Though he met several persons whom he thought he knew, not one of them recognized him, which was not strange considering the change the years of hardship and adventure had wrought in him. As he went, he was full of the desire to ask of every cottage and of every passer-by for some tidings of Ronald; but he decided he would wait until he got to the town and the police station, firmly resolving that if he heard nothing of the lad he would leave Starborough and return to Lon-

He leant on a gate and looked at it, his heart full of bitterness-not because it would never be his, but because he could never claim any connection with it, and because the sight of it drove home to him his nameless,

Are You Using An Oily Liniment?

Beware of Any Thick, Greasy Lini ment That Contains Acids and Strong Ammonia.

No doctor would think of prescribing a greasy, thick, ammonia liniment -they can't penetrate and in consequence are unable to reach the source of pain. The best liniment for general household use is "Nerviline", which is sold under positive guarantee to cure pain.

Nerviline is sure to cure pain because it is immensely stronger than other liniments. Because it is more penetrating, because it relieves the congested condition that excites pain, because it restores circulation of the part. Now you understand why one person in three throughout the Dominion of Canada uses Nerviline. These people have tested it. They hundred and one minor ailments that afflict us at odd times they found Nerviline always cured. Nerviline is an absolute antidote to pain, powerful, soothing, and certain in its action.

Nerviline is inestimably the finest remedy for pain found in the world. Not an ache or pain anywhere that Nerviline does not cure.

Try Nerviline for neuralgia, headche, sciatica, lumbago, stiffness, rheumatism-wherever there is soreness or pain, rub on Nerviline and you'll be cured. Refuse anything offered you instead of Nerviline, large 25c. bottles, five for $1. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kings-

Geoffrey was thirsty, and he walked inconcernedly through the group into the inn and asked for a glass of ale. The landlord, who was an old gipsy, served him, eyeing him curiously, and Geoffrey was in the act of raising his glass for the second time when he felt a hand fumbling at his watch-chain. He brought the glass down heavily and sharply on the predatory hand; and with a snarl of pain and an oath the owner of the hand turned and fled.

Geoffrey was rather amused than resentful.

'You've some rough customers here,' he remarked to the landlord, as he paid his twopence for the ale.

The landlord's swarthy face reddened.

'I don't bother myself about my customers; they must look out for themselves,' he retorted. sullenly.

'That's all right,' said Geoffrey. cheerfully: 'and no doubt the police will look out for 'em, too. Goodday.'

He sauntered out of the inn-th group through which he passed looked at him from under their slouching brows - and went his way.

one better thing Than all the worthies did, And yet a better thence doth spring, Which is, to keep that hid."

-John Donne. Columbia University received a gift the other day of $350,000.

That amount wasn't so very unusual, I suppose. But the condition under which the gift was given was rather exceptional. For the donor of this huge gift insisted upon remaining entirely unknown. Several other colleges and charities lately have also received lesser but none the less respectable donations under the same conditions. It looks rather like an epidemic of anonymous giving. And I hope the epidemic will beome chronic

For there are few people for whom have a more thorough admiration han those, who, atop the charity to do a good deed, have also the fineness to want to keep it hid.

I never hear of an anonymous gift without thrilling with admiration to think that, somewhere in the obscurity behind it, is a man or woman fine enough to be able to absolutely do without praise or gratitude.

Charity is a beautiful thing. Quite too beautiful to be tainted by any unworthy motive. And isn't the man who gives openly and deceives the gratitude of his beneficiaries and the approval of his fel-things make up some part of his motive for giving?

Is that making too cynical a statement? I wonder.

But apply the test to yourself. Doesn't the thought of the approval of your friends and the gratitude you will receive from those you benefit ever influence your giving the least bit?

Not at all? Think a bit, brother.

If that is true why did you feel a twinge of disappointment when you found that the sums given towards the minister's Christmas present, of which your contribution was head and shoulders above the rest, were not to be made public, or communicated to the minister at all?

You were doing just as much for the minister. Whence that twinge of disappointment, then, if the congregation's approval and the minister's gratitude had absolutely no share in helping to extract that crisp pinky yellow ten dollar bill from your bill

I suppose some people will say that this is a needlessly hairsplitting discussion, and that the charity for the college or the individual who receives a gift anonymously, is not a whit the better off because of that anonymous-

But I think the donor is.

For no matter how generous o kind a deed you do, a better stil awaits you-'Whis is, to keep that hid."

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women testified to its marvelous merits.

It Makes Sick Women Well.

Pulp Industry on the Labrador.

It will be remembered that last fall we gave publicity to the fact that there was a strong movement on foot with the object of endeavouring to induce the Government to move for a cured about 1,500 here and then went change in the law with the object of back for the other seals after permitting the export of pulpwood from the Labrador. We were sure of our ground for our information came from a number of men interested in limits on the Labrador, and who felt sure that they could effect sales speedily to Americans who wished to supply American mills with the woods. and who were somewhat alarmed at the policy of various Provinces of the-Dominion of Canada in curtailing the present supplies to mills over the horder. As we felt such a change of law was a retrograde policy in our industrial development, we expressed the opinion that if the course was In the Daily News the Premier at the time declared especially that he would countenance no change in policy. During the past session no change in the law was attempted. The law remained as it was made during the administration of Sir Robert Bond. May we venture now to point the moral by calling the attention of our readers to the Big Sale of Labrador limits to Americans, whom Mr. Strong points out have taken over the prothat she would pick up a saving trip perty and will convert the wood into pulp on the Labrador, and by doing go our forest resources will be utilized build up a big industry in our own country instead of building up indus-

Arrival of the Steamer Labrador.

The s.s. Labrador, Capt. Baxter Barbour, arrived from the Gulf sealfishery this morning at an early hour hailing for 3.700 seals, old and young: or the weight of about 10,000. Capt. Barbour has been up against hard lines this spring and missed a big trip of fat by the merest accident. The ship left Channel with the rest of the Gulf fleet on the 10th March. She got away from them shortly afterwards, but saw the Southern Cross and Harlaw on the 12th, and believed they were in the fat. The Labrador and Viking steamed to the westward of the Magdalen Islands and the Harlaw and Southern Cross went to the N.W. of Bryon Island. Saturday, the 12th, the Southern Cross and Harlaw were seen forcing on towards the Labrador and Viking, and the belief was that they had no sign of the seals, so that the ship kept her course with the Viking towards the N.W. It being foggy on Sunday the ship burnt down, and steamed 45 miles further west by the 14th. The Viking was again spoken that day, and Capt.

Bartlett's impression was that the seals were away to the N.W., as there was no whelping ice in their immediate neighborhood. The Viking steamed off to reconnoitre the other ships and the Labrador became jammed for the one and only time during the spring. Had this not occurred the ship would have gone on with the Viking and would have secured a fine trip of seals. After getting clear in about four hours she went to the N W. about 20 miles, but getting no sign came back and struck a patch of hoods, which, however, were very nuch scattered. This was on the 18th March and they picked up 220 of the patch. Next day, the 19th, they struck a large patch and the men panned 1,500. They were picking up these all day Sunday, the 20th, and or Monday dropped a boat to mark the pans, which contained fully 1,500 She then steamed north to get to an other patch, a distance of 25 miles to reach it. This was the main patch but the seals were badly scattered The patch lay 80 miles N.W. of Bryon Island. They worked there three lays when a big sea hove in and bounded the ice to pieces. They se-week's absence but never found them as they wheeled away out the Gul when the ice broke up. The captair went ashore on Bryon Island on the 25th, but the people there had see: no sign of the flags. The seals were old hoods and exceptionally large, and if the ship had found the lost pans she would have had the weight of 17,000. She then went down the Straits and saw numbers of old seals but they were so wild that nothing could be done with them. The ice by this time was scarce, having nearly all melted, and after going to the ront of the country a great scarcity of ice was also noted. The ship hav ng only a week's coal left it was decided to come through the Straits to Port aux Basques and if possible pick up a few old seals, but none were found. Two thousand five hunired of the seals were old hoods, the rest young hoods. She saw the Kitch on the 25th March and the belief is

"Aunt Sally" Says Something.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Mr. Editor,—I have been tink-ing for some time about writin' you; but as it is the first time I ever done anything of the kind I was half afraid to try it, as I am a bad speller and I don't know the right names of tings; howsomever as no one else don't seem to have anything to say I tought I would say something, although I am a woman that don't have much to say about anything. I am not one of those busy bodies. I hardly go out-side my own house. We, that is, my-self and Joe, (that is my man's name) we stay home and mind our own business. Sallie Ann, that is our daughter, she don't go out much either, so you see, Mr. Editor, we are harmless folks, but a body can't help what they

Joe and I get into argiments once in a while about polytics. Joe, he is all for the old Government. I don't know what they call them, but I think it is libertys. No, sir, nothin' like the Libertys for Joe; I am for the new party I don't know what they call them either; anyhow Joe and I can't agree at all when it comes to polytics. I don't know if Joe expected to get a job or not. I said to him if you had been for the new party and knew anythin' you might a ben a J. P. now. That sat Joe goin', he jumped up and kicked the poor cat; she jumped upon the shelf and knocked down my teapot that Aunt Sally Smith gave me 30 years agone nex caplin scull, then she went through the windy. I was glad she broke that windy, then, Joe would have the trubble to put in another glass. When Joe seen what he done, and what the cat done, he kind a sobered up a bit. "Sally," says he, "you talk about me not knowin' enough to be J. P., why, my dear woman, they make J. 's. out of anythin' nowadays, as long as they are on the right side of polices. I know men that have been appointed J. P. this year that is no more fit for it than my old red ox is to be

"Honourable," says Joe, kind scornful like, "do you know what nonourable means?" "No," says I. "Well," says he, "I'll try and splain o you the meanin' of the word: It neans a man should be, in the first clace, honest and truthful, and never make promises that he does not intend to fulfil, no respector of persons, and tot look down on a man because he is not of the same opinion as himself; he hould be upright and down straigth ike the fore leg of a dog."

That fairly took my breath away. Well done, Joe," says I, "you oughter been a J.P." "No, thank you," says Joe, "that is too mean a job for me. There is enough of them tryin' for obs now, only because they are too azy to get an honest living. I am geting purty old, Sally, and that you know, and never got a cent from the Government yet, only what I worked ard for." "But," says I, "you will ome in for the old age pension." 'Sally," says Joe, "I thought you had etter sense than talk such rot; that vas one of the many promises that was made, something like payin' the Id widows their mite in nothing less han gold or silver. You see how hey are doing it. Why they tell me he widows don't get anything at all except they are starving. Talk about old age pensions, the least they ould do would be to help the poor ishermen's wives, after their hus-pands spending their whole lives pull-ng codfish out of the water." "I'll ell you what it is, Sally," says Joe, when one comes to think about the vay things are done these times to vould make a man mad. They think we poor simple folk don't see their scheming." "Why, hrough their scheming." "Why, ny dear woman," says Joe, "if you lon't belong to a certain society you won't get anything." "Honourable, iid you say? Don't talk to me about Honourable," says Joe, "if I had the larning you got Sally I would let some of them know." "Poets may sing of the glory of the eagle and artists may paint the beauties of birds of plumage, but the modest American hen is entitled to a tribute for her industry, her usefulness and her productivity. The American hen can produce wealth equal to the capital stock of all the banks of the New York Clearing House in three months and have a week to spar In less than sixty days she can equal the total production of all the gold mines in the United States. The United States proudly boasts of its enormous production of pig iron, by far the greatest of any country in the world, and yet the American hen produces as much in six months as the iron mines of the country produce in a year. . Before now you could dive in the puncheon and "lift" a gad if they weren't given to you, now the outharbor man guards them like a teller of bank guards his cash. It was easier to live in days gone by in every respect, for if you were half good-looking you could have an overdrawn account at the bank, but to-day the outharbor man and the bank clerk are hard to get over. Anyway, Saturday being a dull day myself and Tucker went over to the Southside to try and get a gad of fippers. There were a few outharbor men whom Tucker knew in days gone by, and some of them he provided with empty butter tubs before they went to the ice: he also gave them a odd comb of matches or took the trouble of showing them where to get a bag of shavings, and he naturally expected to be received money. Mr. Mullalay's Manifesto.

The reforms and innovations he suggests ought to innovations he suggests ought to readily meet with the approval of every taxpayer, particularly his outspoken intimation to let in more light on where the money goes which is contributed yearly to the Municipal exchequer, its advocacy of needed sanitary improvements in the city parks and elsewhere is another feature of his policy which is very highly commendable, and it is a pleasure indeed to see that at last some one has deed to see that at last some one has woke up to the necessity of such an improvement. I believe if Mr. Mullalay be placed in a position to carry this out there will be no doubt of its ccomplishment in very quick time. Every other pronouncement of his is certainly very striking and will, I am sure, meet with much approval all over the city. In common with many other taxpayers I wish him every success and trust that or all the common with many other taxpayers. cess and trust that on polling day he will be so well gustained as to place him in a position to bring about the reforms and improvements he advocates so well.

PILGRIMS LIONIZE KITCHENER.

Special to Evening Telegram. NEW YORK, April 19. The greatest living soldier in the world was the tribute paid by Joseph H. Choate to Lord Kitchener at the dinner given in his honor by the Pil-grims at the Waldorf Astoria. More than 450 distinguished guests lionized the British visitor. Lord Kitchener in his reply praised the U. S. Military Academy at West Point and referred to the recent Globe circling voyage of the Atlantic Fleet as a great peace promoting event. Two members of President Taft's Cabinet voiced the President's regret at being unable to meet the distinguished visitor. Lord Kitchener said in part: "I have re-cently been in Australia and naturally heard there a great deal about the visit of the American Fleet. What Seems to have struck everyone in the Commonwealth was not only the great courtesy and goodwill of the Admiral and his officers, but also the good behaviour and smartness and preparedness for war of the men and ships of the fleet. A few months ago recommended that the Australian nd New Zealand Governments take West Point as their model for the Military College they require, and I hope the ideal I have thus placed beore them will not appear to them unattainable." A cable from Lord Roberts, President of the British Pilgrims.

was read by Mr. Choate. BUDGET UP AGAIN.

Special to Evening Telegram David Lloyd George introduced last year's Budget in the House of Com-mons to-day. He declared that he realized that the present deficit of one hundred and thirty-one million two hundred and forty thousand dollars would be more than wiped out when all arrears had been collected. Had the Budget been passed as usual last year, he said, there would have been a surplus of twenty-one million dol-lars. The Chancellor commented upon the remarkable decrease of 32 pe cent. in the consumption of whiskey which decrease he attributed mainly to the extra duty imposed. The loss in the revenue from spirits as compared with the estimated figures was fourteen million dollars.

Big Deal in Pulp Limits on Labrador.

Yesterday a big deal involving a uarter of million dollars was concluded by R. W. Strong, and timber rents to the amount of $55,412 were paid in a lump sum to the Crown Lands Department.

Mr. Strong has been negotiating since last November a deal with a company of twelve New York capitalists for the sale of 13,850 square miles of timber land on Labrador extending from Byron's Bay, North Side of Hamilton Inlet, to Port Manners. Mr. Strong who has two other partners with him in this property sold out their rights to the New York men for quarter of a million dollars and 49 per cent. of the proceeds of the industry in future.

The company of which Mr. C. D. Stanford, of Bangor, Maine, is a promnent member, will be capitalized at $25,000,000, and will proceed to the work of development of the propert about the latter part of May. The in-ention is to erect there pulp mills at the most convenient points on tha stretch of coast where the timber lim its are situated. They will manufac ture pulp and export to England and America. It is contemplated that exporting can be carried on at least six months of the year. Of course the work of manufacturing can be carried

We congratulate Mr. Strong on the success of this enterprise, for to him is due great credit for having worked it out to the present successful issue. In fact the money $750,000, is now only waiting a cable gram from him to be in order to be out into the undertaking referred to. We hope to be able to give the public particulars about this second underaking before long.

Narrowly Escaped From Drowning.

When the schr. At the last moment his brother, Owen, bethought himself of Charles, and dived through the water into the forecastle and found him covered with water and drowning in his berth. It was a terrible struggle to get him up, but with the aid of the others this was accomplished. Charles was unconscious and it was some time before he recovered. If

They had been at work on a local boat there and on arrival at Brigus Junction the train was being shunted on to a siding, as the conductor, who was going according to orders from headquarters, had some business to do there. The men did not want this but required the conductor to proceed, and on his refusal to do so forcibly took charge of the train. While the row was on and excitement at its highest another rain came up, and with the assistance of the officials of the new arrival peace was restored and the conductor of the first train was enabled to do his work. MUNICIPAL ELECTION

To the Municipal Electors of St John's.

I have already intimated to you my intention of being nominated as a candidate for the forthcoming Civic Election, but as the time is drawing near when you will be called upon to record your votes, I deem it opportune to make a further pronounce- then off to the eastward. It is though ment of my policy.

You will agree with me, I think, that the taxpayers of St. John's should be given the benefit of a more intim- they report as follows:ate acquaintance with the inner work ings of the City Council than at pres ent obtains, and, with a view to this end. I shall advocate, if elected, a further publicity of all its doings than is at present given. Each and every taxpayer is entitled as a shareholder in the Municipality, to receive from its directors,-the elected Council Board, -as complete and detailed a state ment as possible of its receipts and expenditure, hence my reason for advocating a wider and fuller publicity.

I am in accord in the main with the recent legislation, empowering the Council to extend the water and se erage system, but would in all cases concerned have due regard to the financial ability of the working man, and the adaptability of his house to comply with the new conditions.

The utter lack of sanitary conveni ences in our parks and other civic thoroughfares, is a disgraceful condition of affairs, and a reproach to the authorities who have tolerated it so long. I promise if elected to impress upon the Council the urgent need of an improvement in this respect.

One of my first duties, also, would be to see that the Higher Levels obtain the full benefit of the water system, recently installed, by adopting prompt measures to remedy whatever defects may now exist. The safety of a city depends in a large degree, as you are aware, upon a complete and efficient water service along the upper portion of the city, hence the necessity and advantage of its thoroughness is very essential

The need of fish markets must be apparent to all, and, as I have had opportunities of observing the cleanlines and up to date surroundings of such buildings, in other cities, I am impressed with the belief that we could in this respect, keep abreast of those cities abroad. The slight expenditure involved would be repaid a hundred fold in the great health and other advantages that would accrue to the

Generally, every measure of reform and improvement desirable, and fin ancialy feasible, will be advocated by me, and as a property holder, it will naturally be my aim to safeguard the interests of property holders in gen

Having thus given a brief outline of my views on civic matters, and fearing that it may be impossible for me to meet all the electors between row and Polling Day, I will ask them to kindly regard this as a personal appeal for their valued influence and support in my behalf, and I shall erdeavour to repay the confidence re posed in me hy carrying out their wishes to the fullest extent possible

Respectfully yours. J. J. MITTLALY. St. John's. April 20th, 1010.

Water For Cabot St.

Since Monday the Municipal Council has a large gang of men working on Cabot Street opening a cut to lay down a new two inch water main there. This runs from the head of Carter's Hill on the east of that thoroughfare to the head of Flower Hill on the west. The main will be connected with that on LeMarchant Road, and a high pressure of water will be had on the street. After the water pipes are laid down sewer pipes will be laid and most of the residents will have water and sewerage instelled in their houses. With such an excellent water supply on Cabot St. in the immediate future the residents indulge the hope that there will be a reduction in insurance rates on property in that section.

Bonaventure Arrives Here.

Hails for 18,000 Seals—Reports Not Good—Did Not See Neptune. The s.s. Bonaventure, Capt. John

Parsons, steamed into port at 10 o'clock last night with 18,000 prime young harps and some old seals. The ship's report is somewhat after that of the s.s. Eagle, the second last ship which arrived here. The Bonaventure was in the main patch of seals with the rest of the fleet, and when she had captured her share from that the captain decided to steam north and his luck with the old fat. ship made her way down the Labrador coast, going as far as Cape Bluff. about 60 miles below Battle Harbor, and on the way saw only four old seals. All the rest of the ficet took the same course when the patch of harps was exhausted, and though the Bonaventure was not directly in company, with these ships, it is believed that they got down to the region of Cape Bauld. The rest of the fleet were pretty nearly all spoken to but some of them had secured many old seals and had seen but very few since leaving the place where the harps were taken. The Beothic, as already eported by Capt. Kean of the Eagle the only ship which secured any old seals, and she only had 1,000 old harps. The ice away to the northward is broken up and the chances seals are not very favorable. The Neptune had not been seen by the Bonaventure, the last ship reporting her being the Bellaventure. Bay Bulls Appreciates Constable Fahey.

Some days ago it came to light that the property of a popular business place of this settlement was being tampered with, and that stealing was evidently going on. Constable Fahey. our resident constable, took the matter in hands, and deserves much credit for the active manner in which he followed up the case, discovering six of seven thieves besides money and goods appropriated by said thieves The accused since then were brought to court where justice was meted out to them We fully appreciate the no-ble efforts of our constable in bringing to justice those urchins who wer a menace to public honesty. Constable Fahey is now a veteran, being over thirty years in the service. He is a sober, examplary and honest man During his many years in the force he has done many a noble and manly act bringing forth public approbation. He has been in the district for many years, and the above is only one of the many good acts that he has placed to his credit during his stay amongs us. Therefore I consider it not out of place to make this reference to

The Winter on the Labrador.

OBSERVER.

Mr. William Green, of H. M. Cus-coms, had letters a couple of days ago from Rigolet and Cartwright which reached him via Quebec. They were written by friends there, and from the former place was dated the 15th December last and written the day before the first winter mail left for southern latitudes. The writer says that furring had been very unprofitable up to the time of writing ir all sectons of the Bay of Rigolet, and only 20 foxes were taken, most or which were "reds." One of the Eski mos, however, caught a silver fox an disposed of it for $125. Seals also were reported scarce, but just before writing some of the "jar" and bedlam er species were being captured by th natives. Partridge were very numer ous and barrels of them were held in the stores. These were mostly white the spruce variety having left early i the season. Rabbits were also pler tiful, and they were just starting t get a scattered deer. The schoone Paneo, owned by a Frenchman, afte leaving Rigolet got on the rocks a Caranella and had her hull badl damaged. She was patched up after coming off and started for N. W. River, but when about half way encount red ice, she began to make water fast and had to run back to Valley Bight where she landed all her cargo and was left there for the winter. Some of the natives were destitute down there and were sent to cut scantling for a new school house, and will be paid out of the Government grant for their work. If this were not available they would have been in had straits. Up to the date of writing there was not very heavy frost and but two feet of snow on the ground Hudson's Bay, the writer had heard was frozen over the first week in De-cember, and he soon expected a komatick from the nearest station. When writing all were busy cutting and writing all were busy cutting and hauling wood.

The letter from Cartwright was dated January 23rd, 1910. The writer had a hard time of it he says getting from Rigolette to Cartwright the journey occupying 4 days as the ice was broken up and the shore had to be skirted to reach there. Isaac Blake died suddenly of appoplexy And the sender of the missive says that good work was being done with furs, when he wrote, at Cartwright and the winter up to that time had not been exceptionally severe. The writer enclosed interesting photos of Cartwright, a trip over the floes in komaticks and pictures of the Indian dogs used there and the native Eskimos.

Last Appearances of Famous Statesmen.

When some weeks ago Mr. Chamberlain entered the House of Commons from behind the Speaker's chair, and, supported on each side, made his feeble way to the Clerk's it must have occurred to many of the silent and awed spectators of this dramatic scene that the great gladiator The of the past was taking his last look at the arena in which for so many years he had been the doughtiest

Just sixteen years earlier a still greater statesman had said farewell to the Chamber, of which he had for more than sixty years been such a distinguished ornament. Mr. Gladstone had made his last speech in a voice as ringing and with a passion as intense as in the days of his youth. The Speaker had left the chair; and as the veteran was making his way out of the House for the last time, he stood for a moment beneath the Speaker's chair, gave one swift, comprehensive glance of those eagle eyes of his around the scene of so many past triumphs, and then, squaring his shoulders, strode grimly and resolutely out of the Chamber.

Disraeli's Farewell.

Thirteen years earlier Gladstone's great rival, Disraeli, made his last bow on the political stage in the House of Lords, at the close of a speech against the evacuation of Candahar by our troops. Broken man as he was, there was no trace of weakness or faltering in his farewell effort of oratory. There was much of the old fire and the picturesque eloquence of his prime. "The key of india is in London," he concluded. The majesty of Sovereignty, the pirit and vigour of your parliaments he inexhaustible resources of a free n ingenious, and a determined peole-these are the keys of India." And s the old statesman resumed his seat, he Peers burst into one of those rare ounds of applause which showed that hey had been strangely moved. Six weeks later the great voice was stilled n death.

The farewell words of the "great Earl of Derby," in the House of ords on June 17th, 1869, were among he most eloquent and impressive the 'Rupert of Debate" ever delivered My Lords," he said, in his peroration, I am now an old man, and like many of your Lordships, I have now passed he three-score years and ten. My official life is entirely closed, my poitical life is nearly so, and in the ourse of nature my natural life cannot now be long." In the following october the curtain had been rung own on the last scene of all.

"Old Pam's" Humour.

Palmerston's farewell speech was lelivered on May 23rd 1865, in the sixteenth Parliament in which he had sat. It was a speech of considerable leakage of Cabinet secrets; and probably none who enjoyed the Grand Old Man's delicate humour (he was so at that time), full of the effervescence ot youth, dreamed that the House would never hear his voice again.

Cobden's last words in the Comnons, delivered on July 22nd, 1864, were an eloquent condemnation of the xtension of Government manufacturs, and concluded thus: "Our fortunes is a Government and nation are inlissolubly united, and we will rise or fall, flourish or fade together, acording to the energy, enterprise, and bility of the great body of the manuacturing and industrious communPeel's Fatal Ride.

When Peel rose to speak in the Commons at one o'clock on Saturday morning, June 28th, 1850, those who listened to his eloquent condemnatable to take the Parliamentary oath, tion of Palmerston's foreign policy would have been horrified if they had known that the stately presence would be merged in death within four days. After the speech Peel went for his usual ride in Hyde Park; on Constitution Hill he was thrown violently from his horse, and on the following Tuesday night he drew his last breath.

Spencer Percival's farewell speech was made three days before he was brutally murdered in the Lobby of the House, by a madman, Bellington; and C'Connell's was "a performance in dumb show; a feeble old man muttering before a table"-a pitiful travesty of the giant whose superb eloquence and rollicking humour had, in past years, made the Commons shake with applause or rock with laughter. An Eloquent Exit.

But no statesman has made such a framatic and tragic last appearance in Parliament as that of the great Earl of Chatham, who was carried to the louse of Lords from his death-bed, aggard and emaciated, and wrapped n flannels. As he spoke, he leant leavily on his crutch. "I am an old nan," he said, feebly and pantingly. I have one foot -more than one foot in the grave. I have risen from my bed to stand up in the cause of my country, perhaps never again to weak in this House."

After a few more painful, disjointed words he fell back on his seat, apparently dying, and was carried out of he Chamber.

Cow Beats the World's Record.

Gave 80 Pounds of Milk Daily and Produced 29.27 Pounds of Butter

Utica, April 2.-About twenty-two miles south of this city, near Solsville, a cow has just distinguished herself by smashing the world's record in the amount of milk and butter production No better tonic could be devised in a seven day test. Farmer Eugene han Ferrovim, which consists of Lamunion had a cow which was proresh lean beef, Citrate of Iron and ducing milk and butter in such quanoure old Spanish Sherry Wine. Just tities that he had to milk the animal nough of the latter to stimulate the four times a day, so he took advantage of a privilege granted by the tomach to assimilate the beef and State Department of Agriculture and called upon the department for a test of the cow, the State to pay one-half of the cost of the test and the owner the other half.

A representative of the State Departmen and another dairy sharp from the Cornell Agricultral College came o the farm, and for thirty days they ed the animal, weighing every ounce of food given her, as well as every ounce of milk and butter she produced. The result was that the two years and eleven months and 23 days old cow smashed the world's record, not only for production of cows at that age but of the best that a cow of any age has produced.

Lockhart de Kol No. 101,544 is the highly poetic name of this extremely practical cow, and for seven days she gave over eighty pounds of milk each day and produced 29.27 pounds of butter in seven days. Farmer Lamunion was offered $2 500 to-day the cow, but he promptly refused it.

A great French artiste had been the whole programme at a morning entertainment given at a charitable institution in Paris which maintains many orphan children.

Afterwards she was invited to remain for breakfast. At her plate was an egg, and when she broke it, out rolled ten gold pieces. .

Boy Sent Through Post

What is thought to be the first 'human letter" to be sent through the post in Scotland was mailed at Glasgow by Mrs. Drummond one day recently. She was in the city with her boy, desiring to send the child nome, she resolved to "post" him. When she made her desire known to the officials they were surprised at the unusual request, and indicated that they had doubts as to wheather such a transaction could be carried out. Mrs. Drummond, however, was able to convince them by reference to the rules, and the officials undertook to despatch the boy. A form' was filled up and given to a telegraph messenger, who took charge of the boy and conveyed him to the address given. The messenger obtained a receipt on delivery, and returned with it to the post office. REPAIRING WHARVES.—At Brigus, Bay Roberts and Carbonear where the wharves were badly wrecked in the big storms of last fall, numbers of men are now engaged effecting repairs which were badly required. At Clarke's Beach they are engaged making a breakwater.

Series of Earthquakes

IN COSTA RICA IN 24 HOURS.

San Jose, Costa Rica, April 13 .-A series of earthquakes varying in intensity has visited Costa Rica during the past 24 hours, doing vast damage, the extent of which can only now be estimated at more than $1,000,000 So far there has been no report of loss of life, but the people in the cities are panic-stricken and are abandening their homes for the hillsides. In all there have been more than thirty shocks, ten of these occurring between 12 o'clock last night and three o'clock this morning. Property in San Jose to the value of several hundred thousand dollars has been destroyed, but it is feared that it will total far more than this. for the vibrations of the earth have not ceased. To-day the Government ordered a suspension of the general business until safety is assured. The first shocks, which occured last evening, were of slight intensity and caused little alarm, but later they became much more violent and even the staunchest buildings were shaken to their very foundations. In several instances weaker buildings were partially wrecked and many persons slightly injured.

I consider MINARD'S LINIMENT the BEST Liniment in use.

I got my foot badly jammed lately bathed it well with MINARD'S LINI-MENT, and it was as well as ever next day.

A Minister Who Cleaned Steps.

The Rev. James Adderley, who has caused amusement by advertising for a Tory curate, because some of his parishioners take such exception to his own Socialist views, is still well remembered in London no less for The Spoon Feed, which is the only his piety and good works than for his reliable device ever placed in a Foun- genial and unconventional ways. A story which he tells himself is entertaining. Some years ago he was a The Gold Pens in Waterman's Ideals, member of the ascetic religious order at Plaistow, and was one day cleaning the doorstep, when a benevolent old lady, struck by appearance, and attributed his menial occupation to misfortune, bestowed some coppers on him. A few days later the old lady was startled to see the object of her charity enter the pulpit and preach a sermon.—Tit-Bits.

HOW CAN WE COUNTER-ACT

THE INCREASED COST OF LIVING?

A second's reasoning will supply the answer. Beef and pork are dear and getting dearer all the time, and the cost is out of proportion with their food-

There is more nourishment in a shilling's worth of bread than a shilling's worth of beef or pork. But the problem is not done with yet. The shilling's worth of bread is not always the same value. Breadmade from
