First Principal of Wycliffe College Dies From Overwork.

lis Distinguished Career-Principal of Wycliffe College for Twenty-Eigh! Years-Won a Continental Reputa tion as an Authoritative Writer of Church Affairs-Some of the Work of Which He Was Author.

Toronto, Jan. 25 .- Rev. Principal Sheraton, of Wycliffe College, died at his residence in Wycliffe College yes terday morning. He had been suffering a nervous breakdown since the middle of December, when he had to discontinue his work.

His condition was not considered serious at first, but he grew gradually worse instead of better. A few days ago he suffered a stroke of para lysis. Since then he sank gradually till 7.45 yesterday morning, when he died. Since then he sank gradually

A Notable Career.

Rev. Dr. James Paterson Sheraton was born in St. John, N. B., Nov. 25, Rev. Dr. James Paterson Sheraton was born in St. John, N. B., Nov. 23. 1841, and came of two generations of educationists. He received his education at the St. John Grammar School and was an honor graduate in classics and a gold medalist in natural science. He also studied theology at King's Cellege, Windsor, N. S. In 1865 he was ordained and for 12 years performed mission work in New Brunswick: After this he became rector of Pictou, N. S. In 1877 he was appointed principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him in 1883 at Queen's College, and six years 1883 at Queen's College, and six years later he was appointed by Bishop Sweatman Hon. Canon of St. Albans' Cathedral. In 1896 the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him at Toronto University. He was a director of Ridley College, St. Catharines, and a member of the committee appointed in 1895 on "Religious Instruction in the Public Schools." At Wyellife Dr. Sheraton occupied the chairs of dogmatic theology and of literature and exegesis of the Work As An Author.

Principal Sheraton published numerous articles and reviews, chiefly theo-logical, and pamphlets on "The Idea of the Church," "The Christian Ministry," the Church," "The Christian Ministry," "The Authority and Inspiration of the Scriptures," "The Lambeth Declaration About Church Union," "Christian Science," "Our Lord's Teaching Concerning Himself" and "The Higher Cattleiene".

His work as an expositor of the Sun-day School Lessons is well known throughout Canada. At the time of his throughout Canada. At the time of his death he was engaged in enlarging and revising one of his works—"Our Lord's Teaching Concerning Himseif"—for the American Tract Society, and in producing several articles for "Hastings Dictionary of Christology." Dr. Sheraton stood among the world's great scholars, being piaced fin the forefront in the great army of theologians. As a Biblical apologist, he has stood an impregnable rock, In his few spare moments, in holidays in Muskoka, his recreation took the form of studies in botany, took the form of studies in botany, especially in ferns, and a perusal of his favorite Latin authors.

BILL TO KILL SUFFERERS.

Cincinnati Woman Proposes Painless
Death For Incurables.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 25.—Painless have no chance for recovery and who desire to live no longer, will be pos-sible if the bill introduced Tuesday in the General Assembly is passed. Under its provisions persons suffering from incurable disease or from injuries from which there is no hope of recovery may be legally chloroformed to death or killed in any other painless way which physicians may design.

The measure was introduced by Rep-The measure was introduced by Representative Hunt of Cincinnati at the request of Miss Anna Hall, who has for years been a student of the subject. Her interest was aroused first by the illness preceding the death of her mother from cancer of the liver.

Miss Hall sat in the gallery of the House and witnessed the voting down of a motion to reject her bill. The vote was 78 to 22. She wept when she saw that her measure was to be received and sent to a committee.

Miss Hall is a woman of wealth, and is a member of a highly respectable Cincinnati family. Her father, who was an Arctic explorer, died a few years ago.

Ontario Government Wants Niagara Site For Petawawa Grounds.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—The militia department is expressing annoyance at what they are pleased to term an attampt at sharp practice on the part of the Ontario Government.

About two years ago the Dominion Government sought a location for a training camp site. The Ross Government offered a site at Petawawa, on the Ottawa River, with such part of it as was owned by the Crown, as a gift. On this understanding the authorities accepted it in preference to a site similarly offered by the Quebec Government. Settlers at Petawawa were paid off, but now, it is said, the Whitney Government, before agreeing to hand over the property, wants the military property at Niagara in exchange. This property, it was intended to sell, and to devote the proceeds to the purchase of a camp ground around Lake Simooe.

HIGH ESTEEM

Citizens of Chatham Present Departing Planet Editor with a Purse of Gold

Ex-Mayor McKeough and Mayor Mar _ shall Express Sentiment of Donors-A Unique Event

It is with the sincerest regret that the citizens of Chatham have learn ed of the early departure from the city of Mr. Harry W. Anderson, editor of The Planet. This feeling was plainly evidenced this morning when a number of the leading and most representative residents of the city assembled in the private office of Mr. Robert Gray, President of the William Gray & Sons Co., Limited, and presented Mr. Anderson with well filled purse of gold, and a gold mounted umbrella, suitably engraved.

Among those who were present to assist in the presentation and to wish the departing young man every success in his future career were Mr Gray, Mayor W. S. Marshall, ex-Mayor W. E. McKeough, ex-Mayor Manson Campbell, S. Stephenson, proprietor of The Planet, Chairman Richards of the C. C. I. Board, W. N. Warburton, manager of the C. W. & L. E. Electric Railway, Judge Houston, Chairman Paxton of the Public School Board, Dr. Geo. T. Mc-Keough, H. S. Clements, M. P., Dr J. H. Duncan, F. D. Laurie, Ald. Potter, Ald. Edmondson, W. R. Landon, manager of the Chatham Manufac turing Co., ex-Mayor T. A. Smith N. H. Stevens, Wm. Ball, Ald. Chas Austin, ex-Mayor Geo. W. Cowan, James Holmes, Public School Inspector Robert Park, ex-School Trustee Geo. S. Heyward, Fred. H. Brisco Ald. W. H. Bensen, J. W. Plewes, Principal of the Central School, Harry Collins, Commercial Master of C. C. I., R. W. Angus, and many others. Ex-Mayor W. E. McKeough gave a very appripriate address and Mayor Marshall made the presentation. In his address Mr. McKeough spoke of Mr. Anderson's sterling qualities, vant.

"We are always loth to lose a young man of your ability," said he, "equipped as you are with such excellent education and culture. You have filled your place in Chatham with much credit to yourself and honor to your fellow men. The good old town will be greatly impoverished, as we regard your exit from Chatham an irreparable loss.
"As a must at the Collegiate In-cd, as we regare your exit from Chatham an irreparable loss.

"As a pupil at the Collegiate Institute you were an industrious student, as a reporter for the G. H. J.—The Planet—you worked so faithfully that you received the editorship as a well carned prize. In athleticism—you were enthusiastic, and as an officer of the 24th Regiment you were most efficient. In your connection with the Macaulay Club you were a faithful attendant and assisted in amateur theatrical productions by assuming difficult roles in Shakespeare's masterpieces. In the musical world you will also be missed, having been a singer in the choirs of the city and in local amateur operas. In fact you have taken a fively interest in anything that tended to advance the interests of the city. The manner in which you have conducted the paper has left nothing to be desired and your many friends sincerely regret your departure."

His Worship, Mayor Marshall, then with a few well-chosen remarks, made the presentation.

Mr. Anderson made a feeling response, and, with great difficulty, found words to thank his many kind friends for their remembrance.

After a series of hearty handshakes the assemblage dispersed, everyone present personally expressing their good wishes for Mr. Anderson's future health and prosperity.

SHEPLEY-TADBURY

A quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated last evening at the home of Mr. W. S. Campbell, of Raleigh street, when Mr. L. C. Shepley, of Charing Cross, and Miss Matilda Jane Tadbury, of Raleigh Township, were united in marriage by the Rev. R. McCosh. Both bride and bridegroom are very popular in this city.

NO INJURY FEARED

Speaking to The Planet this after by his orders that the stone crusher was left near the bank of the river.

"Ald. Edmonds n, the chairman, suggested its removal some days ago," said Mr. Jones, "but I counselled otherwise. It would cost $12 to remove it and the iron cannot be injured by the water."

RETURNS COME SLOWLY

This Emphasizes the Fact That End of the Polling Is Near.

Net Conservative Loss Is Now Two Hundred, With About Sixty Seats Yet to Poll-A Turn-Coat Defeated by a Tariff Reformer for North Lonsdale Division of Lancashire-Aberdeen's Son Defeated.

London, Jan. 25.—(C. A. P.)—The slowness with which returns are now received emphasizes the fact that the polling is nearing an end. Results out polling is nearing an end. Results out of thirty-four seats poiled yesterday were received, also the remaining two of Tuesday's poll. These include two more Liberal gains, bringing the net Conservative loss up to two hundred. About sixty seats are yet to poll. The tariff reformers get a ray of encouragement from the North Lonsdale division of Lancashire, where the Hon. R. F. Cavandish, who was elected a Conservative in 1900, went over to the Liberals last year, now stood as a free trade candidate. He receives 3,942 votes while C. B. Haddock, tariff reformer, received 4.121.

The standing of the parties is: Liberals, 316: Labor. 42: Conservatives, 138; Nationalists, $2.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY THE BEST MADE.

"In my opinion Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best made for colds," says Mrs. Cora Walker, of Porterville, California. There is no doubt about its being the best. No other will cure a cold so quickly. No other is so sure a preventive of pneumonia. No other is so pleasant and safe to take. These are good reasons why it should be preferred to any other. The fact is that few people are satisfied with any other after having once used this remedy. For sale by all druggists.

DID HIS BEST.

It is said that Marshall Field was so proud of nothing else as of the fact that when he was a youth, long before he became rich and famous, he was the best dry goods clerk in Pittsfield, Mass.

It may not seem to most people that dry goods clerking is a very straight road to great fortune. But Marshall Field found it such. It matters little what one's work may be. Being the "best" at it is bound to lead one upward.

Field's first job was small in the common sense of the world as compared with his later work, but he was wise enough always to know that it was the most important thing he had to do at that time.

And as he did that well he molded his character, opened his life to opportunity and made himself master

It was a little thing, but he did it the best he could, and in doing his best he brought forces into play which gave the mind the upward turn that brings it into touch with the divinity and makes it an element of resistless power.

The youth who has learned to do his best is more than half way along the road to success.

Doing one's best gives a sense of completeness, of efficiency, of being master of one's work, not slave 'to it, and of being equal to any possible emergency.

We are apt loosely to think that Marshall Field became a successful and a great man only as he achieved worldly-great things. Eut not so. He became successful and great when he did his best in his first humble job.

He there and then caught the consciousness that is the key to the rid-

With all his commercial achievment that has made the world wonder, with all his millions of money with all the satisfaction that comes with realization that honor and reward have been all earned, the old man still found his greatest pride in the fact that when it had been his humble business to be a good clerk he had been the best.

Doing one's best crowds any life full of success and the satisfaction at last of having done it is the richest reward this world can give.

Valencia Aground on West Coast of Vancouver Island-Serious Loss of Life Is Feared.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 24.—A great marine disaster has occurred near Carmanah, off the west coast of Vancouver Island. The steamer Valencia San Francisco, a regular liner plying between points in California and Washington, Victoria and the north, and which was due in Victoria Monday night, was wrecked off Cape Beale, so the subpression a rocky and perillog. going ashore on a rocky and perilous place. The first news of the disaster reached Captain Gandin, Receiver of Wrecks, late yesterday afternoon upon the arrival of nine of the survivors in a boat which succeeded in landing at the telegraph huts on the coast sever-al miles from the scene of the disas-ter. The information obtainable from them as to the loss of life when the valencia struck and the crew and passengers took to the boats is of the vaguest sort.

Over a Hundred On Board.

Over a Hundred On Board.
There were considerably over a hundred persons on board. Mr. Paterson, the lighthousekeeper at Cape Beale, wired that sixty persons had been drowned, and asked that assistance be rushed from Victoria at the earliest regression.

The vessel is reported against a cliff The vessel is reported against a clift and the survivors who reached shore mear Carmanah are the only men who can furnish any details of the affair. They have already told their story, although a disconnected one. The reason the vessel proceeded so far north and how she came to strike on the coast still remains unexplained.

Canadians On the Vessel.

The passenger list is not yet obtain-still remains unexplained.

The passenger list is not yet obtainable, but Victorians are looking on the present vessel for W. H. Langley, a well-known local barrister, and his bride, formerly Miss Raiss. Another bridal couple on board are J. Downey of Saanich and wife, the latter a Miss Camp. Messrs, J. Lyle, a former purser of the Rosalie, and Fay, an insurance man, were also on board. The steamer Queen City, which left here last night for the west ocast, had on board a number of Indians, who were to land both at Cloose and Pachena Bay, where the Valencia is. This being the case, the Queen City could not fall to see the stranded vessel, and may have already rendered help.

To Attempt a Rescue.

The steamer Queen City will bring the survivors to Victoria in the morning. The lost may be safely put at about ninety. Two young men, Daykin and Logan, have gone to the scene in a small boat with ropes in hope of rescuing two men who are on the face of the cliff and unable to get up or back to the ship and in peril from the rising tide.

"DORA THORNE."

"DORA THORNE."

The story of "Dora Thorne" is too familiar a one to permit of much comment, but as a play it is provoking wide gread interest, and much surprise is manifest that so successful a novel in the day and time of book plays has not found its way before the footlights long ere this. Brimfull of exciting and interesting situations and affording such numerous opportunities for excellent acting, "Dora Thorne" is indeed splete with all the essentials to make a most delightful play.

Those in the cast are Miss Marie Dile, who assumes the title role, Miss Isabell Sherman, Miss Edith Domby, Mr. Gec. Denton, Mr. Joseph Schafer and others.

"Dora Thorne" will be seen at the Grand to-night.

THE PARTING OF THE WAYS. "The Parting of the Ways," the latest comedy-drama written by Neil Twomey, will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Saturday, matinee and night. It is spoken of as the most Interesting and the brightest effort from Mr. Twomey's brightest effort from Mr. Twomey's pen, and this is saying a good deal, when his former successes, The Wayward Son, When the Harvest Days are Over, etc., are remembered. Mr. Twomey is a great favorite here and is always assured of a hearty welcome from those who appreciate the high class in melo-drama. He has surrounded himself with a company of clever people and the scenic investiture is much above the average. Three special settings are carried for the four acts of the play. Mr. French asked if the pork raised on the farm and used was charged up to the expense account.

The Clerk stated that it was not.

Mr. French thought it should be.

The Clerk explained that it was the Government's intention, in establishing the industrial farm, to enable the inmates to do as much as possible to make the institution self sustaining.

Mr. Brien, suggested keeping a farm account. The farm also needed good dairy cows.

The report was adopted.

Mr. French asked as to the entrance examination fees. These went to the inspectors and in addition the county paid the expenses of the examinations. He did not think this was right.

Mr. Ross thought it was not within the council's power to prevent the sale of liquor to immates. The inmates, however, had no right to leave the house without the keeper's permission. The only way was to have inmates arrested when they went out without permission.

Ex-Warden Vester supported the motion.

Mr. Chinnick thought it was putting too much onus on hotel keep-ers. If an old man asked for a drink they would have to ask if he was an inmate of the House of Refuge. The only renedy was to put on a sort of uniform or prison garb.

The motion carried, after which the council adjourned until two o'clock. WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

Whose Say-so is Best?

Whose Say-so is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party, and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their maker's say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Minley Ellingwood, M. D. of Bennet Medical College, Chicago: Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scot. Grant College, Chicago: Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scot. Grant College, of Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scot. Grant College, of Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scot. Grant College, of Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scot. Grant College, of Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scot. Grant College, of Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scot. Grant College, of Prof. Dr. Grover Co., of New York; Dr. Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, of Pra., and scores of others equally eminent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion and rorrects irregularities, cures painful periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, some times known as pelvic catarrh and a multi-tude of other diseases peculiar to women. Bear in mind, it is not a patent no reven a secret medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" is composed of, Of no other medicine put up for woman's special maladies and sold Awful Death Toll of Wreck of Pacific Liner Valencia.

One of the Worst Marine Disasters of the Pacific Coast-Steamers Salvo and Czar Could Get No Neaner the Wrecked Valencia Than Three-Quarters of a Mile-Steamer Queen

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 25.—Only sixteen survivors of a total of 154 of the crew and passengers of the steamer Valen-cia is the sad record of one of the worst marine disasters on the Pacific Coast.

The steamer Salvor has arrived from The steamer Salvor has arrived from the scene of the wreck at Klanaway Point, about five miles from Cape Beale, where the ship is lying with her stern high on the reef and her decks swept bare. At three-quarters of a mile no sign of a living person was discerned on board. In the rigging of the foremast was some dark huddled object, but whether a crude signal of distress or a niece of sail could not be distress or a piece of sail could not be ascertained.

The steamer Czar, after making as close an examination as possible at three-quarters of a mile, which was the nearest that even she dare ap-

close an examination as possible at three-quarters of a mile, which was the nearest that even she dare approach the reef in the prevailing wind and sea, returned to the Salvor and Queen, the former heading for Bamfield, while the Queen stood by in the forlorn hope of picking up some castaway of bodies before relieved by the City of Topeka.

The 10 survivors, who are reported fifteen miles from Beale, reached that point via the difficult trail. So far as known they, with six in the boatswain's crew, 16 in all are all that are left of the crew of 60 and 94 passengers. When the Salvor left the locality of the wreck there was a strong southwest gale, and the rain was descending in torrents with cutting flurries of hail. The sole survivors are: T. J. McCarthy, boatswain; Thomas Lawson, C. Brown, Thomas Shields, John Mark, W. Goslin, C. J. Miller, fireman; Assistant Supt. Sunker of Seattle, whose wife and two daughters drowned; D.

GEN. MATOS LOOKS FOR PEACE.

Former Adversary of Castro Certain Arrangement With France Is Near. Arrangement With France is Near.
Paris, Jan. 25.—Gen. Matos, the former adversary of President Castro, in the course of an interview published here yesterday, expressed the opinion that serious complications would not ensue from the present difficulties between France and Venezuela. He considered that President Castro has considered that President Castro has done great work for the pacification of Venezuela and held the complete confidence of the people, which would be strengthened if the country was persuaded that there was no possibility of a conflict with France. Matos believes that with the assistance of the United States war will be avoided. In case of hostilities, the general asserted, Venezuela could mobilize 100,000 men, but he was certain that an arrangement was near at hand.

AT-HOME

An At Home was given last even-ing at the home of Mr. Hallman, For-sythe St.

The house was filled to over-flowing, and the proceedings were of a most interesting and enthusiastic nature through.

Miss Hollinrake, Mr. and Mrs. Bock and the Hallman male quartet assisted with the musical program, Miss Bogart presiding at the piano. An address was given by the Rev. Mr. Malott, and a humorous speech by E. E. Parrott afforded great annuament.

Light refreshments were served during the evening and the enjoyment lasted till 11.30.

Between the ages of lifteen and forty-five, the time when womanhood begins and motherhood ends, it is estimated that the aggregate term of woman's suffering is ten years. Ten years out of thirty! One-third of the best part of a woman's life sacrificed! Think of the enormous loss of time! But time is not all that is lost. Those years of suffering steal the bloom from the cheeks, the brightness from the eyes, the fairness from the form. They write their record in many a crease and wrinkle. What a boon then to woman, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prewrinkle. What a boon then to wo-man, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Pre-scription. It promotes perfect regu-larity, dries up debilitating drains, heals ulceration, cures female weak-ness, and establishes the delicate wo-manly organs in vigorous and per-manent health. No other medicine can do for woman what is done by Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Local Signs Multiply But Ex-Mayor Cowan Takes the Lead

The recent articles which have appeared in The Planet, in reference to the unusual signs of an early spring; have evidently placed a number of citizens on the qui vive for sensational evidence of the fact that the beautiful Canadian whater is a matter of ancient history.

While riding down to Detroit the other day G. K. Atkinson, the well-known insurance man, saw two farmers, plowing, and while in Detroit he saw an up-to-date ex-Canadian industriously at work mowing the thok of duck and gulls in Lake St. Chain.

The prize, however falls to the lot of ex-Mayor Goor W. Cowan. That thustling shoe merchant always did have a keen eye, but no one eyer thought that it was so penetrating that he would be found seeing things.

Todo know, said that gentleman, T did not believe all those stories about live frogs that I read in The Planet, but now I am ready to believe everything, and I apologize for lieve everything, and I apologize for ever doubting the accuracy of the Great Home Journal. "I was sitting down reading The Planet Monday night when I felt an iteming sensation on my wrist. Look-ing down I saw a live mosquitto.

itching sensation on my wrist. Looking down I saw a live mosquitto, which I promptly killed—and, if you doubt me, here it is."

Here the genial ex-Mayor produced a pocket note book with a dead mosquito pressed between two of the leaves. The appearance of the insect made the reporter horribly suspicious that it had been dead about six months; and he almost recognized it as one of the Expressions. booth six months, and he almost recognized it as, one of the Eau brand. Silence is golden, however, especially when one is talking to a "fighting" ex-Mayor, so the scribe merely looked surprised, made an interested note, and then passed on,

I looked at the noble girl as she said this, and took heart from the smile upon her face. If she could be so brave surely I, who called myself a man, upon her face. If she could be so brave surely I, who called myself a man, must not prove myself a coward. I pulled myself together and prepared to discuss the question as she desired. But it was the knowledge of our utter helplessness that discounted every hope. We had no food, we had no water. True, we might pull on; but if we did, in which direction should we proceed? To go east would be to find ourselves, if we lived so long—the chances against which were a thousand to one—on the most unhealthy part of the long coast line of Africa. To pull wast would only be to get further out into mid-ocean, where, if we were not picked up within forty-eight hours, assistance would no longer be of any use to us. The Canary Islands, I knew, lay somewhere, say a hundred miles, to the southward, but we could not pull that distance without food or water, and even if we had a favorable breeze, we had no sail to take advantage of it. To make matters worse, the fishing line and hook I had manufactured for myself out of my scarfph, had been left on the island. Surely any man or woman might be excused for feeling melancholy under the pressure of such overwhelming misfortunes.

While we were thus considering our sure of such overwhelming sures.

While we were thus considering our position the sun was sinking lower and lower to his rest, and would soon be below the horizon altogether. The sea was still as calm as a mill-pond, not a breath of air disturbed its placid surface. We sat just as we had done all day: Miss Maybourne in the stern, myself amidships. The oars lay on either side of me, useless as the rudder, the yoke lines had scarcely been touched since the ship had turned her back on us. When I look back on that awful time now, every detail of the boat, from the rowlocks to the grating on the bottom, seems impressed on boat, from the rowlocks to the graing on the bottom, seems impressed on my memory with a faithfulness that is almost a pain. I can see Miss Maybourne sitting motionless in the sternher elbows on her knees and her face buried in her hands.

At last to rouse her and take her out of herself I began to talk. What I said

At last to rouse her and take her out of herself, I began to talk. What I said I cannot recollect, nor can I even recall the subject of my conversation, I know, however, that I continued to talk and insisted upon her answering me. In this way we passed the time until darkness fell and the stars came. out. For the past hour I had been out. For the past nour I had been suffering agonies of thirst, and I knew, instinctively, that my companion must be doing the same. I followed her example and dabbled my hands in the water alongside. The coolness, however, while proving infinitely refreshing the same of the coolness of ever, while proving infinitely refreshing to my parched skin, only helped to intensify my desire for something to drink. I searched the heavens in the hope of discovering a cloud that might bring us rain, but without success. "Courage," said Miss Maybourne, again, as she noticed me drop my head on to my hands in my despair. "As I said just now, we are in God's hands; and I feel certain we shall be saved at last."

saved at last." As if in mockery of her faith I no-tleed that her voice had lost its usually clear ring, and that it was lower than I had ever hitherto heard it. But there was a note of conviction in it that showed me how firm her belief that showed me how firm her belief was. For my own part I must confess that I had long since given up all hope. In the face of so many calamitous circumstances it seemed impossible that we could be saved. My obstone duty there was to endeavor by sible that we could be saved, my ob-vious duty there was to endeavor by every means in my power to make death as easy as possible for the woman I loved.

In the same tedious fashion hour In the same tedious fashion hour after hour went by and still we remained as we were, floating idly upon the bosom of the deep. Twice I tried to persuade Miss Maybourne to lie down at the bottom of the boat and attempt to obtain some sleep, but she would not hear of such a thing. For myself I still a to have closed my eyes for not hear of such a thing. For myself I could not have closed my eyes for five minutes, even if by doing so I could have saved my life. Every faculty was strained to breaking pitch, and I was continually watching and listening for something, though what I expected to see or hear I could not have told if I had been asked I pray to God that I may never again be called upon to spend such another absolutely despairing night. spairing night.

CHAPTER IX.

CHAPTER IX.

The calm with which we had so far been favored was not, however, destined to be as permanent as we imagined, for towards the middle of the night the wind got up, and the sea, from being as smooth as glass, became more boisterous than I altogether liked. Miss Maybourne, who now seem ed to be sunk into the lethargy from which she had roused me, lifted her head from her hands, and at intervals glanced over her shoulder apprehensively at the advancing waves. One thing was very evident: it would never do to let our boat drift broadside on to the seas, so I got out the oars again, and to distract my companion's thoughts, invited her to take the helm. She did as I requested, but without thoughts, invited her to take the helm. She did as I requested, but without any sign of the eagerness she had hitherto displayed. Then, for something like an hour, we struggled on in this crab-like fashion. It was herculean labor, and every minute found my strength becoming more and more exhausted. The power of the wind was momentarily increasing, and with it the waves were assuming more threat-ening proportions. To say that I did not like the look of affairs would be to put my feelings very mildly. To tell the truth, I was too worn out to think of anything, save what our fate would be if by chauce we should be on the edge of an hurricane. He wever, I knew it would not do to meet trouble halfeway, so by sheer force of will I riveted my attention upon the boat, and in thus endeavoring to avert the evil of the present, found sufficient occu-pation to prevent me from cross-questioning the future.

Suddenly Miss Maybourne, who, as I have said, had for some time been sit-ting in a constrained attitude in the stern, sprang to her feet with a chokstern, sprang to her feet with a choking cry.

"Mr. Wrexford," she said, in a voice that at any other time I should not have recognized as hers, "I must have something to drink or I shall go mad."

Fearing she might fall overboard in her excitement, I leapt up, seized her in my arms, and dragged her down to her seat again. Had I not done so, I cannot say what might not have happened.

to her seat again. Had I not done so, I cannot say what might not have happened.

"Let me go," she moaned. "Oh, for Heaven's sake let me go! You den't know what agony I am suffering."

I could very well guess, for I had my own feelings to guide me. But it was my duty to try and cheer her at any cost, and upon this work I concentrated all my energies, at the same time keeping the boat's head in such a position that the racing seas should not overwhelm her—no light work, I can assure you. When at last I did succeed in calming her, she sat staring straight ahead of her like a woman turned to stone. It was pitiful to see a woman, who had hitherto been so brave, brought so low. I put my arm round her waist the better to hold her, and, as I did so, watched the black seas, with their tips of snowy foam, come hissing towards us. Overhead the stars shone brightly, and still not a vestige of a cloud was to be seen It seemed like doubting Providence to a vestige of a cloud was to be seen. It seemed like doubting Providence to believe that, after all the dangers from which we had been preserved since we had left England, we were destined to die of starvation in an open boat in mid-Atlantic. And yet how like it it looked.

mid-Atlantic. And yet how like it it looked.

After that one outburst of despair Miss Maybourne gave no more trouble, and when she had been sitting motionless beside me for an hour or thereabouts fell fast asleep, her head resting on my arm. Weak and suffering as I was, I was not so far gone as to be unable to feel a thrill of delight at this close contact with the woman I loved. What would I not have given to have been able to take her in my arms and have comforted her properly!—to have told her of my love, and, in the event of her returning it, to have faced King Death side by side as lovers. With her hand in mine Death would not surely be so very terrible. However such a thing could not be thought of. I was a criminal, a murderer flying from justice; and it would have been an act of the basest sacrilege on my part to have spoken a word to her of the affection which by this time had come to be part of my life. For this reason I had to crush it and keep it down; and, if by any chance we should be rescued, I would have to leave her and go out and hide myself in the world without allowing her ever to suspect the thoughts I had in my mind concerning her, God knows, in this alone I had suffered unintentionally committed. punishment enough for the sin I had unintentionally committed.

At last, the eastern stars began to lose something of their brilliance, and within a short period of my noticing this change, the wind, which had been sensibly moderating for some time past, dropped to a mere zephyr, and then died away completely. With its departure the violence of the waves subsided, and the ocean was soon, if not so smooth as on the previous day, at least sufficiently so to prevent our feeling any further anxiety on the score of the boat's safety.

One by one the stars died out of the sky, and a taint grey light, almost dove-colored in its softness, took their place. In this light our boat looked double her real size, but such looked double her real size, but such a lonely speck upon that waste of water that it would have made the heart of the boldest man sink into his shoes with fear. From the abovementioned hue the color quickly turnives and again ed to the palest turquoise, and again to the softest pink. From pink it grew into a kaleidoscope of changing tints until the sun rose like a ball of gold above thes ea-line—and day was born to us. In the whole course of my experience I never remember to have seen a more glorious sunrise. How different was it in its joyous lightness and reshness to the figures presented by the two miserable occupants of that lone! boat!

At last Miss Maybourne opened the palest turquoise, and again of that lone! boat!

At last Miss Maybourne opened her eyes, and, having glanced round her, sat up. My arm, when she did so, was so cramped and stiff that for a moment I could scarcely bear to move it. She noticed this, and tried to express her regret, but her tongue move it. She noticed this, and tried to express her regret, but her tongue refused to obey her commands. Seeing this, with an inarticulate sound she dropped her head on to her hands once more. To restore some animation into my cramped limbs, I rose and endeavored to make my way to the bows of the boat. But, to my dismay, I discovered that I was as weak as a month-old child. My legs refused to support the weight of my body, and with a groan I sank down on the thwart where I had previously been rowing.

with a groan I sain town on the thwart where I had previously been rowing.

For upwards of half an hour we remained as we were, without speaking. Then I suddenly chanced to look along the sea-line to the westward. The atmosphere was so clear that the horizon stood out like a pencilled line. I looked, rubbed my eyes, and looked again. Could I be dreaming, or was it a delusion conjured up by an overtaxed brain. I shut my eyes for a moment, then opened them, and looked again. No, there could be no mistake about it this time. A ship was in sight, and heading directly for us! Oh, the excitement of that moment, the delirious joy, the wild, almost cruel, hope that seized me! But, mad with longing though I was, I had still sufficient presence of mind left to say nothing about my discovery to Miss Maybourne until I was sure of my facts. She was sitting with her back towards it, and therefore could not see it. So, while there was any chance of the vessel leaving us, I was not going to excite her hopes, only to have them blighted again. There when she was close enough to see us.

For what seemed an eternity I kept my eyes fixed upon the advancing vessel. watching her rise higher and

BOILS ALL OVER HIS FACE AND NECK

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS DID FOR HIM WHAT FOUR DOCTORS FAILED TO DO

KEEWATIN, ONT., July 28th. 1908 MESSRS. THE T. MILBURN Co., LTD.,

Dram Sirs:—I am writing te let you know what Burdock Blood Bitterd has done for ne. I am a young man, twenty years old, and a year ago last March I began to feel dull and sick, and was greatly troubled with boils coming out on my face and neck, mostly on the latter. I would no sooner get rid of one-than I would have, perhaps, two or three more appear.

I would have, perhaps, two or three more appear.

I had four doctors trying to cure me but they had very little success. They would stop them for a month or eix weeks and then they would be as bad as ever again.

Almost every patent medicine, advertised to cure boils, I could get hold of, I tried, but still without success. At last one day, last spiritualizing Burdeck Blood Bitters for the blood? I was willing to try anything and immediately sent for a bottle, but at the time was doubtful if it would be of any usataking it I began to feel better, although still kept having a few boils but not nearly such bad ones. I did not miss any work, while otherwise, I used to miss, sometimes, a week out of every month. I kept on taking the medicine wise, I used to miss, sometimes, and needless to say, I was not sorry I did so when I tell you I have not had a bedi appear for the past three months. Everybody was surprised when they heard that Burdock Blood Bitters had done for me what four doctors falled to de, If any sufferers are affilicted with boils, I would strongly advise them to use B.B.B. It makes you feel like a new man. I always keeps bottle in the house, now, as I think it is a medicine that should be in every household.

Help for Women Passing Through Change of Life

Providence has allotted us each at least seventy years in which to fulfill our mission in life, and it is generally our own fault if we die prematurely.

Nervous exhaustion invites disease Nervous exhaustion invites disease. When everything becomes a burden and you cannot walk a few blocks without excessive fatigue, and you break out into perspiration easily, and your face flushes, and you grow excited and shaky at the least provocation, and you cannot bear to be crossed in anything, you are in danger; your nerves have given out; you need building up at once! To build up woman's nervous system and during the period of ous system and during the period of change of life we know of no better medicine than Lydia E. Pinkham's Veg-etable Compound. Here is an illus-tration. Mrs. Mary J. Dabbruzz, of 150 Main St., Winnipeg, Manitoba, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—
"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a blessing to me through that delicate period known as the change of life. For six years it disturbed my entire system. I had not flushes, was extremely nervous, became pale and debilitated, very irregular in the monthly flow, and the blood all seemed to be in my head. I had frequent palpitation and throbbing of the heart: in fact, my whole systemseemed to be in disorder. "I received no relief from the suffering incident to this period until I took Lydia E. Pinkhan's Vegetable Compound; but I date my relief from the time I took the first bottle. I gradually improved, nature took her course painlessly, and in due time I was a well woman."

PINE FOREST NOT BLIGHTED. Ontarie Ferestry Bureau's Explanation of An Ottawa Story.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—A story from Ottawa to the effect that Dr. Barlow and W. J. Wilson of the Geological Survey have announced that the pine forests of the Temiskaming district have been attacked by a blight, pointing to the early death of the trees, has not caused any alarm at the Parliament buildings.

It is regarded as a revamp of a ver

buildings.

It is regarded as a revamp of a verbal report made to the Bureau of Forestry last summer by Dr. Barlow, respecting a small portion of the Temagami forest reserve. Some fine prine trees near Obabika Lake were found to be losing their foliage, which was turning in some cases to a yellow color, in others to red.

Samples of foliage and parts of the trees were obtained by Dr. Clarke, the Provincial Forester, who, after a thorough investigation, decided that the cause of the threatened decay was lack of moisture. The summer was dry, and the point where the trees affected were growing was too sandy to retain enough moisture for them. There was no disease of any kind, and no danger of other parts of the forest becoming affected, as there was sufficient moisture elsewhere.

When the bread or cake or pastry comes from the oven light, crisp and appetising, you are wont to say you have had good luck with your baking.

The "good luck" idea is a relic of the time when housekeepers pitted their competency against poor flour. To-day good baking isn't a matter of good luck in any home where Royal Household Flour is intelligently used.

In the hands of competent housewives it never fails because it is the whitest, lightest, purest and best baking flour to be had.

ELOPES WITH SISTER'S HUSBAND 14-Year-Old Girl and Her Abducto Caught at St. Catharines.

Caught at St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Jan. 25.—A few days ago Chlef Parnell received word from Warsaw, N. Y., of the abduction of a girl, Susan McCulligan, by Floyd E. Eveningham. Yesterday Sheriff French of Warsaw and the assistant chief of Warsaw Springs, arrived here, having traced the pair in their flight.

The man was found at the Internation Hotel, where he had been at work for the past week. He realized what was wanted when he saw the officers and at once took the sheriff to the Broadway Block on St. Paul street, where he and the girl were living.

Eveningham is 25 years of age. The girl is 14, and is a sister of the man's wife, who has lived with him from the time of their marriage, some few years ago, until the elopement.

The man and girl were as bold as had ever appeared in the Police Court, and seemed to take the matter as a joke and waived extradition proceedings.

25 Per Cent. off Fur Caps and Gauntlets

Thornton & Douglas,

Flood Like a Waterspout.

Weston, W. V., Jan. 25.—A heavy wind and rainstorm, resembling a wind and rainstorm, resembling a waterspout and causing damage to property that will reach several hundred thousand dollars, passed over the southeastern portion of this state Tuesday, flooding Cherry Holly and Elk Rivers, and carrying away bridges, houses and many million feet of valuable timber. Over 12 miles of the Hol-ly River and Addison Railroad was completely washed away between Herly Junction and Webster Springs.

Blasting Kills Two.

Quebec, Jan. 25.-Word was received here last night that a blasting accident occurred on the La Tuque branch of the Quebec and Lake St. John Rail-way, sine fifteen miles west of La Tuque Junction, and two men illed and three others badly injured Crosses Pyrenees In Balloon. Aladrid, Jan. 25.—A Spanish aeronaut named Duro has crossed the Pyreness in a balloon. He ascended at Pau and descended at Guadic, in Granada, covering the 560 miles in 14 hours.

Japan's Little Bill to Corea.

The Coreans seem to be a suspicious people. They think their Japanese friends are full of guile. Says the Corea Daily News: "Once upon a time Corea had a man-of-war. She was a collier, painted white. She was at the outbreak of hostilities taken by the Japanese as a collier again. We have reason to believe that she is at the present time resting under some twenty fathoms of deep blue sea. The Japanese Minister now has the effrontery to send the Corean Government a bill for the maintenance of this phantom ship." The sphere of influence is not without its humorous side—to the influencer.

The children cannot possibly have good health unless the bowels are in proper condition. A sluggish liver gives a coated tongue, bad breath, constipated bowels. Correct all these by giving small doses of Ayer's Pills. Ganuine liver pills, gently laxative, all vegetable, sugar-coated.
