School-Good Plan and Decoration.

The new Sabbath school building in connection with the First Presbyterian Church is now beginning to look more like completion. Another month will make a big hole in what remains to be done. The work has been well designed and looked after by Mr. H. C. Mc-Bride, the architect, and attention is now being directed to the interior decoration, seating, furnishing of the platform, and the like. The decoration is being directed, as well as paid for, by the Ladies' Aid Society, who in turn have delegated it to a small but capable committee of their number. Pairing Refused. The Ontario Opposition has decided to abolish the pairing custom for the it last session, but after a two weeks' trial, returned to it gladly. There are many ways in which each party can convenience the other, and, per contra, each can inconvenience the other if it! is so disposed. If the Opposition chooses to break off all courtesies, the Ministerialists will have plenty of opportunity to repay it in kind. The game is one that two can play at. The offender, who was only ten years of age, of five years, has been under the sudren's Aid Society for the past two years, and on more than one occasion has been in the police court. His offenses were varied in character, and included the most serious charge of placing an obstruction on the C. P. R. tracks and derailing a freight train.

When brought for trial on that charge he was proved guilty, but it was questionable if he was amenable to the law under section 10 of the criminal code, which provides that when of the age of 7 and under 14 years of age, no perless he or she is competent to know the nature of the consequences, and can appreciate that it was wrong. Mr. Tucker, of Napanee, Has His Companion Arrested.

A case of circumstantial evidence was before Magistrate Love this morning at the Carling street court, when Frank Chaplain, of Chatham, was tried for stealing. The complainant was a man named Tucker, who gave his present address as Napanee, and his home as the Bermudas. When he awoke this morning he reported the loss of his money and was summone to court to tell what his relations were with the prisoner, who had been rested the night before. Tucker's recollections were of coming from Port Stanley, where he had been visiting, to London, and of meet-ing Chaplin on the train. He could not remember whether he had got off at St. Thomas or not and could not re-member whether he and his companion were in any place before they called at the Tecumseh House at a late hour in the night. All he knew was that when he left Port Stanley he had between $25 and $29, and when he got up in the morning he had but $4. The crown also produced two of the bellboys at the Tecumseh House, who testified to seeing the loser take out some money in his hand and drop a bill. The prisoner picked it up, though what he did with it they did not know.

The prisoner had also objected to Tucker being taken to bed.
Chaplin told his side of the story, which was that he had left Chatham with the intention of coming to Lon don to look for work. He was 25 years of age, and married. He had sone to Thomas to see a friend and at th

St. Thomas station had been asked by some men he knew, but whose names he did not know, to take care of Tucker, who was evidently "tuckered out." He had done so, and when he got here had gone to the Dominion House, where a bottle of whisky was procured by the complainant, and then they had gone to the Tecumseh. The bellboys' story he denied, saying that he had gone along the hall and found Tucker had temporarily disappared.

The acting crown attorney severely cross-questioned the prisoner as to his reasons for leaving Chatham, and as to his subsequent actions, but the pris oner claimed he was entirely innocent In addition to the witnesses mention ed above, Mr. George Black also gav estimony, as to taking him into the station to see if Tucker's things were there, and of handing him over to the police. The general feeling was bullish, and traders operated almost exclusively on the long side. The first hour reflect-ed much energy; certain western interests were very open in their operations. Southern Pacific was especially active, and the Rock Island stocks were adanced in a way that made it very uncomfortable for any short interests that there may be in that quarter. One big operator is credited with the Southern Pacific movement. The speculative clique in Realty continues hard at work. The grangers and the Pacific stocks are talked of for higher prices. Copper sold off easily in the initial trading. Missouri Pacific was strong, but a reaction in that puarter is not impossible. The market looks good and is likely to continue during the afternoon. LOCAL MARKET.

London, Thursday, Jan. 21. The blocked condition of the roads leading to the city was no doubt the principal cause for the small attendance at the market this morning. All told, there were not adozen sleighs on the square at any one time. The supply of produce was, of course, very small.
Three loads, consisting of poultry and butter, were brought in from north of the snow is very deep in that section, and one of them remarked that they will have to come in a balloon on their next trip, if there was much more snow.

Dressed Hogs—There were about 50 carcases offered today, and sales were made at $7.25 to $7.50 per 100 pounds for light hogs; some heavy hogs of about 300 pounds were sold at $5 per 100 pounds.
