Deplores Confusion of Ideas Into Which World Has Fallen.

Four-Square Army.

Likening the lives of men to a great four-square army, Dr. Stone said, "Christianity must be something in which we live, move and squared out, spiritually, mentally, norally and physically, for God.

"The great tendency of the time in which we live, when reading and thought are both so free, is to let ethics and philosophy take the place of Christianity in our lives." Deploring the confusion of ideas nto which the world has fallen, Dr. Stone declared: "The standard has been taken by Great Britain, and all the nations of the earth should stand shoulder to shoulder with her to save the world from bitterness and strife." Couldn't Be Complete.

During the entire course of his sermon, Dr. Stone carried emphasis on the idea that man's life could not be complete unless it were four-square. He proclaimed the fact that the world was swiftly returning to a demand of moral character, to a time when the boards of trustees of our schools and colleges should demand distant, heavy shipments of fragile from their professors, not only a articles through the mails has al- high standard mentally but a clean

One Poor Rumor.

THE rumor emanated from some place-we do not know where -that Hon. W. C. Kennedy, who was confined to a hospital in Montreal for some weeks, was going to resign.

When the rumor was brought to the attention of the premier it received the flat contradiction that it

Hon. W. C. KENNEDY is today on the road to recovery, and if things go well the country will again have his services in the carrying on of the transportation system which this country owns.

It is small courtesy to put in circulation rumors that a man is going to resign when he is on a sick bed.

The country can afford to wait for his recovery, for he has the mental equipment and a grasp of the situation that form a most valuable asset to the Dominion.

The premier did good service in giving an unqualified denial to the rumor, and also in expressing his indignation at the idea that such a rumor should be started.

One Wild Night.

W HERE October runs out to meet the oncoming November is that peculiar day known as Halloween. There are many stories and explanations as to why the day -or rather the night—happened to paper would publish them. They be. Very little happens on that day day, but certainly many strange and not fit to enter the homes of this disthat could not happen on any other horrible things have happened in the trict. Therefore they had no place night that surely could not happen on any other night in the year. And of these things little is heard. Men now grown to full years could tell many strange things, but of the harrowing details they cannot speak freely, but only in whispers. Halloween is not the wild night it used to be. Any boy who was brought up on an Ontario farm or in an Ontario village or small town knows full well that there was next thing to no limit at all to the things that used to be done on this parlicular evening. The law of gravity used to be defied and observed in its entirety. Certain buildings that never grace the street line used to fall during the night; whole wagons used to manage to climb up on the roof of dustrial areas. the barns, and it is also on record that a plow has been known to walk ap its place on top of the chimney. Rail fences used to turn from their accustomed resting-places and find their way across the road.

In the villages, gates simply would not stay on their hinges, signs of all sorts just jumped off their proper abode, and in the morning the dressmaker's shingle would not have returned from paying a visit to the dentist's house; likewise would the lawyer's wooden announcement be nailed securely to the place where the whiskers of the village were mowed regularly once a week.

Surely 'twas strange how such things could have been. Then, too, the stray cabbage that had not been gathered in for the winter simply had to take its chance. It was very apt to jump right out of the ground and fly against the front door of the house, and the odd pumpkin that had the nerve to remain out of doors until the last of October-well, it was almost a foregone conclusion that it would be balanced on a board against a front door, ready to roll in when the door opened, and if it were a poor old infirm pumpkin, with mortification already setting in, well, it was just a little more apt to go on such an errand.

Then the lesser tribe that used the tick-tack and the pea-shooter, and who imagined they would throw the neighborhood into fits by appearing in a false face, had their innings about the time the crumbs were being brushed from the supper table. A sniff of the night air on Halloween seemed to make tame boys into bold men, and demure little girls into wild women.

But things change, and now the dynamics have largely disappeared, and people are content with parties where they duck for apples or stick fingers into various dishes to find dollars? race is degenerating, and it will also rob the present generation of the chance to tell their children of the wild things they did when they were young.

very long since I visited your cosy corner before, but I have a little favor that I want to ask for before I get done, so I thought another few lines would sort of renew acquaintances again. Well, it is beginning to look like fall, and ere long winter will be with us again. I do not like the winter any more, and with coal so scarce and high priced, I am afraid there will be a good many like myself, looking for those nice spring days long before it is near time for them. I don't know if September breezes, but at any rate she blew my letter aside at the time she was offering those number sixes. I asked her to from her. as I haven't written for so long. I guess I had better get busy and write. I have read the Mail-Box every day, and I couldn't keep still any longer. I am sorry to see so many in need, and wish I could help them. I have a pair of black velvet shoes, size 5, that anyone can have by writing to me. I can forward them. I saw in the paper where Johnquill suggested that each Boxite send as much money as she is old for Thanksgiving, and you said you would keep the money and publish the various amounts. Now I think that would be nice, so will start it today by sending in mine. I am 22 years old, so I will send 22 cents. Remember, this is My letter is long, but you may censor it as you please.

I want to tell you of a novel recipe book I saw the other day. It was made of brown linen leaves but about 18 inches long and 12 or 14 wide. Several of these were fastened through the middle, the edges blanket-stitched in red. Then recipes were pasted in. Of course this would not take the place of the one Calamity Ann suggests, but as a gift it is unique.

TIP RETURNS.

Dear Miss Grey,-I am just going to drop in a few minutes with my mite. I think it is a very good plan to raise money, and with so many Boxites, you should get a nice sum. I would have liked to have done something to help along with the fund this summer, but I have been very busy. I think it would have been if the recipe book had been finished, as it would be something worth having, it would also raise a nice bit of money for the S. C. H. I often wished I was able to undertake the work of it, but wishing isn't doing, is it? I hope you good success with the Thanksgiving plan.

You are getting to have quite large family now, aren't you? It will keep you busy keeping track of them all. I always like to read the letters, whether I am shie to read any of the rest of the paper or not. Surely a lot of the old ones will make their appearance from now till Thanksgiving. It will be interesting to hear from them all again if they write. Here's wishing the Mail-Box every success. I remain as ever

Welcome back to the Mail-Box Tip. I was afraid you had forgotten all about me. The recipe book idea has not been dropped, Tip, and very time for the entire world is suggested by F. H. Schnell, traffic manager of the American Radio Relay League. The purpose of this would be to simplify the recording of radio messages between distant parts of the earth and avoid confusion and error made possible by the present meridian time system. Greenwich Mean Time is the standard which Schnell would have adopted universally. It divides the 360 degrees of the rotation of the earth into 24 periods, or hours.

"Starting at Greenwich, England," explains Schnell, "which is reckoned as 0 degrees, and moving westward, for every 15 degrees longtitude the time is reckoned as one hour west of Greenwich. Thirty degrees is two hours west, 45 degrees three hours west and so on." Esay Figuring.

With this as the only standard, it vould be easy to calculate the time for universal purposes from the local time. The various standard and daylight saving times in the United States would be unnecessary and, in fact, cumbersome for universal cal-

"More important is the adoption of a standard time of international recognition as we approach international amateur radio communication with European amateurs" says civilized country. "In keeping a record of messages,

An Electric Bulb with an abnormally fine spun tungsten filament will give brilliant light on a small amount of power, but the overwrought filament will soon break. Its low power consumption saves pennies, but the saving is eaten up by the heavy cost of lamp renewals. That sort of lamp is usually made by the big American corporations for use in U. S. cities, where domestic electric rates are many times higher than in London. But that lamp in London is a bad investment

On the other extreme is the heavy filament lamp, that has long life, but that gobbles up electricity as greedily as the old-fashioned carbon lamps. The saving on lamp renewals cannot compensate for the waste of electricity, even in London, where electricity is cheap.

Hydro Quality Lamps are scientifically designed, not for promiscuous use in New York, Yokahoma or Denver, but to give the highest efficiency and the greatest economy on the Hydro-Electric Power System of Ontario. The filament, made from the specifications of the Hydro Laboratories, is light enough to give brilliant illumination on a minimum power consumption, but heavy enough to make good a 1,500-HOUR

HAMILTON, Oct. 28.—Parkdale Canon Club today took a firm hold on the championship of the Senior O. R. F. U., when they defeated the Hamilton Rowing Club here by a score of 16 to 1.

It was a great disappointment for the carsmen who had fond hopes of defeating the paddlers and thereby tieing for first place. The local back division held fairly well in spite of the splendid work of Munro, who did most of the kicking for Parkdale, but on the line the visitors had a decided advantage for a greater part of the game and were a greater part of the game and were able to make their yards on almost able to make their yards on almost every occasion.

ST. BRIGIOS WIN.
OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—St. Brigids of Ottawa emerged from an Ontario Rugby Football Union fixture here on Saturday afternoon, defeating Varsity II.'s by the score of 14 to 10 after sixty minutes of grotesquely weird play. And yet, like all contests where misplays outnumber the really clever manoeuvres the game created a wealth of enthusiasm in the 4,000 spectators that has not been manifest in any of the previous football struggles of the present season. Rheaume's recovery of Mac-Pherson's kick into the scrimmage in the dying moments of play and his spectacular sprint for sixty yards for a touchdown with a flying squad of students at his heels provoked an outburst of cheering and applause. That the game provided an upset in all form predictions is admitted even by the staunchest of the Irish supporters. The green and white took the field in perfect condition, however, and were playing ust as strongly at the finish as when the Initial whistle blew.

Three Runs in Eighth Sink Morale of Irishmen.

GALT, Oct. 28.—The final game of the 1922 baseball season was staged here this afternoon when the Lucan Irish and Peterboro Canadian General Electric nines met in a sudden death game to decide the intermediate O. B. A. A. championship, both teams having won their home games in the playoff. The weather was ideal, the sun shining brightly, with a crowd of about 2,000 at Dickson Park. A special train arrived here at noon with about 150 supporters of the Lucan team. Jimmie Cockman of Guelph, was the umpire on the bases, and O. Jeffrey of Galt at the plate. The teams lined up as follows:

INGERSOLL HOCKEY FOR

INGERSOLL. Oct. 29.—The course that will be followed here in connection with hockey for the coming season is still in doubt. It had been expected by some of the supporters that a meeting would have been held before this. But up to the present no action has apparently been taken. From what can be ascertained junior hockey will likely receive first consideration. It is understood that the ranks of the intermediates have been broken, some having left town, while others have decided to hang up their sticks. Ingersol has had a long and honorable representation in the O. H. A. and no efforts will likely be spared to revive interest.

THE GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY

HOLDING CONSOLIDATED GOLD MINES, LIMITED

(No Personal Liability). Chartered under the laws of Ontario.

An advance offering of shares at a ground floor price in a property that gives every promise of developing into one of the world's richest Gold producers.

Because --- Geological conditions on these properties are identical with Hollinger. From all reports obtainable, the surface showings of ore are bigger and richer than Hollinger, its veins are larger and values higher than Hollinger, its ore is of similar character to that of Hollinger and its showings are believed to be better than Hollinger's were at a similar stage of development.

DOES SUCH A PROPERTY INTEREST YOU?

Read the particulars—Then act—You should agree that this mine is one in a thousand.

Richness Is Collosal

Equal to if not the superior of the richest properties that have ever been opened in Ontario's rich north country would perhaps be the best and most accurate description that could be given the Holding properties. That is our opinion.

Many tests have been made of these properties, in the shaft, and in no instance that we know of have the values been below $186 per ton across a twelve-foot face. In one instance, an average assay taken showed values of $433 to the ton, while in others the values have run from

In addition, large quantities of ore have been removed that showed ribbons of pure gold, assaying from a thousand dollars to seventy thousand dollars per ton.

The estimated cost of mining and milling these ores is less than $6.00 per ton, so that all values above this cost should be net profits.

Operations Now Being Rushed

Much material in the way of supplies, horses, etc., has been shipped to the property recently and operations are being pushed to the limit.

A 6-drill compresser plant is at the property and will be installed as soon as possible. Carloads of machinery and supplies are being purchased for immediate shipment.

A shaft is being sunk to cut the big Holding vein at about 200 feet. At this point, it is planned that work shall go forward night and day.

It is also planned that in this shaft a station will be cut at 100 feet and a cross-cut run from the shaft to cut the vein where it is estimated it appears twenty-five or thirty feet away. When this vein is reached in this fashion, some exceptionally rich ore may be expected. Of this, any and all ore running above $50.00 to the ton, will be shipped to the government smelter at Cobalt, while the lower grade ores will be saved for treatment in the mill which is to be built at the earliest possible date.

Rich Ore Opened Up

Our own engineers estimate that there is now 12 feet of ore opened for 85 feet on the surface and 42 feet deep that will average better than $100.00 per ton. They advise sinking a shaft 200 feet drifting on the vein 85 feet and upraising, that there will then be exposed 16,000 tons of ore that it is believed will average fully $100.00 per ton, or $1,600.000.00, at a

This vein is exposed at points on the surface by outcroppings for a distance of about 1,700 feet and undoubtedly will be found much longer when opened up. Many other large strong veins are also exposed by surface outcroppings on the other parts of the properties which carry values right on the surface from traces to $140.00 per ton. All of these veins will now be fully explored, and it is thought that these consolidated properties offer possibilities for the development of another Hollinger, which is now recognized as the biggest quartz mine in the world, having estimated ore reserves to the 3,000-foot level amounting to $450,000,000,000. This amount is staggering when we stop to think that the famous Comstock Lode of Nevada was estimated to have produced some $600,000,000.00 in fifty (50) years from some eight to twelve mines, while the Hollinger is a single property now producing nearly $1,000,000.00 per month with ore in reserve to run for twenty-five (25) years without developing another ounce.

This Initial Offer to You-

Briefly, the excerpts from mining engineers' reports, tell in their own clear way of the great richness of the properties of the Holding Consolidated. One engineer becomes so enthusiastic over the outlook for the properties that he comes very close to saying:

"THESE PROPERTIES WILL MAKE A SECOND HOLLINGER."

Although such a claim might sound very far-fetched at this time to those knowing the north country intimately, prospectors and miners alike who are well acquainted with Ontario's metal camps, look to the Holding properties to do big things.

Many believe that not only will the Holding properties develop

A Mine of Tremendous Proportions and productivity

but they believe it stands a good chance of opening up a camp in the West Shining Tree Gold Area that will be the equal, if not the absolute and undisputed superior, of the rich Porcupine.

One very important feature of this vein is in the fact that the central portion of the fracture zone is more highly sheared and laminated. This feature comes from what may be called a secondary shearing and fracture of the original vein filling. It is in this secondary shearing that we find the high values in gold and which points to the most important fact that this secondary shearing has allowed a secondary enrichment at a subsequent period to the formation of the original vein. This shearing and schisting of the quartz leads me to believe that the vein will have permanence at depth, and that it will extend to greater length than uncovered at present as the evidence is plain that considerable movement has taken place.—From the Report of W. W. Stull, E. M.

We expect to be shipping high grade ore in car lots by December—This should bring quick dividends.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—In response to an unexpected advance in prices at Liverpool, the wheat market here scored a moderate upturn today during the early dealings. July deliveries, however, were inclined to lag owing to reports of rain in Kansas and Nebraska, where drought has been a serius handicap to the winter crop. The volume of trading was fair. Opening quotations, which ranged from lac off to 3c up, were followed by gains all around and then something of a reaction.

Prospects of enlarged receipts made corn and oats relatively weak. After opening lac to 3c higher, the corn and oats relatively weak. After opening lac to 3c higher, the corn and oats relatively weak as illustrating or confirming Scripture and deepest spiritual conviction trying to bring about unity if possible.

How Accomplished?

How Accomplished?

How this was to be brought about was the question of questions. There should be no priesthood other than the royal priesthood which belongs to all believers as set forth in the New Testament. The history of the early Christian centuries may have a value as illustrating or confirming Scripture, but as essential to union in Christ, no teaching outside of the divided church; that there is an illustrating or confirming Scripture, but as essential to union in Christ, no teaching outside of the Life and Character Reading. OCTOBER 30. These people are apt to espouse a cause too readily, and often get into trouble through their enthusiasm, which seems never to diminish from the cradle to the grave. They are impatient of methods and despites processing. despise necessary routine. When angered, which is seldom, they leave nothing unsaid, and the effect is like a cyclone which leaves the air disturbed for days later.

The governing sign of this date is the cusp of Libra-Scorpio, and the governing planet is Venus, the goddess of love.

These people should labor to overcome the habit of exaggeration, which, from an over-enthusiasm is very marked in this sign.

The birthstone is a diamond or opal, though an opal is to be preferred.

Indians Who Threatened to Take Point Pelee Depart From District

ORDERS were received Saturday by Sergt. A. Birtwhistle, who is in charge of the detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Ford, Ont., that further patroling of Point Pelee, near Leamington, Ont., would not be necessary. The orders came following a report made to headquarters of the police at Ottawa by Sergt. Birtwhistle that the Indians had left Point Pelee for Alvinston, Ont., during the week. About 30 Indians, led by Archie Dodge, went to Point Pelee from the Indian reservation at Walpole Island in June and demande return of the land which they claimed the government had taken

HAROLD GAGNIER DIES IN TORONTO

Limited, Fails To Rally From Operation.

TORONTO, Oct. 28 .- Harold Gagnier, widely known as the head of the Consolidated Press, Limited, which publishes Saturday Night and several trade and general journals, died today at the Wellesley Hospital. Death came as a result of his inability to rally from an operation which had been performed on Saturday in an effort to correct a chest and rib condition from which he had been suffering since January last. He was about 50 years of age.

Mr. Gagnier at the time of his death was one of the outstanding figures in the Canadian publishers' world.
