The modern built knockabout fishing schooner "ANITA C." 35 tons. This vessel was built at Grand Brail by the celebrated builder, Thomas Palfrey, of Placentia, from an American model. Launched in December 1913. Her metal fastenings are all copper and galvanized iron, pitch pine plank, white oak trails, Oregon pine spars. Built under the strictest regulations of the Bounty Bonus of the Newfoundland Government. Obtained highest class awarded for that purpose. Has proved herself a phenomenal sailer, and is also a wonderful sea boat. Has been more than successful as a fish killer this season. Is fitted with all necessary appliances for auxiliary power; together with all her fishing gear, comprising 4 dories, 200 fathoms of 8 inch hawser, 2 fishing anchors, trawl kegs, buoy lines, etc. all new this spring. Has only to be seen to be appreciated. Is sold for no fault whatever. Reasons purely personal. All further particulars freely furnished on application to

CHAPTER IV.

"You—you put it somewhat bluntly," he said ruefully. "But—after a pause—you are right. Yes; you are right. It is an unpleasant way out of the difficulty; but, if there is no alternative, why—poor Vane must do it. But who is to tell him so?"

Mr. Starkey frowned. "If I may suggest, your lordship would be the proper person—"

The earl smiled grimly. "I may be the proper person—but I'm hanged if I do it! Now, you, my dear sir, you who knows how extremely necessary the step is—"

Mr. Starkey gripped his thin, long hands behind him, and set his teeth. "Something must be done!" he said almost defiantly. "And I see no other way of saving the estate from ruin. It is—forgive me if I speak plainly, my lord—"

"My dear fellow, you always speak plainly," murmured the earl, with a stifled groan.

"It is time Lord Dalesford married. I cannot forget that, if anything happened to him—"

"My dear Mr. Starkey, don't, for Heaven's sake—don't make matters worse by croaking!" implored the earl.

"That the title and estate—what there is left of it—would pass to Mr. Desmond March," went on Mr. Starkey. "The mere thought of such a calamity—"

"Then, for Heaven's sake, don't let us think of it!" broke in the earl.

"And, speaking of Mr. March, my lord, reminds me that he has written to me again. It is a—well, threatening letter to me this time. He threatens that, if we do not send him the money he asks for, he will—well—"

IN ALL OUR NEIGHBORHOOD

There Is Hardly A Woman Who Does Not Rely Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Princeton, Ill.—"I had inflammation, hard headaches in the back of my neck and a weakness all caused by female trouble, and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with such excellent results that I can now feel fine. I recommend the Compound and praise it to all. I shall be glad to have you publish my letter. There is scarcely a neighbor around me who does not use your medicine."—Mrs. J. F. JOHNSON, R. No. 4, Box 30, Princeton, Illinois.

Experience of a Nurse.
Poland, N.Y.—"In my experience as a nurse I certainly think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a great medicine. I wish all women with female troubles would take it. I took it when passing through the Change of Life with great results and I always recommend the Compound to all my patients if I know of their condition in time. I will gladly do all I can to help others to know of this great medicine."—Mrs. HORACE NEWMAN, Poland, Herkimer Co., N.Y.

come to the Hall for it, and demand it in person."

The earl shuddered visibly. "My dear Mr. Starkey, such a visitation must be warded off, at any cost. Send him five hundred pounds, and—tell him to go to the devil!"

"He has gone there long since, my lord," remarked Mr. Starkey grimly. "Five hundred pounds! I'm sure I don't know where I am to find—"

"Try him with two hundred and fifty," said the earl persuasively.

"And—and Lord Dalesford, the plan I suggested?"

The earl rose and sighed.

"Pon my word, my dear sir, I couldn't tell him he must marry for money. You must. Not that it matters which of us undertakes the task. He wouldn't do it. He would laugh at either and both of us."

Mr. Starkey went to the door, but was arrested by a cough and a murmur from the earl.

"Oh, Mr. Starkey, I shall want a few hundred by the end of the week." The unfortunate steward opened his lips, shut them again; then, with something between a sigh and a groan said:

"Very well, my lord."

As he passed out, a footman came up, with a letter on a salver.

"For you, sir."

Mr. Starkey opened the letter, read it absently for a minute, then he stifled an exclamation, and nervously wiped the beads of perspiration which had started to his brow. Of course, it was a demand for money. He turned, as if with the intention of re-entering the earl's room, but hesitated, and, at last, with a gesture of despair, walked slowly and heavily down the great staircase, with Black Care close behind him.

CHAPTER V.

"Mr. Fielding, I wonder whether you would mind very much if I called you my Fairy Godmother?" said Diana.

Mr. Fielding leaned back in his cane rocking-chair, and smiled. He had had an excellent dinner, prepared by a cook of his own choosing, and was enjoying a mild—a very mild—cigar, through the smoke of which he was regarding, with intent appreciation, the beautiful girl reclining in the chair beside him.

They were seated on the terrace, under a broad veranda, which ran the length of what the house agent had called "the most recherche residence in Berkshire." Before them lay a lawn like green plush, broken here and there by beds of flowers, which rivalled the hues of the peacock that strutted about in the red glow of the sunlight. Beyond the lawn ran that most wonderful of all rivers, the placid, silver Thames, its deep blue broken by white spots—the swans that floated near the landing-stage. A pine wood rose behind the house, and filled the air with the delicious and health-giving odour of terebenthine. Noisy London might have been a hundred miles away, for the only sounds that broke the stillness were the cry of the peacocks, the rustle of the swan's wings, and the notes of the nightingale, who was just tuning up for his nightly concert.

"You shall call me what you like, Miss Diana," responded Mr. Fielding, with the affability he always displayed in Diana's presence.

"Thanks, very much!" said Diana laughingly. "And, really, the old lady in the red cloak and high poke hat, who appeared to poor Cinderella, and did the conjuring tricks with the melon and the mice, did not better deserve the title than you. Why, yes; I was just Cinderella. And you came and waved your wand, and—here I am! With my pockets full of money, with everything the heart of man—I mean woman—could wish for! It is marvelous, and you are the most effective Fairy Godmother that ever lived."

"You enjoyed yourself abroad, my dear?" he asked.

"Oh, yes, yes! I had, sometimes, dreamed of seeing all these wonderful things, but I never thought my dream would be realized. 'Enjoyed myself?' Yes, indeed! The days passed like a vision. I used to start awake at night, and ask myself if it could be true that I, Diana Bourne, was traveling on the Continent like a princess incognito. It was so hard to realize that I could go where I liked, stay there as long as I liked, or move when I liked. That I was rich enough to

Ends Dry, Hoarse or Painful Coughs Quickly

A Simple, Home-Made Remedy, Inexpensive but Unquestioned

The prompt and positive results given by this pleasant-tasting home-made cough syrup has caused it to be used in more homes than any other remedy. It gives almost instant relief and will usually overcome the average cough in 24 hours.

Get 2 1/2 ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) from any drug store, pour it into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This makes 10 ounces—a family supply—of the most effective cough remedy at a cost of only 54 cents or less. You couldn't buy as much ready-made cough medicine for $2.50. Easily prepared and never spoils. Full directions with Pinex.

The promptness, certainty and ease with which this Pinex Syrup overcomes a bad cough, chest or throat trouble, is truly remarkable. It quickly loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, and heals and soothes a painful cough in a hurry. With a persistent, loose cough it stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the annoying hacking.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in gualacine, and is famous the world over for its splendid effect in bronchitis, whooping cough, bronchial asthma and winter coughs.

To avoid disappointment in making this, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

put up at the palatial hotels, travel first-class—do you know, Fairy Godmother, that that little matter of first-class, instead of third, helped me more than anything else to realize the—the change that your wand had wrought for your Cinderella? Only the rich ride first-class, you know—and, then, to feel that I could buy anything I wanted—Ah, you can't understand the delicious thrill that used to run through me as I gazed into a shop-window, and coveted some of the things in it, and then suddenly—and everywhere we were made and buy them without counting the cost!"

"And you bought a great many things?" he said, with a man-of-the-world's enjoyment of the naive confession made by the beautiful lips, half parted with the smile of happiness.

"Oh, dear, yes! All the things I didn't want. That's it, you know. To be able to buy the things you don't want! Whenever I saw anything that I thought Aunt Mary would like, oh, the joy of stalking in, and saying: 'I'll have that, please!' Poor aunt was frightened at first, and reproached me for extravagance; and I don't think she is quite resigned even yet."

"You traveled a great deal?"

"Oh, yes! However beautiful the place was, there always seemed to be a still more beautiful one a little farther on. Yes, we covered no end of ground. France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy—it would fill a geography. And everywhere we were made much of, and treated as if we were, indeed, princesses. It was the money of course—"

"Not altogether the money," he murmured smilingly, as he looked at the beautiful face, the graceful figure clad in its costly dress of black lace, upon which sparkled the few diamonds Aunt Mary had persuaded Diana to buy.

"And, at first, it seemed as if I could go on, and on, and on until I had gone right round the world; but, presently"—she paused, and her eyes grew dark and dreamy—"but, presently, I—well, I was homesick; I wanted to see the white cliffs of old England, to hear the dear old Cockney twang, the broad, country drawl; to see the green fields—there are no green fields like those of England!—to hear the railway porters shrieking the stations by names quite unlike their proper ones; to breathe the London smoke, and hear the cows lowing as they turned home at milking-time. You see, I mixed it all up together—town and country. I wanted them both. I wanted Great Britain—England, Scotland, and Ireland! All of it!"

"She drew a long breath, and looked wistfully, lovingly at the beautiful scene before her.

"I wanted—home! And then, when I felt as if I should die if I didn't get there, you—you Fairy Godmother—found me this beautiful house—why, it's a veritable fairy one! I could have cried aloud when you brought me here, and showed me this pretty place, with its gables and its broad eaves, its dainty rooms, and its lovely gardens!"

Mr. Fielding smiled, with self-satisfaction. "I had an idea that it was just the place you'd like, my dear."

"It's a dream!" said Diana rapturously. "To-morrow, I'm going to spend the whole day going over it; I haven't seen half of it yet! Janet, my maid—that's another thing I'm not quite used to yet; a maid, who insists upon helping me dress, and won't let me do my own hair, or mend a thing! Janet tells me that there are cows—actually cows! And a dairy! Do you think I shall be allowed to make the butter, Fairy Godmother?"

"I'm afraid not!" he replied laughingly.

Diana pretended to pout. "That's just the one drawback of being disgustingly rich. I find you can't quite do as you like. And the horses! There are the big carriage horses; there's the dearest mite of a pony; I felt inclined to pick it up and kiss it! And I'm going to learn to ride. Yes! Years ago"—her voice grew softer, more dreamy—"I remember watching the ladies riding in the park. I was a tiny child, rather shabby—oh, very shabby, and—sometimes rather, oh, very hungry. And I used to watch then—not enviously, for that would have been absurd, but as if they were denizens of another world, as if they had come out of heaven just—for a ride, and were going back there. And now I am one of them!"

She was silent a moment.

"If—if I should ride in the park, and saw a shabby little girl looking at me, I should think of that other one, myself, years ago; and I—well, I should want to lift her onto the saddle beside me."

Mr. Fielding nodded, and he looked at her thoughtfully. He was not easily moved to sentiment, but such often he was touched by some such speech of Diana's.

"It's the quaintest, the prettiest village here," she went on. "The children were coming out of school as we drove through. And the people looked so nice, and prosperous—and touched their hats, and courtesied. Do you think—I wonder whether they would let me visit the school, and go and see some of the people? Do you think they'd mind?"

Mr. Fielding laughed. "My dear young lady, they'd be delighted, I'm sure. But"—with sudden caution—"you must be careful! They're certain to be always having measles, or whooping-cough, or something; they always do in healthy villages."

Diana laughed. "Oh, I'm afraid of I.D.'s," she said.

"Inspectors' abbreviation for Infectious Diseases," explained Diana glibly. "They're dreadful things; they close the school." She was silent for a moment or two, her thoughts wandering back to her own school, her own children there at Wedbury, and she recalled the pain of parting with them.

College Football.

ST. BON'S CHAMPIONS.

The fastest and most interesting game of the inter-collegiate football series was played at St. George's Field yesterday afternoon. The contestants were the St. Bon's and Methodist college teams and as the championship for 1914 rested on the issue, the attendance was unusually large.

The game opened at 4 p.m. with St. Bon's defending the western goal. Play was exciting from the start. Several onslaughts were made on the Methodist goal, but the back division of that team put up a splendid defence. Both teams struggled hard to score during the first half, but owing to the condition of the field it was difficult to control the ball, and erratic shooting was in evidence. When the half time whistle sounded no goals had been scored.

Upon changing ends the play became fast and furious. The Methodists became the aggressors, and several times invaded the St. Bon's territory, but the full backs of that team were equal to the occasion. Honors were equally divided all during the second half, and as the ball was sent flying from goal to goal, the enthusiasm of the supporters of the Colleges knew no bounds. The game was directed from the grand stand, but the players seemed unimpaired of the various conflicting instructions that came forth from the wearers of the college colours. Shortly before full time, St. Bon's made a splendid rush play, which was marked by some brilliant combination, and landed the ball safely within the net, amid deafening applause. The play continued fast and exciting during the remainder of the game, and when the final whistle sounded the players retired from the field with the score 10 to 0 in favour of St. Bon's.

Mr. W. J. Higgins referred the game and the players were:—
St. Bon's College:—Brown, goal; Fox-Kennedy, backer; Burke, McGrath, Dubourdieu, halves; Devine, Kelly, Callahan, Clouston, Keegan, forwards.
Meth. College:—Sellers, goal; Butler, Curtis, backs; Mews, Stick, Halfyard, halves; Forbes, Stick, Woods, Trappell, Watts, forwards.

Though one game of the final round remains to be played, the championship for 1914 is now decided as the table of points stands:—St. Bon's, 8; Methodists, 7; Felidians, 1.

On Saturday next the Felidians and St. Bon's will be the players, but as the former team have only secured one point during the season, the issue will not affect the championship. To St. Bon's we extend congratulations on their winning the much coveted trophy, and also to the Methodists who gave them such a hard fight for the championship. The exhibitions between these teams, which are so nicely balanced, have been most interesting, and the spirit with which they have at all times fought the game was all commendable.

Both teams have some good footballers who, we have no doubt, will shortly be taking part in the games of the senior league and who will do credit to whatever team has the good fortune to secure them.

Wedding Bells.

O'NEILL-STAMP.

St. Joseph's Presbytery was the scene of a very happy event last evening when Mr. William O'Neill, mate of the schooner Waterwitch, was united in matrimony to Miss Nellie Stamp, of the Upper Battery, the Rev. Dr. W. P. Kitchen, P.P. officiating. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. J. Stamp, was dressed in cream serge with hat to match, and was attended by her sister, Miss Kitty Stamp, who was neatly attired. The groom was supported by Mr. Geo. Halloran. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the parents of the bride and amid the fring of joy guns the health of the newly wedded couple was enthusiastically honored. Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill who are both popular young people, received the congratulations of their numerous friends; also were the recipients of many costly and useful gifts.

Divorced Life

Helen Hanson, Female

Challoner Speaks

"Life," said Marian Winthrop, "is so hard to understand."
"That's because we find it hard to understand ourselves. Life is what we make it," answered Challoner.
"I don't think so at all. That dancer, for instance, at the cabaret, was not there because she wanted to be, but because she had to be. We seem to be ruled by the inevitable, dragged in no certain paths, hurried into certain directions."
"Partially," admitted Challoner. "But aren't we ruled because we refuse to seize the flying reins and assume control ourselves? Don't we do the things we think we have to do, and refrain from doing the things we really want to do, until finally the habit gets hold of us and we actually begin thinking of ourselves as puppets in the ebb and flow of chance?"

Challoner's convincing, magnetic words, flowing on, always impressed Marian Winthrop and held her attention, whatever the subject under discussion.

To-night, as he walked at her side, taking her back to her hotel, her thoughts flew suddenly on into the future, into the bleak, vague, undefined future. She was painfully conscious that whirling changes were in store for her, changes that would sweep this man and his golden friendship out of the circumference of her life. The thought was sharp and painful, like the thrust of a knife. She caught her breath conquering a moan. She was not yet ready to face utter loneliness again. The thought overwhelmed and oppressed her.

"What I was saying is, absolutely true," continued Challoner, as though divining Marian's groping thoughts, and endeavoring to cheer and steady her. "We allow inertia, and fear, and what not, to grip and control us. The result—chaos, regret, whole lifetimes of suffering and gloom. It requires bravery to be one's self. We venture ourselves over with deceit, and then wonder that we get so little out of life."

"Perhaps," agreed Marian dreamily. "You and I, for instance," said Challoner, with sharp abruptness. "We stand—covering back of absurd conventions, afraid of the truth, afraid to look squarely into our hearts."
"What do you mean?" demanded Marian with a strange trembling laying hold of her.

"You know," said Challoner, "and I know. But I'm going to say it nevertheless. I'm going to say what I withheld because I didn't have the courage to face the truth squarely, no less than because I feared you were unwilling to face it. Now I'm going to speak. I love you, Marian."
"Oh, don't—don't!" moaned the girl.

"And you love me," he spoke on, paying no attention to her warning. "We've been drawn to each other by inevitable forces—chance, temperament, the things that happened to us long before we ever saw each other, and yet we stand like puny, self-constituted guards at the food-gates and try to hold back the tides."

"Don't—please don't," pleaded Marian, terrified at the man's sentences. "You're married, Mr. Challoner. Besides, it isn't true—what you're saying—it isn't true."
"It's true, every word, and you know it. I know it's true of myself, and I know that it's true of you. My marriage must be ended. I can see it clearly, and shall attend to it."

Marty O'Toole.

Red McGhee says: Prize lemons in the last few years a rare commoner Texas steers, but they ain't quite so cheap. These lemons in a mart come high as sin right at the start, an' that don't count their keep. O'Toole, of New York, Martin J., has gained a lot o' fame that way. He cost a quarter million cold, ain't won a dozen games all told an' can't get goin' right.

In nineteen-seven Marty shined for Brockton, Mass. He was a find for Billy's Reds that year. His right arm somehow, though, got miffed. In naught-eight he was cut adrift with no flowers on his bier. No one could ask a better start, than "fired from Cincy." He took heart, burned up the A. A. trail. The home folks back in Pittsburg heard that Marty was a fancy bird an' hustled forth the kale. That bargain, though, was pretty sad. His quarter million wing went bad an' one-winged birds fly lame. But Muggsy bought an' hopes a hope that Marty will upset the dope an' come through just the same. O'Toole's an optimist. He thinks he'll yet assinate his jinx, an' show the high-priced

German Hate Against England.

(Ernest Lissauer in Jugend, rendered in English verse by Barbara Henderson.)
French and Russian, they matter not. A blow for a blow, and a shot for a shot;

We love them not, we hate them not, We hold the Weichsel and Voges-gate. We have but one and only hate. We love as one, we hate as one. We have one foe and one alone.

He is known to you all, he is known to you all. He crouches behind the dark gray flood. Full of envy, of rage, of craft, of gall. Cut off by waves that are thicker than blood. Come, let us stand at the Judgment place.

An oath to swear to, face to face. An oath of bronze no wind can shake. An oath for our sons and their sons to take. Come, hear the word, repent the word. Throughout the Fatherland make it heard. We will never forego our hate. We have all but a single hate. We love as one, we hate as one. We have one foe and one alone—ENGLAND!

In the captain's mess, in the banquet-hall. Set feasting the officers, one and all. Like a saber-blow, like the swing of a sail.

One seized his glass held high to hail; Sharp-snapped, like the stroke of a rudder's play. Spoke three words only, "To the Day!"

Whose glass this fate? They had all but a single hate. Who was thus known? They had one foe and one alone—ENGLAND!

Take you the folk of the Earth in pay. With bars of gold your ramparts lay. Beside the ocean with how on how. Ye reckon well, but not well enough now.

French and Russian, they matter not. A blow for a blow, and a shot for a shot. We fight the battle with bronze and steel. And the time that is coming Peace will seal.

You will we hate with a lasting hate. Hate by water and hate by land. Hate of the head and hate of the hand. Hate of the hammer and hate of the crown.

Hate of seventy millions, choking down. We love as one, we hate as one. We have one foe and one alone—ENGLAND!

New Army Koenpnick.

Amazing Imposture on Recruits.

A clever trick following closely the lines of that played by Voigt, the famous rogue of Koenpnick, has been played upon a Sheffield hostel and a number of Lord Kitchener's recruits at Sheffield, and has set all Yorkshire laughing.

Representing himself as the deputy of Councillor _____, over the telephone a person asked a military officer at the barracks if he would care to billet 500 recruits at Councillor _____'s newly erected hostel for working men. The offer was accepted. Shortly afterwards the manager of the hostel was ordered over the telephone by "his Majesty's transport officer Ridley" to make instant preparation to receive the recruits and provide them with a meat tea.

Transport Officer Ridley quickly followed and assumed complete control of the hostel. "I may as well put up here and see the thing through," he said. The recruits duly arrived, and Transport Officer Ridley appointed a special staff to attend him. One recruit he deputed to shave him, a second to clean his boots, and a third to wash him. To secure quiet at night, he posted up a notice that "there must be absolute silence while your transport officer is asleep."

He also exacted implicit obedience and posted a second notice:—"This is a military institution and the men are under the authority of Mr. Ridley, transport officer. If he calls upon any man to perform any action, he is bound to do so, else he will be guilty of a crime against military law, for which he will be punished by the military authorities."

After a few days Mr. Ridley became ill and was confined to his bedroom. All offers to obtain a doctor were so resolutely declined that Councillor _____ became suspicious and telephoned to the barracks. An officer was sent to the hostel, and to him it is alleged, Ridley produced a note which purported to bear a captain's signature. When the officer left to make further inquiries Mr. Ridley was not long in following him and has not been seen since.

Beyers Routed.

On Tuesday, commenting on the information then available, we referred to the Maritz rebellion as an isolated affair. Next day, however, news came that General Beyers and Christian DeWet had also rebelled. Although the rebellion of Maritz can no longer be spoken of as an isolated affair, the acts of Maritz, DeWet and Beyers seem to be sporadic. There appears to be no epidemic of rebellion among the Boers in South Africa. Maritz was operating on the borders of German South West Africa, and Beyers and DeWet on the north of the Orange River Colony, some three hundred miles away. As to the attitude of General Herzog whose influence is in the S.W. of the latter Colony, there is no information to hand. Maritz was defeated on the borders of German South West Africa, where he fled wounded. Beyers has been routed by Botha somewhere on the S.W. of the Transvaal. About DeWet there is no information. So far as the information afforded gives any clue, the rebellion does not appear formidable.

But the question arises as to the nature of the aid the rebel officers might obtain from German South West Africa. This German territory is comparatively large. The area is 322,450, about eight times the size of Newfoundland, but the population is only 82,000. Of these about 14,000 are white, 11,000 being German. As the blacks are about five times the number of white, and as the blacks cordially detest the German, it is evident that the Boer rebels can obtain very little support from German South West Africa.

H.M.S. Princess Royal.

In the letter of the volunteer whose letter from the Florizel we published yesterday mention is made of the battle cruiser Princess Royal, standing at one time close beside the Florizel. The presence of this great battleship on the watch to prevent any raid on the convoy by the Germans shows that the British Admiralty was determined to take no chances of disaster. The Princess Royal is more powerful and faster than any cruiser the Germans had available for raiding. She was completed two years ago. Her displacement is 26,000 tons. Her indicated horsepower is 70,000, and she can steam 32 knots. Her armaments are most formidable. She carries eight 13.5 inch guns, and 16 4-inch guns. She is one of the cruisers which can take her place in the line of battle with the great dreadnoughts, and in addition she has a speed superior to any cruiser afloat, except the Queen Mary, which can give her three knots.

Recruits for Navy.

Several applicants for service in the Navy, have reported to the Calypso during the past few days. Yesterday, the following recruits enlisted for a period of one year for active service in Europe: John W. McCormack, Charlottetown, P.E.I., Alex. MacRae, Cranbury, Scotland, and the following from St. John's: John O'Brien, Noah Rodgers, John W. Grey, Edward O'Keefe, Michael Lacey, Thomas J. Truscott, James Mansfield, Henry Penney and Alfred P. Tuff. Some others made application for enlistment of whom a few are beyond the required age; the others will come up for examination to-morrow.

Dry Goods and Hardware Stores will be open for business until 9 p.m. Monday, Nov. 2nd, until the end of the year, excepting Saturdays, when the Stores will close at 9.30 p.m., and during Christmas Week (Dec. 18th to 24th), when the Stores will close at 10 p.m. R. MORE DEPRECIATION BY EMDEN.

TOKIO, To-day. BATTLESHIP USES HER 12 INCH GUNS.

LONDON, To-day. A correspondent at Dover says that the British fleet is still operating against the Germans off Belgium with as yet no vessel being captured as a battleship has now joined in the bombardment using her 12 inch guns.

1,500,000 SOLDIERS IN BRITAIN.

LONDON, To-day. The British army on the rolls and drilling in the United Kingdom now amounts to approximately one and half million men. Of this total about 300,000 men belong to what is termed Kitchener's army, men who have responded to his call for 500,000 soldiers to serve three years or for the duration of the war. About 500,000 belong to the regular army, the remainder are enrolled with the special reserves so called or with the regular army and have seen service previously.

ARCHDUKE'S ASSASSINS SENTENCED.

SARAJEVO, Bosnia, To-day. Judgment was passed on the assassins of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, Gavrilo Princip, the actual assassin escaped with a sentence of imprisonment of twenty years. Four of the conspirators were sentenced to death by hanging, one to life imprisonment, two including Matije Jabinov, who threw a bomb at Archduke but which did not explode, two years, two 10 years, one 7 years and two 3 years. Other defendants were acquitted.

FIGHTING IN AFRICA.

LONDON, To-day. The greater part of Africa has been drawn into the conflict of nations. It is reported that the Germans have invaded Angola, one of Portugal's African possessions; that there has been fighting in the province of Bechuanaland which has been declared a neutral zone. The invasion of Angola has been declared a violation of the neutrality of the Congo. The possibility of a German attack on her garrisons.

GERMAN SOLDIERS RUSHED TO CALAIS.

LONDON, To-day. Telegraphing from Copenhagen, a correspondent of the Times says he learned in Berlin that from all parts of the East and West battlefronts, soldiers are being rushed to Belgium in response to the order of Emperor William to take Calais. It is semi-officially announced that the Germans are able to control the southern part of the North Sea as soon as they possess Calais. No civilians are allowed in the vicinity of the harbor which is crowded with floating battleships, Zeppelins and submarines.

REBELLION WILL BE SPEEDILY CRUSHED.

LONDON, To-day. All the English newspapers regard the South African rebellion as serious, though it is the general opinion that while Generals Botha and Smuts and Mr. Steyn, formerly President, side with Great Britain, it will be speedily crushed. The Daily Express says: "If there are any Boers who believe that if Germany has the way it will leave them with a vestige of independence, they must be consummate fools." The Daily Telegraph says: "The worst feature in such treachery as that of Byers and De Wet is that it appeals to all of the most ignorant and prejudiced members of the community and flatters the deep lying hopes and aspirations of discontented retrograde minds."

Somebody's Darling.

(Contributed by Misses Mary A. and Loretta C. Hessian.)

Into a ward of the whitewashed halls
Where the dead and dying lay,
Wounded by bayonets, shells and balls
Somebody's darling was borne one day.
Somebody's darling so young and so brave,
Wearing yet on his pale sweet face,
Soon to be hid by the dust of the grave,
The lingering light of his boyhood's grace.

Matted and damp are the curls of gold
Kissing the snow of that fair, young brow;
Pale are the lips of delicate mould,
Somebody's darling is dying now,
Back from his beautiful, blue veined brow.

Brush all the wandering waves of gold,
Cross his hands on his bosom now,
Somebody's darling is still and cold.

Kiss him once for somebody's sake,
Murmur a prayer soft and low;
One bright curl from its fair-mates take,
They were somebody's pride, you know.

Somebody's hand had rested there—
Was it a mother's soft and white?
And have the lips of a sister fair
Been baptized in the waves of light?

God knows best—he has somebody's love,
Somebody's heart enshrined him there,
Somebody waded his name above,
Night and morn on the wings of prayer.

Somebody wept when he marched away,
Looking so handsome, brave and grand,
Somebody's kiss on his forehead lay,
Somebody clung to his parting hand.

Somebody's watching and waiting for him,
Yearning to hold him again to their hearts,
And there he lies with his blue eyes dim,
And his smiling, childlike lips apart.

Tenderly bury the fair young head,
Pausing to drop on his grave a tear;
Carve on the wooden slab at his head,
"Somebody's darling slumbers here."

Caha Zamor, brother of the President of the Republic. There was shooting in the streets of the city throughout the night and the encounters continued to-day. The members of the Ministry have taken refuge in foreign Consulates.

PAUSE MOMENTARY.

PARIS, To-day. The pause in the German attacks on the left wing of the Allies where the Germans have fought furiously in their effort to march on the French ports of Dunkirk and Calais, is considered here to be only momentary. Reliable reports are to the effect that the German reinforcements on the way, that when the German lines are strengthened by three forces which are said to aggregate more than 200,000 men, the fighting will go on with renewed ferocity. The reinforcements have been drawn from all the other battle lines both in East and West. Reports say the next German onslaught will be undertaken further away from the coast, in order to avoid the devastating fire of British and French warships.

New Store Opens

As will be seen by an advertisement elsewhere in this issue, Mr. George Knight carries a full line of general dry goods, including men's, women's and children's apparel in all the latest styles. Having had eighteen years' experience in the dry goods business, and carrying none but the best in his line, Mr. Knight should receive a liberal share of patronage.

Brought to Hospital.

Thomas Dawson, of Bay Roberts, one of the crew of the s.s. Newfoundland and a sufferer in the sealing disaster of last spring, arrived in the city by the noon train to-day to enter the hospital for further treatment. Dawson, who was discharged from the hospital about three months ago, is still suffering very much and it is expected he will have part of his foot and some fingers amputated. He was conveyed to the Hospital immediately on arrival.

LOOK, YOUNG MAN!

If you anticipate getting a good Overcoat for the Winter, let us show you the class of work we are making. Compare the goods, quality of work and prices with any other make, then decide for yourself. Our D. B.'s are all the rage, from $15 to $25, and right up to the minute in style. SPURRELL BROS., 345 Water Street, next door to Parker & Monroe's.—Oct 19, 1914

Carthage.
By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Slivash."

Carthage was a city of great splendor and prominence which flourished about 2500 years before the aeroplane was invented, and faded away like an expiring skyrocket a few hundred years afterward.

Carthage was located on the north shore of Africa, near what is now Tunis. Tradition says that someone gave Queen Dido as much land as she could cover with an ox hide, and that by cutting the hide into small strips she managed to surround a good Queen Dido would make to-day if she were operating a public utility under a city franchise.

Carthage was founded about 878 B.C. and grew rapidly. Growth in those days consisted of extending out the neighbours with a sword and taking their lands. The Carthaginians were a stout, dark-complexioned people who were extremely handy with weapons, and in a few hundred years they owned Sardinia, Corsica, most of Spain, and had a strangle hold on Sicily. Carthage was a great and beautiful city with the ten commandments reduced to one or two for the sake of convenience, and travelers from all over the world came to admire it and get a little influence with the King.

About this time Carthage ran afoul of Rome. Rome in the 290 B.C.'s was a hustling young nation, which was beginning to do a good business in plain and fancy slaughter. It had been afraid of Carthage for many years, but when the latter nation began to swallow Sicily it got up its nerve and declared war.

Carthage had the greatest navy on the Mediterranean and made Rome keys of the Romans until they learned to fight on water. The two nations fought twenty-five years for Sicily, which shows just how foolish those ancient wars were. The Hannibal of Carthage got over the Alps without the aid of aeroplanes or tunnels and mused up Italy for seventeen years. Rome's fate wavered in the balance and Carthage might have been the biggest noise in history, but the Romans slipped over to Carthage, and when Hannibal arrived, all out of breath, a few months later, they wiped him out and hung a sign over the city walls. "This place to be closed out regardless of cost."

A few years later Rome tore down Carthage and ploughed up the site. As the Carthaginians spent too much time fighting to learn how to write, they left no history except what Rome wrote for them; in fact, they became famous through their and fate like the articles of to-day.

Messages Received Previous to 9 A.M.

SOUTH AFRICA REBELLION.

LONDON, Oct. 28.

To the Governor, Newfoundland:

The following is from the Press Bureau: The Government of the Union of South Africa have for some days been aware that a number of burghers in the north of the Orange Free State and the Western Transvaal were preparing rebellion, and as military requirements are being commandeered under authority of Generals Christian de Wet and Beyers, the town of Heilbron, being seized and a train stopped at Reitz (a railway station) and citizens of the Defence Force taken therefrom and detained.

The Union Government are taking the necessary steps to deal firmly with the matter. The majority of the citizens in every province of the Union are thoroughly loyal. The treaty between Maritz and the Germans has been captured by the Union, (1) promising help to rebels, and (2) the cession of Walvis Bay to Germany.

The rebels and Germans of Maritz' commando have been engaged twice recently. On the first occasion four officers and nineteen men were taken prisoners. Two Maritz also were taken. On the second occasion a large number surrendered voluntarily, and a number of wounded fell into our hands. Maritz himself is wounded, and has retired with his whole force towards German Southwest Africa.

BERLIN REPORT.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.

Fighting near Nieuport and Dixmude is continuing. The Belgians received reinforcements, but our attacks are being pushed. Sixteen British warships joined in the attack on our right wing.

BERLIN SAYS SITUATION UNCHANGED.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.

Near Ypres the situation, as announced yesterday, remains unchanged. West of Lille our attacks are being continued with success. Some French trenches in Argonne wood have been carried and the defenders captured. To sum up, there has been no material change on the western front.

ROYAL CADET KILLED.

LONDON, Oct. 28.

Prince Maurice of Battenburg, cousin of King George, and son of Princess Henry of Battenberg, has been killed on the battlefield in France. He was an officer of the King's Royal Rifles.

THE ACTION OF GREECE.

PARIS, Oct. 28.

The action of Greece in occupying the southern end of Albania, is regarded here as news of great moment, and as a movement which may cause Italy also to occupy part of Albania.

KITCHENER'S APPEAL.

LONDON, Oct. 28.

Earl Kitchener has issued an appeal for another hundred thousand men. Even if these men are raised within the next three months it will be well into the summer of 1915 before they can be put upon the battlefield.

PAINFUL SWELLINGS REDUCED.

Muscular Strains Ended.

Such Troubles Now Quickly Rubbed Away by Powerful Remedy.

If you have any muscles that are strained and weak, that are frequently subject to rheumatic pains; if you have any painful swellings that refuse to go away—get busy with Nerviline. This is the very sort of trouble that Nerviline is noted for curing quickly. "I have proved Nerviline simply a wonder in reducing a hard, painful swelling. It followed an injury I received in my left leg and caused me great pain and discomfort. The muscles were strained and sore, and no other remedy gave the ease and comfort I got from rubbing on Nerviline. There is a soothing, pain-relieving power about Nerviline that touched the root of my trouble. Nerviline reduced the swelling, it destroyed the pain, it brought my limb back to perfect condition." The experience of Mr. Bowen, whose home is in Middlesex, is not unusual. Thousands are proving every day that muscular pains of every kind, chronic rheumatism, lumbago, neuralgia and sciatica will yield to Nerviline when nothing else can possibly cure. Nerviline is an old-time family pain remedy, used nearly forty years with great success. The large family also bottle costs 50c., trial size 25c. at all dealers.

GERMANS FALLING BACK.

LONDON, Oct. 28.

The correspondent of the Evening News in Northern France wires late to-night that the Germans are falling back all along the line from La Bassee to the North Sea.

ALLIES SUCCESSFUL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.

Official despatches made public here to-day by the French Embassy report successes for the Allies all along the line. The reports state that everywhere the enemy has received serious shocks.

PROGRESS IN BELGIUM.

PARIS, Oct. 28.

In Belgium two night attacks, attempted by the enemy, have been repulsed. German efforts on the front between Nieuport and Dixmude appear to be moderating. Our offensive continued to the north of Ypres. Between there and La Bassee there has been slight progress on our part. On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report.

DRIVE GERMAN'S BACK.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.

German and Austrian troops in Poland have been forced to withdraw before fresh Russian troops, advancing from Ivangorod, Warsaw and Novo-Georgieva, after having repulsed all former Russian attacks. The official statement continues: "At first the Russians did not follow, and the withdrawal of our troops took place without difficulty. Reserve troops will change the formation according to the situation."

AUSTRIANS DEFEATED.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 28.

An Austrian attempt to envelop the left flank of General Brusiloff, the Russian Commander, according to a semi-official announcement, finished badly for the Austrians. The Russians surrounded an entire cavalry division, with some of the Landstrum, fourteen miles south of Sambor, and with a few exceptions, annihilated them, capturing twenty guns and a train load of ammunition.

A FRENCH VICTORY.

LONDON, Oct. 28.

The Duke of Wurtemberg's Army has lost heavily in the north of France, according to a despatch from Paris. The Germans, adds the message, lost 2,000 killed and wounded in a night attack on Creonne, and the regions mentioned in to-day's French official communications. The French casualties numbered 100.

BERLIN REPORT.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.

UNIFORMS—KHAKI AND OTHER.

The difficulty in obtaining khaki in sufficient quantity to meet the requirements of suddenly created armies has led to the presumably provisional adoption of a dark cloth akin to that used in the Navy for the uniforms of some of the new regiments. It is certainly preferable to an indefinite retention of the rather motley civilian garb in which large numbers of the recruits are still marching. The makeshift takes one back not unpleasantly to the old days of dark-colored riflemen. Khaki enough to replace it will no doubt be forthcoming before the men are ready for the front, but even in the unlikely event of its being worn in the field it would be less conspicuous than the uniforms affected by some of the troops of our Allies. I hear privately of more than one instance in which the red breeches of our French friends have given away the carefully concealed positions of our men. The German guns have searched in vain for us until the red breeches came upon the scene, and then it has been necessary to make a hasty removal of ammunition wagons under a rain of shells. One effect of the war will doubtless be to teach others the lesson we ourselves have long since learned—that red, though it may minister to vanity, is a delusion and a snare where modern warfare is in question.

WAR FILMS UNDER DIFFICULTY.

In this war circumstances have been too strong for the cinematograph operator, whose element is danger. All the pictures that even the most fearless of operators have sent home, so far as one has seen, have been taken well behind the firing line. A series just shown in London at the end of Mr. Ponting's show, are probably as near the smoke as any. They are the work of a photographer whose specialty hitherto has been the life of bees, and he is now working among the fierce bees swarming (and stinging) round the Antwerp hive. It is stated that one of the pictures, showing a Belgian battery in action, is the only film taken of the firing of a gun in this war. "Dee" Mason—he is known as such in the world of the movies—has gone about everywhere with the active little soldiers, pursuing them into the trenches, where they obligingly cocked their rifles for him at fictitious Germans, or into woods where they cleverly took shelter at the sound of an approaching aircraft. The Union Jack on the camera car won it a passage everywhere. The films are chiefly valuable for their clear evidence of the extent of the ruin of Termonde, Malines, and other ravaged towns. Termonde is a few black walls now, and nothing brought the immensity of the misery of Belgium home so sharply as the sight of the market place of one small town empty but for a famished dog—the last inhabitant. You see a kindly soldier feeding the poor creature. Outside the Town Hall of Malines you see another sign—a very long queue of women and children waiting for loaves of bread. Another curious glimpse was that of the street of bathing machines at Ostend—five refugees dwelling in every bathing machine, and a gendarme marching up and down as if it was the most conventional street in the world.

MATCHES FOR SOLDIERS.

The British War Office's permission—almost invitation—to send matches to the army, confirms the impression already created by the letters from the front that there is a match famine. This is easy to understand if matches for smokers do not form part of the regular supplies in the army transport. In the first place the invasion of France by something over a hundred pipe-smoking English would in normal times increase the demand considerably. Pipes consume far more matches than cigarettes, and the French pipe smokers are in a small minority. Then the French do not smoke as much as we do. They are also more economical of matches. The manufacture of matches is a Government monopoly, and they are consequently neither good nor cheap. Three kinds are common—the evil-smelling sulphurous match from which a yellow flame dawns out of a blue, the "Swedish" matches, which are our safety matches, and which are sold at a penny for a small box, and tiny boxes of wax matches. What are these to a pipe smoker? If at ordinary times the English demand would put a strain on the French supply, it must be doubly difficult to meet it now that manufacturers are disorganized. Finally, it must be remembered that the region which is now being traversed by our troops has been already crossed probably three times by an army within two months—twice by the Germans and once by the Allies. Village shops must by this time have lost practically all their stocks by purchase or pillage. It should be noted, by the way, that the War Office recommends that safety matches should be sent. Why not as a substitute the modern pocket edition of the flint and tinder? I have seen one to-day which costs two pence. The spark is made by springing a little piece of iron on to a mill-wheel, and the fuel is a dry wick which smoulders. A pipe-lighter of this kind is particularly suitable for field use because no wind blows it out. The one I saw was made in Vienna, where the match monopoly gives it a special value. Perhaps we could begin to make some.

ITALY'S FOREIGN MINISTER.

One of the most interesting personalities in the diplomatic world at the present moment is the Marquis di San Giuliano, the Italian Foreign Secretary. Upon his shoulders rests to a large extent the ultimate decision as to what the future attitude of Italy shall be towards the great struggle which is now being fought out in Europe. Will he remain neutral or will he give official sanction to the anti-Austrian feelings so openly expressed by many of his countrymen and throw the military strength of Italy on to the side of the Allies? Those are questions which are being asked all over the world just now. The general Marquis has never been in London, but his appointment to his present high post in 1905 was received with many a wry face in official circles in both cities. During his stay in London some years ago as Italian Ambassador to this country he made many friends among all classes, and was specially loved by the large number of Italians, many of them in extremely humble circumstances, who have made their homes in the large towns of Great Britain. I remember well being present at a pleasant little dinner which the Italian community of Glasgow gave to His Excellency just before he left the Italian Embassy in London. The cordiality displayed on that occasion between the distinguished guest and his hosts made a great impression on my mind.

HOW ABOUT YOUR CALORIES?

The British Army Medical Advisory Board has got the war ration raised from 4,000 to 5,000 calories a day. A calorie, it may be explained, is the unit in which the value of various kinds of food as fuel for the human engine is scientifically measured. It is a heat unit, but its equivalent in mechanical energy is 3,977 foot-pounds. If all the soldier's ration could be turned into muscular energy it would yield the prodigious total of over 15,000,000 foot-pounds a day. A hard day's muscular work for an average man is reckoned at only about 1,500,000 foot-pounds. But, needless to say, most of the fuel that goes into the human engine, as into any other engine, goes out as energy but as waste heat. The human body converts a little under one-sixth of its fuel into muscular energy. It does better than the steam engine, however, which at most converts only one-eighth of its fuel into mechanical energy. Still, if Mr. Thomas Atkins get his 5,000 calories ration regularly and can digest it thoroughly he will not be underfed. On the old ration it was found that he was partly starved and lost weight continuously during severe marches. With the new ration he keeps his weight after what the "Medical Journal" calls the initial and proper loss of some body fat and water. This new ration is up to the highest standard ever put forward by any dietetic authority for the severest physical exertion. Vandeville strong man Eugene Sandow's diet while he was doing his daily exhibitions of feats of strength was reckoned out at 4,462 calories a day—noticeably less than the new army ration. But some American football teams have run up to 7,835 calories a day. They were probably over-eating. For a man of average shape the allowance for hard physical labor has been computed at 315 to 420 calories per stone of weight. Shape matters. A broad or stout man needs less food than a thin man. "The body surface of a thin man is larger in area than that of a stout man, so more of his food-fuel escapes from that large exposed surface in waste heat. The nearer your figure approaches to the spherical the less is its superficial area, and the less is the escape of heat. And that explains the great mystery that thin men eat more than fat men. Thin men need more."

Headache, Costive, Bilious, "Cascarets."

Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Sour Stomach, mean Liver and Bowels are clogged—Cheer up! Get a 10-cent box. Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

"Cascarets" immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, indigestible food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret-to-night will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

FADS AND FASHIONS.

Fine black coats are made with military collars and artillery capes. The new net foundations have wonderful designs of sparkling spangles. Some of the new dresses have their skirts cut full, and no over-skirts. Marabou and ostrich are frequently combined in the new neck-pieces. Silk rattle, plaided or striped, is used for charming girdles and trimmings.

Satin and chiffon is a favorite combination for the dark colored blouse. Corbeau blue with brown is a combination much prettier than it sounds.

Red panne velvet and red tulle are occasionally used for evening dresses.

The Wrong Kind of Praise.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Now that I've met that woman I really like her," a man said to me the other day. "But before I knew her I used to hate her." "Why?" I asked. "H a d someone been slandering her?" "On the contrary," I said. "I had heard so much praise of her that it turned me against her. Even now when my sister starts singing her praises it sickens me against her, though when I'm with her I like her."

"Too much praise often hurts its object. I think we have all had experiences like this. And the outcome is not always so pleasant. For we are not always able to overcome our distaste so happily. I must confess there are some perfectly good people whom I have never been able to like simply because I have heard too much said about their virtues."

"Defend me from my friends," says Marshal Villars. "I can defend myself from my enemies." I wonder if he wasn't thinking of the kind of friend who hurts by over-praising. Again praise may do harm by raising one's expectations too high and preparing a sure disappointment. The other day a friend advised me to read a certain story in a magazine, declaring it was one of the cleverest she had ever read. I did not have time to get at it for several days and twice during that interval she reminded me to be sure and read the story and repeated her praises. When I finally sat down to read it, of course my expectations were sky high. Equally, of course, I was disappointed in the story and thought it rather commonplace. Yet I think I might have liked that story very much if I had picked it up without being acquainted with it beforehand. Again, praise from one source will sometimes do more harm than censure from another. For some praise is really condemnation, and some condemnation is really praise. You remember in "Shirley" how Robert Moore, the mill owner, is brought to a realization of his own harshness towards his rioting employees by the extravagant praise of some of the other mill owners whom he despises. As Charlotte Bronte puts it, "On abuse, on reproach, on calumny, it is easy to smile, but painful indeed is the pang of those we condemn."

Again, when the great American novelist, James Fenimore Cooper, was being vilipended by some of our newspapers his friend, Samuel Morse, the inventor, wrote to him, "They praise you as usual, for it is praise to have the abuse of such as abuse you."

Every human being wants commendation, and in the right quantity and from the right source praise may be a blessing and an inspiration. But like almost all the good things of earth it can be transformed into a burden and a curse.

SIR WALTER RALEIGH beheaded 1618, aged 66. He was one of those famous men of Devon who did so much for England in the 16th century. He was related to Humphrey Gilbert. He rapidly rose in favor in Elizabeth's reign but on the accession of James I. he fell into disgrace.
EDMUND HALLEY born 1656. English astronomer-royal from 1720 to 1742. He discovered what is known as Halley's comet.
JOHN KEATS born 1795. The great English poet who though dying at the early age of 25 produced a number of poems which in richness of imagination and beauty of thought are not excelled by anything in the language.

GEORGE MORLAND died 1804, aged 41. A painter whose pictures of English rural life were remarkable for their fidelity and breadth of treatment and are much valued.

TO THE GREAT BLASPHEMER.
You boasted of God, as the path you trod
That led to the war-stained flood;
You spoke of the Lord, as you drew the sword
In the name of Iron and Blood;
But little you thought, as you madly sought
To fasten your net on all
God's wheels e'er show, though they grind but slow,
They grind exceeding small.
You babble of God, as you drench the sod
With the blood of lusty sons;
You invoke the Lord, to at length reward
The hail from your Krupp-built guns;
But little your soul, as Death takes toll,
Knows of the Truth Divine;
'Tis a creed of the lip, as you bend and sip
The cup of Sacred Wine.

To Heaven you pray, to bless "The Day,"
With your hands incarnadine;
As your murderous Huns kill Belgium's sons—
And scatter the deadly mine:
Though you pose as a saint, 'neath your war-like paint,
As a candidate for Zion
At heart you're a fraud, and your true lord
The Idol of Force and Iron.

What of your prayers, when the Altar stairs
Are full of the dead you've slain?
You've hacked your way through—
ah, what of the hue
Of the crime of sacked Louvain?
We make no boasts to the God of hosts,
But our faith is calm and strong,
That in God's own way He will soon repay
Who the Right has conquered Wrong.
—George S. Astins.

BEYERS ROUTED BY BOTH.

LONDON, To-Day (Official). Both reports he left Rustenburg District, in the west part of Transvaal Colony, on Tuesday morning and proceeded in the direction which General Beyer with his commando was supposed to be. He came in touch with Beyer's men in the forenoon and drove them in headlong rout. With Beyers routed the whole day he captured 80 of them fully armed. The fighting which took place towards the end of the pursuit by General Botha's men, several of General Beyer's commandos were wounded. When the report was made public the fight was still in progress.

RUSSIANS INFLECT SEVERE DEFEAT ON GERMANS.

PETROGRAD, To-Day (Official). An official report comes from the headquarters of the battle which has been in progress for four days south of the Piltza River forests on a line extending from the Bialobrzeg to Glowaczow, Anolcema and Janowice. Our troops inflicted upon the Austro-German forces a severe defeat between the Piltza and Glowaczow. The heroic efforts of our troops definitely broke down, on Oct. 26th, the resistance of the twentieth corps and reserve guard corps of the Germans on the centre. After fighting of an extremely desperate character we succeeded in establishing a firm foothold on the border of the forest region and villages of Adamoff, Severinoff and Marchoff. On the left wing we captured by assault the defensive position established at Policema and enveloped a portion of the Austrian troops near Berdeje. On the right on Oct. 27th the enemy's corps fell back in disorder towards the line between Eldinsk, Radom and Ija. We captured both cannons and prisoners on the right bank of the Piltza on the front between Cluff and Nowomlasto. Fighting continues with the same desperation in Galicia, raging along the whole front of the River

San. We have taken an additional ten officers and 500 men. South of Przemysl our troops are advancing at enemy has violently bombarded our certain points. In East Prussia the positions, operating in the region of Dakalarjevo. Their repeated attacks were all repulsed. The success which we have won south of Piltza, the result of which was the retreat of the enemy's main front, is of very great importance.

Will Open Stores at Night Same as Usual.

The Importers' Association met at the Board of Trade Rooms yesterday afternoon to discuss the opening of the stores at night time for the autumn trade. Hon. Geo. Knowling was in the chair and the firms represented were:—Marshall Bros., Royal Stores, Knowlins, Martin Hardware Co., Ayre & Sons, Ltd., Nichol, Inghen & Chafe, J. Anderson, Steer Bros., U. S. Picture and Portrait Co., Bishop Sons and Co., S. Milley, James Baird, Ltd., J. Macgregor, and Dicks and Co.

Owing to the normal state of business and in view of the fact a great many clerks had gone to the war business cannot be carried out satisfactorily without night work.

The decision of the meeting was to carry out the usual programme of working until 9 p.m. from Monday next until December 31st, except on Saturday nights, when the closing hour would be 10 and 10 o'clock during Christmas week.

Out of Knowling's firm alone eighteen young men have gone to see active service, about a dozen from the Royal Stores and an equal number from Ayre and Sons. This in addition to the fact that trade has been brisk since the influx of outport people commenced, should warrant the opening of the stores as usual.

Lecture on the War.
A very interesting and instructive lecture on the war was given by Mr. I. C. Morris, at the Oddfellows' Hall last night.

The lecture was under the auspices of Davidson Lodge, L. O. B. A., and was largely attended. Mr. D. Thistle presided, and in a few well chosen words introduced the lecturer of the evening, Mr. Morris, who dealt with his subject in a masterly manner.

Reviewing the causes, nature and effects of the present war, which has been unequalled in history, the speaker in eloquent language presented to his audience a graphic picture of the devastation being caused by the great struggle. The centres of commerce, art and learning were involved and as a result the detriment to trade was being keenly felt.

In referring to the principal events of the war to date, Mr. Morris paid a well merited tribute to the work done by the Belgians at the outbreak of hostilities. He also, rejoiced in the liberty and protection that we, as British subjects enjoy, since our trade is going on quietly, though the nation is at war.

He deplored the awful slaughter going on daily, and the use of unfair methods in modern warfare. He was of the opinion that Germany must soon call for terms of peace as her industries have been killed, her commerce practically closed, and the nation generally is unable to bear much longer the great financial strain. The speaker felt proud of the part played by the Colony in this awful struggle. Our men and women are doing a noble work for the upholding of the Empire's honor. In conclusion he said that Britain will emerge victorious from the struggle, and that Newfoundland will feel proud of the part played by her sons and daughters in defence of the Empire.

At the close a hearty vote of thanks, proposed by the Chairman, was accorded by acclamation. During the evening solos and recitations were given by Mrs. Babetock and Mr. Rodway and the singing of the national Anthem brought the enjoyable entertainment to a close.

C. E. Cathedral Choir.
It is probable that the work of moving the position of the organ in the C. E. Cathedral, the general renovation of it, adding of stops and changing action will take about six months. It is being done at heavy cost and on completion Mr. Allen will doubtless have one of the finest instruments on this side of the Atlantic. With the addition of many new choir boys just now, the services have been simplified as much as possible, as with due regard to their proper training they are not permitted to sing loudly. However, in three or four months, the chanting of the Psalms, etc., will be resumed and the choir will lead the services with added power and sweetness.

Marine Notes.
The s.s. Stephano was expected to leave New York last evening for Halifax and this port.

Obituary.

There passed away at her residence, George's Street, yesterday, Elizabeth Houlihan, wife of Michael Donovan. The deceased lady was a daughter of the late Patrick Houlihan, Keeper of Green Island Lighthouse, for a number of years. By her demise the poor of the city lose a good friend as she was one of those whose charity knew no color or creed, and was often unknown even to the recipients. She bore her illness of three years with that fortitude and Christian resignation for which her life had been remarkable and at the last moment could say with confidence and resignation: "Thy Will be Done." May her soul rest in peace.

MRS. LYDIA BURGESS.
There passed peacefully away on Monday last, at her late residence, Freshwater Road, a well known and estimable lady in the person of Mrs. Lydia Burgess, daughter of the late Samuel Churchill and relict of the late James E. Burgess. The deceased had been in failing health for some time past and death came as a happy release from many months of patient suffering. Mrs. Burgess taught school at birth for some years, and after being married lived at Balne Harbor for upwards of thirty years, coming here to reside after the death of Mr. Burgess about five years. She leaves two sons, Earle and Arthur, and one daughter, Laura, to whom the Telegram extends sincere sympathy. The remains will be interred at Balne Harbor and the funeral will take place on Monday morning next to the railway station, and thence to Placentia to connect with the s. s. Argyle.

Here and There.
FOGOTA.—The Fogota left Musgrave Harbor at 9.15 p.m. yesterday, going north.

WEATHER.—It is calm and fine along the line of railway to-day, with the temperature ranging from 25 to 30 above.

EARL OF DEVON.—The Earl of Devon left Exploits at 9.55 a.m. to-day, coming South, and is due here tomorrow.

BOY ARRESTED.—This forenoon Sergt. Noseworthy arrested a 12-year-old boy, charged with complicity in a larceny that occurred recently.

BOWLING'S SHIPS.—The S.S. Prospero left West Point at 7.30 a.m. to-day, coming south. The S.S. Portia left St. Joseph's at 8.50 a.m. to-day.

POLICE COURT.—A boy, arrested on suspicion for the larceny of a roll of tape worth 50c, the property of S. E. Garland, was let go. A man for assaulting a Chinaman, was fined $10 or 30 days.

BRUCE EXPRESS ARRIVES.—The Bruce express, which was delayed by a landslide near Humbermouth, arrived in the city at 12.10 p.m. to-day, together with the local from Carbonear.

BRUCE PASSENGERS.—The Bruce arrived at Port aux Basques at 6.40 a.m. to-day with the following passengers in saloon:—Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Cavender, F. C. Simpson, G. G. Murdoch, J. Lynch, Mrs. L. M. Ogiliver and G. E. Cumner.

CARTHAGINIAN SAILS.—The R. M.S. Carthaginian sails to-night for Halifax and Philadelphia, taking 900 drums of codfish and a quantity of herring and oil. The following saloon passengers are booked to go: J. A. Bennett, Mrs. D. McDonald, Mrs. E. Buxton, Miss Smith, Mrs. T. R. Collins, Miss M. Collins, R. Bradshaw, Miss M. Bradshaw and Master L. Rieve.

PEBBLE SHIPMENT.—About the latter part of next week the s.s. Francis will arrive at Manuels to load pebbles for the Atlantic Pebbles Co. This will be the first shipment for the season, the delay being caused by backward weather. The ship will take about 1,500 tons, though at present about 100 tons or more are needed to complete the cargo.

MARRIED.
This morning, at Wesley Church Parsonage by the Rev. H. Royle, Miss Wilhelmina Baggs to Mr. James Bowden, both of this city.

DEED.
Yesterday, at the Hospital, there passed peacefully away, after a short illness, Eleazer Lewis, blacksmith, (brother of W. J. Lewis), aged 47 years, leaving a wife, two children, father and two brothers, two sisters and a large circle of friends to mourn their sad loss. Funeral on Friday, at 2.15 p.m., from his late residence, 17 Field St. Friends will please accept this as our condolence.

On October 28th, after a long illness, John Stamp, aged 77 years, leaving one daughter and one son to mourn their sad loss. Funeral on Friday, at 2.30 p.m., from his late residence, 16 Sebastian Street, off Carter's Hill, friends and acquaintances please attend without further notice.—R. I. P.

Have Youan Itchy Spot?

Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In Eczema—and itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally eczematous—delays are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the earlier stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 50c a box. Zylex Soap, 25c a cake.

ZYLEX, London.

Fishery Reports.

Oct. 24. From W. J. White (Aquaforte to Caplin Bay).—The total catch is 5050 qts., and for last week 66. Ten whale boats and 105 dories and skiffs are fishing. Prospects are very poor and only a little salt squid is obtainable for bait. No schooners arrived from the grounds, all having abandoned the voyage. Owing to the scarcity of bait the fishery is almost over.

Oct. 17. From F. R. Denham (Eagle Point to Mall Bay).—Five bankers have arrived. Prospects are nil and there is no bait obtainable. The total catch is 8685 qts. and for last week 700.

At the Crescent.

The patrons of the Crescent Picture Palace were certainly well pleased last night with the fine programme presented by this popular picture house. The two-reel feature "The Trail of the Hanging Rock," a production of the Eclair Photo Play Co., is one of the best scenic pictures we have seen, and Barbara Tennant, the clever Eclair star is seen in one of her best roles. The sketches by Hy. Meyer, the famous cartoonist are clever and comic. A nice domestic drama is "True Chivalry," produced and acted by the Crystal Company; politics is responsible for the parents being bad friends, but the boy and the girl found a way to heal the breach. The comedy reel "Thou Shalt Not Rubber" kept the audience laughing continuously. Mr. Frederick Knights sang "Bring Back my Smoke Dreams to Me," a song written and composed by himself. The same programme will be repeated to-night. On tomorrow and Saturday "The Head Hunters" a Bison 2-reel feature will be shown.

Note of Thanks.

The Atwill family wishes to thank the kind friends who sent wreaths and flowers to adorn the casket of their beloved mother, as follows: Mr. and Mrs. W. Ring, Mr. and Mrs. H. Shaw, Mrs. Ebsary, Mr. and Mrs. Brushett and family, Mrs. Noseworthy, Miss Susan Mercer, Mrs. McDonald, Miss Clara Noseworthy; also the kind friends who helped them in their sad bereavement, as follows: Dr. Mitchell, Mr. Ira Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Ring, Mrs. H. Shaw, Mrs. P. George, Mrs. Kitty Mansfield, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Noseworthy, Mrs. Samuel Mercer.—adv.

Shoot the Brute.

Oh, bat the rat and slice the mice, and make this country dwellers drive the rodents for the pell-mell in every store and every shop let's chase the pests and never stop, until the spangled banner waves above ten billion rodents' graves. The rats consume the farmer's oats, and gnaw the whiskers off his goats and rob him yeasily of a sum, which, figured up, would strike him dumb. The rats destroy the grocer's cheese, his early prunes and seedless peas, and do such damage in his store the sheriff comes to close his door. They spoil the housewife's cherished flour, and make her sunny temper sour, and so she jaws around, of course, until her husband gets divorce. The rat's a nuisance, without end, and there is no one to defend the noxious critter, foul and vile, the world's most hated animal. Let us with piffal and with gin bones, the path he wanders in. Let us go forth with bombs and guns, explore his alleys and his runs, and slay him as St. George of old laid out the dragon, fierce and bold. This world will be a better place when every tribe and every race of fifty things which crawl or fly, curl up their legs or wings and die. So on their heads we've set a price; go, bat the rats and slice the mice!

Dancing Act.

SERPENTELLO AND THE FROG MAN.
There is a complete change of programme at Rossley's to-night. The Frog Man will give his scare crowd dance that will be enjoyed by all; Serpentello in other dances, a complete change all round. On Monday the Frog Man will challenge any man his size to do a very simple trick. The pictures are all the finest, and last night many declared them to be the best they had ever seen. Kelly and Mack, the boys from the Emerald Isle.

Fishery Gear!

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of the GILL NETS, used by Messrs. Job Brothers & Co. in the Straits this year. They have been successful at a time when traps had partially failed. We make them in all sizes to order.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of COTTON DRIFT NETS, such as are used in the North Sea Herring Fishery. As the catch of Herring will be interfered with during the war, a good opportunity occurs for use of these Nets in Newfoundland.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of the celebrated STANDARD brand of Herring Nets, which is universally acknowledged to be the very best Net on the market. We are now making the CRESCENT brand Herring Net, which is the best and strongest LOW PRICED NET MADE.

It is mounted just the same as the Standard Net, and it is barked for preservation, not merely dyed like other cheap Nets.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of SQUID TRAPS, which are now legal; we make them in any size required, to order.

We manufacture TARRED COTTON LINES, all sizes, for Bankers' use; strong, durable and easily handled.

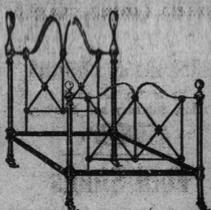

We make COD TRAPS, COD SEINES, CAP-LIN SEINES, ETC., to order, in all sizes.

All the above fishery gear we can strongly recommend, and we would urge our fishermen to patronize articles of home manufacture, in order to give employment, which is so much needed this year.
