THE BOYS LIKE BADEN-POWELL

He Influenced 100,000 of Them to Stop Cigarette-Smoking.

Lord Rosslyn Snubbed and Winston Churchill in Disfavor.

Revival of a Zola Drama—Splendid Welcome to Gen. Buller-Comment on Sir Charles Tupper's Retirement.

BOYS LIKE BADEN-POWELL. London, Nov. 12.-Major-General Powell's extraordinary popularity among English boys is being utilized for an undoubtedly beneficent object. Baden-Powell never smoked. A league has been formed for boys from 12 to 18 years to sign a pledge to abstain from smoking for twelve months. A Total Failure of Crops in That Secroll containing 100,000 signatures will he given to Baden-Powell as a Christmas present. The cigarette habit has been growing at an appalling rate among English schoolboys. Rigorous measures are advocated by many headmasters to stop it.

CHURCHILL IN DISFAVOR. Lord Rosslyn was openly snubbed in Hyde. Park the other day for the charge of repeating unjust reports about the officers of the 10th Hussars, and a similar punishment is said to be in store for Winston Churchill for playing the part of a cad in the escape from Pretoria.

Churchill, in his book and lectures, makes himself out a hero of the first water. The true story, however, paints the child member of parliament in enthrely different colors. Two other war correspondents had preceded Churchill to the Pretoria jail, and they had carefully worked out a plan of escape be-fore he arrived. He was generously admitted into the secret, and on the night previous to the one set for the break, Churchill employed his companions' ruse for his own escape and left them in the lurch. This betrayal of friendship has long rankled in the breasts not only of the two corre-spondents concerned, but in those of many of the officers who were prisoners. They now propose to administer a proper punishment.

HONORS FOR BULLER.

The honors paid to Gen. Buller at Southampton and Aldershot are referred to by a correspondent, as follows: Gen. Buller received today civic honwelcome at Aldershot, where all the troops were drawn up and an address of congratulation was read in the ence of the Duke of Cambridge, Lord Wolseley, Mr. Brodrick, Sir William Butler and other associates. The spirit of the occasion was well summed up by the motto displayed at the sta-"Duty done is honor won." Buller's friends has stood by him as loyally as the Natal army supported him through good and evid report, and his Devonshire neighbors will follow their example. Critical estimates of the value of Gen. Buller's services in the field are reserved for a fluture peri-od, when all the secrets are told, and the precise truth about the relief of Ladysmith is known.

A ZOLA DRAMA REVIVED. Paris, Nov. 12.-The great theatrical success so far this season is the revival of Zola's "L'Assommoir." M. Guitry, formerly Mme. Rejane's leading man, and afterwards Flambeau in "L'Aigtakes the part of Coupeau, good, honest workingman, who, begin-

The drama is lavishly and intelli-gently staged. The cast comprises nearly 200 actors. CAMPAIGN AGAINST KIPLING.

London, Nov. 12. — Poet Laureate Austin's disapproval of Rudyard Kipling's verse is well known. A singular letter in the Times, printed in large type, and signed "A.," declares "an outspoken utterance of what many of The Liberals of Halifax and Dartus have been thinking, that such epi-thets as "Tommies," 'Absent-minded mouth tendered a great reception to thets as "Tommies,' 'Absent-minded Beggars,' and kindred vulgarities and in Hants, on his return home ot Dartabominations should be allowed to become obsolete. Berlin, Nov. 12.-The Cologne Gazette of Saturday has the following in regard to the understanding reached by the representatives of the powers in Pekin regarding the Chinese settlement: "Pour pariers between the envoyes in Pekin for the purpose of agreeing upon the fundamentals for peace negotiations with the Chinese plenipotentiaries proceed favorably in the whole series of important points. ors at Southampton, and a splendid An agreement has been reached between the powers particularly regarding the punishment of the main cuiprits, the mandarins and princes; also regarding the witnessing of the execution of such punishments by representatives of the powers; also regarding the principle of paying damages to the several governments for the cost of the China expeditions and for damages sustained by private persons and missions; also regarding the permanent stationing of sufficient guards for the Pekin legations; also regarding the maintenance of secure and regucommunications between Pekin and the seashore. > INCOMPLETE ARRANGEMENT. A Washington dispatch says: If, as reported in the Cologne Gazette, the powers have reached a definite understanding in regard to China, its terms, as stated by that newspaper,omit several features which have been a source of discussion among them. TOO HUMILIATING. The Roma Tribuna publishes the following from its Pekin correspondent: Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching have informed me that the demands of the powers for the punishment of Prince Tuan and the withdraway from power of the empress are too humiliating to be accepted by the Chinese.

Pekin, Nov. 9-Via Shanghai, Nov. 10.-Li Hung Chang has received a note from Emperor Kwang Su de clining to accede to the demand for the punishment of Tung Fu Hsiang, and consenting only to the banishment of Yu Hsien. The note has not yet been formally communicated to the ministers.

London, Nov. 12 .- Serious friction has been caused in the peace negotiations in Pekin, says the Daily Mall's correspondent at Tien Tsin, wiring Nov. 9, "by Belgium, Denmark, Holland and Spain clamoring to have a locus standi in any important decisions. EFFECT OF EXECUTIONS.

Pekin, Nov. 12 .- A profound impression was produced upon the natives at Pao Ting Fu by the execution there of three officials—Tien Yang, provincial treasurer; Gen. Wei Shun Kong and Col. Kiu-who were condemned by the international court-martial as among those responsible for the massacre there. They were beheaded, and their heads were exposed on poles for a day before burial. It is probable, despite discrepancies, that the foregoing offi-cials are identical with those referred to in a press dispatch from Tien Tsin, dated Nov. 6, which said Ting Yung, acting viceroy of Chi Li; the Tartar Paris, Nov. 12.—Salson, who tried to Gen. HENRY VILLARD.

Death of a Prominent Financier and Railroad Man -- Sketch of R. G. Dun.

New York, Nov. 12 .- Henry Villard, the well-known financier and railroad man, died at midnight, at Ardsley on the Hudson. Henry Villard was born in Speiyer, Rhenish Bavaria, on April 11, 1885. His father was in the judicial service of the Bavarian Government, and ended judge of the supreme court at Munich. Young Villard, in October 1853, broke opposition to this step made him borrow the surname of a French schoolmate, and he became Henry Villard. Arriving in America he became a newspaper reporter and continued in the profession until 1868. In 1871 he began his railroad career. Mr. Villard had been ill with a bad cold for some time, but a sudden attack of apoplexy is said to have caused his death.

ROBERT GRAHAM DUN. Robert Graham Dun, president of the mercantile agency of R. G. Dun & Co., whose death was announced Satur-day, was widely known as the man who had reduced the system of credit intelligence to a science. He was born in Chio, at Chillicothe, in 1826, of good old Scotch stock. He began life with the most meager education and for a time was a helper in a country store at $2 a week. He soon conquered the local field by becoming his employer's partner. Then he sold his interest and removed to New York, where he obtained a clerkship in the mercantile

In 1859, Mr. Dun secured entire conindustry. From small beginnings the agency under Mr. Dun's admirable management branched out into all the important cities of the country. The story of Mr. Dun's life is the story of the growth of the institution which bears his name. In his personal character he was affable, quiet, inclined to study, and he was eminently just to over whom his important position 155 gave him sway.

CONVENTION OF DISCIPLES

Second Day of the Gathering at lona-Annual Reports Received and Officers Elected.

On Friday morning the Disciples' convention opened with ten minutes' devotional exercises, led by J. H. Coultard, of St. Thomas.

Rev. C. Sinclair gave an address on "The Model Church." He pointed out that the church was the most marvelous organization ever instituted. The model church is decided by the constitution governing it. It must be thoroughly officered. The members are more active, and become far more practical, not expecting the pastor to do all. Selfishness is not a characteristic of the model church. The whole secret of the model church is imbibing a greater fullness of the spirit of

The nominating committee's report was adopted, as follows: President, W. W. Coulter; vice-president, H. E. Stafford; secretary-treasurer, Miss Nettie the blood, there is no safety. The re-Green, Ridgetown.

HOW TO TALK INTERESTINGLY

Sincerity, Simplicity and Sympathy the Three Graces of Conversation.

"Entertaining conversation is not alone dependent upon a well-stored mind, a ready wit or broad culture, writes Mrs. Burton Kingsland in the Ladies' Home Journal. "It lays under contribution qualities of heart as well as head, and should reveal sincerity, sympathy and simplicity. We must feel an interest in our subject before we can inspire it, and enthusiasm is contagious when it is sincere. It gives animation to the face, vivacity to the manner, and has a thought-compelling power that aids fluency of expression. Sympathy and adaptability are created in a measure by the desire to please, but one must be sensitive to the mood of one's audience and quick to perceive when some one else wishes to speak. There are talkers who metaphorically take the bit between their teeth and run away with a subject. When they finally cease no one else has anything to say, despairing of opportunity. Without simplicity no conversation has charm. The moment we ties in the blood. perceive that it is labored, or that the speaker seems to calculate the effect of his words, if unnecessary mention is made of desirable acquaintances or there is a display of attainments or mock-innocent vaunting of advantages-that moment do we feel only contempt for the affectation or pre-Truth has a marvelous power of making itself felt, in spite of what is said. GREAT JUMP IN OIL STOCK

Standard's Block is Now Worth Nearly $700,000,000.

New York, Nov. 12.-Standard Oil certificates were quoted Saturday at 700 bid, mone offered, as against 655 Friday's highest and until now the highest on record.

The par value of the company's entire outstanding stock is $97,500,000, and $700 per share indicates a market value of $692,500,000. During this year the company has paid $46,800,000 in dividends. This is more than the dividends paid by all the following corporations put together: New York Central Railroad, Pennsylvania Railroad, American Sugar Refining Company, American Tobacco Company, Great Northern Railway, American Cotton Oil Com-pany, Illinois Central Railroad, Chi-cago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, Chicago and Nonthwestern Railroad and Chicago, Rock Island and Pa-

Rockefeller made enough money in two days after election to pay all the election expenses of the Republican and Democratic national campaign committees and have a very large margin. The boom which struck Wall street as the result of McKinley's election favored all the Rockefeller stocks in a la ger degree than most others, and, without raising a hand or even thinking about the resuit, Rockefeller made at least $10,-000,000, according to the estimates of amount at $15,000,000. Everything that Rockefeller owns is worth more than before election, with the possible exception of Amalgamated Cooper, which on Wednesday went up three points and on Thursday dropped the same amount, which left him at least without a loss.

The greatest increase was in consolidated Gas, Standard Oil and Federal Steel. Rockedeller owns about 50 per cent of the gas stocks, a dominating interest in Federal Steel and 31 per cent of Standard Oil, and from these three stocks alone the alarming for-tune of Rockefeller has increased about $7,000,000.

This is what he gained without considering what came to him in divi-dends, for Rockesteller is particular about having his money invested in stocks and bonds which pay large dividends.

The last dividend declared this week by the Standard Oil Company, of 10 per cent, makes a total of 48 per cent which it has paid to the stockholders since Jan. 1, 1899. The total dividends declared by this company upon the capital stock of $100,000,000 for the year was $48,000,000, and of this sum Rockefeller received a check for $14,-

Southampton, Ont., Nov. 12.—I'eter Zettle, Peter Devine, Frank Pape and George Samuel Varley, fishermen, went out against friends' advice during a gale in a seine boat to lift some gill nets at the mouth of the Sable River on Thursday morning. They had hauled in some nets, when a huge wave overturned their boat.

The men climbed on to the overturned craft, but the nets held it fast and would not allow it to drift toward the shore, which was only a few rods distant. One by one they were washed off and drowned, until Zettle alone remained. He clung there until 3 p. m., when, the storm having abated, he was rescued.

SIGHT OF PORT

Steamer Monticello Lost Near Yarmouth.

Thirty-Four of Her Passengers and Crew Drowned.

Halifax, Nov. 2.-The worst marine disaster in the list of steamers wrecked at the entrance to the Bay of Fundy, occurred Saturday morning, when the Monticello, a sidewheel steamer, bound from St. Johns for Yarmouth, was overwhelmed by her destination, and engulfed with 34 of her passengers and crew.

A heavy gale raged, and there was a tremendous sea. The place where the Monticello went down is where the waters of the Bay of Fundy join those of the Atlantic ocean. At this point there are many reefs and shoals and the currents are numerous and changeable, making it one of the most dangerous places on the coast. At the time the vessel struck the waves were beating upon the rocks and sending spray for hundreds of feet over the

The Monticello was on her way from St. Johns to Yarmouth with a full freight and a fairly large passenger list. Just before she foundered an attempt was made to reach the land in a small boat, in charge of a quartermaster, and it contained Third Officer Fleming, a stewardess named Smith and three passengers. This boat was smashed by a huge comber, the occu-pants being hurled high upon the beach at Pembroke, uninjured. believed they are the only survivors. One of the passengers in this boat was Capt. A. H. Smith, of the steamer Pharsalia.

THE SAVED. The Monticello foundered off Cran-berry Head, near Yarmouth, at 11

The saved are: Capt. A. N. Smith, of the steamer Pharsalla; Stewardess Smith, Quartermaster Elisha Cook, of Yarmouth, and Third Officer James G. Fleming. Among those supposed to be lost are Capt. Harding, A. E. S. Eldridge, crockery merchant, Yarmouth; N. C. Hopkins, chief steward of steamer Yarmouth, and Purser Oliver, of the steamer Prince Edward. The Monticello had about seven passengers and 31 of a crew.

AN EXPLOSION. Later dispatches regarding the foundering of the steamer Monticello state that on a count of the heavy sea the steamer became unmanageable. A small boat was lowered and six occupants left the ship. The others, fear-ful lest the small, boat should be swamped, remained on the steamer. Almost immediately a loud report was heard. The boilers had exploded, and al b. were saved. Elsie Macdonald, a colored girl, and a man named Murphy were seized by the undertow and washed away. Murphy was killed being dashed on the beach. Out of those saved four received trifling injuries. The number of passengers is unknown at the present time, but is reported to be seven. About 80 per cent of lost leave wives and families. CAPT. SMITH'S STATEMENT. Capt. Norman Smith, one of the survivors was the first to bring the news of the disaster to Yarmouth from Pembroke, where he landed. He gave this statement: "The steamer Monticello left St. Johns Friday morning at 11:15. The wind was blowing heavily at the time, but was not strong enough to cause any alarm. The storm became heavier, however, and after the steamer had passed Pelilo Passage, it was feared she was doomed.

"About 11 o'clock, when about four miles off Chegogyin Point, it was decided to send the women ashore in a boat, and J. H. Flemming, third officer, and Capt. Smith volunteered to take them ashore. The women numbered three, Elsie McDonald, of Yarmouth; Kate Smith, of Yarmouth, stewardess, and a colored girl whose name I did not know. "The women were gotten into the boat with great difficulty, the volunteers following and getting the boat away. The wind was blowing on shore at the time, and the boat was carried rapidly toward land. When the boat got away they were preparing on board to launch another, but I don't think it got away. I think all the rest were lost. The first boat was rapidly driven ashore near Pembroke, and in nearing the land a glgantic wave struck it and threw it upon the shore, smashing it to atoms. I found myself on the beach, holding on to the grass."

THOSE ON BOARD. The following is as complete a list as can be obtained of those on board the ill-fated craft: Capt. T. M. Harding, of Yarmouth, leaves wife and daughter; First Officer H. Dewnell, of Cape Island, leaves wife and family; Second Officer Nehemiah Murphy of Yarmouth, leaves wife and family; Third Officer James E. Flemming, saved: Quartermaster Owen Johnson, a Swede, leaves wife and one child at Arcadia, in this country; Chief Engineer Charles Greig, of Halifax, leaves wife and large family; Second Engineer Herbert K. Poole, Cape Sable, wife and child; Chief Steward Nathan C. Hopkins, of Yarmouth, wife and three daughters (Mr. Hopkins was chief steward, of Yarmouth, and was only acting as steward of the Monticello in place of his brother, Ashton Hopkins, purser, of Yarmouth); Assistant Purser Isaac H. Wilson, leaves wife and one child (was a brother of Manager Wilson of the Grand Hotel); Able-Bedied Seamen Wm. H. Dunn, single; Stanley Ringer, of Lockport; Robert Nickerson, of Yarmouth, leaves wife and family; Wilson Cook, saved; John I. The Monticello was an iron sidewheel boat of 1,030 tons, built at Wilmington, Del., in 1866; ran between St. John and Digby for eight years; purchased by the Yarmouth Steamship Company in 1898, and has been running steadily between St. John, Yarmouth and Halifax. She was valued at $30,000, and was partially insured. The cargo consisted chiefly of meal, oil, nails, cement and lime.

Your physician will tell you that morphine, cocaine and other opiates induce sleep and rest only by deadening the nerves, that such relief is only temporary, and that the use of such drugs actually hastens the decay of nerve cells. The nerves must not be trifled with. No one can afford to waste nervous energy, the vital forces of the body. No one can afford to neglect diseased nerves until overcome by nervous prostration, paralysis, epilepsy or in-

On Old Country Topics --- Stubbornnoss of the Boers.

Sedition in Cape Colony --- The Guildhall Speeches---Salisbury's Utterance Favorably Received in Germany ---British Cabinet Changes---American Competition Does Not Worry British Tradesmen.

London, Nov. 11 .- In his cable letter | Salisbury in his speech at the intonight, I. N. Ford says: The stubbornness of the Boers in refusing to yield to the British cannot be explained by the Musions of Mr. Kruger's mission in France or ill-founded hopes that Bryan's triumph might have been helpful to them. They are fighting like men who have nothing left to live for, and are resolved to die game. While this final exhibition of genuine Dutch courage commands British respect, there is no turning back from the relentless pursuit of the scattered bands. STERN MEASURES DEMANDED.

Sir Alfred Milner has sounded a fresh warning against sedition in Cape Colony, and the military critics at home are crying aloud for Kitchener and scientific measures of dealing with the guerillas. As the Boers cannot continue the struggle without obtaining food, horses, arms and recruits, rigorous policies are advocated by which they may be virtually isolated, starved out and run to earth. One of the military journals suggests that every fresh recruit from Natal and Cape Colony caught with arms in his hands should be tried by court-martial and shot. Other suggestions are that every enemy found in a British uni-form or making foul use of the white flag or Red Cross should be hanged. It also urged that the districts must be swept of any cattle, horses and sheep; that farm houses must be burned and the seditious population emp-tied, so that raiders will be unable to carry on their war. Gen. Kitchener is expected to do all these things since mild measures have been tried with-

AT GUILD HALL.

Discussing Lord Salisbury's Guild Hall speech, the same writer says: Lord Salisbury's Guild Hall speech has not cleared the situation in China, but It has minimized, diplomatically, the force of the Anglo-German agreement and conciliated Russia, whose assent is required to the policies of the powers. The alarming reports of aggressive action by Russian officials at Tien Tsin and elsewhere are not confirmed, and may have been exaggerated by Chinese intriguers, always on the mlert to keep the powers divided. The chief danger is the situation is the danger of Russika to have the imperial kept securely within the grip of the czar. The main moral of Lord Salisbury's speech was the necessity for strengthening the defenses of the empire against emergencies likely to arise unexpectedly.

SKIES CLEARING.

There is now no cloud in the sky excapt a haze hanging over Pekin. The French preparations for the reception of Mr. Kruger are not liked in England, but Lord Salisbury wisely refrains from taking action that would immediately upset the ministry.

MR. CHOATE'S CHAFF. The American ambassador astonished the Guild Hall audience by the frankness with which he congratulated Lord Salisbury upon deferring his incursion into American politics until the election was over, and fairly put Gog and Magog out of countenance by the audacity with which he com-pared the retiring foreign minister tallow chandler on melting days. Mr. Choate's speech was received, however, with peals of laughter, and his reference to Downing street as an American precinct caused great amusement, while his final tribute to Lord Salisbury was heartily applauded. Mr. Choate's touches of satire in his earlier speeches were not always understood here, but he has now acquired the art of playful badinage, in which English speakers themselves excel.

THE BRITISH CABINET. Referring to cabinet changes, Mr. Ford says: Cabinet changes have excited heartburnings among the Conservatives, who complain that the Unionists have the larger share of promotions. There has been a general shaking up of the old cliques, but it is doubtful if the new cabinet is stronger than the old one. one man of original force, Mr. Arnold Forster, is brought into the ministry, and one debater of real genius among the young men is banished to Ire-Lord Salisbury has found it hard to go outside of his own circle, and is criticised sharply by his opponents for favoring too many of his

Mr. Chamberlain has wisely kept out of sight, although the continental critics are imagining vain things. The latest canard is that he is going to Rome to exchasge views with the Italian foreign minister and to widen the circle of English intrigue in the Mediterranean. Apparently the only foundation for the story is the presence of Mrs. Chamberlain in Naples, where Mr. Chamberlain will join her and return with her to England, after a short

own relatives.

The determination of the American steel manufacturers to invade these markets is not apparently worrying the English trade to any great extent, judging from the opinions of the cutters of Sheffield, the head of one of the greatest steel organizations in the country, who said: "I do not believe American trace in steel rails in England will ever amount to much. Every manufacturer gets a certain surplus which, if he can find a market, is clear profit. We are getting the American surplus, and be-lieve they are selling cheaper here than in their own country. When such competition becames serious it will be necessary for the Americans to devote more than their surplus to this market. When they do I believe they will find they cannot beat us prices or quality on our own ground. Business here is as good as ever and promises to remain so. I cannot say we have yet felt the pinch

ANXIETY AIBOUT AFRICA Another correspondent says: South

augural banquet of the lord mayor in the Guild Hall, held out little hope of i.nmediate pacification, and the return of Lord Roberts is still profematical and is certainly a matter of weeks and perhaps months. The ministers have given up speculating as to when peace will be thoroughly restored, and to use Lord Salisbury's phrase anent China, they are "waiting for the situation to develop itself." Generals and regiments are returning, but others are constantly leaving England to replace them. A recruining depot is being established in London to supply 1,000 men for Gen. Baden-Powell's South African police force, and reinforcing detachments are constantly going to join the regiments in the Trans-

SALISBURY'S WARNING.

In conjunction with Lord Salisbury's open references to the possibility of Great Britain's being taken unawares by some foreign power, this state of affairs in South Africa does not breed confidence or contentment. In his lordship's defense of the war office, many persons believed they saw open threats to Lord Wolseley's recent criticisms. Lord Salisbury drew attention to the enforced silence in which Lord Lansdowne (the late secretary of state for war) was obliged to stand criticism for the faults of the army officers. He warned his hearers that if the criticisms were persisted in the time might come when his silence would be broken and the onus laid heavily and publicly on the right shoulders, though he deprecated having recourse to that.

SUBMARINE BOATS. Mr. Thorneycroft, England's torpedo boat builder, has been expressing interesting opinions on submarine poats. He does not believe it necessary for Great Britain to build submarine boats, even if the experiments of other nations have been successful. He is carefully studying the problem of devising a submarine destroyer, should it ever be necessary. Mr. Thorneycroft regards the American submarine boat as the best type yet made. But he doubts its efficiency, even for harbor

"A shell dropped in the neighborhood of a submarine boat," said Mr. Thorneycroft, "and exploded either level or below it, would afford sufficient shock to crumple up the boat, Possession of a submarine boat of your own will not help you to find an en-

In spite of the pessimistic opinion of Mr. Thorneycroft, the British admiralty has at last decided to grant a submarine boat designed by J. E. Howard, of Tasmania, an official trial.

GERMAN PRESS APPROVES. A Berlin dispatch says: Lord Salisbury's Guild Hall speech is commented on favorably by the German press, especially the passage anent the Anglo-German agreement in which, inferentially, Great Britain's sentiments are divulged. The british premier's army reform references likewise met with approval, and the hope is expressed that the reform will be thorough. The passage touching upon the United States was passed over silently by a majority of the papers. Interest in the China war is decidedly wan-ing. This may be seen everywhere, in the press and in conversation.

THE MAHARAJAH'S ROMANCE. The death of Maharajah of Patiala. at Simla, Nov. 8, removes one of the best and most interesting of Anglo-Indian rule. He was the first reigning prince to blend the elements of the English gentleman and Indian potentake. Educated at Cambridge, he returned to Incha and put in force in his rich kingdom the reforms which he had carefully absorbed in England, endowing free hospitals for women, estables and or manages, drilling troops, sending them to help a British expedition and leading them personally. was one of his keenest disappointments not to be allowed to serve in South Africa. But he was not only a just and enlightened ruler; he became the best polo player in India, was a fearless rider, a deadly shot, was sec ond only to Ranjiusinjai at cricket, and was one of the nnest amateur billiardists of the day. The deceased was a close friend of Lord William Beresford, Lord Roberts, and other wellknown people. He was fond of horses and exported a splendid stud and an try. Irish expert, named Bryan, to be master of horse at Patiala. With Bryan, went his daughter, and the prince fell desperately in love with her, proposed and was accepted. The Sikhs murmured and threatened revolt, and the imperial government, dreading trouble, endeavored to break off the match. But both Great Britain and his own subjects were outwitted, and eventually the bride, embracing the Sikh faith, they were married. Their reign was short. In the icy Himalaya she died of pneumonia. At the head of his silent army the prince brought back the body hundreds of miles to Patiala, where the remains were cre-mated with all the weird Sikh rites, which have now been accorded to him-

SNAKES IN IRELAND. St. Patrick's decree and the experience of hundreds of years to the country, snakes have been found in Ireland. Two specimens of the ring snake have been found at Bray. English Infantry.

Our infantry has shown itself to be as good as ever it was. The generals have winced long before the soldiers have done so, and whether it was in such advances as those of Talana Hill and Elandsglaagte, or in such passive acceptance of punishment as Spion Kop or Modder River, they have shown all their old qualities of dash and stea-Their spirit was extraordinarily good. I do not know where in our military history we can match the fact that the troops who were hurled backward at Colenso in December, who Africa threatens office more to absorb were cut to pieces at Spion Kop in public attention in Great Britain. Lord January, who were driven off Vasi-krantz early in February, were the same men who went roaring over the Boer entrenchments in the last week of that month. Nothing could demoralize or even dishearten them. As to their patient endurance of pain and of hardship, one could not be a witness of it in the hospitals without a higher sense of the dignity of human nature. Their marching was unexpectedly good. With burdens of forty pounds, they covered their twenty miles a day with ease, and on one octasion they rose to greater efforts. The forty miles done by the guards before Bioemfontein, and the marching of Yule's retiring column of Queensof Yule's retiring column of Queenslanders and Canadians who joined Plumer before the relief of Mafeking, and of the Shropshires and C. V. I.'s in the attempt to head off Dewet, were all very fine performances.—Conan all very fine performances.—Conan Doyle in The Cornhill.

A Dozen Boer Generals in the Field-More Invalided Canadians Arriving-Serious Condition of Lord Roberts' Daughter.

London, Nov. 10 .- It has been reported to the war office that in the fighting with the Boers at Komati River, Oct. 7, Lieut. J. H. Elmsley, of A squadron, Canadian Mounted Rifles. formerly of Toronto, was dangerously wounded; Lieut. R. E. W. Turner, of B squadron, formerly a captain in the Queen's Own Canadian Hussars, was severely wounded, while Lieut. H. Z. C. Cockburn, of A squadron, and late captain in the Governor-General's Body Guards, received slight wounds.

"B. P." HAS FEVER. Gen. Baden-Powell, according to the Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Mail, has contracted enteric fever, but his condition is not serious.

A Cape Town dispatch says: Among the Boers who were killed in the recent fighting near Belfast were Gen. Fourie and Commandant Prinzloo. Gen. Dewet is now the real leader of the Boers. A dozen other Boer generals are still in the field. Lord Roberts has evidently made the capture of Dewet and Steyn his next work, and is employing his mobile mounted forces to hunt them down at all hazards.

CANADIAN GALLANTRY.

Fresh details of the engagement's in the Transvaal show that the Boers are fighting with remarkable courage and energy. Dewet's battle with Le Gallais and De Lisle was most stubbornly contested and the guns were abandoned only after a display of desperate valor. Smith-Dorrien's fighting with the Boers near Belfast lasted 48 hours, and his rear guard was only sayed by and his rear guard was only saved by a brilliant defense, conducted by the Canadian Dragoons, whose gallantry vied with the valor displayed by the Canadian contingent at Paardeberg. The Boers were heavily reinforced in these operations, and not only hung persistently upon the rear and flank of the British column, but even charged on their horses in front at close quarters. This may be the courage of despair, but it commands respect. The Boers are losing men day by day, but now that they are broken up into small bands, without artillery or transport, they have marked facilities for carrying on guerilla warfare, and are persistent in keeping up a hopeless struggle. While they carry little food with them, every farm is a storehouse for them, where they can obtain supplies and fresh horses. How they contrive to obtain supplies of ammunition is a mysterv.

He declared that when the history of the war was fairly written it would be found that Bridsh army in South Africa had confronted difficulties far greater than any army operating against an equally civilized enemy had ever previously experienced. PEARY'S POLAR EXPEDITION

Seen by the Kann Exploring Party--Perils of Life in Arctic Regions.

London, Nov. 12. - The whaler Eclipse, which has arrived at Dundee, from Davis Strait, landed Dr. Leopold Kann, an Austrian scientist, who for eighteen months has been connected with a scientific expedition in the Arctic regions. Dr. Kann's party left Sydney, N. S., in July 1899, on board the Peary relief ship Diana. The party first landed at Bedford on Pym Island, the scene of the Greely disaster. Here they built their winter house and named it Fort Magnesia. During the summer they made many excursions, and as a result secured important knowledge concerning the hitherto only partially explored Ellesmere land. Dr. Kann said that he and his companions saw the Peary expedition pass their quarters in the beginning of August, 1899, in three divisions, the first led by Mat Hansen, the colored explorer, and the third by Lieut. Peary himself. At that time Lieut. Peary had been badly frostbitten, being minus several toes, and walked only with difficulty.

The Peary party which had a large number of sledges and Eskimo dogs, was determined to make a bold dash for the North Pole.

Sound, near the spot where Dr. Haynes had his winter quarters in 1860. In February and March of this year Fort Magnesia, our winter house at Bed-ford on Pym Island,was visited by the members of the expedition, and Lieut. Peary himself. He reported that about ten months previously he had met Sveredrup in the Kane basin, north of Smith's Sound, From a conversation, I learned that some feeling has been engendered between Lieut. Peary and Sveredrup, the former rather resenting what he considered the latter's intrusion into the ground which, for exploring purposes, the American was inclined to regard as his own. "Sveredrup's party had thoroughly explored the Ellesmere, hinterland, mapping out a region that was hithemio blank on the charts. Many of Sverdrup's flags were seen by us. "In the course of our hunting ex-peditions in this great track of country, numbers of musk oxen were found on what seemed to be old and established feeding grounds.

CAN'T GET AWAY. "When the Peary and Sveredrup parties separated Sveredrup's understood intention was to explore the vast area of land and water in and around Jones Sound, beyond Cape Eden. I believe Sveredrup on the Fram, is now wintering in Jones Sound, and my opinion, which is backed by that of the Dundee whalers, is that it will be impossible for the Fram to come home this year. The autumn has been very tempestuous, and the ice was such as to render navigation next to impos-

PEARY'S DOGS DIE. "Lieut. Peary had 200 dogs and 27 sleds, but having underrated the difficulties of the journey and not having sufficient food, most of his dogs died. The Eskimos and Lieut. Peary returned to the settlement in a few days the journey being extremely arduous, and the party suffered great hardships. I am certain that Lieut. Peary is now wintering at Fort Conger."

Cancer of the Stomach

Some of the Symptoms and How It May Be Cured.

Cancer of the stomach is one of those diseases that is very insidious in its approach. The person afflicted may for a long time consider that he is suffering from a very severe attack of dyspepsia, and hopes by the use of some simple remedy to set his stomach right. But the persistent pain in the stomach, which is made worse by eating, the vomiting of dark material that looks like coffee grounds, the gradual failing of the health and pallor of the countenance, all point to disease cancerous nature. Operations for this form of cancer are entirely futile —pastes or plasters cannot reach! it. What can the poor sufferer do, then, but pine away and die? That is all that was left for him in the olden days, but now science has stepped in, and skilled specialists have formulated a constitutional remedy, that, when taken into the system, searches out every particle of the cancer virus and completely destroys it. The vomiting ceases, the pain ceases, and the health and strength return. Messrs. Stott & Jury, Bowmanville, Ont., will be pleased, on receipt of two stamps, to give interested persons full particulars of this remedy. All correspondence strictly confidential. OLD COUNTY SERVANT GONE

Adam Murray, Ex-Treasurer of Middlesex, Died in Chicago Yesterday.

Funeral in This City Tomorrow--Sketch of His Life and Personality.

Telegrams received in this city yesterday brought news of the death at Chicago of Adam Murray, ex-treasurer of Middlesex county, one of the oldest and best-known citizens of London, and at the time of his death the oldest member of the First Presbyterian 9%c for United States. Sales were: Church of this city. His death oc-Alexander, curred at the residence of his son, Charles, in Chicago, whither he went about a year ago, after a residence CANTON, N. Owing to Mr. Murray's advanced age and enfeelbled constitution, the disease found in him an easy prey. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning on arrival of G. T. R. BELLEVILLE, Ont., Nov. 10.-At express No. 6 from the west at 10:10 a.m. Services will be conducted at the First Presbyterian Church at 11:30 At the First Presbyterian Church yesterday morning, Rev. W. J. Clark made an affecting reference to the OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 10.-Two death of Mr. Murray. He recalled the fact that for 65 years Mr. Murray had been a member of that church, and had long held the office of elder, during which time he had gained for himself the affection and esteem of all. While the news of his death was heard with regret, said Mr. Clark, there was no occasion for his friends to grieve, for death would be to him a freeing from the weaknesses and discomforts of extreme old age, and in his case to die was to depart and be present with the Lord.

Adam Murray was born in Liddles-dale, Roxburghshire, Scotland, on Aug. 1808, the year of Gladstone's birth, and was therefore in his 93rd year. He was a son of Charles and Elizabeth Murray, natives of Scotland, and the parents of thirteen children, Adam being the youngest of the family. He was reared on his father's farm until nine years of age. When in his twelfth year he came to New Brunswick with parents, completing his education in the Grammar Schools at St. John, and in Fredericton, N. B. In 1834 he resolved to seek his fortune in Upper Canada, and took passage in a vessel bound for New York. Coming via Buffalo, he located in Westminster, where he engaged in teaching school, following that occupation for nineteen He was married in October, 1835, to Miss Jane Beattle, also a native of Scotland, who predeceased him by six years. In 1836 he purchased a farm, which he managed in connection with his school duties, and during the five years which he served as school superintendent, township clerk and treasurer, he still tilled his farm. In 1857 he was appointed treasurer of Middlesex county, which office he held till July 1, 1887, when he resigned. During his tenure of this office he earned the respect and esteem of those with whom his duties brought him in contact, and his devotion to the interests of the county appeared to be the actuating principle of his life. The county council evinced their appreciation of his 30 years' faithful service by presenting him on his retirement with a flattering address and a substantial

Mr. Murray's personality and character were such as to win for him not only respect and esteem, but genuine affection from all classes. He was a lifelong Liberal, and it was a matter of pride with him that he had taken and preserved the Toronto Globe from its first issue till the time of his death. From the time of taking up his re-sidence in the vicinity of London, Mr.

Murray allied himself with the First Presbyterian Church, and was a faithful and valued member of the congregation under the pastorates of the late Rev. Wm. Proudfoot, and his son, the present Dr. Proudfoot, as well as under the Rev. W. J. Clark, the present

BOXERS BEATEN

By East India Troops and Russians -- Number of Camps Destroyed.

Berlin, Nov. 12 .- The following report, dated Nov. 8, has been received here from Field Marshal Count Von

"Major Graham, with two companies of the First East Asiatle Infantry, the second squadron and the second battery, proceeded from Tien Tsin, via Chung Ying, to about 60 kilometers north on the left bank of the Pei Ho, where he had a slight encounter with mounted Boxers. He has since arrived at Tung Pa, 12 kilometers east of Pekin. "Russian troops have successfully encountered 6,000 Boxers north of Shan Hai Kuan, losing 4 killed and

61 wounded. "British columns have returned from Pao Ting Fu to Pekin and Tien Tsin. The latter column destroyed several Boxer camps."

LEPROSY'S SPREAD

More Than a Million Cases in India, China and Japan -- Smallpox Epidemic in Paris.

London, Nov. 12.-Mr. Stapleton, writing to the Temple Magazine on mission work among lepers, makes the following appalling statements: "India has about half a million, China probably as many, and Japan 200,000 registered cases. The moment leprosy appears in a man, woman or child, banishment is irrevocably decreed. There is no pity or compassion, for lepers, young or old, are turned adrift as unclean things on the highways and byways, and are dependent for sustenance on the casual doles of food thrown to them. In India the leper loses caste, which is regarded the worst doom. In Japan he is treated with the greatest cruelty. The same is true in China eruelty. The same is true in China. The leper there is often put to death by fire without compunction, and religion has not a ray of hope for him in the next world."

SMALLPOX IN PARIS

Paris, Nov. 12 .- An epidemic of smallpox has broken out here, due probably to the massing of Arabs and other persons from the east during the exhibition. Notices have been posted by the police warning persons who have not been vaccinated within six years to be vaccinated now.

THE JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIP. Toronto, Nov. 10 .- Toronto II. today won the junior O. R. F. U. championship, defeating the Kingston Lime-stones in a hard-fought game on the 'Varsity field. Score, 6 to 0. NOW FOR McGILL II.

The next game that London will play will be for the intermediate championship of Canada, and will be played in Montreal, probably on Sat-urday next. McGill II. has won the Quebec championship, and is said to be a strong aggregation. Supporters of the red, white and black are confident that the team which has not met defeat in three years will crown their laurels by landing the championship

A new play based upon life in certain sections of the south, and entitled "Down Mobile," will be seen here tocis of Teck, the officers of the king's night and tomorrow, matinee and Royal Rifles, Gen. Maxwell and Gov-night. The piece was written and is being produced by Lincoln J. Carter, and in the east, where it has already been seen, many have pronounced it the best of Mr. Carter's many success ful works. The great spectacles and tableaux of the piece are said to be ably a most realistic fire scene, in which a large cotton mill is consumed The novelty of this scene lies in the fact that in order to get the effect of fire and smoke, Mr. Carter has invent-ed a scheme by which neither red fire powder nor chemicals are used, thus saving the audience the discomforts fol-Dowing the usual stage fire, and at the same time presenting the spectacle of a great conflagration far more vividly than the stage has ever known before.

Tommy Delaney Goes Again to Central Prison, This Time for Assault.

At the police court this morning Thomas Delaney, a youth just out of his teens, was sentenced to five months in the Central Prison for having assaulted G. T. R. Constable Dennis Regan. At the Western University.

On Saturday afternoon the Women's Athletic Club of the Western University entertained at tea at the college. A pleasant feature of the occasion was the presentation of the prizes to the winners in the tennis and croquet tournaments. Dr. James spoke a few words concerning the tournaments of the past two weeks, congratulatory to enthusiasm and keen competition that had been excited. As he men-tioned the several prizes and winners, he added that there were yet three prizes in tennis to be competed for, offered by the Men's Athletic Club of the university, and that though at present it seemed that they might be played for on skates or snowshoes, yet he hoped that Indian summer would give a fair opportunity to complete in whole the tournament. He then asked Mrs. (Provost) Watkins to present the prizes already won. They were as Minnie Hayes, prize awarded by Mrs. Labatt; for doubles in tennis, Miss Adah Campbell and Miss Mabel Williams, prizes awarded by Mrs. (Dr.) James and Mrs. Radcliffe; for croquet, Miss Edith Burgess, prize awarded by Mrs. (Provost) Watkins. Mrs. Watkins' gracious presentation, as much as the prizes themselves, made some of the non-winners regret that the tournament had not found them more in practice. At request of the club, Provost Watkins, Dr. James, Mr. S. J. Radcliffe and Mr. W. C. Ferguson had kindly consented to act as judges in the tennis, and Mrs. Merchant and Mrs. Radeliffe as judges in the croquet, and it may be added that their inter est and enthusiasm gave added zest on the part of the competitors them-71/2; bullion price, $4. It will be remembered that at the fall assizes here, after Walter Herbert pleaded guility to murdering Joseph Sifton, the unusual procedure was adoped of adjourning the assizes, evidently, with the object of avoiding, for the time being, the dilemma of disposing of Herbert's case. Death of James Fitzgibbons

The announcement of the death of Mr. James Fitzgibbons. of the corner Death of Captain Higgins, at Woodstock, of York and Ridout streets, will bring unfeigned sorrow to many citizens of London. Mr. Fitzgibbons was born at Limerick, Ireland, some 65 years ago. He learned the trade of baker while there and subsequently he came to America. He lived first in Cleveland, and afterwards moved to this city, where he established himself in the business that has borne his name so long and honorably. He had not been in his usual health for some time past, but it was not until the past few days that serious results were anticipated. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia. During his years of residence in this city, Mr. Fitzgibbons made many friends, for he was of a kindly nature, charitable at all times, a good citizen in every sense of the word. He was an ardent Liberal, and almost his last act before being confined to the house was to cast a Liberal vote on Wadnesday. His demise will be mourned by a loving wife and a family of two sons and three daughters, Thomas, James and Margaret at home, Mrs. J. McShea, of St. Thomas, and Mrs. J. J. Guittard, of Windsor.

INCIDENT

How a Staunc. Conservative Came to Vote for Charles S. Hyman.

There is one prominent Conservative in this city, to whom the mention of the general elections brings sincere, though vain, regrets. He was an unintentional unit in the great number that swelled the Liberal majority. On the morning of the election he was glowing with confidence in the ultimate success of his party. If his vote could have done it, Laurier would certainly have been relegated to the oblivion in which his erstwhile antagonist, Sir Charles Tupper, is now resting, and as for helping Mr. Hymanwell, that was too utterly foolish to be thought of. You know how the ballot was printed-Beattie first, then Hyman, and below that, Roadhouse. The prominent Conservative went to the polling booth, and there met his nextdoor neighbor, who had just voted.

"How's the ballot?" he inquired. "Oh." said his friend, who knew how ardent he was, "Hyman's on top." But the prominent Conservative misunderstood his meaning. He is rather shortsighted, but his friend had just told him how the ballot was, so without using his spectacles, he marked his ballot for—Hyman. Having thus exercised his manly right, he left the booth and talked for a while with the gentlemen outside. In a few moments he learned of the mistake he had made. When its full meaning dawned upon him his words were-what shall we say?-sulphurous.

THE GRAND TRUNK

Who Will Succeed Mr. Hays? -- Some Say Spencer or McGuigan, Others Wainwright and Still Others an Outsider.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 10. - Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, the president of the G. T. R., is due to arrive in Montreal, Monday or Tuesday, and within a few days after his arrival an announcement is expected to be made as to who is to succeed Mr. C. M. Hays as general manager of the Grand Trunk system. Meantime there is much talk and speculation among railway men in Montreal as to who the new general manager is to be. The names of Mr. F. H. McGuigan, the general superintendent of the railway, and Mr. C. W. Spencer, general superintendent of the eastern division of the Canadian Pacific, have been principally mentioned in connection with the vacancy, and there is little doubt that one or the other has been recommended by Mr. Hays. It is said, however, that Mr. Wm. Wainwright's name has been freely mentioned in England in connection with the position, and his long connection with the road and his constituous services as assistant general manager under the new management would recommend his selection to many of the shareholders. It is also reported on apparently good authority that a new man outside of the present staff of the road altogether, will be secured as general manager. In this event there would be another general adjustment of positions throughout the old Grand Trunk system.

cer declines to say anything directly to the press, but it is known through another source, that his name is first on the list of applicants, and that he has the refusal of the position in his power. Mr. Spencer's qualifications are best summed up in the honor accorded him by Mr. Hays practically

The Man That Asked for Well-Fed Oysters.

The Bivalves Live Principally on Corn meal-How They Are Cared for in the Cellars of Detroit.

[Detroit Free Press.]

"A dozen well-fed oysters!" This was the order of a sober-faced young man when he steered into a down-town oyster bay the other afternoon. The other customers at the counter looked at him curiously, and one man whispered to another that he talked like a "lobster." They thought he was joking about the "weil-fed" part of it. They also thought the waiter was trying to be facetious when he replied: "I'll get you a dozen fat ones that have just had dinner." Then the inquisitive and skeptical man wanted to know all about it. He ton lasts as was informed that oysters in the shell long as a ton right up to the time of their demise and mastication. A glimpse at the dark cellars where the bivalves are fed affords an interesting study of needs and habits of the oyster when in captivity. Cornmeal is their principal diet. Several tiers of them are laid, deep shell down, on a table the full length of the Then gunnysacks are spread cellar. over them, and over the gunnysacks is distributed the cornmeal, the juice of which is absorbed by the oysters. The gunnysacks must not be laid on, cornmeal side down, because the bivalves are apt to eat greedily and get the meal all over themselves. An inexperienced oyster feeder made this mistake recently at a well-known cafe. and as he spoiled a lot of oysters he almost lost his job. Salt water is sprinkled over the top of the heap twice a day, and cracked ice is laid upon the whole. There mustn't be too much ice, however, for the oysters are liable to freeze to death.

Though the season is early it is estimated that about five tons of oysters are consumed in Detroit each day. Most of them come from the Long Island beds, via New York, and as they have a quick transit they have little opportunity to get thin on the journey. Nevertheless, they have to be fed and rejuvenated when they arrive here. One dealer says he can hear oysters eat. He has often, he says, gone noiselessly into the celiar during feeding hours, when he could plainly distinguish a sort of clicking sound as the mouths of the shells come together. They also go "glugguty glug," like a thirsty man enjoying a good drink of ice water on a hot day. William Gibson recently paid a most interesting visit to the oyster beds of Sayville. The bay between Long and Fire Islands, where a great quantity of the oysters consumed in Detroit comes from, swarms with the toothsome favorites. Seed oysters are planted there each year from salt water, the water of the bay being of a brackish nature. Oystering is carried on by means of dredges, with buckets made of netting. These dredges scoop up from a bushel to three bushels at every scoop, and the daily output of bay is enormous. After being dredged up the oysters are placed on floats, from which they are immediately loaded into barrels and shipped. The captain of the boat upon which Mr. Gibson had his oystering experience seemed to know just where to find them. He was like a farmer that is familiar with the most fertile spots of his land. The companies employ patrol boats to guard their beds at night Some time before Mr. Gibson took his trip one of the stake lanterns disappeared, and the old oyster cap-The lantern was fairly smothered in full-grown oysters, oysterlings and spawn. The strange creatures of the deep had fastened themselves to it, and they were clinging to its sides as though it were a last hope.

The bulk of the Detroit trade is now furnished from the Long Island beds, though some dealers still receive the Baltimore product.

"Give orders, Frodsham, at once." John Frodsham did so; and she felt some little relief. But she could not rest. She wandered from room to room, through the grounds and gardens, and along the terraces, always with the vague idea that she would find Sir Karl or hear of him.

Then she became conscious of something that annoyed and perplexed her. Wherever she went in the house she found groups of servants whispering. They broke off abruptly when they her; and in each face she perceived a peculiar expression, as though they knew something, but could not, or would not, impart it. She felt as though an atmosphere of mystery surrounded her. Ah, if he would come—the sight of him would dispel all this! His face wore the same expression that had seen on Lord Rhysworth's; and she cried:

Then quite unexpectedly she caught the giance that passed between the squire and Lord Rhysworth. It was

"They're all puzzled, my dear, I should imagine," he replied; "and it is a puzzle. She clung to him with weeping eyes. "Do you think any ascident has happened to him?" she asked; and the Squire shook his head gravely.

"No, Dolores, I do not. "Then where can he be? Oh, papa, bring him back to me-do bring him back! I must see him! You have been kind to me all my life; be doubly kind to me now; bring him to me. I-I cannot five without him!" She turned her miserable face to Lord Rhysworth. "Help me!" she cried-"help me to find Sir Karl!" 'My dear lady, we will do all that we can," he answered. She flung up her arms in despair. "He will never come back again," she wailed. "I have felt it in my heart all along; it was too bright to -too bright! I told him so, and he laughed at me. Papa, it will kill me!"

"Nay, my darling, you must live for and for the children, replied the Squire. "Besides, you must not give up hope yet. Lord Rhysworth will drive me over to Deeping, and we will get men to search the woods. Take courage.

But her heart was heavy with dread. They left her, and were absent many hours. She looked so white, and was so fragile and heart-broken, when they returned, that tears came into Lord Rhysworth's eyes. The children were with her. She raised her pallid face, but it seemed as though all power of speech had left her. The Squire spoke first. We have no news, Dolores-neither good nor bad; we have not heard or seen anything of him." With a faint sigh she laid her head on his breast. "My darling," cried the Squire, you must not give way in this fashion; you must not indeed! Try to rouse your-self. Suppose an accident has happened to your husband, and he wants careful pursing; you will be quite unit to help him. Promise me now, to take some nourishment, and then I will tell you something."

"I will," she gasped. In silence the Squire poured out some wine, and in silence she drank it. Was and Peterboro seems sure to score it her fancy, or did she hear the Squire Then the London line braces up. whisper to Lord Rhysworth, "We had better tell her; she must know it. I fear it is true."

She turned to him quickly; he did not know how her senses were sharpened by pain.

"I hear you, papa," she said; "tell me at once; hide nothing from me. Take my hands in yours and hold them st: that will give listen to what you have to say. "I am in great trouble, Lord Rhys-worth," she said. Sir Karl left me last mere surmise; but what we know to be true we will lay before you; and although it goes to my heart to do it, I must. First, do you remember that Karl received a letter yesterday morning which seemed to distress him very much? He declined to show it to you, although you asked him to do so. The reading of that letter completely changed him, if you remember; he was not himself all day; he neither spoke nor smiled. We both remarked it; even the servants noticed it, and thought that he was not well. I want you to bear all this in mind; it is one link in the chain of evidence. Then, after looking miserably unlike himself all day, he told us that he could not drive me home at night, because he had an appointment. When we asked him about it, he seemed distressed and anxious. The inference that I draw from all this is, that the person who wrote the letter is the person he went to see. I do not think there is any doubt about this, do you Rhysworth?"

'No, I do not," was the reply. Dolores raised her fair head with a look of redief. I did not think of it before. As you say, that letter completely changed

That seems clear, papa. I wonder I remember his face as he thrust the letter into his pocket; he was not like himself after that. The note troubled him, I am sure.

FOOTBALL.

PETERBORO AGAIN DEFEATED. The Peterboro football team came to the city on Saturday with the idea that they were world-beaters, and that the London team wouldn't have a 'look-in," but before they left Tecumseh Park they received a rude awakening to the tune of 14 to 1, with London hugging the large end of the tally. The crowd that witnessed the game was the largest of the season, doubtless brought out by the fact that Peterboro protested the previous match, without any good grounds, merely on a tech-The weather was all that nicality. The weather was all that could be wished for, and the London boys were in the best of trim, having trouble in landing the championship. Peterboro was simply out-classand the game was not won on any chance work, but by steady, scientific play. Peterboro fought hard and gamely, but were never dangerous. Referee V. E. Henderson, of Toronto University, called the teams to the center of the field at 3 p.m. sharp. The customary warning to be good was imparted, and the 30 men faced each other waiting for the word. The line-

bons chose to kick north, giving the visitors the advantage of the slight northwest breeze. A fake kick along the line gives London the ball near center. scrimmage works well, and Hobbs passes to Gibbons, who punts. Burnham returns with a long kick, and Taylor misses the catch. The visitors rush the ball to ten yards from the London line, and Gilmour drops on it. On the next exchange of punts the ball is held within two yards of London's goal line. Only two minutes of play, Hobbs plunges through to center for a gain. Frank Reid comes from the half line with a rush, and Hobbs and Taylor plunge through for a ten-yards gain. Peterboro misses the ball, and Field drops on it. Then the Lonthrough for a tendon line hammers away at the Peterbor center, pushing them steadily back. The Peterboro backs kick well, but London's wings swoop down like hawks and pin them to the ground. Peterboro gets the ball on their own 25-yard line, and McDonald tries through, helped by the half-backs. Twice he is thrown for a loss, and then passes to McWilliams, who is downed in his tracks. Hobbs has the ball, and London again attacks the Peterboro Reid, Hobbs and Taylor break through for short gains, and the leather is within five yards of Peterboro's Hobbs goes at the center, and Reid and Frank Taylor boost him through. He is tackled and makes a short pass to Taylor, who throws himself across the line for the first try. The kick is a difficult one, and Taylor fails to convert it. Score, 4-0. Peterboro's kick off does not travel the required distance, and they try it again. The wings fumble. "Sal" Taylor gets the ball, and gains three yards. It is London's ball, and Hobbs is working behind a scrimmage that goes like machinery. He passes to Umpire Mulien, mistaking that gentleman for Gilmour. However, Blondine gets the leather and kloks into touch. Peterboro tries a signal play on the throw in, but loses the ball. London again kicks into touch, and Capt. Me-Williams tries another signal trick. The play is broken up by the London wings, who crush the Peterboro wedge like paper. Holbbs gets the ball 40 yards out, and makes a long pass to Frank Taylor. With three Peterboro wings dashing toward him the halfback steadies himself and tries a drop which goes over the bars, and the whistle goes for half-time. Score,

In the second half Peterboro tries a fake kick, but London's forwards were on the ball as soon as their own men, and nothing is gained. Frank Reid is right up on the wing line and London is playing only two halves. They crush through the Peterboro forwards for twenty yards, and Gilmour kicks far across the Peterboro goal line. Gib-bons, Field and Kerrigan are on the ball, and Scott rouges. Score-Vic McWilliams takes the ball out and kicks off quickly, getting down to center before the rush is stopped. Peterboro has the ball and her line braces up. McPherson gains a couple and Burnham punts away over London's line. Labatt gets the ball, but it is so far back that he wisely touches it, and gives Peterboro a point. Score, 10-1. Taylor takes the kick out and makes a good drop to center, where Peter-boro fumbles and loses the ball. London gets a throw-in, and works a signal that gains ten yards. Peterboro tries a run around the end, and Hollingshead is tackled and falls hard on point of his shoulder, and has to retire, Cavanagh taking his place. London works the ball near the Peterboro on short plunges through center, and loses it for offside play. Peterboro punts to Taylor, who makes his mark and returns well. Burnham catches and is away. Field has him but he passes to McPherson, who dashes from the Peterboro 25-yard line. He is by Gilmour like a deer and the London wings stream after him. He gets through the whole London line, and nothing is between the big half-back and a sure touch-down but little Hugh Labatit, who tackles him in brilliant style, and succeeds in flooring him amidst tremendous applause. It was the most brilliant run of the day, and the best tackle of the game. Peterboro makes its last attempt to score, when Burnham punts over the line. Labatt runs the ball back and kicks to the 25-yard line, where Peterboro musts it and London gets the balt. The London halves alternate in dashing into Peterboro line. Reid goes up on the wing line, and Taylor and Gilmour are sent through beside him for big gains. Then the play is varied, and on a double pass Hobbs gets around the end for 20 yards. Next time ist tandem rush through the left wing for ten yards more. The London play is so fast that the Peterboro men cannot follow it, and finally Hebbs worms his way through the center for a touth-down. Gilmour's try is dead on, but Vic McWilliams rushes cut and elevery blocks. Score, 14 to 1. On the kick-off Peterboro attempts to force, out are thrown back, and London con-tinues to batter their line. Hobbs keeps possession of the ball and the half-backs buck the line for short gains in-stead of trying to kick. Peterboro fights bravely, but can do nothing. London is still pressing in Peterboro's territory when the game is over, and the champions are carried off on the shoulders of the crowd. OTTAWA WINS CHAMPIONSHIP.

THE BOER "SLIM."

The Boers seem not to know or to like to tell the truth, for they lie to one another, are lied to by their leaders, and are all but fattened with lies their newspaper organs. It is a condition so extraordinary that I can-not comprehend it, though every one of us in South Africa knows it to be fighting habits of the Boers, so that these remarks are not of the nature of a digression. It leads to British soldiers being invited into a Dutch garien to help themselves to fruit, and then being shot at by Boers hiding in the garden. It leads to such incidents as that of Jacobsdale, where every garden wall vomited shot, and yet where, when the town was taken, the men came out-very many with Red Cross badges on their arms-to welcome the soldiers and to tell them how glad they were that the British were coming to give them good rule and honest rulers. It leads to an instance the exact opposite of that, in which, at a village near Ladybrand, Col. Broadwood and his men, while scattering Lord Roberts' proclamation, were entertained at tea in the best houses, and were told that all the people were glad the British had come. Within the half hour that the little band of British enjoyed the hospitality of the place a galloper came in to warn Broadwood that several thousands of Boers were approaching. The colonel and his men leaped upon their horses and made a hasty escape, but, as they fied from the windows and garden walls the Boers who had welcomed them fusilladed them with rifle fire. But this form of deception and the other one called lying are included in the definition of the Boer word "slim." To be "slim" is the aim of every man of that much-mixed blood; they openly boast of it and glory in it. In a dictionary the word would stand thus: Slim-Cunning, tricky, able to get the better of all with whom one has to do. -Julian Raiph, in Harper's Monthly.

PRESBYTERIAN SABBATH SCHOOL PUBLICATIONS.

That we have no need in Canada to day school helps and illustrated papers, is made evident by the recent issues of the Presbyterian Sabbath school publications now on our table, and of which Rev. R. Douglas Fraser, M.A., Toronto, is the editor. The series of Lesson Helps, which comprises The Teacher's Monthly, Home Study Quarerly and Leaflets, corresponding to the quarterlies, seems quite complete, meeting the needs of teachers and scholars of the various grades. The illustrations in Jewels, a paper for the little ones, and The King's Own, a paper for older scholars, are remarkably good, many of them from original photographs. There is some excellent work in the way of original stories in both of the papers, and the boys and girls are not allowed to forget that Canada is their home, and that they belong to the Great Empire, whose ships are on every sea, and the drum beat of whose armies is heard the whole world round. We wish our Presbytterian friends continued success in their work of publication.

Exciting Burglar Chase.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review prints a column story of a exciting and successful chase of a burglar, ending up in the east end yards of Grand Trunk in this city. The burglar was accidentally discovered in the house of Mr. John Fowell, No. 75 Perry street, Woodstock, the other evening, while the family were absent, by Mr. Bert Fowell and a young friend. When the stranger bolted, the young fellows, who are long-distance runners, gave chase. The burglar made for the railway, and boarded an outgoing G. T. R. freight. The pursuers were just behind, and swung aboard the caboose. The train hands were not made aware of the fact that they had passengers aboard until London was reached. basty search of the train led to the finding of the burglar in a box car. He was made to disgorge a considerable quantity of jewelry and other goods, and, no policeman being near at hand, he was allowed to go.

centers in and around the royal court of France in the year 1585. The hero of the play is Rene de Froisac, whose sole fortune is his sword and his honor, and his courage and resources are taxed to the urmost to escape from the plots which are woven for his destruction. The part was enacted by Mr. Joseph De Grasse, who brought to his work an art and an enthusiasm which made his characterization a very real one. Miss Blanche Crozier, as Gabrielle Du Bois, made a very sweet and winsome heroine, for whose sake a cavalier could do daring deeds without end. Miss Lillian Paige, as the stately but unscrupulous queen-mother, Catherine De Medicis, looked and played the part to perfection. Mr. Lawrence Evart, as King Henri III. of France, and Mr. Albert Reed, as Cosmo Rugieri, the astrologer, were worthy of special mention, and the minor roles were all filled acceptably.

SOLDIERS PARADE TO ST. PAUL'S

Smart Appearance of the Local Corps.

Admired by Hundreds of Citizens-Canon Dann's Views Concerning the Devout Soldier.

The parade of the soldiers to church yesterday was unusually attractive. The Seventh Regiment alone has paraded to divine service several times since its reorganization, and on each occasion it has been viewed by hundreds of citizens who had an awaking pride in the corps. Yesterday they were joined by the Collegiate Institute Cadets and No. 1 company, R. C. R. C., who at all times present a smart appearance. uniformed in the habiliments that were worn at the time of the North-west rebellion, with new tunics and busbles. The knowledge that these would be worn caused an exceedingly large number of spectators to line the streets along which the parade passed. The appearance of all the soldiers excited much admiring comments. They to 30 years from date that is an improvement over the original offer. Lieut.-Col. Holmes, D. O. C., and Lieut.-Col. Stacey were also in the parade

The soldiers occupied the center pews

St. Paul's Cathedral, and all the other portions of the edifice were occupied by members and visitors. The sermon was preached by Rev. Canon Dann, whose remarks concerned "The Devout Soldier." The events that had That we have no need in Canada to transpired during the last twelve look beyond our own country for Sun-months furnished illustrative subject matter for his discourse. In that time the soldiers had been prominent in the British empire. Men had begun to recognize the great virtues that a good soldier possesses. Men had left their homes-men of wealth, men lapped in luxury, men who had every necessity of life, men who had every comfort-and went out into a far distant land, bearing the burden and the heat of the day, sometimes falling out of the ranks stricken with sunstroke or disease, sometimes surprised and taken prisoner by the enemy, while others were slain all because they loved their country, and esteemed the cause of liberty, the empire, and the Queen more than their lives and comforts, because it was their duty to lift their hands against oppression and cruelty. Actuated by such impulses, Canada's sons had not been deficient. They had distinguished themselves as had others of the Queen's soldiers, and we were proud of them. The men most noble in the army of the Queen had been the most devout. There was no contradiction whatever in terms when the soldier was spoken of as devout. In the mind of St. Luke, the devout soldier means one who feared God, one who prayed to God and showed his devotion by acts of self-denial and charity for the good of his fellow-men. Such men were not rare in the British army. The greatest soldiers that ever lived have been religious men, for religion did not make a man unmanly, but built up in him the highest virtues of manliness. Religion had to do with the soul, and it was there that courage, love and honor rested. The man who would forsake his duty as a soldier was not worthy the name of a soldier. Oliver Cromwell's advice was to "trust in God and keep your powder dry." A great many people in the present day thought it was only when the powder got wet that they should trust in God. It was not, however the act of a devout man to go to God when human means fail. God was to be both in the hour of success and the hour of danger and difficulty In concluding, Canon Dann urged the young men to study their Bibles, and to use prayer in public and private if they desired to get strength to meet the difficulties of life. On their knees they would best learn how to fight the battles of life.

Elk Easy to Catch If You Know How; Wolves Very Hard.

The Seventh itself was some Bears That Look Like Fools, But Are Not.

> "Catching wild animals for the markets is just like every other vocation; it's easy when you know how," said William Root, who for nearly thirty years has had his headquarters at Wy., and has shipped hundreds of wild animals to the parks and zoos of the world. "Take the elk, for instance," he continued, talking to a Salt Lake correspondent of the New York Sun. elk is a big, strong animal, very fleet of foot, and ordinarily the capture of one alive would be a good deal like roping a streak of lightning. But they are not captured as you may go out and lasso a steer. The capture of elk is usually made along in the spring. At this season, by reason of the scarcity of food, the animals are not nearly so strong as when food can be found about everywhere. At this season, too, heavy wet snowfalls are frequent, and when one of sufficient depth comes the mountaineers form a party of from ten to twenty and start out on snow-"Being well acquainted with the habits of the elk it is comparatively easy for the hunters to locate a herd, and then the chase begins. The snow being deep and wet the elk finds great difficulty in floundering through it, while the men on snowshoes can travel comparatively fast. The result is that the younger members of the herd soon become exhausted and fall an easy prey to their pursuers. As soon as an elk falls from exhaustion or is overtaken and roped it is hog tied, and the bunters leave it and continue chase after the main herd. One by one the young elks are captured, and from five to ten are frequently taken on one hunt. The captured elk are frequently thrown on sleds and taken to a strong corral, where they are liberated. In' a few days they are almost as gentle as cows, and take to hay as readily as a range steer would. "The number of elk in Wyoming, Idaho and other western states has of course decreased greatly in the last quarter of a century, but there need be no more fear that they will become extinct than that the cow family will be wiped out. In the first place, they can live anywhere on earth on anything that grows. Altitude does not affect them in the slightest, and they will thrive where any other animal of species would die of a broken heart. "I have also handled wolves and bears. There are rascals for you, especially the wolf, who is naturally mean and wouldn't be decent if you gave him a chance. A few wolves are caught in traps, of which there are innumerable varieties; others are poisoned, and a few are killed by blowing carbolic acid fumes into their dens, but they keep on multiplying, and despite the warfare upon them they do not decrease notably. The main trouble with the many cunning traps that have been invented is not so much in the contrivances as in the fact that they have to be handled by men. A young wolf will occasionally walk into a trap, but the older ones will not Wolves have a far more acute sense of smell than a dog and an old hobo that has profited by his experience will under no circumstances touch any thing recently handled by a human

"When very hungry wolves will at-tack and pull down a big, strong steer, but their favorite scheme is to attack cattle that have been enfeebled by exposure or disease. Wolves are exceedingly ford of antelope meat and running down these fleet footed little animals is one of their favorite pastimes. For some inexplicable reason an antelope when pursued always runs in a circle, and welves know this. So when a feast of antelope is desired three or four wolves join in the chase. They first find the antelope and they then map out sections, just as you have often seen done by harvest hands in the big wheat fields back east. One welf will pursue the antelope perhaps a half mile, when he will drop out, and a fresh one will take his place This is kept up all along the line, until the antelope is overtaken and killed. The wolves then fight among them-

"The demand for wolves is by no means heavy, but when they are wanted it is the young ones we go after. They usually have to be dug out of holes and the task is a laborious one. Young wolves occasionally are caught in traps. If caught while young they can be tamed with comparative ease, although they are not the kind of animal to tie to.

"Hunting bears in the west is not what it used to be. The bear is a wise old guy, who looks like a Reub, but isn't. The bears that you see in zoos and circuses are usually caught when quite young and brought up in the way they should go. Nobody wants to waste his time in training an old bear. You hear many funny stories concerning experiences with The funniest thing of the kind was just witnessed Wyoming-Colorado line back in "76. A number of prospectors had pitched camp in the foothills and one of the party, Jim Henley, started out one morning with a double-barreled shotgun to kill some sage hens. He had gone up along a ridge above camp and was feeling along through the sage brush when he ran on to a bear digging yampa root. The bear didn't know that anybody was near and probably never would have been any wiser if Henley hadn't pumped two loads of bird shot into him. We heard him yelling as he touched the high places, with the bear in hot pursuit, and as he came into camp he cried: 'Here we come, boys; secure meat.' Henley always was a funny cuss. As the bear reached camp he paused to get his bearings and a couple of shots from a 48 settled him.'
