SPRING Skin Troubles

Mothers who have used Zam-Buk know how it cures Spring Skin Troubles in Children or Adults. Mothers who have not yet tried it should note these facts—Zam-Buk was unknown ten years ago, yet such is its merit that to-day it has become the standard salve in the homes of four continents! Zam-Buk is purely herbal; contains no poisonous coloring matter; is used by leading medical men; used in the British Army and Navy; used by all best fitted to know the needs of the skin. Make it your family balm!

Mr. J. C. Bates, of Burks Falls (Ont.), says:—"Zam-Buk cured my three children, who were all broken out in sores to such an extent that it was pitiable to see them. These sores had defied all remedies previously applied, but I am glad to say Zam-Buk healed them."

Miss S. G. Hamilton, of Alliston (Ont.), says:—"My face and hands were one mass of pimples and blotches. These would itch, and when rubbed, broke out into sores. Whenever I put water near the affected parts it caused a stinging sensation and much pain—just as if I had been scalded. Nothing that I applied seemed to do me any good until I tried Zam-Buk. That gave me relief, and a few weeks of the Zam-Buk treatment resulted in a perfect cure."

Zam-Buk cures pimples, skin eruptions, cuts, burns, bruises, scratches, itching sores, ulcers, blood-poisoning, eczema, ringworm, bad leg, diseased ankles, and all skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well into the parts affected, it cures scurvy, rheumatism, and sciatica. All Druggists and Stores sell at 50c. box, three for $1.25, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for 50c.

Trifles.

"Why don't your grandmother take you with her?" said Hagar, who in a measure sympathized with Maggie for being thus isolated.

"She says we are too young to go into society," answered Mag. "It will be time enough two years hence, when I'm eighteen and Theo twenty. Then I believe she intends taking us to London, where we can show off our accomplishments, and practice that wonderful courtesy which Mrs. Jeffrey has taught us. I daresay the Queen will be astonished at our qualifications"; and with a merry laugh, as she thought of the appearance she should make at the Court of St. James, Mag leaped on Gritty's back and bounded away, while Hagar looked wistfully after her, saying as she wiped the tears from her eyes: "Heaven bless the girl! She might sit on the throne of England any day, and Victoria wouldn't disgrace herself at all by doing her reverence, even if she be a child of Hagar Warren."

As Maggie had said, Madam Conway was going to England. At first she thought of taking the young ladies with her, but, thinking they were hardly old enough yet to be emancipated from the schoolroom, she decided to leave them under the supervision of Mrs. Jeffrey, whose niece she promised to bring with her on her return from America. Upon her departure she bade Theo and Maggie a most affectionate adieu, adding:

A BROKEN-DOWN SYSTEM.
It is a condition (or disease) to which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—a break-down, as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its causes (for they are almost innumerable), its symptoms are much the same: the more prominent being, sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all that ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is absolutely essential in all such cases is increased vitality—vigour—

VITAL STRENGTH & ENERGY
to throw off these morbid feelings, and experience, proves that as night succeeds the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of the celebrated life-reviving tonic than by any other known combination. So sure is it as it is taken in accordance with the printed directions accompanying it, will the shattered health be restored.

THE EXPIRING LAMP OF LIFE LIGHTED UP AFRESH.
and a new existence imparted to places of what had so lately seemed worn-out, "used up," and maintained. This wonderful medicine is purely vegetable and innocuous, is agreeable to the taste—suitable for all constitutions and conditions, in either sex; and it is difficult to imagine a case of disease or derangement, whose main features are those of debility, that will not be speedily and permanently benefited by this never-failing restorative essence, which is destined to cast into oblivion—something that had preceded it for this purpose—and thus become a class of human ailments.

THERAPION is sold by the principal Chemists throughout the world. In England, 2/6 and 4/6. Purchasers should see that the word "THERAPION" appears on British Government Stamp (in white letters on a red ground) affixed to every package by order of His Majesty's Home-Council, and without which it is a forgery.

THERAPION may now also be obtained in Dragee (Tasteless) form.

"Be good girls while I am away. Keep in the house, mind Mrs. Jeffrey, and don't fall in love."

This last injunction came involuntarily from the old lady, to whom their idea of falling in love was quite as preposterous as to themselves.

"Fall in love!" repeated Maggie when her tears were dried, and she with Theo was driving slowly home. "What could grandma mean! I wonder who is there for us to love, unless it be John the coachman, or Bill the gardener. I most wish we could get in love, though, just to see how 'twould seem, don't you?" she continued.

"Not with anybody here," answered Theo, her nose slightly elevated at the thoughts of people whom she had been educated to despise.

"Why not here as well as else where?" asked Maggie. "I don't see any difference. But grandma needs to be troubled, for such things as men's boots never came near our house. I think it's a shame, though," she continued, "that we don't know anybody either male or female. Let's go down to Worcester some day and get acquainted. Don't you remember the two handsome young men whom we saw five years ago, in Douglas's store and how they winked at each other when grandma ran down their goods and said there were not any darning needles fit to use this side of the water!"

On most subjects Theo's memory was treacherous, but she remembered perfectly well the two young men particularly the taller one, who had given her a remnant of blue ribbon which he said was just the color of her eyes. Still, the idea of going to Worcester did not strike her favorably. "She wished Worcester would come to them," she said, "but she should not dare go there. They would surely get lost. Grandma would not like it, and Mrs. Jeffrey would not let them go, even if they wished."

"A fig for Mrs. Jeffrey," said Maggie. "I shan't mind her much. I'm going to have a real good time, doing as I please, and if you advise, you'll have one, too."

"I suppose I shall do what you tell me to—I always do," answered Theo, submissively, and there the conversation ceased.

Arrived at home, they found dinner awaiting them, and Maggie, when seated, suggested to Mrs. Jeffrey that she should give them a vacation of a few weeks, just long enough for them to get rested and visit the neighbors. But this Mrs. Jeffrey refused to do.

"She had her orders to keep them at their books," she said, and "studied was healthful" at the same time she bade them be in the schoolroom or the morning. There was a wicked look in Maggie's eyes, but her tongue told no tales, and when next morning she went with Theo, demurely to the schoolroom, she seemed surprised at hearing from Mrs. Jeffrey that every book had disappeared from the desk, where usually kept; and though the greatly disturbed and astonished lady had sought for them nearly an hour, they were not to be found.

"Maggie has hidden them, I know," said Theo, as she saw the mischievous look on her sister's face.

"Margaret wouldn't do such a thing, I'm sure," answered Mrs. Jeffrey, her voice and manner indicating a little doubt, however, as to the truth of her assertion.

But Maggie had hidden them, and no amount of coaxing could persuade her to bring them back. "You refused me a vacation when I asked for it, she said, 'so I'm going to have it perforce'; and playfully catching up the little dumpy figure of her governess, she carried her out upon the piazza, and seating her in a large easy-chair, bade her 'take snuff and comfort, too, as long as she liked.'

Mrs. Jeffrey knew perfectly well that Maggie in reality was mistress of the house, that whatever she did Madam Conway would ultimately sanction; and as a rest was by no means disagreeable, she yielded with a good grace, dividing her time between sleeping, snuffing and dressing, while Theo lounged upon the sofa and devoured some musty old novels, which Maggie, in her rummaging, had discovered.

Meanwhile, Maggie kept her promise of visiting the neighbors, and almost every family had something to say in praise of the merry light-hearted girl, of whom they had heretofore known but little. Her favorite recreation, however, was riding on horseback, and almost every day she galloped through the woods and over the fields, usually terminating her ride with a call upon old Hagar, whom she still continued to tease unmercifully for the secret, and who was glad when at last an incident occurred which for a time drove all thoughts of the secret from Maggie's mind.

CHAPTER VI.
The Junior Partner.

One afternoon toward the middle of April, when Maggie, as usual, was flying through the woods, she paused for a moment beneath the shadow of a sycamore, while Gritty drank from a small brook. The pony having quenched his thirst, she gathered up her reins for a fresh gallop, when her ear caught the sound of another horse's hoofs; and, looking back, she saw approaching her at a rapid rate a gentleman whom she knew to be a stranger. Not caring to be overtaken, she chirruped to the spirit of Gritty, who, bounding over the velvety turf, left the unknown rider far in the rear.

"Who can she be?" thought the young man, admiring the utter fearlessness with which she rode; then, feeling a little piqued as he saw how the distance between them was increasing, he exclaimed: "Be-appeared from the desk, where usually kept; and though the greatly disturbed and astonished lady had sought for them nearly an hour, they were not to be found.

"Maggie has hidden them, I know," said Theo, as she saw the mischievous look on her sister's face.

"Margaret wouldn't do such a thing, I'm sure," answered Mrs. Jeffrey, her voice and manner indicating a little doubt, however, as to the truth of her assertion.

But Maggie had hidden them, and no amount of coaxing could persuade her to bring them back. "You refused me a vacation when I asked for it, she said, 'so I'm going to have it perforce'; and playfully catching up the little dumpy figure of her governess, she carried her out upon the piazza, and seating her in a large easy-chair, bade her 'take snuff and comfort, too, as long as she liked.'

she woman, or be she witch, I'll overtake her," and, whistling to his own fleet animal, he, too, dashed on at a furious rate.

"Trying to catch me, are you?" thought Maggie. "I'd laugh to see you do it," and entering at once into the spirit of the race, she rode on for a time with headlong speed. Then, by way of tantalizing her pursuer, she paused for a moment until he had almost reached her, when, at a peculiar whistle, Gritty sprang forward, while Maggie's mocking laugh was borne back to the discomfited young man, whose interest in the daring girl increased every moment. It was a long, long chase she led him, over hills, across the plains, and through the grassy valley, until she stopped at last within a hundred yards of the deep, narrow gorge, through which the millstream ran.

"I have you now," thought the stranger, who knew by the dull, roaring sound of the water that a chasm lay between him and the opposite bank.

But Maggie had not yet half displayed her daring feats of horsemanship, and when he came so near that his waving brown locks and handsome dark eyes were plainly discernible she said to herself: "He rides tolerably well. I'll see how good he is at a leap," and, setting herself more firmly in the saddle, she patted Gritty upon the neck. The well trained animal understood the signal, and rearing high in the air was fast nearing the bank, when the young man, suspecting her design, shrieked out: "Stop, lady, stop! It's madness to attempt it!"

"Follow me if you can!" was Maggie's defiant answer, and the next moment she hung in mid-air over the dark abyss.

Involuntarily the young man closed his eyes, while his ears listened anxiously for the cry which would come next. But Maggie knew full well what she was doing. She had leaped that narrow gorge often, and now, when the stranger's eyes unclosed, she stood upon the opposite bank, caressing the noble animal which had borne her safely there.

9156.—A PRACTICAL WORK APRON.

The busy housewife or the woman who has little duties to perform about the house, well knows the value of a protective work apron such as the one here shown. The making is a very simple matter (as will be seen at a glance) and may be easily and readily accomplished. Generous pockets are attached to the skirt and the sleeves are full enough to accommodate the dress sleeves worn underneath. Linen, gingham, and percale are all suitable for the making. The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: Small, Medium and large. It requires 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for the Medium size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

One of the comments which my little talk on the psychology of a name called forth was so interesting that I must pass it on. I wrote about the way in which names seem to be used in cycles—now a generation of Ruths, then one of Dorothys, then a flock of Elizabeths. My letter friend writes:

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," which was published, I think, early in 1852, I read aloud to about twenty women and girls in July of that year. One of the most lovable characters in the book was Eva, and I know (or have known, as some of them have passed away) seven girls who were born between that time and July of 1853 who were named Eva. To one who can recall as far back as I can it is interesting to see that some of the names of my youngest schoolmates (we went to school then at five, and sometimes at four years of age) are being duplicated now, such as "Priscilla," "Esther," "Hester," "Margaret," "Barbara," "Olive," "Molly," "Miriam," and many others."

To any of my readers who can remember the days of which she speaks, I think this comment must be especially interesting. "It is a great trial to me," said a woman who was born into a very large family and married into another, "that I cannot remember with gifts all the birthdays in our two families, but it is simply impossible. Why, just think, I have fifteen sisters and brothers, real and in-law, twenty-seven nephews and nieces, and about thirty-five uncles and aunts and cousins, that would mean more than one gift a week

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits. It Makes Weak Women Strong. It Makes Sick Women Well. Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drugs. Is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.

Household Notes.

A tube of white oil color is good for mending china. The broken edges should be wiped quite dry, the color then applied and the parts pressed together. This takes several weeks to dry, but it will then hold perfectly.

Place clothes in two piles when ironing to avoid sorting them later. Those which need mending may be put into one pile and those which are whole on the other. When ironing it is easy to notice a torn place or where a button is missing.

To salt almonds, first blanch and dry in the oven to a golden brown. Take the white of an egg and twice as much flour and beat well. Stir in the almonds and coat well, drain and throw into salt, coating all over. Sift, dry and bottle.

After a walk in the sun and wind rub a little almond oil on the face, leave it on for ten minutes and then wipe off with a soft rag. It will prevent a burned, uncomfortable feeling and will remove any dirt there may be as well as washing would do.

The Stomach Needs Help

The liver, kidneys and bowels must be kept active with DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

The liver and kidneys are overworked in their efforts to remove the poisonous waste matter from the system. They fail and become torpid and clogged. The bowels become constipated and stomach derangements follow.

There is one medicine which will overcome this condition more certainly and more quickly than any other, and this is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This medicine gets the bowels in action at once and by awakening the liver and kidneys ensures the thorough cleansing of the filtering and excretory systems. With the poisonous obstructions removed, the digestive system resumes its healthy condition, appetite improves, pains and aches disappear as well as irritability and depression. You cannot imagine a more satisfactory treatment. One pill a dose, 5 cents a box, at all dealers, or Ed. Pearson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Wedding Bells.

An unusually attractive wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the new church on Church Hill, when Miss Eliza Samson was united in matrimony to Mr. James Beaton. The Rev. J. Uphill performed the ceremony. The bride's dress was of cream lustré trimmed with white satin and bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms, she carried a bouquet of white carnations and asparagus fern; her travelling costume was of pale blue serge trimmed with cream fringe, wearing a black beaver hat. The bridesmaids were Miss Bridle Carroll and Miss Theresa Maloney, friends of the bride, they looked very pretty dressed in pale blue crepe de luxe. Mr. James Maloney and Mr. Robert Leburn acted as groomsmen. Mr. W. M. Beaton acted as father-giver. At the reception which was held immediately afterwards the Rev. J. Uphill in his usual graceful manner proposed the toast of the bride and groom to which the latter responded. The reception being over the wedding party wended their way to the train to spend their honeymoon with their friends at Holyrood. At the station the groom received many congratulations from the A. N. D. Co. of which he is a trusty employee. After the honeymoon the happy couple will leave for their future home at Miller-ton where a reception is awaiting them by their friends. Badger Brook.

A Fatal Crossing.

Five Men Meet Terrible Death in Indiana.

Ellettsville, Ind., March 19.—Five men in a surrey were killed outright by a passenger train on the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railway at a crossing near here early to-day. They had spent last evening at a theatre at Bloomington, and were driving to Spencer, where they were employed as glass blowers. They were: Martin Worden, Louisville, Ky.; Emmett Williams, Kansas City, Mo.; Art Farmer, Summitville, Ind.; Hal Brown, Spencer, Ind.; Jesse Rogers, Spencer, Ind.

The engine struck the surrey squarely and splintered it. Four of the men were thrown clear of the track, but the body of Worden was caught by the pilot of the locomotive and carried a mile and a half to this city. Trainmen went back to the crossing and found the torn bodies of Worden's companions. The two horses hitched to the surrey were not hurt.

Croup Comes Suddenly

ABOUT midnight the child awakes coughing—that peculiar, metallic cough called croup, and which strikes terror to the mother's heart. Then begins the struggle for breath, and if relief is to be obtained treatment must be prompt and effective.

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Limesed and Turpentine as a cure for croup will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in loosening the cough, clearing the air passages of the head, and soothing the excited nerves.

There are imitations of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Limesed and Turpentine. Be sure you see the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, on the bottle you buy. 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARBET IN COWS.

THE HORSE.

BY H. L. RANN.

The horse is a prehistoric animal which is vanishing from the earth faster than the use of the bone napkin ring. There was a time when society leaned upon the horse as its sole mode of transportation, but now the horse leans upon society at the rate of $15 a month at the livery stable. Unless the automobile industry is stepped on by a live panic, inside of five years all that will be left of the horse will be the form-fitting hair mattress and a few similar by-products. The horse is the only kind of stock which can be watered to excess. Horses are now used mainly by people who are not particular about getting anywhere the same week, and who wish to be sure that when they arrive all the members of their anatomy will be able to answer to roll call. There are several different styles of horses. The lady's driving mare is a horse which can be driven with perfect safety by any woman who does not fear death in any form. The cab horse is a rare old edition in a chronic state of inflammatory rheumatism, and is getting harder to find than brotherly love in a loan shark. The saddle horse is a flowery mammal which is used by the members of the Four Hundred as a genteel substitute for pepsin gum and other aids to digestion. The trotting horse is a mild frame-up which is commonly sandwiched in between the art hall and the balloon ascension at the county fair. The pacer is a horse with a rotary action and side-delivery attachment, and when viewed from the seat of a top buggy is apt to provoke ridicule and sea-sickness. Trading horses is a salubrious pastime which enables some trustful brother to cut his eye teeth at a slight expense, and thus prepare him for the practical work of skinning others along the pathway of life.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headaches. I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing."

"I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a feeling of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems not worth living."

Prescription 'A.'

CURES: INDIGESTION and DYSPEPSIA in all its forms.

Bad Company. An old agricultural labourer, who was spending a day in one of our large northern towns, enjoyed himself so much that he decided to stay until the last train. Not knowing the time of its departure, he made his way to the station to make inquiries. Seeing a group of porters on the platform, he approached them and asked what time the last train left for Rieckley. The wag of the party informed him that the last train just left before the Judgment Day. "Wal, then," said the old man, "I wad no travel by that train on no account."

"Why not?" asked the porter. "Wal, yer see, it's this way," replied the old man. "That thar train may be a bit late, and I wad no time to be seen hanging about along er the officials of this railway company when the last trump blows."

MOLASSES CARGO.—The barq. Minnie, Capt. Wakeham, arrived from Barbadoes at 4.30 p.m. yesterday, after an excellent passage of twenty one days. She brought 600 puncheons of molasses consigned to Goodridge & Sons. Fine weather was experienced the entire trip. The Minnie saw no sign of the other vessels making long passages and not yet reported.

Have you a bad taste in your mouth after meals? Prescription "A" will cure it. apr. 2, 11.

BOVRIL IS ALL BEEF.

Questions we are often asked.

Q.—What is the sediment at the bottom of a cup of Bovril? A.—That is a valuable portion of the nourishment, and should never be left. Q.—Are you serious when you say that Bovril is more nourishing than ordinary Meat Extract or Home-made Beef Tea? A.—Certainly! and we have for years offered large rewards to anyone who can prove the contrary. Q.—But can you prove your statement? A.—Yes—from the pen of Baron Liebig himself, who told the world that the man who managed to get the nourishing, as well as the stimulating properties of Beef in a liquid form, would produce something far better than Liebig's Extract, and would be a public benefactor. Q.—And you have done this? A.—Yes. By a special process, the entire nutritious constituents of prime ox beef are separately treated, pulverized and added to specially-prepared Meat Extract, and that is Bovril.

Don't experiment with artificial imitations of dubious quality (which are dear at any price) when such a tried and proven nutritious food-beverage "made in England" is within your reach.

Deer Lake Pulp Scheme.

Yesterday in the House of Assembly, on the eve of the close of the 1912 session, the Prime Minister, Sir Edward Morris, moved the House into a Committee of the Whole for the consideration of Resolutions on the subject of the development of a Pulp and Paper Industry at Deer Lake.

(a) to raise the waters of Deer Lake fifteen feet above high water mark; (b) to raise the waters of Grand Lake ten feet above low water mark; (c) the use of Junction Brook waters, with a proviso that the rights are not exclusive.

Provision is made for compensation for injury caused to lands of the Government or private parties by the submergence of land which may result, and a security of $250,000 is to be deposited by October 1st next for the payment of such compensation.

The right of importing material and machinery for original constructions and installations during the next 30 years is also conceded. The work is to commence by May 1st, 1913.

The Prime Minister quoted letters from Mr. James Howley, Geological Surveyor, and Mr. Bayley, as to their impressions of what would result from the damming of the Lake to the heights proposed; and also letters from two bankers as to the financial and business standing of the members of the Company.

Mr. Kent criticized the nature of the evidence adduced by the Prime Minister as to the results of the raising of the levels, and said that the House should have more accurate information before it committed itself to the scheme. He also did not approve of approaching the House for special rights in every new scheme, as he thought there should be some general law dealing with the concessions which could be granted for encouraging and fostering the Pulp and Paper Industry.

A Religious Ceremony.

At noon yesterday, Easter Tuesday, the Oratory of the Presentation Convent, Cathedral Square, was the scene of an impressive and interesting ceremony of religious reception, when Misses Anna Elizabeth Bane, of Worcester, Mass., C.S., and Miss Margaret O'Connell, of Tralee, Ireland, were clothed with the dress of the Presentation Order. His Grace Archbishop Howley presided, assisted by Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, V.G., and Rev. J. J. St. John, P.P., Torbay, and in a lengthy and instructive address explained to the young aspirants the meaning of the life of the Presentation Order. The ceremony was a most beautiful one, these young ladies reminded one of the spotless lilies whose freshness and beauty are spent in adorning the Tabernacle, the home of our Eucharistic God. The service having concluded, the young ladies retired to change their shimmering robes for the sombre garb of religion, expressive of the life of detachment from the world, mortification and labour, on which they were entering. The ceremony was brought to a close by the singing of the Queen of Heaven, which tells how sweet it is to dwell together in union. The music was supplied by the Convent choir. Miss Bane will in future be known as Sister M. Cecilia, and Miss O'Connell as Sister M. Philomena. The clergy present were: His Grace Archbishop Howley, Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, Rev. J. J. St. John, Rev. P. P. Sheehan, Rev. Dr. Greene, Rev. J. J. McDermott, Rev. J. J. Pippy, Rev. P. Kelly, Rev. A. J. Maher, P.P., St. Lawrence; Rev. E. W. MacIntyre, Rev. Dr. Kitchin, Rev. Bro. Ryan, Mt. THE TWO POLES.

By WALT MASON.

The Poles, which had been lost for ages, discovered are at last; brave men toiled on by weary stages, through snow and howling blast, with frozen feet and cheeks they hurried, with frozen hands and ears, and solved the problem which had worried the world a thousand years. And terror dire came forth to meet them, and dangers thronged the way; and polar bears oft tried to eat them, as horses eat their hay. The arctic night came down and found them intrepid in the gloom; and arctic phantoms shrieked around them, and wailed of death and doom. Yet uncomplaining and undaunted did these explorers roam, until they found the poles they wanted, and shipped the blamed things home. Thus victory comes to the bidder who pays the price of toll; and I'm ashamed when I consider how I raise huge turmoil o'er little obstacles that face me when I my task pursue; I plainly see it must disgrace me to raise a howdydo. So after this I'll be like Peary and Amundsen the bold, and struggle on, though heart be weary, and both my feet are cold.

Why Should a Chicken Lay a Soft-Shellled Egg?

Because, Willie, the chicken don't know how to create a hard-shelled egg unless it has some food with lime in it.

So chicken-raisers often provide limestone gravel, broken oyster shells or some other form of lime.

Let the chicken wander free and it finds its own food and behaves sensibly.

Shut it up and feed stuff lacking lime and the eggs are soft-shelled.

Let's step from chickens to human beings.

Why is a child "backward" and why does a man or woman have nervous prostration or brain-fag? There may be a variety of reasons but one thing is certain.

If the food is deficient in Phosphate of Potash the gray matter in the nerve centres and brain cannot be rebuilt each day to make good the cells broken down by the activities of yesterday.

Phosphate of Potash is the most important element Nature demands to unite albumin and water to make gray matter.

Grape-Nuts food is heavy in Phosphate of Potash in a digestible form.

A chicken can't always select its own food, but a thoughtful man can select suitable food for his children, wife and himself.

Rush at Theatre.
When the Star Theatre opened Monday night the great crowd which awaited admission, rushed the doors, smashed the ticket office and there was a great rush and considerable confusion. Some women fainted and some excited party called out that a five wire had fallen. The performance had just begun and to the presence of mind of Mr. and Mrs. Rossley an accident of a serious nature was averted.

They went forward with a very entertaining sketch which soon reassured the occupants of the theatre. In the rush made about $20 worth of damage was done.

Criticises Report of Board of Trade.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir—The voluminous quarterly report of the Board of Trade has been published and, I must say, that to any one who has the welfare of the chief business of the country at heart, it is a most disappointing document.
The great majority of the fishermen of Newfoundland do not live in St. John's, the fishermen are not concerned with customs bonds, charter mortgages, harbor fire boats, weights and measures, and telephones. The outport merchants, who are not a few nowadays, and who vie with the influence not to be despised by politicians, are simply ignored by the Board of Trade and their interests are sacrificed to those of the fish exporters of St. John's. What about the cure and the cull of fish? What about the shipping of fish as prime merchantable which should be consigned to the West Indies or to the dung heap? Has the Board of Trade done anything to impress upon the fish catchers and the fish markets the importance of handling a food product and that the sale of it will in future depend upon its cure and the manner in which it is presented to the market, because fish producing countries are using their best energies to perfect the cure of codfish and will ere long drive us out of the market, because we blindly shut our eyes to our own short comings. We have been engaged in the fish business for centuries, the fishermen of former years knew how to make fish and how to ship it. How great a falling off in the cure of fish and in the knowledge of its quality can be easily seen by any one skilled in the old time work.
Where is the fish merchant on Water Street that is possessed of the same knowledge respecting fish, its cure and quality, as Lewis Tessier, Walter Grieve, H. LeMessurier, James Fox, Alan Goodridge, Edwin Duder, C. F. Bennett, and others of the past generations? I know of no one, unless it be Mr. A. F. Goodridge, who could tell a Merchantable fish from a bladdie, or a short caught fish from a Labrador caught fish. The outport fish merchants do know, but they are powerless to act together as they are scattered and they are shippers in opposition to the St. John's exporters.
This matter of cure is one that must be taken up by the Board of Trade, it was dealt with some time ago by a writer in the "Trade Review" whose warnings should be heeded. It is of vital importance to this country, more so than hotels, telephones, harbor fire boats, statistics and such matters as concern St. John's alone. The Board of Trade of the gentleman of the Board of Trade have no right to ask the Government to pay for statistics and printing like they did last year and to expend money in telephones, hotels, and fireworks when such expenditure is solely for the benefit of the St. John's exporters. Come gentlemen, fish exporters of St. John's, wake up, your hands in your pockets, government's pockets, and try to avert the doom impending, if you do not speedily follow the example of the Scotch, Norwegians and Americans by bettering the cure of your staple article of commerce.

Sir Robert

TO THE 'And a Dignified to Sir Court'

THE GRANGE, Whitbourne, April 4th, 1912.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—Thank you for a copy of the Daily News of the 1st inst. containing a sensational article under the caption "Where is Bond Now?" It is a rather ignominious production, and one which I would treat with silent contempt but for the fact that "the feature of the occasion," as you observed in your issue of Monday last, is the production of a letter from Sir Courtney Ibert, Clerk of the House of Commons, who records therein an opinion in reference to gifts to the Crown which is somewhat at variance with an opinion that I ventured to express in the House of Assembly a few weeks ago. This sensational trappings in which Sir Courtney Ibert's letter is presented to the public portrays the capacity for the task of dealing with a great public question which the Daily News' writer possesses and, I think, furnishes no vouchers whatever of his trustworthiness either as a writer of facts or as a guide of public opinion. To the query "Where is Bond Now?" I deign to reply, precisely where he stood on the 22nd day of February last, unshaken in his position by anything contained in Sir Courtney Ibert's letter, or by the virulent personal attacks of his political opponents. A distinguished writer says: "The violence of personal attack deters a representative from pursuing the course which his honest and deliberate judgment dictates; he is deterred from doing what his duty, according to his own conception of it, requires; when to disarray and to shun his conduct according to the wishes of his opponents;—then, he shamefully betrays his trust." This is a conception of duty that will offend all rational men, but not to individuals such as the author of the article under review.
The Daily News' writer makes a pathetic, though violent and offensive appeal to me to withdraw my opposition to the acceptance by the Government of gifts from the Railway Contractors, based upon a statement of the Clerk of the House of Commons, Sir Courtney Ibert, has expressed the opinion that "the 17th century Statute and 18th century discussion," to which I referred in the course of my criticism, has no "real bearing on the question whether acceptance of the gifts was constitutional or not," and in opposition to the acceptance of these gifts, as will appear from a perusal of my speech in the House of Assembly, was chiefly on the ground that "the Government of the Colony, who are public trustees, should be in a position unhampered by any sense of obligation to the Railway Contractors," seeing that those Contractors "are engaged in the expenditure of millions of dollars on behalf of the public, and have entered into enormous contractual obligations to the public, extending over a number of years, for the proper performance of the works and the maintenance of the trade and commerce and the general well-being of the people." That position is unaffected, unshaken, by anything that Sir Courtney Ibert has written. In fact, I must be clear that any unbiased mind that that gentleman delicately but clearly pointed out in the last sentence of his letter of disapproval of gifts to the Government, Read in connection with the letter addressed to him by Sir Edward Morris, it is evident, I submit, that there is nothing which would call for the distinction between the whole previous tenor of Sir Courtney Ibert's letter and the last sentence, but the desire and intention of dissociating the opinion which he expressed in the first paragraph, from an approval of the acceptance in this particular instance of gifts, which place the Government of the Colony under an obligation to the Railway Contractors. The first point I raised in my objection was, as Sir Edward Morris admitted in his letter to Sir Courtney Ibert, "an interesting question of constitutional law." But in my opinion that the "Salus populi Suprema lex est"—the highest law is the safety of the State, and I am unable therefore to accommodate my opponents by withdrawing my opposition to the acceptance of gifts from the Railway Contractors by the Government of this Colony. Permit me to review the "interesting question of constitutional law" which has so much excited the Government and its ally, the Daily News. On the 22nd day of February last, as introductory to my chief objections to the Government accepting gifts from the Railway Contractors, I put forward the query—
"Does not the leader of the Government, the Rt. Hon. the Premier, recognize that there is involved in this matter a constitutional question of great importance, namely, whether the Crown has the right to receive a benevolence or gift for any public purpose without the consent of Parliament? For many years—from the time of Edward 4th down to 1784—the question of compulsory and voluntary gifts to the Crown

Sir Robert Bond's Answer

TO THE "DAILY NEWS," And a Dignified and Convincing Reply to Sir Courtney Ibert's Letter.

THE GRANGE, Whitbourne, April 4th, 1912. Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I thank you for a copy of the Daily News of the 1st inst. containing a sensational article under the caption "Where is Bond Now? It is a rather ignoble production, and one which I would meet with silent contempt but for the fact that "the feature of the occasion," as you observed in your issue of Monday last, is the production of a letter from Sir Courtney Ibert, Clerk of the House of Commons, who records therein an opinion in reference to gifts to the Crown which is somewhat at variance with an opinion that I ventured to express in the House of Assembly a few weeks ago. The sensational frappings in which Sir Courtney Ibert's letter is surrounded, and the manner in which I have been attacked, lead me to believe that the letter is intended to cause a stir in the House of Commons, and to show that Sir Courtney Ibert is in a position to give an opinion on the subject of gifts to the Crown.

or levied but by authority of Parliament and that this Act and the supply hereby granted shall not be drawn into example for the time to come."

The Daily News' writer makes a pathetic, though violent and offensive appeal to me to withdraw my opposition to the acceptance by the Government of gifts from the Railway Contractors, based upon the incident that the Clerk of the House of Commons, Sir Courtney Ibert, has expressed the opinion that "the 17th century Statute and 18th century discussion," to which I referred in the course of my criticism, has no "bearing on the question whether acceptance of the gifts was constitutional or not."

Reference to the official report of the Committee will show that neither Premier or any member supporting his party made any attempt to refute that portion of my argument directed to the desirability of the Government of this Colony being directly unfettered in their dealings with a corporation which is under enormous contractual obligations to the people of the Colony. The Premier confined his criticism to the Statutes and discussions in the House of Commons I had quoted, and in doing so exhibited a complete lack of acquaintance with the Statutes and debate I had cited in support of my contention. He said: "We have been told forthwith that there has been a breach of some old Statute, or that the Premier, who has been reposing for centuries in Westminster Abbey, and that it is unconstitutional and criminal for the Government to accept gifts of this nature. With all respect to the Rt. hon. gentleman and to his great industry in searching for and discovering these old precedents, I can assure him that he has entirely missed the point of my argument in these cases. The Statutes quoted by him refer entirely to personal gifts to the Crown, and were intended to prevent such gifts, because they are a source of corruption."

"And be it hereby declared, that no commission or aids of this nature shall be granted, levied, but by authority of Parliament; and that this Act, and the Supply hereby granted shall not be drawn into example for the time to come."

Does not the leader of the Government, the Rt. Hon. the Premier, recognize that there is involved in this matter a constitutional question of great importance, namely, whether the Crown has a right to receive a benevolence or gift for any public purpose without the consent of Parliament? For many years—from the time of Edward 4th down to 1794—the question of compulsory and voluntary gifts to the Crown was debated in the British House of Commons from time to time, and there were different Acts from the time of Richard 3rd to the 13th Charles 2, which went directly against private gifts of any description. It proved a subject of much interesting discussion in Parliament, and between the highest Constitutional authorities until it was set at rest by the passing of the Act 13 Charles 2. Its preamble declares "all voluntary gifts or benevolences from the people to the Crown are illegal, and there was special provision that the Statute should never be drawn into example for the time to come."

My statement was as follows: "For many years—from the time of Edward 4th down to 1794—the question of compulsory and voluntary gifts to the Crown was debated in the House of Commons from time to time, and there were different Acts from the time of Richard 3rd to the 13th Charles 2, which went directly against private gifts of any description. It proved a subject of much interesting discussion in Parliament, and between the highest Constitutional authorities until it was set at rest by the passing of the Act 13 Charles 2. Its preamble declares "all voluntary gifts or benevolences from the people to the Crown are illegal, and there was special provision that the Statute should never be drawn into example for the time to come."

armed forces. It was argued that, this was unconstitutional, as being an invasion of the exclusive right and privilege of the Commons to grant supplies for the service of the Crown."

My statement during the debate in reply to Sir Edward Morris's observations was that the Statutes I had quoted and the discussion to which I had referred were not to be drawn into example for the time to come, and that the object of the same was "to secure to the House of Commons the full power of the purse, and to prevent any interference with the high privilege of Parliament to determine what should be done as regards public expenditure."

Lord Brougham is the authority for the declaration that "the wisdom of the Statute is always to be taken into consideration, and that it will never be rejected as a help or even an authority (in deciding constitutional questions) unless it is quite clear, that the circumstances of the case have rendered it inoperative."

I repeat that with all due deference to Sir Courtney Ibert I believe that the 17th century Statute and the 18th century discussions to which I referred, have a real and important bearing on the question whether acceptance of gifts from the Railway Contractors without the previous consent of Parliament was constitutional or not."

Surely, viewed in the light of the Premier's letter accepting the Railway Contractors' gifts, and acknowledging the obligation of "relief to the public Treasury" the 17th century statute and the 18th century discussions have a "real bearing" on the question whether acceptance of those gifts was constitutional or not. I submit that if it was unconstitutional for the Crown in the 17th and 18th centuries to accept gifts or benevolences without the previous consent of Parliament it is so to-day, for the structure of the constitution, as Lord Brougham says, "has never been destroyed or impaired, but always been fortified and improved."

It is certainly not for lack of so-called "Cures" that people put up with unsightly and uncomfortable eruptions. But somehow or other most of these "Cures" fail to work.

REID NEWFOUNDLAND COMPANY.

Is your house really lighted from top to bottom or do you still have to take a candle or lamp when you go to the attic or cellar at night? A great many people who have electricity in the rest of the house have no light in the cellar or attic because it is seldom needed; but, when you do need it, you need it badly.
One Incandescent Lamp set in a Holophane Reflector will give sufficient light for the darkest cellar or attic. Holophane Reflectors are especially adapted to lighting places of this sort as they control the light rays so that every ray is utilized. Wouldn't it be a convenience if you could turn a switch and light your cellar or attic before entering? That means an end to dangerous matches and flames—it means that you no longer need stumble against misplaced boxes and bark your shins in the dark.
We would like to tell you more about electric lighting and more about the wonderful light-saving Holophane Reflectors. May we send a representative to see you?
