

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., OCT. 30, 1914.

Editorial Brevities.

That celestial body, known to astronomers as 'Deivan's Comet,' and to astrologers as 'The Star of Bethlehem,' can be seen on fair evenings almost directly beneath the Polar star. It has appeared when important events were about to change the world's conditions, and its presence at this time presages, to many, another order of things.

The venerable Archdeacon Cody, appealing to the students of Toronto University to enlist in the service of the Empire said:—Are you doing all you can to prepare yourselves? Which is the greater: to sit on the bleachers and applaud a football match, or to get out and drill? Every able bodied man should be fitting himself in case his country needs him.

The fine Welsh collier, Tremorrah, chartered by the government, sailed from Halifax yesterday with the Nova Scotia contribution, a full cargo of food and clothing for the Belgian people. This contribution expresses, in some measure, our sense of admiration and sympathy for the men, women and children of the gallant little nation across the sea, who have suffered and endured all things in defence of national honor, freedom and justice.

Germany has objected to the employment of Indian troops by the British saying that they are uncivilized and that they are Asiatics. In the first claim the Germans are wrong entirely. The Indians are civilized and will fight after the fashion of the British troops, and if they indulge in any more barbarous acts than do the Germans their presence will not long be felt. In the second claim it might be said that the Indian troops are Asiatics, but they form a portion of the British Empire, and it is the British Empire that Germany is warring with.

Lloyd George in one of his orations pointed out that had France not respected Belgium's neutrality in the former war she could have saved her army and possibly her territory. Rather than do this she surrendered over 100,000 men to the Germans. Great Britain could have saved Antwerp by violating the neutrality of Holland and sending her war vessels up the river Scheldt, but Great Britain valued the scrap of paper, that this is no idle statement is shown by the fact that the Germans have been unable to hold, unopposed by British passive consent, seaport towns along the northern littoral of Belgium and France.

Germany pretends that Great Britain urged Belgium to wage war upon her; in other words that the lamb was encouraged to make a meal of it. But Germany has no reason for such a belief. As long ago as 1912 the present British government communicated to Germany the following: 'Britain declares that she will neither make, nor join in, any unprovoked attack upon Germany. Aggression upon Germany is not the subject that forms the part of any treaty, understanding, or combination, to which Britain is now a party; nor will she become a party to any thing that has such an object.'

Count Von Bernstorff declares it would not be a violation of the Monroe Doctrine to land a German army in Canada, and establish a foothold here. There is something more powerful than the Monroe Doctrine that has so far prevented Germany landing troops in this country and probably the irrefragable Count knows what it is just as well as the Canadians. It is the British navy. Should our navy by any possible chance meet with defeat in the North Sea, there would be nothing to prevent the landing of German troops at Halifax or St. John, or at some point along the St. Lawrence. But until the defeat of Britain's navy actually takes place, Count Bernstorff may as well interest himself in some of the other problems of the war. Canada will remain safe from invasion.

In various parts of Canada it has been suggested that an effort should be made to assist Belgian people to settle in this country. The Belgians, after the war is over, will want to settle in their own country, and all of them will be needed there. The Canadian representative in Belgium, speaking in London recently, very properly pointed this out, and further declared that the real friends of the Belgians were those who would help them to get settled again in their native land. In referring to what is being done for the aid of the Belgians a London newspaper prints over an article this heading: 'Faying our Debt to Belgium.' That phrase indicates the right attitude of every British subject. We are not doing out charity to the Belgian people. We are paying our debt. Let it be paid as quickly as is possible, and as cheaply.

An advising farmer is responsible for the following: When you pass a farm and see a large barn and a small house you may know the man is honest, when you see a big house and a small barn you may understand that the man has his eye on you, and when you see a good barn and a nice house you may be sure that the man is a success and that he is a success because he is a success.

Honorable 'Rob' Rogers.

The Liberal ammunition and cohorts of the country, led by Gen. Sir Wilfred Laurier, have mobilized for a general attack upon the Honorable 'Bob' Rogers. They claim that this good natured gentleman is responsible for the proposition that the government should appeal to the country this fall, a suggestion of which the Liberals with unadmitted unanimity heartily disapprove. The order has gone forth from Liberal headquarters in Ottawa to charge the Honorable 'Bob,' to attack him in front and in rear, and to leave not a spot of his objectionable hide to decorate the political fence.

The attack was led by Sir Wilfred in person. With his white plume a flying a lusty crow was made for the downfall of this enemy.

In a dispatch issued from Ottawa the Liberal chieftain accused the Honorable Mr. Rogers of having a little regard for pledges and 'scraps of paper' as any Prussian that ever came out of Prussia. Quite different was it in 1911 when Sir Wilfred was informed of the then Opposition's intention to force an election on the Réciprocity issue. 'The Lord hath delivered the enemy into my hand,' was at that time the exultant expression of the Anti-Dreadnought leader. To-day, having in mind, perhaps, the outcome of that 'delivery,' the Liberal Chieftain does not want any enemy delivered into his hand, not at this stage of the game, anyhow.

Following Sir Wilfred's outburst, all the lesser gnomes of the party, from the 16 inch smooth bore Globe operated by the oily Macdonald, of Toronto, right down to the Morning Chronicle, of Halifax a double barrelled pop-gun, are all trained on poor 'Bob' Rogers. So that the political atmosphere of the Dominion has been as rank, recently, as the tarrest of one of the Kaiser's battleships, lying snugly in the Kiel harbor and experimenting with a new and particularly evil smelling explosive. But during all this excitement, we are informed the Honorable 'Bob' sits at his desk in Ottawa attending to the country's business with a smile on his face, and apparently unimpaired by the enemy.

One thing is quite certain, however, and that is that the Liberals do not want an election now nor at any time in the near future. They recognize in the Honorable 'Bob' Rogers one to fear.

War Notes.

Some British grit seems to have got into the wheels of that great German war machine.

France is importing a lot of goats. It is also trying hard to get the Kaiser's.

A French doctor calls the Kaiser a Mottoid. There are a lot of other names he might have used, too.

There is a place in Belgium named Furnhout. When the Germans got there the people had to.

Germany complains of financial stringency, but the German troops continue to leave their marks behind them.

The Germans have sacked Louvain and other cities. We are not keen to sack Berlin, but we want to see the Kaiser sacked.

There's just one thing the Kaiser has overlooked. None of his Zeppelins have yet dropped a bomb on the Peace Palace at the Hague.

One of the Great War measures is to close all the rum shops in Petrograde so that the people will remain sober.

General Sir John French has a sister who is a militant suffragette. Fighting comes natural in that family.

A British officer reports that the Germans do not care to face a British bayonet charge. These Teutons are teachable ciphers, evidently.

Every city in France and Belgium that has a cathedral may well be concerned when the Germans get within firing distance.

It is said that Germans are getting gasoline from the United States. They can also get a large supply of gas from the pro-German press in that country.

King George says he hopes Germany will receive the same treatment as British that depend on them they are and what they are doing.

Times' Reverages.

At the great patriotic meeting held in Sohier Park, Montreal, a few days ago, Sir Wilfred Laurier, in the course of his remarks, deprecated the suggestion of a dissolution of parliament at the present time. Commenting on this pointed utterance of the opposition leader, the Montreal Globe says:

Sir Wilfred Laurier has joined his voice to those of many liberal newspapers for the purpose of arguing that at this particular juncture there should not be a dissolution of parliament and a general election to approve or condemn the Borden government's policy and conduct. It looks much as if liberals were agreed among themselves that just now they are not prime political favorites in Canada.

Enough has surely been now said by liberal writers and speakers to demonstrate that their love for dissolution has become as thoroughly molified as their views on the question of emergency.

An Appointment.

Mr. Laurie D. Cox, of Los Angeles, Cal., a graduate of Acadia of the class of '03, has recently been elected professor of landscape engineering at Syracuse University, Syracuse, New York. Mr. Cox, who is a very well known in Wolfville, is a son of Mr. G. W. Cox, Superintendent of Schools, Ware, Mass., and a grandson of Mrs. J. B. Davidson, of Wolfville. The position to which he has been appointed is a very attractive one and pays a good salary. Mr. Cox's good fortune came without solicitation on his part. The university authorities asked one of the professors in the landscape department of Harvard to recommend a man for the place. Mr. Cox was strongly recommended and secured the position.

His training at Harvard and his experiences in the East, in the middle West and in the extreme West, eminently qualify him for the line of work he has to undertake. He expects to enter upon his new duties as soon as he can close up his work at Los Angeles.

The city of Syracuse in which the university is situated has a population of nearly 150,000. The university is a large co-educational institution. According to a recent report it has 246 male professors and 31 female, while the student body is composed of 1692 males and 1756 females.

Mr. Cox's many Wolfville friends will join THE ACADIAN in congratulations.

The Canteen.

The members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Canada have protested against the open canteen for the Canadian troops at the front. That they are not altogether without some justification appears in an appeal from Lord Kitchener which has just been issued, urging strict sobriety on the part of all soldiers, and urging the public to refrain from treating soldiers and to assist them in every way to avoid temptation. There are a great many fathers and mothers in Canada who consented to the enlistment of their sons, but who would be extremely sorry to have those sons subjected to the temptation of drink. More significant, however, than the protest of the W. C. T. U. or of Lord Kitchener himself, is a copy of an English 'war poster' on the effects of alcohol on naval and military work. It reads as follows:

'To all men serving the Empire: It has been proved by the most careful scientific experiments and completely confirmed by actual experience in athletics and war as attested by Field Marshal Lord Roberts, V. C. K. G. K. P. Field Marshal Lord Wolseley, K. P. G. C. B., and many other army leaders that alcohol or drink:

1. Slows the power to see signals.
2. Confuses prompt judgment.
3. Spoils accurate shooting.
4. Hastens fatigue.
5. Lessens resistance to disease and exposure.
6. Increases shock from wounds.

We therefore most strongly urge you for your own health and efficiency that at least as long as the war lasts you should become total abstainers.

Miss Starr's Recital.

The recital given by Miss Evelyn Starr in College Hall last Friday evening was well attended in spite of other attractions, as would naturally be expected. Even before going abroad Miss Starr's violin playing was always gladly listened to by Wolfville audiences, and those who had the good fortune of hearing her since her return looked forward to the recital with pleasurable anticipation. The program given on Friday evening was a delightful one and every number was heartily enjoyed by the audience. In addition to a most skilful execution Miss Starr displays the true artist's instincts and so listener could fail to enjoy the exquisite harmony produced by her bow. Those present on Friday will look forward to Miss Starr's appearance at some future date. Miss Starr was assisted by Miss Zaida Gaines, the new education teacher at Acadia Seminary. Miss Gaines is a most talented pianist and clever impersonator. Both her numbers were well received and those present will desire to hear her again when opportunity offers. Miss Blaise Taylor, of Halifax, proved herself a most gifted accompanist and added not a little to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Mt. A. Loses to Acadia.

Acadia drove the first spike towards clinching the 1914 championship by defeating Mt. Allison Thursday, Oct. 22nd. The Acadia team had a strong wind in their favor in the first half and by blocking and fast following they forced the play to the Mt. A goal line right at the start. Leaman secured the ball and went through for a try after one minute's play. Parker failed to convert. Shortly after, the ball was carried down the field by Acadia's half line and McCurdy crossed the line for the second try, which was converted. For the remainder of the first half Mt. A. did better work. Eaton got away and was brought down on Acadia's five yard line. On a throw in, the ball went back to Anglin who crossed the Acadia line. Hearts converted, ending the first half with the score 8-5 in Acadia's favor.

Hopes ran high in the Mt. Allison camp for they would have the wind with them in the second half. But the Acadia team came back determined to hold their opponents to five points and in spite of the wind soon forced the play into Mt. A.'s territory. Throughout this half the Acadia team practically controlled the ball and did splendid work with their fast backs. Harlow and Parker secured tries for Acadia but neither were converted, showing a weak spot in the home team. Play ended in Acadia's territory with the score, Acadia 14—Mt. Allison 5. Dr. Rankin, of Halifax, referred in a very satisfactory manner. The following was the line up of both teams:

Acadia: Gregg, Full; L. Harlow, Halves; Eagles, Eton; Leaman, Anglin; McCurdy, Windsor; Parker, Quarters; Richardson, Forwards; Archibald, Acheson, McKay, Spruce, Bishop, R. Harlow, Steves, Roscoe. Mt. Allison: Redding, Hearts; Eaton, Anglin; Windsor, Pargason; McAfee, Beres; Sealey, Fools; Westmore, Dorant; Baxter.

Anyone who intends to be in business when the war is over, should look after his business now. A good way to do it is to advertise in THE ACADIAN.
