Premier Armstrong Invites Miners' and Besco Representatives to a Conference

President John Lewis of U.M.W. at Glace Bay--The St. Lawrence Will be Ready for Navigation by Friday--Briand Asked to Form a Ministry.

ARMSTRONG MOVES AT LAST.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 12. Premier E. H. Armstrong has invited International President J. L. Lewis and District President J. M. Goss of the U. M. W. of America, and Vice President, J. E. McLurg, of Nova Scotia to attend a conference here on Monday next, at which it is hoped arrangements will be made for the opening of the Nova Scotia coal fields in the past five weeks as a result of the difference between the operators and men over the 1925 wage scale.

WORKERS IN SYDNEY.

SYDNEY, N.S., April 11. John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers of America, from whom authority has been expected by the Nova Scotia coal miners for the International conference, was enabled to leave Sydney today and proceeded to Glace Bay where he will stay until Monday. Mr. Lewis attempted to make his visit to Glace Bay but was recognized and his attempt to interview him failed. He is expected to return to Sydney on Monday.

LABOR RESOLUTION.

TORONTO, April 12. A resolution submitted on Saturday at a convention of the Canadian Labour Congress, urging co-operation between the International and the International of Trades Unions.

ALIENS VISIT TO NIGERIA CANCELLED.

LONDON, April 11. The Prince of Wales visit to Nigeria has been cancelled owing to an outbreak of plague at Lagos, according to an Exchange Telegraph agency message from the port.

EUROPEANS ECONOMIZING IN FOOD.

NEW YORK, April 12. Farmers the world over are facing the most serious crisis in the history of the world, Frederick Hagborn, secretary of State for Agriculture of the German Government, said on arrival here yesterday. Europeans, he said, are faced with the necessity of keeping down their expenses as war aftermath, seem to be basing their personal economies on the amount of food they eat.

BRIAND ASKED TO FORM MINISTRY.

PARIS, April 12. M. Briand was requested by President Doumergue to-day to form a cabinet. He asked for time to consult his friends. Later he promised a definite answer to-morrow.

Star Movie

Return of Miss Eva Olivetti, Newfoundland's Vanderbilts Queen.

Reference to the ad. on another page will show that to-night Miss Olivetti returns to the popular Star for another engagement. Since the present pace set by our many theatres we have had opportunities of seeing and hearing some of the best performers that are to be seen and heard in the leading theatres throughout the United Kingdom, and without any disparagement to any others, we are obliged to state that Miss Olivetti stands in a class by herself. Four years ago she made her initial appearance, followed the next year at the same time (Easter) for a second. Last year the Management made an effort to again obtain her services, but owing to a seventy-five weeks' engagement as leading lady in "Piffety", which made such a phenomenal success in New York, she was unable to do so. However, this season they have been successful, as it was only March 31st she finished her last contract, and decided to again pay us a visit.

In her different performances Miss Olivetti has a style all her own, of putting over her selections in a way that win from her audiences' rounds of applause and cannot fail to please the most ardent critic. In fact, to know her is to immediately like her. She comes to the Star to-night with Mr. George Phelps as a partner (matrimonial, oh no, not for Eva whilst she has the "jazz" fever), who has made a big reputation for himself in New York, where he has sung and performed in many big theatres, and during their engagement they will present the latest in the way of single and double attractions. We have no doubt but that this theatre will be the scene of large audiences during their stay, and Miss Olivetti will find her admirers on hand to-night to give her the glad hand of welcome, which is so characteristic of a Newfoundland audience.

British Teachers to Visit Dominions

Three Large Parties to See Canada This Coming Summer.

Tourist traffic to Canada during the coming summer promises to be considerably in excess of recent years, according to passenger traffic department officers of the Canadian National Railways. Reservations for June, July and August by special parties in the United States who will travel extensively in Canada are much heavier than at this time last year, and the inquiries are also in excess of those received during the corresponding periods of 1923 and 1924.

This year, however, at least three large parties of teachers will visit Canada. The largest will consist of members of the League of Empire who will sail from Britain on the Cunard line and arrive at Quebec early in July for a trip across the Dominion and back over the lines of the Canadian National Railways. During this trip they will visit practically every important city between Quebec and Vancouver, spending some time in Jasper National Park and other playgrounds. Two other parties will arrive in July, one composed entirely of women teachers and the other of schoolmasters. The women will visit Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Washington, Philadelphia, and sail for England from New York. The men will visit Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, spend several days in Algonquin Park and then proceed to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Albany before re-embarking on board ship at New York.

To-Night's Big Attraction at Casino

ARLIE MARKS PLAYERS IN "PEG O' MY HEART."

The Arlie Marks players who have been with the Casino since February 5th, again make their appearance at the Casino, the old reliable house of entertainment. They open to-night with new attractions and new people presenting bills of a high calibre with new features. The opening attraction is, however, the much advertised play "Peg O' My Heart" by J. Hartley Manners and starring the popular favourite Arlie Marks in his greatest role of "Peg." A better role could not have been designed for this dainty artiste, who, we know is certain to give the faithful portrayal that is necessary. Lindsay E. Perrin, the prime minister of mirth will be seen in this bill in a role that his many friends will like. He has played while in St. John's almost every kind of role.

Among the added attractions we wish to call particular attention to Princess Abd Hamid, known on the American continent as "The Woman of Mystery." She can tell you almost anything. As a mind reader she stands supreme. The great Andrews, the celebrated Magician also appears to-night. His act is distinctly different from anything seen in many years. To see him is to doubt your eyesight, and we feel sure that his performance is going to prove a magnetic attraction to lovers of real entertainment. For to-night's bill a very elaborate setting has been built under the expert direction of Dan Carroll, our popular scenic artist, and assisted by P. J. Whitten, the Casino stage manager. No trouble and expense has been spared to give "Peg O' My Heart" a truly realistic performance.

Two Pounds of Clothes Half Shoes

WEIGHT OF WOMAN'S SUMMER GARB.

CHICAGO, March 27.—Woman's growing fondness for slimmer dresses will reach the apex this summer, when it she follows the dictates of fashion exactly two pounds of raiment will clothe her. And half of the weight will be in shoes.

Mrs. Carolyn A. Radnor-Lewis, representing a famous silk house of New York, attending the Fashion Art League of America Convention here sketched and weighed the silken summer ensemble. It follows: One step-in, two ounces; one brassiere, one ounce; one pair of sheer hose, two ounces; gown, six ounces; hat, five ounces; shoes, one pound.

For the benefit of the uninitiated, it is explained that step-in is not to be confused with the "teddy." It is only half a "teddy," Mrs. Radnor-Lewis explained. "Sheer fabrics, indestructible voiles, chiffons and georgettes will be worn on all occasions and not just for dress affairs," she said. "And that accounts for the extremely light weight of this summer's attire."

Likewise the knee will be visible. Dresses are to be just below the knee but not meant to cover it, Mrs. Radnor-Lewis said. When the fashionable woman sits down, her knees will be well in the foreground of the picture. "However, what we lose below the knee is made up around the neck and arms," she declared. "Sleeves will be long and high necks the vogue."

New Coogan Film Hailed as His Best

"Little Robinson Crusoe" Written For Star by Willard Mack.

What has turned out to be Jackie Coogan's most entertaining picture will be seen at the Nickel Theatre to-night. Its title is "Little Robinson Crusoe," written especially for the little star by Willard Mack, who has let his imagination run rampant in working out a plausible and suitable story for Jackie.

The story has to do with Jackie, who plays Mickey Hogan, orphaned son of a San Francisco police hero. He sets out from San Francisco on a tramp steamer bound for Australia to visit his aunt. When they reach the tropics, however, a typhoon wrecks and sinks the ship, taking down all on board with the exception of Mickey and a black cat, who drift away on an improvised raft and strike the shores of a tropical isle.

Terrors of an Avalanche

AN EVER-PRESENT PERIL IN THE ALPS.

This is the avalanche season. When the thaws begin, the snow which has accumulated during the winter breaks off and slides downhill, knocking over or burying anything that happens to be in the way. Both the material damage done and the loss of life may be appalling.

Even in England avalanches are not unknown. The snow heaped up on the slopes of the South Downs fell, in December, 1886, on the little town of Lewes. Seven cottages were overwhelmed; eight persons were killed and five others severely injured. Happily the fall occurred in the daytime, and many of the inhabitants of the cottages were elsewhere. Had it happened at night there would have been at least forty casualties.

Far worse avalanches fall in the Alps. Sometimes the tall end of a steep glacier breaks off and falls with the snow. Such a thing happened at Randa, on the way to Zermatt, in 1919, and a traveller has given this account of the calamity:—

Blown One Hundred Yards.

"One hundred and eighteen houses," he says, "including barns and stables, were more or less destroyed; all the chimneys thrown down, and the greater part of the houses quite unroofed. A wooden hut, in which were two women, was carried more than a hundred yards from its original site, the women remaining unhurt. All the hay of the village was scattered over the woods and up the mountain."

A more remarkable avalanche occurred at Goppenstein, close to the entrance of the Lotschberg Tunnel, shortly after it was opened. The displacement of the air caused by the avalanche set up a gust of wind of irresistible violence. The wind blew off the top storey of a hotel and deposited it bodily in the midst of a mountain torrent, at the same time reducing the rest of the building to ruins.

Impressed by the Snow.

As the disaster occurred in March, few people were in the hotel; but ten were killed and fourteen others were so badly injured that they had to be removed to hospital.

Another avalanche story comes from Bergamo, in Italy. It created such a sensation that a book was written about it and translated into English. The actual casualty list was not long; but three women, working in a stable, were buried alive by it.

It was taken for granted that they must have been killed, and no one troubled to dig them out. At last, after five weeks and two days, the snow melted and they emerged alive. The stable walls—or at all events a portion of them, had withstood the shock.

A goat in the stable was interred with the women, and the prisoners lived on its milk until the hour of their deliverance. The most terrible of all avalanches, however, are those which fall into narrow gorges and completely block the course of mountain torrents.

When the Dam Burst.

The most famous avalanche of the kind was one which fell, early in the nineteenth century, in the upper reaches of the Dranse, blocking the whole valley which descends, like a funnel, to Martigny.

The drying up of the stream in the lower reaches of the valley warned the inhabitants. Engineers were sent for, and an attempt was made to dig a canal through the avalanche and drain the lake. The dam gave, however, before the canal was finished, and the resulting flood swept away practically every house in the Val de Bagnes and destroyed a great portion of Martigny itself.

Avalanches have been started by the most trivial causes. Even a whisper has been known to set them off, and many a life has been lost by a climber shouting to his comrades while crossing a snow slope. The tinkle of sleigh bells was said to be responsible for a terrific fall which swept away a caravan of sleighs crossing a dangerous Alpine path some years ago.—The Bites.

London's Leaning Dome

No one knew until recently that London has its leaning tower. Now it is believed by experts that the dome of St. Paul's Cathedral was built crooked, and that the foundations on one side settled more than on the other long before the dome was completed. The crookedness, it is alleged, was compensated for in the course of the dome's erection, but it has always been out of the straight; in other words, it is a leaning dome!

It is not a visible defect, like that of the leaning tower of Pisa, the most famous in the world. This tower, or campanile, overhangs its base by upwards of thirteen feet, and for long it was supposed to have been purposely built in this way. This is a mistake, however, for it is owing to the same cause alleged in the case of the dome of St. Paul's.

Not everyone knows that at Caerphilly, in Glamorganshire, there is a tower which leans eleven feet in eighty. Even the Pisa tower leans only six feet in the same height.

Labour Alliance

FOUR GREAT UNIONS MAY UNITE.

"The first step towards a great labour alliance in view of any future emergency" was taken by the executive of the Miners' Federation at Blackpool recently. Concerning this proposed alliance, Mr. A. J. Cook, the general secretary, submitted correspondence which had passed between himself and the secretaries of the National Union of Railwaymen, the Amalgamated Engineering Union, the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers, the Transport Workers' Union and the National Transport Workers' Federation—most of which were linked up in the old Triple Industrial Alliance. According to the official report, issued afterwards, it has been decided to arrange for a joint meeting of representatives of those organizations in London to discuss a common line of action in regard to the general claims, and to see how far, after a preliminary consultation, it is possible to pursue a joint policy. Explaining afterwards the purpose of the step taken by the miners, the secretary, Mr. Cook, stated there was no secrecy about its object. "It is," he explained, "to discuss how best we can in any future emergency or crisis assist each other. The meeting in London will, however, be preliminary to our meeting the 'General Council.'" There is no question that four-parlers of a significant character are taking place among every industrial section with wage claims under consideration or contemplated at the moment. While no kind of joint action is possible until after the whole of the movement had been consulted, the new co-ordination policy of the Trades Union Congress General Council is being evolved in the direction in which the miners aim. Another matter discussed by the executive at Blackpool was the War Office scheme for the establishment of skilled industrial units in connection with the Army Reserve, and it was agreed to forward to all mining areas the communication from the General Council on the subject, with a recommendation that no miner should join the Special Reserve at present.—News of the World.

The final dash to the Pole is to be made in a small airship of the Blimp type and Algarson is taking with him thirty tons of cylinders containing fifty thousand cubic feet of gas for inflating the craft.

S.S. Eagle Fourth Arrival From Sealfishery

The S. Eagle, Capt. Edward Bishop, the fourth of the fleet to arrive from the sealfishery, reached port at 10.55 this morning, having sailed on 15.55 this morning. The vessel is laden with seal blubber and seal skins. She cleared from this port on March 31st with the other of the fleet, and steaming in open water for two days, gained a commanding lead on the other ships.

Burglar Made Good Haul

In the recent burglary at the Royal Stores, goods to the value of over $200 were stolen. The thief entered the store before closing hour and secreted himself upstairs until all was quiet. The police succeeded in less than 24 hours in landing the culprit and then started a search for the stolen goods. It was found that they had been disposed of to a store on New Gower St., and the proprietor had shipped them to Corner Brook for sale.

EASTER DAY AT WESLEY CHURCH

Services were very well attended. Excellent sermon delivered in the morning by Rev. R. E. Fairbairn from the words of St. Paul, "If Christ be not risen then is our preaching in vain, and your faith and hope in vain." "But," said the preacher, continuing the logical argument of St. Paul, "now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that sleep."

Rotary Luncheon

At the usual weekly luncheon of the St. John's Rotary Club held on Thursday, at Sterling's Restaurant, P. J. King, F.R.C.O., treated the gathering to a most interesting address on "Music as an Art, as a Pastime, and as a Business." Chairman, Rotarian "Frank" Bradshaw introduced the talented lecturer, who in his own inimitable style revealed to his audience the beauty and sublimity of the soul of music.

Music, like other arts, owes its origin to nature. The wind howling through a cleft in the rock, a hole in the cabin, blowing upon a reed, or the trickling of water—all such sounds formed something for the human voice to imitate. The sounds were imitated by artificial instruments which increased in accuracy and were imitated by the voice. The power of expression of the voice was imitated by instruments, until, finally, vocal and instrumental music were blended to aid each other.

Concerted instrumental music dates back to the time of Moses—probably earlier. In the British Museum is a tomb at Thebes, depicting a party of comely Egyptian women enjoying music of instruments; three were playing a kind of guitar or lute, a fourth a double tibia, whilst a fifth kept time by clapping her hands. Community singing was evidently known by the Greeks. In Gordon Holmes' book "Vocal Physiology and Hygiene," he quotes Plutarch as having admonished his disciples against too violent vociferation for fear of such calamitous consequences as ruptures and convulsions.

In the fourth century, Church music was purified and put into form by St. Ambrose, and later by St. Gregory, and down to the present time, music owes much to both clerical and lay church musicians. The Rotary idea existed in music as far back as the early part of the thirteenth century, when the first "round" or "rota" was written. This "round" was sung by six people (or voices), four of whom sang the "round" whilst the other two sustained a pedal bass. Might there be a significance in the fact that the tune was an old ecclesiastical litany chant, and the words were: "Summer is comen in?" The "rota" or "round" produces a natural harmony; the litany suggests submission to Divinity; and, summer is generally the warm, bright time of life, a happy combination. "Three Blind Mice" familiar to everyone, is a typical example of the "round."

In Music, as in other Arts, the power of invention, even in its most original form, has a tendency to run in certain recognized channels, the study of which, enables the technical historian to grasp such in schools. I merely mention that the first Flemish School of composition was from 1370 to 1430; and if the Netherlands were not the earliest composers, they were the first musicians who taught the rest of Europe how to compose. From that school emanated the germ that developed into the great Art of modern music. When one considers Bach's "B" minor Mass, "Wagner's" "Parsifal" or "Flying Dutchman," Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado"—what is there that music cannot express? They are but a branch of the Art. The purely instrumental side, has an equally big spread; while the small twigs are too numerous to mention. As an example of the musical art to illustrate ideas on emotion, perhaps I could not do better than play for you, and analyze a few extracts from the "Prologue" to "Pagliaccio" by Leoncavallo. The "Dead March" and "Hallelujah" Chorus, are marvels of expression. When one hears such masterpieces, is it any wonder that we prefer them to the old "Adam and Eve" duet?—"Eve, we have no bananas!" (Casting reply)

"Well—just try the apple-to-day." As a pastime, music is little known in Newfoundland, in its educative sense. Apart from our dances where Jazz reigns supreme, and an occasional private sing-song, there is nothing, in the smallest towns of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, the musical competitions and festivals are part of the people's education and enjoyment. In Chesterfield, a town of about 18,000 population, the entries for the January 29th, 1925, Festival, numbered 2,500. In Kendal (14,700 population), the biennial festival lasts five days, and they engage the Queen's H. Orchestra, Sir H. J. Wood, Conductor and leading soloists to assist the local chorus of five hundred voices drawn from the town and adjacent villages. The entrants are always willing to pay a fee to enter these competitions. In St. John's, with its population of 30,000 odd, we cannot get enough enthusiasm to support a choral operatic, or orchestral society. The orchestra is unknown in St. John's, not because we have not the nucleus of one, but because those who can play even the simplest music, will not amalgamate for the common good. They allow personal and sectarian differences to prejudice them; but indifference is the worst barrier to progress. The work of the Mercy Convent Nuns, in starting a string orchestra of girl pupils, should be one of the most pos-service. The professional's time and talent are his means of livelihood, and his services, when required should demand remuneration.

Brotherhood in Music is exemplified by Paderewski's recitals for the Earl Haig Fund. Paderewski is making a tour of all the principal towns for this purpose, and the attendance at the Albert Hall recital numbered about twelve thousand.

The short time at his disposal does not permit me to deal with the many other phases of the Art of Music, but you Rotarians, moving in the business and professional circles of the City, can do much to foster that which would be of incalculable benefit to this City, just as it is to hundreds of towns and villages in other lands. Do not suffer musical slush and disease to permeate the life of St. John's rather than help to begin a purging process!

Mr. King was accorded a very hearty vote of thanks for his most interesting and well-delivered address.

Including amongst the guests were Mr. Smith of Halifax, Councillor Outerbridge and Mr. D. M. Fraser.

TARVIA

PRESERVES ROADS AND PREVENTS DUST.

For each and every road building problem there is a Tarvia solution. Tarvia B is recommended for use as a road preservative and dust preventive on highways and byways.

The famous Riverside Drive, New York, is a tribute to the excellence of Tarvia. In New York City 500 miles of streets have been Tarvialized. The West Michigan Pike, the New York State Highway, the Ohio Experimental Road, the Park Boulevard, the Maine State Highway, the National Pike and hundreds of other paths of perfection, bear witness to the merits of Tarvia.

Since 1911 Tarvia has been used on streets in St. John's to the satisfaction of everybody. It costs less to keep a street or road in good condition with Tarvia, than to rebuild it after it deteriorates.

In Canada, Tarvia holds the premier position as a surface sealer. Tarvia was used on the Ontario Provincial Highway, the Sherbrooke-Derby Highway, the Lady Gray Road, the Toronto West Main Road, the Galt-Preston Roadway, etc. In Ontario alone, over 400 miles of roads were Tarvialized last year.

Tarvia is favourably known in England, it was an Englishman gifted with a happy knack of expression who said "Tarvia is Topping!" When all our streets shall have been Tarvialized, we shall have a dustless, clean and healthy city—mar25.m.t

Baggage to Tax Cruiser

LONDON, March 9.—(Associated Press).—The fitting of the battle cruiser Repulse for the Prince of Wales' trip to South Africa and South America, is proving a difficult problem, the Daily Mail says.

In addition to the usual complement of 1,250 men, room has to be found for the Prince's staff and servants, numbering more than 90, and the fact that so many occasions, climates and conditions must be provided for necessitates space for an immense amount of luggage, totalling about 200 trunks, 200 chests and other cases.

One difficulty is, the paper says, that the Repulse is not equipped with a laundry, and that therefore a great stock of laundered things must be taken, as none can be freshened until Cape Town is reached.

Some of the preparations have to do with the entertainments at which the Prince will be host aboard ship, upon his arrival at various ports. Twenty-one cooks, stewards and waiters will accompany the party, and sufficient tableware will be taken to serve 900 guests.

OUT OF STRUGGLE.

Why do you fancy God made Him poor instead of filling His purse with gold? Why was He born to a carpenter instead of a prince of the royal fold? God could have given Him a crown to wear, could have spared Him hunger and thirst and pain. But God was shaping a soul in Him, and a soul must suffer the crown to gain.

Life is not as the rich believe. Life is learned by the poor and meek. There is more to see than the pleasant vale, and the road is long to the mountain peak. And had God sent Him to luxury, had He made Him a prince as He could have done, Some Herod on earth would have ruined Him and seared the soul of His only Son.

I fancy God purposely made Him poor and purposely sent Him to learn a trade. Sent Him to live as the many live, for out of struggle the man is made; And He read men's hearts and He read their minds and He dwelt with them and His spirit grew. But wealth would have stifled the soul of Him, as Herod himself once tried to do.

So I write these lines for you to read: I would rather you walk with the poor on earth. I would rather you go to your task by day and learn by test what your faith is worth. Work with the humble, the good, the strong, be you dauntless and unafraid. Beware of the whispers of idle men, it is out of struggle a man is made.

Lantic Table Sugar

Lantic Sugar is sold in packages containing 2 pounds, also in packages containing 5 pounds. Each package is guaranteed full weight of purest, sweetest, cleanest sugar.

In every town there are people who take care of their health by being careful of their food, to such people, Lantic Sugar in dust proof packages is recommended.

Lantic Sugar in dust proof packages comes direct from the Refinery to your table, unsoiled by contact with anything unclean.

Lantic Sugar in packages is safe from contamination by germ bearing dust, and from flies which are invariably disease carriers.

For use with Grape Fruit, Strawberries, etc., also for use with cereals. Lantic Sugar, because it is extra fine, is unquestionably best.

In addition to Lantic Sugar for ordinary table use, you will do well to try Lantic Icing Sugar. In 1 pound packages, it is positively the best icing obtainable.—mar30.m.t

SNAP JUDGMENT.

How prone we are to size up men by some cheap sample we have known! A man with whiskers swipes a hen, and we remark, with bitter groan, "We have no use for any guys who wear alfalfa on their maps; all moral precepts they despise, they're disolute and godless chaps." It isn't safe to give your fowls their liberty at any time while there are men with whiskered jaws intent on standard brands of crime." Yet there are men with flowing beards who walk the paths of righteousness, like gentlemen they dress their weeds, and crime to them gives deep distress. One gent who wears a stovepipe hat and priceless diamonds on his wig, sells us a costly Maltese cat that proves to be a Berkshire pig. We see that we are stung again, and pillaged are our treasure chests, and thoughts of peace, good will to men, are banished from our aching breasts. We cry, our bellies full of bats, "These stovepipe hats betoken guile; all delegates who wear such hats should rot in prison for a while." Yet good men wear upon their dome the sort of bonnets we detest; their hearts are pure, their lives are pomes, they always strive to do their best. It is not safe to judge a crowd by what some erring wight may do; men may with virtue be endowed although they neither smoke nor chew. It is not safe, because some skate has trimmed us in a deal in wheat, to say that men are never great who wear red neckties on the street.

2,000,000-Volt Dynamo Set Ordered

FOR EXPERIMENTS BY LELAND STANFORD.

Special Laboratory to be Built for Giant Testing Apparatus.

SCHENECTADY, March 28.—Equipment for a two-million-volt testing outfit has just been ordered from the General Electric Company by Leland Stanford Junior University, Palo Alto, Cal. This set, when in operation, will be capable of furnishing the highest voltage ever produced at commercial frequency, and will be the only two-million-volt installation in existence.

The laboratory for housing the outfit will be in charge of Prof. Harris J. Ryan, past President of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and an authority on high tension phenomena.

The equipment for the contemplated laboratory will consist of six transformers, each rated at sixty cycles, 350,000 volts. They are designed for the so-called chain connection, and will be mounted in two groups of three each. Distance from ground is greater with each succeeding unit, until from the top of the third transformer's bushing to ground there will be about twenty feet.

With three of the transformers operated by chain connection, there will be 1,050,000 volts between the high voltage terminal of the third transformer and the ground with six transformers, 2,100,000 volts, will be obtained between outside terminals. This voltage will make a sparkover about seventeen feet long between needles spaced that distance apart.

"Merciful" Mustard Gas

It is hard to say what those who had the misfortune to be "bowed out" in the war by that horrible stuff called mustard gas will think of a recent statement by Mr. J. B. S. Haldane, the Haldane produces figures, which show that out of the 15,000 casualties in the British Army as a result of mustard gas, there were 4,000 deaths and 700 men suffered permanent disablement. This, he thinks, is a low proportion compared with that in the other weapons.

Mr. Haldane thinks that the mustard gas will be extensively used and coloured troops will be sent to fight under white officers. It seems, does not readily distinguish coloured races, though it will prevent men out of action in a few minutes.

The pronouncements of this list are certainly startling, especially as a clause in the Washington Peace is most emphatic in forbidding mustard gas as a weapon of war.

Mr. Haldane goes on to say that the gas is far preferable to bayonets, bombs, and shells. Most of those who had experience of the trenches during 1914-1918 would rather have seen an honest steel weapon in front of them than have felt themselves being overpowered by an enemy against which all their efforts to defend themselves were useless.

In support of his contention, Mr.

Easter Day at the C. of E. Cathedral

Yesterday's services at the Church of England Cathedral were largely attended, and the special programme of Easter music was splendidly rendered.

Some few years ago, a book was being widely read. It was entitled "When it was Dark." It was not a very wide book really; though it had a very wide sale and at the time it attracted a good deal of attention.

It is not easy to estimate what would happen if it became possible for any number of Christians to hold to their faith in a risen Christ; and those who claim that a belief in the actual Resurrection is not necessary to a continued faith in Jesus are making large demands, which cannot in the nature of the case be assured.

The Gospel which he preached—a Gospel which he had received—and in the strength of which his converts were to stand, declared certain things as facts: Christ really died. He as really rose again the third day from the dead; He was seen after He rose by those who had known Him in life.

Obvious as all this might seem to some of you, on Easter Day it is well worth while to stop long enough to consider what we owe to a Festival which the Church regards as Queen of all her feasts—the feast which makes all the others possible—the day which sees the keystone of her faith lifted into its place.

"If Christ be not risen!" Then, I do not think we should be here to-day.

(a) There is only one way to account for the fact that this or any other church-erected I mean to the honour and glory of God, and in which the central act of worship centres around the person of Christ—exists; and that is because men have believed that there is a living Christ to whom they may appeal.

(b) And the same faith filled them with worshippers. It is that which brings us here to-day. The hope that they might find in Christ the means of satisfying the hunger of their hearts; an answer which was not obtainable anywhere else led them to seek the living One who died. It was because He was alive; and they felt sure that He was alive, that they had this hope.

Here then is the first reason for our joy to-day—we repose in a living Christ. It is no slight loss then which you incur if you allow the cheap fiction of to-day, or any other influence to do what it claims to be able to do in a few brief pages—to explain the resurrection away, to make it mean something less to you than it meant to St. Paul.

The Resurrection of Our Lord either happened or it did not. The Church says it did happen. And she can produce the evidence. Perhaps it will not satisfy everybody. But I ask you to consider how you would begin to solve the riddle of life if you ever came to the conclusion that there is no Mediator on the throne of Heaven, because He never left His grave, and never ascended—that we are still in doubt as to whether there is such a thing as the forgiveness of sins; and that we have no guarantee at all that the grave is not the end of all? There may be a few people to whom the world has so far been very kind, who are having happy days, enjoying prosperity, whose family circle remains unbroken, upon whose shoulders the cares of life sit lightly—life is at present no puzzle to these; they are not concerned about the cloudy days that may never come. They have food and raiment and a good deal more; why should they not be content? You who know more of life can tell that that is not the whole truth.

could not secure it for himself? The faith we have in Christ we have on the assumption that He can and He will, if we retain our hold on Him, bring us safely through the shock of death. No! If Christ be not risen continued faith in Him is impossible.

(c) Again, there are tens of thousands of people who to-day are full of an intense joy. Question them, and they will say that they owe more, and they can tell to Christ who has purchased their forgiveness and made them sharers in a new life. It matters not to them that some question the need of forgiveness and even doubt the reality of either sin or a sense of guilt; these know that both sin and guilt are realities to them, and that of all forms of bondage that of sin is the hardest, and the most exacting; they know that there is a power in the precious blood to atone—the evidence of this power is seen in that He who lay down His life to free men came back to tell us of His victory.

But if He did not come back, what becomes of all the hopes and joys which belief in His victory produced? If Christ be not risen, ye are yet in your sins.

(d) And there are other thousands who love and are thankful for this Festival, because of those that God gave them the great majority have passed to the other side. Are they satisfied because they know they did their duty here? Was that the end? Was that the highest good life could give? Was not that but a proof that they were meant for more? And now perhaps when we have grown wiser or more thoughtful, better able, if we had the opportunity, to guide and help them, are we to be told that they are beyond the reach of far better help and wiser than any we could give? Why in spite of all our losses do we on Easter Day see the clouds of sorrow rolled away, and the sun shining through our human tears? The living Christ is the answer.

But if Christ be not risen then they that are fallen asleep in Christ are perished. If Christ be not risen! faith can bring no help when sight fails; the sin of all the world is unforgiven; the grave has conquered! So says St. Paul.

Neutroformer That's Different

PART TWO. EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

The neutroformer coils are 2 inches long and 3 inches in diameter. The form for the coils can be either cardboard, hard rubber or bakelite. As shown in our illustration above a slot one-quarter inch wide is cut in the coil from one end to within three-quarters of an inch of the opposite end. This slot can be made by cutting two hacksaw slits a quarter of an inch apart. Another slot should be cut directly opposite to the first one. Four binding posts are mounted on the form, two for the primary on one side of the slot and two for the secondary on the opposite side. There are ten turns of No. 24 double cotton covered wire in the primary and 40 turns in the secondary. A half pound of wire will be enough for two transformers.

Rare Specimens.

You all know what a Harlequin and Columbine are, even if you never went to the Normal School. They are men and women even as you and I who go about dressed up like toy balloons and are usually pictured leaning against a tree with an oversize moon such as was never seen on land or sea defying the Einstein theory in the background. That's the popular notion. The fact is however that there is only one real live Harlequin and one Columbine in existence now and you will see them in all their rarity in The Mixed Grill. THE POTENCY OF THE PRINTED WORD.

Strange, isn't it, how a person's stock goes up with us if we see opinions he has propounded expressed in print by some well known authority? "Well, well," we say, "I guess John's was pretty good after all, and most men think the same as about it."

A Wife's Confession.

Friend of mine made a confession the other day, laughing himself in a shamed-face manner, and I have always spatted the word "whimsical," she said, "the most overworked in the world." He says I use the word, "admirable," and that it makes him feel so good.

Always do myself hotly. I've said that it was because he lacks self-respect. But to-day I read a bit by my favorite essayist, Roger Murley, in which he repeats the word which, by loathsome repetition, has become emollient. He says which mean the same thing. I've had a lot more respect for Murley's literary judgment ever since I'm willing to concede to any time, when it comes to a choice of words.

But Mean To Be Disrespectful is no way, perhaps, in which the old adage, "familiarity breeds contempt," applies so well as in the different respect with which children listen to the advice of their parents. Not that the disrespect is voluntary, but just that the advice loses its force coming from so familiar a source. The counsel may be valuable, the warning timely, but it's just "mother nagging" or "father nagging" to the young folks many times.

Said a professor of pedagogy to his class of embryo teachers: "Never have a bell on your desk. The children will heed it the first time you tap it, and perhaps the second and third time; the next time you'll have to ring it a little louder; and finally, no matter how hard you bang it, the sound will fall on deaf, accustomed ears."

Like The Bell Ringing.

The admonition of a parent is somewhat like the ringing of a bell. The child becomes so accustomed to it that after a while it loses significance. I know one mother who makes a practice of cutting out little articles or stories which point some particular truth which she is trying to bring home to her daughter, and leaving them where the girl will pick them up and read them.

"It means so much more to her that way than it does just coming from me," says the mother, "besides having the added virtue of showing her that mother isn't such an old fogey after all."

The potency of the printed word is very great. It's a wise parent who takes advantage of this fact in his colossal task of shaping young characters.

Last Will and Testament

Of One Who Loved the Out-of-Doors

Not long ago there died in Cook County Asylum, at Dunning, Ill., a poor and insane inmate, one Charles Lounsbury. He left a will which has been described as one of the most remarkable documents ever written, particularly so, in view of the circumstances under which it was written. Through the courtesy of Robert Duncan & Company, Booksellers, Hamilton, Ontario, who have preserved it in printed form, we are privileged to reproduce the document herewith.

"I, Charles Lounsbury, being of sound mind and disposing memory, do hereby make and publish this, my last will and testament, in order as justly as may be to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

That part of my interest which is known in law and recognized in the sheep-bound volumes as my property, being inconsiderable and of no account, I make no disposal of this in my will.

My right to live, being but a life estate, is not at my disposal, but these things excepted all else in the world, I now proceed to devise and bequeath:

"Item: I give to good fathers and mothers, in trust for their children, all good little words of praise and encouragement, and all quaint pet names and endearments, and I charge such parents to use them justly and generously as the needs of their children may require.

"Item: I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every, the flowers of the fields, and the blossoms of the woods, with the right to play among them freely, according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to the children the banks of the brooks, and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and the odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees. And I leave the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night and the moon and the train of the Milky Way to wonder at, but subject nevertheless to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

"Item: I devise to boys jointly all the useful idle fields and commons where ball may be played; all pleasant waters where one may swim; all snow-capped hills where one may coast, and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes, one may skate; to have and to hold the same for the period of their boyhood. And all meadows with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereof, the woods and apparitions thereof, the squirrels and birds, and echoes and strange noises, and all distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own piece at the fireside at night, with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood to enjoy without let or hindrance and without any encumbrance of care.

"Item: To lovers, I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need; as the stars of the sky, the red roses by the wall; the bloom of the Hawthorn; the sweet strain of music, and aught else by which they may desire to figure out to each other the loveliness and beauty of their love.

"Item: To young men jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous, inspiring sports of rivalry, and I give to them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength, though they are rude; I give them the power to make lasting friendships and to possess companions; and to them exclusively I give all merry songs and brave choruses, to sing with lusty voices.

"Item: And to those who are no longer youths or children or lovers, I leave memory, and I bequeath to them the volumes of the poems of Burns and Shakespeare, and of other poets if there be others, to the end that they may live over the old days again, free and fully without title or dimutation.

"Item: To our loved ones with snowy crowns I bequeath the happiness of old age, the love and gratitude of their children until they fall asleep."

This ought to be a good year for Potatoes and other Vegetables. They say: "we shall have great growing weather." Growing crops want plenty of food. Fertilizers feed your crops--provided that you use the right kind of Fertilizers.

Farmers' Favourite Fertilizers

The kind we are selling are guaranteed, well balanced, finely divided, plant foods, containing the essential fertilizing elements in available form.

- Special Potato Fertilizer in 125 lb. Bags.
- Turnip & Cabbage Fertilizer in 125 lb. Bags.
- Extra Quality Bonemeal in 125 lb. Bags.
- Refined Nitrate of Soda in 125 lb. Bags.

NOTICE! Fertilizer, properly used, should increase your crops at least 40 per cent. Where you get 10 barrels of potatoes without fertilizer, you should get 14 to 16 barrels with fertilizer. For every dollar spent on fertilizer you should get back two or four dollars profit, through increased crop yield.

Get your ground ready (when it is dry) as soon as you can. Plow it deep and harrow it well. If yours is a small garden, dig it to a depth of twelve inches, then rake it thoroughly.

A few days before you put in your seed, spread Fertilizer over the surface and rake it in. For potatoes, put Fertilizer in the bottom of drills and mix it with the earth.

A 125 pound bag of Fertilizer will do a quarter of an acre if you are using it with stable manure. Double this quantity if you are not using stable manure.

her home in the bank.
By and by she rose above the water and seeing that the little rabbit was still sitting there patiently waiting for her, she climbed up again on the bank and sat down beside him.

"You are fond of learning, aren't you, bunny boy?" she asked, wiping off the water drops that clung to her frayed colored under-fur.

"I was just wondering if the baby otters are at first afraid of the water."

"Indeed they are," laughed Mrs. Otter. "So I take them on my back. By and by I duck under, just to show them how much I am at home in the water. Then some day they just slip off my back and swim for themselves."

Visiting His Grandparents.

"Of course, I do not mean that regularity should be carried to the extreme of cast-iron rigidity; but I fear that the tendency nowadays is all in the other direction. It is dangerous to the children's health and to their moral character. To be regular is to be like Nature itself."

Such are Queen Mary's views on child welfare, and these views, I understand, are the basis of the system followed at Goldsborough Hall.

The routine is adhered to, so far as possible, even on those infrequent occasions when His Majesty succeeds in persuading the Princess to allow Master Lascelles to visit Windsor Castle. When the baby is on a visit to Windsor he is taken for his airing in the park just as if he were at home.

The King and Queen pay a visit to the nursery every evening before Master Lascelles is given his bath. And Master Lascelles has found a delightful new toy for himself in the big diamond brooch which Her Majesty always wears, and which, by the way, was the engagement gift of the King. Master Lascelles loves to see the diamonds sparkle and would, if permitted, play for hours with it.

Perhaps I can do no better in concluding my story of the royal babies than summarize some of the rules which govern their nursery life.

"Teethers" and so-called "comforters" are absolutely barred from the nursery. These "teethers" which so many children continually suck induce an increasing flow of saliva which is swallowed, together with a quantity of air, and this causes flatulence and colic, besides interfering with the rest which the digestive organs require between meals. They also are likely to spoil the shape of a child's mouth, and cause adenoid growths and bad teeth.

Disobedience should be punished, but punishment should be administered with great care. It is positively wicked to threaten children with "boogie" or to shut them up in the dark, or to deprive them of food. Never threaten children. Never tell them stories which frighten them of all them with horror.

If I were asked what is the thing which Princess Mary considers most essential to happiness in later life, I should say it is unselfishness. She believes in the old, old rule that children should be taught to do to others as they would be done by; and that because they are royal children they should give infinitely more than they take.—Tit Bits.

STORY.

Steve Butler, a railway mail clerk, continually dreams of romance. Meeting Katherine Keith about one day, as she is about to lose the train, he loses his heart. Katherine's brother David is vamped by a dancer, Lola, who is a member of a gang who plan to rob the bank where David works. Lola's companion kills a man and David is accused of the murder and convicted. Katherine becomes a member of the gang and gets evidence of David's innocence. Then begins a mad rush to reach the governor in another city in time to prevent the execution. Though followed and menaced at every turn by the gang in a high-powered auto, she manages to get aboard the Arizona express, on which Steve is the mail clerk, and together they manage to get the best of the gang and arrive in time to save David. Steve is happy in helping Katherine and with her finds the romance of which he has continually dreamed.

N. F. of L. Elects Provisional Officers

CONSTITUTION AND REGULATIONS FORMULATED AT SPECIAL CONFERENCE AT GRAND FALLS.

The National Executive Council of the newly formed Newfoundland Federation of Labor was provisionally elected at a special conference held at Grand Falls, the birthplace of the Federation, in the Town Hall on Friday night last. Present at the conference were members of the four unions of Grand Falls, of the Co-operative Society, and the Order of Railway Telegraphers. Patrick J. Connors, Station Master of the Government Railway, and an officer in the O. R. T. who is a veteran trade unionist, was a prominent figure at the special conference. The N. F. C. of the Federation was elected as follows:

President—J. R. Smallwood.
Vice-Presidents—William Earle, J. S. Bragg, William Bryane, Jeremiah Sullivan, William R. Downs.
Financial Secretary—Dermot O'Flynn.
Treasurer—Ambrose Hiscock.
General Secretary—William Delaney.

Board of Trustees—Bank Scott, Albert Crawley, Alfred Way.
Without Portfolio—Patrick J. Connors, Andrew Lynch, Malcolm Etarks.
The N. F. C. thus elected will serve in office pending the holding of the first National Congress of the N. F. of L. by which time it is hoped the unions and other working class organizations of the country will have become affiliated to the Federation. It is expected that the Congress will be held next December, when the first Island-wide gathering of representative trade unionists is looked for. Matters of great importance to the trade union and working class movement will be on the agenda for consideration at the Congress.

STOCK MARKET NEWS

Published by Johnston & Ward, Board of Trade Building, Water Street

NEW YORK, April 13. TO-DAY'S OPENING.

Table listing stock market prices for various commodities like Wheat, Corn, and Oil.

ulation makes possible building of a more intense scale. Prosperity of agricultural centres is also an important factor, especially in demand for fence wire and general wire products, including nails.

HALIFAX CHRONICLE, April 6. GULF STATES STEEL.

YORK, April 3.—Earnings of Gulf States Steel Company for quarter of 1925 will be substantially in excess of either first or second quarter of 1924.

There is no possibility that the offer will be considered. The fact that a syndicate of investors recently offered to purchase the property or part of it, at nearly double the price paid by Gulf States Steel.

Increased earnings reflect improved demand for such products as reinforcing bars, wire and other steel articles. The company is also engaged in a large export business.

All properties owned by the company are in easy hauling distance of principal plants, keeping the freight costs on raw materials at the minimum level. This factor, in conjunction with the self-fluxing ore and enormous fuel supply, makes the company one of the lowest cost producers in the business.

With the Sealers

According to messages received from the balance of the fleet over the past few days, very little has been done by the sealers, owing to the adverse conditions. There are lots of old seals scattered both in the water and on the land, but it is difficult to get at them.

Table titled 'ESTIMATED CATCH' listing various seal species and their estimated quantities.

Sagona's Turnout

S.S. Sagona finished discharging her cargo of fat at Messrs. Murray & Crawford's premises, St. George's, on Monday. The specification is as follows:—4,906 young hares, 78 young hoods, 126 bedlamers, 75 old hares, 34 old hoods, a total of 5,219 seals.
