A St. Joseph's Introduction!

Father O'Hara, of Aahbourne, England, recently told the following thrilling story at a church festival: "During several of the twelve years I spent in Africa I had under my pastoral care this sole church of a district as large as England. Periodically I made a visitation of my scattered flock. On one of these vast excursions I lost my way, and found myself wandering without the slightest idea of the locality. I could see no one. It was a season of drought. No rain had fallen, and my horses were scarcely able to drag along my cart for want of water. At length I came to a Boer farm in this, to me, unknown valley. The whole country was scorched. There was, however, a water dam near the house, and this was all drought. Approaching the Dutch farmer I told him my story, and asked if he would give me some water. Permission was granted. I told the farmer I was a Catholic priest. He was a protestant.

"Oh then," said he, "if you go into the out-house you will find a laborer who is dying—he is a Catholic."

I entered there and found the poor fellow—a client of St. Joseph's—near death. When I told him who I was the Catholic priest of the district of "Oudtshoorn," 150 miles away, he lifted his wasted body and exclaimed in accents of deepest gratitude:

"Ah, St. Joseph, I knew you would send me a priest, so as to give me comfort before I die."

"What has St. Joseph to do with the matter?" I asked him, and here was his story: "My mother, a good Catholic, taught me to say every day, 'St. Joseph, pray for me, that I may die a happy death.' I have never for one day neglected that prayer. I made my first Communion at 10, and served Mass till I was 15. I enlisted in the army at 21, and came out to the Kaffir war."

"Before leaving Ireland I went in my uniform and bid my poor old mother good-bye, and, as she kissed me tenderly, she sobbed, 'Don't forget your prayer to St. Joseph.' I came to the Kaffir war. When it was over and my time was expired I was discharged and stayed by choice at the Cape. There was no priest near me, and I was 500 miles away. I hired on this Dutch farm, and here I heard of your arrival at Oudtshoorn, 150 miles away, and I set out in daily haste to the hope of going to confession and Communion. Arrived at your house weary I was told you were away on the visitation and might not be here for several weeks. I waited, but you did not return, and here I handed yesterday nearly dying, and here is the priest to-day sent by St. Joseph."

"That night I instructed him and gave him his Communion. The next morning I said Mass and gave him Holy Communion, and soon after I gave Extreme Unction and the last blessing. He then died, saying to me, 'Pray for me that I may die a happy death.'"

Two Distinguished Converts.

GEORGE PARSONS LATROB AND HIS WIFE RECEIVED INTO THE CHURCH.

(Boston Pilot.)

The following interesting letter has just come to hand. As our readers are well aware, Mr. Latrob is an eminent American author, and is also his wife, the daughter of the late Nathaniel Hawthorne. They were received into the Church on Thursday, March 13, by the Rev. Alfred Young, of the Parish of St. Francis, at St. Francis Church, New York, and were confirmed by Archbishop Corrigan on Saturday, March 21.

New London, Conn., March 24.
My Dear Mr. Roman.—No one ever suggested my becoming a Catholic, or tried to persuade me; although a number of my friends were Catholics. The attempt to inform myself about the Church began with the same impartiality, the same candor and receptiveness that I should use towards any other subject upon which I honestly desired to form a just conclusion. Notwithstanding that education had surrounded me with prejudice, my mind was convinced as to the truth, the validity and supremacy of the Roman Catholic Church, by the clear and comprehensive reasoning in which it is based. And while reasoning of other religious organizations continually shifts and evers, leaving their adherents—no one sees almost every day—fall into rationalism and agnostic denial, the reasoning of the Church, I feel, led directly into sublime and inspiring faith. This union of solid reasoning and luminous faith I cannot discover elsewhere.

In carefully examining the doctrine presented by the Catholic Church in a positive manner with a confident appeal to the intellect; and her replies to attacks made by adversaries impressed me as remarkably calm, thorough, free from malice or abuse, and imbued with profound spirituality; strongly contrasting, as I hardly need remind you, with the prevailing tone of those who wear or dispare their divine claims.

The Church revealed itself to me as broadly liberal and gentle towards all mankind; thus worthily justifying, in my estimation, those titles of Catholic and of Mother Church by which she has always been known. Moreover, the present active and incessant spirituality of the Church does not stop short with this life or end in that pagan acceptance of death as impossible in Wisconsin.

The First Martyr of Oceania.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF THE VENERABLE FATHER CHANEL.

On November 17th the second of the beatifications announced in Rome during the stay of the French pilgrims took place. It was that of the Venerable Peter Louis Chanel, Father Chanel is the first martyr of the Order of Mary, and also the first of Oceania. He was born at Pottiere, a village in the parish of Cast, Diocese of Bayle, in 1803. His childhood was worthy of his after life. He seems really to have begun to live after he had received Holy Orders. His Bishop found great merit in him, and this might have led to the imposition of some high trust upon him; but God ordained otherwise. Father Chanel found the Marists, to whom the Holy See had confided the missions of Western Oceania. He longed for the salvation of souls, and gladly left home and friends, in 1837, for the Isle of Futuna.

Twenty Years in Siberia.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 31.—One of the inmates of Mount Hope retreat is Father Anatole, a Catholic priest. His life has been so remarkable for the suffering he has endured.

For twenty years he was an exile in Siberia. Father Anatole was admitted to Mount Hope near the close of the year just passed, with his nervous system greatly shattered. The resident physician, Dr. Charles G. Hill, and others are under the impression that his physical illness has been cured by the barometric treatment he received at the hands of the Russian officials in Siberia.

When he was received at Mount Hope no one was acquainted with his history. He had been in an institution near Philadelphia, where his name and the fact that he was a priest was discovered by another priest who attended to the spiritual needs of those at the institution, and through his efforts Father Anatole was admitted to Mount Hope.

RECOVERING HIS HEALTH.

Under the care of the resident physician and the good sisters of charity in charge, he is gaining health rapidly, and his complete recovery is expected in a short time. During the year just passed, he has taken strolls around the grounds, sometimes alone and at other times accompanied by a priest. In these strolls he has had some of the incidents of his history.

He was at first disinclined to talk of his troubles, fearing that too much publicity was given to them by his return to Russia might be followed with serious consequences, although he has since been more open. He obtained the passport from the government when he left for this country a year and a half ago. Father Anatole is a Pole and a member of the order of St. Francis. In his story Father Anatole says:

HE WAS A POLISH PATRIOT.

When the Polish insurrection broke out in 1863 I had not long been ordained priest. For my part in this uprising I was seized by the Russian authorities, judged by a military court and condemned to death. In the province of Valynia they kept me a prisoner from 1863 to 1865. When the revolution had been stamped out the Emperor, Alexander II, mitigated my sentence, and the police were ordered to send me to work in chains for twenty years.

In the prison with me was another priest who, like myself, was a member of the order of St. Francis. Our religious habits were torn from our persons, and on December 2, 1865, we were taken to a prison for other prisoners, accompanied by twelve armed men: on foot and twenty on horseback. The journey occupied one year and a half. At the distance we were obliged to walk.

MANY PRIESTS IN THE MINE.

"Hardly any time was given for rest. One year and a half after we started we arrived at the silver mine in a chain of mountains in Eastern Siberia. When we arrived there we found that 163 priests had preceded us and had been condemned to work in chains for twenty years.

"One thousand priests were exiled at the same time that I was sentenced, and nearly all, I think, were condemned to hard labor in different parts of Siberia. For my part I was banished to the same wild country, but were not obliged to labor. One of them was the bishop of the diocese in which I was a priest.

BEATEN TO DEATH.

"During the four years I labored in chains twenty priests out of 164 died. Most of the deaths were the result of beatings and blows by the Russian officials. In winter we worked four hours; in summer six. We were never relieved of our chains.

"The chains of some of the prisoners weighed eighteen pounds. Many times we were unable to say Mass secretly in our rooms, without vestments, of course. For saying Mass once a keeper struck me on the cheek with the heavy metal key he held in his hand, knowing that a number of my teeth I begged the man in the excitement of the moment to kill me at once.

"For a good part of the brutal treatment we received in our exile I blame the priests of the Greek Church, whose hatred towards us was bitter.

"When my twenty years expired I returned from Siberia, and obtaining my passport went to one of the further houses of our order in Galicia.

Father Anatole came to the United States about two years ago, and for a time resided at a church in Wisconsin.

The Church at Geneva.

MONSIGNOR MERMILLON AND THE ANTI-CATHOLIC PARTY.

It will be remembered that when Mgr. Mermillon was raised to the dignity of Cardinal, he resigned the See of Lausanne and Geneva. One motive for this proceeding was the hope that his retirement would be the violent antagonism of the anti-Catholic party in the Canton would subside and the chances of the restoration of peace would be increased. Up to this time, however, there has been little sign of such a result. Meantime the Holy Father has selected Mgr. Drus, parish priest at Lausanne, to succeed to the vacant See. The new prelate is fifty-five years of age, and has been for thirty years in charge of the parish at Lausanne, where his courtesy and conciliatory disposition has won him respect and cordial esteem of all parties. His parishioners are greatly afflicted at the prospect of losing him. But we have yet to see whether he will be allowed to take up his residence at Geneva.

An interesting example of the notion which the anti-Catholic party have of fair play has occurred at La Chaux de Fonds in the Canton of Neuchâtel. In the height of the Swiss Kulturkampf, which was an exaggerated copy of what was being done in Prussia, however, the Catholic parish priests should be elected by the whole "Catholic" population, including Old Catholics as well as Roman Catholics. The latter naturally refused to have anything to do with such an iniquitous proceeding, and so the Old Catholics had all their own way. But now a vacancy having occurred, the Catholic clergy refused to receive the legal status for their own canonically appointed parish priest. The Canton Government, however, has refused to allow them to take any part in the election, because of their previous abstention.

The annual report of the committee of the Evangelical Clergy gives some idea of the material hardships inflicted on the Catholics in the Canton of Geneva. It shows what substantial reasons they have for demanding incessantly the repeal of the persecuting laws of 1873. Under them twenty-seven churches have been taken from the Catholics, and they have been obliged to find other buildings to provide for their spiritual wants. They have had to take upon themselves all the charge of their elementary schools; and they have further had to provide for the maintenance of their clergy, the contribution from local taxation, towards which the Catholics have to pay their quota, although the Federal Constitution distinctly guarantees that no one shall be required to contribute towards the support of any form of worship to which he himself does not belong.—London Tablet.

By putting off things beyond their proper time, one day trends upon the heels of another, and all duties are felt as irksome obligations—a yoke beneath which we fret and lose our peace. In most cases the consequence of this is that few have no time to do the work as it ought to be done. It is therefore done precipitately, with eagerness, with a greater desire simply to get it done than to do it with a good will. Little thought of God throughout.—Father F. W. Faber

EPPS' COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operation of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a deliciously flavored beverage which may save us many doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Boys and men who are weak and exhausted by loss of blood, and those who are suffering from indigestion and general debility, will find relief in this pure and healthful food. It is a most valuable and agreeable food for the invalid, and a most refreshing and strengthening beverage for the healthy. It is sold in all the principal cities of the world. Beware of cheap imitations. The name 'Epps' Cocoa' is blown in the glass of each bottle, and is blown in the glass of each bottle, and is blown in the glass of each bottle. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in Packages, by Grocers, labels show.

"I? Nay; I am unknown here." It matters not. Our men will have more confidence if they know a French officer leads them...

Lester during the last six months. He was surprised to learn that most of the men whom he met the night he left for France—whose heart beat high with the golden hope of liberty and freedom—had perished in the prison or on the scaffold...

CHAPTER XLVIII

RETURNED. We pass over the incidents that succeeded the return of Redmond. Full of interest or otherwise, the years move by with slow and steady succession. Old Time takes little heed of human passions, loves, or sufferings, and turns his wheel with perfect indifference as to what fate his annual circle may have for the dwellers upon earth...

CHAPTER XLIX

CONCLUSION. We shall not weary our readers over the joyousness of the meeting in Seamus' parlour, or of the narrative which Eugene gave of his adventures for the past two years. Neither shall we attempt to tell the resumption of old loves that took place... of putting between Luke and myself, it was not his fault but my own. I could have easily explained and settled it all if I had some—but I hadn't. And the young mistress, I'm sure 'n' certain she'll never forget the handsome one!
