ENORMOUS EXPANSION.

THE VAST GRAIN FIELDS OF MANITOBA.

Nearly Four Million Acres Under Crop—Solving the Farm Help Problem—Crop Conditions Never Better.

Winnipeg, June 15.—The rapid expansion of western Canada is mirrored in the crop bulletin issued by the Department of Agriculture of Manitoba. It shows an immense increase in acreage, satisfactory growth of the farming industry and greater interest in mixed farming on the part of the western agriculturists. This year there are 3,757,173 acres under crop as compared with 2,039,040 last year; of this 2,442,873 acres are under wheat, as compared with 2,039,040 last year. 155,431 are under oats, as compared with 726,029; and 10,100 acres are devoted to corn, as compared with 10,000 in 1902. There are similar increases in all coarse grains with the exception of barley, which shows a decrease of 3,253 acres. This is accounted for by the fact that many farmers have gone largely into the growing of speltz. Expansion is shown in all districts of the Province. Increased population accounts for the increase in the western sections and increased acreage in the older. Last winter the farmers fattened 13,986 head of cattle and carried through 126,846 milch cows. Of the cattle about two-thirds were used for home consumption. The number of milch cows has been increased since the advent of spring, and indications point to a profitable dairying season and a large output of butter. Just about one-half as many extra male farm hands will be required to garner this season's harvest as last year, the reason being that farmers are profiting by the experience of other years, and have engaged help before it is really required; 5,158 extra men will satisfy the demand. Already 11,742 are employed. Female help is still greatly in demand; altogether it is estimated that 3,060 could be employed, and 3,153 are now wanted. Crops never looked better at this season of the year than now. Reports from correspondents in all sections of the Province are to the effect that grains were sown under favorable conditions and the weather since has been all that could be desired. From the time that farmers commenced spring work the seeding weather has prevailed. It was warm, but not too hot for work by men and teams. The result has been a perfect seed bed and work well done. The rains that commenced in the second week of May were general all over the Province, and reports of correspondents on crop prospects on June 1 are repeated many times in the brief expression, "Never better."

GREGORY'S SUICIDE.

Penitentiary Convict Who Assaulted Keeper Kenny. Kingston, June 15.—James Gregory, in the penitentiary for burglary, hanged himself in the solitary cell. He came from Port Arthur, and was the man who murderously assaulted Keeper Kenny, and was sent to the solitary cells to await his trial.

LARGE IRON COMPANY.

Three Millions Capital—Many New Corporations. Toronto, June 15.—The Loon Lake Iron Company has been incorporated with an authorized capital of $3,000,000, and head office at Sault Ste. Marie. Michigan capital is evidently behind this new Ontario enterprise, the provisional directors being: J. F. Carey, Escanaba, Mich., attorney at law; Geo. Wayne, Marquette, Mich., explorer; S. Martin, Patrick J. Hart and J. L. O'Flynn of Sault Ste. Marie. Other new companies are as follows: King Edward Mine, Ltd., Bruce Mines, $200,000 capital; J. M. Wilson Cordage Co., Chatham, $55,000. Imperial and General Agencies, Ltd., Toronto, $50,000. Clouston Oil & Gas Co., Chatham, $100,000. Grundy Stove Co., Guelph, $40,000. Barrie Carriage Co., Barrie, $40,000. Jarvis Concrete Machines, Ltd., Toronto, $40,000. Delta Upsilon Chapter House, Ltd., Toronto, $15,000; R. V. Young, Le Sueur, Geo. W. Ballard, H. H. Dew and S. P. Biggs provisional directors.

An order in Council has been passed changing the name of the Canada and Dakota Cattle Company to that of the Bar X Cattle Company.

BLAZE AT DUNDAS.

Mayor and Several Others Injured—Loss Will Be Heavy.

Hamilton, June 15.—Mayor Lawson and several other residents of Dundas were hurt at a fire in the valley town Saturday morning. The fire was at the Ontario Felt Company's factory, and the loss amounted to several thousand dollars. The Mayor's leg was broken, and Mr. Frank Emory was badly cut in the head. The injured men were in the top story of the burning building when a section of the roof fell and injured them.

24TH AT CHURCH

The soldiers of the 24th Kent Regiment paraded to Christ Church yesterday morning. There was a good turnout, and Colonel Rankin complimented the men on the order they maintained in the church.

There was, as usual, a good turnout of citizens to witness the parade both before and after church. The 24th Regiment Band played the soldiers to the church and the Bugle Band played during the return march. Rev. Cooper Robinson, a returned missionary from Japan, preached to the soldiers. He preached on "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel." He made a very interesting address, dwelling for a short time on the troubles met with his work in Japan. He carried in his pocket and exhibited from the pulpit a small image which some of the Japanese worshipped. The image was called the god of wealth. Here he brought out a good point. Many people in this land who are supposed to be Christians are, although they possibly have never got the image itself, devout worshippers of this god.

Mr. Robinson was not preaching for more money, but for more men to preach the gospel.

Mr. Robinson is a former Chathamite and ex-member of the 24th Battalion. He has now been a missionary for 15 years. He spoke very earnestly to the soldiers.

"The first time I left Chatham for camp," said he, "my father was at the station to see me off. I shall never forget his parting words to me that day. Just as I was about leaving he took me by the hand and said, 'My son, remember whose uniform you are wearing.' Those words have helped me in my life as a minister of the gospel."

Rev. Rural Dean McCosh, who assisted in the service, welcomed the soldiers to the church and invited them to worship there again.

HAVE THEIR CHARTER

The M. J. Wilson Cordage Co. have received their charter. The following are the officers of the company: President—Lawrence M. Baldwin, New York.

Vice-President—George McGarvin, Chatham.

Manager—M. J. Wilson.

Board of Directors—M. J. Wilson and Geo. McGarvin, Chatham; Lawrence Baldwin, Richard Cochran and Thos. Wilson, New York.

The factory is now running full blast and the company has experienced no difficulty in getting all the raw material they needed. They now have orders for as much twine as they can make in months. The first large shipment has already been purchased by a Detroit firm.

MANY REFUGEES.

HUNDREDS OF TERROR-STRICKEN BULGARIANS.

Cross the Frontier From Macedonia to Escape the Turkish Soldiers and Bashi-Bazouks.

Sofia, June 15.—Fully 1,500 Bulgarian refugees arrived in the Burgas district yesterday from Pirogu, Kuli, Kovatchaz and neighboring villages. They report that a reign of terror exists in the vilayet of Adrianople. Turkish regulars and Bashi-Bazouks are said to be pillaging the whole region, under the pretext of searching for arms, and are arresting and maltreating the dwellers in the countryside. The panic-stricken people are fleeing in a body, men, women and children taking with them their carts, cattle and all their movable possessions. The refugees say the population of whole villages farther from the frontier are following in their wake.

DENOMINATIONAL COLLEGE.

The General Assembly Favors Retention of Queen's.

Vancouver, June 15.—At the General Assembly the report of the committee on Queen's University was presented by Professor Murray, as follows:—(a) That the Assembly deprecates the severance of the connection between Queen's and the Presbyterian Church, recommends and will actively promote a movement securing adequate increase in the endowment of the university if it be decided to continue the existing connection, and the Moderator be instructed to appoint a commission with Assembly powers to confer with the Trustee Board of the university, and adopt the proper means to secure the necessary financial aid for the support of the university, with the understanding that should it be found advisable the Church retain the university, with a guarantee of adequate maintenance. The commission shall refer the question to three central Synods at their final action. (b) The question of the consolidation of theological colleges embodied in the resolution of Hon. Mr. Charlton is deferred, pending the settlement of Queen's relation to the Church. The report was adopted by a large vote.

JAMES ROSS KILLED.

A Dunwich Farmer Struck by a Train at a Crossing.

St. Thomas, June 15.—James Ross, farmer, Middle street, Dunwich, was struck by a Michigan Central express train at West Lorne, about 8 o'clock on Friday night, and instantly killed. Coroner Dr. Dorland was notified, but considered an inquest unnecessary.

POWERS WILL BE NEUTRAL.

SERVIANS WILL SETTLE INTERNAL AFFAIRS.

Mr. Todorovitch Has Succumbed to His Wounds—Further Stories Regarding Murder of the King and Queen.

Vienna, June 15.—A despatch from Belgrade says M. Kaljevitich, the Serbian Minister of Foreign Affairs, in an interview, said that Great Britain, France and Austria had informed the Serbian agents at their respective capitals that they saw no reason why the powers should intervene in affairs in Serbia, provided public order was maintained. Count Golitschewski, the Austrian Minister of Foreign Affairs, made a reservation however, in regard to the attitude of his country in case any other than a Karageorgewitch should be elected King.

Belgrade, June 15.—In an interview M. Stojan Protitch, the Minister of the Interior under the provisional government, said nobody would be prosecuted or punished for the assassination of the King and Queen and Ministers. Queen Draga's sisters, it is stated, will inherit any money she had invested abroad.

King Charles of Roumania, who was the honorary Colonel of the Serbian regiment which perpetrated the assassination, has severed his connection with that organization.

M. Todorovitch, the former Minister of the Interior, who was wounded during the massacre, is dead.

The latest information as to the extent of the casualties during the uprising is that fifty-five persons were killed or wounded.

The draft of a bill has been discovered in the royal archives providing for the proclamation of Queen Draga's brother as heir to the throne. This, it is asserted, is a complete justification for the murders.

Lieut.-Col. Milislav Zivanovitch of the general staff shot and killed himself on Friday. It is understood that he took his life because among the late King's papers was found a letter from Zivanovitch informing the King of the plot against his life. The newspapers, however, attempt to make out the suicide to be the result of money troubles.

The report of the autopsy upon King Alexander's body says, according to advices to the International Correspondence, that the King's brain was abnormal, the membranes thickened and evenly developed as in a certain type of idiots. The backbone was not straight and showed a knotty formation in three places.

The Associated Press is informed that the official story of the massacre at the palace will, in part, be as follows:—The King fell upon his knees and begged for life, offering to yield to every demand, to sign any document, to agree to leave the country or to send Queen Draga away—anything, everything, if only they would not kill him. The officers answered roughly, "It is too late," and fired at him. The Queen also fell on her knees and asked pardon for her conduct, but one of the officers called her a degrading epithet and told her she had been Queen long enough. Another of the conspirators, after submitting the Queen to gross indignities, slashed her with his sword and the other officers fired at her. The King was also slashed with sabres. The conspirators then dragged the King and the Queen into the front apartment and threw them over the balcony upon the lawn in front of the palace, which is separated from the street by a big open iron fence. The King and the Queen lived between one and two hours afterward.

London, June 15.—The Geneva correspondent of The Daily Express asserts that Prince Peter Karageorgewitch in an interview declared emphatically that the nation ought to avenge the crime of the assassination of the King and Queen of Serbia. "A King," he said, "who could receive a crown from the hands of assassins would be their accomplice."

Asked if he would punish the assassins, he replied: "I have no powers. To the question: 'But when you are King?' Prince Peter gave answer: 'That may never be.'"

A YANKEE REPORT

The Chatham Oil Co. is in great glee over the four wells down, which are named Stevens' Strike, Hall's Choice, Witherspoon's Luck and O'Keefe's Pride. The four are considered good, but the last struck, O'Keefe's Pride, is thought to be the best well ever struck in Canada. This well has been pumping day and night for two weeks, and now pumps about sixty barrels a day. The others are from five to twenty-barrel wells. The company is composed of fifteen Chatham business men and Dr. O'Keefe, of Mt. Clemens. There is no stock for sale in this company, and it is claimed, a dividend of fifteen per cent will be paid June 30 after one month's work, besides paying for a number of new wells that are being put down with all speed.—Detroit Free Press.

It is needless to say that this report is very much overdrawn.

An Old St. Mary's Resident Called.

Detroit, June 13.—The death of Mrs. Sarah Quast, widow of Robert Guest of St. Mary's, Ont., occurred this morning at her residence, Pine street. She was 72 years old. Her remains will be taken to St. Mary's for interment.

RECKLESS OF POLITICAL OPINION.

There is much that is pathetic in the spectacle of Hon. G. W. Ross, stimulated by no higher motive than the greed for office, fighting desperately and unscrupulously for the retention of his grip on the treasury. No consideration of principle or honor, no sensitiveness to contemporary public opinion or the verdict of posterity seem to stand in the way of the reckless determination to hold the treasury benches at any cost.

Does anybody believe for a moment, that after the exposures and occurrences of the past ten weeks Ross and his supporters could beg or buy themselves into power if the people of Ontario had an opportunity to pronounce upon the question after what has happened?

An honorable and self-respecting statesman, knowing that he had not the confidence of the province would at once resign and go to the country to stand or fall by the public verdict. Not so Mr. Ross. With the narrowest kind of majority which it is hoped to eke out by influencing the by-elections in ways not to be mentioned but only too familiar, unfortunately, in the past, he and his ministers defy investigation of their doings as far as they dare or are able, brazen out the exposures that have been made and, with the lease of political life stolen from the electorate last year, entrench themselves behind the sullen Tammany refuge—"What are you going to do about it?"

There was a time when Hon. G. W. Ross enjoyed at least the respect of a large proportion of the people of this province—that was before he was found out. For years he enjoyed the guileless confidence of the temperance people—an honor which he never intended to keep until even they were reluctantly obliged to admit that they had been tricked and deceived beyond endurance. Then the humiliating spectacle was presented of a Canadian statesman being practically expelled from the organization for deception and breach of faith. The name of Hon. G. W. Ross was expunged from the roll of officers of the Alliance, and the act was all the more eloquent because it was done quietly, without talk or explanation, and without a voice being raised on behalf of the man who had sat in their councils and taken part in their deliberations as they thought to forward the cause of temperance but, as ultimately appeared, solely to advance the political interests of G. W. Ross. Nothing could compensate an honorable public man for such a loss of respect for his good faith and integrity.

In connection with the Gagey-Stratton affair, it has been said all along by the newspapers on both sides of politics that in that case, no matter what the finding of the commission was, the people were the jury who would ultimately try the government. But having secured a remarkable deliverance from the judges on the case, does Hon. Mr. Ross propose to let the verdict of the people be heard? Not a bit of it. He flaunts the document as a technical acquittal of the many charges and refuses to risk himself before the jury until the expiration of the term of the legislature compels him to do so. Meantime he uses his small but servile majority to guard his ministers against further investigation and exposure with a reckless disregard for appearances that is born of the knowledge that he has nothing to hope for if he again goes to the country and he will take care, if humanly possible, to hold on to power and the treasury until the law forces him to go down to judgment, when it will be a case of all lost, including honor.—Ottawa Citizen.

A LIVE QUESTION.

Conservatives and Liberals may differ in their opinions of the report of the Gagey-Stratton commission, but on one point there is no doubt, that the commission has settled nothing, and that the charges are still the liveliest political question in Ontario, points out the Toronto World. The report of the judges is regarded exactly as the report of a Liberal majority of a committee would have been. The opinion of the judges has not carried with it one particle of judicial authority. Judicial authority itself has suffered, and may yet suffer still more seriously, through being dragged into the political melee.

The Government organs are trying to scold and lecture the adverse critics into silence, but it is all of no avail. The dissatisfied persons are not a few politicians and editors, but about one-half of the people of Ontario. If the question were still sub judice, at least one-half of the people would be found guilty of contempt of court, and the phrase is an ominous one. The confidence of the people in the judiciary

Economy

Is a strong point with Hood's Sarsaparilla. A bottle lasts longer and does more good than any other. It is the only medicine of which can truly be said 100 DOSES ONE DOLLAR.

has been seriously impaired. It may be that the refusal to accept the judgment is the result of partisan feeling, though we know that adverse criticism is by no means confined to Conservatives. But partisan feeling ought to have been anticipated by the Government, and if they had been wise they would not have dragged the judges into the controversy.

Moreover, if they had been wise, they would have endeavored to allay partisan feeling by consulting with the opposition, and giving them a voice in selecting the tribunal. When they found the opposition determined to oppose the judicial reference, they could have scored a point and shown confidence in their own case by yielding and allowing the matter to go to a committee of the Legislature. Had the committee found in favor of Stratton, the opposition would have been confronted with their strongly expressed preference for that mode of investigation. As it is, they are dealing with the report of a commission, forced upon them by the most tyrannical use of the power of the majority. Not only was the form of the investigation forced upon them, but the very names of the judges were published in the Government organ before the representatives of the people had had an opportunity to say a word.

Why these follies were committed, why the Government should have deliberately and needlessly aggravated the difficulties of the situation, it would be difficult to say. It may be that, with ministries, as with some men, old age brings on weakness and obstinacy at the same time, and that the desire to exercise authority increases as the power to exercise it wisely declines. At all events, the mischief has been done. Party spirit has been embittered by the very measure which, as the Globe assured us, would mitigate party spirit, and the report of the judges is shown no more consideration than a campaign document. It will be analyzed, criticized and attacked in every part of Ontario. Were the newspapers and the members of the Legislature to ignore this ferment of public opinion, they would simply be leading themselves to a policy of suppression, far more evil in its tendencies than free criticism of the bench. As the report is certain to be discussed by the people, it had better be discussed fully in the Legislature. As the attempt of the Government to shut off discussion has produced this muddle, free discussion may be the way out of it.

An Old Recipe.
Here is a recipe for the life of a mad dog taken from the "Universal Magazine of Knowledge," published by John Hinton at the King's Arms in Newgate street, London, May, 1753: "Take the youngest shoots of the elder tree, peel off the outside rind, then, scraping off the green rind, take two handfuls of it, which simmer a quarter of an hour in five pints of ale. Strain it off and when cold put it in bottles. Take half a pint, make warm the first thing in the morning and the last at night and be sure to keep yourself warm; also bathe the part affected with some of the liquor warmed, the dose to be repeated the next new or full moon after the first. It is good for cattle as well as the human species."

GLITTERING PRODUCTION

Ringling Brothers Present Jerusalem and The Crusades

Jerusalem and The Crusades is the subject of a magnificent spectacle produced by Ringling Brothers with their world famous shows this season. There are 1,200 people in the cast, a ballet of 300, and a singing chorus of 200. The music is original, and is rendered by a superb grand pipe organ, the only portable one ever made, and a selected band of fifty soloists. The scenic embellishment is gorgeous in the extreme, painted by the greatest American artists, and the 2,000 costumes worn by the vast company are of the finest texture and richest coloring, and the fashions of exquisite picture effects, and classical. The days of chivalry, "when knighthood was in flower," are reproduced with faithful portraiture of splendid men and women, and their exhilarating pastimes and enjoyments. The great stage is larger than a hundred theater stages combined, and the massive settings and historical properties require a special train for transportation. Never in the history of the circus has a spectacle been produced of the magnitude and splendor of this Ringling Brothers performance. All the phases of the middle ages are exemplified in thrilling action by dueling experts of skill and strength. Jousting tilts, sword combats, spear-throwing, acrobatic exploits, equestrian trials, riding accomplishments, and many other exciting sports of the chivalric age, are illustrated in whirling tourneys. The radiant costumes, and blazing jewels of royalty, its courtly dignities, and its equestrian splendor, the imperial purple and sparkling gems of ecclesiastical rank; the glitter and clatter of armored soldiery; the charm of dancing girls with garlands, singing maidens and devoted matrons; the shield and helmet emblazoned of mounted knights; the prismatic coloring of the swirling scenes, animated by ever going and differing throngs; the majestic music of a soul stirring grand organ, blending harmoniously with fifty solo instruments; all these brilliant features, and many more of fascinating importance, enthrall the senses of the spectator, and make this production the most magnificent and attractive ever offered the American public. The grand spectacle in honor of the departure of the Crusaders on their holy mission is a processional display in which are presented more interesting historical types, more beautiful costumes, more elaborate scenic decorations, more novel and enjoying features, and more men, women and children, and horses, than ever seen in a huge spectacle at any other time in the history of the world. The voluptuous amusement of the Egyptian court is depicted in a grand oriental ballet. This revealing scene is beyond the power of words to describe in its actual splendors and delights. The enormous stage is taxed to its utmost by the bewitching dancers, and the tremendous assemblage of variously dressed and enchanted Egyptians. For cost of production, originality, enormous number of people employed, and overwhelming success, this gorgeous spectacle rises superior to anything of similar effort ever spread before the human eye. In the grand street parade show day morning tableaux, bearing national types and characteristic scenes from all over the world, will be a novel and attractive feature. All the people with the great shows will participate in this free display of the wonders of the circus, and the costumes is the richest ever attempted. Forty elephants, 650 horses, 108 camels, 40 jolly clowns, 12 bands, 20 camels, 40 jolly clowns, troops of gaily accented soldiers, riders in Easter-like finery, children's chariots, fairyland pictures, aristocratic whips, and a multitude of other distinctive features will be illuminating factors in the largest and grandest circus pagesant ever organized.

Ringling Brothers will exhibit here Thursday, June 18, and give performances in the afternoon at 2 o'clock and evening at 8 o'clock. Reserved seats, numbered, and admission tickets will be sold at the Central Drug Store, King and Fifth streets, show day at the same prices charged in the ticket wagons on the show grounds.

HER FATAL OMISSION.

A Mother's Instructions to Her Loving Daughter.

The mother's suspicions were aroused, and that night when the young man left the house and the daughter came upstairs she interviewed her.

"Elizabeth," she said sternly, "didn't I hear Mr. Simpney kissing you in the drawing room as I came along the hall?"

"No, mamma; you didn't," responded the dear girl emphatically.

"Well, didn't he try to kiss you?" persisted the mother.

"Yes, mamma," demurely. The mother spoke triumphantly.

"I knew it," she said. "Did you permit him to do so?"

"No, mamma; I did not. I told him you had always impressed upon me that I should not permit any young man to kiss me."

"That was right—that was right, my dear," said the mother encouragingly. "And what did he say to that?"

"The girl blushed, but was undaunted. 'He asked me if you had ever told me I was not to kiss a young man.'"

"The mother began to realize that possibly she had omitted a vital link in the chain of her instructions.

"What did you tell him?" she asked nervously.

"I said, I didn't remember if you had."

The girl stopped, and the mother broke out urgently:

"Well, go on—go on!"

"I guess that's what you heard, mother." And the daughter waited for the storm to burst.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

It is well-known to all that bad blood is the direct cause of all skin diseases and it is necessary for the blood to be cleansed before the eruptions will disappear. For this purpose there is nothing so equal as Burdock Blood Bitters as the thousands of testimonials we have on hand will testify.

Mr. Willard Thompson, McNeill's Mills, P.E.I., writes us as follows: "I wish to state to you what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. Some time ago my blood got out of order and many boils appeared on my neck, legs and arms. They were so painful that I could not sleep at night. After having tried many different remedies without any success, I finally decided, as the advice of a friend, to use Burdock Blood Bitters. Before I had quite used two bottles the boils had completely disappeared, and I wish to emphasize the fact that I think Burdock Blood Bitters the best blood purifier on the market to-day."

WHEN BOYS WERE MEN

By JOHN HABBERTON,
Author of "Helen's Babies," "George Washington," Etc.
COPYRIGHT, 1901, BY JOHN HABBERTON

CHAPTER VII. IN THE ENEMY'S COUNTRY.

He rode into and through the town, out by the road on which we used to do picket duty as infantry, across the bridge which we had laid and relaid so many times, far out
to where we used to see the cavalry outpost's picket. We rode past the picket also. He was in the same place, as if he had been there ever since the Ninety-eighth went away. After that we began to eye each tree and fence for rebels, for we were not in the enemy's country?

Except for this feature of the ground we might as well have been anywhere that we pleased for anything that was of interest. The fields of yellow cornstalks looked so much alike that one might easily have been taken for another, and the bits of woodland between were as like as two fragments of a single forest. The negro cabins were all of logs, the farmhouses of wood, painted white, and there were not many of either. The road, like all other roads in the south and everywhere else in farming countries in the United States, was just about wide enough for two wagons to pass each other, so it allowed us to ride only four abreast.

Sometimes the road bent and suggested that there might be a change of view beyond, but there wasn't. There was absolutely no change of scenery that we could remember for the first 12 miles of our ride that day, so we really felt some pleasurable excitement when we halted at a railroad crossing and saw near by a station building, a freight depot, a tankhouse, a blacksmith shop and a store building, though our captain told us that all had been unoccupied for months.

We fed our horses with oats which we had taken with us on our saddlebags, with instructions as to just how much to give at a meal, and dined on hard tack from our haversacks and water from a brook. The long ride had given me such an appetite that I was sorry that I had not brought at least part of my ration of pork. It might pass for butter when a man was very hungry. I was somewhat comforted, however, to note that my horse, which was tied next to Mick McTwyne's at the log rail fence beside the road, had frightened Mick's horse and eaten that animal's oats before tasting its own.

Brainard and I met at lunch, and I had just asked him how he liked being a trooper, and he had expressed the hope that the Confederacy might feel as shaky on its legs as he, when we heard a shot or two in the distance. A sensation passed down the line, and we all started on foot to see what was the matter, but the captain ordered:
"To horse! Mount! Remember your fores! Forward!"

Looking out the road, we could see by the dust cloud that the other companies were in the saddle and moving forward. We rode about five minutes, hearing from time to time a few shots, but no bullets. Suddenly, however, across a field of wheat stubble came one of our men on horseback, making a great noise as he appeared to be trying to check his horse's gallop.

"A cavalryman ought to be able to manage his horse without so much fuss," said I, with some pride, for I had been taught to manage horses by the rein alone.

"The poor fellow is hurt," said the Lieutenant who commanded our platoon. "Seems to be his thigh. I guess his horse is hit too."

Down went my heart into my boots or up into my throat. I couldn't determine which. If this was war, I wanted it to stop at once. Just to imagine myself coming wounded and screaming across a field like that poor fellow made me feel deadly sick. I strained my eyes in the direction from which the wounded man had come, but saw nobody else. Meanwhile the surgeon had gone out to meet the man, who now was quite near us, and called to some one to take down part of the fence so the horse could reach the road.

By the time the poor fellow reached the roadside he was very pale and leaning low on his horse, and we could see a broad red stain along the leg of his light blue trousers. He was helped to the ground, and the surgeon quickly cut away his clothing and examined the wound, while we moved on, my heart still being elsewhere than in its proper place.

On, on we rode, and the farther we went the more I wished we were going in the opposite direction. I am ashamed even now to remember how many different kinds of coward I was that day, but I was giving my entire mind to the subject, and in such circumstances a man can accomplish a great deal. Fortunately it was impossible to keep up the strain a long time, so within an hour or two I was cool enough for anything. I was too exhausted to be anything else.

When I regained my senses sufficiently to think of something besides myself, I was astonished at the coolness or carelessness of our Lieutenant. He had once been a private soldier in one of the older companies, which were at the head of the column, but he did not ride ahead to ask questions, nor did he even dismount to speak to the wounded man, though he must have known him. In the middle of the afternoon we passed a member of one of the old companies going to the rear for something, and our lieutenant asked:

"What is it?"

"Nothing much," said the man. "Their pickets was layin' for us."

"Nothing else?"

"No, except Big Brown's horse was killed. He got one of them, though;
that's all."

"Nothing much?" "That's all." If a poor fellow, shrieking with agony over a broken thigh, which was being hurt still more at every step of his horse, was "nothing much," what would be regarded as something? If the "pickets was layin' for us" could inflict so much misery, what would be the result of a full battle? Again I wanted to go home.

But no battle occurred that day, and we dismounted before dark and prepared to bivouac in the woods for the night, a stream crossing the road supplying ample water for men and horses.
Brainard and I wanted to go right up to the front and learn all about the fight with the pickets, but the captain told us not to stray far from our companies. Some of the men began to ask when and where were the cook and the evening coffee, and when they learned that the cook had not come and that he should have dealt out ground coffee with the other rations, so that each man could make some for himself, there was a terrible hubbub, which reached the captain's ears and made him say dreadful things about the cook. But none of the fuss yielded a bit of coffee.

I was fortunate in never having contracted the coffee drinking habit, but what I lacked in thirst I made up in hunger. I already had eaten a full day's ration of hard tack, but it seemed only a mouthful. I consulted Hamilton, who had been named commissary sergeant, about the possibility of our getting anything else to eat during the three days, but he gave me no encouragement. Nevertheless I borrowed a biscuit of the nine which constituted the next day's ration and promised myself I would eat a light breakfast.
Then I reminded myself that at home I often had gone without breakfast for the sake of starting early for a morning of fishing. Why could I not do likewise in Virginia? I regarded the proposition with enough favor to borrow another biscuit. But those bits of hard bread did not seem to fill the aching void that longed for them, and when I learned that most of the company were as hungry as I and were ac-

He tells about the cure in the following words: "I cannot recommend Doan's Kidney Pills too highly. I never took any-severe pain in the small of my back and could scarcely get up or down without help. I could hardly urinate, but when I did the pain was terrible. I was in the

when I came out I was some better but not been completely cured and have not had any trouble with my kidneys since."

ing according to the sentiment, "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we may die," even though the death was to be by starvation, I followed their example with such industry that by the time I was ready to sleep my hav-ersack was as empty as when it first came from the quartermaster's. Never before had I enjoyed any meal so thoroughly, yet 'twas nothing but hard bread seasoned with Virginia air.

It seemed only a minute to breakfast time, so soundly did I sleep during nature's effort to make amends for the wakeful night before. No sooner was I awake, however, than I began to think of breakfast and of not having anything of which to make it. If misery loves company, our troop ought to have been a most sociable lot, for nearly all had been as improvident as I. Soon I began to stroll desperately about the forest in which we were camped. I hoped to find at least a slippery elm tree from which to tear some bark to eat, but the trees were mostly pines, among which the elm seldom grows. At the edge of the wood was a cornfield, into which I sprang and tore open some husks, hoping to find a belated ear which might be soft enough to chew, but all the corn was hard. I cloddled so long between the rows that suddenly I saw before me the roof of a cabin. There might be rebels in it, thought I, but if they took me prisoner they couldn't refuse me something to eat. No matter how rebellious, the southerner never lost his reputation for hospitality.

I was greeted at the cabin door by an old colored woman who looked at me savagely and said:
"Don' yo' come no farder, Mas' Sojer. Dey ain't nuffin lef to steal. Yo' men dun tuk ev'ryting in de house las'
night."

I took a silver quarter from my pocket.
"Twas a birth year pocket piece which I had carried for years; but, as Satan remarked the only time on record when he told the truth, "All that a man hath will he give for his life." I

"Don' yo' come no farder, Mas' Sojer."

held the coin up between my thumb and finger, and as the old woman's countenance changed pleasingly I said:
"I don't want to steal anything, aunt. I'm almost starved, and I'd like to buy a mouthful to eat, I don't care what."

"Yo' don' mean it, honey? Yo' ain't foolin'?"

"No; here's the money. Take it—give me something—quick!"

"Bress yo' soul!" said she, dragging me into the house. "Jess yo' set down in dat cheer, an' I'll make yo' a co'bin pone in a minute."

She raised a board from the floor, scraped some cornmeal from a hiding place, mixed it in a pan with water and poured the mass, which was exactly like the food we made on our farm for young chickens, into a heavy iron pan that was in the fireplace. On top of the pan she put an iron lid, on which she piled hot coals. It seemed to me the cooking consumed at least two hours, but 'twas only ten minutes by my watch when the woman took off the lid and lifted out an immense loaf of what in Summerton would have been called baked chicken feed, but which in the south is called corn pone, sometimes hoccake.

And how good it was! How, as I ate one fragment after another, I fe-litated the ghosts of past generations of my father's chickens on the enjoyment they must have had in eating just such breakfast! It was solid, a little of it occupied a great lot of room inside my belt, but that was just what I wanted. There was neither salt, eggs nor baking powder in it, as there always was in corn bread at our

Ames & Co. of Toronto Issue Another Statement.

Toronto, June 15.—A. E. Ames & Co. handed out the following statement on Saturday afternoon:—
"The trial balance up to close of books yesterday afternoon shows liabilities as $5,142,708.07, compared with $10,140,000 on May 31st last. To-day marks a short day the reduction of liabilities from the foregoing figures has been only about $150,000, but a much larger reduction is likely for Monday through taking up of securities by clients.
"The amount at credit of savings depositors is $243,097.64, being identical with the amount as at June 2 last.
"Good further progress in the taking up of securities by clients can be made for several days yet, after which the position will be simpler.
"The relation of this firm to the affairs of the Atlas Loan Company has been exaggerated. No doubt the amount of money that company has with us as margin upon the securities we are carrying for them is important, but it would be unjust for the people of St. Thomas to consider that if the company had been strong in other respects its relations with us, so far as the firm's responsibility is concerned, would have resulted in the closing of its doors.
"We ask from our creditors a little further patience, until the accounts are reduced to a narrow compass. An indication will be given by Wednesday or Thursday of the reduction made in liabilities from the figures given above."

NORWEGIAN ASHORE.

Allan Line Steamer Will be a Total Wreck.

CROWN WILL INVESTIGATE.

Scarlet Fever Treated by Christian Science.

Toronto, June 15.—The Attorney-General's department acting on information from Crown Attorney Dewar, on Saturday issued instructions to Coroner W. A. Young to inquire into the circumstances of the death of Hilda Frazee, the five-year-old daughter of Lorenzo D. Frazee, manager of the Frazee Storage Company. The little girl was taken with scarlet fever about two weeks ago and died on Tuesday night last. She was buried the following morning in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.
During the time of her illness it is said that no medical practitioner was called in, but that the little patient was given Christian Science treatment. Dr. Geo. H. Carveth called in just as the child was dying, and issued a death certificate.

DEATH OF CAPT. HOBBS.

Thirty Years in Civil Service—Died in Harness.

Toronto, June 15.—Captain George Hobbs of 125 Yorkville avenue died Saturday at his home after an illness of a couple of weeks. Capt. Hobbs was for thirty years a clerk in the Provincial Registrar's Office, and practically died in harness, having attended to his duties until two weeks ago, when he was obliged to stop on account of a severe cold. The immediate cause of death was paralysis.

LITTLE LADIES FIRST.

That is the Way It Always Is in This Spelling Class.

In spelling class at school, you know, I'm always number two. And Dotty's always number one. No matter what I do.

Sometimes I miss a word, although I try with all my might. And Dotty—she is number one. Because she spells it right.

THE CLASS.

And if she chance to miss a word, Why, I declare, I do! And so she stays the number one, And I stay number two.

Mamma says, "Little ladies first should ever be the rule." And that's the way it always is in spelling class at school.

—Helen S. Daly in Exchange.

Burning a Coin.

Here is a little piece of parlor magic, very simple, easily performed, yet very mystifying. Take a piece of paper four inches one way by five inches the other. Put the coin—a cent will do—on the paper and fold the paper over it from the top to within one inch of the bottom. Then fold the right hand side of the paper under the cent and the left hand side in the same way. Don't forget that these folds must be under the cent.

Then fold the bottom inch of the paper under the cent also, and it will seem that you have securely wrapped the cent up, whereas it will be in a sort of pocket and will readily slip out into either of your hands at your pleasure.

Allow the spectators to feel the coin through the paper. Then take the paper from your left hand into your right, and let the cent slip out into your left hand as you do so. This you must do dextrously, so that no one may see the act. Now burn the paper, and the cent will have disappeared.

A Bubble Party.

A pretty form of amusement is a soap bubble party, which may be made to take the form of a spirited contest for the young people. Five rings of pasteboard wound with bright tissue paper should be suspended in a doorway. Large bowls of strong soapsuds, in which a tablespoonful of glycerin has been dissolved, and a dozen or more clay pipes are the other materials needed for the bubble party. The players take turns in trying to blow their perfect bubbles through the different rings. Each person is allowed two attempts to blow his bubble through a ring, and to the successful "bubblers" is given a score. The person gaining the highest score is awarded some trifling prize.

Do It Yourself.

Why do you ask the teacher or some classmate to solve that hard problem? Do it yourself. You might as well let some one else eat your dinner as to "do your sums" for you, says the North-western Christian Advocate.

Do not ask the teacher to parse all the difficult words or to assist you in the performance of any of your duties. Do it yourself. Do not ask for even a hint from anybody. Try again.

Every trial increases your ability, and you will finally succeed by dint of the very wisdom and strength gained in this effort, even if at first the problem is far beyond your skill. It is the study, not the answer, that really rewards your pains.

Brain Twisters.

A man started on a journey with a fox, a goose and a peck of corn. Coming to a river he was puzzled how he was to get across, as he could take but one of his possessions at a time, and he could not leave the fox and goose together, for the fox would eat the goose. He could not leave the goose and corn together, for the goose would eat the corn. How did he arrange it so he got them all across safely?

A man had eight gallons of wine in a keg. He wanted to divide it so as to get one-half. He had only a three gallon keg, a five gallon keg and a seven gallon keg. How did he divide it to get one-half?

Bessie Wanted the Same.

A gentleman was dining with a family of which little Bessie was a member. When her father began to carve the turkey, he asked the minister what part he preferred and was told it was immaterial. After a time it was Bessie's turn to be served, and in reply to a similar query from papa she replied, "I guess you may give me a piece of ze im'terial too."

An Australian Author.

The Rev. Dr. Fitchett, who has just retired from the presidency of the United Methodist Church of Australia, is the author of several popular books on British battles on land and sea, as well as editor of The Australian Review of Reviews. But he has never shouldered a gun himself. His successor in the presidential chair, the Rev. E. S. Bickford, can make that boast. A native of Devonshire, and educated at Blundell's Grammar School, he joined the local volunteers, and actually started to fight under Garibaldi for the liberation of Italy, but was overtaken and dissuaded by relatives. He has labored as a Methodist minister in various parts of Australia since 1867. Apparently, the Methodists of the Commonwealth like to have as their presidents ministers who do not disguise their affection for military renown and Imperial greatness.

Lord Derby's Home.

Knowsley, which the King was lately visiting, has welcomed many of the English Sovereigns, and the house retains some interesting proofs of Royal gratitude; but there is also a striking commemoration of a King's ingratitude. It is carved on the colonnade end of the house, and the inscription runs: "James, Earl of Derby, Lord of Man and the Isles, grandson of James, Earl of Derby, and of Charlotte, daughter of Claude, Duke de la Tremouille, whose husband, James, was beheaded at Bolton, xv. Oct. mdciii. for treason, easily adding to Charles the II., who refused a bill passed unanimously by both Houses of Parliament for restoring to the family the estate lost by his loyalty to him." Coats of paint have failed to obliterate the record on the stone, though time has effaced Charles II's ingratitude from the memory of the family.

Stamps and Lovers.

Most English people have noticed a development in the obliteration of the stamps upon their envelopes; for the Postoffice is adopting a new machine which swallows letters by the 450 a minute; sets its teeth into them and marks them and disgorges them with the evidence of time and place. Some interesting specimens of the marks are given in The Sphere. But the public must cooperate by sticking the stamp on the right-hand top corner. Lovers have invented a language of postage stamps which has been embarrassing to the hand stamper; the machine does not recognize it, and cannot at present follow the cunning round the envelope. Lovers should in future contain their feelings within the envelope, and put the stamp at the business corner.

CURED HIS BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Former President of Bricklayers' Union used Dodd's Kidney Pills

Andrew McCormick, of Toronto, Tells of a Cure for the most Dreaded of all Diseases.

Toronto, June 15.—(Special).—In these days when the dreaded Bright's Disease seems to be selecting its victims at will the report of an authenticated cure is received with relief by all classes of the community. And such a report comes from Andrew McCormick, of 243 Spadina avenue, this city.

That Mr. McCormick is well known and highly respected, is evidenced by the fact that he has held high offices in several fraternal societies, and was for several years President of the Bricklayers' Union. Interviewed regarding the cure, Mr. McCormick says:

"I suffered with an attack of Bright's Disease and naturally was much troubled concerning it. I heard of the wonderful cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills and concluded to try them. The result was so satisfactory that it gives me pleasure to recommend them."

Make and keep the Kidneys sound by using Dodd's Kidney Pills and there can be no Bright's Disease.

WHAT IS WORN.

Afternoon Frocks of Muslin—Attempt to Revive the Bonnet.

A fascinating little afternoon frock seen recently was of pompadour muslin on a groundwork of pale green. It had a layer of pale green chiffon underneath over a foundation of still deeper green silk. This skirt was finished with a deep hem and no flounces, but was caught up slightly on the hips with some suggestion of fullness which reminded one of a pannier. It was cut slightly decollete at the neck with a vest of point d'alencon and a fichu of net edged with same lace. The sleeves were fairly tight to the elbow, whence came a deep turned back gauntlet of lace. With this were worn a pointed band of narrow black velvet and an odd enameled clasp.

There is an effort made to revive the bonnet, but this is not proving popular, because no woman can afford to add years to her age, and this is the effect even of the prettiest bonnet.

For young girls there are dainty ball gowns in white china silk made up with shirrings and gauzings to give curves to the otherwise angular forms of many debutantes.

The rage is all for beige colored costumes with a pelerine covered with coarse guipure dyed to match.

The tailor made of the summer will clear the ground and will be made in fancy soft effects such as blouses with tucks and collars of embroidery. One of these suits seen recently was of deep blue cheviot trimmed with a collar of Persian work in red, blue and yellow. The sleeves and body were tucked and the skirt was made into a yoke with a becoming plaited flare.

Linens of all kinds are much used with macramé lace or coarse embroidery.

Abroad they are very enthusiastic over the sun plaited skirt, which looks charming with a big collar and a blouse bodice.

The illustration shows a coffee coat of cream lace over pale blue chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART WRAPS.

Pelerines and Shawl Shaped Collars of Silk and Lace.

The pelerine is a decorative feature which forms a useful adjunct to summer frocks. This can be made by the amateur who has only to arrange a fichu-like piece composed of a lace foundation with loops of wide pompadour taffeta ribbon edged with black, finished with stole-like ends of lace and taffeta, clasping them at the waist with an odd buckle.

Shawl shaped collars are much in vogue. Those people who possess by nature sloping shoulders should square the sleeve beneath those collars. The cunning of tailors and dressmakers nowadays makes these things easy.

Some charming afternoon gowns are made in spotted voile. Very smart was one in a dull shade of red with a great silk spot thereon, the bodice finished with a shawl-like collar of Irish crochet lace held together with red and gray taffeta strappings and tiny tags. Muslins and painted chiffons will be much used for dainty evening gowns. Braids in the new silky weaves are used and mingled with lace appliques and embroideries.

Cut shows a pretty fancy blouse of china silk and lace. It buttons down the back.

65 No Names Used Without Written Consent.

If you have transgressed against the laws of nature, you must suffer. Self abuse, later excesses and private diseases have wrecked thousands of promising lives. Treat with scientific physicians and be cured. Avoid quacks. Dr. A. Kennedy, of Toledo, says: "At the age of 31, I contracted a bad habit and at 19 contracted a serious disease. I treated with a dozen doctors, who all promised to cure me. They got my money and I still had the disease. I had given up hope when a friend advised me to consult Dr. K. & K., who had cured him. Without any confidence I called on them, and Dr. Kennedy agreed to cure me or no pay. After taking the New Method Treatment for six weeks I felt like a new man. The drains ceased, wormy veins disappeared, nerves grew stronger, hair stopped falling out, urine became clear and my sexual organs vitalized. I was entirely cured by Dr. Kennedy and recommended him from the bottom of my heart."

THIEVES PETTY AND STUPID

Modern Invention Has Driven Out Criminals.

"The people who nowadays give the detectives most trouble are the members of that vast horde of petty thieves, both white and black, that infest every great city," said one of the most efficient detectives of the Washington department. "The days of mammoth burglaries, diamond robberies and brilliant thieving operations have passed, perhaps never to return, and instead of the really shrewd, calculating and bold thief of half a century ago we have today a mob of petty pilferers, who are far from possessing one-tenth part of the brains and wit of the old time thief, but manage nevertheless to give the police a vast deal of trouble."

"The progress of invention has put the shrewd thief and burglar out of business. Say, for example, a man steals several thousand dollars. Very well. The moment he does so he realizes that in order to retain his ill gotten gains he must leave the scene of the crime, realizing that he is in nowise prepared to cope with modern detective and police methods. Probably before he leaves the city telegrams and telephone messages have preceded him to the cities of the United States and Canada, and he is nabbed the moment he reaches his destination. But supposing that he escapes all these traps and reaches some foreign country—why, he is simply in as bad a plight there as he was before leaving home.
Nowadays there is hardly a government or country with which the United States has not entered into an understanding whereby criminals are caught and returned, and what few and far distant states with which our government has failed to draw up any such arrangement can be very easily managed in case Uncle Sam wants to get any of his missing criminals back."

"The result is that no really bright or shrewd person would think of undertaking a job of burglary or stealing in this age. None but the desperately poor, the degenerates, morphia users, the submerged tenth, so to speak, nowadays practice stealing. They are too stupid to realize the danger of such a course and plunge headlong into a career that must sooner or later land them behind the bars."—Washington Post.

FIRST OCCURRENCES.

Envelopes were first used in 1839.
The first steel pen was made in 1830.
Postoffices were first established in 1464.
The first lucifer match was made in 1829.
Kerosene was first used for lighting
in 1826.
The first steamboat plied the Hudson
in 1807.
The first balloon ascension was made in 1783.
Omnibuses first appeared in New York in 1820.
The first locomotive was run in this country in 1820.
The first watches were made at Nuremberg in 1477.
The first English newspaper was published in 1588.
Pins were first manufactured in this country soon after the war of 1812.
The first complete sewing machine was patented by Elias Howe, Jr., in 1846.

The Potato Planter.
The potato planter of today would make a farmer of a generation or so ago sit up and rub his eyes. It requires that the potatoes be supplied, but will do all the rest of its own industrious. It picks the potato up and looks it over, or seems to, cuts it into halves, quarters or any desired number of parts, separates the eyes and removes the seed ends. It plants whole potatoes or parts thereof as desired as near together or as far apart as the judgment of the farmer on the driving seat suggests. Having dropped the seed it covers it, fertilizes it, tucks it in like a child put to bed and paces off the next row with mathematical accuracy.

The Oldest Libraries.
The oldest libraries of which we have any certain knowledge are those brought to light by excavations among the ruins of the east. Among these are the Babylonish books inscribed on clay tablets, supposed to have been prepared for public instruction about 650
B. C. It is said by Aristotle that Strabo was the first known collector of books and manuscripts. This was about the year 330 B. C.

Our Common Woe.
"Beg pardon, sir," remarked the man who was hanging to strap No. 1, "but do you get off at the next corner?"
"I don't see that it is any of your business," replied his fussy neighbor.
"Well, no," admitted the mild gentleman, "but I was merely going to remark that I get off there and if you will be so kind as to lift I'd like to take that foot with me!"

The Artist.
Palette—De Auber is the most egotistical chap I ever met.
Brusher—How's that?
Palette—Why, every time he paints a landscape he imagines he flatters nature.

Deceptive Hearing.
"To hear that young clerk talk you would think he owned the place."
"How's that?"
"Why, he never says a word against his employers."

Digging an Acre.
In digging an acre of ground a man turns 12,000 spadesful of earth, and the soil moved during the work weighs 850 tons.

Reports as to the achievements of the Lebaudy airship have been a little disquieting to those of us who have hitherto been emphatic in denying the possibility of real navigation of the air by means of a motor hung beneath a cigar-shaped balloon.
The Lebaudy airship is exactly that,
and differs in no essential features from those of Santos-Dumont, but it seems to have made three journeys of considerable length, under good control, on days when there was some wind—enough to be called a "strong breeze"—by admiring observers. No definite information on this very important point is at hand, but it seems to be beyond question that the machine carried two passengers over twenty-three miles in a little more than an hour and a half, returning without trouble to the starting place. That comes pretty near to being aerial navigation—it is, so far as it goes—and threatens to force the revision of many opinions that seemed to be well grounded. The report of M.
Lebaudy's chief aeronaut on the first trip contains the following: "I left Moissins with the engineer, Rey, and 120 kilogrammes of ballast on board. The heavy rain which had been falling increased the weight of the balloon by ninety kilogrammes.
With the screws making 800 revolutions a minute, we proceeded to Mantes, entering the town by the western side, and, after circling right round the cathedral, we then proceeded to Limay, and next came back to Moissins Station. At this point the wind, which was blowing in our teeth, increased to an altitude of 250 meters, or 820 feet. I set the screws working at 1,000 revolutions, and was easily able to make headway against the wind, and I then steered for the Rosny Castle. When I arrived above the park I manoeuvred in every direction, the balloon obeying its rudder perfectly. I then proceeded to the shed at Moissins, and came down at the agreed spot, before the doors, the airship being then housed without difficulty." The Lebaudy balloon is 56 meters long, with a capacity of 2,284 cubic meters, 811 of which are occupied by its interior compensating air bag. Its two steel screws are a little less than 3 meters in diameter, and the area of its rudder is 9 square meters. It is moved by a forty-horse power motor that weighs only 400 kilogrammes.

Bowling on the Green.

There is both health and humanitarian in bowling, health in the outdoor exercise, and humanitarian in the congenial companionship which it affords. But if we would receive the healing of nature we must seek her presence, and seek her with a serene temper and a careless mind.
While the sport gives a serene continent, it yet makes an imperious demand upon its votaries, and forbids all serious and vexing things to obtrude. Lord Houghton in one of his poems speaks of the men of old as blending their souls' sublimest needs with tasks of every day, and going about their gravest deeds like noble boys at play. It is in some such spirit as this that the bowler pursues his cherished sport and he is blessed in the thought that his playtime on the green may extend to three score years and ten, and beyond.

It is true that the restless and history element of his kind give at the noisy element of his kind give at the game as slow and gentle, but he minds not at all. A good many bowlers have both girth and weight, and hence in their eyes the qualities which are made its reproach are really its virtues. They know that on the green they get health, and freedom, serenity of mind, and length of days, and what else has life worth the giving? Hence they will be found on the green as of yore, eager as ever to lie beside the jack, exulting in a bowl well played, a shot well made, a guard well placed, modest in victory, serene in defeat,
calm sometimes of their dignity, even boisterous now and then, and regardless of the golfer who passes by on the other side with just a suggestion of superiority in his air and tread.

The King and the Convict.

The pharmaceutical chemist Dau-val, wrongfully convicted in 1878 of having poisoned his wife, and recently set free, his innocence having been proved, wrote three days ago said a recent Paris telegram, to King Edward to thank him for the interest he took in his case. It appears, according to Dauval's story, that King Edward, then Prince of Wales, attended the five sittings of the trial of the Rue Maubeuge chemist. It was looked upon at the time as a "cause celebre." The Prince went to the court in company with the Duc d'Aumale. Two days after the trial the Prince of Wales, visiting the congerie, expressed a wish to see Dauval, who was awaiting his removal to Cayenne. "The future King of England," said Dau-val, "was very kind to me. He expressed his astonishment at the verdict of the jury, and told me that in England the verdict would have been
'Not guilty.'" Before leaving, the Prince asked Dauval what he could do for him. "Give me new judges," said the convict, who added, in telling the story: "Alas! that was beyond his power."

Self-Help Wins Respect.

That was a close shot when Mr.
Sifton said that "London is more pro-American than Canada." England has always been inclined to woo the United States than we have. Our reluctance to woo has not been due to any essential hostility, of course, but simply to an intimate knowledge of Uncle Sam's character, which is prone to mistake an attitude of friendship for one of supplication.
The Americans have never thought so kindly of us as since we have proven our ability to prosper without their smile.—Montreal Star.

KIDNEYS AND BLADDER.

All sexual complaints, especially private diseases—which have been improperly treated, —either by surgery or by medicine, and which have left the system in a weak and debilitated condition, are cured by the use of the latest method of treatment.
Have you pain in the back, a dull feeling in the region of the kidneys? At times your water comes freely, a large quantity, light in color, with no peculiar sensations, while at other times you do not make it quite so freely, it is dark in color, you make a small quantity, or you may have a mucous deposit or brick dust colored sediment in your urine; these conditions immediately attention or more serious complications will set in. My Latest Method Treatment guaranteed as a positive cure for such conditions, and remember you

Astrology and War.
It has been stated on what is said to be good authority that a representative of the Prussian government asked of a French astrologer the proper time to pick a quarrel with France. After carefully comparing horoscopes of high officials he answered that any hour in the afternoon as near as possible mid-

1870. On the 11th of July, William snubbed Benedetti, the French embassy, and on the 12th friendly relations ceased.

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES.

The Italian Cabinet resigned.
The Scott Memorial Orange Hall was dedicated at Winnipeg.

Lord Dundonald will probably visit Niagara camp this week.
Mr. James Carmichael, postmaster of Dehawa for the last 30 years, is dead at the age of 83.

The corner-stone of the Wychwood Presbyterian Church was laid by Rev. Wylie C. Clark.

Dr. Charles Morse of Ottawa has been appointed lecturer in jurisprudence at Trinity University.

Violent rainstorms flooded many mines in the St. Etienne district of France, compelling cessation of work.

Gen. Matos, leader of the Venezuelan rebels, acknowledged complete defeat and asked President Castro's forgiveness.

The Supreme Grand Lodge of British America, L. O. L., closed its meeting at Winnipeg. The officers were re-elected.

Mrs. Lottie Mason Quine, President of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church in the United States, died at her home in Chicago.

It is stated on reliable authority that some of the largest fire insurance companies doing business in Ottawa have decided to close their offices in that city.

The following Provincial appointments are gazetted:—V. H. McWilliams, M.D., of Keene, to be an Associate Coroner for Peterboro'; A. H. Van Comber of Port Arthur and A. E. Van Camp of Cardinal to be Notaries Public.

The Lieutenant-Governor has taken passage for England, and expects to sail with Mrs. Clark and their family on June 27th. This is contingent on the Legislature proroguing in time, but as to this there is probably little doubt. They will be absent nearly two months, and will spend the time in the British Islands.

RUSSIA'S BIG DEFICIT.

Indirect Taxation Necessary to Offset the Loss.

London, June 15.—The Times publishes an abstract of Finance Minister Witte's statement regarding the financial situation of the Russian Empire, made at a secret sitting of the Imperial Council, showing that without the maintenance of certain indirect taxes there would have been a deficit of twenty-three million roubles. The total excess of railway expenditure over receipts will reach at the end of the year the enormous sum of sixty million roubles. Within the last two years the deficit on the working of the entire railway system will reach eighty-four and a half millions. The Finance Minister was compelled to ascribe this situation mainly to the enforced construction of railways of a political and strategic character during the last ten or fifteen years.

CODE NOT NECESSARY.

Telegraph Messages May be Sent and Received by Typewriter.

New York, June 15.—Experiments will be conducted in this city next month to test an invention for the transmission of wireless and ordinary telegraphic messages, which, if they prove successful, will introduce a new factor in telegraphy. The inventor is Giuseppe Musso, revenue controller of the Province of Genoa, Italy, and a graduate of the University of Genoa. By his invention a message is sent from the keyboard of a typewriter without the use of a telegraph transmitter, and is received by another typewriter, which prints the message automatically.

The invention may be said to be a development of the Marconi system. In describing the instrument, Mr. Musso, who is now in this city, said: "The system is primarily the substitution of the typewriter for the Morse instrument, or written language for the code. The sender uses the ordinary keyboard of a typewriter, while the part of the line to which a message is to be sent is equipped with the writing portion of the machine. The secret of the use of these parts of a typewriter in this connection is that a current freed by touching a key will operate only the corresponding stamp in the receiving machine. This can be used in either the wireless or ordinary methods of telegraphic transmission. With wireless telegraphy I have experimented for a long time, and have succeeded in eliminating the confusion which exists in sending and receiving. I am able to send two messages at once in any direction without having them become involved one with another. By a method of changing oscillations any station or all stations on a line may be isolated. Transmitted by this system is much faster than that in which the Morse code is used, and will save much time."

Giuseppe Musso is a native of Vado, Italy, and is thirty-seven years old.

MISPLACED CONFIDENCE.

Mr. Carnegie Explains That Famous Interview.

Toronto, June 15.—Writing from Skibo Castle, Sutherlandshire, Scotland, under date of June 4th, Mr. Andrew Carnegie explains the now famous interview that appeared in The Ironmonger, a British trade paper, some time ago, and which was fiercely resented in this country because the great ironmaster was therein represented as saying that the Cape Breton steel industries were a mirage and Canada had no national future. Mr. Carnegie says, "For the first time I have been made the victim of misplaced confidence in regard to the press. I was asked by a friend, whom I wished to oblige, to receive a literary man from whom they were asking a sketch of my humble servant at work, not an ordinary interview. I had declined all requests for interviews in London, but there were reasons why I thought I should accede to this. I happened to be in a very amiable mood when the gentleman came. Two cards were sent up a few minutes later, one that of a high Australian official, the other a prominent Canadian. I presented the gentleman to them, and thought they would have a good opportunity to see and sketch me at work as desired, whatever that meant. He took a seat at the far end of the room, and I said to him, 'Remember, we shall have a free and lively conversation and comparison of views; nothing of all this for publication.' His words in reply were: 'You need not fear me, Mr. Carnegie; I am not a reporter. Not one word will ever be published that you do not see and approve.' Under the circumstances conversation was free and unrestrained. 'When the literary gentleman took leave I said to him: 'You have heard a great deal, and no doubt have been very interested in the instructive comparison of views, but of course you understand this is all private and nothing is for publication.' He repeated that he would write nothing, publish nothing, except what I should see and approve. Let me here remark that the gentleman took no notes of the conversation. He had done so, of course he would not have remained. 'Let the Australians and Canadians who were so justly displeased with the extracts published from the unauthorized sketch just try to imagine my feelings when I saw the whole of the amazing production; and, Mr. Editor, when I visit Canada and you desire an interview, will you kindly send an ordinary interviewer, and never let me be abused his position in the slightest degree. I am done with the style of the literary gentleman. 'Yours for the race, and also, with every good wish for all its members. 'May Canada progress.' Andrew Carnegie."

THE KAISER'S QUARRELS.

He Parts With Two of His Best Generals.

New York, June 15.—A Tribune correspondent at Berlin writes:—The Kaiser has quarrelled with two of his leading Generals. One of them is his brother-in-law, Prince Bernhard, the other is the Duke of Saxe-Meiningen, and husband of his sister Charlotte. The misunderstanding between the Prince and the Kaiser is of long date, going back in fact to the time when the reigning Duke of Saxe-Meiningen married an actress, but it had always been patched up again. Now, however, the Prince has been removed from his command of the 10th Army Corps. The other German Count Haeseler, was unable to agree with the Kaiser on the question of raising the old fortifications of Metz, he being commander of the 16th Army Corps. Formerly Count Haeseler was considered the brainiest of the commanding Generals in the whole German army, and it had generally been believed that he would have been the virtual commander in chief on the German side in the event of a big war. At present there is left not a single one of the military chiefs of renown who fought in the war of 1870-71, either on the German or the French side, and the outbreak of another great war would be, therefore, in more than one sense, a leap in the dark.

ALL FOUR DROWNED.

Man, Woman and Two Children Named Guay.

Montreal, June 15.—A man, a woman and two children were drowned in a swift part of the St. Lawrence, near Bout l'Isle, last evening. From shore the man was seen to lose control of the boat and soon the other occupants, becoming excited, the boat upset, throwing them all into the water. The name of the drowned is Pierre Guay. The others were his wife and children. One body has been recovered.

The Pope Not Dead.

Rome, June 15.—The rumor that the Pope was dead, which resulted in hundreds of telegrams of inquiry reaching Rome, went so far as to reach the ear of Leo himself, and waked him out of his usual tranquility. He exclaimed with some show of heat: "Because I begin to be old they are determined to shorten my days. I am not the old Pope of Popes. There have been centenarians."

YACHTING

SHAMROCK III. ARRIVED.

New York, June 14.—Safe and sound, after a rough passage from Gourock, Scotland, of 16 days and 22 hours, Sir Thomas Lipton's latest challenger for the America's cup, the

"A man with a good coat on his back meets with a better reception than he who has a bad one."—JOHNSON. . . .

GOOD means good cloth well tailored, well shaped, good taste in style and pattern.

COAT stands for clothing—hat scarf, shirt, the whole make-up.

THIS STORE stands for good clothing of every description.

These days we are more than ready with thin coats, thin pants, stylish wash vests (some new ones this week) light weight underwear, wash neckwear, straw hats and a hundred and one other things that go to create comfort for the summer man.

SHAMROCK III. IS NOW LYING AT ANCHOR

off Tomkinville, Staten island, where she arrived at 10.20 this morning, in company with the steam yacht Erin, that had towed her most of the way across the Atlantic, and by the Shamrock I., towed by the British tug Cruiser. The 156 men who manned the yachts and their convoys are all well, and there were no accidents to mar the passage.

Between Gourock and Fayal, Azores, where the Gourmets stopped for coal, calms and squally weather were encountered. The Erin and her tow became separated from the Cruiser and the Shamrock I. before reaching Fayal, but they never lost sight of each other after leaving there. On June 12 the yachts were caught in a gale from the southwest, and while it blew very hard and a heavy sea was running, very little water was shipped and no damage was done.

At 12.30 this morning, when the Erin was 100 miles east of Sandy Hook, the operator of the wireless telegraph system on board the Erin succeeded in raising the Coney Island station. Capt. Matthews then sent the following message to be cabled to Sir Thos. Lipton:

"Fleet arrived safely Sandy Hook. Experienced rough weather during voyage. Shamrocks all right. Wireless working well 100 miles."

"MATTHEWS."
The reply to this message was received on board the Erin by wireless from the Coney Island station at 8.55 a. m.

"Delighted to receive good news. Convey to all officers and men my best wishes. I hope that are all well and fit as fiddles."

"LIPTON."

Commodore Robert E. Tod of the Atlantic Yacht club met the yachts in his schooner yacht Thistle at Sandy Hook lights. The tug Charles Matthews, in charge of H. H. Davies, met the yachts at daylight 20 miles east of Sandy Hook lights. Pilots were put on board the Erin at sea, and the Matthews towed the Shamrock into quarantine, the Shamrock I. being towed by the Cruiser.

The yachts passed Sandy Hook lights soon after 6 o'clock this morning. They were saluted by every vessel that passed them all the way to quarantine. When they arrived there the crews of the yachts gave three cheers for each other as they stood lined up on deck. Both yachts flew the pennant of the Royal Ulster Yacht club.

HANDSOME CRAFT.

The new challenger is a far handsomer craft than either the Shamrock I. or the II. She looks not unlike the Columbia above the water line, and her beam seems greater than either of those yachts. She towers easily, making very little broken water at the bow, and leaving a clean wake. Her captain, Robert Wringe, says she behaved splendidly under all conditions of weather during the passage across the Atlantic. She is rigged as a sloop, with a short bowsprit and a topmast over a short stout lower mast.

The Shamrock has the same rig, with the addition of a jigger mast aft. The latter steers with a tiller, and the former with a small wheel.

FOOTBALL

The city team regrets that it will be unable to accept Mr. Courtney's challenge on behalf of the Sorbus, especially since Mr. Courtney has been so kind in arranging practice games for the team. For two reasons the team feels it must decline—first, because the players have doffed their fighting gear for the season; second, because having passed through the season without losing a goal on the home grounds, they do not care to sully their record.

HEAVY SHIPPING

The Shenango is bringing over to Erieau 20,000 tons of steel rails from Pittsburgh for the G. T. R. The rails are being transferred to the G. T. R. to-day and to-morrow and two extra trains are at work. The 20,000 tons will require 26 trains of 26 cars each. The rails are to be used by the Grand Trunk in putting down a double track on the main line between Detroit and Chicago.

ON THE BISLEY TEAM

James Smith, of Stewart, has been chosen as one of the Bisley team, and he will leave with his comrades for the Old Country next week. Mr. Smith leaves Chatham on Thursday. He will be accompanied by his son Neil.

At the annual Government rifle matches at Toronto and Ottawa Mr. Smith has always been one of the crack marksmen, and it was owing to his fine shooting last summer that he was chosen on the Bisley team this year. Mr. Smith has been practising energetically at the Stewart Rifle Butts and should give a good account of himself in England.
