Fall Dress Goods

Why delay in making a selection of your Autumn and Winter Dress? Now is the time while the assortment is so large. Many lines are selling rapidly, especially the NEW PLAID and STRIPE GOODS. Here are some lines that are selling freely at popular prices.

At 75c yard. An excellent range of new autumn colorings in CHIFFON PLAIDS and STRIPES. These are beautiful goods and exceptional value at this price."

85c yard. INVISIBLE STRIPES in self colors. Beautiful, bright finish, perfect colors, in mid brown, dark brown, wine, garnet and myrtle. Very neat style for shirtwaist suits.

At $1.00 yard we are showing a very large range (we were almost tempted to say endless variety) of plaids and stripes in those dark, somber tones which are so fashionable for the kilted skirt. Many pieces are being reduced to short lengths. Make your selection at once while the assortment is good.

At $1.25 yard. Another of the latest styles in CHIFFON PLAIDS, shown in five new colors, garnet, brown, olive. blue and myrtle, black mixed with each of the above colors to form the plaid.

LONDON, SATURDAY, SEPT. 21. THE NEW LIBERAL LEADER.

The Liberal members of the Ontario Legislature have named Hon. A. MacKay as leader of the Opposition, and he has accepted, subject to ratification by a party convention.

Mr. MacKay has been in public life only five years, but attracted attention immediately by his grasp of parliamentary work, and his aptitude for The present Government has had reason to respect, and sometimes to fear, his keen power of analysis, and than once modified legislation emanating from the treasury benches. He is an effective platform speaker, and has the popular qualities which make a successful leader. Mr. MacKay is not perfection; but he will develop with the responsibility and dignity of his high post, and the sense of the confidence reposed in him by his col-

MR. BORDEN'S TOUR.

Now that the smoke has vanished from the cinders, and our good friend, Mr. Borden, has left for parts un known, one cannot help feeling that there was something pathetic in his recent laborious tour of Ontario. He is a well-meaning man, who would, no doubt, like to do what is right if his party would let him.

He set out with high aspirations to tell the people of Ontario how he set his face against graft in all its countless forms; but before he got well started he found attached to his train such deadly sinkers as Foster, Fowler, Bennett, Pope et hoc genus omne, and realized that he hadn't the moral courage to shake them off.

No man, be he actuated by ever so righteous an impulse, could make headway with such an entourage. What wonder that he made no headway, and awoke no enthusiasm.

We all remember the dismal coltapse and eventual retirement into private life of Hugh John Macdonald, an equally well-meaning man, some drawal of Mr. Borden in the not far distant future may be safely predicted. It's the old story over again. He hasn't the moral courage to rid hanself of his undesirable followers, and he hasn't the personal magnetism to strike fire from his audiences, and enlist their sympathies. Lowell's lines in the Biglow papers fit the case:

But this 'ere histin', creak, creak, creak.

After generous treatment by the journals of his stripe (with the marked exception of the Montreal Gazette, the most influential of them all, which told Its friends plainly that it took no stock in him), it remained for our local contemporary to deal him the coup de grace. It does seem the unkindest cut of all that that journal should have accompanied its report of the London meeting with a quite unmistakeable streak of blue. He must have been feeling blue when he left the Province. and it must be admitted that to an unpredudiced observer his prospects of replacing Sir Wilfrid Laurier wear the same hue. He has now departed to repeat the same uninspiring story in far-distant provinces, in the hope, no soubt, that there at least he may be able to shake off his undesirable foln pace.

CANADA AND THE YELLOW PERIL.

According to well-informed opinion on the Pacific Coast, the yellow peril for Nova Scotia was $75,000, and is not Japanese or Chinese but Hindu. The Victoria Colonist, a Con- in some the outpouring of money servative paper, opposed to Asiatic was very great." immigration, treats the matter temperately and sanely. It points out that the Chinese problem is a simple one: there is no obstacle in the way of establishing and maintaining a law for the exclusion of Chinamen. The hand the obligation is mutual, and the self ready to recognize its duty to prevent Canada from being overrun with its subjects. The Colonist adds: "As an interpretation of the treaty by which Canada would be considered open to be overrun by Japanese of all grades would be intolerable, we have too much respect for the good sense of the Japanese government to suppose that it would expect such an interpretation to be given it. Moreover, the population of Japan is not large, and there are many open doors for the suprlus. which must annually seek homes elsewhere. For these reasons, we look upon Japanese immigration as something that can be regulated without great difficulty, if only reasonable patience is exercised."

The greatest difficulty is presented by the Hindu movement toward Canada. In India there are many millions same flag as we do, with whose welfare the interests of the British empire are deeply bound up, and who have been taught to believe that wherever British institutions are established there liberty and fair play are to be found. These people have begun to swarm into British Columbia and unless the movement is checked it will have a far-reaching and injurious effect upon the country. The situation calls for the most diplomatic thought of, as a blow struck at a Hindoo in Canada may be felt by a white man in India The matter is complicated with questions of imperial policy and sentiment, and must be dealt with in a statesmanlike manner.

THE MANCHESTER CANAL.

The Manchester ship canal, wher first projected, was considered the most daring and hazardous of all such schemes Its cost per mile of waterviously built, and there the promoters, whose purpose was the serving of a single city and manufacturing district against the severe competition of the Liverpool dock interests and allied railroads.

The half-yearly report of the company gives an idea of the vast amount of business done, and shows that, instead of the predicted ruin, the shareholders are finding the canal a fairly profitable investment. In 1894, the This tryin' to coax a lightnin' streak first year of full operation, the shipments by way of the canal aggregated 686,000 tons. In the report of the directors is included an estimate of 4,750,000 tons as the expected business of the current year. The situation is further complicated by the duplication of existing systems, which tends to make expropriation by the public more difficult. way Project, Wall Street Hears.

New York, Sept. 21. - That the greater portion-between 60 and 70 per cent-of H. H. Rogers' reputed fortune of $100,000,000 has been sunk in the building of the Tidewater Rallway through the State of Virginia has been repeatedly rumored in Wall street for the last ten days.

These rumors yesterday congealed into insistent statements by the more important operators in finances that the Standard Oil magnate was actusists of Prof. Shortt, Wallace Nesbitt, ally in straits to raise funds for the K.C., representing the company, and completion of the road and his other Paying High Interest Rates.

It was argued vesterday in support named J. A. Harvey, barrister, of of the statements regarding Mr. Rog-Cranbrooke, to represent it on the ers' losses that he had shown a repoard being formed to investigate markable readiness recently to pay exceptionally high rates of interest to raise money. It was only a few months ago that Mr. Rogers, in order to continue the Tidewater Railroadwhich has been a sort of will-o'-thewisp, luring him on from one big investment to another-had to raise $10,000,000 for which he gave personal notes secured by $20,000,000 first mortgage bonds, $10,000,000 stock and as much again by dividend or interestpaying collateral. On this borrowed $10,000,000, it is generally stated, he was forced to pay down 8 to 10 per cent interest.

In short, hardly a week has passed recently without a reported sale of some of Mr. Rogers' speculative holdings, until it is now believed that most of them have been disposed of.

It was because of the general discussion and speculation regarding Mr. Rogers' affairs that J. P. Morgan yesterday took occasion to break his accustomed ironclad silence, so far as the press is concerned, and repudiate his reported acquisition of the 60,000 shares of Union Pacific.

BABY'S DANGER.

More little lives are lost during the hot weather months than at any other time of the year. In the summer months little ones are the victims of diarrhoea, cholera, infantum, dysentry and stomach troubles. These come suddenly and without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay may mean death. During the hot weather months Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there is a young child. An occasional use of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles. Or if the troubles come unawares a prompt use of this medicine will bring the child through safely. Mrs. J. Renard, New Glasgow. Que., says: "I cannot speak too highly of Baby's Own Tablets. One of my children had a severe attack of diarrhoea which the Tablets promptly cured." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

SAYS MR. CLEWS DEATH RECALLS ROYAL ROMANCE

Passing of Colonel FitzGeorge. Commoner, Grandson of an Fnglish King.

London, Sept. 20.-Lloyd's News says: Col. FitzGeorge, eldest son of the late Duke of Cambridge, died at the Eden Hotel, Lucerne, on Sunday night. The colonel had been for some time seriously any time for a week. He died surrounded by the members of his family, aged

Monday morning brought many telegrams of condolence, among the earliest being messages from King Edward and Queen Alexandra, and the Prince and Princess of Wales.

Though the great-grandson of George III., Col. FitzGeorge died a commoner. No royal romance has ever appealed to pub-lic fancy so forcibly as the marriage of his father, the late Duke of Cambridge, cousin to Queen Victoria, to Miss Fairbrother, a well-known actress of her day. Her forte was burlesque, and she made the dramatice sensation of the day when playing Abdallah, captain of the Forty Thieves, at the Lyceum, then under the management of the Keeleys. A strikingly tall girl, of noble proportions, she easily captured the fancy of the impressionable young duke of 28. Although her father was only a printer in Bow street, the duke married her.

Many lives of the duke have fallen into the error of describing the marriage as taking place quietly at the church attached to the barracks at Dublin. As Lloyd's News was the first to point out at the time of the duke's death on March 17, 1904. we have a copy of the "Marriage solemnized by license in the Church of St. John, Clerkenwell, in the County of Middlesex, Jan. 8, 1847." The number in the register is 90, George Frederick C pbridge, of full age, bacheler, gentler 1, residing at St. Paul, Deptford, the County of Kent, his father being bridge, gentlemat. Sarah Fairbrother, of full age, spinster residing at Baker street, daughter of John Fairbrother, gentleman. THE DUKE'S DECLARATION.

Early in life, before the practical ques tion had arisen, his biographer records, ready and eager to devote to the cervice of his country unselfishly and unsparingly claimed that his private life was his own, to be disposed of by him as he thought fit and proper." But, adds the biographer, "the duke was too near to the British throne for our statesmen to be blind to tween his royal highness and a princess of one or other of the great continental flouses. Names were put forward tenta-tively, and considerations of high politics were urged persuasively, but all to no

George, K.O.V.O., born in 1846; and Col. Sir Augustus Charles Frederick FitzGeorge, TAKES OFF FACE K.C.V.C., C.B., born in 1847. K.C.V.C., C.B., born in 1847.

All three sons of the late commander-inchief adopted the profession of arms. Col G. W. A. FitzGeorge, whose death is now anounced, joined the Twentieth Hussars, his first commission being dated Jan. 15, 1861. He was gazetted captain in 1881, ieutenant-colonel in 1886, and colonel in 1890; went on special service to Egypt in August, 1882, and served on the personal staff of Gen. Sir Garnet (now Lord) Wolseley. He was present at the decisive battle of Tel-el-Kebir, which virtually terminated the campaign, and carried home the dispatches, in which he was honorably mentioned. For his services there he received the brevet rank of lieutenant-colonel, the Egyptian medal with clasp. the fourth class of the Osmanieh, and the Khedivial Star. He retired from the army in November, 1895.

AS A JOURNALIST.

An important phase of the late colonel's life has rather been missed by his biographers. For many years he owned and personally directed a Sunday newspaper There should be many journalists today who remember meeting him at odd functions-a tall, slim and eminently companionable man. Not so many years since he figured, curiously enough, as the complainant in a rather odd case against a publican, whose neglect to pull down the blinds in the elecping parts attached to his premises he held to be offensive to the newspaper rooms on the opposite side of the street

This excursion into journalism among other things, to serious financial difficulties. At a meeting of his creditors. in December, 1902, it was stated that he had a pension of £420 a year, and that to him by his father. In June of the following year his discharge was granted, to a judgment for £7,000, to be satisfied by Col. FitzGeorge consenting to a sum of £120 per annum being set aside fixed. This is attached to a dental anparatus of tin, into which are fixed the remaining teeth. The second piece consists of a dental apparatus in vulcanite and gold for the upper row of nine teeth. This is fitted to two small protuberances, which fit into the nasal cavities. This also fills up the right sinus, which was smashed in. At the back is a piece of gold mechanism with hooks, used to fasten on the face piece. The third piece of the mechanical face consists of the chin and lower lip. This is of India rubber, painted to resemble naturé. Over the chin a false beard is fixed. At the back are a couple of small bolts, which pass through holes of the teeth and fix the lip to the artificial jaw. The fourth and last piece of the apparatus consists of the upper lip and nose, also in India rubber, and painted, to which is attached a false moustache. At the back are two small clasps, to which the upper dental piece and jaw are

The man is able to masticate his food with comparative ease. From a distance of a few feet the appearance of his face is quite natural. He can take off his artificial face himself, and washes it in soap and water every day.

Garibaldian Celebration Passes Off Without Unpleasant Incidents.

Rome, Sept. 20.-Armed men in the service of the Pope have been on guard all day long at the entrances of the Apostolic Palace, and the Vatican has been under the special protection of a detachment of royal troops, but there has been no active outbreak of anti-clerical sentiments, and Sept. 20, the 37th anniversary of the occupation of Rome by Italian troops and the fall of the temporal power of the papacy, has passed without the fulfillment of any of the fears entertained by the Vatican that the Italian people would today show by deeds of violence their ill-feeling against the church.

There were two big parades this afternoon through the streets of the city, and the red shirts of the Garibaldian veterans were conspicuous in the throng.

The first parade was official and composed of the members of 50 local associations. The leaders laid wreaths on the tombs of Victor Emmanuel II. the "Black Gang" to the Jews. and King Humbert, and decorated with flowers the tablet at the Portapia, which commemorates the entry of the Italian troops in 1870.

The other parade was popular and itol, carrying banners inscribed with Grain Exchange were closed today, operator suggests that you have your est piano, both in case and in musical tire estate will be wound up by that anti-clerical sentiments. Returning, while a mixed deputation of Christians hair singed. You submit. Now, for excellence, manufactured in Canada time, as there are assets, such as land, the crowd raised a red flag over the equestrian statue of Marcus Aurelius.

During the day the police seized a number of anti-monarchist proclamations, and the walls of the city were placarded with appeals to the people "complete the anti-clerical victory at the coming municipal elections."

The events of 37 years ago are celebrated in Italy every year, but this time there were indications that the populace would take advantage of the demonstrations to indulge the anti-clerical sentiments that of recent months have caused the Vatican authorities considerable anxiety.

The day was celebrated throughout the peninsula as well as in Rome.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURE

In 1796 William Tuke, a Quaker, pened the first national asylum for the insane in York, England.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

While agreeing with Professor Alexander as to the injustice of your Wingham correspondent's assertion that the people of California are an immoral people, i fear that he displays an ignorance of the Japanese and their mode of life in their own land, when he asserts that because a large number of Japanese occupy a house that would only be sufficient to accomodate moral code.

In Japan the houses are mere toyhouses, and it is astonishing how many do live in them, and it is indeed rare to find them either dirty or untidy. Naturally, when they come over here they bring their eastern idea of housing with them.

It is no argument against their morality or cleanliness to say that a number live together, for even a small western home would be large to the Japanese

You will please understand that I am not advocating the introduction of the Japs or Hindus either, but I think the argument is foolish when it turns on their morality. The real argument against the influx is that no white man can live on about two and a half to tree cents a day, and that is what the Japs and Hindu both can, and do. Employers of labor are aware of this and are anxlous to see them come.

Everyone who has lived in the East. and who is familiar with the conditions of life there, will be anxious to see some sort of legislation looking to the checking of this tide of Oriental immigration. If something is not done, life in British Columbia will only be possible to large employers of cheap labor. The white laborer will have to get out. Sincerely yours,
J. O'DONNELL,

Defeat Yankees in Opening by eight men fighting every inning and cheered on by the New York fans, Bill just smiled the whole afternoon. the Score of I

New York, Sept. 20.—Bill Donovan, for the third straight game, was returned a victor by the shut-out route this afternoon. In one of the greatest pitching duels of the year the mighty Detroit slab artist beat Doc Newton, usually so effective against the Tigers. Donovan held the bitterly fighting Yankees to two hits. STOCK MARKETS.

H. C. Becher, stockbroker, received the following by private wire from Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington, today: New York, Sept. 21.-The action of the market today must have been a Senior Division—The prize presented great disappointment to shorts. Weaking caused a lower opening, but thereafter the market was strong and finished about last night's prices. On the decline buying was noticeably good being by exporters and by investors convinced of the intrinsic value of the commodity. A heavy frost occurred throughout the Canadian belt last night and another is predicted tonight. Advices from our own spring wheat states on continue disappointing and Canadian points all indicate a brisk export demand. That the Canadian Real Estate for Sale export demand. That the Canadian crop will be small goes without question, and it is doubtful if our merchantable spring wheat crop meets present promise. Coupled with the conditions the situation abroad makes a very strong situation which will ultimately mean higher prices. Cars.

Corn-Yesterday's buyers realized freely at the opening, because the free predicted was not realized. It was noticeable that the selling was mainly for local account, and this was true also in the other pits. Later the forecast for frost over the northern belt gave the market a stronger tone The stories caning from the country throw out little hope that the September figures will be realized at harvest, even if frost does not damage. The Rational Sunday League.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: A great many people are interested in knowing what are the objects and aims of the Rational Sunday League, and the outline given here will give

This league has its origin in the National Sunday League of Great Britian, organized half a century ago for Sunday betterment. Earl Grey, our Governor-General, is a vice-president and the Lord Mayor of London is chairman. Hundreds of notable men, distinguished in all the walks of life, are connected with it.

The aim of the league is to secure one rest day every week for every man. To make Sunday the brightest, sweetest and most agreeable day of the seven, instead of being the dullest and dreariest, with its dusty streets To furnish easy and cheap transportation, so that all people, especially workingmen, can readily go to the parks, suburban places and experience new sights and fresh places. To work for cleaner and more refreshing streets. There is no reason why city conditions should be most disagreeable on the rest day. Cultivate the fresh air and sunlight and wholesome Cakes, habit, which makes for the ideal rest Tea Biscuits, etc., can the league occupies the position that a more active Sunday with certain social and intellectual opportunities, is much better for the bodily and mental health of a community than a very quiet and still Sunday. CITIZEN.

The White Miners of Atlin Turn Them Out of Town.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 21.—A dispatch from Seattle says that 75 Japanese niners arriving at Atlin Thursday night to work in the mines, were es-corted to the river steamer Gleaner by 300 white men yesterday morning, and started back towards Vancouver.

The white miners served notice up-on the Japanese that if they did not stay away violence would be shown in protecting the diggings against Asiatic labor. The Japanese are almost destitute, and will be turned loose in Shagway, Alaska.

Artificial Teeth Without a Plate or Crown and Bridge Work

The above cut illustrates a condition common to many mouths. Two of the most important teeth are missing. These should be replaced by means of BRIDGE WORK, and not by wearing a plate, which will destroy all the remaining teeth in time. A Bridge properly inserted feels just like your own teeth, and it can be done PAINLESSLY.

Placing Loaf in Pan

OME of the rest of you may be familiar with a doggerel rhyme I heard years ago, which ran something like this:

"Who has not eaten home-made bread, That heavy mixture of putty and lead?"

I don't know who was the author, or if the couplet stands alone or is part of a set of verses, but the quotation has risen to my lips many a time when I have sat down to a table where the so-called staff of life might have been compounded to suit the description of the verse.

Probably it is in part because there are so many families where good home-made bread is unknown that the baker flourishes in the land. I do not believe I ever heard of a baker who failed in business.

Whether it is in town where one can send around almost any corner secure of buying a loaf of bread, or in the country where the tours of the baker's cart are as regular as the launts of the butcher's or the greengrocer's wagon, everywhere that it is possible to buy it the people are subsisting on baker's bread.

As a matter of course, there are remote sections of the country where the baker does not penetrate, and one must needs make bread. I had almost said they were fortuhate, and then the recollection of some of that home-made bread came to me, and I hesitate and wonder if, perhaps, it would not be wiser to qualify my statement.

Question of Health.

It is a question in my mind as to The comparative healthfulness of the neavy home-made product and the light, sawdusty, chemically raised bread supplied by many bakers.

In the long run, when the effect of either upon the digestion is reckoned up, I do not believe there would be much to choose between them in point of wholesomeness.

Never have I been able to understand the terrors that to some houseteepers' minds seem to hover around breadmaking. A woman would not hesitate to make a batch of pies, a series of elaborate desserts or rich cakes, or to give orders to her cook to prepare them.

In the same households where you never see a good bread roll or a slice of home-made bread you will be regaled with a variety of hot mussins, griddle cakes, biscuits and the like, made as a matter of course.

Why is it that bread alone is something the average mistress of servants dares not ask her cook to make and that the nousemother who cheerfully undertakes more troublesome tasks often shrinks from the work herself?

In the old days home-made bread was taken for granted, and yet those were the times when the yeast cake was unknown and the woman who made her own bread had to make the yeast for it as well. Did she dread the task in those days, and if not, when did the fear of it come upon us? Why should not every household make its own bread

The Ingredients Should be Mixed Carefully and make it well? The baker may be an c cellent resource in an emergency, but he should not be the regular dependence of a family, least of all when there are children who need the bone-making elements which are so conspicuously absent from most bakers' bread.

We have before this spoken on this page of the bread-making machine and some of the constituency have reported their success

To the possessor of one of these utensils bread-making has ceased to have drawbacks, and I wish with all my heart it were possible to put one into every Lousehold in the land.

Even without these, however, it is possible to make good bread with so little labor that inexperienced housekeepers who have shrunk from the effort with terror would stand amazed at its simplicity. It may seem out of place, when writing for the housekeeper of today, to give a recipe for bread.

But even the oldest cooks are usually glad of suggestions, and in any assemblage of housekeepers there are sure to be some who are seeking for a newer or simpler way to do the old things.

White Bread. Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a pint of boiling water, and before you take it from the fire pour in a pint of milk. When the mixture is lukewarm stir into it a half cupful of warm water in which has been dissolved a yeast Have ready two quarts of flour which has been sifted with a tablespoonful of sugar and an even teaspoonful of salt. In this flour make a hole and nour in the milk, water and yeast mixture, stirring it in with a wooden spoon. These proportions should make a soft dough. Work it with the hands for ten minutes, kneading hard.

Put the dough into your floured bread bowl, cover it and set it to rise. When the dough has reached twice its original bulk, work it with the hands for five minutes and form it into loaves.

Each loaf should be of a size which will about half fill the pan in which it is to be baked. Cover the loaves. Let them rise until half as large again as they were when they went in and bake them in a steady oven.

Covers and Pans For Baking Separate Loaves When they have puffed up to nearly twice their first size push them down and let them rise again. Repeat this process once more, and when the puffy stage is reached for the third time put the rolls in the oven. Bake for half to three-quarters

Whole Wheat Bread. Melt a tablespoonful of butter and one of lard in a cup of boiling water and add to this a cup of milk. Dissolve a yeast cake in a half cup of lukewarm water. Put all together and add flour in the proportion of one cup of white to three of the whole wheat. Make into a soft dough, knead this for ten minutes, let it rise to twice its first bulk and make it into rather small loaves. It should rise for an hour longer before baking. Whole Wheat Bread Without Yeast. Into one quart of sour milk stir a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little hot water, and one third of a cup of molasses. Beat all together well. Add to them enough whole wheat flour to make a dough as stiff as can be stirred and set this aside to rise for two or three hours, until it has risen to double its first size. Make it into loaves, put in the oven and bake steadily for one hour.

An Invaluable Aid to the Making of Good Bread.

Boston Brown Bread. Mix well two cups, each, of cornmeal and rye meal. Add a teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of boiling water to three cups of sour milk. Put with this a cupful of molasses and pour the mixture on the meal, to which should have been added a teaspoonfui of salt. Beat hard. Pour into a well-greased brown-bread mould, with a tightly fitting top and set in a pot of boiling water. Keep this at a steady boilefor from four to five hours and then take the bread from the mould and set it in the oven for fifteen minutes, to dry the bread around the edges and brown the surface a little.

Some cooks add to this amount of dough a half cup of seeded raisins, dredged lightly with flour and stirred in just before the bread is put into the mould.

French Rolls.

Add a cupful of shortening (butte and lard), a teaspoonful of salt and a half cake of yeast dissolved in a half cup of warm water to three cupfuls of sweet milk. Into these stir flour enough to make a stiff dough and let it rise over night. Add in the morning two eggs, well beaten, and let the dough rise once more, doubling its size. With the hands form the dough into balls about the size of an egg, arrange these in buttered pans, cover, let them rise once more, and bake in a rather quick oven.

Moth Protective

I noticed in the Exchange a while ago that some one asked for a moth preventive. A few years ago I was tormented out of my wits by moths. I find that by putting away fiannels and woolens in flour paper sacks and using insect powder under the edges of carpets I have done away with them. As a matter of course, constant vigilance is needed to keep them away, for they re-

"Martha's" Recipe

A friend was teiling me the other day that she prefers lamb's liver to calf's, and she was certain she has read something in a story of yours, "the distractions" of somebody or other, of some way of cooking lamb's liver and making it taste like anything but a cheap dish.

Will you tell us what it was? My friend says you did not give the recipe in the story.

E. A. G. (Pittsburg, Pa.).

Your friend had evidently dipped into "The Distractions of Martha." The heroine had many and sore trials

BREAKFAST

I have the vanity to believe that the dish was of my own invention, although it was a young housewife who, several years ago recommended lamb's liver to me as more tender and far more economical than that of the calf.

Up to then, I had never tasted it. Since our initial trial of it, we never buy calf's liver if we can get lamb's. Here is the recipe of which "Martha" spoke:

Casserole of Lamb's Liver. Lay the whole liver in cold water, slightly salted, for half an hour to draw out the blood and make it firm. Rinse it then, in cold fresh water and wipe dry. Fry six slices of fat salt pork in a pan until crisp.

Take them from the fat and put into this six slices of young onion. Strain out the cnion when it is fried, and add a lump of butter as large as an egg to the fat left butter as large as an egg to the fat left in the pan.

When it is hissing hot lay in the liver and brown slightly on both sides. Have the casserole ready heated; turn the contents of the pan into it; add two cupfus of good stock thickened with browned flour, a dozen potato balls cut with a "gouge" and parboiled for ten minutes, half a dozen baby omions, also parboiled, and a little chopped parsley.

Cover the casserole closely; set it in a steady oven and cook for two hours without opening. The fire should not be too hot, or the liver may burn to the sides of the casserole. Send to the table covered.

You have here a cheap and an excellent dish for a family dinner. You may add a touch of elegance by substituting button mushrooms (champignons) for the potato-balls. Even then, it is not an expensive viand. A Bit of Creole Cookery

Have you room for a bit of Creole cookery I picked up in Cuba last winter? It may seem queer to some persons, but I assure you it is most savory. We have become very fond of it; also for an Italian dish, for which I inclose a formula. We got that in the country back of Genoa while abroad a year ago.

I know you are most catholic in your gastronomic ideas, as well as in your theology. So I venture to contribute both recipes.

CUBAN DISH.

into cold water. Leave them there half an hour; take them out and dry by laying them upon one cloth, covering with another, and patting the upper. Have ready in a deep saucepan a dozen fine tomatoes peeled and sliced thin.

Heat slowly while you fry the onions in Heat slowly while you fry the onions in butter to a light brown. When the tomatoes are hot and soft, season with salt, a little sugar and a teaspoonful (even) of sweet pepper, or paprika.

Add now four young okra pods sliced thin. Bring to a boil, add the fried onions and cook fast fifteen minutes. Line a platter with slices of toast, well buttered, and peur the "oila" over them. Set in the oven for three minutes to soak the toast and serve.

MY GENOA "FIND."

Stew a dozen tomatoes soft, season with sugar, cayenne and salt to taste. Now rub through a colander and return to the fire. In a deep fryingpan heat three great spoonfuls of butter; break into it rapidly six eggs, stirring all the time.

As soon as they are fairly broken and mixed, pour in the tomatoes, Cook for two minutes, stirring all the time, and add as quickly three tablespoonfuls of Parmesan cheese. Turn out, and eat with brownbread. It was a country Lenten dish in Italy, and we ate it with the black bread of the

> > An amusing incident in this connection took place the other day on the occasion of King Frederick of Denmark's visit to Iceland. At Gulfoss, which boasts of the most beautifu water falls in Europe, the king got into a long conversation with an old English lady. Finally he desired to speak to the other people present. But she would not permit him to take his leave. She caressed the king's horse and then kept hold of the animal's trappings. It finally turned out that she had sent for a photographer with the object of being snapshotted together with the king. As soon as he understood the object of the old lady's maneuvers he gave way and waited

BIGGEST MAN IN WORLD.

The other morning at the 'Frisco tracks in Fort Scott was the biggest man in the world. He is known as "Baby Jim," Simmons, a negro, who weighs 750 pounds. There are but few who will believe that any human limit was twenty minutes, and several being could attain such a great weight unless they chanced to see this mastodon. One glimpse at the monster however, allays all doubts as to the man's enormous physical proportions Everyone who saw his massiveness went away telling himself that the negro weighed nearer a ton than the weight above given. "Jim" Simmons was accompanying W. R. MacBurnett, a theatrical circus man, to St. Joe, The monster lives at Beaumont, Tex. He occupied two seats in the smoker and slept all the time from early morning until 9 o'clock, though they was a constant stream of people scrambling through the car to see him. Efforts to wake the negro were unsuccessful. He remained there, snoring loudly and also breathing heavily. Finally his manager came through the car, cleared out the curious ones and took his big one to the vestibule to give him an airing. A newspaper man was admitted to converse with the mastodon for a few

Simmons said he was twenty years of age; that his parents were both small, though his grandparents each weighed over the three hundred mark. He says he does not eat or drink any more than the average sized man, and that he enjoys the best of health, his heart behaving in a most satisfactory manner. He is only slaty-nine inches tall and is "further around than up and down," to use a small boy's expression. There is no doubt but that this man is one of the most gigantic human beings that ever lived.—Kan-

There was a competition for sheepdogs at the Rockland county fair last year, managed by G. M. Carnochan, Monson Morris and others interested in the bench show; and trials are to be held annually by the newly-organized Fairfield County Kennel Club of Connecticut. The scene of the opening trial will be the undulating turf of Innis Arden, J. Kennedy Tod's country place at South Beach, near Stamford. The pastures are on a hillocky promontory extending into the Sound and admirably adapted for the trials. Some of the club members own sheep from the Welsh mountains, mixed flocks of cheviots and Kerry Hill wethers, and PREPARING FOR HIS NEXT TOUR they will be used in the Innis Arden American sheep, except in a few old flocks in the East, are not used to confinement or to be driven about

"There is no more interesting sight than to see a good dog handling his after giving two recitals at the salle sheep," said a dog-lover who traveled in the west of England to see the trials. "Each dog will have three sheep to fold, a ram and two ewes, selected from different flocks, so that they are not used to running together. The trio will be placed for the dog just over a hillock if possible, and at the word the shepherd starts his dog from the lower end of the field or fields. He directs the dog by whistles and by motions of his hand, the judges walking behind, watch in hand, while back of all are massed the onlookers-the gentry farmer and shepherd families from many miles. He creeps toward them, instead of charging, and is so active in circling that the only direction in which the sheep do not see a watchful dog, as they raise their eyes from the turf, is that in which the trial dog is taking them."

There were from 7,000 to 8,000 to watch the trials last month on Lord Rothschild's place at Tring. The course was wholly in view of the spectators, with a knoll in the middle of the ground from which the shepherds directed their dogs and on which the officials were stationed, being a natural and circular grand stand. There were eighteen entries in the stack for single dogs and five in the class for pairs of dogs. The time of the dogs were down that time without having penned their sheep. This contest was won by Swallow, a black and tan smooth collie. An English sporting paper says of her victory: She gave the best exhibition of the day for finding her sheep; at once she drove them straight through the first halting, and reached the flat ground in the front of the hall in less than five minute; she experienced no difficulty in the Maltese cross, and penned in 8 minutes 45 seconds, one of the fastest performances ever seen at Tring." Swallow, however, did not get the cup at Llangollen. The task set each dog was to find three sheep released from a pen about 600 yards from the shepherd, to drive them around a pole and then through an opening made in a row of iron hurdles dividing the two a row of wooden hurdles through an quality is noted particularly in the recenter hurdle, then to the pen. The fortunate purchasers of filus Bell and Lucky Beys have already witnessed an givence in these shares of fifteen times the purchase price of Lucky Beys and ten times the purchase price of Blue Bell. These advances are insignificant, however, in comparison to the advances that are still to take place in these thates. We are in close touch with the development, and are advised by our engineers that there are now thousands of tons of rich ore in sight amounting to millions of dollars. We strongly gavise every shafeholder of Blue Bell and Lucky Boys to keep what they have. Within the next year or so ten times the present value will be zeached.

Never in the history of mining has such an opportunity for making money been presented as is now offered in the Larder Lake gold district, and especially in the wenderful Highland Mary properties.

Put your money in The Highland Mary Gold Mines, Limited. One of the greatest opportunities that have ever been offered for investment in a gold mining company. The Larder Lake district will be the wonder of the world, and Highland Mary is in the heart of it.

Miners and prospectors from all parts of the world are flocking to Larder Lake. Mining men with millions at their disposal are sending their representatives and mining engineers into the field, and are rapidly snapping up everything that can be purchased.

The time for investors to get in on the rock bottom is NOW—THE PRESENT TIME.

PRESENT TIME.

The opportunity offered in Highland Mary will probably never occur again in this district. Investors should accept this opportunity and buy in one of the greatest mining companies that will be known in this new Eldorado at the present rock-bottom prices of 10 cents per this new Eldorado at the present rock-bettom prices of 10 cents per share.

We have gone to great expense, and have used every method available to learn and know the exact situation in the Larder Lake district. We have sent a number of reliable mining men in different directions and to different locations. We have established our own assaying office on the ground at Larder Lake, putting in charge of it mining engineers of known ability and reputation. We have not taken over a single claim that has not shown actual merit; that is to say, with free, visible gold that has not shown actual merit; that is to say, with free, visible gold in quantities most remarkable. We are informed by our engineers that there has never been a gold district known that has shown the wonderful width of quartz veins containing free, visible gold as now actually exists in the Larder Lake district. We have quartz veins assaying gold from $200 to as high as $42,000 to the ton, that vary in width from 6 feet to 150 feet.

The Highland Mary properties consist of 1,200 acres, being 80 well-selected 40-acre gold claims, undoubtedly and unquestionably the choicest of the district at the present time.

Now, we want to make this comparison. In the gold fields of Nevada, where the gold camps have gained renowned reputation—in camps as well known as Tonopah, Goldfield, Wonder, Searchlight—and other camps where millions upon millions have been made from claims varying in size from 10 to 20 acres. Just think of it! Ten or twenty acres running into values as high as from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 each. Mining men we have in the Larder Lake district who are well acquainted with the Nevada camps claim that the Larder Lake district is so far ahead of the mining camps in Nevada that there is no comparison whatever. Even the Rand in Africa, it is believed, will not come up to the wonderful gold district of Larder Lake.

We have received in our office in the past week many samples taken from every claim owned by the Highland Mary Company. Out of these we

An Advance in Price Is Contemplated by Manufacturers.

Dealers in agricultural implements, farm wagons, manure spreaders and other kindred lines will soon be called upon to inform their customers of an advance in price. In fact, many manufacturers have already made an advance, and the consumer may as well prepare for it, as it is inevitable.

another reason is that a large per cent of the immigrants are too old to work after they have been in the country a few years, and the younger generation must take up the burden of contributing to their support. A study of the marital conditions of working women takes all the glamour out of divorce and makes dower numbers, 63,436, are breadwinners, indicating that they have chosen to toil rather than longer endure the ever ers and slaters, or as helpers to steam present Mere Husband, and supplying that alimony, as a general rule, is inadequate for the support of grass widows. It has been suggested by the federal census officials that the returns which were received are in harmony with the theory that the increase in the number of divorces is in large measure the result of the more independent economic position of women, the figures indicating that the women who secure divorces are uncommonly well qualified to support themselves.

Marriage is shown to be the most effective enemy that attacks the ranks of the working women. Almost 45 per cent of the women engaged in breadwinning pursuits are under 25 years of age, and more than 68 per cent are under 35. The corresponding percentages for the other sex are much lower, being 24.7 and 51.4.
