"AS A MAN SOWS."

BY HELEN WALLACE Author of "THE GREATEST OF THESE," "THEIR HEARTS' DESIRE, ETC."

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS. Isabel Stormont, daughter of Sir David Stormont, a wealthy Scotch country gentleman, disappears without leaving a single trace. She was a quiet, retiring girl with only one distinguishing feature—beautiful hair. Her disappearance has been a mark of the Ian Blair, which has been a mark of the Ian Blair, which has been a mark of the Ian Blair...

CHAPTER XIII. MOTHER AND DAUGHTER. Up in her room, Isabel stood by the window flung wide to the autumn night—still and heavy and warm for the season. She had changed her dinner dress for a loose gown of white silk with long, hanging sleeves, falling almost to the edge of her skirt. With her pale face, and shining hair, and flowing white draperies, she had an uncannily spiritual look, like some unearthly visitant only lingering for a little before winging a further flight.

CHAPTER XII—(Continued). Mais tout, m'sieur—absolument tout! cried Justice, flinging out her hands and reverting to her own language. "She knew—she knew—where one thing is—her frocks, her chiffons, her jewels, and more strange yet, she not know even what things are for. Ah, I tell m'sieur, and she then he believe. She returned even more beautiful, all but her hands. Ah, c'est affreux, me, I weep over them for what must the poor child have suffered. So I bring the things for the manure, but I begin she regard them surprised. Why, Justice, she say, 'what do you mean with all these queer things; what are they for?' I stare, I confess, but I ask pardon, hands, what else? 'For the hands?' she say, and stare more than me. 'What on earth all these toothpick things have they to do with my hands?' Figure to yourself, m'sieur! Ah, I could tell m'sieur more—much more, but now, triumphant, she cannot do that mademoiselle forget."

"It is well, perhaps, that she does forget," said Ashe gently. "Once even we can hardly bear to think what she must have suffered." "M'sieur, if you did not—the monsters—they had taken everything—everything—but—m'sieur has doubtless heard of strange things. Justice lowered her voice, a new and a deeply interested listener was a temptation she could not resist. "There was a little Teutonic girl she had on—pah, the little black frock she had on—pah, such a rag." "That was curious—you were sure it was not her own?" "Her own—mais non!—Mildred, she thinks it helps to keep mademoiselle True, it is the word of her Dieu, though True, it is in my country, we do not as we have hung it up in the church, but Sir David, he keep safe." "And was there no name on it, nothing that could suggest where mademoiselle had been?" "There was some writing indeed, but I know not what, though when Mildred look at it, she exclaim, 'A mother's gift!'"

Mrs. Arthur Haverstock Makes Public Statement Tells of Her Belief in the Undying Merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Halifax, N. S., Aug. 4.—When interviewed at her home at 104 Argyle street, Mrs. Haverstock was quite willing to talk of her peculiarly unfortunate case. "I was always 'blue' and depressed, felt weak, languid and utterly unfit for any work. My stomach was so disordered that I had no appetite. What I did eat disagreed. I suffered greatly from dizziness and sick headache and feared a nervous breakdown. Upon my druggist's recommendation I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I felt better at once. Every day I improved. In six weeks I was a well woman, cured completely after different physicians had failed to help me. It is for this reason that I strongly urge sufferers with stomach or digestive troubles to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills." Dr. Hamilton's Pills strengthen the stomach, improve digestion, strengthen the nerves and restore debilitated systems to health. By cleansing the blood of long standing impurities, by bringing the system to a high point of vigor, they effectually chase away weakness, depression and disease. Good for young or old, for men, women, for children. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and

SOFT FELT HATS WILL BE USED THIS FALL. The soft felt hood used so extensively in last year's millinery appears again this season, but manipulated in such entirely different ways that one scarcely recognizes it as an old friend. Its best development is in the form of a small all-over hat, the pointed sugar loaf crown is folded and denoted over the flat frame of the toque, and the brim covered plain, as illustrated in the accompanying picture, where the color scheme is a soft shade of golden brown. A large soft rosette of brown velvet—piece velvet—centered with

WHERE DOES THE PAPER GO? The first question asked by a general advertiser. The Telegraph and Times reach that class of people who subscribe and agree to pay for the reading privilege. These papers go first hand from the publishers by carrier and not through street boys to be left in office or store by purchaser after reading. Common sense teaches that every paper passed into homes direct will be read. The Telegraph and Times are home papers. Do they contain your advertisement?

WEDDINGS. Dawson-Bolton. Norton, N. B., Aug. 12.—Glen Cottage, Norton, the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Patrique, was the scene of a very pretty wedding today, when Miss E. Beatrice Bolton, sister of Mrs. Patrique, was married to G. Edward Dawson, mechanical engineer, Moncton. The ceremony was performed at 5.30 p. m. by Rev. Abram Perry, in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride was given away by her brother, E. Percy Bolton, of Moncton. She wore a gown of brown brocade, with cream hat. The house was prettily decorated with vines, ferns and flowers. Tea was served on the lawn, after which the happy couple left by the Maritime express for a trip to Quebec and Montreal, whence they will return to Moncton, their future home.

Akehurst, rector, when Mr. R. C. Randall, of Barkerville (B. C.), and Miss Bessie A. Pugsley, of St. John (N. B.), niece of Hon. William Pugsley, were united in marriage. The bride, who was unattended, wore a smart plum colored gown, with hat to match, and carried a white prayer book. Mr. and Mrs. Randall left immediately after the ceremony for Vancouver and expect to make their home in Barkerville (B. C.), where Mr. Randall holds a responsible position.

OBITUARY. Mrs. N. W. Brennan. The unexpected death of Mrs. Charlotte T. Brennan, wife of N. W. Brennan, funeral director of this city, occurred yesterday morning at Glenwood, and the news will be received with much regret by her many friends, and much sympathy will be extended to the family in their sudden bereavement. Mrs. Brennan underwent an operation for appendicitis last winter, but had fully recovered, and accompanied by her daughter, Miss Wenonah, and her niece, Miss Purdy, left last Saturday to spend a few weeks at Glenwood. She was taken ill soon after her arrival, but later seemed somewhat better. Yesterday, however, she suffered a relapse and passed away about 11 a. m. Dr. Gilchrist was in attendance. Mr. Brennan, intelligence, left at noon for Glenwood and will return with the body by boat this morning. Mrs. Brennan leaves behind her husband, five sons—William E., N. Louis, Frederick B., Ernest A., Herbert E.; and two daughters—Miss Wenonah C., and Miss Rita V., all of this city. S.); and Miss Betts in the United States. Mrs. Brennan was an active member of Trinity church and will be greatly missed by many members of the congregation. W. A. WALL STREET HYSTERIA IS GOING TO EXTREMES

Money Outlook Not Good, But Redeeming Features Present--Recent Untimely Utterances Concerning Trust Prosecutions Deplored--Country Not Yet On Verge of Ruin.

(New York Journal of Commerce.) It is a consolation to reflect, amid the gloom in Wall Street, that the dawn of darkness and that the sun is shining over the plains of the great west and south ripening crops of grain and cotton of a magnitude unknown a few years ago. The stock market is seething with unrest and distrust and men are groping around for a scapegoat. Washington has been blamed for all the woes that have overtaken the securities of this and every other country, including Great Britain, whose premier investment is at the lowest point recorded in half a century. The speculating element is pleased to ignore world-wide fundamental causes of financial stringency. This same element, it may be recalled by even the shortest memory, raised a howl of indignation when the federal government proposed to enforce laws against rebates, yet the results have been, to all intents and purposes, beneficial. It is not possible that the government may be again proceeding along this line? Yet, certain proposals that have recently emanated from the attorney-general's department have evoked the reckless, while still more recently the utterances of the head of that department have been, to say the least, untimely. When a doctor finds it necessary to perform a serious operation upon the brain of a patient, he does not usually frighten dependents by talking gibberish nor air his indifference to a possible fatal outcome. The best opinion in this country is that the trusts must be compelled to respect the law, and that in course of their growth abuses have sprung up, but the problem of regulating them is not to be solved by an excess of zeal untempered by discretion. Hence, ill-considered statements made at so critical a time have evoked concern from sources that heretofore supported the government and have led to the sacrifice of securities on a serious scale.

FOREIGN AND HOME FINANCIAL OUTLOOK NOT UNFOUNDED.

The depression that permeated the stock market last week, resulting in losses of 5 to 15 per cent in well-known stocks, was aggravated by financial developments abroad and at home. That something is wrong in Germany (or in Russia) is the only deduction to be drawn from the precipitous liquidation that is taking place there. Berlin, in fact, may be said to have started the break in the market. Wednesday by throwing overboard, Canadian Pacific and American railroad stocks in quantities sufficient to send prices down to new low levels. Competition for gold, a stiffening in discount rates, a poor bank statement, discount here and heavy borrowing by New York combined to unsettle London. Locally the government's renewed activity, the consequent withdrawal of support by the most powerful interests, a wide-open break in copper and tremors of monetary trouble brought about demoralization that at one time was fanned into almost a panic and which indeed carried prices below the low level of last March. Short covering steadied the list on Friday, but on Saturday the market acted in a manner that roused careful houses to send out peremptory demands for additional protection at the opening this morning. The bank statement was not worse than expected, but the loss of $13 millions in cash suggests a heavy drain from the interior and higher interest charges than have yet been recorded this summer. The surplus of 734 millions is the lowest since 1893.

A FEW REDEEMING FEATURES--STOCKS AS INVESTMENTS.

All this is not conducive to bullish enthusiasm, but in its present semi-hysterical frame of mind Wall Street is apt to go to the other extreme. The country is not on the verge of ruin. Peace reigns throughout the world. United States finances were never more prosperous than they are, under our archaic currency laws, too prosperous for the good of industry. The population is increasing. The per capita wealth of the nation never before has been so great, and the savings of the poorer people are phenomenal. Labor is fully employed. The corn crop is the most valuable of all our crops--has only twice been exceeded, and the year's yield of wheat promises to be sufficient for all our wants and more. The cotton crop is adequate. Metals are falling, but reasonable prices for materials used in building

THE EVENING TIMES, THE DAILY TELEGRAPH. New Brunswick's Independent newspapers. These newspapers advocate: British connection. Honesty in public life. Measures for the material progress and moral advancement of our great Dominion. No graft! No deals! "The Thistle, Shamrock, Rose entwined, The Maple Leaf forever."

OUR VISITORS. More charming weather could not have been desired than the distinguished visitors to St. John are enjoying today. Yesterday they made the acquaintance of a Bay of Fundy fog—the genuine article—but this morning the breeze and sunshine with just the faintest suggestion of autumn in the air. With such a day on the St. John river and at Fredericton, and along the Kennecott valley to the Close farm at Nawigewank, the impression made upon the vice-regal party by the scenery and climate of New Brunswick cannot be other than delightful.

The reception to their excellencies yesterday was of the cordial nature which is characteristic of St. John people, especially when the visitors appeal to that sense of kinship and loyalty which stirs the blood of a people whose forbears sacrificed so much in their fidelity to British connection.

Earl Grey, in his reply to the civic address, made eloquent reference to the historic interest attaching to this city, and paid a very graceful tribute to the Loyals. His excellency has the happy faculty of being able to touch the sympathetic chord, and to appreciate those things which are of value. At the Canadian Club luncheon at noon today a most enthusiastic reception was given to the distinguished guest, who was there brought into touch with the citizens in a manner not possible under any other circumstances.

Unhindered by form and ceremony and precedence, men met the man, and his message was the more appreciated because of the informality and the camaraderie of a Canadian Club luncheon. No doubt the ladies of the city deeply regret that they are not able in some such a way to make the better acquaintance of the Countess and her daughters.

Doubtless their excellencies grow somewhat weary of functions which are apt to have a deadly sameness, however well meant the programmes mapped out for their pleasure. It is one of the penalties of official position, and must be accepted with cheerful resignation. Let us hope that, in spite of state dinners and public receptions and all the rest of it, our visitors may find time for undisturbed enjoyment of the natural charms of this region, and an unhampered appreciation of the character of the daily life of the people.

PESSIMIST AND OPTIMIST

The Victoria Columnist of Aug. 8th conveys two messages from public men in the old country, whose views are as widely divergent as the poles. One is the message of a pessimist, the other of an optimist. The one tends toward disintegration, the other toward closer union within the British empire. We place them together—the dream of the socialist and the dream of the imperialist. First let us quote Mr. Kelt Harde, socialist and leader of the independent labor party in England: "What I have seen in Canada has strengthened my belief in the undesirability of preferential trade. Your manufacturers have no genuine patriotism, and are thinking first of their business. These men are thinking first of their business, and will support only what helps them. The tariff reformers at home have given up the idea of taxing wheat and propose preference duties on manufacturers' articles only. But when the farmer has to pay more for his implements he will demand protection for his product also. You cannot levy duty on one thing and not on another. When you leave free trade it means eventually duty on everything."

"No, I would not be inclined to favor preference because it might draw the old country and the colonies closer together. The tendency of the day is towards world movements not empire movements. Also I do not believe in antagonizing one set of customers in order to please others, and I believe that preference would give too numerous causes of friction within the empire."

"From what I have seen, I have come to the conclusion, though possibly on slender evidence, that Canada has reached the turning point, and that if the condition of the workers continues to grow worse long before the struggle for existence becomes as keen here as it is at home. I refer to the fact that generally speaking, the increase in wages has not kept pace with the increasing cost of living."

One scarcely needs to say that Mr. Kelt Harde speaks without accurate knowledge of conditions in Canada, or that he sees as he goes about only that which the socialist desires to see. It is refreshing to turn from a contemplation of the gloomy view which he presents to that of Mr. A.

J. Dawson, of the London Standard, a man who writes and speaks and works "imperially." We quote: "Those who write and those who read the Standard of London, hold strongly to the belief that Canada is even more essentially the country of the twentieth century than the United States was the promised land of the nineteenth century. We think there is another vital difference between those two countries. Canada, we think of as the first great independent nation of the British empire. We hope to see more and more good men and women of British stock, and more and more of British capital, taking part each year in the development of this most magnificent among the overseas empires of the empire. We hope and work for the end of closer and ever closer union between Canada and the rest of the empire, based not alone upon patriotic sentiment and the love of our own race, but upon trading reciprocity, upon imperial preference, and upon sure belief in the advantage to the whole cause of civilization which is gained by the spread and dominance of that rule and that constitution which unite us all, 400,000,000 strong, under the one well loved flag which stands, the world over, for real justice."

"We attach great importance to the rapidly growing movement for fiscal reform, not alone upon commercial grounds, but because we are assured that preference—the principle of treating our kin a little better than the stranger—must make for the further strengthening of the greatest and most beneficent union that the world has ever seen. In this we look for the loyal patience of Canada now and the strong, unanimous voice of Canada's approval—presently, when the good time comes. It is drawing nearer day by day."

"The enormous, the boundless natural resources of the Dominion are, of course, the things which most impress every observant visitor to this magnificent land. As to what comes next in the order of my impressions, I would name these: The true and active patriotism of Canadians, imperial and local, the fine, sturdy, law-abiding good citizenship of Canadians, the remarkable administrative ability and the enterprise of Canadians, and finally, the truly marvellous facilities with which the native Canadians are raising and absorbing into their own body social, political and national, the steadily growing streams of immigrants from every country in Christendom, which is now flowing into this Dominion of promise and plenty. There is in Canada the quality of sober, law-abiding, God-fearing patriotism and good citizenship which is going to make the Dominion the greatest of all nations within the empire. I have studied Canadian affairs deeply for years, and have lived and worked in most other parts of the empire, but this visit as guest of that great empire-building agency, the Canadian Pacific Railway company, has impressed me more deeply than any words of mine will ever explain. It is my sincere hope that I may be able to convey some practical portion of this impression to readers in England."

In an interview on the pulp question recently Mr. J. A. Fisher, of the Northern Whig, Belfast, referred to the increasing scarcity of wood pulp. Great Britain and some other countries of Europe, which have neglected their supplies, are forced to depend upon Norway and Sweden, and the resources of these countries are not inexhaustible. More and more attention is being directed to Canada and more and more is the necessity for adequate measures of forest protection and reforestation brought home to the observer. Mr. Fisher believes that the matter is one which should receive the attention of the Dominion as a whole, especially in view of the manner in which the despoliation of the forests of the United States has been carried on. "In Bosnia," he remarked, "a province of Austria, which I have lately visited, the forests are looked upon as the greatest asset of the community. Every tree virtually is known, and where one is cut down two must be planted."

An Ottawa despatch indicates that Sir Wilfrid Laurier at present has many other things to think about besides delegations seeking portfolios. We quote: "At the present time Sir Wilfrid Laurier is one of the hardest worked men in Canada. In addition to bearing the responsibilities of the premiership, with its present attendant duties of voluminous correspondence, receiving deputations and choosing two new cabinet ministers, he is also acting minister of the departments of inland revenue, marine and fisheries, railways and canals, trade and commerce, and of the interior."

The astonishing statement comes from Washington that Attorney General Bonaparte aims to put John D. Rockefeller and E. H. Harriman in the criminal dock and perhaps in the penitentiary. Such a result of the prosecution would be an object lesson to heads of corporations the like of which the world has not seen, but which, perhaps, would not be lost on the world.

If the news wired from Boston is correct, that a temporary agreement has been made with regard to the Newfoundland fisheries, and that a permanent treaty has been arranged to be signed later, a possible source of much trouble has been removed.

The announcement that Sir Hibbert Upper will be in the next federal fight in Nova Scotia indicates that a very determined effort is to be made to reduce the Liberal representation from that province.

The bad taste exhibited at the meeting of the city council yesterday is universally censured, and the aldermen should heed the condemnation.

Mr. Michaud, M. P., is convinced that the portfolio of railways and canals will remain in New Brunswick, but he is not naming the recipient.

CALL OF THE WILD-EYED

No, Clarinda, You're mistaken That insistent Voice you hear Bounding lightly O'er the prairie Like a foghorn Stinging and clear Does not come from Some grand doctor Out with medicine To sell Nor is it a politician Casting o'er The land a spell It is not An able barker Barking for A three-ring show Nor is it from One with babies And with balls For you to throw It is from The Western farmer Bone and sinew Of the land Who has hayseed One of this United nation's Strong and most Substantial props Calling us In tones pathetic To come on And save his crops. —Nashville American.

IN LIGHTER VEIN DRIVEN TO IT.

Hobbs—"He says he would rather fight than eat." Slobbs—"That's what comes of marrying a cooking school girl."

HIS OWN MEDICINE.

DeAuber—"This is a portrait of Judge Blank. What do you think I ought to get for it?" Criticus—"Oh, about six months."

THE PROOF OF IT.

She—"Men seem to take more chances in the summer than in the winter." He—"Yes, I guess there are more marriages in the summer than in the winter."

A CHRONIC CONDITION.

"What's the latest train on the Swamp-hurst road?" asked Citman. "That's hard to say," replied Subbubs. "They're all late, but they vary so in their lateness."

WELL COVERED.

She—"I understand that you camped out in the rain one night without any bedding." He—"Oh, no. We had plenty of bedding. The storm was a wet blanket on our pleasure, and the rain came down in sheets."

WORSE THAN BURGLARS.

Batchy—"You have a burglar alarm, haven't you?" Muchpop—"Used to have, but I had it taken out." Batchy—"No good?" Muchpop—"Oh, I guess it was all right. But I was afraid that if it was ever sprung at night it would be the baby."

INDEX EXPURGATORIOUS.

(From the Indianapolis News.) After a careful and impartial consideration of all the evidence bearing on the subject, the investigating committee reports that, notwithstanding their long life and apparent respectability, the following are undoubtedly nature falsies: The bull in the china shop. The wolf at the door. The fly in the ointment. The dog in the manger. The fish out of water. The bee in the bonnet. The flea in the ear. The rat that was smelted. The chorus girl's lobster. Figs in clover. Hens and horse. Time flies. The weath rabbit. The man on a lark. They are accordingly deleted from the White House phrase book, and will receive no further official recognition.

LABOR HEAD HERE

Alphonse Verville, M. P., of Montreal, Will Speak in Berryman's Hall Tonight. Alphonse Verville, M. P. for Montreal, is in the city and will address meetings here in behalf of the Trades & Labor Congress of Canada, of which he is president. He is staying in the Lansdowne Hotel, where he was seen last night in reference to his mission and labor matters generally. The idea of Mr. Verville's coming here is to endeavor to have as many unions as possible become affiliated with the congress. This body meets annually for the purpose of being and discussing labor problems and deciding on measures to be introduced into the federal house at Ottawa. When any measure is introduced it is the duty of the general executive, consisting of the president and two other officers, to promote it. At the same time they are expected to oppose any law which may be inimical to labor. Mr. Verville will meet people interested in labor matters tonight in Berryman's Hall and on Thursday night will address a mass meeting there. The Assyrian riot case was resumed in the police court yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Eichel King was cross-examined and Margaret Kennedy, Raymond Talbot, Mrs. Martha Strong, Mrs. May Gibson, Mary Walsh and Mrs. Tom Simon gave evidence, after which adjournment was made till ten o'clock this morning.

Hum Jack Oak, a nephew of Hamm Lee, who runs a laundry at 45 Waterloo street, has recently returned from Montreal, where he has been studying electrical work at the Montreal Technical and Commercial High School. CENTENNIAL GIRLS CLUB HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING

Flourishing Juvenile Organization Which is An Outgrowth of the Supervised Playgrounds.

The first regular meeting of the Centennial Girls' Recreation Club was held last evening, Aug. 13. The meeting was opened at 7 o'clock by the president, T. S. Hill, in the chair. Roll was called, and 22 members responded to their names, excused for two of the absentees were received.

The president addressed the meeting and briefly presented the work and object for which they were banded together.

The motto: "Work well, play well," was explained and the results to be obtained by order and promptness at work and at play were pointed out and the cultivation of a cheery, happy willingness to do one's part.

Election of officers was then taken up, and Capt. Ada Wetmore and Mary McCarthy were appointed scrutineers. The following officers were duly elected: First vice president, Mary Killorn; second vice president, Susie Withers; secretary, Grace Ferguson; treasurer, Mary Kelly.

A payment of five cents per month for dues was decided upon.

DISPUTE OVER RIGHT OF WAY

Dr. Gilbert and Frank Watson, of the north end are in a lively dispute over the question of a right of way. Mr. Watson is in partnership with his brother, James Watson, in the grocery business on the cor. Main and Elm streets. They have a right of way, it appears in connection with Dr. Gilbert's in the rear of their store. The doctor's dining room faces on this space in the rear and the latter alleges the Watsons have been throwing waste material in this space, which, in view of the proximity of the dining room window, is very unpleasant.

Yesterday some boxes and material was thrown in this place. This in return was scattered by Mr. Watson and his clerk, hence the trouble, which will possibly find its ending in the courts.

EARL GREY AT NAUWIGEWAWK

His Excellency Will Visit the Elinor Home Farm on Friday

The reception to Earl Grey at the Elinor Home farm in Nauwigewauk, is to be a unique affair. Mrs. Close, whose mother founded the home, arrived in the city yesterday and is at the Royal. She said that the children and people of the village were taking lively interest in the visit of the Governor General on Friday.

The following compose the local committee which will be in charge of the arrangements there: A. C. Fairweather, chairman; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Armstrong, Rev. A. W. Daniel, Rev. H. Whalley, Miss M. Gilbert, Miss H. Thomson, B. Hill and R. C. Fawcett.

The reception will be very informal. There will be no addresses, the Governor General merely being welcomed by Chairman Fairweather.

His Excellency will go out in an automobile and will inspect the farm and stock.

Mrs. Close said that through the generosity of Mrs. E. H. Botterelle of Montreal, and Mrs. Close herself will be established at Docbec near St. Andrews, and a third farm is also to be established, but its location will not be announced for a few days.

A NAGGING FOR THE SNAGGERS

They are Said to Be Loitering Over Their Job Along the River.

That there is unnecessary delay and expense in connection with the contract for "snagging" the river this year, is the opinion of stevedores at Ladystown.

It might be explained that "snagging" refers to the removal of sunken timber along the route of steamers between here and Fredericton. This work is done by Glenwood and Landis, the latter being undertaken by the tug boat Marguerite, and a scow with living quarters, for a crew of men is taken in tow.

One stevedore man told a Times reporter yesterday, that those who have the contract or have to do with it appear to be in no hurry to finish the job. They had, he said, made Glenwood their headquarters. No matter what part of the river the tug is working at, Glenwood is made each evening.

"There is not the slightest necessity for this," said the stevedore man "and it is a great loss of time. And I'll tell you further," said the river man, "every stick that is picked out is brought to Glenwood and landed, and after being dried and sawed, is sold to the steamer Hanstead for fuel. Then the tug is known to be gone to work elsewhere. Stevedores never have or never will go. For instance they were in the Jones Creek and up against a main fence close to the river. They thought they would knock it over. The job is being done by the day.

Last year the tug Quiddy, Capt. McLeod did all the work in three weeks, and now these people have been at it for four weeks with much work yet to do. In the snagging operation, last season, the tug put the timber ashore just where it was taken out, and also tied up at night where they were completed. It is therefore very readily to be seen that by returning to Glenwood each day, a great deal of extra time is consumed to complete the work."

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE

A fire in the A. & I. Isaacs cigar manufactory and tobacco warehouse on Princess street about nine o'clock last night, resulted in some considerable damage.

The building, which was formerly the Morley Conservatory of Music, was insured for $20,000 in the Liverpool and London and Globe, and for a like amount in the Western, London Assurance corporation, and Commercial Union. The loss in stock was heavier than in the building. One of the chemical engines and No. 1 hose cart collided on the way to the fire, doing some slight damage.
