around here now. We are out to protect those who are left.

Some of you have been running round lately in your Shirts which you used to wear in the good old summer time, as you thought we were having a mild winter.

WE WERE--BUT NOT NOW!

This is just a few words to say that we have lots of

IT IS ONLY LATELY THAT WE HAVE BEEN HITTING
The Men's and Boys' Ready-Made Business.

Therefore as this Department of ours may be somewhat of a stranger to the buying public, we have to give it a little puff. Whilst we do not consider that we are yet in this Department, as the present is now a difficult time to start anything, nevertheless we flatter ourselves that with the public with several lines, even if we do say it ourselves. Another thing which we know is sure to make a "hit" is a lot of

"IT"

at $5.00 per pair.

This may seem a bit of a price now, but you will not think so in about ten years' time when you will still be getting good wear out of them, and will be able to say "I bought those trousers the time of the War," and if the War is not then over, you will be glad you bought a good pair of Trousers.

The material in them is a pre-war English Striped Worsted Trousering, which goods is now impossible to get. It is warm and of wonderful wearing qualities, and we can highly recommend these Trousers.

Deceived AND Disowned BUT True as Steel!

CHAPTER XXXVI THE WEDDING DAY.

"I can't understand it," said his lordship. "Morgan Verner was certainly not the man I should have thought worthy of this display of enthusiasm. Ah! here they come."

Through the open door the organ pealed forth the wedding march, and upon the sunlit air the bells rang out afresh. There was a glimmer of white, then Olive, in all the beauty of her bridal array, came down the path, leaning on her husband's arm. Amid deafening cheers the happy pair passed close by the three travelers.

"How lovely she is!" exclaimed Mary. But, for the first time in her married life, her remark passed unheeded. With a cry of incredulous joy, Lord Cravenden had rushed forward, regardless of the time, the place or the people. Was it a dream, or was this not the man he had mourned for as dead?

"Lord Cravenden! At last we meet again."

The two men clasped hands. "But you know me?" stammered Lord Cravenden. "Yes—but what does it mean?" His lordship looked from one smiling face to the other.

"Tell him, dear," said Olive smilingly, "while I kiss my dear Lady Cravenden." Despite the whispering crowd, she made her way to the two kinsmen, and soon an old friendship was warmly renewed, and a new one made.

"It means," said Reuben, "that I am Ernest Verner; before that, Reuben Wynter, alias 'Digger Jack.' Will you forgive my mystery?"

"Yes, yes," stammered his lordship. "It is a romance."

"Not the only one," retorted Reuben significantly, as he gazed across at Mary, talking so happily with Olive. "No, indeed," said Lord Cravenden. "I also have much to tell you." He turned to his wife. "Mary," he said, "it is to my wife who really saved my life. Jack—I mean Reuben—no—"

"He broods off in comical depression. 'What am I to call you?' he asks."

"Reuben Verner," said his friend, as he took the hand that Mary held out to him. "Lady Cravenden, I am indeed glad to see you. I think we shall all have plenty of adventures to relate."

Just then Sir Edwin came bustling forward; he had been talking volubly to his old friend, the dowager.

"This is the happiest day of my life," he said genially. "Come along."

"Seal Brand" is coffee that has been selected from the world's best plantations by coffee experts, roasted and blended by those who have given a life-time to the study of coffee. If you like a cup of GOOD Coffee, try "Seal Brand".

Cough Nearly Cured in 24 Hours

That's the usual experience with this home-made remedy. Cures in 24 hours.

Anyone who tries this pleasant tasting home-made cough syrup, will quickly understand why it is used in more homes in the United States and Canada than any other cough remedy. The way it takes hold of a distinctive cough, giving immediate relief, will make you realize that you never tried it before. It is a truly dependable cough remedy that should be kept handy in every home, to use at the first sign of a cough during the night or day time.

Any druggist can supply you with 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth). Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 75 cents and you have 16 ounces of the most effective remedy you ever used.

The quick, lasting relief you get from this excellent cough syrup will really surprise you. It promptly breaks the inflamed membrane, soothes the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soothes the inflamed lining. Specially good for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma.

And a 2 1/2-ounce concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask for "2 1/2 ounces Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. Write for literature. The Pinex Co., Toronto.

The interrupted bridal procession formed itself anew; and soon the carriages were bearing them off to Bingleigh. Both Reuben and Olive had flatly refused to lose sight of Lord and Lady Cravenden, and all were driven on to the wedding breakfast.

At the hall door they were met by Wynter, his face beaming with pride and love; and it was his hand that threw open the carriage door, and, with Reuben himself, helped Olive to alight. It was his arm that Reuben took as they ascended the steps, and thus led the way.

And now what more is there to say? Speeches were made, toasts were drunk. Amid smiles and tears—for, after all, a wedding means a parting as well as a uniting—the young couple set forth on their honeymoon. With health, wealth, and love, happiness must surely be theirs throughout the years to come; for "Love was lord, and Faith was Love's ambassador."

THE END. You're Bilious! Let "Cascarets" Liven Liver and Bowels

Don't say headachy, constipated, sick, with bad breath and stomach sour.

Get a 10-cent box now. You men and women who can't get "celtic" right—who have headaches, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, "overworked with a sick, gassy, claudered stomach, or have a bad cold. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway very few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret 10-night pill straighten you out by morning—a 30-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

IN THE TOILS; But Happiness Comes at Last.

CHAPTER I A CHANCE TO ESCAPE.

The girl's sigh is a profound and emphatic comment. "Ever since," she murmurs quietly, "I was going to say happy ever since," he continues, "but I don't think you have been very happy."

He looks round the room rather nervously, and at the door especially as he adds this, and shakes his head. Olive sighs.

"Too much work and too little play," he goes on gravely. "I've seen it, Olive, for I've watched you at work day after day, often when you've not known I was in the street, and I've seen your face looking—as it looks now."

Olive starts, and smiles faintly. "I am tired sometimes," she says quietly.

"Nearly always," says Jacob Burney, nodding; "and I've waited for something to happen—something to turn up after things, but nothing has, and so I've got to think more about you, and so at last, this morning—this very morning—I made up my mind"—he stops abruptly, for it occurs to him—he has his eyes fixed on the girl's face—that she is not listening. "I say," he says, touching her arm gently.

"I beg your pardon!" she responds, smiling; "I am listening."

"I say," he goes on, "I made up my mind at last—"

"You made up your mind at last," says Olive, to show she is listening attentively.

"To come over and speak my mind." Olive leans her sleek, smooth head against the window and looks at him with calm attention, so calm and unsuspecting all over, that Jacob Burney's ruddy face grows rather red, and his lips twitch.

"Yes, Olive," he goes on, "I know that you are not happy, that you are overworked, that your aunt"—he looks half over his shoulder apprehensively—"is—rather, exacting, and I thought you couldn't be more unhappy with me."

Olive smiles, with a little faint surprise. "With you, Mr. Burney?" she says innocently. "How? You"—with a faint smile—"don't make dresses! As your housekeeper, do you mean? I don't know anything about house-keeping."

"As my housekeeper! No," says Jacob Burney—"no, no—as my wife!"

Olive does not start, or turn pale, or utter a word; she simply looks straight at him with her dark, thoughtful eyes fixed into a comprehensive questioning regard. Perhaps if she had done one or all of the things she did not do, Jacob Burney would have been less embarrassed; but the calm, grave regard of those dark, wonderful eyes appalled and unnerved him. His hand—it was not wrinkled with age, but was small and plump—opened and shut upon his knees, and his lips quivered.

"Well," he said at last, his voice sounding dry and raspy, "what—what do you say? You are not happy, I think I can make you happier; you are not comfortable, I can make you comfortable, I—I," he hesitated, and looked at her with a sudden disquietude, "am not what you would call a young man, but I'm not old—certainly not old; and, though I'm not rich," he looked up sharply, and nodded emphatically, "I'm not poor. I have put a little money by, and—and—I can give you a pleasant home; a home in which you will be mistress; where you won't have to work, work from morning till night. That will be something."

He pauses a moment, then gets up and goes toward her. As if awakened from a dream by his movement, Olive shinks back against the window, and unconsciously puts out one white, shapely hand.

Jacob Burney stops as if she had actually pushed him back, and looks at her.

"Olive—"

"No, not!" she says faintly. "I cannot—indeed, I cannot! I—I—thank you, thank you with all my heart, but," she turns pale, and her hands clasp each other tightly, "I cannot do what you ask."

Jacob Burney looks at her steadfastly for a moment, then nods once or twice, and turns away, with a sigh. At that moment he is certainly not a chronological enigma, for he looks old, very old.

The door opens, and Mrs. Dennett stands revealed. She looks at the pair with a sharp, comprehensive glance for a moment, then her hatched face grows more hatched, and her thin lips compress.

"Well," she says, "you two; have you arranged matters?"

Olive looks down, pale, stammering; Jacob Burney rubs his hat—it is one of the old-fashioned thick-beaved kind, and a very little rubbing makes it stick up like the fretful porcupine—and shakes his head gravely. Mrs. Dennett's face grew paler, and her nose redder.

"Do you mean to say," she says indignantly, "that she has refused you?"

Jacob Burney looks up fearfully, and glances at those apprehensive eyes.

"No; yes; she—," he says nervously.

Mrs. Dennett motions with her bony hand to the door.

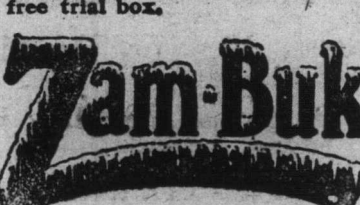

"You go home, Mr. Burney, and leave Olive to me."

FOR FROSTBITE

There is nothing so soothing and healing as Zam-Buk. This great herbal balm, silks inflammation, draws out soreness, and reduces swelling. Those who have once used Zam-Buk for the treatment of winter ailments say they would use it again.

USE

No other remedy, as experience proves that nothing can equal Zam-Buk for chapped hands, cold sores, cold cracks and chilblains. It is also invaluable for all skin injuries and diseases. All drug-gists and stores, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25. Send 1c. stamp for postage on free trial box.

Dennett shuts the door carefully, and then faces round. "Do you mean to tell me, Olive Estcourt, that you have actually refused him?"

Olive looks up quietly, but with her dark brows meeting in a straight line over her eyes.

"Do you mean to tell me you have thrown away a chance such as half the girls in the village would have jumped at? Come, you've got a tongue! Don't, for Heaven's sake, stand there as if you were demented. Hasn't Jacob Burney asked you to be his wife?"

"And do you know that he is rich—that he can offer you a comfortable home, an easy life; I say, do you know that?"

"Yes, I suppose so," is the low reply.

"Well, why do you hesitate—what more do you want? A good husband, a comfortable home, money—all you can desire. Why don't you answer—do you mean to tell me that you have said 'No'?"

"I have said 'No,'" replies Olive, her face pale, but resolute.

Mrs. Dennett seems to struggle with her breath for a moment, then she says, harshly and suddenly:

"Then, Olive Estcourt, you are a fool! Yes, a fool, like your father before you—"

The pale face flushes up for a moment, then grows paler for the charge. "Yes, like your father. He was full of fancies and follies—follies that made him marry an actress, and ruin himself and all belonging to him, and you are bitten by the same mad dog. But I've some right to say it. I've earned my right to say it. I've kept you—yes, kept you—all these years, girl; you, the child of a woman who ruined my brother and me, and brought you up, a tie and a drag upon me, and I say that you shall do what's right. Do you think I've been blind? Do you think I haven't noticed how sick and tired you are of the life and of me? And that I haven't seen a chance of your getting over it. I've watched it coming day by day, and now it's here at your feet, do you suppose I mean to stand by and let you kick it over? No, you are too young to know what is good for you, but I'm not. And I say—her voice grew not harder, but sharper and more shrill—"I say that I will have you do what is good for you. Sooner or later, you shall marry Jacob Burney!"

(To be Continued.)

Vegetables that are mostly starch and water should be put into boiling water and boiled rapidly. Rancid butter may be sweetened if you melt it and then place a piece of light brown toast in it. Her wedding" inquired the young widow.

You Can't Find Any Dandruff, and Hair Stops Coming Out.

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy, glossy and beautiful at once.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy a first—yes, really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment. A small trial bottle will double the beauty of your hair.

Eczema Cured Five Years Ago.

A Treatment Which Has Proven a Wonderful Healer of the Skin. Certified Evidence of Lasting Cure.

Jordan, Ont., February 5th.—"I had a bad case of eczema on my hand, the blood is refuted time and time again by the cures that are daily being effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment. It matters not what the cause may have been if you apply Dr. Chase's Ointment regularly you will obtain relief and cure of eczema. Here is the proof."

Mrs. Stephen G. Thwaites, Box 11, Jordan, Ont., writes: "My brother had a bad case of eczema on his hand and winter with it, and could not work for days at a time. He tried almost every salve and ointment, but was cured him. One day he tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it gave him instant relief. He continued his use but had not quite finished the second box when he was cured. It is now about five years since then, and it has never returned. We certainly can command Dr. Chase's Ointment, as it is very grateful for my brother's cure."

(Rev. S. F. Coffman, Vineland, Ont., states: "This is to certify that I have given my name to this firm as a subscriber, and her statement is correct.")

Mr. J. E. Jones, 225 University Avenue, Kingston, Ont., writes: "I was miserably in my hand for about 10 years. I tried a great many remedies but found that while some of them checked it, none cured it permanently. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment, and in six weeks my hand was completely better. I would not do without a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment if giving my name to this firm so that I will get to those who suffer as I have. Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, at all dealers or Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Subscribers will only disappoint you. I insist on getting what you ask for."

BRITISH SUB-SUNK. LONDON, Feb. 4.

The Admiralty announcement tonight confirms the claim in the Turkish official statement that the submarine E-14, which was sent into the Mediterranean on the night of Jan. 27th, under orders to complete the destruction of the former German cruiser Eberon, was sunk off Kumkale, Seven miles west of the Turkish coast. E-14 also was sunk, declaring she returned to her base.

ENOUGH TRANSPORTS AVAILABLE. WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.

Secretary Daniels today authorized a statement that the Navy is assured of enough transport facilities to make sure that there will be 500,000 American troops in France early this year, as was stated by Secretary Baker recently before the Senate Military Committee.

ITALIAN CITIES DAMAGED. ROME, Feb. 4.

Venice and a number of towns on the Venetian plain have been bombed by enemy airmen, according to the Italian official issued to-night. While no damage and no casualties resulted from the attack on Venice, considerable destruction was brought about in the towns of Padua, Trvin, and Mestre, where also a number of civilians were killed and wounded.

THE U. S. FIRST DRAFT. WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.

Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder today announced that the movement of the last increments of men selected in the first draft will begin on Feb. 23rd and continue for a period of five days. This will complete the operation of the first draft, as all the States will have furnished their full quota. The movement will bring the strength of the National Army up to 685,000 men contemplated in the first draft.

WASHINGTTON, Feb. 4.

Secretary of War Baker's recent statement to the Senate Military Committee that the United States would have half a million soldiers in France early this year and that prospects were not unpromising for ships to carry a million more who were ready during the year, were characterized by Senator Hitchcock, Democrat from Nebraska, in an address to-day as absolutely preposterous and so exaggerated as to convey an entirely false impression as to what we can do and what we are doing. Supporting the committee's bill for a War Cabinet and Munitions Director, Senator Hitchcock declared Secretary Baker was no doubt sincere but was misled by lack of information regarding the scarcity of ships, into making sanguine statements. He said President Wilson himself does not know the real situation, and cited this situation as an illustration of absence of Government co-ordination. Administration leaders prepared a reply to Senator Hitchcock whose speech launched the debate which has been impending since Secretary Baker made his statement and the President made known his opposition to the Military Committee's plans for reorganizing the Government's war machinery.

You Cannot Breathe Liquids!

That is why liquid medicines are of so little use for bronchitis. To get to the seat of the trouble the medicine must be breathed. That is why Peps are so successful in the treatment of this ailment—Peps are breathable!

When a Peps Pastille is dissolved in the mouth the Peps vapor which is liberated is breathed down the bronchial tubes to the lungs, soothing and healing all the delicate, inflamed membranes. Peps are equally good for laryngitis, asthma, sore throat, coughs, and colds. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25. All dealers or Peps Co., Toronto. Send 1c. stamp for trial package.

Important Meeting of Board of Trade.

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held in their rooms yesterday afternoon at 3.30. The meeting was not so largely attended as it might have been when such an important subject was to be discussed.

Mr. Brooks acted as chairman in a very capable manner and in his opening remarks showed a keen desire in the making of our "staple industry" a more valuable asset. The question of our methods of curing fish has been an ever growing problem and it had become much more serious during the last few months, as was indicated from the several complaints which have reached us from the other side.

In 1911 the United States Fish and Game Department got out a pamphlet dealing with the reddening of fish in a scientific and practical manner. Mr. Brooks pleaded for a centralization of a curing station in order that there might not be a repetition of last season. He realized and admitted that the formation of such an organization would not be a remedy but it would be of great assistance. Centralization of curing stations would benefit the individual fisherman as well as the colony, and we well as a consequence, fish of a more uniform character than we have ever hope to have under the haphazard methods we now employ.

Mr. G. C. Peard in his very able speech said the method suggested by Mr. Brooks was a good one and one he advocated many years ago. He contended that the cause of the reddening of fish is due to dirt and that if a "dun" fish was used to dirt, and that if a good amount of antiseptic was used much good would accrue. He felt our men were not sufficiently clean with curing of fish and cited an instance which proved his contention. He would be for the appointment of a personal instructor who would be a person of ability. It was useless to print pamphlets. We should educate them by personal contact. Further inspection would mean fish graded as it ought to be.

Capt. Whitely in opening his remarks said he wished to speak only from a practical standpoint and not scientific. He attributed the reddening of fish to dirt entirely. He went through the various processes in the curing of the fish from the time it was taken from the "cod bag" till it was shipped, dwelling particularly on the washing and piling on flakes. He thought it advisable to have a properly constituted Board and members of said Board who would have the support of the intelligent fishermen.

Mr. J. Moore did not think there was any need whatever of a scientific board. Red, he said, was caused by insufficient salt and dirt. He attributed the calamitous losses for the past year to the buyers and exporters of fish, as fish had been bought for rush orders.

Mr. D. Mann then addressed the meeting saying the first red fish he saw was in Spain and was due to insufficient salt. Fish was washed too soon after it was salted. If sufficient salt is not given it the fish becomes decomposed and dun and red are the inevitable result.

Hon. John Harvey in well chosen words said it was plainly evident that the evidence as given by the practical men did not hold together. This was not the first year that a shortage of salt, and he thought that the statement "red was due to lack of salt" was incorrect, although insufficient salt may assist in some measure. He felt that they really did not know the cause of dun. The methods of curing used by us today he admitted to be primitive, but there were two practical difficulties in centralizing: one, the difficulty in securing sufficient room in a harbor for a site, and two, difficulty of securing labour. The desirability of such a plan he had already suggested to the Council, that of raising a fund in order to bring in a man who would be a trained observer and who would have heart interest in the matter to study the fish and see if he can isolate the reasons (though the scientific investigations of the U. S. did not get at the root of the matter). They do not indicate the original cause. A very competent man would be found in the person of Dr. Hewart who lectured here some years ago. These observations would be of great scientific interest as well as a commercial value.

Mr. F. Moore then spoke of his 50 years in the fish business and said as long as he could remember "red" was spoken of and was always attributed to lack of salt. Fish last year he said needed more salt owing to the intense heat.

Mr. Piccott in opening his very able remarks said there was a big difference between pink and red fish. The latter being known since we started curing fish, while it was only recently we learnt anything of the former. He quoted several specific cases to prove his contention that salt will not cure red or pink fish. Continuing, Mr. Piccott said: "My own theory is, it is the food the fish eat. We have to study the life of the fish, what they live on. The time has come when we must look ahead and find out the causes." From personal observation, he learned that no amount of salt can cure pink fish.

Mr. Baddell spoke at length on the methods of curing fish. He felt that the temperature had a great deal to do with it and that there was no such thing as over-salting.

Mr. Davies, Government Analyst, spoke of the importance of such an important subject, affecting the welfare of the country, that another meeting should be held; the meeting he declared had brought out many points of interest to him.

Mr. Gosling spoke of the U. S. pamphlet and of the importance of scientific material it contained and suggested having copies of same printed before the next meeting.

Mr. Davies, Government Analyst, spoke briefly and said from a chemical standpoint the danger of over-salting was almost equal to under-salting.

The meeting was adjourned on a motion made by Mr. Hepburn and seconded by Mr. Piccott.

Preliminary Hearing Concluded.

The preliminary hearing in the Coaker-Red criminal libel action came to a close yesterday afternoon. Hon. W. E. Coaker, the complainant, was the only witness. Mr. H. E. Knight, counsel for defendant, moved for a dismissal of the case and for upwards of an hour dealt with the important features of the case.

Mr. W. R. Howley, K.C., for complainant, was heard contra.

His Honor Judge Morris in closing intimated that he would give a decision as early as possible.

Hr. Grace Notes.

The schr. Ada Peard is now on dock here receiving an overhauling before leaving for market with a fish cargo.

We experienced some very cold weather the past few days—a real old-fashioned touch of winter.

Here and There.

NEW PURCHASE.—Capt. George Street, of Burgeo, is now at Halifax where he is in the command of A. Monton's new purchase, the schooner Albert J. Lutz. The purchase is now en route to Burgeo with general cargo for her owners.

GOSARD BRASSIERS.—Just received a new shipment of Gosard Brassieres. G. KNOWLING, Ltd.—Jan 22, 7/60.

MEETING OF Nfld. BIBLE SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of the Nfld. Bible Society will be held this evening in the Village Hall. His Excellency the Governor will preside and deliver an address. The speaker of the evening will be the Rev. Dr. Jones and a large attendance of friends of the Society is expected.

AID OF PATRIOTIC FUND.—It is hoped a series of games will be played between the city team which will compete with the visitors from King's College, Windsor, and a series of older players who are not attached to the League aggregations, in aid of the Patriotic Fund. These games ought to be well attended and assist in the raising of funds so badly needed.

DON'T MISS THIS.—Card Party and Dance in aid of Presentation Convent Restoration Fund, with teas included, to be held in the O'Donel Hall, Feb. 11th, by Messrs. Redmond and Shortall. Tickets—Gent's $1.00, Ladies' 50c.—Feb 5, 11.

RELEASED FROM QUARANTINE.—A message was received yesterday by the Health Department from Magistrate Courage of Bay L'Argent that the recent outbreak of diphtheria at Anderson's Cove had been effectively dealt with, the sufferers—some 8 or 10—having now fully recovered. All the houses in which the disease appeared had been released from quarantine.

SUCCESSFUL STUDENTS.—The following pupils who attended Mr. F. Doyle's navigation school, have been awarded certificates by the St. John Ambulance Association: Messrs. F. Beck, J. T. Carroll, W. H. Bradley, B. Barry and I. Seligro. Dr. Burden acted as lecturer and Dr. McDonald as examiner. At present 15 pupils are now attending the nautical school daily.

When you want Sausages, why get ELLIS'; they're the best.

At the Casino.

The W. S. Harkins players appeared before another capacity house last night, and the comedy "Fog O' My Heart" was presented in a very pleasing manner. The title role was taken by Miss Dorothy Chesmond who won continued applause and at the close many of the audience waited at the entrance to personally congratulate her. Owing to the fact that this play was presented by local artists of the highest reputation recently, there was a great number of critics present. Everyone was satisfied that the Harkins players were seen at their best and that they were quite capable of producing this roaring comedy. It was proven that our amateurs who staged it last fall gave an excellent performance. The Harkins players can feel certain of having another full house to-night when "Fog O' My Heart" will be repeated.

At the Holiday Matinee to-morrow (Wednesday) afternoon, by special request "Fog O' My Heart" will be given, and in the evening Sir John Forbes Robertson's world-famous play "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" seats now on sale, Friday and Saturday nights as an added attraction, Miss Dorothy Chesmond will appear in new dances.

Generosity of Hon. Jas. Angel.

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the Board of Control representing the Pensioners and Discharged Soldiers, I beg to gratefully acknowledge the generosity of Hon. James Angel in presenting a handsome Piano for the use, worship and entertainment of the patients of Jensen Camp.

Yours truly,
R. HOLWOOD,
Chairman Board of Control.

Presentation.

At a meeting of Atlantic Lodge No. 1, I. O. O. F., held last night, Bro. P. G. J. Long was presented with a F. G. Collar in recognition of 15 years association and service with the Lodge. The presentation was made by Bro. P. G. Butler.

The recipient made a happy reply thanking the officers and brethren for their high appreciation of services which had been only a work of devotion.

Here and There.

288 Vaccination Shields have just arrived for STAFFORD'S Drug Stores, only 20c. ea.—Feb 5, 11

BEACHES DESTINATION.—The schooner Eva C. has arrived at her destination. A message to that effect was received by Mr. A. H. Murray, this morning.

PROTECT YOUR ARM by using a Vaccination Shield, only 20c. ea. at STAFFORD'S Drug Stores. Feb 5, 11

TAKEN TO S. A. HOME.—A young married woman who resided in Sydney until recently, but who has not seen her husband for some time, applied for assistance at the police station yesterday afternoon. She was taken to the S. A. Maternity Home.

HOCKEYISTS PRACTICE.—The Terra Nova and Victoria had another practice last night and practically decided on their line-up. They will probably play on Friday night the opening game of the fixtures.

Campaigning in Australia.

(From the Montreal Herald.)

The Australian papers just to hand show that the campaign which preceded the Military Service referendum in the Commonwealth was even more exciting than that which preceded the General Election in Canada. Considerable indignation was expressed in Canada because Sir Robert Borden was not allowed a hearing at Kitchener. But the Melbourne Argus tells of a riot which took place at Warwick when Premier Hughes arrived there to give an address. The Premier's hat was knocked off by a rotten egg, whereupon a returned soldier tackled the thrower, and in a second a free fight was in progress. Says the Argus account:

"So far as could be judged, the loyalists had the better of the struggle. One of the first to defend Mr. Hughes' assailant from the wrath of the returning soldier came out of the fight with blood streaming down his face. Fists were flying everywhere, and the Prime Minister was in the thick of it striving to get at the man who had assailed him, and who was one of the biggest men in the crowd. Mr. Hughes was hustled and jostled by men twice his size, but when he emerged it was his hand and not his face that was bleeding."

Ecema Cured Five Years

Treatment Which Has Proven Verified Evidence of Lasting Cure.

Man, Ont., February 6th. I have had eczema for five years. It was cured by the cures that are detailed in Dr. Chase's Ointment. I had tried many other cures but they did not give me any relief. One day I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment and it gave me relief. He continued to use it until it was cured. It is now five years since then, and I have not had a return. We certainly owe Dr. Chase's Ointment a great debt of gratitude for my relief.

Safe For Democracy

(By "A. A. M.")

The Dresden Treasoning to be in the Weimar Diet which interest in the present movement was introduced to provide persons with income below the minimum of the present constitution, and that, on the other hand, the Grand Duke's freedom from charges should be abrogated.

Speakers denounced the unjust burden of the full burden of the tax upon the poorer classes, especially at the present time when they were starving.

The Minister of Finance made a speech in support of the motion. He said that the Duke is entitled to the privileges of his house, and is responsible for the private working classes. We are not in the wilds of America. We are in Germany, where the princes will always rank above the proletariat.

The Minister of Finance is gratulated on his tact. A petulant speaker might have said that we are not living in the wilds of America, but that would have been a game away. "Sympathy" is the order of the day. Later on when the peace is safely signed, and in part that condition which states that any shall "obtain for fifteen years control of the Russian wheat supply" to satisfy all her wants, then Ministers of Finance will be able to speak more freely. They will be able to make it clear that "The rights of a Prince will always rank above the rights of the Russian proletariat."

The secret of perfect frying is to have the fat hot enough to brown the surface instantly. A set of family scales should be in every kitchen. They will be a great help against short weights.

Murmurs Of Revolt.

The true value of the considerable strike in different parts of Germany, which have just been suppressed rather than settled, should be measured by their extent, not their result. That can be only one until the labour protest which such disturbances represent becomes more organized and directed towards the military which at present still has them so fully under control. But there has been much progress as it is. It is the hope of our people upon whom the Socialists have been so openly daring as the censored reports show them to have been, and that, ringleaders are punished with a mere term of imprisonment for inciting a whole factory to quit work. Though the military arm is still supreme and a good sanction to have behind threats of coercion when persuasion fails, there is good evidence in all this that the powers that be are growing timid in carrying the threats into execution. The chief value of the strikes is thus the infallible indication they afford of the growing spirit of unrest and dissatisfaction, a spirit by no means confined to the proletariat; their chief effect in the serious stoppage they will have imposed for the time on the production of war supplies.

This great political and social upheaval in the Central Empire is not all the direct result of internal conditions. We believe that much of it can be traced to the duplicity of Germany's treatment of the whole eastern question: we have been convinced from the beginning that when she set out to trick the great Bolsheviki, she on her own people, which is at last manifesting itself. It is natural enough, to the people of millions, heart sick of the war with its endless sorrow and sacrifice, the promise of peace, at least with half their armies and leading thus to a complete peace with victory over the rest, is suddenly held out. It is as suddenly withdrawn and by those who held it out in the first place, Germany of the junkers is at last revealed to Germany of the masses. If the Bolsheviki have done much harm, they have also done the great service of implanting thoroughly and disseminating throughout Germany, even the least enlightened parts of it, the principle of no annexations and indemnities. The doctrine is easily reconcilable with the other doctrine that they have been taught to believe implicitly that Germany was forced into the war in self defence. Both are hard, however, to reconcile with Germany's own treatment of the conquered Russian provinces, and it is possible that the German people are to-day doing more hard thinking than since the beginning of the war, and with this sharpened by the keen instrument of suffering. They may soon learn to apply the lesson of the present to the facts of the past, and they grasp it thoroughly and deduce the futility of fighting the world for and not merely unjust but unattainable, something will surely happen. Triple strang as are the chains that bind them, they are not so strong that they cannot be broken. They will be broken, must be, before the end. The strikes at Berlin and Hamburg are but the beginning of a new testing out of the links that hardly strains them. Some day will come the mighty effort that will burst them asunder. It will be a bad day for Germany and her rulers, but a good one for the rest of the world.

"Two Simple Facts."

The Times: When the First Lord reiterates his warning that the Germans are building submarines faster than we can sink them, and that they are sinking our merchant ships faster than we can build them, he must be taken very seriously, for he means precisely what he says. Those two simple facts carry more conviction than a wealth of figures. When we add to them the points that the Germans have sunk in the past fortnight thirty ships of over 1,600 tons, that the weekly average of sinkings in the early part of the year was even higher, and that we have other and more natural sources of occasional loss which must be reckoned, it is obvious that the menace of the submarine is becoming, as the enemy have long insisted, the most vital factor in the war. It must be remembered, too, that while the total number of our ships is increasing, the effective use to which the balance can be applied is also lessening. For example, the extreme precautions now enforced, and the working of the convoy system involve delays which were not operative earlier in the war. Again, the radius of action of the submarines is increasing, and their attacks grow more daring. Though Sir Eric Geddes is able to say that the menace is held, and that the general curve of the mercantile losses is downward, while the curve of destruction of submarines is upward, the country will realize from a careful examination of his statement that an increase of shipbuilding is now one of the great necessities of the war.

German Agencies In America.

It is estimated that there are at the present time 250,000 German agents at work in the United States. One police authority divides them into nine classes, according to the nature of their activities. The first comprises the regular active spies paid by the Government of Germany. These obtain all possible secrets of army and navy preparations and direct and carry out plots for the destruction of ships, ammunition factories, etc. The second class are the paid propagandists for the spread of German colored information and for the painting of gloomy pictures of the position of the Allies. The third class are largely unpaid, their work being that of rumor makers, spreaders of reports of Allied disasters and the writing of articles to disparage the Government and discourage the people. The fourth class are the bankers, lawyers, ministers and professional pacifists who are always pitying the "poor German people" and arguing in favor of the acceptance of German peace offers. The fifth are the unscrupulous organizations like the I. W. A., many of whose leaders are undoubtedly paid by the German government to cause as much trouble as possible. The sixth class is made up of those thousands of lowest American citizens who are duped by the other classes into, in many cases unconsciously, aiding the German propaganda. The seventh are those who make it their business to disseminate pro-German pamphlets in the German and Hungarian languages. The eighth are those who publish newspapers with a thinly veiled anti-Allied character. The ninth consists of the so-called "Peace" organizations who give their support to every peace offer which comes from Berlin. It will thus be seen that the American authorities are confronted by a terrible problem in handling the "enemy within the gates," but the American police system and the secret service system have shown their ability to cope with any situation which may arise and the world can feel confident of the outcome.—Hix Recorder, Jan. 21.

A Glimpse Into the Past

The following from a St. John's paper of 1854 has been sent to us and will be found interesting: MORNING POST EXTRA. St. John's, November 1. One O'Clock P.M. We have just received the following telegram from our correspondent at Sydney, who adds, a sailing packet would leave Halifax for this port on Friday. HALIFAX, 25th October, 1854. R. M. Steamer Niagara arrived this morning. Sebastopol not taken; Allies invested the south side; began bombarding on the 5th; Destroyed aqueducts; cut off supplies and water; Assault would be made on the 8th. Russians sunk seven ships in the entrance of the harbour, thereby preventing Allied fleets from attacking. Plans of operations changed. Admiral Dundas had sent Marines on shore to join the army. Marshal St. Arnaud died of disease of the heart. Schamyl defeated by Russians. Prussians lean towards Western Powers. Breadstuffs unchanged.

Supreme Court.

(Present: Hon. Justice Kent.) Hon. W. F. Coaker vs. W. J. Herder, Proprietor of the Evening Telegram. This is an application on the part of the defendant for an order that the plaintiff's statement of claim be struck out on the ground that it discloses no reasonable cause of action and is frivolous and vexatious, and that the plaintiff's action be stayed or dismissed and that the defendant be at liberty to sign judgment heretofore for the costs of defence, and in the meantime let further proceedings be stayed. Mr. H. A. Winter for defendant is heard in support of the application. Mr. Howley, K.C., for plaintiff is heard against the application. Mr. Winter is heard in reply. The Court takes time to consider.

If the Russians Break Loose.

(From the Detroit Free Press.) The obvious thing is the big thing among the possibilities of the Russo-German situation. If the peace negotiations between the two countries fall through, Berlin's plans for hard smashes on the French and Italian fronts must go by the board. A large number of troops will be needed to watch the Slavs, possibly a larger number than have been needed for a long time, and this will be specially true in case the Germans attempt to maintain possession of all the Russian territory they have thus far penetrated. It is not to be expected that the Slavs will be able to gain any great victories. The Teutons have scarcely been foolish enough to allow the disintegration of their strategic organizations, nor have they been blind to the latent possibilities which have always persisted in the situation along their east front. But resistance against the onslaught of seven million more or less disciplined and infuriated and desperate men will be quite a change from the pleasant diversion of befoothing that same Russian army. The great bulk of these millions are veterans, who have measured strength with the Teutons and are not afraid of them. There are large detachments of hundreds of thousands of men who are well armed and well fed, and the Cossack contingent may be depended upon to put up some fair fighting. There is no reason for wonder if there is something approaching consternation in Berlin government circles over the revision of feeling in Russia and if clamor for the convening of the Reichstag is rising.

A drunk who appeared before the Magistrate this morning was discharged. A 17 year old domestic was in court this morning charged with the theft of a silk blouse and two skirts. The plaintiff, accompanied by Detective Byrne, visited the defendant yesterday and found her arrayed in one of the garments. The domestic admitted taking one of them but knew nothing of the other missing articles. The Judge imposed a fine of $5 or 10 days, and the father of the girl must enter into a bond for her future good behaviour.

Why "Tank"?

When, after exhaustive experiments, the first Tank was produced, the problem of a suitable name arose. It was necessary in the department which dealt with the new arm to have some convenient name which should convey nothing to the uninitiated but be easily recognizable to those in the secret. "Land" was given away too much. "Juggernaut" was suggested, but failed to commend itself. The happiest suggestion came from a General when on the methods of concealing their object was mentioned to him. "Shall we label them drinking water only?" he was asked. "No," he replied, "Call them simply 'Tanks'." So Tanks they were called, and have been ever since. Some of the names given by their crews to the Tanks are illustrated by the heraldic emblems on the body. Among them are—His Majesty's, Landships Cyclops, Chaos, Cape au Lait, Champagne, and Creme de Lait. There was an H.M.S. Dreadnought, Daredevil, and a Deadwood Dick. Some were named after Scottish clans for example—Clan Cameron, Clan Rutven, Clan Gordon and Clan McTavish. One male tank was named H. M. L. S. Curate on the ground that he "assisted the victors" carried in his sister female-tank.

His Excellency The Governor

VISITS THE PENITENTIARY. At three o'clock yesterday afternoon His Excellency the Governor, Sir Alexander Harris, K.C.M.G., etc., attended by Colonel Knox-Niven, Private Secretary, paid an official visit to St. M. Penitentiary. At the entrance to the prison, Governor Harris was received by the Superintendent and staff and accompanied to the various departments of the institution. The male prisoners—twenty-nine in all—were paraded in front of the main ward, which he also inspected, asking questions of the Superintendent and Matron as to the occupation, conduct, etc., of the three persons confined there, giving each an opportunity to appeal to him personally, which one of them availed of. From the prison proper he proceeded to the Industrial Department, in which he seemed to take a good deal of interest. There he remained for some considerable time watching the various processes employed in the manufacture of brooms and hearth brushes. Governor Harris also made a thorough inspection of the kitchen and pantry, asking questions, at the same time, regarding the scale of dietary and quality of food supplied. On his return to the Superintendent's office, His Excellency was pleased to place on record there his entire satisfaction with the condition and management of the institution. We have a splendid stock to select from, and can give you the latest and smartest cut; and, listen, perhaps a cut in price, too. SPURKELL the Tailor, 365 Water St. Phone 574.—Jan16,1918

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARTER IN COWS.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARTER IN COWS. The first mate was informed that the " " would take the crew on board, but that they would have to expedite, and make but one trip with their boat which was a small dory, having lost their lifeboat previously. The dory returned to the schooner and all the crew came aboard the " " bringing practically nothing with them. The master reported that before leaving the ship the schooner had been set on fire, and smoke was issuing from the hatches as the " " steamed away. The following-named men were taken on board the " ": William Haynes, master; Henry Amestoy, mate; William Grant, cook; Halv Thompson, Charles Blagdon, Maxwoll Douglas, seaman. This is the second narrow escape the crew have had since the war began. The mate, Amestoy, told The Herald that last winter, while in the Mediterranean, they were nearly sunk by a submarine. It seems that the boat was ordinarily engaged in the banks fishing industry, and when so employed carries a crew of twenty-one hands. In the winter, after the season is over, it is customary to take a load of fish to European ports. As the distance is long and the vessel slow, it often takes four or five months for such a voyage. The Cromwell was provisioned for six months this trip. Last winter, on Sunday morning, at 9 o'clock, while in the Mediterranean, at a point about two hundred miles east of Gibraltar, they sighted a steamer which was coming toward them. When she was about a mile away, they heard a gun fired, and the steamer came to a stop. Later they sighted a submarine on the far side of the steamer. Just what caused the delay he did not know, but about 11 o'clock there was a loud explosion and the ship was blown up, sinking almost immediately. Meantime they had not noticed the approach of another vessel, their attention being drawn off by proceedings near the vessel. This second ship proved to be a man-o'-war from Gibraltar, which rapidly approached and the submarine submerged. Otherwise they think it would have been their turn next.—Halifax Herald, Jan. 28.

Drifted Helplessly In North Atlantic.

Halifax, January 28.—After drifting about the stormy North Atlantic for twelve days, in a little schooner totally disabled by the loss of her rudder when three hundred miles off Cape Race, the crew of five hardy Newfoundland seamen of the schooner "Thomas A. Cromwell," of Fortune Bay, were picked up at sea by an American war vessel engaged in convoy work, and after a considerable extra cruise in that ship have been landed at Halifax and will be forwarded to their homes sometime today. The men were taken off the schooner on the 10th of January, but the ship which rescued them was outward bound across the Atlantic and they were landed here on the homeward trip. When rescued, their vessel was sinking fast in the open Atlantic, four or five hundred miles off the coast of Newfoundland. The abandoned schooner was set on fire so as not to become a menace to traffic in the ocean lanes. The little vessel was bound on a trip from St. Pierre, Miquelon, to far-off Oporto, Portugal. She carried a crew of five men, all of whom were rescued in good condition. Only once during their period of distress did they sight another vessel, and then a steamer passed them two miles away but without making any reply to their signals of distress. As daylight broke on the morning of the tenth it was with glad hearts that they caught a glimpse of the American ship, for they had about given up hope of being rescued before their boat should sink. The story of William Haynes, master of the abandoned schooner, is as follows: We sailed on December 22nd, 1917, from St. Pierre, for Oporto, Portugal, with a cargo of codfish. On December 26th, the weather became stormy with a heavy sea running. At 3 a.m. we lost our lifeboat and the ship was leaking at the rate of 250 strokes (on the pump), an hour. We were then in latitude 40 degrees, 35 minutes north, 09 degrees 27th, it was still blowing from the northeast and we were under reefed foresail. At 2 a.m. the sudden gale went out and the ship became unmanageable. She was now, leaking 300 strokes per hour. At 4 a.m., the wind still veering northeast, we were lying to. The 28th and 29th were still stormy with a heavy gale blowing from the northeast. The ship was still unmanageable and secured with tackles to keep her steady. It was impossible to repair the rudder. December 30th and 31st continued stormy, the ship now leaking 600 strokes to the hour. There was nothing in sight, but look-outs were posted. On January 1st the weather cleared somewhat with showers and light rain. Ship still leaking as before, and the crew manning the pumps continuously. On January 4th a steamship was sighted about two miles away. We tried to signal her but the signal was before. On January 5th, was calm and a smooth sea, crew manning pumps as before. On January 6th, a heavy gale came up from the southeast, with a heavy sea running. The same conditions obtained on the 7th, and 8th, with hard work at the pumps and an anxious look-out kept for assistance. On January 9th a strong gale still blew from the southeast. This continued until midnight, and the look-outs could see nothing, the ship still continued to leak badly. At midnight, the wind veered to the northeast, and at daybreak the look-out observed a man-o'-war off the port quarter. We signalled her at 8 a.m. and launched a dory and pulled over and stated the condition of the crew of five men. The ship was set adrift on fire. She is the property of Simon Tibbo, of Fortune Bay, Grand Bank, Nfld. The captain of the vessel which rescued the crew of the schooner, gave the skipper of the abandoned vessel a certificate which reads as follows: 1. This is to certify that at 6.30 a.m., the 10th January, 1918, while at sea, the " " sighted the schooner "Thomas A. Cromwell," making signal of distress. We went close to her and the first mate came on board and stated that it was necessary to abandon the schooner, as the rudder was gone and the ship was leaking badly, and that they had been pumping for twelve days. At this time the wind was from the northeast and had been for some days previous. The position of the ship was longitude 43 degrees north, and latitude 43 degrees west.

Those Everlasting Interruptions.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"Life," said the Authorman, "is one darn thing after another." (Only he didn't say darn.)

He had just got back to work after a two weeks' break caused by a relative's illness, when an attack of tonsillitis came along and snatched him from his desk again.

He said it, however so much more cheerfully and calmly than he usually appears when making such protests, that I commented on the fact and asked him what had come over him.

"Come in to my study," he said, "and I'll show you something that's helped."

So we went in to his study and there, pinned above his desk was this quotation:

There Will Always Be Interruptions.

"So long as there is work to do there will be interruptions, breaks in its progress. And it is part of one's character growth to learn to bear these timely or untimely interruptions without any break in good temper or courtesy."

"I don't know who wrote that," said the Authorman. "Nobody important I guess. I cut it out of one of those good thought calendars, but believe me, it's done me more good than a whole book of quotations from the best authors."

And to judge from the calmness with which he was taking an interruption which would have otherwise thrown him into a most unlivable state of gloomy resentment, he spoke the truth.

I ought to be able to get something done.

The number of unavoidable interruptions which the life of an ordinary man or woman can develop is simply unbelievable. One looks ahead to a stretch of time and says to oneself, "Christmas is over, I haven't any clothes to buy, and it does seem as if in the next three months before spring cleaning and the buying of summer clothes I ought to get something done."

CONSERVATION TALKS.

VENT MASON

This conservation talk is wise, when sprung by people sane and sane, who know where moderation lies, and have no schemes' absurd and vain. But now we're going to extremes, which is our tendency, alas! And we are airing hop joint dreams for bringing victory to pass. The faddist makes a foolish sound, and tries to regulate his coop; the pitiful vendor goes around and tells me how to eat my soup. "Let's win the war by eating prunes," I hear the noisy allock call; "If you eat fowl," cry other loons, "devour the feathers, bones and all!" "We can bring near the dawn

MORNING EXERCISES.

If your eliminative organs are sluggish and have been very much neglected, you will need to take strenuous exercise to keep your beauty. They must be stimulated to activity. This can only be done by proper exercises. One of the best for this purpose should be taken in bed before arising. Before you get up in the morning lie straight with your hands at the sides. Slowly raise your legs until they are at right angles with the body. Lower just as slowly and repeat ten times.

Now jump out of bed and follow this exercise with another, the purpose of which, also, is to induce peristaltic action. The next exercise is to stand erect, raise the hands over the head and twist the body to the right at the waist line only, trying to touch the floor with the finger tips.

The legs are next in order. The hands should be placed on the hips and the right leg should swing forward, alternating the movement with the left leg. This exercise will also give suppleness to inactive muscles.

The interior of the body should be thoroughly cleaned daily, just as regularly as we take our shower and sponge and more luxurious beauty bath. First comes the care of the nose. Milady should not neglect this daily spraying on every occasion, for there is nothing so disastrous to the general health and beauty as a catarrhal affection, or anything so annoying to other people as a constant clearing of the throat. Then the lining of the eyelids, each morning and night, should be washed with a solution of boracic acid. For this treatment an eye-cup should be used.

Rann-Dom Reels.

THE ONE-MAN TOP.

The one-man top is something that is thrown in with an automobile in order to stimulate the sale of Bibles and court plaster. After a new, complacent owner of an automobile has put up one of these tops alone, in a hard rainstorm, his feelings will be greatly relieved by applying a few passages of choice Old Testament rhetoric and preserving his knuckles in liquid court plaster.

The one-man top has sold more automobiles in this country than the promise to extract forty-two miles per gallon of gasoline. As a result, during the touring season our roads are littered with husbands and fathers who are trying to put the top up without using a rope and tackle, failing miserably in the attempt and being obliged to listen to the loud, pompous cackle of passers-by who had their put up by the entire garage force. It shows how far removed from civilization we are when such a sight as this can provoke levity in the breast of an ungodly neighbor.

After the one-man top has been exposed to the rain and sun for a few weeks, it begins to shrink at the rate of four knots a day, after which it is taken down on the instalment plan and laid to rest in a neat rubber envelope. Anybody who is not blind in both eyes and totally paralyzed from the hips upward can do this in an hour and a half, without taking off nearly all of his clothes. It is a very simple operation, a good deal like remodelling a barn into a bungalow.

The one-man top can be put up with the utmost ease by holding a house party and enlisting the services of the male guests who have taken a course in civil engineering. It can also be

Bird Mimics.

We are accustomed to talk of the parrot as a wonderful mimic; but almost every bird is a born imitator. Our men in the firing-line have had ample opportunity of proving this.

A case of a hen imitator is given in the Times. The writer says that his son was sitting in a yard just behind the firing line on the Western Front, when he thought he heard a shell coming. Just as it sounded as though it was about to burst the same noise was repeated, and the soldier saw that the noise was made by a hen. The sound was then taken up by a cock, and was an exact imitation of a falling shell. From inquiries the soldier made, he found that along the front birds have learnt to make this noise since war began.

An artillery officer tells a similar story. The startings out there have caught the trick of giving three shrill taxi-whistles, in imitation of the warning of approaching enemy aeroplanes.

"It is great fun to see everyone diving for cover," says this officer. "I was nearly taken in myself the other day."—Answers.

A Cunning Oriental.

Japanese Murderer Planted Tree Over His Victim.

In the dry as dust records of the Justice Department it is already known as the "tragedy of a bootlace," and in all the history of Canadian criminology there perhaps never was a case with so many strange features as such a story of detective work. It opened with the advent of Rokushichi Yoshioka, a Jap, and his wife in the Yukon to start a fox farm near Dawson. It closed on November 19th with the confirmation of death sentence passed on the Jap for the murder of his wife.

Yoshioka was in partnership with an Indian named Percy James. One day in the summer it was announced that the Indian and the Jap's wife were missing. A little later the Jap came along with the story that he had found the body of his wife in the bush. She had been shot dead by a shot gun. The inference was, according to the story told by Yoshioka, that the Indian had killed the wife and then made his escape.

The search for the Indian was about to be given up when a retired officer of the Mounted Police, living in Dawson, determined to join in the chase on his own account. At several points he found the moss pressed flat, as though a weight had been dragged over it. He followed that slight trail and found that it led to a depression near the river. Moss was growing there, and over it a tree was planted. Suspicious, the officer examined the ground closely there for but a short time. He was convinced that the tree had been but recently planted. He notified his old colleagues on the force. They together dug out the tree. Underneath they found the Indian's body. The Indian's Endtoot shoes were without their laces, and it was from here that the first trail led back to the Jap. The vendor of the boots was found. He asserted that the boots were of a peculiar type, that the laces were supplied only with the boots, that only one pair had been sold within a recent date—the pair bought by the Indian. In the Jap's house were found a pair of laces corresponding. Yoshioka was convicted and has since paid the penalty of his crime.

EARLY MESSAGES

BRITISH SUB. SUNK. LONDON, Feb. 4. The Admiralty today authorized an announcement that the submarine E-14, which was sent into the English Channel on the night of Jan. 27th, after orders to complete the destruction of the former German cruiser U-9, was sunk off Kunkale. Seven crew members were saved.

ZEEBUIGGE BOMBED. AMSTERDAM, Feb. 4. Zeebuigge was violently bombed yesterday afternoon by a number of aeroplanes, which hovered over the coast. Bombs were also dropped on Bruges.

GERMAN ACTIVITY. LONDON, Feb. 4. The reports from Field Marshal Haig's headquarters in France say a German enemy party attempted to raid one of our posts this morning north of Havrincourt, but was driven off with heavy loss of life by our machine gun fire. Shortly before dawn another hostile raiding party rushed one of our posts south of Armentieres.

ITALIAN CITIES DAMAGED. ROME, Feb. 4. Venice and a number of towns on the Venetian plain have been bombed by enemy aeroplanes, according to the Italian official issued to-night. While damage and no casualties resulted from the attack on Venice, considerable destruction was brought about in the towns of Padua, Treviso, and Udine, where also a number of civilians were killed and wounded.

THE U. S. FIRST DRAFT. WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. Provost Marshal Gen. Crowder today announced that the movement of the first draft will begin on Feb. 10th and continue for a period of five days. This will complete the operation of the first draft, as all the States will have furnished their full quota. The movement will bring the strength of the National Army up to 685,000 men, as contemplated in the first draft.

THE WAR COUNCIL'S WORK. LONDON, Feb. 4. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) Some details have been gathered from exceptionally well-informed sources in Paris which throw some light upon the various aspects of the Supreme War Council. Although the latter met and discussed the question of closer military co-ordination the result of the deliberation showed that such a body might and ought to discuss all matters relating to the war, such as munitions, naval policy, shipping, food supplies, etc. It must not be forgotten that the War Council is primarily a political and not a military body. The only actual members of the Council are the Premiers of France, Italy, England and the members of the United States Government.

BRITISH CASUALTIES. LONDON, Feb. 4. British casualties reported during the week ending to-day, totalled 6,644. Divided as follows: Died, 1,025; wounded, 5,219; missing, officers 178, men 1,614. The lowest mark for many months past is reached by last week's casualties. They compare with 8,858 the previous week, with 17,048 the week immediately preceding that and with 9,951 for the week ended Dec. 31st, the previous low figure for any week in recent months.

AMMUNITION DEPOT DESTROYED. LONDON, Feb. 4. The explosion of an ammunition depot near Prague, the capital of Bohemia, involving the loss of many lives, is reported in dispatches from that city to Zurich; according to some accounts the depot was blown up intentionally.

NAVAL BOMBING RAID. LONDON, Feb. 4. Yesterday naval aircraft carried out a bombing raid on the enemy's airbase at Houtave, Belgium. The Admiralty reports many bombs were dropped on the objectives.

GERMAN RAIDS REFUSED. PARIS, Feb. 4. After violent artillery preparations the German raiding party which attempted to make a raid in the sector west of Fresnois, northeast of Cousy Chateau, today's official statement reads. They were repulsed easily by the French. The artillery was active on the right bank of the Meuse.

BRITISH OFFICIAL. LONDON, Feb. 4. Early last night a party of our troops raided the enemy's trenches east of Hargicourt, near the railway station, and captured the objective.

FORGER SENTENCED. LONDON, Feb. 4. Count Marcell De Bospaen, an art dealer, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment to-day for forging bills of exchange purporting to have been drawn by the late J. Pierpont Morgan. The prisoner sold a work of art to Morgan in 1903, thus obtaining the financier's signature.

CHICAGO SHORT OF COAL. CHICAGO, Feb. 4. The most acute fuel shortage of the winter and one of the coldest days combined to bring what officials declared as really a serious situation to Chicago. To-day with the thermometers registering below zero, the railroads found the task of switching their cars difficult, if not impossible, and as a consequence the cars which were expected to be a day of unusually large deliveries, turned into a period of inactivity at the fuel yards.

FINED FOR HOARDING FOODS. LONDON, Feb. 4. Mr. McCaw was tried in Oxford, Surrey police court. According to the Attorney for the Food Committee of Goldstone Division of Surrey, this member of Parliament had in his larder at Rooks Nest, 24 pounds of tapioca, 154 pounds of rice, 33 pounds of semolina, 100 pounds of biscuits, 53 pounds of tea, 100 pounds of sugar, 34 pounds of golden syrup and 21 pounds of honey.

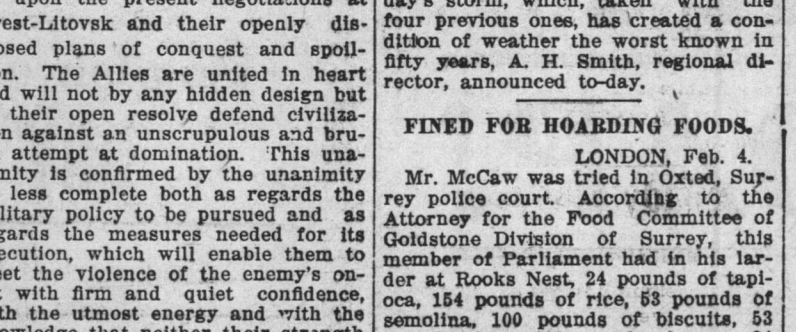

THE WAR BRIDE PLOUGHS. She ploughed before her neighbour's door. Her neighbour's man had died in war. Thinking she had never ploughed before, it seemed the action brought her grace. And made the weary waiting less. Oh, waiting! And, oh, loneliness! Above the field the bombs had swept, And "neath its furrows cold men slept." "The kindly Spring will soon efface The wounds that war's unsparring hand Has given this poor widow's land. When my man comes, he'll find no Of blood and death; so be it God!" And, praying thus, she turned a sod, And gave her husband's face. —Maurice Francis Egan, in Scribner.

TRAY THEM TO DAY. If you have not been to the beach, you should go today. The sun is shining and the wind is blowing from the south. It is a perfect day for a swim. Don't miss it. Go to the beach today.

When Tired and Nervous. If the end of the day finds you weary or irritable with aching head and frayed nerves, you need something to tone and strengthen the system. BEECHAM'S PILLS are a remedy which quickly helps in restoring normal conditions. They act on the stomach, liver and bowels, and so renew the strength, and steady the nerves. A few doses of these world-famous family pills will bring welcome relief.

ADAMS BLACK JACK

If you haven't tried it you have missed the gum flavor they are discussing in England, in France, in the United States and everywhere in Canada—Adams Black Jack. A stick a day keeps a grouch away.

ADAMS Pure Chewing Gum

Curliana. The H. D. Reid Medal. Open to all, and Taylor Medal, for curlers of two years' standing and under will be played for to-day at the Curling Rink. These point games will be played on four sheets of ice and the first thirty names on the board will be recognized as players with first season.

Your Boys and Girls. A healthy child should breathe easily and smoothly through its nostrils. If the breathing is hard and can be heard any great distance, there is something wrong. Many mothers are so frightened when their baby has convulsions that they do not know what to do while awaiting the doctor. You will usually find its little body tied up in a hard knot. Then act quickly. Place the child in a tub of hot water for twenty minutes and then wrap him in a woolen blanket from head to foot. Do this again in forty minutes if the child has not recovered. People who would not for a moment think of admitting visitors to the bedside of an adult ill with fever or some other acute ailment, allow the baby's crib to be surrounded by unfamiliar faces, under the mistaken supposition that the child is too young to notice. The fact is that the infant, at the mercy of nervous impressions unguarded by any reasoning process, is far more sensitive to an alien presence, than a grown person equally ill, would be, and it is much more likely to suffer because of its inability to protest.

The War Bride Ploughs. She ploughed before her neighbour's door. Her neighbour's man had died in war. Thinking she had never ploughed before, it seemed the action brought her grace. And made the weary waiting less. Oh, waiting! And, oh, loneliness! Above the field the bombs had swept, And "neath its furrows cold men slept." "The kindly Spring will soon efface The wounds that war's unsparring hand Has given this poor widow's land. When my man comes, he'll find no Of blood and death; so be it God!" And, praying thus, she turned a sod, And gave her husband's face. —Maurice Francis Egan, in Scribner.

Parcels for Newfoundland Forces Overseas!

(1) Parcels must not exceed 11 lbs. in weight.

(2) Parcels addressed to members of the Newfoundland Forces Overseas should bear the name and address of a second addressee to whom the parcels may be delivered or forwarded if it should prove impossible to deliver the first. The original address should be written on the FRONT of the parcel where the postage stamps and Customs declaration are affixed, and the second or alternative address should be written on the BACK of the parcel. If not deliverable to first addressee, send to . . .

(3) If a second address is not furnished at the time of posting and delivery cannot be effected, the contents of the parcel, unless of exceptional value or of a personal nature, will be turned over to the Military Authorities for distribution.

(4) Parcels containing articles of a personal nature or of special value will be returned if a request for their return in case of non-delivery is made by the sender, such request to be written on the parcel at the time of posting.

(5) This plan is being adopted at the suggestion of the British Post Office, which states that the present procedure of holding undelivered parcels at the Dead Letter Office until instructions are received as to their disposal is resulting in the waste of a large quantity of perishable foodstuffs, which form the contents of 90 per cent. of parcels addressed to soldiers.
