Mr. John Wynn has nearly all the material on the ground for his new brick house. Success John.

One of the most interesting reports which is presented to the House at any time is the one giving details of the Institute for the Deaf and Dumb at Belleville. The study of conditions in connection with the mutes is interesting indeed, and the work which has been done during the last few years throughout the world, especially in Germany, Britain,⁸ Canada and the United States is wonderful. It is a miracle to make the dumb speak, yet it is accomplished. The dumb do speak, articulate distinctly and converse in spoken language. But this is only occasionally done with success. The reformers when they learned that the dumb might be instructed so that they might hold conversation were enthusiastic, and many institutions discarded the natural language from the curricu lum of instruction, and some announce ed that "the deaf would be restored to society and would be put in full posess ion of their lost inheritance." But the reformers were too enthusiastic, and countless hundreds who are born as silent as the grave must live out their life without uttering a sound. Some

 The fighting between the Americans and native rebels at the Philippines still continues. The rebels are getting the worst of it in open fighting, but many of the American soldiers are being shot by the rebel sharpshooters.

The first division of the session of Legislative Assembly was made this week over the new tax bill. The opposition speakers did not attack the principal of the bill, but said the Government had always claimed that it had still a large surplus on hand and if that contention was true, there was no necessity for introducing direct taxtion. Also that the Government had it within its power, by exercising strict economy, to largely reduce the expenliture. The opposition leader said that if the Government would allow the opposition the other side of the House he would show how much money might be saved by observing strict economy in the management of Provincial affairs. Still in the face of this fair offer the House refused to place the management of the finances of the Province into the hands of Mr. Whitney. By a majority of eleven the new tax passed through one stage of its journey on the way to become law. Surely the House cannot trust Mr. Whitney when it votes that way.

Fghting still continues at the Philippines. General Otis has forbidden the release of Spanish prisopers by the rebels on the plea that the consideration to be given for the release of prisoners will assist the rebels to continue fighting the Americans.

The authorities are at their wits' end devising some means of disposing of these cattle before they spread contagion in the process of decomposition. The only means yet devised is to pile them in huge heaps and build fires around them them after saturating them with coal oil.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Notes of Proceedings in the Local Parliament.

SOME NEW BILLS. Andrew Pattullo, M.P.P., has introduced a bill, which, if passed, will mean a radical change in Councils, It provides that in towns of 7,000 the Councils shall consist of a mayor and ten councillors; in towns of over 5,000 and not more than 7,000, a reeve and eight councillors; in towns of 3,000 and not exceeding 5,000, a reeve and six councillors; in towns of 3,000 a mayor and four councillors; in incorporated villages there shall be a reeve and four councillors; and in townships a reeve and four councillors-all to be elected by general vote. The bill further provides that the mayor of every town and reeve of every village and township shall be elected in alternate years, the candidates being elected in the next election to hold office until 1902. The bill also sets forth that onehalf of each Council shall retire each year. Those retiring the first year will be those receiving the smallest number of votes. In case more than one half in number of the councillors of any such town or of any township village are returned by acclama tion at the municipal election to be held for the year, 1900, one-half in number shall retire at the municipal election for the year 1901, and the members who shall so retire shall be determined by lot cast by the clerk of the corporation in open Council, not lator than the first day of December, 1891

Mr. Tucker introduced a bill which provides that every official who canvasses, speaks or takes any part in elections shall be fined $200 and costs on conviction, or six months in prison. The official will lose his position and will not be able to accept any other Government position.

Mr. Foy introduced a bill to give municipal franchises to persons rated at $400 personal property on the last revised assessment roll, who have lived bill also repeals the clause in the Munibill also repeals the clause in the Muni-cipal Act which enables the Council to elect the Mayor of a city where the office becomes vacant after the first day of July of any year, and like-wise amends the provision respecting the Board of Control by providing for the election of four aldermen to the Board instead of three, by providing for the election of members of the Board by open vote instead of by ballot, and by depriving the Mayor of the second vote. CONFIRMATION OF BY-LAWS.

The town of Prescott asks that an Act be passed to confirm and legalize a by-law passed on September 5th, 1898, to raise the sum of $100,000 for 1898, to raise the sum of $100,000 for the construction of a system of water-works and sewers in Prescott. They further want power to issue deben-tures to the extent of $100,000 to do the work. These debentures are to be made payable in forty annual instal-ments, with interest at 4 per cent. made payable in forty annual instal-ments, with interest at 4 per cent. Oshawa wants to have a new water-works system, and by a bill seeks power to construct the same and issue debentures. The by-law authorizing this has been passed by a majority of 67 out of a total of 481 votes. The town wishes to issue debentures to ex-tend over a period of 40 years. Doubts also have been expressed as to the legality of the division of the sum in-to two parts for water-works and sewers respectively, and otherwise it is desirable to set the same at rest. ICE-BOAT ACCIDENT.

William Holtham, a Young Hamilton Lad Receives Fatal Injuries

A despatch from Hamilton says :- A fatal ice-boat accident occurred about six o'clock on Saturday afternoon on the bay, a short distance from the foot of Wellington street. William Holtham, a lad, and several companions were taking a party of men on a small ice-boat to the smelting works. A larger ice-boat handled by Ernest Laus, was coming towards the shore, and the man at the tiller did not see the smaller boat. The result was that the two boats came together with a terrific crash. Several of the young men were thrown off with great force, Holtham was unconscious when he Holtham was unconscious when he was picked up, having a nasty cut on the head and a wound on the body; He was taken to his home, 141 Wood

THE ENGLISH COURT.

flas Always Been Discrett in Its Choice of Friends

There cannot be favorites in a wellorganized modern court like that of Great Britain. With the strong light of publicity now beating upon the throne, there must be no preferences in favor of ambitious intriguers, no patronage of millionaires on account of their money, no degrading intimapatronage of millionaires on account of their money, no degrading intima-cies with people of sullied reputations. The English royal family under the queen's direction has always been dis-creet in its choice of friends. Its in-fluence has steadily increased during her reign because its dignity has been sheen singularly free from public scan-dal. The sovereign, the princes and the princesses have had intimate friends, but these associates have been treated with a certain reserve, and ot allowed to assume anything like smilliarity of manner. In consequence of this disoretion in making friends and acquaintances, the members of the royal family have been nabled to meet the most famous Eng-sistent of their time, and to do much to elevate and purify society. Their philanthropic enterprise, every hu-mane cause and every progressive movement. Their prestige and ex-movement. Their prestige and ex-mole are worth much whenever any ractical work is to be done in any into conspicuous places, there would be a succession of scandals. Royalty in fund dragging partisans of their owalty into during the Victorian reign. Its political authority has declined, but its social influence has greatly intreased.

GOLD CARELESSLY HANDLED.

the Careless Way in Which the Klondike Miners Look After Their Gold.

Men have risked a great deal in the search for Klondike gold, but the way it is handled in that country would astonish those who are accustomed to bankers' methods. Miss Flor Shaw, writing from Dawson City to the London Times, says that the carelessness with which the gold is handled at the mines is equal to the recklessness with which it is spent in town. On account of its weight, the men do

On account of its weight, the men do not, as a rule, carry their own gold. In the log cabins in which the miners live it has to take its chance along with boots, cooking utensils and pro-visions, waiting to be transported by the first pack-train passing down to Dawson. Any receptacle is good en-ough to hold gold. Old tobacco canis-ters and apricot tins stand full of nug-gets upon the shelves, and sacks of gold dust are flung upon the floor. One little pack-train of three mules brought down, not long ago, one hundred and twenty thousand dollars' worth of gold in common sacks, over which the mule-driver, acting on his own responsibility in common sacks, over which the mule-driver, acting on his own responsibility fastened a bit of sail-cloth, lest a mule, falling on a rock or against a branch, should accidentally rip open a sack and spilt the contents. The whole lot was thrown with other goods into the packer's office, and left there un-til the following morning. On another occasion forty thousand dollars' worth was sent down on one horse. The packer in charge did not know who had given it to him, and there was no sign of ownership attach-ed. It was duly claimed the next morning and identified by the fact that within the larger sack of dust was a smalf sack of nuggets. The bags are never sealed, but are merely tied at the mouth by a leathern thong or a bit of twine.

BIRTHDAYS AND GEMS.

BIRTHDAYS AND GEMS. It is rare to meet a person who does not confess to the fascination of pre-cious stones. The charm of an opal, for instance, seems more than the rain-bow suspended in its hidden waters, it seems to mean hope, and life or death, and the promise of life after death, with its ever changing, ever new, reflections. Here is an interesting classification of the appropriate gems for each per-son to wear:--Those born in January should wear garnet, signifying friendship and fi-delity; February, amethyst, sincer-ity and peace; March, bloodstone, wis-dom, courage and firmness; April, dia-mond, innocence; May, emerald, be-loved and happy; June, agate, health, wealth and long life; July, ruby, con-tent; August, sardonyx, conjugal feli-city; September, sapphire, sanity, peace and ease of mind; October, opal, hope; November, topaz, friendship and true love: December, turquoise, success. Proved His Deliverer. I was for over six months troubled with very sharp pains in the region of my kidneys, the spasms lasted for half an hour at a time, and left me with great aching, soreness and pain. I tried many remedies, but they did me no good. I commenced taking Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills accord-ing to directions. I had not much faith that they would cure me, but after taking one box I noticed a change for the better. It may seem incredible, but after taking the second box the pains all left me entirely, and I have not had them since.-Amos Carter, Melbourne.

Trousers, who had snarled at the profered sugar, reject-ing the advances of her fairer sister with scorn and contumely, now, at-tracted perhaps by some trick of voice, or possibly by a still greater refine-ment of instinct, towards the girl whom Miles loved, at the very first word that she spoke to him, came slinking, shamefacedly, out of his cor-ner, wriggling his body and wagging his tail, till he deposited himself hum-bly and cringingly against her skirts. Ducice patted her knee invitingly, and straightway Trousers repented him of till the evil that he had laid to the sharge of her much-maligned sex, and, pringing boldly up upon her lap, de-posited the lick of amity upon her aose. "Look here," said Miles, cutting him short in a voice of concentrated anger "I'll have no lady's name brought in here. I forbid you to speak of a lady in this matter." "You forbid me! Ha, ha!" "Faulkner is quite right, Trichet," here said Geoffrey, "it is very bad form to mention a lady's name in a row be-tween men; you must drop all that." "Easier said than done, when the impudent little girl was at the bot-tom of the whole business. Of course, if Dulcie Halliday is spoons on Faulk-ner-" "If you don't stop, this very minute, "If you don't stop, this very minute, I'll put you out of the window," said Miles. And anybody who had known him well, would have seen, by the glit-ter in the giant's eye, that he meant the threat in its literal sense. "That is more bluster,! I've as much right to speak of the girl as you have. I suppose she doesn't belong to you, does she ?"

Irousers growled softly somewhere down in his throat; when he mention-ed his own mongrel extraction and called him a cur, he elevated his lip, and showed every tooth in his head. But when he spoke of a rival, of that Yorkshire terrier of surpasing loveli-ness, who was to supplant him in Dul-icie's favour- to lie upon the lap that was so soft a couch for himself-to be caressed by her hand, and, in short, to oust him from his new-born honors-then Trousers became suddenly lost to all sense of decorum; the anger in his canine soul blazed up in a rush of blood to his brain, and all the duties of hospitality to the stranger within his doors became as nought unto him. of the terrible disaster that overwhelmed the settlement near there three centuries ago. The place was called Port Royal, and stood on a sandy spit south of where Kingston now stands. An earthquake shock raised waves mountain high, and every house in the settlement was buried to its roof. All the shipping in the roadstead was carried on the top of the waves and hurled against the town, helping to make the destruction more terrible. Nearly all the persons who escaped were saved by clinging to the wreckage, and as the water subsided they were taken on board a frigate that had been carried ashore and deposited on the ruins of a lot of houses that had stood close together.

Only sixteen years ago a side-wheel steamboat was borne three miles in-ground. In the twinkling of an eye, the whole business was done. Miles seized Trichet firmly by the nape of his coat-collar, lifted him like a struggling rabbit from the ground, shoved him bodily through the open window, and dropped him, not particularly gently-with a little shake, just enough to warm him and not enough to injure him-into the little square yard be-low. Then he shut down the window. "I don't think we'll hear any more of the action my friend talks of bringing against me!" remarked Miles, with a short laugh of satisfaction. "Splendid, my dear boy!" cried Geofland on the coast of Sumatra by a wave over 100 feet in height that rewave over 100 feet in height that re-sulted from the terrible eruption which destroyed most of the island and Strait. The vessel had on board about twenty excursionists from Batavia who were bound for the neighborhood of the Krakatau Volcano, which had been in mild eruption for a number of weeks. They landed on the little island, little dreaming that two hours later two-thirds of it would be blown into the air as though shot from a gun. After spending a couple of hours around, the island the party of Lampong, and it is supposed that they anchored for the night in front of dagain, nor were any of their bodies they archored for the south coast of Sumatra. "Splendid, my dear boy !" cried Geof-frey, excitedly, slapping his friend approvingly on his broad back. "It was beautifully done, so neat and ready! Let me congratulate you heartily on your victory. Serves the cad jolly well right for daring to mention a lady's name. I wish Trou-sers had bitten his head off!" And then the friends sat down in the best of spirits, chuckling and laughing to-gether over the undignified rout of the enemy, with a great and unchris-tianlike glee. ANNUAL REPORT. ANNUAL REPORT. The directors beg to submit the sixty-fifth annual report of the com-pany, embracing the transactions for the year ending 31st December last, and a statement of the assets and lia-bliptes at the close of the year. In the fire branch, while there has been a slight reduction in the prem-tium income, the results as a whole have been fairly satisfactory, showing a moderate margin of profit, notwith-standing the fact that there were some serious conflagrations during the year in which the company was involved for considerable amounts-notably, the al-most total destruction of the City of New Westminster in September last. Then when he got to the door of the office-on the other side of which he could hear the two friends laughing together, at his expense of course, he told himself with an angry scowh-he did not go in, but stood meditating deeply for a few moments; then with a sudden briskness, as though his mind were made up, he walked a sudden briskness, as though his mind were made up, he walked straight off to the door of Mr. Dane's room, and finding that he was disen-gaged, sent in a message requesting to speak to him. HINTS FOR THE FARMER.

PROFITABLE BEEF CATTLE.

Practical and experienced feeders who breed or purchase steers for fattening observe striking differences in the aptitude of animals of varying types and make-up to lay on flesh readily and in such form and quality as to command the highest price on the market.. It requires a well-trained eyes to detect in all cases the possible variations of results in the store, or stock, steer; but there are some distinctions that are easily detected. There are certain types of cattle, for instance, that never feed profitably under any conditions, and it is quite as important to discriminate against these in the feed lot as to be able to recognize the excellence in other types.

The characteristics that make the profitable feeder are naturally more difficult to detect in animals in stock condition than when fattened; but, notwithstanding this, there are a number of indications that are fairly reliable. Though the young steer may be comparatively thin in flesh and temporarily lacking the thick, even overing of the back and ribs so essen-tial in the finished carcass, he must, nevertheless, present that blocky frame and stoutness of build, accom-panied by short straight large wide frame and stoutness of build, accom-panied by short, straight legs, wide back and loin, well-sprung ribs, full-ness back of shoulders and in flanks, prominent brisket, full neck vein, wide chest and well-rounded barrel, together with a good, soft mellow wide chest and well-rounded barrel, together with a good, soft, mellow handling skin and fine, silky hair, giv-ing what is termed the thick, mossy coat; without coarseness, and with it all a good, strong, vigorous head, clear, full eye, and quiet temperament. The importance of an overcovering of flesh and good handling quality can hardly be overestimated. The bone should be moderately fine and clean. Coarseness, either in the bone or Coarseness, either in the bone or about the head and horns, is particu-larly objectionable, as it indicates larly objectionable, as it indicates coarseness of texture throughout and a greater percentage of offal and cheap t, as well as a tendency to slug-circulation. The head should gish circulation. The head should present a certain refinement, finish and vigor that in a measure indicate a general quality and superior excel-lence of finished product, though this refinement must be accompanied by delicacy

THE FARM GARDEN.

The garden should never contain less than half an acre, and better be two acres. A garden of this size can easily be worked with a horse, saving much hand labor, which is required in smaller plots. If more is grown than required for home use it can usually be disposed of at some nearby market, or to some neighbor who will not have a garden. Or the area can be devoted to potatoes, or roots for stock can be increased. Being near house, it is of easy access, and the farthe mer can spend many half hours working his garden, when he would not think of going to the field for that length of time.

The garden should contain all the fruits, such as berries, s, etc. Plant these in sincurrants, etc. currants, etc. Plant these in sin-gle rows, and far enough apart so that they can be easily cultivated.. The space between can be devoted to some vegetable, which will com-pel working around the shrub. If the market gardaner work lands the market gardener, upon lands ranging in price from $300 to $1,000 per acre, can upon a half dozen acres sell more dollars' worth of produce then acres sell more dollars' worth of produce than are sold off many large farms, why may not the farmen. grow in his own garden articles for food that will take the place of much of the more expen-sive commodities bought in town? The garden cannot be had without labor, but with less, considering the amount produced, than is re-quired for general farm crops. quired for Two and d for general farm crops, and sometimes three crops be grown upon the same d in one same With the ground in one season. With the addition of a few hotbed sashs the garden can be made to produce fresh vegetables for the table all the year round.

growing plants and of limiting the pro-VALUE OF WOOD ASHES.

It would probably be hard to find a commercial fertilizer of much greater worth for dry upland soil than pure and simple unleached hardwood ashes. A bushel of this home fertilizer is worth more than a bushel of oats to any farmer, and yet how often do we see it dumped as a heap of worthless refuse to leach in the rains and part with its hidden value until it becomes with its hidden value until it becomes worthless. Our lands as a general thing have become deficient in potash. This is one of the main sources of fertility that have become exhausted. It is good for corn, it is good for wheat, it is good for potatees, and clover can-not thrive without it. Try a little experiment next spring. You who burn wood this winter, store your ash-es where they will keep dry, and. sow them on your young clover as you would plaster. You will be agreeably astonished at the result. You will find many dollars added to your pro-duct. Nor is the effect gone with the first crop, as is often the case with commercial fertilizers. It lasts for years, and its benefits are often ex-tended to many succeeding crops.

THE HOME ORCHARD.

The home orchard and fruit garden should contain a sufficient number of plants, vines and trees to grow an abundance of fruit for family use. Beginning with strawberries, it should also contain raspberries, currants, and contain rapperries, currants, geoseberries, grapes, cherries, quince, pears, plums and apples, and a number of varieties of each, ripening in regu-lar succession, so as to keep up a con-stant supply of good fruit the whole year. It would be a matter of causing health and pleasure if carried into practice.

RETURNED THE MONEY.

A Millionaire Atones for a Crime Years Ago.

A master mason in Bentschen, Germany, named Jacobs, was delighted to receive a remittance recently from a man in New York. The sender was unknown to him, but the remittance amounted to 60,078 marks, equal to $15,000. The sender, Jacobs believes, must have signed an assumed name. He says the only explanation he can give for the strange transaction is that the money came from a former partner, who absconded 30 years ago. He says that in 1869 his partner in business disappeared suddently, taking with him 12,000 marks which belonged to Jacobs. Every effort was made to find him or get a trace of his whereabouts, but all was unsuccessful, and after awhile he resigned himself to his loss. About a year ago, her says, while on a business trip in North Germany, he was thrown in contact with a party of American tourists travelling in the same direction. He talked with them and they told him of many successful Germans who had settled in the United States. He remembered his absconding partner and wondered his absconding partner and wondered if he had mi-grated to America. He told his newly made companions the story of his trouble and mentioned his former made competition in the second sent represents the amount of the original loss, plus compound interest. The name of the Chicago millionaire was not divulged by Jacobs.
