JOHNSTONE MADE A NEW RECORD

Flew to Height of 9,714 Feet Above Earth.

Aviator Says It Was Terribly Cold and Lonesome Up There.

[By Associated Press.] New York, Oct. 31 .- A "baby" Wright roadster, with Ralph Johnstone at the wheel, glided gracefully to earth in the twilight at the close of the international meet at Belmont Park this evening with the barograph registering a new world's record for altitude. The little machine of only 35 horsepower was up 9,714 feet, exceeding by 528 feet the height attained in France on

The air was cool and crisp, the sun shone from a clear blue sky, and there was just enough wind to stir the row of flags along the top of the big grandstand. The first event of the day began a few minutes after the sharp crack of the opening bomb. It was the two-hour distance race for a purse of $3,500. donated by members of the Aero Club of America. The purse was split so that there were three prizes.

[By Associated Press.]

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 1 .- At the resumption of the provincial fire chiefs' convention in the city hall this morning, Chief Thompson, of the Toronto fire department, briefly outlined in an address, the right-of-way of firemen on the road to a fire.

"It was my opinion," he said, "that when going to a fire we were allowed to travel at a greater speed than the private vehicle, but on consulting with the city solicitor I find that firemen have no special privileges. Any accident or damage through fast driving makes the municipality directly liable."

The chief informed the convention that he had brought the question to the attention of the fire and light committee of the city council and that it will likely be sent to the private bills committee with the view of obtaining the necessary legislation. The association will indorse such legisla-

BIG CLEARANCE IN CARPETS AND RUGS

Tomorrow we commence a stock clearing sale in our Carpet Department, which we consider will prove one of the greatest money-saving opportunities since the opening of this department. Our Carpets and Rugs are all new, and the designs and color combinations are the very latest productions, being all bought within the past two seasons, and, considering the close prices at which our Rugs and Carpets are marked (our regular values compete with sales prices in most houses), one-quarter off Axmins, and Wilton Rugs at our prices means double savings in most cases; also our $1.50 and $1.60 Wilton Carpets, made, laid and lined at $1.25 a yard, means something more than the ordinary sale reductions on such beautiful new Carpets as are displayed on our Carpet floor this week at these prices.

$1.50 and $1.60 Wilton Carpets, Made and Laid, $1.25

The designs in this range are principally suitable for parlors, in two-toned green with rosebud and fawn and brown combinations, all with borders to match. These Carpets are made of the finest worsted yarns, closely woven, and possess great and lasting wearing qualities; a splendid assortment of designs well selected, and at a price that has not heretofore been equalled by us. Our $1.50 and $1.60

Imported Wilton and Axminster Rugs-A clearing of all odd Rugs and odd sizes. Odd sizes does not mean unusual sizes, but designs in which the range of sizes is broken; one or two sizes may be left in the range; also many in which we have only one Rug left of a kind. The designs are floral and Oriental suitable for parlor, dining-room, library, etc.; colors in two-toned green, browns, fawns and the Oriental effects. Look this list of sizes over and you will find a good assortment of Rugs in each size, and you will also find sizes that can be used in almost every room in the house. LONDON, TUESDAY, NOV. 1.

MR. BRODEUR'S IMPERIAL UTTERANCE.

Members of the Federal Government have been accused by their opponents of presenting their naval policy in one light in Ontario, and in another and very different light in Quebec. Here is an extract from Hon. Mr. Brodeur's at the nominations in Drummond and Arthabaskaville, as reported in Mr. Bourassa's paper, Le Devoir:

"Our marine has been created in order to protect our coasts and our trade (commerce d'exporta-IT HAS BEEN CREATED ALSO TO AID GREAT BRITAIN IN CASE OF NEED, IN ORDER THAT THE MOTHER COUNTRY MAY CONSERVE HER SUPREM ACY OF THE SEAS NECESSARY TO OUR OWN WELFARE. It this supremacy that conserves and will conserve the rights and liberties accorded us by Great Britain. And in speaking thus, I do not dissociate myself from my ministerial responsibility. I speak in my capacity of minister, and in the name of the Government.

This utterance is a sufficient reply to the misrepresentation of the Government in this Province.

The Nationalists are denouncing the naval policy as a surrender to Imperialism, which they paint in terrifying Mr. Bourassa tells his audences that in twenty years a Canadian youth may be torn from the arms of | tian Satan his parents by a press-gang to fight the battles of England in distant seas. This is as far from the truth as the language of some Ontario journals, which describe the naval project as a conspiracy to separate Canada from

Mr. Balfour, in a somewhat lurid declared that "a lamentable and dangerous" situation had arisen through the "pause" in shipbuilding during the last two years. He feared imperial disaster unless the Dreadnought programme was greatly extended at once. The "last shilling" must be spent and "no pedantries of finance" permitted to intefere in the work. If necessary the money should be borrowed. In five her chauffeur. The coachman used years, according to Mr. Balfour, an to be the favorite in this role, but ominous change had occurred. Mr. Balfour alleges that when another power has twenty-one Dreadnoughts completed we shall have but a superiority of four. The other power to which he refers has now got seventeen built or building, and no more than this number can now be completed before the close of the calendar year 1912. At that date we shall have twenty-five either completed or so near completion that they can be rapidly made ready for war. When the four of next year's programme of the foreign power to which Mr. Balfour refers come to be laid down, which cannot be until after the introduction of our own next year's estimates, it will be time enough to consider the rate at which our ships for the year should be built.

'I would remind Mr. Balfour that the Neptune, laid down at the beginning of 1909, has just gone through her trials, and that, when he reckons the number of ships which are building in foreign yards, he should take into account the rapidity with which they are in fact completed."

Mr. Balfour's effort to conjure up another German panic is the shift of a very hard-pressed party leader. He is under fire from a section of his own party who complain that he is not such as that is woman's paradise. There are houses whose internal arrangements

ALL SAINTS.

The Day of All Saints, or All Hallows, in old-fashioned speech, is an important festival in some of the churches, though somewhat cvershadowed in general observance by the day before. When the number of saints' days had grown to such proportions derpining. And it would be a marked as to threaten to absorb the whole calendar, the early church decided to fix the skirt grow as twins where now it is a day commemorative of "All the Saints," not specifically celebrated on days of their own. This was done about 610 A.D., the date first selected being May 1. Later on the feast was placed on Nov. 1.

There was a significance in these dates. One feature of the policy of the early Popes was to allow many of the pagan celebrations to be continued by the convertees, but with a new meaning. They prudently recognized that while you may change people's thoughts, it is very hard to change their habits of action. Two of the most popular festivals among the spring and fall revels of approximately May 1 and Nov. 1. In Scotland the Then those that made good shall be ization, and for saving boys from speech to a French-Canadian audience Highlanders kept up till last century their spring and fall "Beltane," i. e., originally, Fire in Honor of the God Bel, a bonfire being the centre of the magic rites. The utmost efforts of the church to transfer the people's attention on these occasions from gods and fairies and ghosts to All the Saints could not prevent the survival of the older ideas, though ever less serious, amidst the newer dispensation. A ludicrous blend of old and new was inded the result in the minds of the ignorant. In some parts of Scotland it was believed that if one rode astride a broomstick three times about the village on the evening of Oct. 31, he would be favored with a sight of the devil. Whether the inducement was too little or too great, it is said that nobody ever was known to make the experiment. The devil in question

Cynthia Grey's After-Supper Talks

OUR FOLLIES SARTORIAL.

Thirty-or was it forty?-years ago that women hobbled at the wasp. waist and expanded rapidly to a circumference at the feet that took up an ordinary-sized ballroom, and this was eminently correct. Now the idea has been reversed.

One of the worst of our many follies is the sartorial. Men, all angles and awkwardness, wear precisely the kind of clothing which emphasizes ugliness. If you don't believe that, look at a bunch of graduates in caps and gowns, the priest in churchly robes, the pictures of Sir Walter Raleigh in I sweeping cloak, or Roman senators in their togas. Can modern men in modern attire compare for dignity with any of these? Not at all. Whereas, energies and grace, is tied up in habiliments that are nothing me residence than some evolution of the gunnysack. A skirt hampers her in every detail of housework she does, it sweeps the om the highways, not one time in a thousand is it worn properly. he time it sags in front, bobs up in the back, or flaps everywhere in lous fashic. The woman who really looks well in ordinary modern hing does so in spite, not because of what she wears.

Should we put men in skirts and women in trousers? No. But suitability, not sex, should be the criterion. The working woman should be as free and comfortable in her clothing as is the working man in his. In the hours of evening ease, wouldn't it be refreshing to see both wear the flowing line garments, the lace and frills to make each scene a PICTURE? The average woman wears a tailored suit with an evening slipper and a Charlotte Corday bonnet, or a smart turban with a lingerie frock. If we had a national sense of humor, the ordinary street crowd would be fatal-we'd laugh ourselves to death over the sheer absurdity of the male and female incongruous get-up

HOW TO MAKE YOUR CLOTHES LAST LONGER

Forethought, in caring for your clothes, will save you many a dollar. Do you examine them on taking them off-see that they are properly brushed before being put away, or hang them properly? There is a right and a wrong way to fasten your waist. Fasten base of collar first and then hook waist. Don't pin your collar. If you must have it tight work an eyelet in the upper corner of each edge and use a pin through it. This makes them last twice as long. If you have a pretty waist with a lace yoke, don't suspenl it from a hanger. Lay it flat in a drawer, stuff the sleeves and shoulders with tissue paper, and hook the collar and waist. Hanging it stretches the yoke out of shape, and weakens the thread of the lace so that it will tear easily. Broken collar bones should be ripped out immediately and renew-Clean your net collars or yokes by scrubbing with a soft brush and benzine. As benzine is highly imflammable, don't use it near fire

In putting your skirt away, hang it by the loops, running them through hanger.

Never hang your coat by the tape sewed on the back of the neck. It gives it an unsightly shape. Hang it evenly balanced on coat For your best suit, make a bag of an old sheet, hemming the top and drawing string through it. An old nightdress may do. Keeping dust away from clothes is one of the greatest preservatives known. They will not look brown or rusty. Watch the lining of your coat. It is sure to slip its stitches at the armhole or shoulder from the constant strain of taking it off and

Fine white lingerie blouses or underwear require special handling in cleaning, or they soon wearout. Do not boil them. Steep them first in cold water, and wash in lukewarm soapsuds. If laying has yellowed them, place them in a muslin bag, to prevent rust spots, and

Felix smiled. It Joan was able to defend herself, she was certainly making a rapid recovery. "That is a mere hazy ecollection of their after-thought. Of all despotisms, save me from a military one, and soldiers who slay Kings are the worst of despots. If there were no Kings there would be few soldiers, Joan. Put that valuable truism away among the other wise saws that govern your life. You will appreciate its truth, and the even greater truth of its converse, when even greater truth of its converse, when you are a Queen. But soldiers are stupid creatures, obviously so, since killing is no argument, or a word philosopher would mean a man armed with a bludgeon. If they do away with a tyrant and elect his successor, they are apt to acquire the habit. Soldiers are meant to obey, not to rule, and these Knosnovian kingmakers were not patriots, but cuttinoats."

Joan buried her face in her hands. The thought came unbidden that in some inexpicable way she shared with the infamous Seventh Regiment a large measure of responsibility for Alec's dangerous kingship.

For Captain Drakovitch, the officer who led the bodyguard in their belated ride to the King's aid, had told him that a waiter, John Sobieski by name, had arrived breathless at the President's house many minutes before the actual alarm was given. "Gods!" vowed Drakovitch, in his emphatic story to Felix, "there were we ounging about smoking cigarettes, while his Majesty was in a fair way to be cut in pieces! A nice state of affairs! If someone had not warned Stampoff we might have been too late!"

"Better not mention it in public," was Poluski's advice. "The mere notion of the resultant disaster would make Prince Michael seriously ill. Moreover, such things grow in the telling, and the story will be traced back to you. The other had agreed, and Felix followed his own counsel by withholding from Joan all knowledge of the unpleasant mischance that had nearly cost the lives of the King and his companions in the besieged hotel. But his thoughts were busy, and when he found Sobieski, detained in the entrance hall, he consigned Joan and her maid to the care of a servant briefly explaint to the care. servant, briefly explaining that they were to be taken to the Princess Delgrado, and forthwith questioned his fellowcountryman.

"But someone had more sense, someone listened?" said Felix dryly.

"Ah, yes. When the President came down the stairs Prince Michael went to meet him, laughing all the time at my romancing, as he called it. But I shouted out, being quite desperate then, and Monsieur Nesimir heard me. Of course by that time I was in such a state that my knees shook. WATER POWERS ARE OF UNTOLD VALUE

Experts' Enthusiastic Report of Resources in British Columbia.

Seattle, Oct. 29.-"Electrical energy to the value of $250,000,000 per annum, if sold at 50 per cent of the present market price of $40 per horse power per year, is locked up in British Columbia. That region could not be developed to a condition where it would need all this energy in 1,000 years. Under such circumstances it is doubtful if the Canadian province will ever be plunged into conservation talk as are the Pacific northwest states."

This is the gist of a statement made oy Fred F. Henshaw, the noted hydrographer, who for several years has been supervising the measuring of waters in the streams running through the northwest, for the United States geological survey. Henshaw probably knows more about the streams of the Pacific northwest states and the waters of British Columbia than any other man in the world.

He says that British Columbia contains one half the available waterpower energy in Canada, Between 8,000,000 and 10,000,000 horse-power can be generated.

So stupendous is this amount of power that it goes beyond the point where figures mean much to the laity. The estimates are based on actual low water flow, and do not include the possibilities of storage. By the installation of dams in the rivers of British Columbia theh waterpower energy might be increased from 50 to 200 per cent the expert declares.

The power in British Columbia, owing to the heavy drainage from the Cascades and the Canadian Rockies, is so vast that Henshaw declares it will be centuries before any appreciable proportion of the energy will be required for commercial purposes.

North Pole Discoverer May Be Attach ed to European Embassy.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 29. -Capt. Robert E. Peary, North Pole discoverer and naval engineer, probably will be sent abroad as a naval attache to one of the American embassies in Europe. At least his friends in Washington believe that this is the disposition which the navy department will make of the daring explorer.

There was a suggestion current in official circles that Capt. Peary might even be made minister from this country to Denmark as a matter of recognition of the naval officer for his services to his country, but at the state department it was said that this idea was not being considered.

The more likely thing, officials say would be the detail of Capt. Peary to one of the European capitals as naval

GORDON SCOTT, A LOCAL RUNNER, TAKES EAST LONDON FIVE MILE ROAD RACE IN RECORD TIME

Seventeen-Year-Old Distance Man Covers Course in Little Over Thirty Minutes, Beating Out Six Other Starters-Meyers Trims Roy Campbell, of Ramblers, in Exciting Sprint for Second Money---Winner Finishes Sensational Performance at 12 Second Clip.

Gordon Scott, a 17-year-old youngster, running in the colors of the Young Canadian Club, of this city, won the five-mile East End road race on Monday morning from a feld of seven starters, in the good time of 30 is expected to precipitate an open conminutes, 21% seconds.

He finished well ahead of the others, and sprinted the last hundred yards at a 12-second clip. There was a fine race for second and third places, the three runners-Meyers, Campbell and Grey-having all they wanted. The others finished back, but in good form.

Seven starters-Gordon Scott and Richard Hill, of the Young Canadian Club; R. S. Simmons and Roy Campbell, of the Ramblers; Ronald Gray, Y. M. C. A.; C. Meyers, unattached, and H. Ashford, unattachedfaced Starter J. H. Childs. They all went away bunched, but within half a mile young Scott had taken the lead. He kept steadily working all the time, cutting out his own pace, and running well within himself. The pace began to tell on the others, and at the asylum Scott had a comfortable latter in which the position of the lead. He kept going, and when the bunch turned into Dundas street he had the race won easily. From that time on he jogged, but a hundred yards from the tape he cut loose a sprint that made the large crowd sit up and take notice. They gave the youngster a rousing cheer when he crossed the GREAT BATTLE FOR SECOND PLACE.

There was a great battle for second money between Meyers and Roy Campbell. From Adelaide street they put every ounce of energy they possessed into the game, but Meyers had the stamina, and won by three yards. He was all in. Campbell was about the same distance ahead of Gray. Ashford, Hill and Simmons finished in the order named.

The time made by Scott is the best yet made. Adams, of Hamilton, two years ago would have equalled it, per haps, but was held up by a train. However, Scott ran a cleverly timed race, and deserves much credit. He will be heard from later. Mr. Thomas Shaw, the president, and Dr. A. J. Wyckoff, the secretary, had the arrangements in hand, and everything worked smoothly. There was a very large crowd present and all enjoyed the contest. The judges were Mayor Beattie, ex-Mayor S. Stevely, Ald. J. H. Saunders, Inspector Edwards and J. H. Fowler. Messrs. Simmons and Nash

Durable Dane Fought Fifteen Round Draw With La Grove Last Night

But Was Unable to Land a Knock out Blow-Opponent a Little Nervous at Start.

[By Associated Press.] Francisco, Nov. 1.—Battling in a fifteen-round draw with Velson Anton LaGrave here last night, proved himself unable to come back. He displayed his old-time boring tactics, and kept after LaGrave from the start, but was not quite good enough. Several times the Dane had the local boy worried, but he could not gather the force to send home a knockout pinch.

LaGrave was nervous at first. For three or four rounds it looked as though the old champion was going to have an easy time of it. Driving in straight lefts, varied now and York State, on his own alleys, and he hadn't been defeated for eleven years. around the ring. Nelson Wild.

After three or four rounds of this, LaGrave steaded down and fought back. LONDON GIRLS MEMBERS

Misses Maud and Betty Martin Are Sisters of the Famous Jockey.

Miss Maud Martin and Miss Betty Martin, two members of the cast of "The Arcadians," are well known to many Londoners, and in fact might even claim this city as their home, Their mother was Miss Mary Storen, older residents of the city. Her brother, J. G. Storen, kept a large grocery on

Richmond street years ago. The young ladies are sisters of the great American jockey, J. H. Martin, therwise known as "Skeets." The latter is in England at the present time, where he has been most sucessful, his salary averaging about $25,000 a year. It will be remembered that he had the mount on Sir Martin, the heavily-played American horse in the Derby won by the late King Edward's horse, Minoru. Sir Martin fell when in a good position, losing the race, and inflicting rather serious injuries on "Skeets." The Misses Martin are extremely proud of their brother, and follow his career with deep interest. They can both discuss English turf matters most intelligently. Miss Maud Martin the elder, is an expert horsewoman, and has ridden to hounds both in England and the States.

The Martin home is at present in Belmont Park, N. Y. Oct. 31.—John ada, and in case she does she will make her home in London, her girlhood home.

"We are very proud of our brother," said Miss Maud Martin to The Advertiser. "He is considered one of the turn for the $10,000 offered by Thos.
F. Ryan. In one of the most thrilling races in the history of aviation, Moisthe best there. He has been a good Lesseps, the Frenchman, and Claude boy, fond of his home, and of a quiet, Grahame-White, the British winner of retiring disposition. That the real musical comedies come from England is a truism which was given added force yesterday when "The Arcadians," one of the latoffered. The Aero Club distance event est of these charming offerings presented in America, was given two performances at the Grand Opera House. Scores were turned away.

In the first place, "The Arcadians' are different from the ordinary American offering. The attraction is not a collection of topical songs, and girls in tights thrown together without rhyme and $1,000 more if he breaks the or reason; nor is it a travelling vaudeville performance. There is a connected story, replete with poetry and fancy, and some music that is worthy of the name. There is a subtlety and haunting quality about it that re-mains with one long after the jingling sengs of commonplace comic operas has years since been forgotten.

It was a delight to get away from the omnipresent fleshings and see a skirted chorus, which could sing and dance gracefully.

The story is based on the classics. In Greece there was a land known as Arcadia, where the people lived a simple, pastoral life, and where all lying and guile was unknown. James Smith, of London, England, went on balloon trip, and landed in Arcadia. He makes himself right at home, but s caught in a lie, and is immediately thrown into the well of truth. From this he emerges a changed man. At the behest of Father Time, he and Smith, or Simplicitas, as he is called after his change, finds the task beyond The Arcadian maidens, too, find the environment not to their liking and they go back to Arcadia. The first scene is laid in Arcadia, the second in the "Askwood" race track, near London, where Simplicitas is returned to England, and the third in a restaurant in London, which Simplic-itas has furnished on Arcadian prin-

Farmers Are Taking Advantage

There was an unusually large amount of hay and oats on the market this morning, and the demand was very brisk.

In all there were about 30 loads of hay on the square, and the price ranged from $11 to $12 per ton. It is likely that before long hay will grow dearer. The good roads are also an incentive to the farmers to come to the market, and if the fine weather continues the markets all this week should be large.

Dressed hogs were very much in evidence. The present price is rather high, and the farmers are taking advantage of the farmers are taking advantage of the farmingly bearish foreign crop and statistical conditions on flour opening, follows:

dence. The present price is rather high, and the farmers are taking advantage of it. This morning's price was from $10 to $11 per cwt, and there was a good demand at these prices.

Vegetables were a little scarce, with the exception of potatoes. There were several loads of these this morning, but the prices are unchanged.

Oats are getting cheaper, and the price now is $1 to $1 05 per cwt. There were 20 loads on the market this morning, and the demand was unusually heavy. All the loads were sold before 11 o'clock.

Saturday's prices prevail in butter, eggs and poultry, and it is probable there will be no change this week.

Fruit prices are unchanged.
