "Give the brewers a bung and they'll soon want a whole barrel. Open but a crack of the door and they'll push in and take possession of your whole house as they are doing in B. C."

8 Robert McPherson, new police commissioner in Vancouver: "There's no control about it. You can buy all you want. Go to a government liquor store and you can get $100 worth or more. It's not government control, but government sale." Asked the plain question, "Would you advise Ontario to adopt government control as you have it in B. C.?" he answered "I would not."

9 Rev. A. H. Sovereign of St. Mark's church (Anglican), president of the ministerial association of Greater Vancouver, a resident for 18 years: "The system is simply not working; it is not controlling. Bootlegging is very prevalent. The debauchery in the hotels where women and liquor are taken is terrible and the hotels and police cannot stop it. Attorney-General Manson told the ministers that there was no holding the brewers; that they paid no attention to anything but a big club. Personally I would like to see continental prohibition tried for a ten-year period."

10 Retail merchants' association of Vancouver is on record as follows: "Whereas the business of the retail stores is suffering very heavily from the diversion of money into liquor channels, which should be spent legitimately to supply food and other necessities and comforts for the people; and merchants in other lines are similarly affected by the heavy and wasteful expenditure for liquor." The resolution favors another vote on prohibition.

11 Municipalities of B. C., in session in Prince Rupert in August: "That this convention places itself on record as strongly protesting against the present disgraceful situation throughout the province in regard to the formation of clubs and the sale of liquor therein; that the present situation is worse than in the days of the open bar, and is not only destructive to the morals of the people, but is resulting in bringing about general contempt for law and order; that the government be urged at the earliest possible moment to consider this situation and enact laws to alter this deplorable state of affairs."

12 A commission of two Scottish churchmen and three laymen went to British Columbia to study government control. Their report: "There is little control in the government control system beyond the creation of a government monopoly of the liquor traffic for revenue purposes. The public bar has been abolished, but there has been in consequence a great increase of drinking in private places, the home, the hotel bedroom and the club. . . . Inquiry of civic officials as to whether government control had reduced the city taxes received response in the negative, and the remark was made that there appeared to be no prospect of a reduction in the near future. After a careful study of the situation the commissioners came to the unanimous conclusion that government control in British Columbia is unsatisfactory as a solution of the liquor problem."

Prince of Wales in London.

The special train carrying the Prince of Wales rolled into London C. N. R. station at 5:57 in the morning, and about 200 loyal subjects were on hand.

Mayor Wenige was there. He had many things to explain to the prince—wanted to tell him all about the new city hall, how he got a price on the London street railway, and how he intended to run for a third term—yes, and a whole heap of other things as well.

His worship sent in his card, handed it to an officer at the door. Nice card, too; not one of those noisy sort, but dignified and crisp. But it didn't do the trick. The prince would not even stick his head out of the window for a friendly little chat. He had spent the previous day watching Henry Ford put cars together, and he was dizzy and sleepy.

What's as bad, or even worse, he never saw the London station, and it's been in existence since the time Cromwell was dissolving parliament with a crowbar. The visit of the Prince of Wales to London was rather disappointing.

Note and Comment.

We're through with fire prevention week and nothing particular happened, so let's have another one.

Findin' Things To Do

The boy he used to come to me when struggling with his homework sum, and ask of me to show to him just how the thing it should be done. And I would do the trifling thing like twinkling in a new glass eye, the son he'd say as how his dad was surely one outstanding guy.

A merchant bought two dozen eggs and sold them, likewise butter too, to find out what he made or lost it was a simple thing to do.

In matters of historic worth I reeled the dates and places too, and told him of the days of Brock and how we licked the Penians crew.

But that was four or five years past, for now he beckons unto me, a-askin' how if A and X is more or less than Q and C. Sometimes I wrinkle up my brow and tell him this is easy stuff, but just the same I think he knows I'm pullin' off one awful bluff.

For I'll be blowed if I can tell why A be added unto D, or what's the sense in wastin' time subtractin' Q away from C.

So when these sessions come along I pause a spell as though to think, 'tis then I cuddle to the job, a-cleanin' out the kitchen sink.

And when I've got that job all done he hollers out and wants to know why Roman kids they used to talk about the things what they cogeno.

'Tis then I face the Latin roots, upon these things I stub my toe, not wishin' to be honest like and tell him plunk that I don't know. So when the thing is gettin' hot I mind a job what ain't quite right, I pound upon the cellar stairs and start to fix the furnace pipe.

And when that's done I creep above, then hear another angry shout, if I had heard Mark Antony the day they laid poor Caesar out. My feedin' on this sort of stuff was thin as third day turkey soup, I mind as how I've got to put a padlock on the chicken coop.

One thing that worries me a lot when findin' all these jobs to do—is how I'll tell the student son when all these tinkerin' things is through—ARK.

RAREBITS

Dear Editor.—Were you ever in an auto smash, not one of those affairs where you get a hub cab scratched or some of the stove blacking wiped off the fender—those clashes are like French duels, everybody gets out and takes everybody else's number, cards are exchanged, and both men tell their friends how they showed one fool driver up?

But I mean a real smash, where iron crashes into steel, and where radiators cuddle up in the back seat of the car ahead, where there's teeth lying around on the floor, people fainting, neighbors peeling the covers off the spare beds and a good big crowd around? Well I was.

But there's recompense. There's sure to be some chap stop his car a few minutes after and push through the crowd, and while you're trying to think of the garage where you haven't run up a bill he edges in and says, "Had a smash, eh?" A quart of medium sympathy like that is worth a big struggle. And he hasn't got very far away when another driver quoth, "Run into him, eh? Made a pretty fair job, too." Then the neighbor who went to fetch a lantern says, "Your radiator is bust, and it looks as though she'd cost a nice penny to set her going again." The roadside sympathy is worth being in a wreck for. If you weren't in the wreck you wouldn't get it.

Then Bruce he comes along with his derrick and puts a chain under the nose of the chariot and away she bumps. Next day you see "Dunc." Dunc he wears a yellow duster and a pair of glasses when he works. And Dunc says, "Well, I don't know. That car's like I was a while back, when I thought I had appendicitis, and the doctor told me the only way to make sure was to operate, and if I come back alive he'd know I didn't have it. We'll tell you after we have a consultation whether you can use the operating room here or go over and make a dicker with the wreckers. I know they're short of good junk, and sometimes they pay as high as $37 for a car like that. Come back tomorrow." Meaning that I was dismissed.

Tomorrow—I goes in quiet and humble, and there she was, the old chariot, standing up on her hind legs, and three men hammering and sawing away putting in a new collar-bone. One new fender, one new light, one new something else, Dunc being a little more hopeful, says perhaps she'll recover and perhaps she won't.

Next day—Dunc he wants to know if I have a couple of old windows or pictures to get some glass out of. I saying no, he says we'll have to send over to Hobbes and get them to set the bay window there.

The day after—Yes, give me five gallons of gas and a quart of oil. $1.60? All right, when you get the bill made out give me a ring. It's a caution what they can do with a crowbar and a monkey-wrench.

Just why I kept them I don't know,
For all that trio ever did

We had the preacher in for tea,
And he's all stuck on chicken pie.

BUNK.

The campaign of bunk is on. Each political speaker is "viewing with pride" and "pointing with alarm" to the utmost of his ability. What he is really doing is endeavoring to confuse the issues and to infuse sufficient hate into his partisans to insure an election.

Hate, scandal and all such things are much more unifying than love and reason. People understand destruction better than they do construction. It is easier to arouse the masses to smash something than it is to get them to do anything.

Democrats all over the country will be pointing to the corruption of the Republicans, notwithstanding the fact that there are fully as many corrupt Democrats as Republicans. Crime is individual. Defalcation and embezzlement are never the deliberate advice of party councils, but always occasioned by the weakness of the individual. Both Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Davis are reasonably honest and wish to secure the best administration possible for the government of the country. To create the impression that the opposing party is corrupt, however, and not to be trusted, means making votes.

The Republicans are fortunate in the man who leads them, for the country in general has confidence in Mr. Coolidge. It is unfortunate in the Republican bosses, but they are probably no worse than the Democratic bosses.

Mr. Coolidge is handicapped in his foreign relations by the action of his predecessor. He is compelled, in a measure, to carry out their policies which leads him to a half-hearted interest in international affairs. He already sees, however, that absolute isolation is impossible and is championing the world court.

Mr. Davis has a better argument, as he bases his appeal upon a continuance of the Wilson policies internationally.

Mr. La Follette is the apostle of unrest and discontent. He has no plain and clear-cut policies, but is making capital of the distress recently widespread through the Northwest. Behind his movement is a vague and incoherent fear of Wall Street.

On the question of immigration, of disarmament and of economy, there is no choice between the two principal parties.

On the question of men there is no choice between Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Davis, as they are both persons of reputation and of approved honesty. The country would be safe with either one of them.

Mr. La Follette does not hope to be elected, but he hopes to increase his personal lead by appealing to all the inhabitants of the caves of Audulam.

Much money will be spent in the campaign, but it is a trifling sum compared with the resources of the United States.

Mr. Coolidge has the advantage of having been tried, and Mr. Davis has the advantage of a successful business career.

To the Editor

U. S. and Church Union.

Statement Made On Matter and Also Affirmation of Attitude Against Modernism.

Editor of The Advertiser: Sir.—It has been said to me that Presbyterians of the United States are seriously considering organic church union. To show that this is not the case, will you please publish a letter from Judge McKay of Port Arthur, which appeared in a Toronto daily recently? Yours truly,

ANDREW ROBSON.

280 Oxford street, London (North), which comprises about 5,500,000 members and adherents, held its last General Assembly in Grand Rapids, Michigan, Aug. 7 number of the Presbyterian, Philadelphia, refers to the subject of modernism, and the resolutions passed at the said assembly. The following quotations are taken from the said issue of Aug. 7, 1924:

"Would it not be for the glory of God and the advancement of peace, progress and prosperity in the church, to admit the victorious conclusions of the last assembly?"

"First—The personnel and organization of the assembly indicated that 92½ per cent of the whole church is sane, sound, orthodox, loyal, true and sincere."

"Secondly—The assembly clearly demonstrated that the church has determined to put an end to the exclusive excursions of designing nationalists upon her resources, polity and fundamental doctrines. So far, as its great fundamental doctrines are concerned, the Confession of Faith remains as it ever has been. It is truly, firmly, fixedly and eternally Calvinistic to the core."

"Thirdly—The church has determined that her boards shall be purged, that they shall be composed only of men, who believe, teach, preach and practice the great fundamental, evangelical doctrines of the Confession of Faith."

"Fourthly—The seminaries must be true to the church and to her doctrines. Their professors must write, preach and present the doctrines of the church, or suffer the consequences."

"Our church has but one Faith, the Westminster Confession of Faith, but one Book, God's infallible, inerrant Word; but one Saviour, Jesus Christ, the eternal Son of God, Very God of Very God."

"If we are going to have peace, progress and prosperity in the church, let men recognize the fact that the church, her law, her gospel, her faith, her confession and her government, are fixed entities."

Two kinds of Christianity are contending within the church today. One is a Christianity of education, development, exhortation and ideals, with Jesus as leader and prophet. The other is the Christianity of redemption from sin through faith in a Divine Redeemer. Who bore our sins in His body on the cross. It is idle to claim that these religions are one and the same. Until the heavens be no more they shall not meet."

Modernism rejects all this Christian and divine salvation and life from Christ, and is trying to put in place a human scheme. It takes Christ as an ideal man and a symbol of God. It is a fake and failure, and will deceive, but never save a single soul. The "Creed of Presbyterians" is used as a text book in their Sunday schools. The following quotation is taken from one of their many pamphlets: "For my own part I do not believe it is necessary to establish an organic union of the various Protestant and Evangelical faiths, in order to realize the prayer of our Saviour in the seventeenth chapter of the gospel of John. That prayer of Christ's goes far deeper than outward ligatures. The oneness Christ prayed and longed for is not a piece of carpentry work. Unity is not uniformity. The one is the rose of the garden; the other is the rose made with scissors."

Unity is born, not manufactured. When differing faiths show one spirit, when differing faiths can look to other's curions of devotion and be thrilled with joy because Christ is there, when differing faiths can see the different denominational banners borne forward in the very thick of the fray, and can thank God for them—the unity is born. But it is a spirit, not an organism. We may be so made that we cannot see all truth from all angles of vision, and the truth we see, and as we see it, we should hold with a dear and deathless regard."

This great church has decided to raise $15,000,000 in 1925 for missions and benevolences, being at the rate of about $3.50 per member per annum. The Presbyterian church (South) comprises about 1,200,000 members and adherents. Its general assembly unanimously reaffirmed its hearty adherence to the entire con-

Veterans Calm As Fire Rages

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Oct. 15.—At an early hour today the fire department was called to Christie street hospital for disabled veterans, to extinguish a blaze that broke out in the auditorium of the building. No general alarm in the building was given, and so efficient was the work of the firemen that the hospital authorities were not obliged to move the bed-ridden patients.

This remarkable church in 1923 contributed about $5,567,796 to missions and benevolences, while the 1,400,000 Presbyterians in Canada contributed only $2,040,667, of which amount the women's missionary societies contributed $463,458.

The United Presbyterian church, with its 220,545 members, contributed at the rate of $15.52 per member per annum to missions and benevolences. Seven of the eleven Presbyterian denominations in the U. S. A., comprising about 8,500,000 members and adherents, are included in a federal union, but they evince no desire apparently for an organic union of these various Presbyterian churches.

They heartily co-operate with all the other Evangelical churches through the home missions council and through the American Sunday school union, with greater satisfaction to all concerned apparently.

NOTED ORGANIST DIES.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, Oct. 14.—Dr. Percival Hiley, Mus. Bac., one of the best-known organists in Canada, died this morning. Dr. Hiley has been organist for St. George's church for many years. He was born in England in 1865, and came to Canada to take the organ at St. George's church in 1891.

FIGHTING IN CANTON.

Associated Press Despatch.
Canton, Oct. 15.—The streets of Canton were the scenes of heavy fighting today between the merchants' volunteer corps and the so-called "red army," composed of Chinese laborers. The firing continued at 4 o'clock this afternoon, fighting taking place outside the Shamen, thereby interrupting all traffic.

Wahabi Tribe Enters Mecca

Associated Press Despatch.
Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 15.—The Wahabi tribesmen, enemies of the Hashimite dynasty in the Hedjaz, under pressure from whom King Hussein abdicated in favor of his son Ali, have entered Mecca, the holy city of the Islamic world. The situation is quiet, and there have been no excesses on the part of the occupying forces.

An American Coffee Crank was simply amazed!

HE voiced a common fallacy, saying there was no good coffee in Canada. A "man who knew" sent him a tin of Rideau Hall Coffee. The American tried it at his New York home and wrote to say he had never tasted finer coffee than Rideau Hall.

The secret of Rideau Hall flavor is that the finest quality of coffee is selected; it is properly roasted; cut by steel dies that eliminate the chaff; then sealed with its fresh-roasted flavor in the patent Vacuum Tin. Its aromatic taste is retained to the last spoonful. Ask your grocer.

Settle Case.

tried by a jury. Mr. Justice Riddell presiding at the supreme court session here, took just 20 minutes to deliver the verdict in full against the defendant.

Soeksin sued for $305, the amount of two promissory notes, given to Louis Harris of London by Mr. G. B. Bend, the owner of the property. The plaintiff was allowed interest on the notes, and the costs of the action.

W. E. Spencer appeared for plaintiff, and N. F. Newton, Parkhill, for defendant.

Apparently the case will not be appealed on the grounds of new evidence.

Soeksin said he sold furs to Louis Harris in 1922, valued at $825. When he received $500 cash at that time, and that there had been $500 still owing.

Soskin said he knew nothing of the information transaction. The only information he had received about Q was that he was a hotel proprietor at Grand Bend.

Questioned by Mr. Newton, Soskin said he took no steps to verify whether or not Harris was a hotel proprietor. He asked Harris what the money was for, and he said it was for the purchase of a house.

Gill in the witness box stated that Soskin had delivered several loads of lumber to his place, and was paid for it. Harris' last occasion to see him was on Christmas eve in 1923.

After the notes were read, Mr. Hamilton threatened to sue him unless he withdrew his charges.

U.S. STEEL COMMON GOES UP TO 136

Upward Trend Marks Trading at Session of Wall Street Exchange.

Associated Press Despatch. New York, Oct. 16.—The main trend continued upward on the New York stock exchange throughout the morning, despite experimental selling of some of the popular industrials. Baldwin dropping a point and Stewart-Warner 2 1/2. United States Steel common crossed 106, and American Can was supported around its recent high level. Speculative interest in the rails diminished when several underwriters and specialists were taken in hand by operators on the long side.

With the allotments of German bonds becoming known to many dealers, offerings on the stock exchange increased, driving the price down to a point so low from early record high. Call money renewed at 2 1/2 per cent.

ZEPPELIN UNHURT BY OCEAN VOYAGE

ZR-3 Safely Housed in Airdrome at Lakehurst, Following New Record.

Associated Press Despatch.
Airdrome, Lakehurst, N. J., Oct.
15.—The ZR-3 slumbered tonight safely cradled in the Lakehurst airdrome after a memorable flight across the Atlantic Ocean.

Her German crew slumbered also and her four American passengers.
The ship, which had set a new record for sustained flight, appeared none the worse for the effort.

As a further indication of the strides lighter-than-air aeronautics have taken during those five years, the fuel tanks of the ZR-3 were one-quarter full when she berthed. They held 7½ tons—enough, according to Lieut.-Commander S. M. Krauss, to have carried her 1,800 knots farther or a goodly part of the distance to the Pacific coast.

SMALL BOY IS DROWNED IN POND NEAR CAYUGA

Canadian Press Despatch.
Cayuga, Oct. 15.—Roy Hoover, the 2-year-old son of Bert Hoover, was drowned on Wednesday morning in a pond on his father's property near Rathbun Centre. The funeral will be held on Friday.

Platform Fall
Downs Premier

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Oct. 15.—Recalling a similar mishap to Premier Mackenzie King at Montreal a few months ago, Premier Ramsay Mac-Donald had an alarming experience, while addressing an audience of 10,000 people at Cleckheaton in Yorkshire, this afternoon. The speakers' platform suddenly collapsed, dropping the premier and 200 persons with him to the ground. There was much excitement, but no person was seriously hurt. Mr. MacDonald picked himself up, mounted a point of vantage and smilingly continued his address.

TORONTO ASKS PERMIT TO ENTER GAS BUSINESS

Board of Control Favors Proposal To Start City Oil Service.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—The city will make application to the Ontario legislature for power to go into the gasoline business if the recommendation unanimously passed by the board of control today is adopted by the city council.

The board, after hearing Alderman
Claude Pearce's proposals, decided to ask the legislation committee to apply at the earliest possible moment for the necessary legislation to enable the city to distribute gasoline to its citizens.
