Indian summer weather until the middle of November is the latest prediction of the "old timers" who have followed the signs of the different seasons for many years. While this may not be welcome news to the coal dealers, it is thrice welcome to those citizens whose coalbins are still empty.

Mrs. Keller received word recently of the death of her brother Mr. Sherman Andrews of Toronto, who passed away on Sunday, Sept. 30th, in a Toronto hospital after an illness of three or four weeks and the undergoing of an operation. Alvinston paper says: "Watford tax rate is 72 mills. Whew!" Yes, "whew!" this is news for Watford people and is in line with some of the slush sent to the city papers by the rural penny-a-liners, who are not particular about facts so that they can make a few cents out of their padded correspondence. The Watford rate is high, but in these progressive days a town with a low rate doesn't usually amount to much.

The third of a series of baseball games between Forest and Watford public school teams was played in Waterworks park Monday, the score being 4-3 in favor of Watford. Monday's victory puts Watford in the lead for championship honors between the two schools, Watford having two games and Forest one. Strathroy Public School expects to play at Watford on Saturday afternoon. Don't forget to come.

The newly married couple went east for a short honeymoon and will be home and hold a reception this Thursday evening.

SABBATH SCHOOLS CONFERENCE

The conference of Sabbath Schools and Young People's Societies of Group 2, of Sarnia Presbytery held in Knox church, Warwick, was a decided success. Delegates were present from Strathroy, Alvinston, Inwood, Napier, West Adelaide, Arkona, Wyoming, South Plympton, Watford and Knox, Warwick.

The program proved a very interesting one. Rev. W. A. Montieth of Alvinston spoke on the subject "Principles of Religious Education," a live discussion followed which was led by Rev. J. A. Shaver of Strathroy. It was made clear that with the stress laid upon equipment and church organizations today it must not be forgotten that the principles of education are old and tested. During the afternoon the Conference resolved itself into a round table conference led by Rev. J. A. Shaver of Strathroy. Problems arising in connection with their societies were the main topics discussed.

The evening program was also very interesting. Miss Carrie Butler of Strathroy, gave an interesting paper on "Young People and Recreation." The speaker and those who discussed the subject made clear that recreation has a valuable place in all life and especially in the life of the young. Following the discussion the conference decided to hold debates between the various Young People's Societies of the group. The other speaker of the evening was Dr. M. P. Corrigan of Strathroy. His address was thoroughly enjoyed as he was able to speak from a rich experience in boys work. He made a plea for strong, youthful leadership for our boys, who were not bad but needed sympathy and encouragement. Miss Annie Ross of Warwick spoke briefly upon the Church, the Sabbath School and the Home, her remarks were supplemented by the president, Rev. H. V. Workman. This was the first conference of its kind among the Presbyterians of the district and much of the success was due to the fine spirit of hospitality shown by the ladies of Knox church, who served lunch and tastefully decorated their church with the beautiful autumn foliage.

BROOKE

On Thursday afternoon, Oct. 4th, the W.M.S. of Chalmers Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Geo. Campbell. There were 15 ladies present. The lesson on the "Life of Dr. Margaret McKellar" was read by Mrs. Ray Smith, and a short topic on "Medical Work" by Mrs. D. Fisher. A very interesting talk on "Missionary Work" was given by Mrs. Wm. McIntosh. Four more new members were added to the roll. The net proceeds from the home-made baking sale amounted to $41.37. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. D. McDonald on Nov. 1st. At this meeting the Autograph Quilt is to be quilted. All the members keep this date in mind and be present. Mrs. D. Campbell will take the Lesson. At the close of the meeting the hostess served lunch and a social hour was spent.

Beautiful weather prevailed for the anniversary services at Chalmers Presbyterian church last Sunday. Mr. McInnis, Theford, preached inspiring sermons to large congregations both morning and evening. The choir was assisted by Mrs. McIntosh and Miss Clarke, each singing delightful solos.

Dr. Westman of Vancouver, B.C., visited Walnut Methodist church on Sunday after an absence of thirty years. He preached his first sermon in this church and drove 50 miles on Sunday to meet old friends here. Being Temperance Sunday, he spoke briefly and to the point, upon conditions in B. C., under Government Control. Living there for nearly thirty years and knowing the country from North to South and from East to West, he said conditions were awful, the name of British Columbia being dragged to the lowest ebb. Bootlegging had increased and police court convictions for drunkenness had increased over 70%. He sounded a warning to the people to be up and doing lest Ontario come to a similar fate.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter McLean, Detroit, spent the weekend at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Lucas.

Mr. Stanley Hanna, Erie, Penn., visited friends at Walnut last week. Mr. Fred Ross, Detroit, visited friends in Brooke and Alvinston last week.

Anniversary services will be held in Zion Methodist church, 2nd line, on Sunday, Oct. 21st, at 2.30 and 7.30, when Rev. L. W. Hill, B. A., of Parkhill, will be the preacher for the day. Dr. R. J. Seymour of Philadelphia, spent the weekend in Warwick with his mother.

The regular meeting of the D.O.B. Girls' Club, Kingscourt, was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the vice-president, Mrs. Russel Duncan. There were eight members present. The afternoon was spent in sewing pillow cases and quilt blocks. Miss Jean McCormick gave two good readings. The meeting opened in the usual form, the vice-president in the chair as the president was not present, the roll call being answered by a verse of scripture. The meeting closed by singing "God Save The King," after which a dainty luncheon was served by the hostess. The November meeting will be held at the home of Miss Mabel Manders.

THE LATE MRS. HORNE

Word was received last Saturday morning of the death at Renfrew on Friday, Oct. 12th, 1923, of Mrs. Horne, wife of Dr. Edward B. Horne, a former minister of the Presbyterian church in Watford.

Mrs. Horne came as a bride to Watford in the year 1901, and during the eleven years in which her husband ministered to the congregation here, made many warm and loving friends, who deeply regret her death in the prime of life. The burial took place at Renfrew on Monday, Oct. 15th. The sympathy of the community is extended to Dr. Horne in his bereavement.

THE SPORTS LAST FRIDAY

The Directors of the East Lambton Agricultural Society were favored with the most charming weather on Friday last when the trials of speed postponed from Fair Day on account of the rain were held in Waterworks Park. NOTE AND COMMENT

The folks in the Rhur are wondering just how the expression, "French leave," ever came to be invented.—New Haven Register.

A French dirigible has completed a continuous flight of 4,500 miles in 118 hours and 41 minutes. Such a record would indicate that the rigid lighter-than-air type of flying machine should be an important factor in the development of commercial air services.

Brantford Expositor.—If anyone doubts the long arm and swift administration of Canadian justice, let him reflect on the trial scene among the Eskimos at Aklavik, in the Arctic region, 1,666 miles north of Edmonton. It is just this vigilance which has preserved law and order in the isolated frontiers of this vast Dominion.

Kincardine Review.—What do we mean when we speak of returning to normal conditions? Do we mean that prices will go back to pre-war days? That does not seem possible—does not indeed seem desirable. But it should mean that men will return to the wholesome practice of doing a full day's work for a full day's pay.

The Ford Motor Co., which for the last five years has left all advertising to be done by local dealers, has decided to spend the enormous sum of $7,000,000 on newspaper and magazine advertising throughout the country during the next year. Some people seem to be laboring under the delusion that advertising doesn't pay but apparently Henry Ford isn't one of them.—Canadian Echo.

There are about 100 deaths per week from cancer in Canada. In the January report of vital statistics, just issued from Ottawa, deaths from tuberculosis in that month are shown to have been 319, as against 400 from cancer. Therefore, in Canada as in Great Britain, cancer must now be regarded as a scourge even more to be dreaded than tuberculosis and even more fatal to our population.

We are in the habit of speaking of the United States as the country South of us but a glance at a geography shows that Essex and Kent are south of the most of Michigan, Minnesota, the two Dakotas, Washington, Oregon, Montana, New York, Vermont, New Hampshire and some other states; and that if Alaska were counted in it appeared to be an actual fact that the major part of the States is north of us.

London Advertiser.—Reports of various church organizations indicate that many of them are preparing for sales of work, bazaars, etc., in order to raise money for various church purposes. All these sales are planned for late fall or early winter in the knowledge that many people will be arranging for Christmas gifts at that time, and will make some of their purchases from the sales. The stores that stay in business 12 months in the year to give continuous shopping service to the citizens are likewise depending on extra business at this time to balance up against some of the lean months of the year. They are entitled to consideration, and it might be well for the church organizations to give the matter a little serious and considerate thought.

Though Germany proclaims her poverty to the world, German business interests seem to have large resources. They have purchased more cotton from the United States in the past eight months than the people of any other nation and have also made large purchases of copper and meats in the Republic.

Lift lightly, oak leaves, for your master, the wind, is calling. Drift lightly, oak leaves, for the maple leaves are falling. The wind is the voice of the end of things, the time has come to go. The flame of the year's sweet life is burning low. Put on your flaming coats, and as guests to a wedding feast, go gayly to the common fate of leaf and fowl and beast.

A new harvesting machine is being tried out in the West this year. The affair cuts the heads off grain, elevates the same into a large steel tank, which at the will of the operator dumps the load in the form of a stack, compact and well built, eight feet in diameter, and the same in height. These stacks, which cure well are hauled by a bull rake to the separator for threshing.

In Ontario the number of horses has declined from 704,640 in 1920 to 673,371 in 1923. However, horsemen claim that the farm tractor boom of the war days is subsiding, the story being that the big profits of war time naturally led to farm operations on the more extensive tractor scale, while the lessened profits of today make for smaller operation and horse-power. Is the horse coming back?

Yellow and black automobile license plates—a vivid yellow background—with black, embossed lettering, will adorn Ontario's motor vehicles during the 1924 season. Aside from the change in color from black and white to yellow and black, there will be little alteration in the cut and design of the new plates. The lettering will be approximately the same size as that of the present markers.

A new $2 Dominion of Canada note has just been placed in circulation by the Department of Finance. On the face or front of the bill is a new steel engraved portrait of the Prince of Wales and the date of issue is June 23, 1923—the last birthday of the Prince. The department has taken advantage of the presence in Ottawa of His Royal Highness to introduce the bill. The new note is of striking design and is altogether one of the most artistic that has been issued by the department in recent years.

A revision of the public school curriculum is being undertaken by Dr. F. W. Merchant and officials of the Dept. of Education at the instance of Premier Ferguson, in his capacity of Minister of Education. Primarily, the aim is to curtail the number of subjects which it is obligatory upon public school pupils to study. The essentials, of course, are to remain obligatory, but the Premier's view, which he is having worked out on paper with a view to giving it still further consideration, is that there are some branches of public school work which can be regarded as non-essentials, the imposition of which are burdensome and detract from the abilities of the young child to get thorough grounding in essentials. Hygiene and nature studies are said to be among these items regarded as non-essentials.

LABELLING ALL POST OFFICES

Attention has recently been called to the desirability, in view of the immense growth of automobile traffic, to have all cities, towns and villages plainly labelled so as to be easily identified by the tourist. It is now announced that the Federal postoffice department is interested in the matter. For some time, it is reported, the question of placing larger and more attractive signs on the post offices located on the main highways travelled by motorists has been under consideration of the department, and the postmaster-general has given his approval. More legible signs, and the more attractive the better, should also be put up by farmers, as is done in some places. The stencilled signs on the letter boxes, if fresh and clear

EAST LAMBTON TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

The Annual Convention of the Teachers of East Lambton was held in the Troquois Theatre, Petrolia, on Thursday and Friday, October 12th and 13th. Mr. R. J. Henderson presided at the several sessions in a very capable manner.

Thursday morning session was opened with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. A. M. Stewart, of Petrolia. Then followed Community singing which was ably led by Mrs. R. C. Fisher.

Mr. Ed. Fletcher sang a solo and Mr. R. C. Fisher rendered a violin solo, both of which delighted the teachers. Miss Murray of Petrolia presided at the piano.

Dorothy and Edna Hunter delighted the audience with their singing and Irish dances. The children were in costume.

Miss Florence Edwards of Warwick gave a very full report of the O.A.C. meeting held at Toronto last Easter week.

Rev. R. C. Pitts of Petrolia conducted the devotional exercises at the opening of Thursday afternoon session. A number of choir boys of the Anglican church, in Boy Scout costume, came with Mr. Pitts and assisted in the opening exercises and also sang for the teachers.

Then followed the general business of the Institute. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, also the Auditor's report. The President, Mr. Henderson, ably addressed the Convention, dealing principally with the Institute Library. Mr. A. J. Painter of Hamilton Normal School, gave a splendid address on "The Place of Manual Training in the Public Schools." He had on exhibit an abundance of material showing the nature of the work which might be done in the schools and strongly urged that greater attention be paid to that important and profitable subject, Manual Training.

Miss L. Cameron of Watford Public School sang a very pleasing solo. She was accompanied by Miss Helen Hamilton.

Mr. J. J. Edwards, Inspector, brought the afternoon session to a close by a few announcements. He also brought before the Convention several matters pertaining to the work of the teachers.

On Friday morning Rev. Mr. Raithby conducted the devotional exercises. Lieut. Col. Ware of London addressed the Institute on the "Importance of Cadet Work and Physical Training in the Schools," which would aid in securing obedience, patriotism and discipline. He referred to the Strathcona Trust Fund and explained it.

Inspector Edwards ably addressed the teachers on the subject of Entrance work. He gave many splendid suggestions as to how to improve the teaching of Entrance subjects. He dealt particularly with the last Entrance paper in Grammar.

Then, Mrs. Fisher again conducted community singing. Mr. Gilroy of Petrolia sang a pleasing solo and Dorothy and Edna Hunter again delighted the audience with their Scotch dances in costume.

Miss Buchanan of Petrolia Schools gave a demonstration with a class of beginners. Miss Buchanan is a very capable Primary Teacher and her work with the class was very interesting.

Mr. Painter again addressed the Convention dealing with Methods in Construction work for Ungraded Schools.

Friday afternoon session was opened by Rev. J. J. Monds.

P. McKichan, B.A., principal of Petrolia High School gave a good address on the subject of Entrance History.

Miss Doris Collins, a primary teacher in Petrolia Schools took a primary class in singing. She conducted the class very ably and the singing was most pleasing.

Miss Young of Petrolia High School staff addressed the Institute on the subject of "Consolidated Schools". She has had considerable experience teaching in these schools and advanced strong arguments in favor of Consolidation.

On Thursday evening the teachers held their session in the Theatre where the manager, Mr. Wallis, in addition to his regular program for the evening, put on several pictures of educational value, some of which were "Masters of Men," "The Story of Paper," and "The Teachers' Trip Through Northern Ontario." The Fisher orchestra played during the evening.

The Executive and Inspector are very grateful to all who so kindly assisted in the program, and who helped to make the Convention the best ever held in the Inspectorate of East Lambton.

The officers elected for next year are:

- Hon. president—P. McKichan, B.A.
- M. Cameron, B.A.
- Hon. vice-president—J. J. Edwards, B.A.
- President—Mr. Kirke Evans.
- Vice-pres.—Miss Florence Edwards
- Sec.-Treas.—A. W. Kelly.
- Executive com.—The officers and Mrs. Trott, Mr. Henderson, and Mr. Doolittle.

The amazing life story of "The Wonderful Heroine" has been printed in pamphlet form and a copy may be obtained free by sending a post card addressed to the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal.

Accumulative Bonds

---are a medium of investment especially attractive to those having a sum of money on which they are prepared to allow the interest to accumulate. We issue these bonds for $50.00 or any multiple thereof. They bear interest at 5 1/2 percent. per annum, COMPOUNDED HALF-YEARLY, and the following table shows the amounts required to purchase Bonds for specified sums payable at the end of five years:

$38.12	WILL PURCHASE A BOND FOR	$ 50
$76.24	WILL PURCHASE A BOND FOR	$100
$152.48	WILL PURCHASE A BOND FOR	$200
$381.20	WILL PURCHASE A BOND FOR	$500
$762.40	WILL PURCHASE A BOND FOR	1000

Money invested to return simple interest at 5 1/2 per cent per annum, payable half-yearly, will double itself in a little over 18 years, whereas if invested to return the same rate compounded half-yearly it will double itself in less than 13 years. We particularly recommend these Bonds to those not in need of an immediate return on their investment or to any one wishing to provide an amount for a specific purpose at some future date.

Any further information will be gladly furnished on request, as the above are only given as an illustration, and Bonds can be taken out for any amount at any time.

Offers Attractive Investment in Debentures Bearing Interest at Five and a Half Per Cent.

The issue of the new Dominion government loan has established the fact that there is an enormous amount of money seeking profitable investment, the possessors of which are often unable to find an avenue which will offer a good rate of interest and at the same time provide the unquestioned security which is vital to the average investor.

In this connection attention is drawn to the debentures offered by the Lambton Loan and Investment Co., of Sarnia, an institution which for almost one hundred years has carried on a financial and investment business which has had few equals in the history of Canada. These debentures are for terms of one, two, three, four or five years bearing interest at the rate of 5 1/2 percent, carrying coupons payable twice a year. They are purchasable at any time and are backed by a capital and reserve of $1,700,000.

One of Best Available
Consideration of these circumstances show that the investment offered by the Lambton Loan and Investment Company is one of the most attractive on the market today and is sure to prove of unusual interest to those who desire to place their money in channels of assured safety and at the same time reap the benefits of an interest rate of 5 1/2 percent. The fact that this strong Sarnia institution has served the public since its foundation in 1844 is a guarantee that cannot be overlooked.

Handling Government Bonds
The Lambton Loan and Investment Company is also accepting government bonds of November maturity for the next thirty days and will allow interest either on their deposit or conversion to Lambton Loan and Investment Debentures, from October 15, which means a bonus of two weeks interest. This is an opportunity for those who desire to convert their government bonds, that will be largely taken advantage of. The company will also accept government bonds for conversion to the new government issue in the ordinary method outlined in the government plan. Readers should not overlook the advertisement on page three regarding the "Accumulative Bonds" of this company. They are backed by its entire assets. They are a very attractive and profitable form of investment.

A LEGACY TO HAND DOWN

There will be few Canadians but will experience the thrill of patriotic pride in reading the speeches of Lloyd George, the British ex-premier, on his recent tour of this country and the United States. Not many old country statesmen of his rank and prestige have ever taken occasion to come to this continent, and his avowed purpose of coming here first of all to thank Canada and the part her sons took in the Great War must give us all a feeling that we are of some consequence in this outpost of the great empire to which we belong. Few public men have ever had the ability to say things of importance in as pointed a manner as has Lloyd George, and we note with pleasure that almost his first utterance after landing in New York was one that must have been a surprise to many citizens of the States. There are a great many people across the line who believe that we in Canada are fettered to the Motherland by some sort of allegiance that requires us to do as she bids; and the British ex-premier took particular pains to explain that Canada is as free of old country domination as are the people under the Stars and Stripes, and that the effort she put forth in the war was absolutely voluntary, and therefore appreciated all the more for that. Canada is complimented in having as a guest within its borders one who fired the British people to such prodigious effort in the world conflict; and we believe the more youthful of this generation will come to the time when it will be a matter to be proud of to be able to tell those who succeed that they lived in the days of Lloyd George.

KIND WORDS FOR WATFORD AND WATFORD'S SONS AND DAUGHTERS

An article in the Regina Review of Sept. 28th, written over the signature of "Old Timer," has some very nice things to say about our little town and some of its former sojourners who are now residents of that Western city. It is pleasing to know that Watford and its natives occupy such a warm place in the hearts of Regina people. The article says in part:

Regina is only a young thing as cities go. Not much over forty years of age and most of our citizens own another birthplace; and those of us who are not Canadian born have learned from our neighbors something of their "old home towns" back in Ontario or Quebec or the Maritime Provinces. Thus we have heard of Toronto or Ottawa or Guelph or Galt or Hamilton or Wellington County, or Moncton, Three Rivers and many another place. There is, however, one little town in old Ontario that has appealed always to my imagination, not only from the descriptions of it I have received from its sons and daughters, but because some of the very finest people I ever knew have come from it. They always talk with hungering memories of the old place with its tree-shaded streets and quiet thrifty plenty; its kindly folks; and the fine prosperous farming country which surrounds it. It is called Watford and it has given Regina a whole array of good citizens. It was the original home of the Bole family, the members of which, long so well known to Regina folks, to the third generation have been no insignificant figures in the development of Western Canada. J. W. Smith, a former mayor of the city, also owned it as his original abiding place, as did Bob Jarvis, and Hamilton Westgate, D. C. Thom and a host of others. If I am not mistaken Dr. Brett of Alberta, the most genial Lieutenant-Governor who ever wore a Windsor uniform, also originated in Watford. Then last but by no means least, comes Sam Cooke of the Empire Hotel and his most excellent wife.

The people I have mentioned are all prominent in their walks of life, but I doubt if I would grant any of them precedence over the last two I have named. Sam Cooke and his wife are my ideal of the best influence in a community. They are engaged in a business that brings them in contact with the public, and although every one knows them, I have never heard an opinion of them that was not tinged with the highest esteem. Their hostelry under their quiet management becomes not a place of public refreshment but a real home, with an atmosphere of comfort and refinement. I don't say this to make any invidious comparisons but as each person has his individual touches so have places, and this is the characteristic of the Empire Hotel. Very quiet is the work of these good people but no tale of sorrow or want or suffering is poured into their ears in vain, and like the good man of scripture, they do not let their right hand know what their left is doing. Many a young girl has come to the Empire to work and has been helped to education and responsibility by Mrs. Cooke, who never tires of good works. It may not be

Zam-Buk is a Blessing in the Home

CHILD'S TERRIBLE BURNS.—Mr. A. Summers, Postmaster of Geldrow, Sask., writes:—"Zam-Buk performed wonderful healing in the case of my little two-year-old boy who fell from his chair against a red-hot heater! One side of his face and his ear were just seared. I dressed the burns liberally with this soothing Zam-Buk daily. In two weeks Zam-Buk grew beautiful new skin."

FROST-BITTEN EARS HEALED.—"While going to school one morning I got both my ears badly frozen," writes Miss Mary Herrington, of Harewood, N.B. "They were swollen twice normal size and pained intensely. Fortunately I had some Zam-Buk on hand and applied it immediately I got indoors. The relief Zam-Buk gave was wonderful. It stopped pain almost immediately, and quickly took out the inflammation and swelling."

"ECZEMA ON THE HANDS CAUSED ME THREE YEARS AWFUL SUFFERING." writes Mr. Angus Josey, of Spry Harbor, Halifax, N.S. "The intense itching kept me awake at nights. I had tried ointments and lotions without result before I got Zam-Buk. This wonderful healer quickly removed every trace of disease."

ZAM-BUK is magical for troubles like ringworm, cold-sores, abscesses, poisoned wounds, chilblains, piles, ulcers, etc., also for healing cuts, scalds and other injuries. Etc. all dealers.

The Beacon Lights on Great Slave Lake and the Wonderful Tale of an Indian School

By Rev. T. E. R. Westgate

ON the southern shores of Great Slave Lake, and just at the spot where it receives into the embraces of its ample bosom the volumes of water brought down by the beautiful Hay River, there stand two simple but invaluable beacon lights, erected by the Dominion Government for the benefit of their still comparatively few, but ever-increasing number of mariners in that remote part of the new world. The writer has just returned from a visit to that entrancing section of the great continent in which we live, and if the man with the Sample Case has any desire to know more about its wonderful lakes and rivers, trees and minerals, hamlets and people, and above all its most wonderful centre of learning, which is the Indian School, established by the Anglican Church at Hay River, he is cordially invited to sit down and listen to what this friendly fellow traveller has to say.

The Route to be Followed

The city of Edmonton, the capital of the Province of Alberta, will be our starting point, and from there the first three hundred miles of the journey can be made in twenty-four hours, in a fine Pullman car attached to the end of a freight train. For about one hundred miles the road-bed is sufficiently stable to admit of an up-to-date rate of locomotion without danger or discomfort to the passengers, but the rest of the train journey, owing to the lack of suitable ballast and the spongy nature of the soil, over which this great thoroughfare is constructed, has to be made at a somewhat more moderate and less exhilarating speed. About one hundred and thirty miles from Edmonton where the cultivated fields and wagon roads come to an end, stands the little French town of Lac la Biche, built on the western shore of an altogether lovely lake of the same name, and when this has been passed scarcely any other trace of civilization will be found until the log-built town of Waterways, on the banks of the appropriately named river, the Clearwater, has been reached on the following day. As the waters of this river begin to mingle with those of that mightier stream called the Athabasca, at a point about seven miles below, and where the town of Fort McMurray stands, the journey for this distance is generally made either on the clean deck space of a gasoline launch, or on the broad surface of a heavily-laden barge, which the launch takes with it, tightly lashed to its side or lead in tow.

The Steamship Companies

From Fort McMurray to the Arctic Sea very comfortable steamers are operated by the following well-organized and enterprising Steamship Companies, The Hudson's Bay, The Alberta and Arctic Transportation, and The Northern Trading, and the rest of the journey can be made in one of these. Although the companies will undertake to transport passengers to any port which their steamers can reach in the great McKenzie River Basin, and this is undertaking a great deal as it is twenty five hundred miles long and the second largest in the North American continent, the voyager must be prepared to have his journey interrupted by a sixteen mile series of tumultuous and deadly rapids into which the placid waters of the Athabasca River develop just after they pass the little town of Fitzgerald, about two hundred and ninety miles below Fort McMurray. Interruptions of this sort, however, are not always without welcome as they add variety and interest to the journey, and as arrangements have been carefully made to reduce the delay and discomfort, inconvenience and fatigue at this interruption to a minimum.

INFANTS DELIGHT TOILET SOAP

further reference will be made to it again a little later on.

The Journey

Beginning then at Fort McMurray, where the country is so rich with vituminous sands that a sufficient quantity could be procured to make good streets in every town and city, and good roads throughout every Province in the Dominion, you can book your passage, at a moderate cost, on any steamer belonging to one of the companies mentioned, and settle down for a two hundred and ninety mile ride as peaceful in motion and interesting in scenery as the heart could wish, or the eye desire to see. The Athabasca River is never straight enough to be monotonous, and as the banks in places rise to an elevation of nearly two hundred feet and afterwards descend almost to the level of the waters edge, being everywhere covered with spruce or poplar, alder or willow, the ever-changing scenes presented could not but elevate the mind of any man above the sordid things of modern life and fix it on One who is the Author of all these things, and Whose friendship or favor can never be purchased, not even with the purest silver or the most refined gold. The vast solitudes through which one passes on the lower stretches of this magnificent river are wonderful in their magnitude, and magnetic in their power, and to the writer there is but little hope for the man who can pass through them and remain unaffected thereby.

Athabasca Lake

After being transported for about twenty hours in this delectable way down the channel of the Athabasca River, the traveller reaches "the broad and beautiful expanse of water which is known as Athabasca Lake. On the map it may appear as a comparatively small and insignificant object, but here, as elsewhere, appearances are deceptive, for the lake is one hundred and ninety-five miles long, thirty-five miles wide, and can exhibit, when agitated by the north-east winds, the power of an angry monster which the strongest and most sagacious mariners are obliged to recognize, and have never been known successfully to defy. When the writer ventured to cross a twenty mile segment of this lake last summer the surface was as calm and beautiful as a lake of liquid silver, those who have crossed it oftener assured him that at times they found it in so defiant and truculent a mood that they were obliged to stand by for many days at a time until this had given way to one of benevolence and repose.

Fort Chipewyan

At the north-west part of the lake, and just at the spot where its waters begin to flow out through the channels known as the Quatre Fourches, stands Fort Chipewyan, a settlement of Chipewyan Indians with prosperous Missions of the Anglican and Roman Catholic Churches, and the agents of different trading companies established in their midst. The traveller who takes a delight in things of historical antiquity will here find something of surpassing interest, for Fort Chipewyan is built on a firm foundation of that Archaean rock, which arose out of the darkness of prehistoric night as the oldest part of the earth in which we live, and extending eastward as far as Hudson's Bay and Ungava, is known as the Laurentian Plateau. Only here and there can this particular geological specimen be seen as surface rock, or as rock that lies but a little distance beneath the soil, and the traveller who stands upon it is standing on a monument which dates backward beyond the dawn of history to the very dawn of time.

The Slave River

About fifteen miles from Fort Chipewyan, and shortly after the Quatre Fourches have amalgamated into one stream, the waters of the Peace River may be seen pouring in through the western bank, and from there onward for a distance of eighty-five miles to Fitzgerald, the journey is made on the ever-widening surface of one of the most beautiful rivers in the world, but known by the simple and somewhat homely name of The Slave. The writer has travelled on the St. Lawrence, the St. Mary, the St. Clair, and many other beautiful rivers in North America, as well as on the Paraguay, and the River Plate, a long way further south, but none of these have afforded him that unalloyed pleasure, bordering on delight, which he experienced while gliding almost noiselessly and peacefully along on the strong current of this little known river in our own far north.

The Portage

As the steamer draws near to Fitzgerald the increased rapidity of the current and the ever-increasing number of eddies, attract the attention of all on board, and serve as forcible reminders that the dangerous rapids are near. In years gone by men with stout hearts and nerves of iron have been known to negotiate these in safety, but, alas, so many failed in this, at the best, a hazardous endeavor, that the last of the series has been given the sombre and melancholy name of "The Rapids of the Drowned." The little town of Fitzgerald has sprung up on the left bank of the river, just where the rapids begin, and here the first part of the steamer journey ends. From there arrangements have been carefully made to transport the traveller his baggage, and all kinds of freight, by motor car or jitney, horse wagon or caterpillar tractor, across sixteen miles of portage to the town of Fort Smith, and there the second part begins. When the writer crossed this portage on the outward journey he did it in forty-five minutes, and as this included one brief stop to photograph the rapids from a point where the road lay near the embankment, and another at the straight broad wound in the face of the forest which marks the dividing line between the Province of Alberta and the North West Territories, it may easily be seen that the road he travelled was not, at that time, in any mean condition.

Fort Smith

The town of Fort Smith perpetuates the name of one of Canada's great men, namely, Sir Donald Smith, afterwards Lord Strathcona, who faithfully served his country for many years as Canadian High Commissioner in England. Like all other towns in the north country it possesses at present no great buildings in connection with any industry or activity, with the exception of those of the Roman Catholic Mission, but as history has often been known to repeat itself, there is a possibility that it may do so again, and future generations may find here a city that will surpass in riches and greatness many of those which now look down upon it with disdain. The presence of the chief executive officer of the Dominion Government who makes this his headquarters for administering the Territories, and of such splendid citizens as Mr. Card, who is the Indian agent and a Justice of the Peace, Mr. Conybeare, an officer in the British Naval Reserve, Mr. Lyle, the agent of the Hudson's Bay Company, and others who might be mentioned, provides the place with an interest and dignity which might otherwise be lacking and will serve as a guarantee that any development which takes place will be directed along the most desirable lines.

Great Slave Lake

The Slave River from Fort Smith to Great Slave Lake is even more magnificent than that part of it which lies above the rapids, and after the beautiful steamer, be it "The Distributor," "The MacKenzie River," or "The Northern Trader," has transported him a distance of two hundred miles down its delightful current, and in a period of time that is altogether too short to grasp a fraction of the wonders it contains, the eyes of the traveller will open wide as he beholds the waters of the Great Slave Lake, spread out before him and stretching away to the north, the east, and the west, to a boundary which he knows must be there, but which his unaided vision cannot see. Great Slave Lake, so far as its dimensions are known at present, has a greatest length of two hundred and eighty-eight miles, a greatest breadth of sixty miles, and, covering as it does a superficial area of over twelve thousand square miles can claim the proud distinction of being the fourth largest lake on the whole of the American continent. When the writer travelled for nearly one hundred miles across its surface there was scarcely a ripple to be seen, but on later days when strong winds from the barren lands blew steadily from the north-east, he had an opportunity of witnessing it in a state of violent commotion, and thanked God that at such a time the steamer which carried him was safely anchored in harbour, and he himself at rest on shore.

Fort Resolution

All round the mouth of the Slave River, and on the sand bars which have been formed on either side of the deeper channel for some distance out into the lake, large quantities of drift wood are to be seen, and once these are passed, the deep clear waters of the lake are reached, and the steamer shapes its course for Fort Resolution, on the southern shore. After covering a distance of about twenty miles the "Lepees" and huts of the Slave Indians, and the houses and other buildings of the White folk, who live amongst them, come into view, but the shallow depth of the water, in the bay beyond which they stand renders a close approach impossible except for lighter craft such as the row boat, skiff, or canoe. In years gone by great men like Sir Alexander MacKenzie and Sir John Franklin have honoured and graced this place with their presence, but the onward march of time must have brought great changes, and one may doubt whether they would recognize it could they but come back and visit it once more.

Hay River

From Fort Resolution to Hay River is a distance of seventy miles in a south-westerly direction, and as the day dies down and the night comes on, all eyes are gladdened by the bright rays from the beacon lights which stand on a point at the mouth of the river and indicate the solitary channel through which the steamer can run. When the writer arrived it was the darkest hour of mid-night, and no sound was heard from the land until the steamer's whistle was blown, and this soon brought a crowd of dusky figures down to the shore. As the season of navigation is short in the north land every minute of time is treasured up as a very precious thing, and soon those who had this post for their destination were safely landed, welcomed by their friends, and hurried off to rest, while the steamer with the remaining passengers and freight moved out once more into the darkness and continued on her way.

The Beacon Lights

In the south of England, about fourteen miles from Plymouth, and ten from the Cornish coast, stands the wonderful Eddystone Lighthouse. Every half minute it projects into the surrounding darkness a double flash of pure, white light, which can be seen fully seventeen miles away. Before this first lighthouse was erected on the reef from which it receives its name, many a gallant vessel manned by still more gallant seamen, went down to a watery doom.

It was in the year 1696 that Mr. Henry Winstanley, courageously and in the face of much opposition and no little ridicule, erected his sixty foot, wooden, pagoda-like tower, with a lantern on the top, and where is the living man who can number the lives that have been saved, or the ships preserved from ruin, since that light began to shine? Great, benevolent, and wonderful as was the lamp lighted by Mr. Winstanley and kept burning by others who followed after to the eye of the writer it fades into dimness when compared with that of Henry Martyn, the Cornish boy, son of a miner, who graduated from Cambridge University as Senior Wrangler, and then went forth to India, Persia and Arabia, carrying with him to those benighted and bewildered peoples those brighter rays which illuminate not only the body, but the soul, and which radiate forever, without cessation, from Him Who is The Light of the World. In the short space of seven years he translated into Sanscrit and Hindustani, into Persian and Arabic, that part of the Word of God called The New Testament, which is verily the brightest light among the nations of the earth today, and the only one which can guide them into the haven of safety and peace.

When the writer awoke on the morning after his arrival at Hay River, the thoughts which he has just penned were conceived within him, and as he gazed, first, on one side, of the river where stood the Beacon Lights, thoughtfully erected by the Dominion Government for the guidance and benefit of benighted, seafaring men, and, then at the Anglican Indian Residential School, with all its costly and indispensable equipment, on the other, it seemed to him that, as in the case of the Cornish lights, the latter was the greater of the two. The wealth and wonders, the immensity and importance of many things which he saw, and of others of which he heard, during his visit to that remote and little known part of the world greatly impressed him, but none so favourably, so indelibly, or to so great a degree, as this great centre of learning and light.

The Fauna

To some there is nothing so valuable or wonderful there as the great variety of fur-bearing animals and fishes, of migratory birds and great game which abound. Valuable and wonderful indeed they are, for that North land is the home of the moose and the caribou, the muskox and buffalo, and other creatures of their kind. There too, will be found both mountain sheep and goats, and bears black and grizzly, to say nothing of that great multitude of smaller species, such as the rabbit, beaver, muskrat, otter, mink, marten, wolf, weasel, lynx, fox and wolverine. There too, in the summer months, millions of ducks and geese of various kinds come up from the south, while the ptarmigan and different kinds of grouse remain throughout the year. In the lakes and rivers are various kinds of fish, and the writer no less than sixty pounds. Whitefish, pike, and suckers roam through all waters, while grayling, pickerel, gold-eye and even herring have a more limited range.

The Timber

To others, the chief interest and wealth of the North Land lies in its timber. In variety the trees are not numerous, but they include such copiferous and deciduous species as the balsam poplar, tamarack, white and black spruce, balsam fir, birch, aspen, and balsam poplar of balm of Gilead.

The Minerals

To others again, and they are not a few, nothing is so great or wonderful as the mineral wealth which they are certain to abound, because some of it has already been gathered up, and in other places the outcrop has been found. The Devonian rocks assure them of oil, while placer gold has been discovered in the streams. Coal, salt, gypsum, lead, zinc, and gas have also been located, while in the Precambrian rocks iron, copper and nickel occur.

The Waterpower

The tremendous possibilities in the way of waterpower appeal with overwhelming magnetism to many others, and as the writer grazed for sometime in amazement on the wonderful Alexandra Falls on the Hay River, he felt in himself something of the astonishing force. There, an enormous volume of water, one hundred and thirty feet wide, is precipitated over a Devonian escarpment, and has a direct and unobstructed drop of one hundred and five feet. But while the Alexandra and Louise Falls on the Hay River were the only ones visited by the writer, they are not the only ones which exist, for great numbers have been located and measured, and possibly others may yet be found. Little Buffalo River has at one spot a direct fall of one hundred feet, while the waters of other rivers such as The Beaver, The Trout, and the Yellowknife, are precipitated over lofty escarpments in a similar way.

The People

Great and wonderful, however, as are all of the foregoing, and the writer is not incapable, he believes, of appraising them at their true worth, yet to him they disappear in value away off to the dim horizon of insignificance when compared with the numerous tribes and bands of Indians and Eskimo, numbering many thousands of souls, and each one more precious than any jewel, and infinitely dearer to the heart of God. The Chipewyan, Caribou-eaters Yellowknives and Dogrives are there. There, too, are the Slaves, the Hares, the Beavers, and the Loucheux, living around the lakes and along the rivers, while away in the mountains to the north and west are the Skanians, Kaskas, and Nahannis, with the Eskimo, possibly the best of all, everywhere along the Arctic shore. And in these, and in these alone, though, alas, how few there are who know it, the greatest treasure of that great dark North Land is to be found. For their sakes the Hay River School exists, and no human mind can calculate, nor any human ken portray the inestimable benefit which it has conferred upon them. For many years it has been sending forth in all directions its bright and hallowed rays of truth and learning, and these have penetrated the dense moral darkness even of the Arctic shores. Some of the choicest spirits which God's great army of workers has ever known have lived and laboured and died to keep that light burning, and it is the unspeakable privilege, as well as the responsibility, of those of us who live to-day, to see that that light shall not only not grow dim, but shine on as long as time shall last, with ever-increasing brilliancy and penetrating power. The graduates of that School are now occupying positions of trust in a great many different departments of life, and by the Grace of God the light will be kept burning till every man, woman and child still in the kingdom of darkness, which is the kingdom of Satan, shall be translated into the Kingdom of Light, which is the Kingdom of God's dear Son.

Today I seen 2 men having a fite and a lady which happened to cum past remarked. How very discusting. Personally I wonder what she expects for nothing. I thot it was a pretty good one. And Demsey and Furpo went cum here and entertained her for that price.

Saturday—Pa spent most of the whole entire day figuring out a rout with better roads on witch to go home on. And I 2nd the motion. Went to a pitcher show where a girl is getting drowned and it was so real I wanted to run down the isle and jump in the water and save her from a watery death.

Sunday—Was invited out to dinner today and got a swell feed. Actually they was so much on the table that they was beary room for pa to put his elbows on but he managed to get along sum way.

Monday—Went out in the woods with Cuzzen Clarence to hunt nuts and sum ole man got smart and ast if he brot me along for a Decoy.

Tuesday—We are going to have Co. today. They are a ole maid witch has come down here to get Rid of her Roomatism and her Maiden name. Here is luck.

Wednesday—well we got started and made a hundred and 30 miles on are short cut home. We are at Paducca tonite and it is raneing and pa is pritty blue over the prospecks as they tell him the roads will be to muddy to travel on tomorrow morning.

Thursday—Got lost tonite on the rong road and finely we seen a sine board and pa got out and clumb up and struck about a doz. matches so he cud read what it sed. And it sed. This Farm For Sail Cheap. Had to back track 70 miles today on acct. of pa's short cut. I gess ma will never get done razzing him for being so wise. 2 blowouts and that is doing pritty good. All of are immedate family went to bed singing the national air Home Sweet Home.

Friday—Mr. Gillems brother has got a new baby at his house witch is a boy and it is the 9th child in the happy little family. They have went and named him John. His pa says that as far as he knows they arent any of the children ben named John here before in the past.

Saturday—I was asting Pug Stevens how cum he was such a fighter since we been on good terms for over a wk. now. And he sed he had to ware curls and a neckty till he was 8 yrs. old and that will lern any 1 to be a fighter if he has got any red blooded American inside of him.

Sunday—When I cums home from Sunday skool today ma ast me what was the lesson about and I enformed her it was about Ruth and Naomi. Pa overheard a little of are conversation and he pipes up and wants to no what team is Naomi playing on.

Monday—Pa got back a story he had sent to the editor of a magazine today. He rote a letter to the editor and sed to him. I think you will find this is a good plot. And the editor rites back that it was more like a Conspiracy. Pa remarked that it seems like lots of women get married just to have a good excuse to get a Devorce. Or practice shooting.

Tuesday—When ma left this evening to go away she left a dose of Castor oil for me to take before I go to bed. I took it—to the door & pored it in the back yd. Castor oil is all rite in its place. Witch is any place in witch I am not at.

FOREST

Workmen have been busy during the past week, putting a new roof on St. Christopher's R. C. church. The old roof has done thirty year's service, the church having been built in 1893, the year of the corner stone incident. Interior improvements also will be made.

JOHNSTON-SIMPSON

On October the 10th a happy event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Simpson, 4th line, Enniskillen, it being the marriage of their second daughter Edythe Mae to J. Leonard Johnston of Sarnia township. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard Hosking, pastor of the Methodist church, Oil Springs.

Promptly at two o'clock the bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of the bridal chorus, rendered by the bride's sister, Maybelle, and joined the groom under an arch of autumn leaves and flowers. The bride looked charming in a French gown of ivory tulle and wore the customary bridal veil and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and lilies of the valley, her only ornament being a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. After the ceremony and congratulations had been received the company numbering about 50 guests, repaired to the spacious diningroom where they sat down to a sumptuous repast served by cousins and girl friends of the bride. The toast to the bride was proposed by T. G. Park, uncle of the bride, others speaking being the parents of the bride and groom respectively, Mr. A. H. Park and others, who all spoke in the highest terms of the young couple and all joined in wishing them a bright and happy future. Later in the day the young couple left by motor for a trip to Niagara Falls, Toronto and Muskoka. The bride travelled in a suit of navy tricotine with mink furs and hat to match. After November 1st they will be at home to their friends on the groom's farm, Moore line.

PAIN IN THE JOINTS

Is An Indication That the Blood is Thin and Watery.

The first sign of rheumatism is frequently a pain and swelling of one of the joints. If this is not treated through the blood, which is the seat of the disease, the poison spreads, affecting other joints and tissues—sometimes rheumatism attacks the heart and is fatal. A remedy that has corrected many cases of rheumatism is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills enrich and purify the blood so that the poisonous rheumatic matter is driven out of the system as nature intended. Miss Gertie Denne, Washago, Ont., was attacked with rheumatism and got relief through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "About a year ago I was attacked by rheumatism and for two weeks was confined to my bed. The trouble was so painful, affecting the joints of my limbs so that I could not stand alone. Mother had a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house and thought they might help me. I began taking them, and when I had taken these pills got a further supply, with the result that the rheumatism vanished and I was a well girl. I may add that my mother and two of my sisters have also used the pills for various ailments with equal success, and now we are never without them in the house."

If you are suffering from any condition due to poor, watery blood, or weak nerves, begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now, and note how your strength and health will improve. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE FALL WEATHER

HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The new Marvella Coat at Swift's. The Forest council decided to pay the account of Dr. Rogers and not defend the suit.

Now that the Fall Fair prize lists are out of the way something of more interest to the general public may be found in the papers.
