NOTE AND COMMENT

Hamilton Spectator:—Enduring will be the memory of Capt. G. T. Richardson, noted sportsman of Kingston, killed in battle. He leaves $30,000 in trust for the education of children of men of his company who are killed or disabled. This noble action is redolent of the floweriest days of knighthood.

The cost of living is going up, the increase noted in the month of January being steeper than usual. The Federal Labor Department index number of wholesale prices advanced 10 points, due to considerable rise in metals, chemicals, grain, potatoes, textiles, coke, gasoline and other commodities. In retail prices, flour, beans, and potatoes showed some increases. The cost of a weekly budget of family commodities showed a considerable increase over the figures of last year and a noticeable increase compared with the same budget in January, 1914.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review: Recruiting still goes on, of course, but it is becoming more and more difficult with every day that passes. In a short time the stage will be reached under authorized and recognized leadership and direction. We might as well face the fact frankly at once, if we are to seriously think of meeting our responsibilities. Canada has promised an army of 500,000 men, and more if needed. It will be a humiliation if we fail to make good the promise through the sheer lack of courage or energy in the organization of our forces.

The rate of exchange on Canadian money was increased to three-fourths of one percent, by Detroit banks Monday or 75 cents on every $100, thereby giving further impetus to the move which has started among merchants of that city to require customers tendering Canadian money to bear the cost of exchange. Since the first of the year the rate of exchange has been steadily increased, ruling about 1/2 of one per cent. The present rate means that a customer of a bank depositing $1,000 in Canadian money is in reality depositing $925.00 and in consequence banks are warning their patrons to take this into consideration when accepting Canadian currency. The rate on Canadian exchange is not made by the banks of Detroit, but is due to the fact that in Toronto and Montreal there is a premium of equal amount on New York funds because of supply and demand in those cities.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer replying in the British House of Commons regarding the imposition of a tax upon the pay of Canadian officers, stated that the instructions given by the Board of Inland Revenue are that any income tax assessment on persons who have come overseas to join the naval or military forces should be restricted to their pay from the United Kingdom and any income derived from other sources in the Dominion should neither be charged income tax nor included in the calculation of total income.

After six months of the movement of the 1915 crop of Western Canada, there have been taken out of the West 272,116,000 bushels of the total crop of 721,000,000 bushels. There remain in the country elevators 55,019,000 bushels, the remainder being in granaries on the farms and on the land generally. According to the most reliable estimates obtainable, there is yet to be moved from the West between 100,000,000 and 115,000,000 bushels of all grains, although these figures chiefly represent wheat. The present rate of movement averages some 500 cars a day passing through Winnipeg. At this rate it would require nearly 200 days more to complete the movement of the present crop.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. The Man Who Leans Against a Post

Two or three companies of the Sportsmen's Battalion were swinging along Wilton avenue and turned down Mutual street, as fine a lot of lads as one might wish to see. Leaning up against a telegraph pole at the corner was a young man, fit to be in uniform, and only failing in his duty because of that unaccountable streak which is to be found in a few. The boys in khaki recognized him and there were loud cries "Fall in!" "Come along!" "Get into line!" "Sign up!" "Where's your spunk?" and a chorus of others. He did not stand, but leaned against his post. He was the only young man on the street not enlisted. He was naked of patriotism and not ashamed.

Men like this are becoming scarcer. They are being sifted out and by and by those who know them will be ashamed of their acquaintance. Their relatives may be responsible. It is often the case that the slackness, the timidity, the actual cowardice of a young man is due to the training or home traditions he has had to contend with. He does not realize what he is, and makes a bravado of it for a while. Sooner or later he will discover what an outsider he is.

When the boys come back from the front those who were yellow will not be well accounted of. Mothers and sisters have a good deal to do with this side of the problem of recruiting. They know what they admire in other young men. They should hesitate before encouraging their sons or brothers to do what they condemn in others.

The young fellow who hangs back from this great adventure loses a wonderful chance to find his courage and his manhood, and to become a man, in fact, in a highly honorable and effective way, which will not be forgotten in future. The boys who prefer to remain at home and lean against posts are no credit to the country nor will they be.—Toronto World.

Co-Operative Experiments in Weed Eradication, 1916.

During the past four years the Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union have carried on co-operative experiments in the eradication of weeds. Some fifty eight farmers have taken part in these experiments and some very interesting and valuable results have been obtained. The weeds experimented with were Perennial Sow Thistle, Twitch Grass, Bladder Campion, Wild Mustard and Ox-eye Daisy. The results obtained may be summarized as follows:

1. That a good cultivation, followed by rape sown in drills, provides a means of eradicating both Perennial Sow Thistle and Twitch Grass.
2. That rape is a more satisfactory crop to use in the destruction of Twitch Grass than buckwheat.
3. That rape gives much better results in the eradication of Twitch Grass and Perennial Sow Thistle when sown in drills and cultivated than it does when sown broadcast.
4. That thorough, deep cultivation; in fall and spring, followed by a well cared for hoad crop, will destroy Bladder Campion.
5. That mustard may be prevented from seeding in oats, wheat and barley by spraying with a twenty percent solution of iron sulphate without any serious injury to the standing crop or to the fresh seedlings of clover.

Those who took part in these experiments profited by the experience; in nearly every instance they cleaned the field experimented upon, demonstrated to their own satisfaction the effectiveness of the method tried, and at the same time the results furnished practical information to others.

These Co-operative Experiments in Weed Eradication will be continued this year (1916), and it is hoped that a large number of men will take part in them in order that sufficient information may be gathered to warrant definite statements being made in regard to the best methods of controlling these pernicious weeds. The experiments for 1916 are as follows:

1. The use of rape in the destruction of Perennial Sow Thistle.
2. A system of intensive cropping and cultivation, using Winter Rye followed by turnips, rape or buckwheat, for eradicating Perennial Sow Thistle.
3. The use of rape in the destruction of Twitch Grass.
4. A method of cultivation and cropping for the destruction of Twitch Grass.
5. A method for the eradication of Bladder Campion or Cow Bell.
6. Spraying with iron sulphate to destroy Mustard in cereal crops.
7. A method of cultivation and cropping for the destruction of Ox-eye Daisy.

Those who are troubled with any of these bad weeds are invited to write to the Director of Co-operative Experiments in Weed Eradication, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont. He will be glad to furnish full information concerning these experiments and to supply application blanks for the same. All experimenters will be supplied with full and detailed instructions for carrying out the experiments selected, and with blank forms on which to report the results of the same. All interested in clean farming are asked to co-operate in this work. Address all communications to J. E. Howitt, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

An Easy Pill to Take.—Some persons have repugnance to pills because of their nauseating taste. Parmelec's Vegetable Pills are so prepared as to make them agreeable to the most fastidious. The most delicate can take them without feeling the revulsion that follows the taking of ordinary pills. This is one reason for the popularity of these celebrated pills, but the main reason is their high tonical quality as a medicine for the stomach.

To safeguard the child from damage that worms cause, use Miller's Worm Powders, the medicine par excellence for children. As a vermifuge it cannot be surpassed in effectiveness.

Asthma Brings Misery, but Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy will replace the misery with welcome relief. Inhaled as smoke or vapor it reaches the very inmost recesses of the bronchial passages and soothes them. Restriction passes and easy breathing returns. If you knew as well how this remedy would help you as do thousands of grateful users, there would be a package in your home to-night. Try it.

An unofficial church census of Scotland shows the total adult membership of the Protestant churches as 1,398,000, to which are added "children and adherents", bringing the total to 2,427,000. The Roman Catholic church has 546,000 followers, making the total church population 2,973,000. This, deducted from the total population, gives a "churchless" population of 1,788,000.

Hearing that one of the members of his congregation would die unless a considerable amount of blood was transfused into her body, the Rev. F. E. Welsh Outlook: Since the outbreak of war an army has been raised in Wales that is very much larger than the one Wellington commanded at Waterloo. It is difficult to form an accurate estimate of men raised in Wales: for in addition to the men who have formed the new units of the old-established regiments of Wales and the newly created Welsh Guards and Welsh Horse, many thousands of Welshmen have joined English, Irish, Scottish and Colonial regiments. The German menace the freedom of Europe appears to have thoroughly awakened the old fiery martial spirit of the Cymry, and we have it on the best authority that Wales has contributed a higher percentage of its population to the army in this crisis than any of the other nations in the Empire.

Oil for Toothache: There is no pain so acute and distressing as toothache. When you have so unwelcome a visitor apply Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil according to directions and you will find immediate relief. It touches the nerve with soothing effect and the pain departs at once. That it will ease tooth-ache is another fine quality of this Oil, showing the many uses it has.

THE SIGNAL

A Story of Revolution in Mexico

By F. A. MITCHEL.

The republic of Mexico had been tranquil under the presidency of Ippolito Quintana, and it was supposed by that people of many governments that they would be permitted to continue at peace and to recover from the effects of anarchy.

But no one can tell what is about to happen in Mexico. In that country, a revolution is liable at any time to flash like lightning from a clear sky.

One afternoon Manuel Coral, a nephew and the secretary of the president, rode into the country a distance of a dozen miles to the residence of General Munez, whose title had come from his once having commanded a band of revolutionists. But Coral was not going to see the general. Inez Garcia, the daughter of a former president of Mexico who had been deposed and garroted, being without means of support had been taken into the Munez family and made governess to the general's children. Manuel Coral had met her and fallen in love with her.

The young man reached the Munez hacienda as the sun was setting and rode up between an avenue of trees to the house. The general was sitting on his veranda. Coral threw himself from his horse, turned the beast over to a dusky stableman and advanced to meet the general. To his surprise the visitor sat under an assumed cordiality a partially concealed antagonism. The general seemed to be displeased at his coming. His previous visits had been welcomed by the host, and the visitor had every reason to presume that his attentions to Senorita Inez were approved by the general and his family. Their approval was a matter of importance, for the young lady owned them much and was treated more like one of them than a hireling. Manuel's first thought was that for some reason unknown to him they had withdrawn their consent for a match between him and their protegee.

"You will find Inez within," said the general after placing his hand coldly in that of Manuel. "She is arranging flowers for the table. Of course you will sup with us."

Manuel went into the house, meeting Senora Munez in the hall. She started on seeing him and knit her brows; then resuming her usual cordial manner she welcomed him, called Inez from the dining room, and the visitor and the senorita passed into the drawing room.

Inez, if she did not appear discomposed at his coming, seemed troubled. "Something is wrong, sweetheart," said Manuel. "The general received me with, to say the least, embarrassment. Senora Munez was startled at seeing me, and you do not greet me as usual. Tell me what it all means."

Inez was silent for a moment, then made a reply that Coral knew was a prevarication.

"Don't you think you are exaggerating the want of cordiality of your reception? The general and Senora Munez may have something annoying on their minds that renders the presence of a visitor in the house just at present inconvenient to them."

Manuel studied her face, which was half averted, for a few moments and made up his mind that something was on hand which might be important, something that he should know. He resolved to conceal his suspicion.

"I can very well understand such a situation," he said. "Unlucky the hosts as well as the visitor who comes at an inopportune time. But, now I am here, we must all make the best of it. My ride from the city has given me an appetite, and the general has invited me to supper. If I find later in the evening that my presence is annoying I will go back to the city. It is a two hour ride and there are cutthroats on the way, but I will not force myself upon those who do not wish my company."

At the mention of his riding over a road that was infested by robbers Inez clung to him, appearing much disturbed. But she said nothing, and in another moment supper was announced.

After the meal Coral and his sweetheart were again permitted to occupy the parlor together. Manuel did not refer again to the want of cordiality with which he had been received. At 9 o'clock he arose to go. Inez seemed disturbed, but did not invite him to remain. Passing into the hall, the general came out of a room opposite to meet him.

"You are not going to the city tonight?" said Manuel.
 "Certainly. Why not?"
 "Better remain here. I insist upon it. I should not forgive myself if you should meet with trouble on the way."
 "What trouble?"

"Never mind that. We have a room for you, and I shall expect you to occupy it."

This was spoken not in a tone of invitation, but of command. Coral was more surprised than ever. Something was surely in the wind.

"Very well, general. Since you insist upon my remaining I will do so. But the president will be in his office early in the morning. That means that his secretary must be there early also."

"That case you had better go to bed early. I will show you to your room. If I permit you to rejoin Inez, there is no telling when you will tear yourself away from her."

"May I ask, general, if there is any change in you and Senora Munez as to my union with Inez?"
 "There is not."

"Very well. I will retire to my room now."

The general led the way to the second floor, all the rooms of which opened on a court. Throwing open the door to one of these rooms, the general set the candle he held on the bureau and, bidding his guest good night, left him.

Coral was puzzled. The general had assured him that his devotion to Inez had nothing to do with the manner of his reception. What, then, could it mean? He was at a loss to form any theory. He went to bed, but could not sleep for thinking of a solution. He expected to arise at 5 o'clock and ride to the city before 8. At 10 o'clock he heard the sound of a horse's hoofs on the road. They grew more distinct, approaching the house, and stopped before it. Coral heard what sounded like the clank of a saber.

In ten minutes the comer rode away, but within half an hour another horseman came and went as the other had done. Up to midnight five or six persons visited the house. Coral heard them come and go, but nothing more. Something surely was brewing. He began to get sleepy, but preferred not to go to sleep. To prevent his doing so he left his bed and sat by a window. The room was chilly, and he put on some of his clothing.

On a rise in the ground several miles distant he saw a light. It was a bonfire. On another summit was another. He counted five of these fires within view. What did they mean?

A faint light appeared in the east. A few minutes later Coral saw a flash through the keyhole of his door. Going to the door, he opened it just far enough to look out. He saw Inez with a candle in her hand at the foot of a staircase leading up to a square tower built at the corner of the house. He had often been up there and knew that there was a ladder in it giving access to the roof.

Inez ascended the stairs. Coral emerged from his room, ran around the court and followed her, overtaking her in the room that constituted the tower. So stealthily did he move that she did not know of his presence till she stood at the foot of the ladder leading to the roof, when she felt herself clasped by a pair of arms. Turning her head, she saw her lover.

"What are you going to do?" he asked in a whisper.

He partly unloosed her, and her head sank upon his breast.

"How unfortunate!"
 "What is unfortunate?"
 "Your coming at this time."
 "Inez," he said sternly, "something is wrong. You are doing the work of General Munez. Choose now between him and me, once and forever."

"I am obliged to choose you. I cannot do what he requires of me without your permission, and when you know my intention you will prevent me."

Then followed a confession which amazed Coral more than his frigid reception, but explained it. General Munez was at the head of troops who were to begin their march to the capital at dawn to assassinate the president and seize the government. The insurgents were scattered. Each group had kindled a fire as a signal that it was ready and waiting. General Munez had gone to a point of rendezvous to take command. He had exacted a promise from Inez that she would at dawn show a light on the tower of his residence as a signal for the different bodies to converge at the point where they would find him.

Having received the confession, Coral at once thought himself what to do.

"Inez," he said presently, "you have kept your word with your benefactor against your lover, so far as you are able. I will not permit you to give the signal. Promise me that you will go to your room and remain there, taking no further part in this matter. I will set out at once for the capital and warn the president. Do as I say, and I promise you that no action shall be taken against General Munez. Without the signal the revolution will collapse. The president will ignore it."

This proposition accorded with Inez's desires. She had been bitterly opposed to a movement which, having been concocted in the house where she lived, she was necessarily cognizant of. If successful it would make a breach between her and her lover; if it failed General Munez would suffer death. She made the promise.

"But you will not get through," she added. "All the roads leading to the capital are picketed, the guards being instructed to pass no one without the countersign."

"What is the countersign?"
 She hesitated for a moment, then said, "Since the revolution cannot be carried out perhaps it is better that you should have it." Then she whispered it in his ear.

"Goodby, sweetheart," he said. "You have acted for the best. The attempt would have failed, and General Munez would have suffered death."

Descending to the yard, he went to the stable, saddled his horse and was soon flying over the road to the city. He was often stopped; but, having the countersign, he was not long delayed. He now understood why the general had kept him overnight. He knew that Coral would not get through.

The signal not having been given, the troops dispersed at sunrise and the general returned to his home, wondering why his plan had gone awry, for he trusted Inez implicitly. She told him her story, and he admitted that she had acted for the best.

Instead of being shot as a traitor, General Munez was given a fat office, and he and the president shook hands at the wedding of Manuel Coral and Inez Garcia.

The Penalty of Pride.
 "When I was running a circus," said a retired showman, "I never lost an opportunity of advertising. I always made it a point to get my name everywhere, and whenever any one asked for my autograph you may be sure he got it. Once when I went to a little town a great string of boys and girls stood in a line waiting for a chance to get my autograph on the small cards they carried. I wrote them as fast as I could, thinking proudly, 'Felix, old boy, your name is getting to be a household word!' When I looked around the tent that afternoon I thought all the school children in the town were there. That meant money, and I was feeling pretty happy till I began looking over the receipts, and then I found over a hundred of my autographs with the words 'Admit bearer' written above them!"

Hearing Keener Than Sight.
 An Irishman, an Englishman and a Scotchman once went up into a tower to see which could see the farthest through a telescope. The Englishman, who looked first, said:

"Oh, Pat, I can see the minute hand of a clock four or five miles away."
 "I can see the minute hand on the same clock moving," said the Scotchman.

Pat stood in amazement listening to his comrades. When he looked through he was seen to smile. Then—
 "Faith, if I don't hear the same clock striking."

One of Those Friends.
 "Wombat, I'm a friend of yours and I must tell you that today Flubdnub was saying some very mean things about you."

"If you are a friend of mine why did you stand there and listen to him?"
 "Well, I'm a friend of his too."

Assisting the Wicked to Flee.
 "The wicked flee when no man pursueth," quoted the deacon to the minister.

"Yes," said the minister, who believed in muscular Christianity. "That is true, but they make much better time when somebody is after them."

Zam-Buk is a skin food, that not only keeps the surface skin smooth and soft, but, being of unusual penetrating power, reaches and feeds the underlying tissues. It stimulates the cells to healthy action, produces vigorous circulation, which carries away all impurities, and thus creates a permanently clear complexion. How much more satisfying than a temporary complexion produced with the aid of powders and cosmetics!

An old document giving the census of the township of Dunwich one hundred years ago has turned up. It is signed by Leslie Patterson, town clerk, and shows the population to have been 147 for the year 1816.

One of the pioneer settlers of Lambton County passed away on Wednesday in the person of Mrs. Isabella Hutchinson, relict of the late William Hutchinson, London road, Sarnia township. Deceased was aged 85 years and 5 months and is survived by a grown up family.

An Alvinston dispatch says: W. E. German, who has lately moved to Sarnia remained to spend the week-end here, and was presented with various reminders of the town. Members of his family were also remembered.

A branch has been formed in Sarnia of the Women's Emergency League to get names of women who are willing to undertake work now being done by men, thus allowing men to enlist. This action was taken at the request of the Colonel of Lambton's 149 Battalion for aid from the women in the recruiting campaign.

as any ordinary critter on four legs. The right shoulder and leg are lacking, however.

John Farquharson, of Bridgen, one of the most highly respected and best known residents of Moore township, died on Wednesday of last week after an illness from pneumonia. Deceased was aged 79 years and had resided in Bridgen all his life, being born in the vicinity of that place. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. James Carter, and four sons, Charles, James, Finlay and John.

Death came with startling suddenness to Charles G. Davis, the well-known and highly respected sexton of Strathroy Cemetery on Sunday last. Mr. Davis went to the cemetery in the morning to prepare a grave and while at work was overcome with heart weakness, he was found dead a short time after, by his daughter, who went to see what was troubling him.

The funeral of the largest man in Elgin county took place recently in the township of Bayham. His name was John H. Dennis, and he lived all his life on the farm where he died. When eleven years old he weighed 200 pounds, and at his death his weight was 369 pounds. His waist measure was nine feet, his chest eight feet. The casket was 30 by 36 by 6 feet, and the body had to be carried outside and put into it where it lay, under a tent.

An End of the War Prediction

Lloyd's is betting odds of two to one that the war will be over in July or August, and general opinion is to the effect that this year will see the termination of hostilities. These reports are based on the successful French resistance at Verdun and the Grand Duke's victories in Asia Minor. It is well to remember that when the end of the war is contemplated, it is only on the supposition of a triumphant peace for the Allies. Taken alone, the above facts would be insufficient in themselves to warrant such an assumption. But taken in conjunction with the fall to vanishing point of the value of the mark and the internal dissensions that are more and more making themselves felt in Germany, there is every hope that the prediction may be justified.

The Forest and Thedford Companies of the 149th batt. marched to Arkona on Wednesday, 15th, and took possession of the village. A mile from the outskirts they were met by the Arkona forces headed by their band. Just outside the village the school children, with flags and banners, waved their welcome and marched with them to the Methodist church where a bounteous dinner had been prepared. The tables groaned with the load of good things laid upon them, but when the hungry soldiers got to work the load was soon lightened. Dinner over a short program of toasts, songs and speeches was in order. In the unavoidable absence of Reeve Jackson, Rev. Herbert Mould took the chair, and after a few introductory remarks proposed the health of the King. In the toast of "Our Guests" Rev. Fair gave a warm welcome to the troops who were visiting us. This was responded to by Lieut. Schroeder of Forest. The chairman then proposed the toast of "The Allies." This was given by Rev. Hare and responded to by the assembled company singing, "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall." The last toast, "Our Hosts," was made by Lieut. Williams and responded to by Mrs. Rook, representing the ladies who had put forth the great effort in entertaining our guests. After a short impromptu program the company dispersed. After spending a couple of hours playing football and leap frog and other games they formed into line and spent a short time drilling in the town square. They were accompanied on their march to Thedford by the Arkona Company.

Presented With Wrist Watch

A pleasant social time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Wiley, 8th line Brooke, on Monday evening, March 20th, when a large number of their friends and neighbors met to spend the evening with their son Frank, who has enlisted with 149 at Petrolia. Mr. Richard Brock acted the part of Chairman in his usual good manner while Rev. Mr. Irwin, Chaplain of the 27th Batt., and Colonel Kenward gave stirring patriotic addresses. A program of songs and short speeches followed after which Frank was presented with a wrist watch and the following address, to which he made a suitable reply.

MR. FRANK WILEY—Dear Friend:—We a few of your friends and associates have gathered to-night to show you in

Can You Stand for This?

The following remarkable utterance was made by Rev. Fritz Philippi, Lutheran Minister, from his pulpit in Berlin, Germany:

"It is really because we are pure that we have been chosen by the Almighty as his instrument to punish the envious, to chastise the wicked, and to slay with the sword the sinful nations. The divine mission of Germany, oh brethren, is to crucify humanity; the duty of German soldiers, therefore, is to strike without mercy. They must kill, burn and destroy, and half measures would be wicked. Let it be a war without pity!"

"Satan himself, who has come into the world in the form of a great power (England) must be crushed. On Germany is laid the divine command to bring about the destruction of those who are the personification of evil. When this work is finished, the kingdom of righteousness will be established on the earth, and the German Empire which will have created it, will remain its protector."

No waiting for plasterers and cleaning up after them; no waiting for plaster to set and wallpaper and moldings to be put up. You can move in when the house is done if you use Beaver Board for the walls and ceilings.

BEAVER BOARD

Those who get acquainted with Beaver Board for the first time think it strange that this most durable of all wall and ceiling materials can be put up and finished so quickly. One man finished a dining room in a day, including decoration.

Beaver Board is painted—not papered—and gives beautiful decorative effects. It is warmer in winter, cooler in summer and lasts as long as the house does. It is the most sanitary of all wall materials. It is the only thing for summer cottages because it stands up in all weathers. Cheaper and better for stores and offices than steel ceilings.

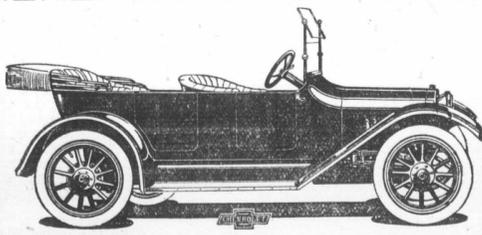

If you are planning any building or remodeling—from a fine home to an attic bedroom—call us up and let us tell you about Beaver Board and The Beaver Board Companies' free Design and Decoration Service.

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—“When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house.”—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—“For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them.”—Mrs. F. E. YOSK, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—“Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day.”—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUKKING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

HOUSEHOLD LINENS.

Some Interesting Suggestions About the Proper Place to Mark Napkins. No housekeeper can ever have enough attractive linen for her table and her bedrooms. She may have enough for actual service, but it is wise to keep just a little ahead of the actual need in extra towels for guest room and bathroom. It is also advisable to keep just a little ahead in the supply of linen for the table. Every set of napkins and each tablecloth should have the housewife's surname initial or her monogram embroidered upon it. There is a question as to the proper place to put the initial or monogram, but the majority prefer the letter on tablecloths to be in the corner, where they will come just off the rounded edge of the table.

Napkins should have the initials in the corner or in the middle on one side, where they will be on top when the napkins are folded. Tea napkins are the only ones on which a wreath can appropriately be placed. It is quite permissible to place an initial within the wreath or other decorative motif. Tea napkins can also be finished with hemstitched or scalloped edges.

Some women may argue that they haven't time to put fancy work on household linen. This is a poor argument, for almost every woman has a few moments during the day when she sits down to chat with a neighbor or when she is waiting for the home-coming of her husband to his evening meal. It is during these odd moments that a great deal can be accomplished, especially in the way of fancy work. Pick up work is good for the nerves.

A YOUTHFUL BELLE.

The Schoolgirl Needs a Dance Gown Pretty as Sisters.

wreath of French roses, while the four ruffles on the skirt, slightly wider, reach the bottom of the overdrape. This design is so simple that most mothers can reproduce it.

SHUTTING OUT SUNSHINE.

Various Ways to Brighten up a Home in Winter.

If the housewife wishes to keep cheerful and happy she must provide for herself surroundings calculated to cheer and uplift. This can never be done by shutting out the sunshine and darkening the rooms with heavy hangings and somber papers. Rather it is her part to furnish her home with sunny papers and bright draperies.

This need not mean that the home must look out of date or cheap. The interior decorators have used chintzes so lavishly in their work of late years that it is considered very smart. They have produced some startling effects with the futurist cretonnes and the elaborate black and white chintzes. Nor can this material by any means be considered cheap when the good cretonnes sell up to $4 and $5 a yard. It is fortunate, however, for women of moderate means that chintz also sells as low as 12 and 15 cents a yard.

With the aid of plain, light colored wall paper and expensive or inexpensive chintz a home can be made to look 10 degrees lighter than it did when filled with dark velvets and subdued wall papers. The effect this change will have on the dispositions of the inmates of the home will quite offset any extra expense incurred in bringing it about. Bright surroundings are essential to bright natures.

Deviled Scallops.

Cream one-third cupful of butter, gradually beat in two teaspoonfuls of mustard, three-quarter teaspoonful of salt and one-quarter teaspoonful of cayenne; then add one quart of par-boiled scallops finely chopped and one cupful of hot milk. Mix thoroughly, turn into a buttered baking dish, cover with one cupful of hot milk. Mix thoroughly, turn into a buttered baking dish, cover with one cupful of fine crumbs, dot with bits of butter and bake about twenty minutes.

ODD MEMORY TEST.

A Bit of Nonsense Literature Whose Author is Unknown.

There is an odd bit of composition that has figured in nonsense literature as follows:

“So she went into a garden to pick a cabbage leaf, to make an apple pie of, and she bear, coming up the street, put her head into the shop and said, ‘Do you sell any soap?’ So she died, and he very imprudently married the barber, and the powder fell out of the counselor's wig, and poor Mrs. MacKay's puddings were quite entirely spoiled, and there were present the Garmelles and the Gobilles and the Pickaninlies and the great Panjandrum himself, with the little round button at top, and they played at the ancient game of ‘catch who catch can till the gunpowder ran out of the heels of their boots.’

The origin of the passage is obscure. Maria Edgeworth (1767-1849), quotes it in one of her stories, attributing it to Samuel Foote (1720-77). The British Quarterly Review said that Foote wrote it in order to test a certain lecturer who claimed that he could learn anything by rote on once hearing it. Another account says that it was written by an actor named James Quinn (1693-1766) to puzzle Foote, with whom he had a wager that Foote could not memorize something that Quinn would write. Foote and Quinn both were noted actors in their day and the nonsensical passage probably was the outgrowth of some convivial contest of wits between them. It used to figure in school recitations to illustrate the difficulty of memorizing something that had no sense to it.

COLORING METALS.

Almost Any Hue, Bright and Lasting, Quickly Imparted to Brass.

It has been found that metals may be colored quickly and cheaply by forming on their surface a coating of a thin film of a sulphide. In five minutes brass articles may be coated any color, varying from gold to copper red, then to carmine, dark red and from light aniline blue to a blue-white like sulphide of lead and at last a reddish white, according to the thickness of the coat, which depends on the length of time the metal remains in the solution used. The colors possess a very good luster, and if the articles to be colored have been previously thoroughly cleaned by means of acids and alkalis they adhere so firmly that they may be operated upon by the polishing steel.

To prepare the solution dissolve half an ounce of hyposulphide of soda in one pound of water and add half an ounce of acetate of lead dissolved in half a pound of water. When this clear solution is heated to from 190 to 200 degrees F. it decomposes slowly and precipitates sulphide of lead in brown flakes. If metal be now present a part of the sulphide of lead is deposited thereon, and according to the thickness of the deposited sulphide of lead the above colors are produced. To produce an even coloring the articles must be evenly heated. Iron heated with this solution takes a steel blue color and will retain the coloring unless some abrasive is used to remove it.—London Chronicle.

W. J. WEED, Clerk

sincere friend. We know you have joined Lambtons battalion 149, you have nobly responded to your country's call to fight for King and Country, under the proud folds of the Union Jack, but we realized by you enlisting you have offered yourself to protect us and our homes, and if it is God's will that you will have to go to the front it is our earnest prayer that you will return to us when this cruel war is over. We feel that we could not let you go away from us without in some way expressing our esteem and good will for you and as a slight token we ask you to accept this wrist watch, and when you look upon it may you remember the many friends around here.

Signed on behalf of your friends—

Kenney Williamson,
John Higgins.

Mr. Roy Clark made a suitable reply thanking the people for their kindness.

NERVOUS DISEASES IN THE SPRING

Cured by Toning the Blood and Strengthening the Nerves

It is the opinion of the best medical authorities, after long observation, that nervous diseases are more common and more serious in the spring than at any other time of the year. Vital changes in the system, after long winter months, may cause much more trouble than the familiar spring weakness and weariness from which most people suffer as the result of indoor life, in poorly ventilated and often overheated buildings. Official records prove that in April and May neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy and other forms of nerve troubles are at their worst, and that then, more than any other time, a blood-making, nerve-restoring tonic is needed.

The antiquated custom of taking purgatives in the spring is useless, for the system really needs strengthening, while purgatives only gallop through the bowels, leaving you weaker. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine, for they actually make the new, rich, red blood that feeds the starved nerves, and thus cure the many forms of nervous disorders. They cure also such other forms of spring troubles as headaches, poor appetite, weakness in the limbs, as well as remove unsightly pimples and eruptions. In fact they unflinchingly bring new health and strength to weak, tired and depressed men, women and children.

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Presentation and Address

On Thursday p. m. March 16th, the staff and Form I students of the W. H. S. met in Form I, and made the following presentation to Miss Annie Campbell, before her departure to her new home in London. The address was as follows:—

It was with deep regret, that we learned, you are soon to leave us, and we felt that we could not let you go without in some way, giving you some small token of our affection and esteem. You are going to attend a very much larger high school than Watford, but wherever you go, you can never win more loyal friends, than you have won for yourself here, nor can you ever make a better record for conscientious, successful work than you have made among us, and so we wish to express to you the regret of staff and students at your departure, and to ask you to accept from the girls of your form this pen as a little keepsake. May it remind you when you use it, of those with whom your Collegiate course began. With all good wishes.

Signed on behalf of your friends,

Rheta Higgins.

Miss Campbell made a suitable reply, thanking her teachers and friends for their kindness.

To MR. ROY CLARK—Dear friend:—We your young friends of Watford and vicinity have assembled here this evening to express our regard for you as a
