No. 74

VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, FRIDAY, 19TH MARCH, 1954

PRAYERS.

Mr. Harrison, from the Standing Committee on Standing Orders, presented the Third Report of the said Committee, as follows:

Pursuant to the Orders of Reference of Thursday, March 11th, and Tuesday, March 16th, 1954, your Committee has had under consideration three petitions for private bills which were presented to the House after the stipulated time for such presentation. Counsel appearing on behalf of the various petitioners requested that certain Standing Orders be suspended in relation thereto. Respective reasons therefor were submitted in each case as follows:

1. Hazel Irene McKay Puttee-divorce

The petition was originally filed on January 3rd, 1953, in this case, for the 1953 session, but although received by the House was not then proceeded with. It was not until some time in February, 1954, that counsel for the petitioner realized that in such a case a new petition was required. Immediate steps were taken to correct this situation but it was not possible to file a new petition until March 9th, 1954.

With respect to the suspension of penalties for late filing, counsel was unable to obtain an affidavit from the petitioner as to her circumstances due to the fact that she is now and has been for some time in the hospital. However, it was represented that if the consequential penalties were levied, the petitioner would be in no position financially to proceed further.

2. Albert Thornton-divorce

The petition in this case was signed on January 5th, 1954. It was mailed on the 18th January, on which date the time for presenting petitions to the House of Commons expired. It was received on the next day, i.e., twenty-four hours late. It was represented by counsel that instruction had been given that the petition be taken by hand to the House of Commons on January 18th. Unfortunately, those instructions were not carried out, and the solicitor for the petitioner stated that he had not been advised until about ten days ago, after the case had been set down for hearing before the Senate Divorce Committee, of the late filing, in the House of Commons. It was submitted further that the petitioner should not be penalized in any way because of these oversights.

3. Madeleine Roy Julien-divorce

Counsel for the petitioner informed the Committee that the petition was prepared in Ottawa and forwarded to his agent in Montreal with instructions to have the applicant attend at his office for the purpose of executing the same. The Montreal lawyer did not return the petition in time, so that it reached the House of Commons on the twenty-first of January, 1954, three days after the final date allowed for presenting petitions for private bills.

The delay in filing the petition was brought to the attention of Counsel on January 21st, but through an oversight, it was only on March 10th, when he was notified of the hearing in the Senate, that Counsel realized that the petition to the House of Commons had been filed too late.

Counsel further requested that the consequential penalties for suspension of any Standing Order be not levied in the case.

Your Committee has carefully considered the above submissions. It has come to the conclusion that the delay in the above cases arose through no fault of the respective petitioner but from circumstances beyond their control. Therefore, your Committee recommends that Standing Order 92 be suspended and the petition be received in all cases; further, that the consequential penalties provided for in Standing Order 93(3) (a) and (c) be not levied in any of the cases.

Mr. Abbott, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, delivered a Message from His Excellency the Governor General, which was read by Mr. Speaker, as follows:

And Debate arising thereon;

STATEMENT BY MR. SPEAKER

Mr. Speaker: During the recess I examined the point that was brought up prior to six o'clock and I want immediately to refer honourable Members again to citation 246, Beauchesne's third edition, paragraph (k) which reads:

Besides the prohibitions contained in standing order 41, it has been sanctioned by usage both in England and in Canada, that a member, while speaking, must not:

(k) reflect upon the past acts and proceedings of the House.

I gave it as my opinion that past acts did not refer to any other acts but those which had been previously passed in the same session. It appears from reading the various authorities on the subject that it may not be right; that it refers only to the acts passed in the same session but also to previous acts passed in other sessions. I should like honourable Members to listen to a paragraph which is found on page 194 under the chapter "rules of debate" in a book published by Sir Gilbert Campion in 1950. There they will find paragraph 5 which reads:

This rule applies also to insulting language against a statute as the work of parliament.

This quotation and others to follow are all linked to the language contained in our Standing Order 41, which has to do with offensive and disrespectful language. The exact meaning of the word "act" in all these citations is somewhat difficult to establish.

In May's fifteenth edition at page 436 you find under the heading "Words against Parliament, or either House" a subparagraph entitled: "Against a statute" and the following:

Disrespectful or abusive mention of a statute would seem to be partly open to the same objections as improper language applied to parliament itself; for it imputes discredit to the legislature which passed it, and has a tendency to bring the law into contempt; though the necessity of the repeal of a law justifies, as an argument for that course, its condemnation in debate. A statement that the enactment of a law may justify an appeal to force is not within the cognizance of the chair.

I am now going back in the years because, as honourable Members know, our Standing Order 41 dates back to 1867, and we have inherited it from similar standing orders which existed under previous parliaments in Canada.

In Bourinot's fourth edition, which was published in 1916, I find the following: "Rules for the preservation of order.—Parliamentary and Unparliamentary Expressions in Debate," and at page 361; or to reflect upon, argue against or in any manner call in question, the past acts and proceedings of the house.

If "past acts" means a statute which is in force and has been adopted by a previous parliament at a previous session, Bourinot would certainly not like to see us discuss at this moment the powers in the Emergency Powers Act because he says:

Or to reflect upon, argue against or in any manner call in question, the past acts and proceedings of the house.

In Bourinot's third edition, which was published in 1903, I find at page 482:

Or to reflect upon, argue against or in any manner call in question, the past acts and proceedings of the house.

Then in Cushing, which was published in 1874, I find at page 672, citation 1740, which reads as follows:

It is irregular to reflect upon, argue against, or in any manner call in question, in debate, the past acts or proceedings of the house, on the obvious ground, that, besides tending to revive discussion upon questions which have already been once decided, such reflections are uncourteous to the house, and irregular in principle, inasmuch as the member is himself included in and bound by a vote agreed to by a majority; and it seems, that reflecting upon, or questioning the acts of the "majority" is equivalent to reflecting upon the house.

Honourable Members would judge that in this citation he is referring to a vote previously made in the same session. I am at a loss to decide exactly what is meant by "past acts". It looks as if generally the latter part of our Standing Order 41 is to the effect that if one wants to criticize an existing statute he must propose a motion to rescind a decision which has been previously made. It looks as if that is the sense of it.

What I should like to submit to the attention of honourable Members at this time is the following. If one wants to argue against a statute, what is the objection to his proposing a bill to repeal that statute? Why does he have to take recourse to an amendment to the motion to go into supply? I looked at precedences, and by the way it certainly does not involve any expenditure of money to propose a repeal of a statute. I find that in 1936 the honourable Member for Temiscouata (Mr. Pouliot) proposed a bill to repeal an act to establish an economic council, which had been passed by a previous parliament. It appears at page 436 of Hansard, volume 1. The honourable Member asked for leave to introduce a bill, which was agreed to. Honourable Members will find at page 578 that the motion was agreed to and the bill read a third time and passed.

The question before us at the moment is: Should we consider it a grievance and delay the examination of supply, to move as an amendment what is tantamount to a repeal of an act? It seems to me that this amendment, to be scrupulously in order, should be modified to read: "That the administration of the powers granted to the governor in council under the Emergency Powers Act is repugnant to responsible parliamentary government." I should like to submit this because I do think we all want to respect the traditional rules of order in debate. I should like to submit to honourable Members that in whatever we do we should always follow the best course, and the best course in this instance, it seems to me, is not to move an amendment to the motion that the Speaker do now leave the chair, but rather to present a bill to repeal the Emergency Powers Act, which could be done. I do not want to add more to what I have just said. I just leave it to honourable Members. The question in itself is one that is extremely difficult to deal with. I simply would not wish on this occasion to establish a precedent whereby, on a motion to go into supply, honourable Members would propose an attack against legislation, something which they could do better by moving its repeal; that is, if we are to be guided by what is stated in our Standing Order 41, which reads in part as follows:

No member may reflect upon any vote of the house, except for the purpose of moving that such vote be rescinded.

We have always taken this rule to mean a vote in the same session. As I have said, there are doubts as to whether it is limited to votes in the same session. Then it has been seen that one cannot argue against or in any manner call into question a statute which is law because in doing so it imputes discredit to Parliament. I submit these points to honourable Members. Speaking for myself, I would prefer it if this amendment were to read:

This house desires to record its opinion that the administration of the powers granted to the governor in council under the Emergency Powers Act is repugnant to responsible parliamentary government.

There I would say it is a grievance that is complained of; you are complaining about the administration of the act. But to say that the powers granted to the governor in council are repugnant to responsible parliamentary government is, I think, to attack the principle of the Emergency Powers Act; it is a matter of attacking a statute or an existing law. If honourable Members want to attack that act properly, I think they should do so by means of a motion to repeal the Emergency Powers Act.

I do not at this point wish to initiate a long debate on procedure. As I have indicated, the point is a difficult and a complicated one. I do not wish to rule on the matter. I am simply asking those who have moved the amendment to consider perhaps a rephrasing of their amendment. If they feel that they do not want to be as scrupulous as I myself would like to be at the moment, I am just going to let the matter rest and not deal with it any further.

And objection being taken to the granting of leave to rephrase the wording of the proposed amendment, Mr. Speaker allowed the said amendment to stand in its original form.

And Debate continuing; the said Debate was, on motion of Mr. Fleming, adjourned.

On motion of Mr. Harris, the House adjourned at 9.48 o'clock, p.m., until tomorrow at 2.30 o'clock, p.m.

L. RENÉ BEAUDOIN, Speaker.

Mr. Harrison, from the Standing Committee on Standing Orders, presented the Fourth Report of the said Committee, as follows:

Pursuant to the Order of Reference of Wednesday, March 24, 1954, your Committee has had under consideration the petition of Wilfrid Lavoie, of Montreal, Quebec, for a bill of divorce, which was presented after the stipulated time for such presentation during the present session. The Counsel, appearing on behalf of the petitioner, requested that Standing Order 92 be suspended in relation thereto so that it may be received and in support thereof the following reasons were submitted, namely:

The said petition was signed on the 15th December, 1953, and filed in the Senate on December 18th, or three days later. Through some misunderstanding, no petition was filed with the House of Commons. Counsel, in Ottawa, instructed petitioner in Montreal in order to correct the situation. The said petition, addressed to the House of Commons, was duly forwarded to Counsel in Ottawa but, through an oversight on the part of Counsel, the said petition was put away in the file instead of being forwarded to the House of Commons. It was only on March 23rd, when Counsel received notice of the hearing having been set for March 30th before the Senate Divorce Committee, that the omission regarding the filing in the House of Commons was discovered. Steps were taken on that day to correct this omission.

Counsel for the petitioner represented that his client is a laborer, as is indicated in the petition, and in extremely modest circumstances. He submitted that, should the Committee recommend that Standing Order 92 be suspended and the petition be received, the petitioner be not penalized because of an involuntary omission for which Counsel accepted full responsibility.

Your Committee has carefully considered the above submission. It has come to the conclusion that the delay in filing the petition with the House of Commons arose through no fault of the petitioner but from circumstances beyond his control.

It therefore, recommends that Standing Order 92 be suspended so that the said petition be received; further, that the consequential penalties provided for in Standing Order 93(3) (a) and (c) be not levied in this case.

Mr. Langlois (Gaspé), Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Transport, laid before the House,—Copy of the Budget of the Canadian National Railways and Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited for 1954, as approved by Order in Council P.C. 1954-448 of March 25, 1954, in accordance with the provisions of Section 12 of the Canadian National—Canadian Pacific Act, Chapter 39, and of Section 80 of The Financial Administration Act, Chapter 116, R.S.C., 1952.

AGREEMENT ON COMMERCE BETWEEN CANADA AND JAPAN

Signed at Ottawa, March 31, 1954

The Government of Canada and the Government of Japan, desiring to strengthen the traditional bonds of friendship which unite the two countries and to facilitate further and to develop the commercial relations existing between Canada and Japan, have resolved to conclude an agreement which will regulate the commercial relations between Canada and Japan and have accordingly appointed their respective representatives for this purpose, who have agreed as follows:

ARTICLE I

- 1. Each Contracting Party shall accord to the other Contracting Party unconditional most-favoured-nation treatment in all matters with respect to customs duties and charges of any kind imposed on or in connection with importation or exportation or imposed on the international transfer of payments for imports or exports, and with respect to the method of levying such duties and charges, with respect to the rules and formalities connected with importation or exportation, and with respect to all internal taxes or other internal charges of any kind, and with respect to all laws, regulations and requirements affecting internal sale, offering for sale, purchase, distribution or use of imported goods within the territory of such Contracting Party.
- 2. Accordingly, products of either Contracting Party imported into the territory of the other Contracting Party shall not be subject, in regard to the matters referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article, to any duties, taxes or charges higher, or to any rules or formalities more burdensome, than those to which the like products of any third country are or may hereafter be subject.
- 3. Similarly, products exported from the territory of either Contracting Party and consigned to the territory of the other Contracting Party shall not be subject, in regard to the matters referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article, to any duties, taxes, or charges higher, or to any rules or formalities more burdensome, than those to which the like products when consigned to the territory of any third country are or may hereafter be subject.
- 4. Any advantage, favour, privilege or immunity which has been or may hereafter be granted by either Contracting Party in regard to the matters referred to in paragraph 1 of this Article to any product originating in any third country or consigned to the territory of any third country shall be accorded immediately and without compensation to the like product originating in or consigned to the territory of the other Contracting Party, respectively, and irrespective of the nationality of the carrier.
- 5. The provisions of this Article relating to most-favoured-nation treatment are not applicable to exclusive advantages accorded by Canada to members of the British Commonwealth of Nations, including their dependent territories, and to the Republic of Ireland.

ARTICLE II

Either Contracting Party shall accord to the products of the other Contracting Party, which have been in transit through the territory of any third country receiving most-favoured-nation treatment from the importing country, treatment no less favourable than that which would have been accorded to such products had they been transported from their place of origin to their destination without going through the territory of such third country. Either Contracting Party shall, however, be free to maintain its requirements of direct consignment existing on the date of the present Agreement in respect of any goods in regard to which such direct consignment has relation to the Contracting Party's prescribed method of valuation for duty purposes.

ARTICLE III

- 1. No prohibitions or restrictions shall be applied by either Contracting Party on the importation of any product of the other Contracting Party, or, except as provided in legislation affecting essential security interests, on the exportation of any product consigned to the territory of such other Contracting Party, unless the importation of the like product of all third countries or the exportation of the like product to all third countries is similarly prohibited or restricted.
- 2. In all matters relating to the allocation of foreign exchange, and to the administration of foreign exchange restrictions, affecting transactions involving the importation and exportation of goods, each Contracting Party undertakes to accord to the other Contracting Party unconditional most-favoured-nation treatment.
- 3. Both Contracting Parties recognize that the existence of balance of payments difficulties in many countries, and the widespread inconvertibility of currencies, do not permit the immediate and full achievement of non-discriminatory application of trade and exchange restrictions affecting imports. Accordingly, notwithstanding the provisions of the present Agreement, either Contracting Party may, in the application of trade or exchange restrictions affecting imports for the purpose of safeguarding its external financial position and balance of payments, temporarily deviate from the provisions of paragraphs 1 and 2 of this Article, provided that:
  - (a) its restrictions shall be applied in such a way as to avoid unnecessary damage to the commercial or economic interests of the other Contracting Party;
  - (b) its restrictions shall not be applied in such a way as to result directly or indirectly in discrimination as between countries which are treated as part of the United States dollar area under its exchange control regulations, or as between countries whose currencies are or become convertible in the hands of persons who are treated as non-residents under the exchange control regulations of the countries concerned.

ARTICLE IV

1. Each Contracting Party undertakes that if it establishes or maintains a state enterprise wherever located, or grants to any enterprise, formally or in effect, exclusive or special privileges, such enterprise shall, in its purchases or sales involving either imports or exports, act in a manner consistent with the principles of non-discriminatory treatment provided for in the present Agreement. To this end, subject to the provisions of Article III, such enterprise shall make any purchases or sales solely in accordance with commercial considerations including price, quality, availability, marketability and other conditions of purchase or sale, and shall afford to the enterprises of the other Contracting Party adequate opportunity in accordance with customary business practice to compete for participation in such purchases or sales.

2. The provisions of paragraph 1 of this Article shall not apply to imports of products for immediate or ultimate consumption in governmental use and not otherwise for resale or use in the production of goods for sale. With respect to such imports, each Contracting Party shall accord to the trade of the other Contracting Party fair and equitable treatment.

ARTICLE V

Each Contracting Party undertakes to conform in its trade and commerce to internationally accepted fair practices, particularly in matters relating to trade marks, marks of origin and rights under patents, and to co-operate with the other Contracting Party with a view to preventing any practices which might prejudicially affect the commerce between the two countries.

ARTICLE VI

The Government of either Contracting Party shall give sympathetic consideration to any representations which the Government of the other Contracting Party may make in respect of the implementation of the present Agreement.

ARTICLE VII

- 1. The present Agreement shall be ratified by both Contracting Parties and shall enter into force on the date of the exchange of the instruments of ratification which shall take place in Tokyo.
- 2. The present Agreement shall continue in effect for a period of one year from its entry into force and thereafter until three months from the day on which either Contracting Party shall have given notice to the other Contracting Party of an intention of terminating the Agreement.

In witness whereof the representatives of the two Governments, duly authorized for the purpose, have signed the present Agreement.

Done at Ottawa this thirty-first day of March 1954, in duplicate in the English and Japanese languages, both equally authentic.

I avail myself, Excellency, of this opportunity to renew assurances of my highest consideration.

OTTAWA, 31st March, 1954

Your Excellency,

I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of Your Excellency's Note dated March 31, 1954 which reads follows:

"With reference to the Agreement on Commerce between Japan and Canada signed today, I have the honour to inform Your Excellency that the most-favoured-nation provisions of the said Agreement shall not apply to advantages accorded or to be accorded hereafter by Japan to such areas as set forth in Article 3 of the Treaty of Peace with Japan signed at the city of San Francisco on September 8, 1951, as long as the situation set forth in the second sentence of the said Article continues with respect to the administration, legislation and jurisdiction over those areas.

I have further the honour to request Your Excellency to be good enough to confirm the foregoing understanding on behalf of your Government".

On behalf of the Government of Canada I have the honour to confirm the understanding stated in Your Excellency's Note with respect to the application of the Agreement on Commerce signed today to the areas specified in Article 3 of the Treaty of Peace with Japan.

His Excellency Koto Matsudaira, Ambassador of Japan, Ottawa. Your Excellency,

On the occasion of signing the Agreement on Commerce between Canada and Japan, I have the honour to inform Your Excellency that the Government of Canada reserves the right to establish values for ordinary and special duty purposes in the following terms:

- 1. If, as a result of unforeseen developments and of the effect of the obligations incurred by Canada under the aforesaid Agreement, any product is being imported into its territory in such increased quantities and under such conditions as to cause or threaten serious injury to the domestic producers in its territory of like or directly competitive products, Canada will be free, in respect of such product, and to the extent and for such a time as may be necessary to prevent or remedy such injury, to establish values for ordinary and special duty purposes.
- 2. In determining whether values should be established in respect of any product pursuant to paragraph 1 and in determining the level at which such values should be established, Canada will take into account the prices of like or directly competitive products, if any, being imported at that time from other countries.
- 3. Before Canada takes action pursuant to paragraph 1, it will give notice in writing to Japan as far in advance as may be practicable and will afford the latter an opportunity to consult with it in respect of the proposed action. In critical circumstances, where delay would cause damage which it would be difficult to repair, action under paragraph 1 may be taken provisionally without prior consultation, on the condition that consultation shall take place immediately after taking such action.

I have the honour to state further that in the view of the Government of Canada these provisions are consistent with the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and that the Government of Canada will regard these provisions as continuing to be applicable in the event that the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade is applied between Canada and Japan.

THE NATIONAL ACCOUNTS

NATIONAL INCOME AND PRODUCT

Preliminary estimates indicate a gross national product of about $24.3 billion for 1953, an increase of $1.1 billion over 1952. In terms of volume or real product it is estimated that the increase amounted to almost 4 per cent. At the same time the population of Canada increased by 2.5 per cent and the civilian labour force by 1.3 per cent.

The gain of something less than 4 per cent in the volume of production for 1953 is not, at first glance, as striking as the gains of about 6 per cent which were made in each of the three years 1950, 1951 and 1952. However, this somewhat smaller gain for 1953 does not indicate any reduction in the growth of non-agricultural output. On the contrary, non-agricultural production increased by about 5 per cent in 1953 which is as high as the increase of 1952. There were substantial volume increases in manufacturing and construction, in mining and public utilities, and in wholesale and retail trade. In fact, with the exception of agriculture and forestry, all branches of production appear to have shown increased output for the year as a whole. But the volume of agricultural production, although still very high in absolute terms, was substantially below the record level of 1952.

The expansion in output was greater in the first half of the year when the volume of manufacturing production was rising substantially. This is well illustrated by the index of industrial production which showed a steady advance throughout the early part of the year and comparative stability, with some tendency to decline, in the last half. The high level of production reached early in the year was fairly well maintained through the third quarter; but the down turn of the fourth quarter brought the index at year end to a level slightly below that of December 1952.

GROSS NATIONAL EXPENDITURE 'IN CURRENT AND CONSTANT (1935-39) DOLLARS

For the second successive year labour income increased by an amount greater than the total increase in national income. Salaries and wages, inclusive of military pay and allowances, rose by $900 million or 8 per cent compared with an increase of 12 per cent in 1952. Most of the increase was the result of higher rates of pay but there was an increase of about 2 per cent in the number of paid workers. Labour income constituted 63 per cent of national income in 1953, the highest proportion of the post-war period.

Net farm income is estimated to have declined by almost 14 per cent from the level of 1952. More than half of this decline was the result of a reduction in the volume of agricultural production although lower prices also prevailed for many agricultural products. There was a continuance of the trend toward a lower agricultural labour force which has been noticeable for some time. This was particularly true in regard to unpaid family workers.

Net income of unincorporated business other than farming is estimated to have increased by $128 million or about 8 per cent.

Investment income is estimated to have increased by $52 million or somewhat more than 1 per cent. Tentative estimates of corporation profits, the largest component of investment income, indicate a decline of about 3 per cent; but this decrease was more than offset by increases in other categories of investment income such as rents and interest, and by some reduction in dividends paid abroad. This was the second successive year in which corporation profits declined despite large net additions to plant and equipment. However, they were still slightly above the level of 1950.

NATIONAL EXPENDITURE

During 1953 the volume of Canadian production increased by about 4 per cent. In addition, Canadians drew more heavily on foreign production than in the previous year. Thus, imports of goods and services exceeded exports of goods and services by about $466 million in 1953 compared with an excess of exports over imports of some $166 million in 1952. Taking these two factors into account, the net increase in goods and services drawn from abroad as well as the increase in Canadian production, Canadians used about 6 per cent more goods and services in 1953 than in 1952. About half of this 6 per cent increase in the volume of goods and services used by Canadians was absorbed by increases in personal expenditure on consumer goods and services. Investment in residential construction and in inventories each accounted for about one-fifth of the increase. The remainder was absorbed by the less striking increases in government expenditure and in non-residential construction.

Consumer expenditure rose from $14,424 million to $15,147 million, an increase of $723 million or 5 per cent compared with an increase of $1,126 million or 8 per cent in 1952. The percentage increase in consumer expenditure was no greater than the growth in government expenditure on goods and services and very much less than the expansion of one-third in the volume of residential construction. Nevertheless, in absolute terms, the increase in personal expenditure on consumer goods and services contributed about 50 per cent of the nation's increase in demand and was the largest single element of expansion in the Canadian economy during 1953. This was in contrast to 1952, when an equally powerful forward thrust was supplied by increases in government expenditure; and came about not because of any acceleration in the growth of consumer spending, but because of a levelling off in government outlays for defence. This expansion in consumer spending and the large increase in expenditure on housing, its counterpart in the investment category, are closely related to the substantial relative and absolute increase in labour income which was noted above.

Of the $185 million increase in government expenditure on goods and services in the calendar year 1953, about half was the result of increased defence spending. The increase in defence expenditure was thus about one-sixth as large as the expansion which occurred in 1952. The decline in the relative importance of the increase in government expenditure as a stimulating force in the economy can be seen by comparing it with changes in consumer expenditure. In 1952, for example, the increase in government spending on goods and services was almost equal to the increase in consumer expenditure but in 1953 it was only 26 per cent of the latter.

Investment in plant, equipment and housing increased by $436 million, about 10 per cent in terms of value and almost 8 per cent in terms of volume. Almost two-thirds of this increase was in residential construction.

Additions to inventories of farm grain and livestock and grain in commercial channels declined by $120 million in 1953. Business inventory accumulation, on the other hand, showed a large increase since the volume of business inventories rose by about 5 per cent in 1953 while there had been virtually no change for 1952 as a whole. This increase was confined to the first three quarters of 1953, being about 7 per cent for that period. The change from large inventory accumulation in the first three quarters to an inventory decline in the last quarter was much more pronounced than can be accounted for by the normal seasonal movement. In the first three quarters of the year the accumulation of business inventories absorbed almost as much of the increase in the nation's product as did the increase in consumer expenditure, and for the year as a whole it was as large as the increase in capital investment.

PERSONAL INCOME AND ITS DISPOSITION

Personal income differs from national income in a number of ways. While national income is the total of the annual earnings of Canadian residents from the production of goods and services, personal income is the sum of the current receipts of income regardless of whether these receipts are earnings from production. For example, personal income includes only that part of corporation profits which is actually received by Canadian persons as dividends. On the other hand, transfer payments such as family allowances, old age pensions, veterans' benefits and charitable contributions of corporations, are part of personal income although they are not payments for services and, therefore, do not form part of national income.

During 1953 personal income rose by $951 million or 6 per cent despite a substantial decline in receipts of farm income. As in 1952, this gain in money income represented a significant gain in real income since consumer prices were relatively stable.

Labour income is the largest component of personal income and comprises almost 66 per cent of the total. Thus, the increase in personal income was due in large measure to the 8 per cent increase in salaries and wages although some other components increased at a comparable rate. Government transfer payments increased by $92 million or 7 per cent, most of the increase being the result of normal growth in family allowances and old age pensions and some increase in unemployment insurance benefits.

Net income of farmers declined by 14 per cent in 1953 but the reduction in farm cash income is estimated at only 4 per cent. This result arose because a much smaller part of the 1953 farm income was kept in the form of increased inventory at year-end. There was some decline in prices of agricultural produce but the decline in volume of agricultural production was a slightly more important factor in the reduction of income. As noted elsewhere, the decline in farm income should be considered in relation to the estimated 4 per cent reduction in the agricultural labour force.

Net income of unincorporated businesses other than farming is estimated to have increased by 8 per cent. Income from interest and rents increased but dividends paid out by corporations are estimated to have declined moderately in line with the reduction in corporate profits.

The pattern of the disposition of personal income was not significantly different than that of 1952. Despite the mid-year reduction in the rate of personal income tax, the increase in personal incomes was sufficient to bring about an increase of 9 per cent in the revenue from this tax.

While disposable income, or personal income after taxes, increased by \$842 million, personal expenditure on consumer goods and services rose by \$723 million so that there was an increase of \$119 million in personal saving. In fact, exclusive of changes in farm inventories, which are to a considerable extent involuntary, personal savings rose by \$292 million or about 26 per cent. Some substantial part of this increase in saving can be traced to the 35 per cent increase in residential construction since down-payments for housing constitute part of the nation's savings. A further factor in the increase in personal saving is the large element of contractual saving which increases year by year with the steady growth in pension plans, insurance, and the monthly amortization of mortgages on housing. Personal saving constituted  $9 \cdot 0$  per cent of disposable income in 1953 compared with  $8 \cdot 7$  per cent in 1952,  $9 \cdot 6$  per cent in 1951 and  $5 \cdot 1$  per cent in 1950.

The largest increase in consumer spending was on durable goods, sales of which increased by almost 13 per cent. This increase was heavier in the early part of the year and was accompanied by a substantial increase in consumer credit, particularly in the second quarter of the year. Expenditure on non-durable goods rose by something less than 3 per cent while expenditure on services rose by 6 per cent, reflecting the higher prices of services rather than a heavy expansion in volume. The increase in spending on services is comparable to the increase in personal income itself. The expansion in current consumption did not quite keep pace with the rise in income although it reflected that influence. However, personal expenditure on consumer goods and services cannot be considered without taking account of personal expenditure for housing which is classified as investment in the national accounts. A significant portion of the increase in savings for 1953 was used to finance increased personal investment in housing.

Examination of the quarterly trends in consumer expenditure indicates that increases were confined for the most part to the first half of the year and that there was some levelling off in the third and fourth quarters. Thus, the fourth quarter of 1953 was less than 3 per cent above the fourth quarter of 1952 although the first and second quarter comparison indicates a gain of 6.5 per cent. After allowing for price changes, the volume of consumer expenditure rose by almost 5 per cent, or in per capita terms by about 3 per cent. This was the second successive year in which substantial gains were made in the volume of consumption without causing a decline in savings, a result made possible by the large increase in real income.

Source and Disposition of Saving

Saving is the source from which investment expenditure is financed. In addition to personal saving, which was mentioned in the preceding section, there is government saving and business saving.

It is estimated that during 1953 the nation as a whole saved $225 million more than in 1952, an increase of about 5 per cent. Both personal and business saving increased but the surplus for all levels of government combined dropped to $136 million, so that government saving was no longer a substantial factor in the total. The amount saved by persons and businesses became relatively more important and constituted about 97 per cent of the nation's total saving compared with 92 per cent in 1952 and 80 per cent in 1951.

Personal saving, or the amount set aside from current personal income, is estimated at $1,500 million for 1953—9 per cent of personal disposable income. It constituted 31 per cent of total saving from all sources compared with 30 per cent in 1952. Excluding the change in farm inventories, the increase in personal saving was even more noteworthy, being about 26 per cent greater than in 1952. As noted above, this is closely related to increased expenditure on residential housing and to the continuing growth in contractual saving.

About two thirds of the reduction in government saving was the result of a further decline in the federal surplus, as adjusted for National Accounts purposes.

Business saving is comprised for the most part of amounts set aside for depreciation and of undistributed profits. There was an estimated increase of about 11 per cent in depreciation allowances. Undistributed profits depend not only upon the level of profits but upon taxes and dividend payments as well. The preliminary estimate of corporation profits before taxes indicates a reduction of a little more than 3 per cent for 1953 and this carries the decline in corporate profits, which began in 1952, to about 9 per cent. This decrease in profits has accompanied more normal conditions of supply and demand with a comparatively stable price level. During 1953 there was, however, a substantial drop in corporation taxes because of the reduction in tax rates, so that there has been some increase in the amount of corporation profits after taxes. In addition, it is estimated that dividends paid out were somewhat lower than in 1952, so that some increase in undistributed profits is indicated.

It is estimated that our total payments abroad on current account exceeded our total receipts from abroad by about $466 million and there was, therefore, an increase of like amount in our net foreign liabilities. This was in sharp contrast to 1952 when current receipts from abroad exceeded current payments by $166 million. The movement from a surplus to a deficit in current foreign transactions was much more the result of increased imports than of decreased exports. Imports in 1953 were 9 per cent greater than in 1952 while exports were about 3 per cent less. Thus although the level of domestic saving was very high, the nation's expanding requirements were financed to a limited extent by capital inflows from abroad, particularly from the United States. These transactions are treated more fully in the section on the balance of international payments.

INVESTMENT AND CAPITAL EXPENDITURE

It is estimated that investment in plant, equipment and housing amounted to $4,701 million in 1953 and constituted 19 per cent of gross national expenditure compared with 18 per cent in 1952. The increase for the year was $436 million, 10 per cent in terms of value and 8 per cent in terms of volume. There was a large increase in residential housing which rose by $276 million or 35 per cent in value and 33 per cent in volume. The 1953 volume of housing expenditure was about 11 per cent above the previous record level reached in 1950. Non-residential construction, which had shown the largest gain in 1952, rose more moderately in 1953 with an increase of 10 per cent in value and 6 per cent in volume. The estimates indicate that the value and volume of new investment in machinery and equipment were in aggregate practically unchanged from 1952. Declines in investment in farm machinery were offset by gains in trade, finance and commercial services. It should be noted also that while new investment in machinery and equipment did not expand further in 1953, it was already at high levels. Increases in investment in machinery and equipment were large in 1951 because of the expansion associated with defence preparations. In addition, there was a further although more moderate increase in 1952.

In absolute terms the most significant change in investment was the volume increase in business inventories. Whereas business inventories had remained practically constant during 1952, their volume increased in 1953 by about 5 per cent. The effect upon the economy was therefore significantly different than in 1952 when no further charge was made on the nation's productive capacity by demands for increasing inventory. The increase in inventories during 1953 was confined to the first three quarters; and the change from large inventory accumulation in the first three quarters to an inventory decline in the last quarter was greatly in excess of the normal seasonal variation. It should be noted that the build-up of inventories in the first three quarters of the year contributed to economic activity in that period, while the withdrawal of this stimulus in the last quarter coincided with the normal seasonal slow-down and added to its effect. The increase in investment in business inventories for 1953 was somewhat larger than the increase in the volume of residential housing and together they absorbed about 65 per cent of the nation's increase in product.

PUBLIC AND PRIVATE CAPITAL EXPENDITURE

Table 9 gives an industrial distribution of business capital expenditures and brings them together with public capital outlays included under government expenditure in Table 2. The total of public and private capital expenditures increased by $394 million or 7 per cent in 1953. In real terms the increase is estimated at about 5 per cent. This is considerably less than the rate of advance in 1952 when the effects of the increased defence preparedness programme were still in evidence. Moreover, there was a distinct difference between 1952 and 1953 in the categories in which the major increases occurred. While these had for the most part been confined in 1951 and 1952 to increased investment in heavy manufacturing associated with defence, and to the development of strategic resources, the removal of restrictions in 1953 made possible private investment in lines more directly associated with civilian needs. This is indicated by the increased expenditure on housing, commercial buildings, and on retail outlets.

During 1953 the most spectacular increase in capital investment was in the trade, finance and commercial services group, particularly in retail trade. Expansion in these services and facilities generally had not kept pace with the rather rapid growth of the Canadian economy, preponderantly urban in character. The increase in retail store facilities was the most striking. Chain stores, independent stores and department stores spent $189 million on new facilities in 1953, an increase of $70 million or about 60 per cent. There was some decline in capital investment of government departments and this was largely in the federal field and associated with the decline in the rate of creation of new facilities connected with the defence programme. Investment in institutions increased by $23 million, or 8 per cent, the largest increase being in hospitals. In the utilities group there was a fairly heavy increase of 12 per cent in the capital outlays of steam railways and the bulk of this increase was in machinery and equipment. Elsewhere in the utilities group there were some declines.

In the manufacturing group, fairly substantial increases and decreases were in evidence, but the latter predominated. There was a decline of $23 million in iron and steel products, $30 million in paper products and $14 million in chemicals. Food and beverage industries increased their investment by $6 million, transportation equipment by $31 million and non-ferrous metals industries by $8 million.

REVENUE AND EXPENDITURE OF ALL GOVERNMENTS

In Table 10 "Government Transactions Related to the National Accounts" an attempt is made to bring together in one statement and under uniform headings, the activities of all governments in Canada on a calendar year basis.

The table is designed to include only those transactions which have relevance for the National Accounts, and consequently the surpluses or deficits shown here differ from those shown in the various public accounts. It has been necessary to adjust the governments' accounting statements of fiscal year revenue and expenditure to exclude certain transactions such as those relating to reserves, write-offs, amortization, and other similar items, as well as the purchase and sale of existing capital assets; and to include the transactions of extra-budgetary funds such as unemployment insurance, old age security, workmen's compensation and government pension funds. Government loans and investments, and debt retirement are not included in government expenditure.

In the federal accounts, some of the more substantial adjustments are as follows: elimination of reserve for possible losses on active assets, elimination of reserve for veterans' conditional benefits, elimination of expenditures charged with respect to shipment from stocks of military equipment to NATO countries, addition of expenditures out of Defence Equipment Replacement Account, elimination of write-down of active assets to non-active account, adjustment of corporation taxes to an accrual basis, inclusion of the change in inventories of government commodity agencies and the Defence Production Revolving Fund and adjustment of interest on the public debt from an accrual to a due date basis. In addition, the federal figures are adjusted to a calendar year basis by using the monthly figures published by the Comptroller of the Treasury.

Municipalities are for the most part on a calendar year basis but the provincial figures are based on the provincial fiscal years. The 1953 figures for provincial and municipal governments involve a considerable element of estimation.

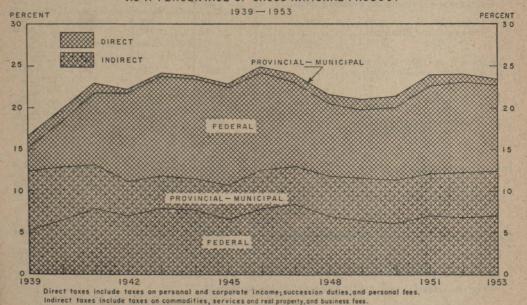

Exclusive of the change in inventories held by its agencies or departments, the federal government's expenditure on goods and services increased by $152 million or 6 per cent in 1953 compared with an increase of $687 million in 1952. This marked slowing down in the rate of expansion of federal government expenditure on goods and services in 1953 was the result of the levelling off in defence spending. For example, while defence expenditure rose by $643 million or more than 55 per cent in 1952, the increase in 1953 amounted to $109 million or a little more than 6 per cent. Nevertheless, federal defence expenditure remained a significant element in the national total, comprising about 8 per cent of gross national expenditure and about 75 per cent of the federal government's expenditure on goods and services. Federal government non-defence expenditure rose by about 7 per cent.

The increase in provincial and municipal expenditure on goods and services is estimated at $129 million or 7 per cent compared with an increase of 13 per cent in 1952. This does not indicate any significant change in the rate of expansion of these services since price rises were a much more important factor in the 1952 increase.

The expansion in federal transfer payments was also much smaller in 1953 than it had been in 1952 so that in this area, as well as in the category of direct expenditure on goods and services, the Canadian economy received much less in the way of a forward thrust. Federal transfer payments increased by $87 million or 6 per cent and this expansion represented in the main the more or less normal growth in family allowances, and old age pensions, together with some increase in unemployment insurance benefits.

Although federal expenditures expanded more moderately in 1953 than in 1952, there was an even smaller upward movement in revenues. There was a rise of about 9 per cent in federal personal income tax collections despite the mid-year reduction in rates which averaged about 11 per cent. The main factor in this increase was the steady rise in salaries and wages. The yield of the corporation tax declined since the effect of the 1953 tax rate reduction was compounded by some decline in profits, the base upon which the tax is levied.

Federal indirect taxes increased by $102 million or 6 per cent. Almost half of this increase was in customs duties, since the yields from these levies reflected the substantial increase in imports. At the same time the generally high and rising levels of income and spending resulted in a considerable growth in the yield from sales and excise taxes.

Provincial and municipal indirect taxes increased by about 6 per cent. At the provincial level, increased revenue from gasoline taxes accounted for two-thirds of the increase and there was also some increase in the yield of provincial sales taxes.

There was a moderate increase in the importance of indirect taxes in the country as a whole. Thus, for all levels of government combined, indirect taxes exceeded direct taxes by some 13 per cent in 1953 compared with only 5 per cent in 1952.

As indicated above, the moderate expansion in federal expenditure during 1953 was not matched by the rise in revenues so that the federal surplus as adjusted for National Accounts purposes declined by $88 million. During 1952 the greater part of the very large increase in federal expenditure was financed by a reduction from the previous year's level of surplus rather than by revenue increases although the latter were substantial. In 1953 however the further reduction in the surplus was more moderate and the over-all effect of government revenue and spending was, therefore, more neutral despite their higher level. Since revenues and expenditures moved closer to balance, government saving became a negligible factor in the nation's total. The federal surplus was the smallest since 1946. The combined surplus of all provincial and municipal governments is estimated to have declined by about $50 million with revenues and expenditures in approximate balance.

The federal surplus shown for National Accounts purposes differs substantially from the public accounts surplus, not only because of the difference between the calendar and fiscal year, but because of other adjustments made to both revenues and expenditures to make the presentation consistent with figures shown for other sectors of the economy. A reconciliation table has, therefore, been appended to the government table which summarizes the major adjustments.

BALANCE OF INTERNATIONAL PAYMENTS

Canada's balance of payments position in 1953 differed in several respects from the position in 1952. The upward trend in the physical volume of imports which became evident in the last half of 1952 continued into 1953 and for the year as a whole, merchandise imports showed a volume increase of about 9 per cent over the previous year. At the same time, the volume of merchandise exports declined by a little more than 1 per cent from the record levels of 1952 and the terms of trade, or the ratio of import prices to export prices, showed some slight deterioration. As a result there was an import surplus of $55 million in 1953 compared with an export surplus of $491 million in 1952. This change in the merchandise trade balance was the major factor in the movement from a current account surplus of $157 million in 1952 to an estimated deficit of some $467 million in 1953.

Merchandise imports rose to $4,207 million in 1953, an increase of $361 million or 9 per cent over 1952. This increase in imports was a reflection of the high levels of investment, industrial activity and consumer spending which characterized the Canadian economy in 1953. There was a significant increase in imports of farm and non-farm machinery, electrical equipment and automotive and other iron and steel products. At the same time the greater volume of imports of consumer goods such as textiles and durables reflected the strong consumer demand and increasing import competition. This stronger demand for imports was spread throughout all categories.

Merchandise exports in 1953 were $4,152 million, down by $185 million or about 4 per cent from 1952. The major decreases were in exports of wood pulp, zinc, automotive products and farm machinery. Increased world supplies in both importing and exporting countries reduced the market for Canadian grains; and exports of wheat, barley and oats were below the record levels of 1952, although they remained above the level of any other post-war year. The fall in prices of wood pulp and zinc had important effects on the total value of these products, while declining farm incomes in the United States and import restrictions in overseas countries affected exports of farm machinery. Newsprint showed a large gain and became Canada's leading export in 1953, while sales of pork, pork products and chemicals to the United States showed a substantial increase.

Another noteworthy feature of Canadian foreign trade in 1953-was a significant change in the direction of exports. Shipments to the United Kingdom and the rest of the Commonwealth, to European countries and to Latin America declined, while exports to the United States increased. As a result, exports to the United States constituted 59 per cent of Canada's total exports compared with 54 per cent in 1952. The fall in exports to the United Kingdom mainly reflects lower sales of wood products and metals while in other overseas countries sales of wheat, barley and automotive products were also down sharply. Exchange difficulties in Brazil were a major factor in the sharp reduction of sales to Latin America.

The change in the direction of imports was less pronounced. The proportion of total imports originating in the United States was about 73 per cent and showed little change from 1952, although their value increased by more than $200 million. Imports from the United Kingdom were greater but there was some decline in the value of imports from other parts of the Commonwealth.

Although the change in the merchandise trade balance was the major factor in the movement to a deficit on current account, the deficit on non-merchandise transactions also widened from $334 million in 1952 to $412 million in 1953, an increase of $78 million. A significant part of this change arose from the settlement of costs incurred in connection with the Korean hostilities, while payments under the Colombo Plan and in connection with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization were also higher. Receipts from freight and shipping were lower while payments rose with the larger volume of imports. The usually large payments balance on dividend account declined somewhat, while the payments balance on travel account was not significantly changed.

Direct investment in Canada and net sales of new Canadian securities abroad amounted to about $560 million in 1953. As in 1952, direct investment, tentatively estimated at $385 million, made up the bulk of this capital inflow. Of this total, approximately three-quarters represented investment in primary industries such as petroleum and mining and related transportation facilities. Provincial and municipal borrowing in the United States accounted for about two-thirds of the new security issues. Movements of short-term and other capital, however, were closer to balance than in 1952 when there was a substantial net outflow.

There was therefore, a net inward movement of capital, which balanced the deficit on current account without any great change in either the level of official exchange reserves or the external value of the Canadian dollar.

Official reserves of gold and United States dollars were $1,860 million at December 31, 1952, and $1,818 million at December 31, 1953.

A moderate upward trend in the value of the Canadian dollar over the last half of 1953 contrasted with the slow decline evident in the first half of the year. The range, however, was relatively narrow, the United States dollar having moved between $0.968 to $0.998 in the first six months of 1953 and between $0.994 and $0.970 in the last six months. At December 31, 1953, the United States dollar was $0.974 in terms of the Canadian dollar compared with $0.970 at December 31, 1952.

EMPLOYMENT AND EARNINGS

Wages and salaries, inclusive of military pay and allowances, are estimated to have reached the record total of $11,962 million for 1953, a gain of $900 million or more than 8 per cent over the previous year. The level of labour income did not, however, advance appreciably beyond the level attained in the second quarter of the year. The seasonally adjusted quarterly figures show a moderate rise of 2 per cent in both the first and second quarters with very little further increase in the third and fourth quarters. This is in sharp contrast to the year 1952 when the nation's payroll continued to rise throughout the year and was 7 per cent higher in the fourth quarter than it had been in the first.

As in 1952, this rise in money income resulted in a substantial gain in real income or purchasing power since prices were comparatively stable. For the two years 1952 and 1953, the rise in labour income has been about 21 per cent while the consumer price index has increased by less than 2 per cent and the number of paid workers by 6 per cent. 1953 was the second successive year in which the proportion of national income accruing to labour showed a substantial increase. Thus, labour income constituted 63 per cent of national income in 1953 compared with 61 per cent in 1952 and 58 per cent in each of the years 1950 and 1951.

The increase in labour income was common to all the broad industrial categories with the exception of the primary industries. The largest increase was in the construction industry where the total wages and salaries paid exceeded the 1952 aggregate by 12 per cent but this gain did not approach the expansion of 21 per cent recorded in the previous year. Earnings in the other main groups, including manufacturing, utilities, trade, finance and other services, increased in about the same proportion as the overall gain in labour income, that is, in the range of some 8 to 9 per cent. On the other hand, labour income in the primary industries showed a decline of some 3 per cent, largely because of a decline in income from logging activities.

During 1953 there was an increase of 82,000 in the number of paid workers. Thus, the 8 per cent rise in labour income amounted to about 6 per cent when calculated on the basis of earnings per worker. The annual average earnings per paid worker rose by about $160 to $2,970. As in the previous year, this increase was possible because higher hourly rates of pay more than offset the effect of a fractionally shorter working week. In 1953, hours worked in manufacturing averaged 41·3 per week compared with 41·5 a year earlier, while hourly rates of pay rose from $1.32 in December, 1952, to $1.38 in December, 1953.

Employment conditions improved in the first three quarters of the year 1953. However, this improvement was not maintained at year-end and in the latter months of the year there was a decline from the very high levels of employment which had characterized 1953 up to that time. This was in contrast to the experience of 1952 in which, partly because of abnormally favourable climatic conditions, employment conditions had been very satisfactory at year-end although the beginning of the year was marked by some hesitation.

In addition to the increase in the number of persons with jobs in the first three quarters of 1953, there was, as in 1952, a decline in the number of persons working short-time. The number of persons working short-time averaged 91,000 less than in 1952 with the principal improvement in this regard occurring in the first two or three quarters of the year.

Persons without jobs and seeking work averaged 136,000 in 1953 compared with 128,000 in 1952. In both years the figure amounted to  $2\cdot 5$  per cent of the labour force. For the greater part of 1953 unemployment was lower than in 1952. However, the number of persons without jobs and seeking work rose to 190,000 in December, 1953, compared with 131,000 for the same month in 1952. This trend continued into January and February of 1954, in which months the figures stood at 280,000 and 312,000 respectively, or 93,000 and 133,000 above the levels of the comparable months in 1953.

To some extent the increased unemployment has been due to more severe climatic conditions than those which obtained in the exceptionally open winter months of 1952-53. At the same time, however, certain changes have been taking place in the economy, as receding inflationary forces allowed increased competition to make itself felt in a number of industries. Thus, while by far the largest share of the increased unemployment was accounted for by construction, logging and lumbering activities, widely scattered increases were noted in almost all fields, with clerical, transportation, metal-working, textile, and miscellaneous activities being the groups most particularly affected.

The civilian labour force, which includes both the employed and the unemployed, averaged 5,325,000 for 1953, an increase of 68,000, or a little more than 1 per cent over 1952. This increase of 68,000 in the labour force was accompanied by a rise of 60,000 in average employment. The number of persons employed in non-agricultural industry continued to rise while the number of those with jobs in agriculture is estimated to have declined by 33,000 in 1953. This compares with the previous year's decline of 48,000 in the number of agricultural workers and marks a continuation of the shift from rural to urban occupations.

In addition to the civilian labour force there were 106,000 men and women in the Armed Forces in 1953, compared with 98,000 in 1952. The percentage of the non-institutional civilian population over 14 years of age in the civilian labour force continued to decline slightly, and was 53·1 per cent in 1953 compared with 53·4 per cent in 1952.

During 1953 industrial disputes were much less prevalent than in the preceding year; the total of 1,322,900 working days lost in this way was less than half the 2,880,000 man working days lost in 1952.

PRICE TRENDS

Canadian prices were remarkably stable during 1953, with neither the consumer price index nor the index of wholesale prices moving more than 1 per cent from its 1953 average. The consumer price index has, in fact, shown little variation since May, 1952, by which time it had receded from the post-war and post-Korean high point reached in January of that year. Similarly, the wholesale price index has been practically unchanged since September, 1952, by which time the sharp fall from its July, 1951 peak had come to a halt. Yet despite this stability the yearly averages of both indices were slightly lower in 1953 than they had been in 1952.

The 1953 average of the consumer price index was 115.5, 1 point below the 1952 figure. This was the first time since before the war that a decline from the previous year's average had been recorded. The movement of the index during the year was in a very narrow range, touching a low point of 114.4 in May, and reaching a high for the year of 116.7 in October. These changes were mainly in response to variations in the food component of the index which moved in a range of more than 5 points and averaged 112.6 against 116.8 in 1952. The other components of the index fluctuated but little during the year; and in general the experience of 1953 was similar to that of 1952 in that prices of rents and other services moved in an upward direction while the prices of foods tended to be lower. The notable stability of the consumer price index continued into the first two months of 1954, in both of which the index stood fractionally lower than its year-end figure of 115.8.

In contrast with the Canadian experience, the United States consumer index averaged slightly more in 1953 than it had in 1952. American food prices declined by an amount comparable to the decline in Canada, and clothing prices were practically unchanged, but this was more than offset by rises in the rent and other components of the index.

The Canadian index of wholesale prices declined for the second consecutive year in 1953, although the fall was less than half as great as the 6 per cent drop recorded in 1952; the average of 220·8 in 1953 was 2·3 per cent below the 1952 figure of 226·0. The general tendency during the year was for primary commodities to show the sharpest price decreases, with processed items declining only fractionally. Thus, the index of raw and partly manufactured products fell by 2·7 per cent from its previous year-end figure, while the index of fully and chiefly manufactured goods was practically unchanged.

Most product components of the index were at lower average levels in 1953 than in 1952, with the decline in the price of textile products being rather more noticeable than those of other groups. Two exceptions to the general trend were iron and its products, prices of which remained firm during the year, and the non-metallic minerals group, which rose slightly, reflecting higher prices for sulphur, cement, plate glass, and petroleum products.

Despite the steadiness of the general price level, prices of individual commodities showed somewhat more variation in 1953 than they have in recent years. Demand, although still strong, became more selective, while at the same time shortages ceased to be the rule on the supply side. Relative, rather than general, demand and supply conditions became more important in the year just ended, and many commodity prices moved in opposite directions during the year. On the higher side were pork and pork products, cocoa, coffee, pigiron, and copper, while beef, rubber, steel scrap, lead, and zinc were among those which moved lower.

The over-all stability of the index of wholesale prices in Canada in 1953 was closely matched by the experience of the United States and the United Kingdom. Wide variations in individual commodity prices, and a tendency for the index as a whole to move somewhat lower, were noticeable in all three countries during the year.

REVIEW OF GOVERNMENT ACCOUNTS

1953-54

1. INTRODUCTION

Although the Government's fiscal year ended on March 31, the figures which are presented in this Part must be regarded as preliminary and subject to revision for the books must remain open for several weeks in order to record various adjusting entries and to take into account all payments up to and including April 30 made on account of expenditures originating in and properly chargeable to the fiscal year 1953-54. Consequently it is to be expected that the final figures when they become available next August will show some variations from those given in the following pages.

2. HIGHLIGHTS OF GOVERNMENTAL FINANCIAL OPERATIONS DURING 1953-54

The budgetary revenues of the Government for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1954 are now estimated at \$4,400 million. This is \$73 million or about  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent less than the amount of \$4,473 million forecast in last year's budget speech and approximately \$39 million more than the total collected in the preceding year.

Budgetary expenditures are estimated at \$4,390 million, which is \$72 million or  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent less than the budget forecast and about \$53 million more than the total spent in 1952-53.

On the basis of these figures the indicated surplus is about $10 million compared with the budget forecast of $11 million for the year and with $24 million for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1953.

On the revenue side of the Government's budgetary operations, the most significant feature was the continued buoyancy of the revenues, which despite the tax reductions announced in the 1953 budget, were the largest on record. Direct taxes, which include personal and corporation income taxes declined by $35 million, but this decrease was more than offset by increases of $47 million in indirect taxes (due largely to excise taxes and customs import duties) and of $37 million in non-tax revenues.

On the expenditure side, the most noteworthy feature was the continued importance of defence in the Government's expenditure programme. In 1953-54, defence expenditures were $1,890 million or approximately 43 per cent of the total budgetary expenditures for the year. This is approximately $82 million or about 4 per cent less than the corresponding total in the preceding year when defence expenditures constituted 45 per cent of the Government's total budgetary outlay.

Although the budgetary surplus was $10 million, the Government made loans, advances and other non-budgetary disbursements of about $429 million, and at the same time reduced the amount of its unmatured funded debt outstanding in the hands of the public by approximately $273 million. The manner in which this has been achieved can be understood more readily by taking an over-all view of the Government's cash transactions for the fiscal year.

As explained in the section on "The Cash Position", the budgetary surplus of $10 million for the fiscal year does not measure the full impact of Government operations in 1953-54 upon the Canadian economy. Substantial sums were received and paid out for extra-budgetary purposes, such as the loans and advances which the Government is authorized to make and the transactions in connection with the many insurance, pension, annuity and deposit and trust accounts which it is required or has undertaken to hold or administer.

These non-budgetary disbursements are estimated at $429 million and include $146 million invested in or loaned to the Canadian National Railways for capital expenditures on additions and betterments and the acquisition of new rolling stock and equipment, $93 million advanced to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for house construction and for housing loans, and $45 million loaned to the Old Age Security Fund to finance pension payments out of the Fund which were not covered by old age security tax receipts. More than offsetting these are non-budgetary receipts and credits amounting to $811 million of which the two principal items were $446 million from the repayment of sundry loans and investments (of which $147 million represents the repayment by the C.N.R. of government loans out of the proceeds of the $200 million loan to the public which was issued early in 1954); and $365 million from net annuity, pension and other liability account receipts.

After taking into account the budgetary surplus of $10 million and the net balance of $383 million available from non-budgetary transactions, $393 million was available for debt reduction. Unmatured funded debt in the hands of the public decreased by approximately $273 million during the year, and the Government's year end cash balances increased by $120 million.

3. THE BUDGETARY ACCOUNTS

Total revenues, at $4,400 million for 1953-54, were $39 million over the total for 1952-53. Total expenditures at $4,390 million were $53 million more than in the previous fiscal year. The surplus for the fiscal year was $10 million as compared with a surplus of $24 million for 1952-53.

A summarized statement of the estimated revenues and expenditures and surplus for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1954, with the actual figures for the fiscal years ended March 31, 1947 to 1953, inclusive, is given in the following table:

A. Analysis of Revenues

Total budgetary revenues amounted to $4,400·1 million in the fiscal year 1953-54 and were $39·3 million or about 1 per cent higher than the previous record of $4,360·8 million received in 1952-53. Of the total revenues for the fiscal year $2,476·7 million or 56·3 per cent were derived from direct taxes, $1,532·3 million or 34·8 per cent from indirect taxes and the remaining $391·1 million or 8·9 per cent from non-tax revenues and special receipts and credits.

A statement of estimated revenues for 1953-54 classified by major categories, and the corresponding actual figures for 1952-53 is given in Table II.

(1) DIRECT TAXES

Tax on Personal Incomes

Personal income tax (excluding the old age security tax) yielded a total of $1,189·3 million in 1953-54, an increase of $9·3 million or 0·8 per cent over the previous year. Deductions at the source from salary and wages since July 1, 1953, have been made at rates averaging about 11 per cent less than those applicable in the corresponding period of 1952-53. In addition, that part of personal income tax revenue which is paid in quarterly instalments, and as balances with returns, has been based in 1953-54 on lower rates than in the previous year. The effect of these two factors however has been more than offset by the increase in personal incomes during the year.

In addition the 2 per cent tax on personal incomes levied under the Old Age Security Act yielded an estimated amount of $90.7 million during 1953-54 compared with $45.2 million in 1952-53. These collections were credited to the Old Age Security Fund.

Taxes on Interest, Dividends, Rents and Royalties Going Abroad

Revenues under this heading are derived from withholding taxes on payments of interest, dividends, rents and royalties made to non-residents. The estimated total of $54 million compares with $53.7 in 1952-53.

Corporation Income Tax

Corporation income tax (excluding the old age security tax) yielded revenues of $1,193.4 million in 1953-54, a decrease of $46.7 million or 3.8 per cent from the previous year's total of $1,240.1 million. While this decrease is due partly to the fact that corporate profits in 1953 were somewhat less than in 1952 it is attributable mainly to the reduction in rates of tax announced in the 1953 budget, applicable to profits earned after January 1, 1953. The 1953 budget imposed rates of 18 per cent on the first $20,000 of profits and 47 per cent on profits in excess of $20,000; the former rates had been 20 per cent on the first $10,000 of profits and 50 per cent on profits in excess of $10,000. Also, in 1953 the allowable deduction from federal tax of 5 per cent of taxable income earned in the Province of Quebec was increased to 7 per cent.

The total revenue from corporation income tax includes $9 million paid by corporations paying the 15 per cent tax on their undistributed income. This compares with $10.2 million collected from this source in 1952-53.

In addition the 2 per cent tax levied on corporate profits under the Old Age Security Act yielded $55.6 million during 1953-54 as compared with $36.9 million in 1952-53. These collections were credited to the Old Age Security Fund.

Succession Duties

Revenues from succession duties were $40 million in 1953-54, an increase of $1.9 million or 5 per cent over the previous year.

Customs Import Duties

Net revenue from customs import duties for the year were $408 million, an increase of 4.8 per cent over the 1952-53 total of $389.4 million. The increase in revenue corresponds to the increase in total value of imports.

Excise Duties

Excise duties are levied exclusively on alcoholic beverages and tobacco products. (Additional taxes are levied under the Excise Tax Act on tobacco products). The revenue from excise duties for the year was $228 million, a decrease of $13.4 million from the previous year's yield of $241.4 million. The decrease is due to the fact that the rates of duty on cigarettes were reduced in the 1953 budget. The decrease in revenue from cigarettes is partly offset by an increase in the revenue from spirits.

Gross receipts from excise duties, before deducting refunds, are divided as follows: $133 million from alcoholic beverages ($127.7 million in 1952-53), and $98 million from tobacco products ($116.9 million in 1952-53).

Excise Taxes

Net excise tax collections (excluding the 2 per cent old age security sales tax) are estimated at $882 million in 1953-54, an increase of $40.1 million over the previous year.

The sales tax, from the standpoint of revenue, is the principal tax levied under the Excise Tax Act. Despite new exemptions from the sales tax announced in the 1953 budget which were estimated to reduce revenue by about $8 million, the gross revenue from sales tax was $612 million, an increase of $28.2 million compared with $583.8 million in 1952-53. Since there was no substantial changes in the general price level during the year, the increase is attributed to higher production and imports.

Excise taxes other than sales tax yielded approximately $290 million, or $11.5 million more than in 1952-53. This increase occurred in spite of the fact that the stamp taxes on cheques, money orders, and security transfers, which yielded $10.6 million in 1952-53, were repealed in the 1953 budget.

The largest increases in the yields from taxes in this category were from the tax on automobiles, tires and tubes, which yielded approximately $101 million ($89.9 million in 1952-53). Of nearly equal importance is the increase in collections of the tax on tobacco products. Due to increased cigarette sales these taxes yielded approximately $7 million more than in the previous year. Finally, revenue from the tax on radios and television sets is estimated at $16.5 million, an increase of $5.8 million over last year.

In addition the 2 per cent tax on sales levied under the Old Age Security Act yielded $147.7 million during 1953-54, compared with $141.6 million in 1952-53. These collections are credited to the Old Age Security Fund.

Other Indirect Taxes

The taxes under this heading are the tax on premium income of insurance companies, the tax on the export of electrical energy from Canada, and the tax on the export of furs from the Northwest Territories. These taxes produced $14.3 million, an increase of $1.3 million over 1952-53. Of this total the tax on premium income of insurance companies yielded approximately $13.6 million, in 1952-53 the yield was $12.4 million.

(3) Non-Tax Revenues

Non-tax revenues for 1953-54 are estimated at $317.4 million, an increase of $37.3 million over the total for 1952-53. The following table presents a comparative summary of revenues under this heading for the past two years:

Post Office

Gross post office receipts for 1953-54 are expected to amount to $129.8 million. After making authorized disbursements from revenue of $18.3 million for salaries and rent allowances at semi-staff and revenue offices, commissions at sub-offices, transit charges on Canadian mail forwarded through or delivered in foreign countries, etc., net post office receipts credited to budgetary revenues are estimated at $111.5 million. A small increase of $0.5 million in gross receipts over the corresponding amount received in 1952-53 is more than offset by an increase of $0.9 million in payments from revenue, due mainly to an increase in remuneration paid to revenue postmasters and their assistants. Costs of operating the Post Office during 1953-54 (excluding the $18.3 million charged to revenue) are expected to total $114 million and thus will exceed net revenue by approximately $2.5 million. However, in making this comparison it is to be noted that the total shown for post office revenues does not reflect any payment for the franking privilege covering parliamentary and departmental mail or for other special services provided for other government departments and agencies, nor does the total shown for operating expenses reflect any charges for premises occupied by the Post Office Department or for certain accounting and miscellaneous services provided by other departments.

Return on Investments

Return on investments is expected to yield $147.5 million, an increase of $30.6 million over the total of $116.9 million received in 1952-53. Half of this increase is attributable to the profits of the Bank of Canada, which for the calendar year 1953 were $15.1 million above those for the previous year. Also contributing to the increase in 1953-54 is the estimated surplus of $10 million to be turned over by Canadian Arsenals Limited; the corresponding item for 1952-53 of $6.1 million was included in special receipts and credits. There were also increases in interest received during 1953 from the Canadian National Railways and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation of $3.8 million and $1.9 million In addition $2.2 million is included in revenues representing surplus funds in excess of the $5 million reserve established by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation which are payable to the Receiver General; in prior years the corresponding amounts were credited to special receipts and credits. The principal item offsetting these increases was a decrease of $6.4 million in the amount of dividends and interest received from Polymer Corporation Limited, due mainly to the fact that there was no receipt in 1953 comparable to the special dividend of $6 million paid by the Corporation in 1952.

A comparative summary of estimated receipts during 1953-54 with actual receipts during 1952-53 under this heading is given in the following table:

Premium, Discount and Exchange

The amount credited to premium, discount and exchange in 1953-54 was $3.9 million compared with a credit of $1.5 million in 1952-53. This revenue item arises mainly from accounting adjustments in asset and liability accounts to reflect a reduction in U.S. dollar and sterling exchange rates from those operative in the fiscal year 1952-53. It is estimated that the Canadian dollar equivalent of outstanding debt payable in sterling and in United States dollars will be reduced in consequence of this revaluation by $4.8 million, offset by $2.5 million reduction in assets payable in these currencies. The result is a net credit in the premium, discount and exchange account of $2.3 million. Net differences in rates on current gold and foreign exchange transactions are expected to account for a further credit of $1.6 million, resulting in a net revenue item of $3.9 million.

(4) SPECIAL RECEIPTS AND CREDITS

Special receipts and credits are expected to total $73.7 million for the fiscal year 1953-54 compared with a total of $83.1 million received in the previous year. A comparative summary of the sources of special receipts and other credits for the last two years is presented in the following table:

(1) Included in Return on Investments in 1953-54.

The amount of $46.9 million represents the transfer to revenue of the balance of the provincial 5 per cent corporation income tax suspense account. A fuller explanation may be found in the section on Sundry Suspense Liabilities.

$17.1 million was received during the fiscal year from the sale of Crown assets. Of this amount $7.9 million was received from the Crown Assets Disposal Corporation representing the amount realized from the disposal of surplus Crown assets after allowing for transfers to active assets of amounts applicable to "Balances receivable under agreements of sale of Crown assets". It does not include the residual cash balances nor the value of accounts receivable carried by the corporation as at March 31, 1954.

The remaining $9.2 million under this heading consists of two amounts received under agreements of sale. Crown-owned land and buildings were sold by the Department of Defence Production to A. V. Roe Canada Limited for approximately $17 million. During the fiscal year cash payments of $9 million were received; the balance is set up under "Other loans and investments" as "Balances receivable under agreements of sale of Crown assets." Also under an agreement of sale Crown-owned machine tools and equipment were sold by the Department of Defence Production to Weatherhead Company of Canada Limited for approximately $700,000. A cash payment of $200,000 was received during the fiscal year, and the balance set up under "Other loans and investments" as "Balances receivable".

An estimated amount of $5.2 million is included as revenues received from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation representing the proceeds of the sale of wartime housing properties including depreciation provisions set aside in previous years by the corporation on properties that have now been sold. In addition, an estimated amount of $11.1 million for interest on loans to the corporation and $2.2 million representing profits in excess of the $5 million reserve established by the corporation was received. Both these amounts are credited to "Return on investments" in the current year. In 1952-53 profits of $2.1 million were credited to special receipts as shown in the table.

(5) COMPARISON OF ACTUAL REVENUE WITH BUDGET FORECAST

Total budgetary revenues for 1953-54, excluding revenue from the old age security taxes, as now estimated were about \$73 million less than the forecast made in the budget speech of February 19, 1953. This represents a shortfall of about  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. Revenues from personal income tax, corporation income tax and excise duties were less than expected, while revenues from customs import duties, sales tax and other excise taxes exceeded expectations.

The following table shows the extent to which actual revenues as now estimated differ from the budget forecast.

Total budgetary revenues	4,473.0	4,400.1	-72.9

The revenue from personal income tax was $61 million or nearly 5 per cent less than the budget forecast. The deficiency is due mainly to the fact that refunds of tax were considerably more than expected.

Corporation income tax collections are approximately $35 million less than the budget forecast which was based on the assumption that 1953 profits would be larger than in 1952. Preliminary indications are that 1953 profits did not reach the expected level.

Customs duties yielded approximately $13 million more than the budget forecast. This is attributed to record values of imports in the early months of the fiscal year.

Revenue from excise duties fell short of the budget forecast by about 14 per cent. This difference arises from a combination of causes of which the most important is the fact that the budget forecast was based on an estimate of receipts in 1952-53 which turned out to have been too high. In addition the use of malt did not increase in step with the increase in beer sales resulting in the revenue from this source falling below expectations. Finally the reduction in the excise duty revenue from tobacco products as a result of the reductions in the tax on cigarettes announced in the 1953 budget was greater than anticipated although this was partly offset by higher revenues from the excise tax on cigarettes.

Sales tax exceeded the budget forecast by about $12 million or 2 per cent. The strength of this revenue source in 1953-54 is indicative of the high level of consumer spending.

The excess of non-tax revenues over the budget forecast is attributable largely to the fact that revenues from return on investments were much larger than anticipated, reflecting the increased earnings of the Bank of Canada for the calendar year 1953, and the fact that profits of Canadian Arsenals Limited and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation which in 1952-53 were credited to "Special receipts and credits" were in 1953-54 included as "Return on investments".

While special receipts and credits are very difficult to estimate with any high degree of accuracy, the budget forecast of $75 million for 1953-54 appears to have been very close to the actual amount received.

National Defence and Defence Production

Canada's expenditures for defence comprise the expenditures of the Department of National Defence and the Department of Defence Production. Estimated expenditures of the Department of National Defence for the fiscal year 1953-54 were $1,839.7 million as compared with $1,882.4 million for 1952-53, a decrease of $42.7 million, while expenditures of the Department of Defence Production were $49.9 million, a decrease of $38.9 million. Consequently, the combined expenditures of the two departments amounting to $1,889.6 million for the year under review are $81.6 million less than the total of $1,971.2 million for 1952-53. Defence expenditures constituted approximately 43 per cent of all government expenditures in 1953-54, and were, by a considerable margin, the largest class of government expenditure.

The following table shows a comparative summary of expenditures for the two departments for the last two fiscal years:

Total expenditures for the army, navy and air services were $1,416.9 million for 1953-54 as compared with $1,544.4 million for 1952-53, a decrease of $127.5 million. Expenditures for defence research and development, at $43.8 million, were slightly more than for the preceding year.

The Government's contribution to the permanent services pension account, which is equivalent to  $1\frac{2}{3}$  times the contributions for permanent services personnel, was \$35.3 million for 1953-54, or \$5.3 million more than the amount contributed in 1952-53. Of the expenditures for 1953-54, \$30.6 million relates to current contributions and \$4.7 million to contributions for arrears. In 1952-53, the corresponding amounts were \$25.2 million and \$4.8 million, respectively.

Expenditures under the Mutual Aid programme which are authorized by Section 3 of the Defence Appropriation Act, 1950, are expected to amount to $309.2 million in 1953-54, an increase of $74.1 million over 1952-53. Under the provisions of this section of the Act, defence equipment and supplies are transferred from Canadian stocks to other parties to the North Atlantic Treaty. The value of equipment and supplies acquired by the services prior to March 31, 1950, and transferred as Mutual Aid, is charged to this appropriation and credited to a special defence equipment replacement account. The value of the equipment is based on its estimated replacement value. In accordance with the provisions of Vote 241 of the Appropriation Act, No. 3, 1953, where equipment and supplies acquired for the services since March 31, 1950, are transferred as Mutual Aid, their estimated replacement value is credited to the appropriate service allotment instead of being paid into the replacement account, and may be expended during the current fiscal year for the purposes of the Canadian forces. The expenditure of $309·2 million in 1953-54 consists of approximately $77·9 million for equipment and supplies transferred from Canadian stocks to North Atlantic Treaty countries and $231·3 million for direct cash outlays for Mutual Aid by the Government of Canada, representing costs incurred in acquiring and supplying new military equipment to parties to the North Atlantic Treaty and in the training in Canada of aircrews from allied countries. In 1952-53, stock transfers amounted to $55·5 million and direct aid to $179·6 million.

Contributions made by Canada towards the military costs of NATO are charged to the National Defence appropriations. These payments comprise Canada's share of the NATO military budgets and of infrastructure costs. The percentage share borne by each nation is established in the North Atlantic Council, subject to ratification by the respective governments. Expenditures during 1953-54 for this purpose were $12 million, as compared with $11.3 million for 1952-53.

Expenditures for the Department of Defence Production were $49.9 million for 1953-54, a decrease of $38.9 million from the total of $88.8 million for the previous year. Capital assistance to private contractors, Crown plants operated on a management fee basis, and Crown corporations undertaking contracts essential to the defence programme, totalled $39.5 million, as compared with $79.1 million for 1952-53. Administration and general expenditures of the Department were $10.4 million, an increase of $0.7 million over the previous fiscal year.

In addition to the foregoing budgetary expenditures, the Department of Defence Production has made cash outlays from the defence production revolving fund for the procurement of materials for use in the manufacture of defence equipment. For purposes of accounting and control, materials so acquired are treated as assets in the books of the Government until they are billed to the Department of National Defence or sold to defence contractors for use in the manufacture of defence equipment. It is estimated that the net cash position of the fund in 1953-54 was reduced by $17.1 million, as compared with a net increase of $19.7 million in 1952-53.

The replacement of equipment and supplies acquired by the Department of National Defence prior to March 31, 1950, and subsequently transferred to parties of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, also involved cash outlays which were not reflected as budgetary expenditures. The cost of such replacement is charged to the defence equipment replacement account, which is credited with the estimated value of the defence equipment and supplies, when these are transferred from Canadian stocks to NATO countries. Transfers to this account during 1953-54 were $77.9 million, and it is estimated that $36.5 million was disbursed for the purchase of replacement equipment and supplies. The balance of the account at March 31, 1953, was $271.1 million, and, as a result of the past year's operations, a total of $41.4 million has been added to this account, bringing it up to $312.5 million as of March 31, 1954.

In addition to the foregoing, there is provision under Section 11 of the National Defence Act for the sale of materiel not immediately required for the use of the Canadian forces or the Defence Research Board to such countries and upon such terms as the Governor in Council may determine. The proceeds of sale are credited to a special account to be used for the procurement of materiel. Credits to the replacement of materiel account in 1953-54 totalled $15.7 million, while $3.7 million was withdrawn therefrom.

The net effect of the defence programme upon the Canadian economy, is a combination of the net cash outlays from the defence equipment replacement account, the replacement of materiel account and the defence production revolving fund, together with the net cash budgetary expenditures of the Departments of National Defence and Defence Production. This net cash outlay for defence amounted to $1,819.1 million in 1953-54, a decrease of $86.7 million from the corresponding total in 1952-53.

The following table presents a summary of the cash disbursements for defence for the last two fiscal years:

Public Debt Charges

Public debt charges in 1953-54, as in 1952-53, constituted the second largest item of government expense. The total of $496.4 million for the year under review represented 11.3 per cent of total budgetary expenditures compared with a total of $464.9 million or 10.7 per cent in 1952-53.

Interest on the unmatured funded debt was $412.3 million compared with $393.1 million in 1952-53. All of this increase of $19.2 million is attributable to interest on debt payable in Canada. A substantial increase in the amount of Canada Savings Bonds outstanding and an increase of approximately 0.1 per cent in the average interest rate account for the greater part of the increase.

Interest on deposit and trust accounts is expected to show a small increase of $0.2 million over the previous year, while interest on insurance and pension accounts, estimated at $61.3 million, is $6 million higher than in 1952-53. Of this latter increase $2.4 million is in respect of government annuities, $1.4 million is on civil service superannuation account and $1.9 million on permanent services pension account.

Other public debt charges are estimated at $19.7 million, an increase of $6.1 million over 1952-53. The greater part of this increase is due to an increase in the annual amortization charge for discount and commissions on previous bond issues.

The following table presents a comparative summary of public debt charges for 1953-54 and the corresponding figures for the previous year.

Subsidies and Tax Rental Payments to Provinces

Payments to the provinces during 1953-54 for statutory subsidies, rentals under the tax rental agreements, the transitional grant to Newfoundland, and the transfer of certain public utility tax receipts, were $338.1 million compared with $338.7 million in 1952-53.

A comparative summary of the payments for the two years is given in the following table:

TABLE XI

Subsidies and Tax Rental Payments to Provinces for the Fiscal Years Ended March 31, 1954 and March 31, 1953.

The total paid as subsidies and tax rental payments in 1953-54 is almost exactly equal to that paid in 1952-53 despite the fact that tax rental payments in 1952-53 included the final quarterly instalment under the old 1947 agreements as well as a full year's rental payments under the 1952 agreements.

The payments under the 1952 tax rental agreements in 1953-54 were $24.4 million greater than in the previous year reflecting the increases in provincial populations and gross national product per capita in 1952 over the base year 1948.

Statutory subsidies in 1953-54 were unchanged from the previous year, both years' payments being based on the 1951 census totals of population.

The amount of public utility tax receipts transferred to the provinces is expected to be $0.4 million less than in the previous year. Section 7 of the Dominion-Provincial Tax Rental Agreements Act, 1947, authorized the payment to the provinces, whether participating in the agreements or not, of a portion of the income tax collected from corporations, whose main business was the distribution to, or the generation for distribution to, the public of electrical energy, gas or steam. Provision for similar payments was also made in the Tax Rental Agreements Act, 1952.

A summary of payments, by provinces during 1953-54 is given in the following table:

Government Contributions to the Civil Service Superannuation Account

It is estimated that $54.5 million will be charged to expenditures in 1953-54 in connection with the civil service superannuation account, an increase of $15.7 million compared with $38.8 million charged in 1952-53.

The government contributes in each fiscal year an amount equal to the estimated payments by individual contributors in the previous year in respect of current and prior service. The government's contribution for 1953-54 is estimated at $16.5 million compared with $13.8 million in 1952-53.

In addition, $38 million is included in the year's expenditures representing the amount required to cover the additional liability created by the general increase in civil service salaries effective December 1, 1953.

Provision for Reserve for Possible Losses on Ultimate Realization of Active Assets

An amount of $50 million is included as an expenditure in the government's accounts as an addition during the fiscal year 1953-54 to the general reserve for possible losses on the ultimate realization of active assets. It is intended, however, to write off $99.5 million, the amount of temporary loans made by the Minister of Finance to the old age security fund in 1952-53, against this reserve. This will leave the balance in the reserve at the end of the fiscal year at $496.4 million which is equivalent to 6.8 per cent of the aggregate active assets.

Family Allowances

Family allowances are payable in respect of all children under sixteen resident in Canada, with minor exceptions such as in the case of children of immigrants who have to reside in Canada a year before an allowance is payable. The monthly allowance is $5 if the child is less than six years of age; $6 in the age group 6 to 9; $7 in the age group 10 to 12; and $8 in the age group 13 to 15.

For 1953-54 family allowance payments are estimated at $350.1 million representing 8 per cent of the total expenditures compared with $334.2 million or 7.7 per cent for 1952-53. The increase of $15.9 million reflects the increase in the number of children.

The following table presents a comparative summary of family allowance payments by provinces for the last two fiscal years:

Unemployment Insurance Act Administration and Government's Contribution

Expenditures for 1953-54 in connection with the Unemployment Insurance Act (excluding the government's payment as an employer) are estimated at $58.2 million compared with $56.2 million in 1952-53, an increase of $2 million.

Unemployment insurance benefits are not charged directly to budgetary expenditures. The Unemployment Insurance Fund, from which such benefits are paid, is financed by contributions from employers and employees, by interest earned on investments, and by the government's contribution of an amount equal to one-fifth of the combined employer-employee payments.

For 1953-54, the government's contribution to the Fund is estimated at $31.9 million, an increase of $0.8 million over the total of $31.1 million in 1952-53. Administration costs are estimated at $26.3 million or $1.3 million more than the total of $25 million for the previous fiscal year.

Agriculture

The Department of Agriculture expenditures for 1953-54 are estimated at $109·3 million an increase of $2·6 million compared with expenditures of $106·7 million in 1952-53. The net increase of $2·6 million reflects an increase of $5·3 million in the operating losses of the Agricultural Prices Support Board, decreases of $3·7 million in freight assistance on western feed grains, and $1·5 million in premiums on hog carcasses and other smaller changes.

The following table presents a comparative summary of the expenditures of the department for the last two fiscal years:

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation

Expenditures by the Government of Canada in respect of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation are estimated at $24.8 million for the current fiscal year an increase of $16.6 million compared with expenditures of $8.2 million in 1952-53. As proposed in last year's budget the Canadian Broadcasting Act was amended to provide that the corporation in future would receive an amount equivalent to the collections on the 15 per cent special tax imposed on radio and television sets, tubes and accessories. For the current fiscal year, this amount is estimated at $16.5 million consisting of $11.5 million in respect of television and $5 million in respect of radio. Also, as announced in last year's budget speech, the Order in Council under the Radio Act setting the licence fee at $2.50 for private radio receiving sets was revoked as of April 1, 1953. Consequently, in 1953-54 only $0.3 million was collected and turned over to the corporation compared with $5.4 million in 1952-53. Collections in the latter period were derived mainly from private radio station broadcasting licences.

The following table presents a comparative summary of expenditures of the last two fiscal years:

In addition, a loan of $4.7 million was made to the Corporation in 1953-54 to cover the costs of television installations and to support the development of the service. This brings the total of loans to the Corporation to $16 million;

 $89380 - 4\frac{1}{2}$

$6.7 million of this amount is in respect of television. Interest at various rates is being paid semi-annually by the corporation to the government and is included in non-tax revenues under "Return on Investments".

Citizenship and Immigration

Expenditures of this department are estimated at $25.9 million for 1953-54, an increase of $2.3 million over the total of $23.6 million in 1952-53. The increase is almost wholly accounted for in the expenditures of the Indian Affairs Branch.

The following table presents a comparative summary of expenditures for 1953-54 and 1952-53:

External Affairs

Expenditures of the Department of External Affairs for 1953-54 are estimated at $45.4 million, an increase of $6.1 million over 1952-53. Assistance to other countries directly or through international organizations is estimated at $31.4 million, an increase of $4.8 million. The principal item in this category is an amount of $25 million provided under the Colombo Plan for grants to assist in the economic development of countries in South and South-East Asia. A similar amount was provided in 1952-53. The increase of $4.8 million in assistance to other countries is due chiefly to the provision for a gift of wheat as a contribution towards the relief of famine in Pakistan.

The table which follows presents a comparative summary of the expenditures of the department for the last two fiscal years:

Finance

The major items of expenditure of the Department of Finance have been dealt with under the headings "Public debt charges", "Subsidies and tax rental payments to provinces", "Provision for reserve for possible losses on the ultimate realization of active assets" and "Government contribution to the civil service superannuation account".

In addition, other expenditures of the department for 1953-54 were $30.3 million compared with $29.5 million in 1952-53.

Mines and Technical Surveys

Expenditures of the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys were $37.5 million for 1953-54 compared with expenditures of $29.7 million for 1952-53. The increase of $7.8 million is due mainly to increases of $3.3 million in payments under the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act and of $3.5 million in the expenditures of the Dominion Coal Board.

National Health and Welfare

Family allowance payments, because of their importance, have been dealt with in preceding paragraphs of the white paper. Other expenditures of the Department of National Health and Welfare are estimated at $80.5 million for 1953-54 compared with $72.4 million in 1952-53, an increase of $8.1 million.

Under the Old Age Assistance Act the federal government reimburses the provinces by paying 50 per cent of the lesser of $40 monthly or the amount of assistance given by the provinces in the form of monthly pensions to eligible persons in need who were in the age group of 65 to 69. (Under the Old Age Security Act, all persons 70 years and over who satisfy the residence requirements may receive a pension of $40 per month from the federal government out of the Old Age Security Fund). Similarly, under the Blind Persons Act, the federal government reimburses the provinces for allowances paid to eligible blind persons in need over the age of 21, but under this Act federal reimbursement is 75 per cent of the total payments.

Payments by the federal government in respect of old age assistance were $20.6 million for 1953-54 compared with $19.1 million for 1952-53. Payments on account of allowances to blind persons were $3 million for 1953-54, unchanged from 1952-53.

The distribution of these payments in 1953-54, by provinces, is given in the following table:

Other health services totalled $5.8 million, up $1.3 million from the previous fiscal year. Of this increase, $0.2 million was for immigration medical services, $0.7 million for laboratory of hygiene and $0.2 million for the administration of various Acts relating to health services.

Expenditures in connection with the civil defence programme were $3.3 million for 1953-54, an increase of $1.6 million.

Administration and general expenditures were $4 million, slightly more than the total of $3.9 million for 1952-53.

Expenditures of the National Research Council were $15.6 million in 1953-54 compared with $15.4 million in 1952-53. The expenditures of the Atomic Energy Control Board were $12.6 million for 1953-54, a decrease of $0.3 million from the previous fiscal year.

National Revenue

Expenditures of this department are estimated at $50.1 million in 1953-54 compared with $47.3 million in 1952-53. Of the increase of $2.8 million for the year, $1.5 million is in respect of the customs and excise division and $1.3 million on account of the taxation division.

The following table presents a comparative summary of the expenditures of the department for the last two fiscal years:

Northern Affairs and National Resources

The Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources was constituted in 1953-54 by an Act of Parliament which redefined the duties and functions of the former Department of Resources and Development to reflect the growing importance of Canada's northland. Expenditures under the Trans-Canada Highway Act, including administration and contributions to the provinces, and expenditures for housing, both included in 1952-53 under the Department of Resources and Development, have been transferred to the Department of Public Works and the expenditures for 1952-53 shown in the table which follows have been adjusted accordingly.

Expenditures for 1953-54 at $19.5 million were the same as those of 1952-53, a reduction of $1.3 million in the engineering and water resources branch being offset by the increase of $1.2 million in the forestry branch.

Post Office

Gross expenditures of the Post Office Department for 1953-54, including payments from revenue, are estimated at $132.3 million, an increase of $9.3 million over the total of $123 million for 1952-53. Remuneration of post-masters and staffs at revenue and semi-staff offices and commissions at sub-offices are paid from revenue. These payments, which are included in the total of $132.3 million for 1953-54, were $18.3 million compared with $17.4 million in 1952-53. Disbursements charged to budgetary expenditures are estimated at $114 million in 1953-54, an increase of $8.4 million over the previous fiscal year.

Public Works

Expenditures of the Department of Public Works are estimated at $114.5 million for 1953-54 an increase of $16.6 million over 1952-53.

The following table presents a comparative summary of expenditures for 1953-54 and 1952-53:

Of the increase of $8.6 million in the expenditures for the architectural branch, $2.8 million is due to increased costs for maintenance of public buildings and $5.7 million to increased outlay in the acquisition, construction and improvement of public buildings. Of the increase of $5.6 million in the expenditures of the engineering branch, $4.1 million is attributable to increased costs for the acquisition, construction and improvement of harbour and river works. Contributions to the provinces under the terms of the Trans-Canada Highway Act are estimated at $14.2 million, an increase of $0.2 million over 1952-53.

When the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources was established, expenditures in connection with housing and the administration of the Trans-Canada Highway Act were transferred to the Department of Public Works. To facilitate comparison the foregoing table has been adjusted to include these expenditures which in 1952-53 were shown under the former Department of Resources and Development.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Expenditures for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are estimated at $34 million for 1953-54 compared with $31·1 million in 1952-53. The increase of $2·9 million is due chiefly to an increase of $2·2 million in expenditures for land services of which $1·9 million is in respect of operation and maintenance costs, and $0·3 million for construction or acquisition of buildings. These amounts represent gross expenditures; payments received from the provinces for police services are credited to revenue.

The following table presents a comparative summary of expenditures for 1953-54 and 1952-53:

Estimated expenditures of $42.3 million for air services in 1953-54 represent. an increase of $3.3 million over 1952-53. Of this increase $1.2 million is attributable to the telecommunications division, $0.4 million to the meteorological division and $1.7 million to the civil aviation division. Expenditures for railway services are expected to show an increase of $10.3 million, of which $2.8 million relates to payments under the Railway Act to the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways for the maintenance of trackage on the railways' transcontinental lines in certain areas of Northern Ontario, $0.4 million for expenditures in connection with the Maritime Freight Rates Act and $7.1 million for other railway services (due mainly to increases of $3.4 million for transportation improvements and facilities with respect to the Strait of Canso and $4.5 million for construction or acquisition of auto ferry vessels). Payments covering net operating deficits of and non-active loans and advances to certain government owned enterprises are estimated at $8.7 million in 1953-54 an increase of $3.3 million compared with $5.4 million in 1952-53, due largely to an increase of $2.4 million in non-active loans and advances to the National Harbours Board.

Veterans Affairs

Expenditures for the Department of Veterans Affairs are estimated at $239.8 million for 1953-54 compared with the total of $241.4 million spent in 1952-53. The net decrease of $1.6 million is due primarily to decreases of $1.3 million in post-discharge rehabilitation benefits, $1.6 million in war service gratuities and re-establishment credits, and $1.2 million in departmental, district and pensions administration and miscellaneous payments, offset in part by increases of $2.1 million in expenditure for treatment services, $0.7 million in pensions for disability or death, and $0.6 million in the provision for the reserve for conditional benefits under the Soldier Settlement and Veterans Land Acts. Conditional grants are made to veterans who enter into agreements with the director for sales of land and chattels provided they fulfil the terms of the agreements for a period of ten years. The amount charged to expenditure in 1953-54 under this heading covers one-tenth of the conditional benefits included in sales to veterans prior to April 1954.

The following table presents a comparative summary of the expenditures for the past two fiscal years:

4. THE CASH POSITION

In addition to the collection of revenues and the making of expenditures in the strict budgetary sense the Government's financial operations include numerous extra-budgetary transactions which involve the receipt and disbursement of large sums of cash.

The estimated budgetary revenues, expenditures and surplus for 1953-54 have been described and analysed in some detail in the preceding sections. Although these budgetary transactions for 1953-54 resulted in a surplus of $10·1 million, the unmatured funded debt outstanding in the hands of the public decreased by $272·6 million, while the Government's cash balances increased by some $120·2 million. It is apparent that both budgetary and non-budgetary transactions must be taken into account when measuring the impact of the Government's fiscal operations upon the Canadian economy or considering the implications of Government spending and the methods by which that spending is financed.

The non-budgetary transactions relate to transactions which result in increases or decreases in the Government's assets and liabilities. They do not appear in the Government's income account nor do they enter into the calculation of the annual budgetary surplus or deficit.

On the assets side they consist, for the most part, of advances to, and repayments of loans by, Crown Corporations and other Government agencies and funds (including the old age security fund), foreign, provincial and municipal governments and other borrowers, investments in government securities and outlays for the acquisition of inventories of materials and supplies which will be used in the future and for services rendered in one year but applicable to the accounts of subsequent years.

On the liabilities side the transactions relate primarily to receipts and payments in connection with the numerous deposit and trust, and annuity, insurance and pension funds held or administered by the Government.

The following summary shows how these non-budgetary transactions together with the budgetary surplus affected the Government's funded debt and cash position in 1953-54. For purposes of comparison, the corresponding figures for 1952-53 are also shown:

As the table shows, in 1953-54 non-budgetary receipts and credits are estimated at $811.3 million, while non-budgetary disbursements and charges are estimated at $428.6 million, resulting in a net non-budgetary surplus of $382.7 million which, when added to the budgetary surplus of $10.1 million, made a total of $392.8 million available for debt reduction. In 1952-53, as there was a net non-budgetary deficit of $28.7 million and a budgetary surplus of $23.5 million, $5.2 million had to be financed by net new borrowing from the public.

Non-budgetary receipts and credits for 1953-54 are estimated at $811·3 million. Repayments of loans, investments and working capital advances totalled $445·6 million, due mainly to repayments of $163·8 million by Canadian National Railways, a reduction of $49·8 million in the advances to the agricultural prices support account, net repayments of $17·1 million in advances to the defence production revolving fund, net repayments of $15 million in advances to the exchange fund, a writing off against the general reserve of temporary loans of $99·5 million made to the old age security fund in 1952-53, and repayments of $92·6 million by the United Kingdom and other national governments. Other non-budgetary receipts and credits include $62·3 million on government annuities account, $138·8 million in respect of the several insurance and pension accounts, $18·1 million net increase in Colombo plan fund, $53·4 million representing increases in the defence equipment and materiel replacement accounts, and $93·1 million receipts from various other accounts.

Non-budgetary disbursements and charges during 1953-54 are expected to total $428.6 million. Loans, investments and working capital advances were $320.5 million. These include $145.7 million to Canadian National Railways for capital expenditures for additions and betterments and the acquisition of new rolling stock and equipment and for additional working capital (as mentioned in the preceding paragraph, during the year the Canadian National Railways also repaid loans aggregating $163.8 million); $92.5 million to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for housing construction and loans; $44.8 million in temporary loans to the old age security fund to finance the amount by which pension payments from the fund exceeded tax receipts; and $37.5 million for miscellaneous loans, investments and working capital advances (including $7.8 million for loans to veterans). Other non-budgetary disbursements and charges are estimated at $108.1 million, and include $10.3 million for discounts and commissions on loans, $47.9 million for the net decrease in the provincial 5 per cent corporation income tax suspense account $46.9 million of which was transferred to budgetary revenues during the year, a net decrease of $49.4 million in the reserve for possible losses on ultimate realization of active assets (the $50 million provided for this reserve in budgetary expenditures is more than offset by a reduction due to the charge to the reserve of the 1952-53 temporary loan of $99.5 million to the Old Age Security Fund), and $0.5 million disbursements from various other accounts.

With an overall cash surplus of $392.8 million in 1953-54, and unmatured funded debt outstanding in the hands of the public reduced by $272.6 million, there was an estimated increase of $120.2 million in cash balances at the end of the year.

The following table presents in summary form the estimated balances of the asset and liability accounts as at March 31, 1954, the comparable balances at March 31, 1953, and the estimated change in each category during 1953-54:

Liabilities

The aggregate liabilities of the Government as at March 31, 1954, are estimated at $17,975.8 million, an increase of $57.3 million over the total of $17,918.5 million at the close of the previous fiscal year.

Unmatured funded debt outstanding, including bonds and treasury bills totalled $14,569·5 million or approximately 81 per cent of all liabilities. Of the total outstanding unmatured funded debt, $14,181·6 million or 97·3 per cent is payable in Canada; the balance of $387·9 million is payable in foreign currencies—$337·6 million in United States dollars and $50·3 million in pounds sterling. A complete statement in tabular form of the Government's unmatured funded debt as at March 31, 1954, with details of interest rates, dates of maturity, annual interest charges and amounts of principal outstanding for each loan may be found at the end of this Part.

The Government's liability in respect of insurance, pension and guaranty accounts is expected to total $1,767.8 million at March 31, 1954. Floating debt, which includes outstanding cheques, matured funded debt and similar obligations payable on demand and accounts payable (cheques issued in April in payment of accounts relating to the fiscal year 1953-54) is estimated at $912.2 million.

The other liability items are: sundry suspense accounts (where some uncertainty as to disposal exists), $358.6 million; deposit and trust accounts (consisting of moneys deposited with or held by the Receiver General for various purposes), $205 million; deferred credits (consisting of balances whose ultimate accounting treatment is known, but which are held until certain conditions are fulfilled), $150.8 million and province debt accounts (representing settlements arising out of agreements at the time of Confederation), $11.9 million.

Active Assets

Offsetting the liabilities, and to some extent explaining their existence—as a substantial part of the total debt is attributable to them—are the Government's active assets. For the most part these consist of assets which yield interest, profits or dividends, liquid assets such as cash and departmental working funds together with certain prepaid expenses and sundry suspense accounts.

It is estimated that at the end of the fiscal year the total active assets amounted to $7,320.6 million, an increase of $18 million over the total at the end of the previous fiscal year. The totals of the principal active asset categories as at March 31, 1954 were: cash and other current assets, $2,539.9 million; loans to, and investments in, Crown agencies, $1,788.2 million; other loans and investments (including loans to provincial, municipal and national governments, subscriptions to international organizations and advances to veterans and others), $2,437.5 million; deferred charges, $260 million; sundry suspense accounts, $192 million; sinking fund and other investments held for the retirement of unmatured funded debt, $100.7 million; and province debt accounts, $2.3 million.

The reserve for possible losses on ultimate realization of active assets, which now stands at $496.4 million is shown on the statement of assets and liabilities as a deduction from the total active assets, bringing the net active asset total to $6,824.2 million.

A. CHANGES IN PRINCIPAL LIABILITY CLASSIFICATIONS DURING 1953-54

The gross liabilities of the Government at March 31, 1954, were $57.3 million more than the total at the end of the previous fiscal year. A decrease of $241 million in unmatured funded debt is more than offset by an overall increase of $298.3 million for all other liability items, due largely to the increase of $200.7 million in insurance, pension and guaranty accounts. Other increases are: $48.3 million in floating debt, $21.9 million in deposit and trust accounts, $20.8 million in deferred credits and $6.6 million in sundry suspense accounts.

Floating Debt

It is estimated that floating debt increased by $48.3 million during the fiscal year. Increases of $39.5 million in matured funded debt outstanding (due for the most part to the fact that some bonds of the March 1, 1954 maturity had not been redeemed at the year end), $11.6 million in outstanding cheques and warrants and $11.4 million in miscellaneous accounts payable are offset, in part, by decreases of $13.5 million in notes and other obligations payable on demand and $1.1 million in interest due and outstanding.

The estimated changes in floating debt during 1953-54 are shown in the following table:

Deposit and Trust Accounts

Deposit and trust accounts increased by $21.9 million during the fiscal year. The principal increase was $18.1 million in the Colombo Plan Fund to which was credited $30.4 million voted by Parliament to provide for assistance to countries in South and South-east Asia. Disbursements from the fund during 1953-54 amounted to $12.3 million.

Insurance, Pension and Guaranty Accounts

The increase in insurance, pension and guaranty accounts is estimated to be $200 · 7 million. The following table shows the changes in the various accounts for the fiscal year 1953-54:

TABLE XXXIII

Insurance, Pension and Guaranty Accounts as at March 31, 1954 and March 31, 1953

(In millions of dollars)

	Balance at March 31		-

	1,767.8	1,567.1	200-7

The superannuation account increased by $104 million during the fiscal year. This increase is attributable to several factors, the most important of which are the Government's contribution of $38 million in respect of the additional liability created by the general salary increases to civil servants effective December 1, 1953; transfers of $22.5 million from the retirement fund, and $5.6 million from the National Harbours Board Pension Fund due to the coming into force of the Public Service Superannuation Act on January 1, 1954; the Government's contribution of $16.5 million equal to the estimated current and prior service payments of individuals in 1952-53; interest of $22 · 2 million credited to the account; and the employees' current and prior service contributions, less payments from the fund.

The Government annuities account is expected to show an increase of $62·3 million and the permanent services pension account an increase of $55·4 million. The increase in the permanent services pension account represents the Government's contribution of $35·3 million (which is made at the rate of one and two thirds times the current contributions and contributions for arrears), interest on the account amouting to $6·6 million and contributions by permanent services personnel for current service and arrears, less the payments from the account.

Other insurance, pension and guaranty accounts show a decrease of $21 million, which included the decrease of $22.5 million in retirement fund transferred to the superannuation account.

Old Age Security Fund

Under the Old Age Security Act pensions of $40 per month are paid to all eligible persons seventy years of age or over without a means test from the old age security fund. During the fiscal year payments from the fund totalled $338.8 million and credits to the fund from the proceeds of the 2 per cent tax on personal incomes, the 2 per cent tax on corporation profits and the 2 per cent sales tax totalled $294 million. The deficit of $44.8 million resulting from these 1953-54 transactions was covered by a temporary loan from the Minister of Finance under the authority of section 11 of the Old Age Security Act.

During the three months' period in the fiscal year 1951-52 in which the Act was in operation, payments of pension from the fund amounted to $76·1 million, receipts from taxes credited to the fund amounted to $26·4 million and the deficit of $49·7 million on the year's transactions was covered by moneys voted by Parliament in Vote 608 of Appropriation Act No. 2, 1952.

In 1952-53, payments of pension from the fund amounted to $323·1 million and receipts from old age security taxes amounted to $223·6 million, and the deficit of $99·5 million for the year was covered by a temporary loan from the Minister of Finance. A large part of the 1952-53 deficit was because the special 2 per cent personal and corporate income taxes only started to be fully payable to the fund in July 1952. The authority of Parliament will be sought to write this amount off in 1953-54 to the reserve for possible losses on ultimate realization of active assets.

With the deficit of the old age security fund for 1951-52 covered by funds voted by Parliament and that for 1952-53 written off to the reserve for active assets, the balance of the temporary loan to the old age security fund at the close of the fiscal year is estimated at $44.8 million, representing the deficit on the fund's operations in 1953-54.

The following table gives a summary of the transactions in the account for the last three years:

Deferred Credits

The increase in deferred credits is estimated to be $20.8 million. Interest accrued on public debt shows an increase of $12.2 million and balances receivable under agreements of sale of Crown assets, set up as a contra account to an account under the same name in other loans and investments, an increase of $8.7 million.

Sundry Suspense Accounts

Sundry suspense accounts show an increase of $6.6 million for the fiscal year. The transactions in the defence equipment replacement account reflect an increase of $41.4 million in the undisbursed balance of the credits in the account which was established under section 3 of the Defence Appropriation Act, 1950, and subsequent votes of Parliament for the same purpose. Under the terms of the Defence Appropriation Act, 1950, the value of defence materials and supplies transferred to members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization may be credited to the account and these credits may be used in subsequent years to purchase equipment or supplies for the naval, army or air services of the Canadian Forces.

The replacement of materiel account established by section 11 of the National Defence Act is credited with amounts realized from the sale of materiel that has not been declared surplus to requirements but has been authorized by the Governor in Council to be sold to other countries and debited with disbursements representing amounts paid for the procurement of replacement materiel. The increase in the account during the fiscal year was $12 million.

Also recorded under this heading was the amount held by the Government in respect of collections of the 5 per cent corporation income tax levied by the provinces that were party to a tax agreement with the Federal Government in the period 1947 to 1951. Under terms of collection agreements with the provinces, this tax was collected by the Federal Government and the proceeds thereof, when returns were finally assessed, were turned over to the provinces. The amount turned over to the provinces, (less any small amounts which represented collection of interest and penalties) was deducted from the stipulated tax rental payments and thus reduced the Federal expenditures shown on this account.

This arrangement was not continued under the new tax agreements signed for a further five years in 1952 and the provincial corporation income tax was not levied on profits earned after December 31, 1951. However, substantial amounts were collected after 1951 in respect of tax liability incurred during the five years when the tax was in force and towards the end of 1952-53 the account contained approximately $92 million. Prior to 1952-53 amounts in this account, when turned over to the provinces, served to reduce Federal Government expenditures on account of tax rental payments but under the new agreements signed in 1952 the provinces gave up all rights in these collections remaining in the Suspense Account. Accordingly the amount in the account instead of being applied to the reduction of tax rental payments is to be taken into revenue. At the end of 1952-53 the amount of $45 million was transferred from the account to revenue as "Special receipts and credits". As the assessments for the taxation years 1947 to 1951 are now almost all completed, the balance of $46.9 million remaining in the account at the end of 1953-54 has been transferred to revenue as "Special receipts and credits" and the account closed out.

Province Debt Accounts

There were no changes in the province debt accounts during the fiscal year. The amounts have remained unchanged for many years.

Funded Debt Unmatured

The unmatured funded debt outstanding at the close of the fiscal year was $14,569 · 5 million. The reduction of $241 million reflects decreases of $234 · 3 million in debt payable in Canada, $2 · 6 million in the Canadian dollar equivalent of debt payable in London and $4 · 1 million in the Canadian dollar equivalent of debt payable in New York. The details of the various loan redemptions, flotations and adjustments resulting in this net decrease are described more fully in the section on "The Public Debt".

B.—Changes in the Principal Active Asset Classifications During 1953-54

It is estimated that the total of the active assets increased $18 million during 1953-54. However, the reserve for possible losses on ultimate realization of active assets was reduced by $49.5 million during the year, an additional provision of $50 million for the reserve being offset by a charge of $99.5 million, representing the amount of temporary loans made to the old age security fund in 1952-53, written off to the reserve in 1953-54. These changes have the effect of increasing the total of net active assets by $67.4 million. Increases of $83 million in loans to, and investments in, Crown agencies, $73.1 million in sinking fund and other investments held for the retirement of debt and $10.3 million in deferred charges are offset, in part, by decreases of $88.6 million in other loans and investments, $51.9 million in cash and other current assets and $7.9 million in sundry suspense accounts.

Cash and Other Current Assets

It is estimated that there was a decrease of $51.9 million in cash and other current assets in the fiscal year 1953-54. The changes in the various accounts in this category are summarized in the following table:

TABLE XXXVI

Other current assets.	29.5	30.5	-1.0
	2,539.9	2.591.8	-51.9

The principal changes as shown in the table are increases of $120.5 million in cash in current and special deposits and $8 million in miscellaneous departmental imprest and advance accounts offset by an overall decrease of $180.4 million for all other asset items, the chief of which are: temporary loan to the old age security fund $54.7 million, departmental working capital advances $49.1 million, securities investment account $41.5 million, defence production revolving fund $17.1 million, cash in hands of collectors and in transit, $9.7 million and the exchange fund account $7 million.

Advances to the exchange fund during the year are estimated at $140 million, and repayments $155 million leaving a net decrease in advances for the year of $15 million which was reduced by $8 million reflecting the decrease during 1953 in the fund's revaluation deficit which at December 31, 1953, was $191.2 million compared with $199.2 million at end of the preceding year thus showing a net change of $7 million in the balance of the fund for the fiscal year.

The decrease of $66.2 million in departmental working capital advances is accounted for by decreases of $17.1 million in defence production revolving fund and $49.8 million in agricultural prices support account, reflecting the credit to the account of $37.8 million representing the estimated loss on operation for 1953-54, which is included in the year's expenditures and $12 million, the net credit to the account from sales and purchases during the year by the Agricultural Prices Support Board.

It is proposed that the amount of $99.5 million, the advances to the old age security fund representing the deficit of the fund for 1952-53, will be written off to the reserve for possible losses on ultimate realization of active assets and credited to the temporary loan to the old age security fund. The credit of $99.5 million less the advances of $44.8 million to the fund to cover the estimated deficit of the fund for 1953-54 will result in a credit in the temporary loan to the old age security fund for the year of $54.7 million.

Loans to, and Investments in, Crown Agencies

It is estimated that loans to, and investments in, Crown agencies increased by $83 million during the fiscal year. The more important changes are an increase of $92.5 million in loans to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and a decrease of $18.1 million in the loans and advances to the Canadian National Railways. The following table shows the changes in this category.

Loans to Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for the fiscal year were $101 million, of which $89 million is for lending purposes, $2 million for construction and $10 million for federal-provincial housing projects. Repayments of $8.5 million bring the net increase in advances for the year to $92.5 million.

In the fiscal year ended March 31, 1954, the Government advanced \$121 million to the Canadian National Railway Company for capital purposes, the retirement of funded debt in the hands of the public and to cover the operating deficit of the Company for the first three months of 1954. From the proceeds of a \$200 million twenty year  $3\frac{3}{4}\%$  bond issue sold to the public early in 1954, the Company repaid the Government \$147.8 million of advances for capital purposes. In addition, it repaid a temporary loan of \$16 million obtained during the early part of the calendar year, 1953, when the operations of the Railway were resulting temporarily in a deficit. As a consequence of all these transactions the advances to the Company were reduced by \$38.8 million during the fiscal year.

In addition, the Government purchased $20.7 million of 4 per cent preferred stock of the Canadian National Railway Company in order to assist the Company to finance additional capital expenditures. This stock is issued under the authority of the Canadian National Railways Capital Revision Act, 1952, in an amount equal to three per cent of the gross revenues of the Company.

The advances to the National Harbours Board were reduced by $0.8 million during 1953-54, bringing the amount outstanding to $106 million at the close of the year. The balance represents all the outstanding advances in connection with harbour developments at Montreal and Vancouver, and a portion of those in respect of Three Rivers.

Polymer Corporation Limited, a Crown corporation engaged in the manufacture of synthetic rubber, reduced its indebtedness during the year by $3 million.

Advances to the Canadian Farm Loan Board were $32.6 million at the fiscal year-end, an increase of $3.7 million over the total at March 31, 1953.

Other increases in loans to, and investments in, Crown agencies were $6.8 million for Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, and $4.7 million for Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Other Loans and Investments

It is estimated that other loans and investments decreased by $88.6 million during the fiscal year. The following table shows the main accounts in this category together with the changes during the fiscal year:

The loans to the United Kingdom and other governments consist of loans to the Government of the United Kingdom under the authority of The War Appropriation (United Kingdom Financing) Act, 1942, and the United Kingdom Financial Agreement Act, 1946, loans to other governments under Part II of the Export Credits Insurance Act and miscellaneous foreign loans. The following table shows the changes in this category during the fiscal year:

Under the terms of an agreement entered into on August 13, 1953, between the Governments of the United Kingdom and Canada, the Government of the United Kingdom agreed to reduce the unpaid balance of the $700 million interest-free loan granted under the provisions of the War Appropriation (United Kingdom Financing) Act, 1942, which then amounted to $188.6 million, to $150 million and to repay the balance by quarterly instalments of $7.5 million payable on March 1, June 1, September 1 and December 1 in each year, the first instalment to be paid on March 1, 1954, and the final instalment on December 1, 1958. Under the agreement the loan is to continue to be free of interest until December, 1958.

During the fiscal year 1953-54, the Government of the United Kingdom repaid $53.6 million of this loan reducing the balance outstanding at March 31, 1954 to $142.5 million.

In addition, the Government of the United Kingdom repaid $14.6 million on account of the $1,185 million loan made under the United Kingdom Financial Agreement Act, 1946, reducing the balance outstanding at the fiscal year end to $1,142.1 million.

Outstanding advances made under authority of Part II of the Export Credits Insurance Act are estimated at $440.8 million, at March 31, 1954, a decrease of $19.4 million for the fiscal year. Advances under this Act represent loans made to certain foreign countries to assist them in purchasing goods and services in Canada. Miscellaneous advances to national governments show a decrease of $5 million, of which $3.6 million is due to the repayment by the Government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics of advances made under authority of section 3 of the War Expenditure and Demobilization Appropriation Act, chap. 37, 1945 (2nd Sess.).

A summary of the outstanding advances under Part II of the Export Credits Insurance Act is given in the following table:

TABLE XL

Advances to Foreign Governments Under Part II of the Export Credits Insurance Act (In millions of dollars)

Netherlands	110.2	4·6 2·6	105·6 15·8

All payments falling due during the fiscal year 1953-54 have been received in accordance with the agreements entered into by the Governments of the various countries and the Government of Canada with the exception of payments owing by the Governments of China and Czechoslovakia.

Miscellaneous loans and investments increased by an estimated $8.5 million during the year. Included in this category are the balances receivable under agreements of sale of Crown assets which show an estimated increase of $8.1 million, of which $8.0 million is the balance due by A. V. Roe Canada Limited from a sale to that Company of Crown assets. (A contra account to these balances receivable under agreements of sale of Crown assets is included in deferred credits).

Sinking Fund and Other Investments held for the Retirement of Unmatured Funded Debt

There was an increase of $73.1 million in these assets during the fiscal year, due mainly to the purchase of $75 million 3 per cent Government of Canada New York Loan 1948-63 bonds having a value in Canadian dollars of $72.7 million.

Deferred Charges

Deferred charges increased by $10·3 million during the fiscal year, reflecting a net increase of $10·3 million in unamortized discounts and commissions on loans, due to the payment of $29·5 million for discounts and commissions on new loans offset by the annual amortization charges of $19·2 million on past loans applicable to and included in the expenditure for 1953-54.

Sundry Suspense Accounts

The decrease of $7.9 million in sundry suspense accounts is due to the fact that the deficit arising from the exchange revaluations in respect of the assets and liabilities of the exchange fund account was $191.2 million at December 31, 1953, compared with $199.2 million at the close of the previous year.

Reserve for Possible Losses on Ultimate Realization of Active Assets

The sum of $50 million was added to the reserve for possible losses on the ultimate realization of active assets with a corresponding amount shown as an expenditure during the year and $99.5 million was written off the reserve in respect of the temporary loan to the old age security fund in 1952-53 resulting in a decrease of $49.5 million in the account for the year. The balance of the reserve as at March 31, 1954, is estimated at $496.4 million.

C. DECREASE IN NET DEBT

The estimated surplus of $10·1 million for the fiscal year resulted in a corresponding decrease in the net debt of Canada, reducing it from $11,161·7 million at March 31, 1953, to $11,151·6 million at March 31, 1954.

6. THE PUBLIC DEBT

Gross and Net Debt

The unmatured funded debt of Canada decreased by $241 million during the fiscal year but this decrease was more than offset by an increase of $298.3 million in other liabilities—principally in insurance, pension and guaranty, floating debt, sundry suspense and deposit and trust accounts—with the result that the gross public debt of Canada increased by $57.3 million from $17,918.5 million at March 31, 1953, to an estimated total of $17,975.8 million at March 31, 1954. During the same period the net active assets increased by $67.4 million with the result that the net debt—which is the gross debt less the active or revenue producing assets—was reduced by $10.1 million.

The following table shows the relationship between the gross public debt, the unmatured funded debt and the net debt as at March 31, 1947, to March 31, 1954, inclusive, together with the amount of decrease in net debt.

Unmatured Funded Debt

It is estimated that the unmatured funded debt of Canada totalled $14,569.5 million at March 31, 1954. This is $241 million less than at the close of the previous fiscal year, and $1,972.4 million less than at March 31, 1947. Interest charges on the unmatured funded debt amounted to $412.3 million in 1953-54, a decrease of approximately 7 per cent from the total of $444.1 million in 1946-47. However, as the gross national product rose from $12,026 million in 1946 to $24,260 million in 1953 an increase of over 100 per cent, the relative burden of the funded debt, measured in terms of interest charges as a percentage of the gross national product, actually decreased from 3.7 per cent in 1946-47 to 1.7 per cent in 1953-54.

Summary of Security Issues and Redemptions during the year

During the fiscal year 1953-54 the Government issued securities payable in Canadian dollars in the principal amount of $3,150 million (excluding the refunding of treasury bills which mature periodically) and redeemed maturity issues in the amount of $3,386·1 million of which $3,384·3 million was payable in Canadian dollars and $1.8 million in sterling.

The financing of these redemptions was effected as follows:

As a result of these transactions the net decrease in funded debt is estimated at $236.1 million.

The Canadian dollar value of the Government's unmatured external funded debt is estimated to have decreased by $6.7 million during the fiscal year. Of this amount $4.1 million is in respect of indebtedness payable in United States dollars and $2.6 million in respect of sterling debt. Apart from the redemption of $1.8 million of 4% Registered Stock payable in sterling referred to above, the reduction resulted from revaluation of liabilities payable in sterling and United States dollars consequent upon the change in the exchange rates as compared with the previous fiscal year end.

As unmatured funded debt payable in Canada decreased by $234.3 million and as debt payable in sterling and United States dollars decreased by $6.7 million, the net decrease during the year in unmatured funded debt was $241 million.

Average interest rates on unmatured funded debt

The average coupon rate of the Government's outstanding funded debt at the close of the fiscal year was 2.86 per cent compared with 2.77 per cent at the close of the previous fiscal year.

Further details of redemptions and new issues of securities during the fiscal year are set out in the following tables:

Contingent Liabilities

In addition to the direct debt set out in the statement of assets and liabilities, the Government has certain contingent liabilities. These consist of securities issued by various Government owned enterprises (such as the Canadian National Railways, the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships, Limited, and the Saint John Harbour Commission), guaranteed as to principal and interest or as to interest only, and a number of other miscellaneous guarantees, the chief of which are the guarantee of deposits maintained by the chartered banks in the Bank of Canada and of bank advances to the Canadian Wheat Board; the guarantees of certain loans made by chartered banks to veterans or farmers for certain authorized purposes; guarantees under The Export Credits Insurance Act and certain commitments under the housing legislation.

The following tables give details of the bonds and debenture stocks guaranteed by the Government, and also indicate the nature and approximate extent of the Government's other guarantees and contingent liabilities. The most significant change during the fiscal year was the sale of $200,000,000 3\frac{3}{4}$ per cent guaranteed bonds of the Canadian National Railway Company. The proceeds were applied to the redemption of $50,0000,00 5 per cent Bonds due February 1, 1954 and to the repayment of interest-bearing capital advances from the Government of Canada.

VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, WEDNESDAY, 7th APRIL, 1954

PRAYERS.

Mr. Cavers, from the Sessional Committee on Railways and Shipping owned, operated and controlled by the Government, presented the Third Report of the said Committee, as follows:

Pursuant to the Orders of Reference of the House of March 22nd, 24th, 26th and 29th, 1954, this Committee had before it for consideration the following:

- 1. The Annual Reports of the Canadian National Railways, the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships, Limited, for 1953, and the Auditors' Report to Parliament in respect thereto.
- 2. The Annual Report of the Trans-Canada Air Lines for the calendar year 1953, and the Auditors' Report to Parliament in respect thereto.
- 3. The Annual Report of the Canadian National Railways Securities Trust for 1953.
- 4. The Capital budgets of the Canadian National Railways, the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships, Limited, for the year ending 1954, and the operating budget and capital budget of the Trans-Canada Air Lines for the calendar year 1954.

Your Committee held nine meetings, during which the above-named reports and budgets and certain matters related thereto were considered and evidence adduced thereon.

The Annual Report of the Canadian National Railways for 1953 discloses a net income available for interest and dividends of $28,331,343 as compared with $24,305,448 in 1952. Interest charges in 1953 amounted to $28,087,326 as compared to $24,163,121 bringing about a surplus of $244,017 as compared to $142,327 in 1952. The said Annual Report was adopted.

Your Committee showed considerable interest in The Montreal Terminal project introduced in the Report. Plans are being made to erect a 20 storey hotel as the next stage of the terminal program. Plans for later development include the erection of a Railway office building, and eventually it is expected that in the Central Station Area which is in the heart of Montreal there will arise a great civic development. The Committee expresses the opinion that this new venture will satisfy a public need and will be profitable to Canadian National Railways as a whole.

The modern ice-breaking ferry "William Carson" was launched in November and the Committee was informed that it will be commissioned and in service between North Sydney and Port Aux Basques during the summer of 1954. The Ferry that is to be operated by the Canadian National Railways between Yarmouth, N.S., and Bar Harbour, Maine, will be a decided convenience and should result in additional summer visitors to the Maritime Provinces.

The Annual Report of Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited, for 1953, discloses a net operating loss of $822,446, as compared with a net operating profit of $326,276 in 1952. This result was mainly due to a decline in volume of freight, intense competition from other Lines and to the cancellation of six voyages as a consequence of a strike by employees between September 28th and October 23rd. The Committee was informed that the operating results of this Company will be kept under review. The said Annual Report was adopted.

The Annual Report of Trans-Canada Air Lines for 1953 discloses a net operating revenue of $1,322,120 and that after payment of interest amounting to $765,890 on capital invested and making provision for income tax of $300,000 there is a resulting surplus of $226,230 as compared with a surplus of $807,879 in the year 1952. The Committee viewed and were accorded a short air trip in the new "Super Constellation" which has adequate accommodation for 63 passengers and will be used on the Trans-Atlantic service. The Super Constellation fleet will commence operation on the North Atlantic by midsummer.

Deliveries of Vickers Viscounts powered by Rolls-Royce Dart engines of the turbine-propeller type will begin late this year. These aircraft will enter domestic service in 1955. The said Annual Report was adopted.

The Auditors Report to Parliament with respect to the Canadian National Railways, the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships Limited, and the Trans-Canada Air Lines as well as the Annual Report of the Canadian National Securities Trust for the calendar year 1953, were severally considered and adopted.

The Financial Budgets of the Canadian National Railways System, the Canadian National (West Indies) Steamships, Limited, and the Trans-Canada Air Lines, for the calendar year 1954 were examined and adopted.

The items of the Estimates for the year ending March 31, 1955, being votes 465, 469, 474 and 475, were considered and approved.

The task of your Committee was greatly facilitated by the valuable assistance of Mr. Donald Gordon, C.M.G., LL.D., Mr. S. F. Dingle, Mr. R. D. Armstrong, Mr. G. R. McGregor, Mr. W. S. Harvey, Mr. Turville and Mr. Morison.

A copy of the evidence adduced in respect of the matters referred is appended hereto.

(The Evidence, etc., accompanying said Report, recorded as Appendix No. 4 to the Journals)

Mr. Abbott, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, laid before the House, —Copy of the Report of the Superintendent of Insurance for 1952, (Volume I, Insurance Companies other than Life), pursuant to Section 9, Chapter 70, R.S.C., 1952.

PRESS RELEASE

DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

OTTAWA, CANADA

For Release at 2:30 p.m., E.S.T., THURSDAY, April 8, 1954.

Following is the text of a joint announcement by the Governments of Canada and the United States, which is being issued simultaneously in Ottawa and Washington at 2:30 P.M. EST, Thursday, April 8:

Because of the possibility of aggressive air attacks against North America, the Canadian and United States Governments after the Second World War continued the cooperative arrangements for the defence of North America which had been brought into effect during the war. Since that time, there have been established in both countries fully manned radar screens for the detection of a potential enemy, and installations for interceptor aircraft and anti-aircraft weapons. At all stages, planning has been carried on between the two countries on a joint basis. Consultations and cooperation at all levels have been constant and completely satisfactory.

For some time now, the Canadian and United States Governments have been appraising the air defence system to define the steps required to strengthen our defences in the light of recent advances in the destructive capabilities of atomic weapons against targets in our two countries.

For the past four years, work has been going on at high priority on the construction of a large and costly radar chain which is required not only to detect enemy bombers but also to control fighter aircraft engaged in the task of interception. This radar chain is known as the Pinetree Chain.

Long before the Pinetree project was approaching completion, the military planners of the two countries were engaged in an intensive study of what further steps might be desirable and practicable. In October 1953, a team of military and scientific advisers representing both countries recommended that additional early warning should be provided by the establishment of a further radar system generally to the north of the settled territory in Canada. The report of this team was considered by the Chiefs of Staff of each country later that month. At a meeting in Washington in November 1953, the Canadian representatives informed the United States authorities that the Canadian Government was prepared to proceed immediately with the necessary surveys and siting for the proposed new early warning radar system. This work is already well advanced.

There are many difficult problems to be solved in establishing this additional early warning system in the Canadian north. The system will extend over thousands of miles and its survey will involve the examination of a great number of possible sites. Much of the ground is inaccessible except by tractor train and helicopter. In many areas, extreme temperatures are confronted for several months of the year. Many technical problems, including the interference of the auroral belt with electronic devices, have had to be overcome. In overcoming the various technical problems involved the United States Air Force is working closely with the Royal Canadian Air Force.

It is obviously just as important to have early warning of aircraft approaching target areas in North America from over the sea as from over Northern Canada. For this reason, the United States Government is extending the early warning barrier across the north-eastern and north-western seaward approaches to North America. The Alaska radar system is co-ordinated with those in Canada and the continental United States, and the development of airborne radar is well advanced.

In addition to these measures of common concern, both countries are working continuously to improve the air defence installations in the vicinity of the major target areas. Here too, cooperation between the United States and Canadian air defence commanders is close, and unidentified aircraft are investigated by the most immediately available interceptor force, whether Canadian or American.

The defence of North America is part of the defence of the North Atlantic region to which both Canada and the United States are pledged as signatories of the North Atlantic Treaty. Thus, the cooperative arrangements for the defence of this continent and for the participation of Canadian and United States forces in the defence of Europe are simply two sides of the same coin, two parts of a world-wide objective, to preserve peace and to defend freedom.

And a Debate arising thereon;

STATEMENT BY MR. SPEAKER

Mr. Speaker: What is before the house at this moment is a motion to set up a committee. It is true that the resolution states:

... and such other legislation relating to veterans affairs as may be referred from time to time to the said committee;

But that does not justify the honourable Member in wandering all over the various acts which are now in existence and which form part of the veterans charter. At the moment at which the honourable Member was speaking about some benefits paid under the act and some improvements which, in his opinion, could be brought about, I was reading page 165 of the book by Campion "An Introduction to the Procedure of the House of Commons" where, for example, it states, dealing with relevancy:

"Where the business before the house is a motion to provide machinery, it is not in order to discuss the merits of the policy which it is sought to put into operation. For instance, on a motion to make a sessional order a standing order it has been held that the order itself is not open to debate . . . ."

There are other citations, of course, which I could quote at this moment, but whereas it is the sense of the house to have as generous latitude as possible on this question of veterans affairs, I want honourable Members to know, so that this discussion may not be taken as a precedent in future discussions where the question of relevancy is involved, that they should keep in mind as much as possible that what is contemplated by this resolution is not all statutes which have been passed and which could be referred to that committee if bills amending them were being introduced through this house, but merely the two bills mentioned in the resolution and only a passing reference to all such other legislation which may be referred to the committee at a future date is now allowed. However, let us keep this in mind. It is not the merits or demerits of the improvement of various acts which are now in existence which is contemplated in this resolution; it is the desirability of appointing a committee.

Honourable Members should not go into details with respect to the two bills which are now being referred to the committee in this resolution. These two amending bills were introduced through the proper channels, namely on resolutions, then later first reading and second reading. The principle has been debated and after second reading, in accordance with the provisions of Standing Order 50, they were referred to a special committee to be appointed later. We are now discussing the terms of reference of the committee, and these two bills, namely the War Service Grants Act and a bill respecting benefits for members of the Canadian forces are now referred to this committee. Honourable Members should not go into the provisions of those two bills. By the same token, while they may argue that the terms of reference should be widened, they should not go into the provisions of the bills which they would like to see covered by the terms of this resolution.

There is, however, one point that I should like the honourable Member to examine carefully. Let us examine what is meant by "such other legislation relating to veterans affairs". What is meant by that phrase? It does not mean such other statutes as are now in existence. What is meant by that phrase is such other amending bills as may be introduced in the same manner as that in which were introduced the two bills mentioned in this resolution. They are the ones that are contemplated by those words "such other legislation relating to veterans affairs". If they are introduced by the government, the discussion which is now taking place about them may be completely superfluous. That is a point that I should like the honourable Member to consider because, as he knows, if it were existing statutes such as the War Veterans Allowance Act which were contemplated by "such other legislation", the terms of reference would not read as they do now. The terms of reference would be "to consider such appropriate amendments to be made to the War Veterans Allowance Act". What is contemplated by "such other legislation" is a bill. As honourable Members know,

The most important functions of a parliamentary body may be stated as—

I am now quoting from "An Introduction to the Procedure of the House of Commons" by G. F. M. Campion, at page 6. To continue:

-(1) power to express an opinion on executive action, (2) legislative power, . . .

Then further down the paragraph we find the following:

. . . For these differing powers those different forms of procedure were evolved: for the first,—

That is power to express an opinion on executive action.

—the motion; for legislation, the bill; . . .

Then what is a bill? a definition will be found at page 84.

A bill is a draft of a legislative proposal which, when it has been passed by both houses and received the Royal Assent, will become an act of parliament or statute. The first division of bills is into public bills and private bills, the former dealing with public general interests and the latter with local or personal interests (see chapters VI and IX).

In the class of public bills the important distinction for our present purpose is between a government bill and a private members bill, the former being introduced and piloted through the house by a member of the government and the latter by a private or (more technically) unofficial member.

What is contemplated by "such other legislation" is government bills which may be introduced in the future.

And Debate continuing on the main motion:—That a special committee consisting of 31 members, to be designated by the House at a later date, be appointed to consider the Bill to amend the War Service Grants Act and the Bill respecting Benefits for Members of the Canadian Forces, and such other legislation relating to Veterans Affairs as may be referred from time to time to the said committee; that the said committee shall have power to send for persons, papers and records, to print from day to day its minutes of proceedings and evidence, to sit while the House is sitting and to report from time to time; that the quorum of the said committee shall consist of ten members; and that the provisions of Standing Orders 64 and 65 be suspended in relation thereto.

Mr. Brooks, seconded by Mr. Green, moved in amendment thereto: That the motion be amended by inserting after the ward "consider" in the third line thereof the words "the War Veterans Allowance Act".

RULING OF MR. SPEAKER

Mr. Speaker: Consistently since 1939 at least my predecessors have ruled out of order all amendments designed to give a committee wider powers than those set out in the notice of motion. I refer honourable Members to citation 546 of Beauchesne, third edition, and to rulings by Mr. Speaker Casgrain on March 13, 1939, Journals page 185, and by Mr. Speaker Macdonald on March 16, 1950, Journals page 121; on April 4, 1951, page 243 of the Journals; on November 2, 1951, Journals page 67, and on April 29, 1952, Journals page 240, then again on April 12, 1948, Journals page 344.

I feel that the rulings I have mentioned are ample evidence of sound parliamentary practice with respect to the setting up of committees, and especially with respect to the notice which has to be given prior to the setting up of the committee. The rule is well established, and is to the effect that no amendments should be made to the motion for the appointment of a committee that would give the committee greater powers than those set out in the notice. The explanation I gave a moment ago as to what was meant by "such other legislation" pertaining to veterans affairs is quite apropos on this occasion because the honourable Member is moving that the committee be empowered to consider the War Veterans Allowance Act.

The War Veterans Allowance Act is an existing statute. Perhaps in the laudable desire to have the matter examined by the committee, honourable Members are mistaking what, in my humble view, is the point. As honourable Members know, according to our procedure legislation may be introduced by the government or by the opposition. In this instance a piece of legislation has been introduced by the government and has gone through the various stages required. It is only after second reading that such legislation can be referred to the committee of the whole or to a special or standing committee. There is no standing committee to take care of this class of bills, and a special committee has been constituted. "If it is the desire that, instead of referring the matter to a committee of the whole house, it be referred to a select committee or a joint committee of both houses, such a motion is made immediately after the second reading, and, if carried the bill is referred accordingly". This statement is found in May's 15th edition, page 478.

The bills we are now referring to this committee are two bills that have gone through the preliminary stages and have been given second reading. After second reading, instead of being referred in the normal way to the committee of the whole, it was considered they should be referred to a special committee and that is the committee now being established. What the honourable Member for Royal (Mr. Brooks) contemplates by his amendment is not the reference of the same class of bill, but the reference of an existing statute. His amendment should read that the committee should consider appropriate amendments to the statute, and not just consider the statute. Before honourable Members pass judgment on that matter, they should know exactly what they are being asked to consider with respect to that act. It is for that reason it is so important that notice be given, then no one will be caught by surprise.

This is a right that the minorities in this house are always quick to claim, and they should therefore respect it when it refers to their amendments just as they do when it refers to amendments that the other side tries to introduce and of which they are not completely aware. This requirement of notice is just as old as the origin of parliamentary practice. When there was no printed order paper, the clerk had to read all the motions that had to be presented, and even in those days an oral notice was required. Now that we have, with the advent of modern machinery, a printed order paper, our standing order says that the notice must be printed forty-eight hours before it is called.

I feel that the various rulings I have mentioned, plus citation 546 should be sufficient to make honourable Members understand what my position is in this respect. I cannot accept the amendment.

And the Debate continuing on the main motion:—That a special committee consisting of 31 members, to be designated by the House at a later date, be appointed to consider the Bill to amend the War Service Grants Act and the Bill respecting Benefits for Members of the Canadian Forces, and such other legislation relating to Veterans Affairs as may be referred from time to time to the said committee; that the said committee shall have power to send for persons, papers and records, to print from day to day its minutes of proceedings and evidence, to sit while the House is sitting and to report from time to time; that the quorum of the said committee shall consist of ten members; and that the provisions of Standing Orders 64 and 65 be suspended in relation thereto.

Mr. Hansell, seconded by Mr. Low, moved in amendment thereto: That the sentence, "and such other legislation, relating to Veterans' Affairs as may be referred from time to time to the said Committee", be deleted, and the following substituted therefore: "and such other matters relating to Veterans' Affairs as the Committee may decide".

Mr. Deputy Speaker ruled that if the word "matters" in the proposed amendment referred to the legislation which will be or may be referred to the Committee pursuant to the original motion, the amendment was a nullity, and, on the other hand, if the word "matters" referred to something other than legislation, the proposed amendment was out of order on the ground that it was not in order to move an amendment which would give the committee wider powers than those set out in the notice.

And after further Debate, the question being put on the main motion; it was agreed to.

By leave of the House, on motion of Mr. Weir, it was resolved: That the special committee on legislation relating to Veterans Affairs, appointed this day, consist of the following members: Messrs. Balcom, Bennett (Grey North), Brooks, Cardin, Cavers, Croll, Dickey, Dinsdale, Enfield, Forgie, Gauthier (Portneuf), Gillis, Goode, Green, Hanna, Harkness, Henderson, Herridge, Jones, MacDougall, MacLean, Murphy (Westmorland), Nesbitt, Philpott, Quelch, Roberge, Stick, Thomas, Tucker, Weaver and Weselak—(31).

At ten o'clock, p.m., Mr. Speaker adjourned the House without question put, pursuant to Standing Order 7, until tomorrow, at 2.30 o'clock, p.m.

L. RENÉ BEAUDOIN, Speaker.

The following Bill was read the first time and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House:

Bill No. 445 (Letter C-15 of the Senate), intituled: "An Act to amend the Canadian Citizenship Act",—Mr. Harris.

V 108-1

The following Order of the House was issued to the proper Officer:-

By Mr. Knowles:—Order of the House for a copy of all letters, telegrams, memoranda and other documents exchanged between any person or persons and the Post Office Department, since January 1, 1949, concerning sub-post offices in the federal constituency of Winnipeg North Centre, together with a statement showing the locations of all sub-post offices in the federal constituency of Winnipeg North Centre as at December 31, 1953, and a copy of post office regulations in connection therewith.

Whereupon, Mr. Lapointe, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, informed the House, That His Excellency the Governor General, having been informed of the subject-matter of the said proposed Resolution, recommends it to the House.

Resolved, That the House do go into Committee of the Whole at the next sitting to consider the said proposed Resolution.

The Order being read for the House to resolve itself again into Committee of Supply;

Mr. Harris moved,—That Mr. Speaker do now leave the Chair.

And the question being proposed;

Mr. Drew, seconded by Mr. Macdonnell (Greenwood), moved in amendment thereto:—That all the words after "That" to the end of the question be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"this House is of the opinion that consideration should be given to the introduction of legislation which would provide for the exemption of all Municipal Councils and School Boards from the payment of Dominion Excise taxes including the 10% sales tax."

And a Debate arising thereon;

RULING OF MR. SPEAKER

Mr. Speaker:—I have examined the remarks of the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Drew) in the light of the speech which he made on the motion for a committee of ways and means when the budget resolutions were introduced, and by comparing the two speeches and the amendment which was moved by the honourable member for Greenwood (Mr. Macdonnell) on that occasion I find that the subject debated today and included in this amendment was debated on that occasion. It was also included in the amendment moved by the honourable member for Greenwood which was defeated by the House.

The Leader of the Opposition moved today that:

This House is of the opinion that consideration should be given to the introduction of legislation which would provide for the exemption of all municipal councils and school boards from the payment of dominion excise taxes including the 10 per cent sales tax.

In his speech he dealt with the agreements of 1942 under which the municipalities, together with the provinces, gave up certain taxing fields. He dealt with the burdens of municipalities having to do with civil defence, two subjects which he dealt with when he spoke on the budget. Then, he referred to the difficulties of municipalities with respect to housing. The house will remember that we had a discussion on housing earlier in the session, and no doubt those points were also made.

The amendment moved by the honourable member for Greenwood on April 12, 1954, contained, among others, this paragraph:

(f) has failed to reach agreement with the provincial government in regard to a clearly defined re-allocation of taxing power so that the provincial governments and municipal councils may have adequate financial resources to carry out their rapidly increasing responsibilities.

If the Leader of the Opposition will go over with me the last part of his speech which appears at pages 4383 to 4387 of Hansard I think he will agree with me that many of the points covered today were covered by himself then. I think he will agree with me especially that in his understanding of what the vote would mean, he said, and I quote from page 4387 of Hansard. Honourable members:

will also be voting in support of the proposition that nothing now be done to attempt some method of meeting the urgent needs of the municipalities whose tasks are increasingly heavy at this time and who need consideration as much as do any government authorities in Canada.

Prior to that he had been dealing with the same subjects that he dealt with today, as will be seen in the pages of Hansard that I have mentioned. If I look at the attitude of my predecessors for help in similar circumstances I will be forced to say that an amendment of this type can not be moved at this time. On Thursday, November 24, 1932, a motion was made for the Speaker to leave the chair for the House to go into committee of supply. An amendment was moved by Mr. King, seconded by Mr. Casgrain, as follows:

This house is of the opinion that the government should immediately announce what policy, if any, it has with respect to the relief of agricultural distress, and permit full consideration of the same before parliament adjourns over the months of December and January.

Mr. Speaker Black said:

The motion before the house is that the Speaker leave the chair for the house to resolve itself into committee of supply. An amendment concerning agricultural conditions in Canada and agricultural relief has been offered. The point of order has been raised that the amendment is out of order on the ground that it again introduces matter that was debated and disposed of when the Right Honourable Leader of the Opposition on October 10 moved an amendment to the address including the words: "the government has wholly failed to afford a remedy for agricultural distress." Whatever the object of the amendment may be and whether it concerns past, present or future policy of the government seems to me to be beside the point. The question for the Speaker to consider is: Has the matter raised by the amendment been discussed and debated? The subject matter of the amendment now proposed was undoubtedly discussed and debated upon a former occasion, and to allow a discussion of this question now would be simply to repeat the debate that has been held on agricultural conditions. The amendment moved has not been accepted by the government, and so is a motion of want of confidence. The house refused to condemn the government's policy on agriculture by rejecting the amendment to the address. In view, therefore, of that decision and in view of the precedents I find this amendment, which deals with the questions of agricultural conditions and agricultural relief, to be not in order.

On the same subject, Mr. Speaker Black on Tuesday, November 22, 1932, took a similar line in a similar case, and so did Mr. Speaker Glen, on March 29, 1943, as may be found at page 213 of the Journals of that year. The amendment at that time was:

This house desires to record its opinion that before the marketing policy announced by the Minister of Trade and Commerce on January 29 with respect to the 1943-44 crop is put into effect it be revised to bring it into conformity with the needs of agriculture, so that the latter may be enabled to make its full contribution to the war effort.

Mr. Speaker ruled the said amendment out of order on the ground that the adequacy of the government's agricultural policy had already been considered by the house, which had rejected the amendment moved by the Leader of the Opposition to the address in reply to the speech from the throne and, moreover, the said policy providing payment of $2 on each acre less seeded to wheat in 1943 than in 1940 was a financial policy which could not be disturbed by a private member's motion.

In 1949 Mr. Speaker Macdonald ruled out an amendment along the same line because it did relate to several items which appeared under the heading of "Marketing services" in the estimates. I am dealing with another ground. The first one is that in the amendment moved by the honourable Member for Greenwood the subject matter of the present amendment was fully debated and decided by the house in the negative. There is on the order paper now a budget resolution which says that the sales tax on the following goods be repealed:

(c) equipment sold to or imported by municipalities for their own use and not for resale, at a price in excess of one thousand dollars per unit, specially designed for use directly for road making, road cleaning or fire fighting, but not to include automobiles nor ordinary motor trucks;

Now, citation 467 of Beauchesne states it shall not relate to any budget resolution or to any item in the estimates. I was worrying as to what the word "relate" meant, and whether it offered any scope. It appears to me, on examining the precedents, that the relation need not be a very close or direct one. If the subject-matter of the amendment came under the same heading as that which is dealt with in the ways and means resolution, estimates or a bill on the order paper, then it has been held to be related. Therefore—I see some honourable members do not agree with me. Well, the honourable Member for Winnipeg North Centre (Mr. Knowles) on one occasion moved an amendment on a motion to go into supply and that amendment had to do with income tax. On that occasion, as reported at page 1489 of Hansard for November 7, 1949, Speaker Macdonald, quoting citation 467 of Beauchesne's Parliamentary Rules and Forms, third edition, said that an amendment to the motion to go into supply cannot relate to any resolution to be proposed to the Committee of Ways and Means. He continued:

At the present time there is on the order paper, appearing in the name of the Minister of Finance, a resolution to amend the Income War Tax Act and the Income Tax Act which is to be proposed to the committee of ways and means, and as the amendment of the honourable Member for Winnipeg North Centre also relates to the Income Tax Act, it would appear to be irregular in view of the aforementioned citation 467.

This would also be related—

An honourable member said "The Speaker allowed it". But his concluding paragraph is this:

Notwithstanding what I have said, in view of the fact that such an amendment might be in order after the budget resolutions are disposed of,— which is not the case now, and also because there has been considerable debate on the proposed amendment,—

This could be said of the proceedings today, but I will suggest another move after I am through.

I feel that it would expedite the business of the house if the proposed amendment were entertained and disposed of at this time. In reaching this conclusion, I should like to emphasize that this should by no means be regarded as a precedent to be followed on future occasions.

Apparently that is the message he left for me on that occasion. Honourable members will find another ruling of Mr. Speaker Macdonald's made during 1950 at page 47 of the Journals for February 28 where he also dealt with a borderline case and allowed the amendment. However, he did not wish his decision on that occasion be taken as a precedent.

Now, on these two grounds; (1) that the matter contained in the amendment was already debated and decided upon by the house when the amendment moved by the honourable Member for Greenwood (Mr. Macdonnell) on the budget was negatived; and (2) on the ground that the amendment on the motion to go into supply should not relate to a ways and means resolution which is on the order paper, I cannot, as honourable members will realize, agree to allow the amendment.

It often happens that when an amendment is offered to the motion to go into supply and has been debated at some length honourable members ask that the amendment be withdrawn. I can quote several precedents to that effect. If there are any reasons why honourable members believe that my ruling on this occasion, notwithstanding the short but attentive study I have given to it, might be a precedent which would endanger their future position, it might be advisable for them to take this course and by leave withdraw the amendment.

On the other hand, if honourable members wish the ruling I have made on this occasion to remain on record as being either a good or a bad one I have no alternative, in the light of the precedents I have quoted, to declare the amendment out of order.

And the Debate continuing on the main motion: That Mr. Speaker do now leave the Chair for the House to resolve itself again into Committee of Supply;

Mr. Nicholson, seconded by Mr. Herridge, moved in amendment thereto: That all the words after the word "That" to the end of the question be struck out and that the following words be substituted therefor:

And a Debate arising thereon;

Mr. Coldwell, seconded by Mr. Knowles, moved in amendment to the said proposed amendment: That the amendment be amended by deleting therefrom all the words after the word "respecting" and by substituting therefor the following words.

"the steps to be taken to secure the abolition of the Senate."

And the Debate continuing;

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

Mr. Speaker: Before I put the question I should like to declare the subamendment out of order on the ground that it is not relevant to the amendment and furthermore that it is the subject matter of a motion which should be moved as an amendment after this amendment has been disposed of; that is, it should be the subject matter of a different motion.

I would refer honourable Members to citations 344 and 364, Beauchesne's, Parliamentary Rules and Forms, 3rd Edition. With these I think we have disposed of the amendment to the amendment.

The amendment itself is objectionable in form. I have followed the practice established by Mr. Speaker Lemieux in his ruling of April 25, 1924, (see Journals, 1924, page 186). After consulting with the mover I proposed that the motion be modified so as to read in the following manner:

"The government should give consideration to initiating the necessary consultation and inquiry respecting reform of the Senate including such matters as the method by which the members of the Senate should be chosen and their tenure of office so that all appropriate steps may be taken in order that the Senate may more effectively discharge the constitutional function it was intended to serve as an integral part of our parliamentary system."

If honourable Members will look at citation 330 of Beauchesne's Third Edition and the ruling of Mr. Speaker Lemieux that I have just mentioned they will see that the Speaker, as Mr. Speaker Lemieux says, has the unquestioned authority to modify motions with respect to form.

I now want to deal with a few words in the amendment itself, namely "and their tenure of office". I have already informed honourable Members that there is on the order paper a bill of which the honourable Member for Hastings South (Mr. Follwell) is the mover, and which has to do with tenure of place in the Senate and which deals specifically with this subject matter of tenure of office. At this moment I should like to make a comment on it because of future reference which may be made to this present ruling. As honourable Members may see by reference to the last part of citation 330:

Any irregularity of any portion of a motion shall render the whole motion irregular.

I should like to say that although this rule would perhaps apply on other occasions, it does not apply in this instance because the motion without the insertion of these two matters—that is, the ones having to do with the selection of the members of the Senate and their tenure of office—they are not operative as far as the amendment is concerned. These sentences could disappear altogether and the motion would still stand up by itself. I just mention this citation and these points in passing so that it will not be held that in this instance I disregarded the rule which states that if part of a motion is irregular, the whole motion might be considered to be irregular. However, the words "and their tenure of office" should be deleted:

The question is on the following motion. The Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Drew), seconded by the honourable Member for Prince Albert (Mr. Diefenbaker) moved:

That all the words after "that" to the end of the question be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"The government should give consideration to initiating the necessary consultation and inquiry respecting reform of the Senate including such matters as the method by which the members of the Senate should be chosen so that all appropriate steps may be taken in order that the Senate may more effectively discharge the constitutional function it was intended to serve as an integral part of our parliamentary system."

And the question being put on the said proposed amendment; it was negatived on the following division:

Resolutions to be reported.

The said Resolutions were reported.

Mr. Abbott moved,—That the said Resolutions be now read the second time and concurred in.

And a point of order being raised by Mr. Knowles that the amendments made in the Committee of Ways and Means should also be considered;

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

Mr. Speaker: That was the question I asked a moment ago, and I was told that resolutions are never reported with amendments. Furthermore, I am told that there is a citation with regard to the matter. I do not have it before me at the moment, but I think the point is now being looked into by the Clerk. I am trying to recall situations where resolutions were reported with amendments. I remember that when I was Deputy Chairman of Committees there were occasions when amendments were made in the committee, but they were not reported. There is no use in reporting a resolution with amendments because the resolution is in fact an order for leave to introduce a bill. The resolution is studied in committee of the whole and what is done in committee of the whole is to examine how the order for leave to introduce the bill is going to be drafted. Resolutions are reported from the committee of the whole as being the product of the committee of the whole. It is not the same as in the case of a bill which is sent to committee of the whole for examination with a view to possibly being amended. A resolution is not sent there for that purpose. It is sent there to determine if it contains sufficient cause to grant leave to introduce a bill based on the resolution.

It may be that by this time some specific reference in the book has been found, but in any event I am satisfied that is the situation. In the case of amendments to bills we do ask that the amendments be read the first time and concurred in. In this case we ask that the resolutions in their original form or amended be approved by the house. I think that will cover the point if amendments were made to the resolutions.

We have found the citation. It is citation 491 of Beauchesne, third edition. The citation reads as follows:

If a resolution is amended in the committees of the whole, supply or ways and means, the chairman does not report it "with amendments", because it had not been discussed in the house, when the Speaker was in the chair, prior to being referred to the committee. The resolution is not considered by the house in the same way as a bill which, under standing order 75, is read twice before committal. The terms of the resolution are submitted for the consideration of the house for the first time when the resolution is reported from committee. As the house up to that moment has not considered the merits of the resolution, the committee's amendments do not change anything that has been done by the house and no matter how much the resolution has been altered by the committee, it is reported with all its alterations, but without the mention of amendments.

And the question being put on the said motion; it was agreed to.

The said Resolutions were accordingly read the second time and concurred in.

Mr. Abbott, by leave of the House presented the following Bills, which were read the first time and ordered for a second reading at the next sitting of the House:

Bill No. 467, An Act to amend the Income Tax Act. Bill No. 468, An Act to amend the Customs Tariff.

And it being after ten o'clock, Mr. Speaker adjourned the House without question put, it being five minutes past ten o'clock p.m., until tomorrow, at 11.00 a.m., pursuant to Special Order made Thursday, May 27, 1954.

"(c) every person who was a member of the regular forces on and immediately prior to the 5th day of July, 1950, and thereafter without any interruption in service as such member, was on service in a theatre of operations on the strength of the special force and was discharged from the regular forces within three years from the date he ceased to serve on the strength of the special force; and"

VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, TUESDAY, 8TH JUNE, 1954

11.00 o'clock, a.m. 1954

PRAYERS.

Mr. Speaker: I am very pleased to communicate to the house the decision of the internal economy committee regarding a memorial in honour of the late Agnes Macphail.

The Commissioners of Internal Economy have had before them for consideration representations from the lady Members of the Senate and House of Commons and from Senators and Members of Parliament generally, as well as from various women's organizations, suggesting that the election to the House of Commons of the first lady member be suitably commemorated.

The Commissioners have also been informed that a bronze bust by Felix Weihs de Weldon, sculptor, of Miss Agnes Campbell Macphail, the first woman elected to the House of Commons of Canada, has been graciously offered to the House of Commons by Mrs. Meredith Reany, of Palmerston, Ontario, and Mrs. Hugh Bailey of Toronto, sisters of Miss Macphail.

The Commissioners have had this matter under consideration and have recommended:

- (a) That to commemorate this historic event, a bronze bust of the first woman member, Miss Agnes Macphail, be placed on a pedestal in the vicinity of the chamber of the House of Commons; and
- (b) That for this purpose the bronze bust of Miss Macphail offered by her two sisters, be gratefully accepted

Several appropriate dates together with arrangements for the unveiling ceremony are still under consideration and will be announced later.

Mr. Tucker, from the Special Committee on Veterans Affairs, presented the Fourth Report of the said Committee, as follows:

Your Committee has considered Bill No. 339, An Act to amend the Pension Act, and has agreed to report same with amendments.

With respect to Clauses 10, 11, 12 and 18 as certain amendments contemplated therein would, to meet the views of the Committee, result in an increased charge upon the public, your Committee feels that it has no option, under the Rules of the House, but to report these Clauses without amendment. The Committee would, however, recommend that the Government consider the advisability of substituting the words and figures "1st day of May, 1954" for the words and figures "1st day of January, 1954" where they appear in the said Clauses.

With respect to Clauses 8 and 13 your Committee has agreed to the deletion of the provisions contained therein. However, other amendments contemplated thereto would, to meet the unanimous views of the Committee, also result in an increased charge upon the public. Therefore, in obedience to the Rules of the House your Committee here also feels it has no option but to delete the said Clauses. The Committee would, however, recommend that the Government consider the advisability of amending subsection (3) of section 31 and subsection (3) of section 42 of the Pension Act by striking out the words "in respect of service during World War II" where they appear in the said subsections.

Mr. McCubbin, Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Agriculture, laid before the House,—Copy of the Report on Activities under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act for the crop year 1952-53.

By leave of the House, on motion of Mr. Harris, it was resolved,—That Bill No. 339, An Act to amend the Pension Act, be considered in Committee of the Whole this day and that Standing Order 21 be suspended in relation thereto.

On motion of Mr. Weir, it was ordered,—That the name of Mr. Pommer be substituted for that of Mr. Weselak on the Standing Committee on Miscellaneous Private Bills.

Mr. Drew, from his place in the House, asked leave under Standing Order 31 to move the adjournment of the House for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, and stated the subject to be:

"The need for an immediate declaration of government policy with respect to the loss of farm markets for wheat and the means to be taken to protect the Canadian producer from the detrimental policies and practices of other countries."

Mr. Speaker: Perhaps I should immediately give my decision as to whether I think a discussion of this matter is one of urgent public importance.

Now, when I consider these words, I am guided by the business which has been announced for today, and this is to be found at page 5620 of unrevised Hansard. I see that the first item of business for today has to do with the study of a measure respecting allowances for disabled persons which is to be considered in committee of the whole.

There are other measures which will follow and then later I understand there will be a motion to go into supply at which time honourable Members may discuss the matter which is contained in the motion for the adjournment.

Honourable Members may say, "Perhaps we will not reach the motion to go into supply today". But if we do not reach it today we may perhaps reach it tomorrow. In any event, on Thursday and Friday we will be going into supply and I would imagine that the estimates of the Department of Trade and Commerce cannot be very much longer delayed. They should be before the House soon. In addition, there are also the estimates of the Department of Agriculture on which this matter can be dealt with.

Therefore, for the dispatch of business and in the interests of order, I think we ought to postpone the discussion of this particular reduction in the price of wheat for perhaps a few hours until we go into supply, or, if we do not go into supply today, at any rate it will not be any longer than a few days hence.

And the Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Drew), having stated that he proposed to avail himself of the rule to the effect that if twenty members rise to support a motion of this kind, the matter must be discussed;

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

Mr. Speaker: May I perhaps deal with the point the Leader of the Opposition has made. Paragraph 3 of standing order 31 states, relative to the mover:

He then hands a written statement of the matter proposed to be discussed to Mr. Speaker, who, if he thinks it is in order,—

I think it is in order.

—and of urgent public importance, reads it out and asks whether the member has the leave of the house.

Since I gave it as my opinion that I did not think it was of urgent public importance in the sense which has always been adopted in practice I did not, therefore, read it out, and I am not going to ask whether the member has the leave of the house and, according to our established practice, the matter must rest there.

In this case I am not deciding on a point of order. I am deciding on practice and by virtue of this standing order it just so happens that it is up to me to decide whether the motion is of urgent public importance. If I do not think it is of urgent public importance and do not read the motion then it is unnecessary to ask whether the honourable Member has the leave of the house.

I agree that in years past the strict procedure with respect to standing order 31 was to the effect that the minute a motion was made the Speaker did not have the opportunity of deciding whether he thought it was of urgent public importance. The burden did not lie upon him and all he had to do was to ask if the honourable Member who moved the motion had leave and if twenty honourable Members rose all the Speaker had to do was to resume his seat and allow the debate to carry on.

However, this standing order was amended in 1927, (see Journals, 1927, Tuesday, March 22nd, page 316 and page 334. Also Hansard, 1927, Tuesday, March 22nd, page 1426, re: amended rule 39, now Standing Order 31) and ever since these words have been included, to the effect that the Speaker has to decide whether he thinks it is of urgent public importance, the practice has always been, as established by Mr. Speaker Black and his successors—and I observe that the honourable Member for Winnipeg North Centre (Mr. Knowles) recalls the establishment of that practice—that if the Speaker thinks that it is not a matter of urgent public importance the matter rests there. (See Ruling of Mr. Speaker Black, Journals, Friday, 19th February 1932, page 62. Hansard, February 19th, 1932, pages 360 to 365 inclusive. Also ruling of Mr. Speaker Casgrain, Journals, March 10th, 1939 page 178. Also rulings of Mr. Speaker Glen, Journals, February 17th, 1944, page 99, and Journals, Friday, 28th April, 1944, page 332. Also ruling of Mr. Speaker Fauteux, Journals, July 15th, 1946, page 485. Also ruling of Mr. Speaker Macdonald, Hansard. March 5th, 1951, page 884, and Journals, March 5th, 1951, page 136).

The honourable Member for Kamloops (Mr. Fulton) has referred to citation 249 of Beauchesne's second edition which reads as follows:

In doubtful cases, the question of urgency and of importance are left for the house to decide by giving or withholding its support.

If the Speaker thinks the subject-matter of the motion is of urgent public importance, Standing Order 31 provides that he will ascertain whether the member has the leave of the House to move the motion. Twenty members must rise. If this citation 249 were to apply, the majority would have to decide.

Citation 174 of Beauchesne's third edition, in the second paragraph, reads as follows:

Urgency within this rule—

That is within standing order 31.

—does not apply to the matter itself, but it means "urgency of debate", when the ordinary opportunities provided by the rules of the House do not permit the subject to be brought on early enough and public interest demands that discussion take place immediately.

In considering the meaning of urgency of debating this motion, having regard to the meaning given to "urgency" in citation 174, I have to examine what is already on the order paper for discussion. There is the measure providing allowances for disabled persons. If I recall the debate which took place on second reading of that measure not long ago, it would seem that is a matter of rather urgent public importance. Then on the orders of the day today the acting leader of the house announced that there would be a motion to go into supply. Having regard to all the remarks that were made on both sides of the house with respect to the possibility of moving to go into supply later this day, I think we might perhaps forego the discussion of this subject for the present. I feel sure that later in the day an opportunity for discussion will be provided on the motion to go into supply.

The Bill No. 462, An Act to provide for Allowances for Disabled Persons, was again considered in Committee of the Whole, reported without amendment, read the third time and passed.

The Bill No. 101, An Act respecting Benefits for Members of the Canadian Forces, (together with the Resolution adopted Monday, June 7, 1954, in respect thereto), was considered in Committee of the Whole, reported with an amendment, considered as amended;

By leave of the House, the said Bill was read the third time and passed.

The Bill No. 421, (Letter I-13 of the Senate), intituled: "An Act to amend the National Harbours Board Act", (as amended by the Standing Committee on Railways, Canals and Telegraph Lines), was again considered in Committee of the Whole, reported with amendments, considered as amended, and ordered for a third reading at the next sitting of the House.

By unanimous consent, Mr. Lapointe moved,—That the House do go forthwith into Committee of the Whole to consider the following proposed Resolution.

That Bill 339, intituled: "An Act to amend the Pension Act", now before the House, be amended by substituting the words and figures "1st day of May, 1954" for the words and figures "1st day of January, 1954", where they appear in clauses 10, 11, 12 and 18 in the said Bill and that subsection (3) of section 31 and subsection (3) of section 42 of the Pension Act be amended by striking out the words "in respect of service during World War II" where they appear in the said subsections.

Whereupon, Mr. Lapointe, a Member of the Queen's Privy Council, informed the House, That His Excellency the Governor General, having been informed of the subject-matter of the said proposed Resolution, recommends it to the House.

Resolved, That the House do go forthwith into Committee of the Whole to consider the said proposed Resolution.

The House accordingly resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to consider the said proposed resolution.

(In the Committee)

The following resolution was adopted;

Resolved, That Bill 339, intituled: "An Act to amend the Pension Act", now before the House, be amended by substituting the words and figures "1st day of May, 1954" for the words and figures "1st day of January, 1954", where they appear in clauses 10, 11, 12 and 18 in the said Bill and that subsection (3) of section 31 and subsection (3) of section 42 of the Pension Act be amended by striking out the words "in respect of service during World War II" where they appear in the said subsections.

Resolution to be reported.

The said resolution was reported, read the second time, concurred in and referred to the Committee of the Whole on Bill No. 339, An Act to amend the Pension Act.

The Order being read for the second reading of Bill No. 473 (Letter P-15 of the Senate), intituled: "An Act to amend the Post Office Act";

Mr. Côté moved,—That the said Bill be now read the second time.

After Debate thereon, the question being put on the said motion, it was agreed to, on the following division:

"this House is of the opinion that in view of the present grave situation in the matter of International Wheat Trading the Government should make an immediate declaration as to its policy respecting the marketing of our Canadian Wheat surplus."

And on the proposed motion of Mr. Argue, seconded by Mr. Bryson, in amendment to the said proposed amendment: That the amendment be amended by changing the period at the end thereof to a comma, and by adding thereafter the following words:

"and that the Government should give consideration to including in such policy the provision of a floor price to the wheat producers of Canada at levels not less than the Canadian Wheat Board selling price, basis Fort William/Port Arthur, on Friday, June 4, 1954."

Before the adjournment of this Debate on Wednesday, June 9, 1954, Mr. Speaker, in raising a point of order in regard to the form of the foregoing main amendment, made the following observations:

Mr. Speaker: Before we adjourn I want to make a few observations at this time so that the honourable Members will consider them and perhaps give me their own views at a later stage. The amendment reads:

This house is of the opinion that in view of the present grave situation in the matter of international wheat trading the government should make an immediate declaration as to its policy respecting the marketing of our Canadian wheat surplus.

Now is it an amendment to ask that the government make an immediate declaration of its policy. An amendment has a certain objective, and the objective is to alter the main question so as to help hon. members state their position on policies. Is it an amendment, even if the amendment to a motion to go into supply has not to be relevant, to ask that the government make an immediate statement of policy? Is it a parliamentary motion? That is the first question I should like to submit to honourable Members.

The second question is this. I was away for a while looking over these amendments, and upon my return to the chair was informed that the Minister of Trade and Commerce (Mr. Howe) had made a speech. When he spoke a moment ago, what did he do? Even if that declaration of policy by the minister was not to the liking of honourable Members, is it not a fact the minister has expressed the policy of the government because he is the spokesman with respect to these various matters, and according to the theory of cabinet solidarity he has spoken for the government. Has he not complied with the terms of this amendment? That is another point I should like to submit to honourable Members for their serious consideration.

Of course when one considers that the amendment asks for a declaration of policy from the government, one could go a little further. After all the government, by the constitution, are the advisers of Her Majesty. They are the ones who are supposed to propose policy. Can we, by an amendment or by a decision of this house, force the government to declare their policy if they do not wish to do so? I have in my hand here a treatise on parliament by C. Ilbert who was a Clerk of the House of Commons in England and the author of several books. On page 111 of this particular book he says, under the title "administration":

Parliament does not govern. Parliamentary government does not mean government by parliament. Once, and once only, in the course of English history has the House of Commons attempted to administer the affairs of the country through executive committees, and the precedent by the long parliament has not been followed.

What is done by parliament, and especially by the House of Commons, is in the first place to secure that the King's ministers, who control and are responsible for the executive government of the country, shall represent and have the confidence of the party, or combination of parties, which commands a majority in the house, and in the next place to control the action of those ministers by means of questions and criticisms.

Now, is this a criticism? The amendment asks that the government declare a policy immediately. I submit these observations for the benefit of honourable Members. Of course if the amendment is not in order, then the subamendment is not in order either.

RULING BY MR. SPEAKER

Mr. Speaker: It might be advisable at this moment to discuss a point of order with respect to the amendment. On June 9, 1954 I raised several questions and deferred the final ruling with the hope that upon resumption of the debate on this amendment some honourable Members may wish to make representations. If that is not the case, I would submit that I have given further thought to the remarks that I then made and find that, after careful consideration the amendment cannot be accepted. Standing order 54 says:

Whenever Mr. Speaker is of opinion that a motion offered to the House is contrary to the rules and privileges of Parliament, he shall apprise the House thereof immediately, before putting the question thereon, and quote the standing order or authority applicable to the case.

In the "Introduction to the Procedure of the House of Commons" by Campion this position of an unparliamentary motion is further clarified, and at page 149 it will be found:

Amendments are out of order-

If they are irrelevant to the question to which they are moved, or would, if carried, produce a defective meaningless, or ungrammatical form of words.

I should like to point out to honourable Members that the two words here "defective" and "meaningless" are the ones which I am concerned with at the moment.

The amendment reads:

This house is of the opinion that in view of the present grave situation in the matter of International Wheat Trading the Government should make an immediate declaration as to its policy respecting the marketing of our Canadian wheat surplus.

The amendment asked the government to make an immediate declaration as to its policy. Policy is within the realm of executive action. Even if the amendment were to carry, if it is the policy of the government not to say anything, well, what would be the position in this house? The house would have declared that it is its opinion the government should make a declaration of policy, and there would be no such declaration of policy, because there is nothing that we can do about it. It is for the government to decide in this particular field just what is their policy, and they may decide to say nothing about it at this time. Honourable Members know that when questions are asked on the orders of the day a cabinet minister often replies that this is a matter of government policy which will be announced in due course, and there is nothing that any member in this House can do about that.

I would like to point out that since the Minister of Trade and Commerce (Mr. Howe) has made a declaration of policy, a fortiori this amendment becomes much more meaningless than it was in the first place. Therefore, for these reasons, I declare the amendment out of order, and if the amendment is out of order it follows that the amendment to the amendment of course must fall.

And the question being again proposed on the main motion: That Mr. Speaker do now leave the Chair for the House to resolve itself again into Committee of Supply.

Mr. Harkness, seconded by Mr. Charlton, moved in amendment thereto: That all the words after "That" to the end of the question be deleted and the following substituted therefor:

"this House regrets that the Government has failed to deal effectively with the problem of marketing Canada's wheat surplus."

And the Debate continuing;

Mr. McCullough (Moose Mountain), seconded by Mr. Castleden, moved in amendment to the said proposed amendment: That the amendment be amended by changing the period at the end thereof to a comma and by adding thereafter the following words:

"and this House further regrets that the Government has failed to make provision for a floor price to the wheat producers of Canada at levels not less than the Canadian Wheat Board selling price, basis Fort William/Port Arthur, on Friday, June 4, 1954."

And the Debate still continuing;

(At 5.00 o'clock, p.m., Private and Public Bills were called pursuant to Standing Order 15)

(Private Bills)

Mr. Reinke moved,—That Mr. Speaker do now leave the Chair for the House to go into Committee of the Whole on Private Bills (pursuant to Standing Order 110); which was agreed to.

The Bill No. 472 (Letter N-15 of the Senate), intituled: "An Act to incorporate Canadian Slovak League", was considered in Committee of the Whole, reported with an amendment, considered as amended;

By leave of the House, the said Bill was read the third time and passed.

The Bill No. 449 (Letter D-15 of the Senate), intituled: "An Act for the relief of Francis Walsh", was considered in Committee of the Whole, and progress having been made and reported, the Committee obtained leave to consider it again at the next sitting of the House.

The hour for Private and Public Bills having expired.

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed the following Bill, without amendment:

Bill No. 442, An Act respecting the construction of lines of railway by Canadian National Railway Company from St. Felicien to Chibougamau and from Chibougamau to Beattyville, all in the Province of Quebec, and from Hillsport on the main line of the Canadian National Railways to Manitouwadge Lake, both in the Province of Ontario.

And also.—A Message informing this House that the Senate had passed the Bill No. 338, An Act respecting Banks and Banking, with amendments, which are as follows:

- 1. Page 20, lines 18 to 21, both inclusive: Strike out subclause (2) of clause 50 and substitute therefor the following:—
  - "(2) Nothing in subsection (1) affects the rights and remedies, under any contract of sale that does not comply with the conditions and requirements mentioned in that subsection, of any purchaser who has no knowledge of such non-compliance.

VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS

OF THE

HOUSE OF COMMONS

OF CANADA

OTTAWA, WEDNESDAY, 16th JUNE, 1954

11.00 o'clock, a.m.

PRAYERS.

A Message was received from the Senate informing this House that the Senate had passed the following Bill, without amendment:

Bill No. 373, An Act to provide Diplomatic and Consular Immunities for Commonwealth Representatives in Canada.

Mr. Brown (Essex West), from the Special Joint Committee of the Senate and the House of Commons, on Capital and Corporal Punishment and Lotteries, presented the Third Report of the said Committee as follows:

On January 12, 1954, the House of Commons passed the following Resolution:

That a Joint Committee of both Houses of Parliament be appointed to inquire into and report upon the questions whether the criminal law of Canada relating to (a) capital punishment, (b) corporal punishment or (c) lotteries should be amended in any respect and, if so, in what manner and to what extent;

That 17 Members of the House of Commons, to be designated at a later date, be Members of the Joint Committee on the part of this House and that Standing Order 65 of the House of Commons be suspended in relation thereto;

That the Committee have power to appoint, from among its members, such subcommittees as may be deemed advisable or necessary; to call for persons, papers and records; to sit while the House is sitting and to report from time to time; That the Committee have power to print such papers and evidence from day to day as may be ordered by the Committee for the use of the Committee and of Parliament, and that Standing Order 64 of the House of Commons be suspended in relation thereto;

And that a message be sent to the Senate requesting that House to unite with this House for the above purpose and to select, if the Senate deems advisable, some of its members to act on the proposed Joint Committee.

The following Members of the House of Commons were subsequently appointed to the Joint Committee:

Messrs. Boisvert, Brown (Brantford), Brown (Essex West), Cameron (High Park), Decore, Dupuis, Fairey, Fulton, Garson, Lusby, Mitchell (London), Montgomery, Murphy (Westmorland), Shaw, Thatcher, Valois and Winch.

On February 10, 1954, the following Resolution was adopted in the Senate:

That the Senate do unite with the House of Commons in the appointment of a Joint Committee of both Houses of Parliament to inquire into and report upon the questions whether the criminal law of Canada relating to (a) capital punishment, (b) corporal punishment or (c) lotteries, should be amended in any respect and, if so, in what manner and to what extent:

That the following Senators be appointed on behalf of the Senate on the said Joint Committee, namely, the Honourable Senators Aseltine, Beauregard, Bouffard, Farris, Fergusson, Hayden, Hodges, McDonald, Roebuck and Veniot.

That the Committee have power to appoint, from among its members, such subcommittees as may be deemed advisable or necessary and to sit while the House is sitting.

That the Committee have power to print such papers and evidence from day to day as may be ordered by the Committee for the use of the Committee and of Parliament.

That the Committee have power to send for persons, papers and records, and to report to the Senate from time to time.

That a message be sent to the House of Commons to inform that House accordingly.

On March 2, 1954, both Houses of Parliament authorized the Committee to retain the services of counsel.

The original membership of the Committee was changed on February 15 by the substitution of Mrs. Ann Shipley, M.P., for Mr. John Decore, M.P., and on March 5 by the substitution of Miss Sybil Bennett, M.P., for Mr. G. W. Montgomery, M.P.

On February 17, the Committee established a Subcommittee on Agenda and Procedure which was authorized, upon the adoption of its First and Second Reports, to prepare and arrange a schedule of witnesses with sittings to be held twice weekly insofar as practicable.

The Committee held its first sitting on February 17 for preliminary organization, meeting thereafter at least twice weekly, except during the Easter recess of Parliament, until June 2 when the last public hearing was held. Thereafter, the Committee's proceedings were devoted to preparing its report. In all, the Committee held 30 meetings, all of which were in open session except parts of those meetings devoted to discussions on procedure or to preparation of its report. The subcommittee held 17 meetings relating to the agenda and procedure of the Committee.

During the course of its inquiries, the Committee adduced evidence from indivduals, organizations, and governmental sources indicated in Schedule A of the last issue (No. 18) of the Committee's printed proceedings. The Committee also had access to reports and documents, acquired or ordered for reference by the Committee, as listed in Schedule B of the same issue of the proceedings. In addition, the Committee received over 300 miscellaneous representations in the form of letters, resolutions, and petitions from individuals and organizations all across Canada which were considered and analyzed by the subcommittee on Agenda and Procedure for possible evidence or sources of information.

The Committee wishes to express its gratitude for the valuable assistance received from witnesses, individuals, organizations and provincial governments who made oral representations or submitted written evidence to the Committee. In addition, the Committee very much appreciates the assistance received from the Department of Justice, Counsel to the Committee, and the Committees Branches of both Houses of Parliament for their contributions in facilitating the work and proceedings of the Committee.

The Committee, recognizing that it is in the national interest to have a well informed public opinion concerning the three subject matters it has been considering, desires to express its appreciation of the contribution made to this end by the extensive and fair coverage given its proceedings by the press and radio of Canada.

The Committee urges that all national organizations interested in the problems before it, formulate their views during the Parliamentary recess and prepare to make their considered opinions known to the Committee at the next Session.

The Committee finds that it will not be able to complete at the current session of this Parliament its inquiries into the matters referred to it for report and, accordingly, recommends:

- 1. That a corresponding Committee be established and appointed early in the next session of this Parliament to resume the studies and continue the inquiries initiated by this Committee.
- 2. That the government, in co-operation and consultation with the provincial governments, consider the question of the revision of existing reporting and compilation procedures relating to criminal statistics.
- 3. That the services of Counsel to the Committee be retained on the same basis as presently authorized until the end of the current session of Parliament for the purpose of completing certain inquiries already instituted.

A copy of the Committee's Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence is tabled herewith.

(The Evidence, etc., accompanying said Report, recorded as Appendix No. 13 to the Journals)

By leave of the House, on motion of Mr. Brown (Essex West), the said report was concurred in.

Mr. Benidickson, Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Finance, laid before the House, by command of His Excellency the Governor General, Report of the Operations of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act for the year ended March 31, 1954, pursuant to Section 41(2), of the said Act, Chapter 111, R.S.C., 1952.

After which the Honourable the Deputy Governor General was pleased to close the First Session of the Twenty-Second Parliament of Canada with the following speech:

Honourable Members of the Senate:

Members of the House of Commons:

As I bring the present session to a close, the political tension throughout the world is a grim reminder that the first concern of the government must be the maintenance of the necessary strength to deter aggression while we continue to strive for the establishment of peace in the world.

Our country is meeting every commitment we have made for our national defence and for international projects for relief, rehabilitation, technical assistance and the economic advancement of other peoples materially less fortunate than our own.

Our external trade continues at a high level. Although there is still in Western Canada a huge volume of wheat resulting from three successive record crops, our grain exports continue to exceed the ten year average.

You have approved a trade agreement with Japan designed to assist in developing our growing trade with that country. Trade agreements have also been concluded, for the first time, with Spain and Portugal which, with improved arrangements with Italy and Brazil, should assist us in the recovery of historic markets in those countries.

In recognition of the growing importance of our northern territories, you enacted legislation establishing the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources.

We all rejoiced at the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States which removed the last serious legal obstacle to the development of the St. Lawrence project and which now clears the way for actual construction of both the navigation facilities and the power installations.

The Pipe Lines Act was amended to give jurisdiction to the Board of Transport Commissioners over all companies authorized to construct or operate interprovincial or international oil or gas pipe lines and most of the difficulties in the way of the building of a pipe line to transport natural gas from Alberta to Ontario and Quebec have been overcome.

You enacted a measure to authorize the Canadian National Railway Company to extend its lines in Northern Quebec and Northern Ontario.

The National Housing Act was revised and provision made to increase and broaden the supply of mortgage money so that more people with moderate incomes would be able to find facilities to assist them in building their own homes.

As required by law you made the decennial revision of the Bank Act at the present session and extended the charters of the eleven chartered banks for a period of ten years. Among the amendments made were those which permit a bank to make loans on the security of insured mortagages and to make small loans on the security of household goods and chattels. The Quebec Savings Banks Act and the Bank of Canada Act were also revised.

In further recognition of the services of Canada's veterans of two World Wars and of Korea you have made amendments to the War Service Grants Act; the Veterans Land Act; and the Children of War Dead (Education Assistance) Act; the Veterans Benefit Act; and the Pension Act.

You enacted a measure to provide for a federal contribution to the payment in co-operation with the provincial governments of pensions to disabled persons in need over the age of eighteen years. This legislation is a further instalment in the long-range social security programme of the government.

During this session you completed the revision of the Criminal Code.

To meet the situation created by the decision of the Courts that extraprovincial highway transport was under the jurisdiction of this Parliament, you enacted a measure to provide for the regulation in agreement with the provincial authorities of interprovincial and international highway transport by provincial agencies established to regulate highway transport within the several provinces.

Other measures which you enacted included: the Ontario-Manitoba Boundary Act 1953: the United Kingdom Financial Agreement Act 1953; an Act respecting the National Battlefields at Quebec; the Northwest Atlantic Fisheries Convention Act; the Export and Import Permits Act; Fire Losses Replacement Account Act; the Canadian Forces Act 1954; an Act respecting inventions by public servants; and an Act to provide Diplomatic and Consular Immunities for Commonwealth Representatives in Canada.

Amendments have been made to the Animal Contagious Diseases Act; the Explosives Act; the Telegraphs Act; the National Parks Act; the Customs Act; the Acts respecting the Northwest Territories; the Senate and House of Commons Act; the Salaries Act; the Members of Parliament Retiring Allowances Act; the Patent Act; the Post Office Act; the Export Credits Insurance Act; the Emergency Gold Mining Assistance Act; the Department of Transport Act; the Radio Act; the Public Service Superannuation Act; the Judges Act; the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Act; the Navigable Waters Protection Act; the Canadian Citizenship Act; the Vocational Training Co-ordination Act; the Research Council Act; the National Harbours Board Act; the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act; the Atomic Energy Control Act; the Excise Tax Act; the Excise Act; the Act respecting the Superannuation of Government Employees transferred to Crown Corporations; the Income Tax Act; and the Customs Tariff.

Members of the House of Commons:

I thank you for the provision which you have made for all essential services for the current fiscal year.

Honourable Members of the Senate:

Members of the House of Commons:

In relieving you from attendance upon your Parliamentary duties I pray that Divine Providence may guide and bless you.

His Honour the Speaker of the Senate then said:

Honourable Members of the Senate:

Members of the House of Commons:

It is the will and pleasure of the Honourable the Deputy Governor General that this Parliament be prorogued until Thursday, the fifth day of August next, to be here holden; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued until the fifth day of August next.

L. RENÉ BEAUDOIN, Speaker.
