TREATY MAY BECOME EFFECTIVE PRICE, TWO CENTS

GERMANY WILLING TO SIGN IF ALLIES WILL MODIFY DEMANDS

Guarantees Are Asked by Berlin Government That a Reduction in Quantity of Dock and Harbor Materials Demanded Will Be Made.

EFFECTIVE NEXT WEEK. Paris, Dec. 36.-Hopes have again been raised in supreme council circles of an early exchange of ratifications of the treaty of Versailles.
The end of the first week in January is given now as the probable date when the treaty will be put into effect.

Paris, Monday, Dec. 29.—Kurt von Lersner, head of the German delegation at Versailles, called on Paul Dutasta, secretary of the peace conference, this afternoon. Greatest reserve is maintained relative to the subjects discussed, and it is only known that Herr von Lersner did not bring the German reply to the last note to the Berlin Government from the Allies.

It is generally understood, however, that Germany is inclined to sign the protocol to the peace treaty on condition that guarantees are given regard-ner, head of the German mission here. It was said today that the chances were considered good that the Germans would decide to sign the protocol, now the subject of negotiations, without watting for verification of the figures on harbor tonnage demanded as reparation for the sinking of the German ships at Scapa Flow. It is explained that the supreme council will satisfy Germany's demand for a more specific declaration on the reduction of tonnage asked for, through affixing to the protocol the text of M. Dutasta's verbal declaration to Baron von Lersner on the subject.

The Khineland commission is expected to meet as soon as practicable

It is generally understood, however, that Germany is inclined to sign the protocol to the peace treaty on condition that guarantees are given regarding possible reduction as to the quantity of harbor and dock materials to be anded over in compensation for the terman warships sunk at Scapa Flow. THREE RESCUED FROM WRECK OF BELGIAN SHIP

Were Only Survivors From Crew of 29 From Steamer.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 30 .- Three men were rescued today from the wreck of the Belgian steamer Anton Van Driel which struck on the rocks at the entrance of St. Mary's Bay at midnight Sunday. They are the only survivors of the crew of 29. All were frightfully frost bitten from the long exposure on the bridge which was the only portion The rescued men are the second mate and two firemen. They were taken to Trepassy by the rescue steamer Graham, which was sent out from that harbor to the scene of the wreck.

Shore observers at the village of St. Shotts were unable to see any sign of life on the Anton Van Driel when daylight permitted a view of the exposed.

Berlin, Dec. 29.—The national court has decided that the city of Cologne must reimburse citizens for the damage suffered at the hands of the Spartacans, according to the Vossische Zeitung. The decision was given in connection with a suit brought by the Tietz department store of Cologne, which a mob stormed on November 18 and pillaged of food valued at 58,000 marks. The court's rudling, it is pointed out, establishes an extraordinarily far-reaching precedent.

Tax on Sliding Scale.

The tax is imposed on a sliding scale and designed to strike at big profits. From a rate of 25 per cent on business profits between 7 and 15 per cent the tax reaches as high as 75 per cent on profits in excess of 25 per cent. Although, in view of war conditions, objection to the tax has not hitherto been wide, manufacturers held that it hinders expansion of industries. In his last budget speech Sir Thomas White took up this point. "Our business profits' taxation," he said, "unless repealed as soon as war conditions terminate, must have an adverse influence upon the investment of money in business enterprise in Canada. At present, there is a widespread tendency through. there is a widespread tendency through, out the world to severely tax profits. Tured by British officers and Lithuanian troops a few weeks ago.

One day, said Col. Dalbeck, an unusually large aeroplane, built entirely of aluminum, appeared over Dunaberg, but was obliged to descend in the neighborhood, owing to motor trouble. Besides the pilot and the engineer, the aeroplane contained two passengers. All of them were arrested, but later were allowed to move freely under a guard in the town. The next day, after the engines had been repaired, a German flight officer named Rother, then in the Lithuanian service, asked permission to fly the machine with a young learner. This he was allowed to do, but the aeroplane soon descended some miles outside the town. Here the learner was sent away, and suddenly two men, apparently strolling with an armed guard, parently strolling with an armed guard, Rother managed to smuggle loaded revolvers into the hands of the two men, and the guardsmen suddenly felt the revolvers being pressed to their heads. The guardsmen were bound and the aeroplane, with the two passengers, flew away, landing some hours later at Tilsit, in East Prussia. The two men, who were said to be merchants and Tilsit, in East Prussia. The two men, who were said to be merchants, and wanting to return to Moscow in order, if possible, to save their property from the Bolsheviki, were Talaat and Enver, as Rother admitted in a telegram he sent asking to have his baggage forwarded to Germany.

Only the bylaws were dealt with at the meeting. None of the nominees for civic offices spoke in regard to their candidacy. The evening was an uneventful one, most of the statements of the speakers being heartily applauded by the audience. There was some debate on the fair extension.

E. E. Reid, who presided, pointed out that the Chamber of Commerce had indorsed some of the bylaws. It had not done so in other cases because it had not been asked to do so. That did not say that the members were not in favor of the other bylaws individually or collectively.

Most important Bylaw.

Rev. D. C. McGregor declared the playgrounds bylaw to be one of the proportant questions before the people. He explained that he had enjoyed the privileges of country life as a boy, and he thought that every child should be given a similar opportunity or a good substitute. The playgrounds would produce somewhat the spirit of the open country fields, where the "old swimming hole" is reproduced in the the open country fields, where the "old swimming hole" is reproduced in the city bathing pools. The wealthy man could take care of his children, but the majority of the children are unable to leave the city. By putting a playground in each ward, the citizens would be doing the best possible thing to alleviate this condition.

Best Paying Bylaw.

Speaking on the town planning bylaw, John Cottam asserted that the plan, if accepted, would be the best paying public utility in the city.

"Town-planning asks you to get busy and to stop spendthrift and unguided work," he stated. "At the present time we have sewers which won't drain our cellars. Former city councils have committed us to miles and miles of pavements and sewers of which there is no need. We are about to renew every public building in London, and we should have some plan before we set about it. In spite of Mayor Somerville's statement, I don't think it will hurt city offcals to get along with the present city hall for a few years more until we have a definite building splan. wille's statement, I don't think it will hurt city offeals to get along with the present city hall for a few years more, until we have a definite buildings plan for all the civic bodies. We face the same situation as the allies did. They had to co-ordinate their command before they won, and so must we. Look at the joke of the federal square. The people twice voted for it, and the city council told them to go plumb. They were sent to Ottawa to help it, and they did their blamedest to stop it.

"We are not asking for money. We are asking you to appoint a commission to study the city's building needs. For that reason I ask you to vote against the city hall bylaw. We need a new city hall, but we should take two or three years to plan for it."

No Cost to Ratepayers.

Mr. McGuire said the Industrial Association by aw was in the same class as the town-planning, in that it involved no cost to the ratepayer.

At present the city's industrial commissioner is handicapped. "You might as well send him deer hunting without the city for nine years, he stood on the cover of Dunder of

At present the city's industrial commissioner is handicapped. "You might as well send him deer hunting without a gun," he stated. The Industrial Association has been formed by citizens who have agreed to put up $100,000. When a company wishes to come here, but has only sufficient capital to carry on business and not account to carry on business and not enough to build, money will be advanced from this fund on easy terms, and it will thus make the way of the new industry much easier. All the citizens are asked to do into the terms are asked to to do is to guarantee the bonds in order that they may be sold at a lower rate of interest.
Frank Glass, M.P. for East Middle-sex, explained that it was necessary for two-thirds of the eligible voters to vote on the question and to give it a majority. For that reason the citizens majority. For that reason the citizens who did not vote was really voting against the bylaw, because if the necessary two-thirds of the votes were not cast the bylaw could not carry, no matter how big a majority it received. He pointed out that Londoners object strenuously to bonuses to industries, but there were no bonuses in connection with this proposition. The money would be loaned on a strictly business Mr. Cottam explained that in the event of a failure of a new company the Industrial Association would stand between the failure and the city. It would be necessary for all the members of the Industrial Association to fall in business before the city would business before the city would e liable for any money. Will Cause No Hardships.

Secretary (. M. Hunt of the Western air Association, told the electors that the fair had grown to such an extent that it was absolutely necessary to en-large the grounds. Livestock and horses in particular had suffered, and it had been necessary to rent outside stables to accommodate them. He said the project of new grounds was not feasible because it involved the expenditure of a million and a quarter dollars and the city's finances could not bear that amount at present. The only other method left was extension ther method left was extension. The speaker emphatically declared that the Western Fair Association will not be party to causing hardship to justed," he said.

One member of the audience suggested that the fair do away with the sideshows to get more room. Mr. Hunt declared that this could not be done, as they were part and parcel of the exhibition. One year there were no side-shows, and strenuous objection was made by the citizens. "It seems to be a necessary evil," he stated.

Another member of the audience claimed that the statements of Mr. Hunt ed that the statements of Mr. Hunt and Mr. Cottam conflicted. Mr. Cot-tam had stated that the city was too large in area, while Mr. Hunt urged the people to get off their property and spread out still further. Mr. Cottam replying to this said he thought there enough vacant lots within the city take care of that.

Problem of Distribution.

Jared Vining speaking in favor of the reservoir bylaw said that London's water problem was not one of purity, but distribution. He explained that the Philip Pocock said the $200,000 being asked for the L. & P. S. R. was just as essential as the original issue, which the people had authorized. He explained that the road will soon be handling coal for the Grand Trunk and that an additional locomotive will be required for this. Not a Dissenting Vote.

Lieut.-Col. Coles briefly explained the bylaw for the soldiers' memorial hall. While this did involve the expenditure of money, he was confident that no citizen would hesitate to vote for it. The slogan of the campaign should be "Not a dissenting vote."

DIRECTORS INDURSE EXTENSION OF FAIR GROUNDS; SEE IMPOSSIBILITY OF NEW SITE AT PRESENT TIME

Cost of Total Removal Is Pro hibitive Just Now, They Say, But All Realize That Room Must Be Found For More Exhibitors.

Directors of the Western Fair, chosen from many activities in London, are practically a unit in favor of the extension bylaw. At the same time, almost every man is a new grounds advocate, were it possible to secure the money from the city to remake the exhibition and to move to a new location. Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore was one of those who from the first stood for new grounds, but in view of the enormous outlay involved and the fact that the exhibition needs immediate relief from overcrowding, he has decident that the exhibition needs immediate that the exhibition needs immediate to new grounds, but in view of the enormous outlay involved and the fact that the exhibition reason in the first stood in the expansion scheme and believes it should be voted through, if the fair is to take advantage of the present opportunity.

Arthur T. Little was also favorable to new grounds, but in view of the remendous increase in crowds and exhibits of the last few years believes it imperative that the city should have more room at once.

A number of the directors as well as City Clerk S. Baker, have been interviewed, in view of the importance of the Western Fair to London, and their opinions are herewith presented:

Director George G. McCormick: "In deciding to expand the present fair the present fair to the east, citizens will not be exhand the present fair to the present fair to the east, citizens will not be expand the present fair to London, and their opinions are herewith presented:

Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore (chairman.): "It is a well-known fact that I have been in favor of a new site for the Western Fair, but after careful investigation found it would be absolutely impossible to finance such a scheme, which would cost, at the lowest estimate, over a million dollars.

"The present grounds are the property of the city, and were donated to it for park purposes only, and cannot be doing the best possible thing to alleviate this condition.

"You won't get any dividends dirrectly, but you will get the dividends of better life for our boys and girls. The total cost is only one-half mill, or about $20,000 a year. If you own property to the extent of $1,000, it will cost you 50 cents to indorse this bylaw." he said.

Fame Is Growing.

Secretary A. M. Hunt: "When I attended the annual convention of the exhibitions of America at Chicago this I I found that the fame of London as a growing fair that paid its own way was known to all the fair managers. And when people understand that this bylaw will improve rather than injure the east end they will vote for it. One mistaken impression is that Egerton street will be closed. This street will be open all the year around except at fair time."

Director George A. Routledge: "I have been at Toronto Exhibition every year for many years to secure exhibits for London the following week. Ottawa of Fair has the same dates as London, and they are crowding us harder every year because they know they can tell the exhibitors they will be crowded at London. It's a big fight between the east and west for fair supremacy. More room at once is the only solution, and citizens will do well to think before those who has served his city in a way that few men would, after all he is only a shoeman, and he and the other commissioners are unable to fight the underwriters like I did when J. W. Little was mayor."

Instead of bullding a new reservoir he suggested using the water stored up by the old Hunt's dam for the fight-ing of fires and street flushing, by pumping it into mains used for it alone. This, he said, would meet all requirements of the underwriters, and would leave the spring water for drinking purposes. There would also be a saving in the piping.

Against Memorial Hall.

Instead of giving $100,000 for the building of a Memorial Hall for the veterans of the war, he advocated the giving of this sum to set the returned men up in business, preferably on the farm. He would grant more than this for this purpose, if necessary. He also suggested a plan to get the provincial government to pass an act in parliament.

Some people had to walk several blocks on the streets which had not seen a snow plow and among them were girls whose shoes were of materials that might be termed anything but sturdy. To say the least, they were not capable of keeping the owner's feet from getting wet. It is safe to say that many residents of the east end will go home tonight with a cold which they did not have when they left home this morning, and they will blame the persons responsible for plowing the sidewalks.

Fair Sex Than Ever. There were many London house-wives, fond sisters and sweethearts who bought "smokes" for hubby, brother or "gentleman friend," as the case might be, for Christmas, according to London tobacconists.

"I guess the women thought that their husbands were entitled to the best cigars in the store," said one big retail man today. "They bought the best cigars we had, regardless of price."

E. S. Little, candidate for mayor. If elected, he probably will take up this question in the new year so that arrangements can be made to put it into effect in 1921. When asked whether the females were partial to large or small boxes, the tobacconist stated that in previous years a box of 25 cigars was the regular buy, but this year the majority of his women customers had bought boxes cial elections.

"The Echo."

Sure enough it was a goose and a good-sized one with two large feet sticking out carelessly from beneath the paper. A little boy stepped forward and exposed all that was earthly of the goose to the light of day. The small crowd that had collected was not green with envy of the lad, but the goose certainly was. He had taken on a nice sort of mottled green appearance and would never be of any food value to a citizen of London.

The crowd melted away and the little boy was left alone with his prize.

BANQUETS WILL MARK CLOSING DAYS OF 1919

Banquets will mark the conclusion of the year's business for two of the city's governing bodies tonight. The utilities commission and heads of the various departments in the utilities building will be entertained at a banquet by General Manager E. V. Buchanan. While the evening will be largely of a social nature, the opportunity will be used to receive the reports of the various departments and to sum up the work of the year.

The board of education will hold its final meeting this afternoon. Follow ing this the members and officials will be entertained by Chairman J. S. Barnard. Here also it is likely that in addition to the social nature of the event the work of the year will be reviewed in a valedictory from the chairman.

EX-Ald. Ashplant challenged him recently to produce evidence of any action of this kind, agreeing to pay a sum of money to any patriotic fund if he did so, and Little now claims to have the evidence. It is in the form of a motion made by Ald. W. A. Wilson, at a council meeting November 21, 1916.

It reads: "Ald. Ashplant, seconded by Ald. Wilson, moves that a plebiscite be taken at the January elections on the following question: Are you in favor of an amendment to the annex agreement being inserted in the City of London bill, which shall provide that the fifteen-mill rate shall be made to apply on all property, and in all cases alike on the assessor's current valuation, and that the fifteen-mill rate be accepted as covering school rates, as required by the municipal act. The motion is defeated."

Ald. Little states that the motion was made by Ald. Ashplant at a previous meeting. The board of control brought in an adverse report on it, and that the fifteen-mill rate be accepted as covering school rates, as required by the municipal act. The motion is defeated."

INDIAN FACING SERIOUS CHARGE BEFORE SQUIRE

for Presiding Justice.

Eli Lyons, an Indian of the Muncey Reserve, is being tried at the courthouse this afternoon, with an indecent assault upon a 16-year-old Indian girl. The offence is alleged to have taken place several weeks ago. Several witnesses are to be heard, and it is improbable that the case will be completed this afternoon.

The case was at first called for 10:36 o'clock, but did not get under way until about two hours later. No one appeared to know just why it did not proceed at the scheduled time, the crown attorney and the defendant's lawyer putting in an appearance at 10:30.

Squire Chittick finally wandered into the courtroom at the time when most people were thinking of going to dinner, and announced that the case would proceed. Owing to the nature of the case, no stenographer could be employed, and with the squire taking the notes himself, progress was slow.

member of the I. L. P., and any way. I don't think the I. L. P. is directing the labor campaign. Perhaps he means the labor representation committee, of which he still remains vice-president. Let me explain his true position. The soldier organizations formed a central committee of five members from each of the G. W. V. A. and A. and N. V. and the G. A. C., Sergt. Young being sent from the Army and Navy Veterans. This committee was invited to meet the L. R. C. with a view to forming an alliance. They did so, and, as they could not, under their constitution, take any active part in politics, were given the privilege of voting as sifting delegates. At the first meeting, Sergt. Young was elected as vice-president, and, as such. I am informed on good authority, that he participated in the standing vote which made Mr. Ashplant's nomination unanimous.

which made Mr. Ashplant's nomination unanimous.

Since then, however, his views have undergone a wonderful transformation. He is now apparently boosting Ald. Little. Why? He says Little is a loyal friend and ready helper of the veteran. Does Sergt. Young forget what happened when he headed a delegation from the Army and Navy Veterans to interview No. 1 committee on the question of tax exemption for veterans? Surely not. And it is ancient history regarding the stand that Ald. Little took on the soldiers' insurance. We fall to see where this wonderful, vaunted friendship appears.

Again Sergt. Young says he is speaking for his many comrades. Perhaps he will inform us just who his comrades are.

Then there was barbed wire everywhere, the noise of machine gun and rifle fire was constant night and day, and shopping had to be done in the midst of the revolution, but today jovial street hawkers voices are heard in all the principal shopping streets; the shops are shopping streets; the shops are jammed with customers, and as much business is being done as in the most flourishing years of peace.

Christmas for Rich.

Berlin's Christmas this year will be a Christmas only for the rich. Even Berlin's Christmas this year will be a Christmas only for the rich. Ever the foreigner, who obtains his marks cheaply, finds prices high, so what must they be to the vast mass of people to whom the mark is a mark with a kreatly decreased purchasing power? It is only the wealthy who would rather spend their money than pay it away in taxes who are soing to enjoy Christmas thoroughly in Berlin this year. Think of it. The smallest candle for a Christmas tree costs a shilling; a box of inferior costs a shilling; a box of inferior crackers is eight shillings. There are simply no cheap toys for hanging on simply no cheap toys the Christmas tree. the Christmas tree. Look at booths along the pavements in main streets, where Berlin used to buy it Christmas tree toys. Where before the war, a penny was spent, a mark must now be paid. There are no ingenious new che marked. The small boy laments the almost complete absence of engines and railway trains, and his revoluand railway trains, and his revolutionary father is doubtful about the Uhlan and foot soldier and cavalry, and cannot abide the war lords, which even at this revolutionary Christmastide are abundant.

The cheapest and most ordinary small doll costs about 18 shillings. Indeed, all toys are from 12 to 20 times more expensive than in England, and one cannot help noticing that stocks of toys on hand in the big shops are simply not being sold. that stocks of toys on hand in the big shops are simply not being sold. So this Christmas must be qualified again. It is Christmas for the rich but mainly for the grown-up rich.

An enormous business is being done in articles of luxury. Ivorgineck chains from £5 upwards and ivory rose pendants from £2 are among the cheapest and most popular Christmas presents.

Curious Feature.

Except in the case of fancy articles and jewelry, the quality of things is, of course, not at all good. Meats of all kinds are exceedingly scarce. Tinned ox tongue fetcher £5. A curious feature in this year's Christmas trade is that those who can afford it are giving themselved clothes. The city's tailors are charging 1,600 to 2,000 marks nominally

LONDON MAN VICTIM

William Anderson Dies A Owen Sound-Brother Also Affected.

OWEN SOUND, Dec. 29. - From drinking wood alcohol, William Anderon is dead, and his brother Joseph son is dead, and his brother Joseph in a serious state. The dead man who had been working in London, came home to spend the Christmas vacation. He had been around with his brother on Saturday. That evening he was taken ill, but nothing was thought of it until early yesterday morning when he became much worse.

To the doctor he admitted that he had drank part of the contents of a bottle labelled "Columbia Spirit," largely composed of wood alcohol. He died this morning, and it is doubtful whether his brother, who had also been indulging and who was taken ill about the same time, will recover. Anderson was about 34 years old, and was born in the township of Derby. He leaves his mother, five brothers and one sister.

Eric Stroheim in "Blind Husbands" and a Splendid Vaudeville Act.

Eric Stroheim, in "Blind Husbands," gripping drama of exceptional interest, is the feature at the Patricia Theatre for the first part of the week. The large audience which thronged the day were well pleased with the offer-ing, which included one of the best acrobatic acts presented in London in Stroheim has been seen in photo-

Stroheim has been seen in photoplays here on previous occasions, when he has played the role of a Hun officer. In his latest success, "Blind Husbands," he is depicted as a lieutenant of the Austrian army, who goes to a fashionable summer resort, where by suave, mock courtesy he works his way into the confidence of the women of the resort. He fails in his attempts to ruin the life of a young American girl. His downfall finally comes in the mountains.

Possibly no picture ever presented here has more beautiful scenes in it than "Elind Husbands." The photoplay is staged in the Tyrolean Alps and umerous scenes of the high peaks are representation of the high peaks are very interesting.

The vaudeville act is entitled "Daly's Tangled Army." The performers are acrobats of exceptional ability, and the act provides splendid amusement. A comedy not work comedy picture and a news review photo completes the offering.

'HEARTSEASE" WITH TOM MOORE FEATURE AT THE MAJESTIC

Interesting Tale of English Life and "Under the Top" Pleases Audiences.

"Heartsease," one of the latest Gold-"Heartsease," one of the latest Gold-wyn productions, with the noted star, Tom Moore, in the leading role, is the feature at the Majestic Theatre for the first part of the week. The tale is one of the most interesting of Eng-lish love romances presented at a local theatre in many months, and both afternoon and evening audiences at the popular playhouse were highly pleased with it. pleased with it.

The tale is a thrilling one of the struggle for fame of a young English musical genius. His famous opera is about to be produced, when it it is stolen from him. In his efforts to recover it he is knocked unconscious by a musical opponent, and does not recover his memory for several months. In the meantime his rival has produced the opera, claiming it to be of his own composition.

the opera, ciaiming it to be of his own composition.

An interesting love romance is interwoven through the many scenes, making the picture, like most of Tom Moore's successes, one well worth seeing.

A special double bill is being presented during the afternoon, Fred Stone being featured in "Under the Top." This picture is also well worth seeing, and drew much applause at the afternoon performance yesterday.

Miss Merlyn Pococke appears in two exceptionally pleasing numbers. Miss Pococke possesses a splendid voice and her pleasing personality wins for her many friends. She was heartly applauded last evening.

FRANCE NOW AGREES ON TURKEY QUESTION

Said To Favor British Proposal To Internationalize Constantinople.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—Reports appearing in the French press to the effect that the council of the premiers to consider the Turkish question will meet in London instead of in Paris failed of confirmation in French official circles today. Consequently, it is still believed that the conference will be held here. An impression is gained from official sources that the French and British viewpoints regarding the fate of Constantinople and the Dardanelles are no longer greatly at variance. Since the visit to London of Phillipe Berthelot, who represented France at the conference to arrange trials for German ference to arrange trials for German war criminals, the French are said to have accepted the British position that Constantinople would continue to be the subject of political intrigues if left in the hands of the Turks.

Boats Were Smashed.

The Van Driel, Captain Turnweil, with a cargo of coal for the government of Holland, cleared from Sydney on Saturday last. This morning, at 1:20 o'clock, she struck St. Shotts ledges. Boats were immediately launched, and as promptly overturned and hurled by mountainous seas against the inaccessible cliffs lining the shore. When morning broke, the inhabitants of the little fishing village drawn to the scene by news of a disaster during the night, saw nothing but wreckage and bodies being tossed about at the foot of the cliffs. Later on when the doomed ship was plainly visible from the shore, and in the intervals of huge breakers which swent the wreak from the stage. plainly visible from the shore, and in the intervals of huge breakers which swept the wreck from stem to stern, five men could be seen clinging desperately to the bridge.

And so the day has passed, with five men fighting frantically for life in plain view of the fishermen and their families, anxious but unable to lift a hand in their rescue. At times a sea would dislodge one of the five, but when it had passed and the bridge was again visible he would be seen clinging to some other vantage ground. At times it would appear that one or two of the five were missing, but when another lull came it would be found that all were there. It is extremely doubtful if the wreck can stand the buffeting of another night, but many of the villagers have returned to their homes, praying that when they return to the top of the cliffs at day-break tomorrow they may discern something more than a waste of angry seas.

This happy state of affairs was brought about at a conference between Mr. Currie and three members of the Government. Mr. Currie come down from his home today, supposedly to "raise ructions" with Attorney-General "raise ructions" with Attorney-General Raney, Premier Drury and all and sundry in the Government over the appointment of Miss Walker. Premier Drury, Attorney-General W. E. Raney and Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture, and Secretary J. J. Morrison of the U. F. O. were present. The conference lasted two hours and a half. Then the premier handed a statement to the press, and this was followed by a statement from Mr. Currie.

followed by a statement from Mr. Currie.

Following is the premier's statement:

Not an Applicant.

"I have seen Mr. Harold Currie today and outlined to him the general scheme of promotion and reorganization of the outside civil service by which we hope to abolish the evils of patronage. He has expressed himself as being in accord with these ideas. I wish further to say that Mr. Currie was not an applicant for the position of registrar of North and East Middlesex."

This is Mr. Currie's statement:

"I have never received from the minister of agriculture nor from anyone on his behalf any communication whatsoever in reference to opening up North Middlesex for him or for any other minister."

Mr. Currie's brief statement was by way of a formal reply to insinuations that he himself had had an eye on the registrarship of Middlesex County and was disappointed when Miss Walker was promoted to the position. Later he made a fuller explanation, covering details of unpleasantnesses in Middlesex and winding up with a declaration that he had never thought of breaking with the U. F. There still remain several important cases to be disposed of in the present assizes. Probably the first case to be brought up will be the charges against F. J. Dixon and J. S. Woodsworth. Both are charged with writing seditious words, and another charge was laid by the grand jury against Woodsworth of speaking seditious words at a meeting held in the board of trade building just prior to the Russell trial.

If the decision of the court of appeals should call for a new trial Russell will take his place with the other seven strike leaders, who, it is expected, will be tried together.

While Mr. Ashplant has the official indorsation of the committee of Labor men who chose the slate, we believe that the large majority of London Labor men will be better served by electing Ald. Little mayor for the coming year. Ald. Little is a large employer of labor, and while he has been a member of London's City Council he has always been a keen advocate of legislation sought by the Labor interests, and we therefore believe that Labor's interests will be best served by a tried and true friend rather than by experimenting with a financial critic whose doctrines are far in advance of the times, to say the least. LITTLE IS THE BEST BET. Rally to his support.

The LABOR LEADER has long conducted a vigorous and successful fight against Socialism, Radicalism and the O. B. U. element in organized labor. The LABOR LEADER stands for the best element of organized union labor.

The LABOR LEADER heartily indorses the London Labor slate with two exceptions. The mayoralty candidate is one of these.

RISE IN BREAD.

After all the efforts to reduce prices, the dust kicked up, the acrimonious bickerings, the high salaries paid to investigators and controllers and board of commerce men, their daily ery that "Cost of Living Shall Not Rise Tonight," see what a nice little New Year's present our Wheat Board gives us. They tell us with a happy new year smile that wheat and flour prices are to rise about 20 per cent. Any child in the third book can work the question how much bread will be advanced as a conse quence. He will find the answer about two cents a loaf.

Hitherto the temporary stabilization of wheat prices has perhaps done something to check the rise of everything else. But the minute wheat cuts loose, there is no knowing how rapidly prices in general will rush ahead. The advance of one thing is partly a cause, partly a pretext for increased profit-taking on other commodities. If things go on much longer in the present way, the vortex of spirally ascending prices will become so accelerated that we may fear a general sauve-gui-peut. Perhaps already there are some who seek to get their hands on all they can because they fear a smash ahead, and want to have their nests as thickly feathered as possible when it comes. Grabbing and hoarding may hasten an evil day for all, but may make comfortable a few.

How can it be expected that interest rates will not rise along with the general drift? Can lenders be satisfied with a fixed rate of interest when prices soar? Is it better to buy provincial and municipal bonds, or to buy a house whose value will advance with the cost of building dividends, for many years to come. materials and labor?

Although they profit by rising prices, businessmen are as anxious about the outcome of the process as anyone else. Clerks smile cheerfully as they tell you that "you'll never get it so cheap again." Advertisements blossom with the same glad tidings. With a sort of joyful noise all sorts of people unite together to advise that street-car fares be raised. All seem very merry over it, and some of the unthinking probably are, so long as they get their three meals and movies once a day. But many are more or less nervous about the far-off, perhaps

The people generally see that the mad pro cess cannot be arrested by action here, or action there. They look to the Government at Ottawa and would like to know what it is really doing, and why prices go up faster than ever. In the last five or six weeks, the cost of staple articles of food has gone up at the rate of six cents per week. This is concurrent with new high level prices "fixed" for newsprint, an advanced price of coal, etc. Mr. Shaw, a Toronto miller, says cheerfully that the new rates in wheat and flour won't affect the millers or bakers, "the public will have to pay, they seem to have lots of money." Fine optimism! No one says "the public be damned." So long as it has thick wool to shear, they coo and make good cheer

The Nine Little Tailors at Ottawa, who correspond to the defunct Seven Sleepers of Toronto, have surrounded themselves with a wire-entranglement of controllers who do not seem to control. We may expect them shortly to declare, like Premier Balfour in 1905, that "nothing can be done" to hold down or stabilize prices. That will surely be their swansong, as it was Balfour's. They will then give way to those who can, partly because they must.

A leading Montreal miller says that the old price of $2.30 for Manitoba wheat "was a good one for the farmer, and the many, it seems, are being sacrificed in the interests of the few. The 6,000,000 Canadian consumers must pay an advanced price for the staff of life for the benefit of a million farmers, who were already receiving a good sum." "If this is so, Ontario farmers are among the sufferers. Are our farmers going to join with mercantile rings in boosting prices to the bitter end, or will they lend a hand to bring a halt and put out the "Borden" regime?

ELECTION DAY DUTY.

It is a question if London has ever faced a municipal election in which a greater variety of important issues were to be decided than is the case this year. If ever there was a time when municipal interest should be keen, it is at the beginning of 1920, when a municipal program greater than we have ever known in our higtory has been mapped out and is placed before the ratepayers of the city for their judgment.

There are those who lament the passing of the old-time town meetings where cantheir views on the questions at is it not the case that we have adopted a much better way of informing the electorate regarding the votes to be What municipal meeting could ever hope to place before the voters as clear-cut atements as are contained in the small pamilets sent out from the city clerk's office. A hundred at the best have ever attended nicipal meetings; there is no voter who does receive the accurate, succinct statement the city hall. The voter who goes to the ignorant of the votes to be taken has but himself to blame. The city authorities have done their best to enlighten him.

Modern cities face certain classes of voters who are a positive menace to better conditions. There is first of all the careless indifferent person, too little interested to go to the polls and vote. This is the person who between elections is usually most blatant in criticism of the civic government. A second class who menace civic advance, are those who go to the polls year after year with the declaration "I'm going to vote against all the bylaws." This class seems to regard itself as showing independence and marked individuality by such action, but they are really as dangerous as the non-voters. Then there is the third class, happily less numerous today than in the past, who vote only for candidates of their own political stripe in provincial or federal affairs. Against these three classes we have to set the honest-minded citizens who vote for the men they believe will make London bigger and better, and who examine the bylaws submitted and register their vote in accordance with their reasoned convictions. It has become almost a platitude to urge that citizens turn out and vote, yet the urging must come year by year in the hope that some may be stimulated. And this is a year when no patriotic citizen can afford to neglect the opportunity that is his to influence city business in 1920. We want a capable city government, and we want a program laid out for them upon which the people have passed so that there may be no hesitation in undertaking works of magnitude. The way to get these things accomplished is by every citizen doing his part. It is no sacrifice that is asked; it is simply a duty that is owing to the community as well as to the individual that all shall participate in the management of their common affairs. That is the essence of democracy.

OTTAWA, TAKE NOTICE!

After a two-years' experiment in public ownership of railroads the United States Government has decided to turn back the systems to private control on March 1. The Government has failed lamentably in its operation of the railways, and restores them to former owners greatly disorganized in many instances. It will take billions of dollars to get them back to their former efficiency and organization, billions that will in the end, of course, come out of the pockets of the general public through increased rates or vast Government subsidies. President Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio estimates that as a result of two years of Government control the cost of operation will approximate $1,700,000,000 annually. He estimates the revenue at $1,000,000,000, which leaves a shortage of $600.000.000. He could see no surpluses, no

Canada's Union Government jammed through Parliament a measure for the purchase of the Grand Trunk, which leaves the country open to committing a disastrous mistake similar to that made by the United States Government. Has Ottawa taken no notice of the stupendous failure made by Washington in public ownership of railways? It is not yet too late to adopt the sane and safe plan of private operation, with Government control of rates, that will protect the public and at the same time not cripple the cide whether or not $100,000 shall be given for the erection of a Memorial Hall on Federal Square to commemorate the services of London's soldiers in the great war. The city council has already voted the money for the purpose, and it remains only for the citizens to sanction this at the polls. We believe that the bylaw will be passed without a dissenting vote. It is hardly possible that in the community will be found anyone who would oppose this worthy plan to provide comfort and recreation for the returned men, as well as establish a splendid tribute to their services, and that of those who sacrificed their lives, that we should be protected. London should show its gratitude and admiration by a thumping majority in favor of the Memorial Hall bylaw.

THAT BEACON LIGHT. In the elden days, a man who erected a lightnouse—just as today he builds a theare—hoped to make a fortune from it. As a matter of fact, men who gained permission to place permanent beacons on dangerous parts of our coast, made thousands of pounds profit, says an English writer.

This practice of allowing private persons to build lighthouses became very much abused, and was ventually stopped. One man paid $2,225,000 as the purchase price of a barren rock on which he built

THE SEASON OF BAD MANNERS.

[New York Globe.] The man who spits or coughs recklessly in large at this time of year. He has but to open wretched mouth and workers, laid low by hard colds, lose thousands of dollars, the homes of poor people are swept by influenza or pneumonia, tuberculosis gains another victim or two, and perhaps one or more lives are sacrificed to make full measure. He may mean no harm, but he does more than most professional criminals. There are thou sands of him. One cannot ride in any public vehicle or frequent any public place without meeting him and running the danger of being victimized by him. It is he who made the influenza epidemic so disastrous. It is he who makes winter an unwholesome season. This is largely a matter of manners, People who spit in public places do so because no opinion that they care about has ever condemned the practice. Bad manne have been considered an attribute of democracy, not accustomed to being ordered. and the spitting habit, it is impossible to deny, has flourished all through American history. English travelers complained of it in our first railway rains. The cuspidor, too frequently an ideal rather than an attainment, is a contribution distinctly American. But that democracy and bad manners are not inseparable is shown by the testimony that the Prussians of the empire were possibly the worst-mannered people in the world. One may be self-respecting, one may be every bit as good as the next man, and still regard the senses, the comfort and the security of others; likewise, one may be the most disagreeable of traveling companions, and still cringe before a mean bureaucracy. The careless cougher and spitter is, in fact, violating the first rule of democracy, for he is maintain-

BRITAIN IS STILL THE WORLD'S POLICEMAN. [Vancouver World.]

Reading between the lines of what British and French statesmen and newspapers guardedly say, the disappointment in both countries at the decision of the United States to abandon the League of Nations is profound. So much had been built upon "American idealism," such lofty hopes upon the speeches which President Wilson made in Europe a few months ago, that the action of the Senate comes with something of a shock. It is beginning to be realized in Europe that the United States made war with Germany solely because Germany had insulted her, and now that she has helped to avenge those insults on Germany, she wishes to wash her hands of the whole affair.

But the League of Nations must go on even without the United States, Allied statesmen already in setting the world to rights that they cannot afford to delay. Britain, France and Italy must, therefore, take up the "white man's burden" and

That burden is nearly overwhelming. Italy at is rent in twain by domestic disputes. France has her hands full re-establishing her stricken regions. Only Britain is free to act as the world's policeman, and even she has to count the cost closely because of her enormous war debt. She is struggling not only to govern a huge section of Africa, to control India, to administer her scattered colonies and protectorates, but at the same time to assist the Baltic Provinces to establish themselves, to bring order out of chaos in Asia Minor, to maintain the watch on the Rhine, to cultivate the Arab, to prevent the Bolshevists making trouble in Central Asia, and to deal with a hundred and one domestic problems of extraordinary urgency. It is noteworthy that this tremendous burden falls exclusively on the forty millions of people who inhabit England, Scotland and Wales. The overseas lominions, with fifteen million Britons within their borders, do not share it, nor indeed do they show any sign to do so. And because of this they cannot throw stones at the United States for the attitude she has chosen o adopt.

SCHEME OF NAVAL DEFENCE. (Vancouver Sun.)

Intimation comes from Ottawa that a "definite scheme of naval defence" is being "considered" by the minister of marine. If he is wise he will look at it long and thoughtfully. Then he will put it in a pigeon-hole and forget it.

The people of Canada want to recover from the last war before they proceed to get ready for another. With a public debt of two billion and a pension roll already large, but sure to be larger, the taxpayers are in no mood to sanction the exenditure of a hundred millions per annum, or any other sum, for purposes felt to be unnecessary at

If any further argument is needed against scheme of naval defence, it has been furnished by Lord Fisher, who points out that no vessels built now are likely to be of the least value in a fight a few years hence. Morevoer, there is no enemy in With what nation can anybody imagine Britain engaged in hostilities at sea within the next

Her power on the water is indisputable, and nobody is showing the least inclination to dispute it. Under all the circumstances, for Canada to spend money on naval defence would be wasteful in the extreme Inza knew who had dictated that letter. She knew, too, who had made the decision for the board—Dr. Ralph trous one misstep in the surgery might Peddlar, to be sure.

Dr. Peddlar had long been the dread of the young girls at the hospital. If he had been in full control none but old and experienced nurses would hold positions at all. Youth to him was apparently a great crime—if not a crime, at great fault, at any rate. From the day he had been put in full charge of the surgery he had interfered with Inza's plans and ambitions. The surgery had always been her "special." Her cool head and steady hand even at times of greatest strain had been the marvel of the undergraduates and the joy of the surgeons. That was before Dr. Peddlar came, however. Just before his first operation he had sized up Inza. "This nurse will not do at up Inza. "This nurse will not do at all. I must have someone older, someone more experienced," he had announced to the superintendent decidedly. There was something about Dr. Peddlar that discouraged argument or adverse reasoning. He never made requests; he always gave orders—orders that were filled without dispute. So it was that Inza was transferred to the contagious ward, and an older and npetent, was in charge of the sur-

Inza had the happy faculty of applying herself to whatever befell her lot. As the months passed her efficiency in the contagious ward won for her a reputation with the doctors and patients that no other nurse in the in-stitution could rival. It was some gratification to her to know that all doctors and people in general did not hold the prejudices of Dr. Peddlar against youth. Then came the retirement of the superintendent. Inza's friends and many of the doctors urged her to place her application before the board—the board over which Dr. Ped-dlar presided, and ruled with a hand of iron. The result has been related. Some nurses would have resigned from the staff of the hospital at once— but not Inza. She was going to "show" Dr. Peddlar. Her time would come. It

A recurrence of the Spanish influenza epidemic of the year before had been rumored, but few cases had found their way into the hospital. Until a new superintendent was appointed Inza shared in some of the duties of the office, so that is how it happened she answered the telephone on this bleak

Inza's heart gave a jump as she recognized the voice over the wire. She had been within earshot of Dr. Peddlar only on one occasion, but his voice had been impressed on her memory. "You must send me a nurse at once -someone old and experienced. There is no one with me but my servants, and I fear I have the Spanish influenza." A lot of the old force had gone from his voice, and Inza guessed correctly that he was very weak. "A nurse will be right over," she promised.

"One old and experienced," he re-

"I understand." she answered. "Now you go right to bed and see that you are well wrapped up."
She smiled as a surprised little gasp came over the wire. Dr. Peddlar

For three weeks Dr. Peddlar had been between life and death. He woke from a long sleep and realized that he had passed the crisis, that the long hours of delirium were over. He did not open his eyes. His ears were tak-ing in the short little steps that went carefully about the sick room. These same little steps had sounded all through his delirium. They were the steps that had preceded the cool, soft, little hands that had been placed upon his burning temples, and had brought relief to him so often. They belonged to somebody very old, very sweet, very much like the little mother that had gone out of his life so few months ago. His mind carried him back to the day the little person had come. He had been conscious then. Her face had been covered by an influenza mask but from over that mask had peeped the most wonderful pair of eyes he had ever seen—eyes that smiled forth each relief to him so often. They belonged ever seen-eyes that smiled forth eas and brought relief to his aching, tired bones. From under her nurse's cap had peeped a lock of snow-white hair— hair that had assured him that he was hair that had assured him that he was in the hands of an experienced and sensible nurse.

Slowly Dr. Peddlar opened his eyes. For a moment he thought he was still delirious. There before him was one of the most beautiful young girls he had ever seen. As she walked toward his bed he could hardly restrain a gasp. Her step was the step he had heard all through his illness. This young girl was the nurse—the nurse who had come camouflaged with the influenza mask and the grey lock of hair. As she drew closer he closed his eyes once more. What was he to do? At first thought he decided to order her from the room, but as a soft hand was placed on his but as a soft hand was placed on his temples he changed his mind. After all, she was the nurse who had saved his life, the most wonderful nurse in the world. How was he to know that she was Inza Talbot, the nurse whose ambitions he had shattered? bitions he had shattered?

It was weeks later. Dr. Peddlar's convalescent days had stretched out remarkably. For half an hour he had been working before a hand mirror. With a sigh of satisfaction he laid down his razor.

As Inza entered the room with his breakfast tray she jumped back with a cry of fright. Dr. Peddlar was a changed man Gone was the dark heard.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have just finished reading Wednesday's Mail-Box, and was very much interested in Mrs. R. W.'s letter, in reference to her daughter's painting. I have often thought of writing you about the same subject, but somehow or other I never got as far as that, and now I have Mrs. R. W. to thank for an answer to what I wanted to know, and I hope she gets those thanks through the Mail-Box. I, too, have been interested in painting ever since I was a child, and have taken lessons in it, and, although I have not much time for anything like that just now, would like to know if I could earn something in this way, as every penny counts these days, and besides I think it is everyone's duty to make use of their talents, don't you?

I wonder if there is a stocking-foot pattern left for me? If there is, why please send it along in the inclosed self-addressed envelope, and very much oblige.

Dear Miss Grey.—Would you please put the answer to my question in your paper as soon as you can? I have a friend who went overseas, and while he was there his wife ran a bill at a grocery store. She was in bad health and had to doctor, and the bill was not paid. They moved to London and the storekeeper is dead. They have sent the returned man a letter to pay, or he would be taken to court. Can they make this man pay what he never owed, as he left his wife and family of eight children provided for? Hoping you will not be tired by my questions, I will sign myself. Wants Help.

Dear Miss Grey.—It is a long time since I wrote to the Mail-Box. I surely am pleased to see it growing again. I was very much interested in the letter sent in by One of the Oldtimers. I wish she would send her address to me. I would like to write to her. One of the Boxites said she would crochet anything for someone who in return would send her print patches for quilts. I wish she would write to me. I am too busy to do any fancy work appreciation.

if it is asking to Ans.—I wonder if it is asking too much of Lily Lover or Eleanor to send us in a recipe for canning beef and chicken? Perhaps they can supply a little helpful experience along with recipes. Hope you may be able to find the other help you want through the Mail-Box, English Buttercup. You sent your address, but not your name. Please let me have this information in case of letters for you.

To Remedy Leaking Pipes.

Dear Miss Grey.—May I enter the Mail-Box once more just to wish you and all the readers a truly Happy New Year. What a Christmas it was for so many of us! Those of us who had our boys with us again this year. Yet I can't forget the dear mothers whose brave boys were not with them. May God, in his own way, fill the vacancy that their absence causes and give them hope for a reunion where there will be no more wars and sorrow.

I read Eleanor's letter with pleasure, and glad she had such success in canning her beef, and since we have a remedy for leaky stove pipes I will pass it on. Have the tinsmith cut a hole about three inches in diameter in one length of pipe and rivet on a piece of sheet iron to act as a cover for the opening. Place this length in the pipe so the opening is easily reached, and when starting a fire close it, but when the fire is burning up well or when checked off for the night, open it, part or all the way, and the extra supply of air passing through the pipes will dry up the liquid and there will be no more trouble.

Am sorry to miss our wee bit of a story from the paper, and note with amusement the reason given in today's paper, viz., a shortage of newsprint paper. Really I think we get more pages but less reading almost daily. Now, of course, we know the advertisements help financially, but you see, we pay something for the paper and feel we have a right for something beside advertisements. Hoping a hint will be sufficient, I had better close or my letter will be in the wastpaper basket.

turning to the page, and would lik to hear from Aunt Nancy. LILY LOVER. Ans.—We expect better conditions in the newsprint situation soon, Lily Lover, but surely the space devoted to the Mail-Box has been very generous. Don't you think so? Thank you ever so much for your helpful letter.

You Should Own Debentures

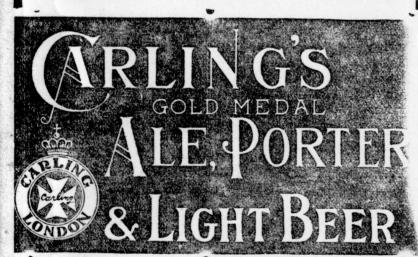

While it is absolutely necessary that you should have a savings account, it is not always wise not to use your money in other ways when your savings reach a certain amount.

The best plan to follow is to aim at saving $100, then invest them in debentures like the ONTARIO LOAN DEBENTURES. These net you 5 1/2 per cent interest per annum, payable half yearly.

By saving and investing you protect yourself against poverty in old age. Consult us about this matter. It will mean much to you in the years to come.

George Geddes and Albert Roberts were nominated to fill the vacancy on the water commission. For the three vacancies on the hospital trust created last year the following names were offered: James Bristow, W. R. Coulter (present chairman), S. Chant, E. A. Horton and A. Harbor. All are at present members of the board, with the exception of Mr. Harbor.

It is reported that Mayor Horton may not accept the nomination for mayor, but will seek election to the hospital trust, as he is vitally interested in the memorial hospital project.

$10,000 PAYMENT TO CITY COUNCIL OF HALF YEAR'S RENTAL IN FULL.

These payments, due today, were made yesterday to the City Treasurer. This brings the total actual profits to the people in rent to the city council, sinking fund and surpluses for four and a half years since electrification to $267,751.07, made up of $90,000 rent paid to the city council, $78,058.20 paid to the City Treasurer for sinking fund, $99,612.87 in surplus earnings.

L. & P. S. passenger traffic jumped from 105,559 in 1915 to 958,587 in 1919, and the trend is still upward. Freight traffic is multiplying, too. Another car ferry is soon to run into Port Stanley. Grand Trunk coal supplies are to be brought in that way to be hauled by the L. & P. S. R. Your railroad has more business than its equipment can handle now. It must have another locomotive, more coaches and other urgent necessities.

They will bring still greater earnings for the benefit of the people. The L. & P. S. R. is a profit-maker. Since electrification it has never cost you one penny in taxes. You are simply asked to ratify this bylaw; you are not asked to provide the money. The added earnings of the railway will

SIR WILLIAM OSLER, A FAMOUS CANADIAN, IS DEAD IN ENGLAND

His Fame As a Physician Was World-Wide.

BORN IN ONTARIO

Was One of the Greatest Men Who Sprang From Canadian Soil.

OXFORD, Eng., Dec. 29.—Sir William Osler, the noted physician, who has been ill for several weeks past, died here this evening.

OXFORD, Eng., Dec. 29.—Sir William Osler, the noted physician, who has been ill for several weeks past, died here this evening.

Although Sir William Osler was known to be seriously ill at his home in Oxford, where he has been regius professor of medicine since 1904, recent advices had given hope for his recovery.

Sir William Osler, who passed his 70th birthday last January, was stricken with pneumonia in November, but about the middle of that month was reported convalescent. A fortnight ago, however, reports reached this country that they would be, passed round the world in garbled form of every variety. He was quoted as having said in effect that men past that age were of no value in the process of humanity and that men who had reached the age of Dr. Osler remained silent on the subject for a considerable period and then issued a statement in which he declared:

"I did not say men at sixty should be chloroformed. That was the point in the novel to which I referred and upon which the plot hinged."

The novel in question as "The Fixed Ported" registered. Sir William Osler, who passed his 70th birthday last January, was stricken with pneumonia in November, but about the middle of that month was reported convalescent. A fortnight ago, however, reports reached this country that he had taken a turn for the worse. Cabled advices shortly afterward announced that his condition was somewhat improved, while on Christmas Day a message from him was received at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, in which the famous physician extended Christmas greetings to all his old friends and announced that he was "making a good fight" after an empyema operation.

Sir William Osler was one of the greatest men who sprang from Canadian soil. He was born in the province of Ontario, and grew to be the most distinguished of four famous sons of a distinguished mother, the hundred than inversary of whose birth was celebrated at Toronto on December 14, 1916.

His First Preceptor.

His First Preceptor.

His first preceptor was the parish priest, to whom he acknowledged his moral and mental indebtedness and to whom he inscribed one of his learned works—"The Practice of Medicine."

Receiving his medical degree from McGill University in 1872, Dr. Osler placed the imprint of his ability on medical learning to such a marked degree that within a few years he became an accepted authority in medical science. His great art lay in his skill in diagnosis and his profound knowledge of all the parts and functions of the human body and the various ills of nature. If such a thing could be, he was a specialist in all departments of medicine.

The late George Murray described him.

The late George Murray described him is "a man of great and versatile renius." genius."

No small part of Dr. Osler's work lay in his directing influence upon the lives of others. His precepts were broad and sound. Thousands of young men by this teacher, and thousands learned the lessons that he taught through his writings. Above all, he urged work so that the temptations of early or later years might be avoided. To the youth he said:

Country Has Shown Richness and Will To Assure Victory; Will Again.

PARIS, Dec. 29 .- (By the Havas Agency.)—The Chamber of Deputies adopted the local bill by a vote

PARIS, Dec. 29.—Louis Koltz, minister of finance, today presented to the Chamber of Deputies a loan bill, which had been approved by the cabinet, providing for an issue of 5 per cent bonds, redeemable during the next sixty years at 150. A drawing each six months will designate the bonds to be redeemed at those periods. As in the case of previous issues, the bonds will be exempt from taxation and other

A fire department is an illustration of the principle of preparedness. It's protection, pure and simple—something no modern city or town can do without.

Just as firemen stand ready to protect your property, so Grip Fix stands ready to protect your property, so Grip Fix stands ready to protect your health. For over 10 years it has been an unexcelled treatment for colds. A box in the house means protection against the common and troublesome cold in the head and may head off an attack of the 'flu. It is a combination of drugs such as your physician would use and contains nothing of a harmful nature. In capsule form it is something which gives relief to a cold in a night and works quickly in the case of Grippe. Get a box of Grip Fix today. Then you'll be prepared should a cold come. You can get it at 35 cents per box. On sale at all drug stores.

"The Government," continued the minister, "will endeavor to assure an equilibrium between the ordinary expenses and the permanent resources by fiscal effort, as well as by energetic reductions. But the situation in which the war left the country leads us inevitably to maintain an extraordinary budget, which the loan is designed to relieve."

Replying to questions, he said:

"We will be unanimous in putting a super-tax on those who enriched them selves during the war—those who were uniched scandalously, profiting by the public disaster.

"Germany's financial capacity must be watched, so that all her revenues can be directed by priority to the payment of her debt.

"The taxpayer must accustom himself to the idea of a surcharge of from six to seven billions. The budget must be in a condition of equilibrium. It is necessary to arrive at a state of sta-war bonds will be accepted in payment.

M. Koltz, addressing the Chamber, reviewed the war's finances. He declared the voting of monthly credits was contrary to good methods and that it was indispensable to return to the rule of a single budget.

The minister said that the expenses voted totalled 220,000,000,000 francs, but the disbursement averaged a tenth less. These included forty billion francs for the artillery; nineteen billion francs for the support of soldiers families; twenty billion francs for public extwenty billion francs for public extwenty billion francs for public extwenty billion francs for food and other charges; twenty billion francs for food and four billion francs for food and four billion francs for two advances to friendly countries.

False Charge Answered.

M. Koltz said that the total receipts of 1919 would exceed eleven billion francs. "That answers the fallacious charge that France lacked fiscal courage," he continued. "To appreciate the figures, one must consider that France had eight departments invaded and offering no resources, and mobilized rownine million, or eighty per cent, of the mobilized age." England, according to M. Koltz, mobilized 52 per cent of the men who could be called to the colors, and the United States 6 per cent.

The advances of the Bank of France, he asserted, totalled 25 billion francs. "The country has shown its richness, its power to save, and its will to assure victory," the minister went on. "It will continue to do so."

The minister said that various taxes during the war brought in 31 billion francs, national defence bonds 49 billion francs, all the receipts totalling 194,000,000,000,000 francs.

"There hasn't been a fire in the city for months," said a citizen the other day. "It seems a waste of money to nothing."

"We don't disband the fire department because we have a run of luck," replied a ratepayer. "It pays to have those firemen ready, whether they are doing anything or not." and the ratepayer spoke wisely.

A fire department is an illustration of the principle—

"That measure has had its hour; it has served its time. At the present moment we are in the presence of three crises—first, insufficiency of budget resources; second, a treasury crisis necessitating loans pending future receipts, notably from Germany; third, economic, through the increased cost of living and the difficulties of transportation."

The proposed law provides that the subscription limit shall be fixed by decree as well as other details. In the opinion of the minister, it seemed useless to fix the subscription limit in advance.

What Will Happen

New Year's Day—the day on which so many individuals make good resolutions, the day on which so many fresh starts are made-should be a red-letter day for London-a day on which London will definitely step out of the bush league class and take her rightful place among the majors. This is what will happen if we pass the following progressive bylaws:

YES for YES for YES for YES for Playgrounds

What will happen if this bylaw passes is that we shall have the playgrounds for our children that they are entitled to. More motors rushing through our streets, more "Keep Off the Grass" signs, more population, all compel us to provide more and better playgrounds, properly supervised, for the growth and health of London's thousands of priceless

Vote For Playgrounds

Industries

What will happen if we pass this bylaw? All that we do is simply to authorize the city to guarantee the bonds of the London Industrial Association to a limited amount. No money is asked for. None is wanted. The money will be put up by earnest businessmen of highest standing in the city. New industries will be attracted and London will cease to see smaller centres capturing valuable plants which should come here. London will grow. VOTE FOR THE INDUSTRIAL

Town Planning

What will happen if we pass Town-Planning? No money is asked for in this bylaw, either. We will simply say in effect: "We want London to grow sanely and beautifully, economically and efficiently. We want all spending boards to be compelled to work toward a fixed plan, which WE are going to select. We want to stop the practice of one board tearing up what another has put down. We want a program of efficiency, giving us a better built city for less money." VOTE FOR TOWN-PLANNING.

Western Fair

What will happen if we vote in favor of this bylaw? The Western Fair, which must now GROW or go downward, will take on a new lease of life. Ground will be acquired to the east of the present site, new buildings will go up, exhibitors will come in greater numbers than ever, the fair will be bigger and better, London's exhibition-so well thought of now all over Americawill be an even better advertisement for us than before. Follow Toronto and Ottawa in encouragement of their exhibitions. Be big! VOTE FOR THE WESTERN FAIR.

What will happen if we vote for the Reservoir? London will likely be spared a catastrophe. Our present foolhardy plan of skimping along with only one day's water supply on hand at any time, will be replaced with a SAFE minimum of water storage that will cover every possible contingency. Doing this work NOW will postpone further extension for a dead, who stood for us in the forefront of the battle against tyranny and wrong, is our great privilege when we vote to put up a monument to their honor in the form of a Memorial Hall. The veterans now homeless-as far as a proper gathering place is concerned-will then have a real hall in which to meet, a club house for the convenience, relaxation and recreation of returned men. This building is to be the property of London, but primarily for the use and benefit of ex-soldiers. The bylaw should pass without a

The railway is asking for a debenture issue to enable them to handle the big business in prospect as well as more efficiently transport the present heavy traffic, which has exceeded all expectations. Our road has been called the finest in America. We want that kind of a road. The debenture issue is to be carried out of surplus earnings, without cost to the ratepayers.

LONDON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Be Sure to Vote on the Western Fair Bylaw AND DON'T VOTE BLINDLY

The Western Fair Extension Bylaw will win on the facts and it is the duty of every ratepayer to make certain not to vote in ignorance. To clear up the misconceptions let us list the various mistaken notions regarding this big movement toward civic development:

ERROR NO. 1

That the Fair can be moved to new grounds and the present property sold for residential purposes.

ERROR NO. 2

That property owners will suffer hardship through being compelled to move their homes to new sites.

ERROR NO. 3

That Egerton street will be closed during the year and workmen and their families forced to use other routes.

ERROR NO. 4

That the people whose property is required are hostile to the extension bylaw.

ERROR NO. 5

That the Fair Board, and not the city, will own the property and all improvements made thereon;

ERROR NO. 6

That exhibitors and crowds can be accommodated in the present grounds and the exhibition hold its

These are the targets that have been placed before the directors in their campaign to build a Greater Western Fair. And here's a volley of facts to place the truthful and positive benefits of the Extension Bylaw before the ratepayers:

FACT NO. 1

The exhibition cannot be moved to new grounds unless more than a million dollars is spent as an initial outlay. And the largest part of the present grounds cannot be sold because it is deeded to the City FOR ALL TIME for park purposes. Therefore, the city cannot sell the land and build with the proceeds.

FACT NO. 2

Property owners whose property is required will not be inconvenienced. Their houses in most cases will not be required for many months. They e able to reclaim these houses. whether frame or brick, at low prices, and move them or rebuild on other sites. Theatres and industries bid for homes they require-and get them. Why not the City of London?

FACT NO. 3

Egerton street will not be closed except during exhibition week, and it will be improved as a thoroughfare by the exhibition board. The grounds will be open and available for larger playgrounds to thousands and thousands of East London children.

FACT NO. 4

Reliable residents of the proposed extension district declare that at least 75 per cent of the owners are willing to sell. Nearly 50 per cent of these people have already given options on their property to the fair board. Does that look like hostility or hardship?

FACT NO. 5

Every square foot of land secured by the fair board comes into the immediate possession of the city. In addition to this all new buildings and improvements become the city's property. Furthermore, the board is hopeful of being able to pay all or part of the charges on the $300,000 by increased receipts.

FACT NO. 6

To conduct the fair in the present ground space will be calculated to put the fair out of business. Ottawa is making a desperate effort to secure the exhibits that usually come to London, realizing the tremendous advantage now held by London's big exhibition. It is now or never for the Western to forge ahead.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. Four More Deaths in New York Monday.

SIX MEN IN CUSTODY

Capture of At Least a Score of Poison Dispensers Is Expected.

New York, Dec. 29 .- With six men in custody, alleged ringleaders in a conspiracy to flood New York, New Jersey and New England with poisonous substitutions for whiskey, federal, state and city authorities were united tonight in a vigorous pursuit of the purveyors of the poisonous beverages in which have caused scores of deaths and a hundreds of cases of blindness and illness. The arrest of the six men in New York late last night and today is only the first step in a widespread campaign which is expected to result in the capture of at least a score or more of the polson dispussage, according more of the poison dispensers, according to federal officials.

In the meantime, the toll of death and serious illness caused through drinking wood alcohol and other illicit concoctions continued to mount in New York and adjacent cities. During the day four more deaths were recorded. In addition two men and a woman were picked up unconscious on New York streets, and two men in Passaic, N. J., in a similar condition, all four being critically ill tonight from alcoholic poisoning.

Waiting outside the Ontario Government Employment Bureau, Toronto, for an interview. If the men could not be given immediate work they were given an order on the patriotic fund to tide them over the Christmas season.

Shutdowns Forecast Throwing Huge Number Into Idleness.

Berlin, Dec. 29 .- The semi-official Nord Deutsche Aligemeine Zeitung says that the national bureau of statistics, in its December issue of the National Labor Gazette, declares the German labor situation in November grew

"An almost complete stoppage of train service between November 5 and November 15 did make possible a surplus vember 15 did make possible a surplus of 400,000 tons of coal," the bureau says, "but frequent snowstorms hindered coal shipments and all work in the open, and while production increased it was impossible to supply industries, many of which had to make additional restrictions and lay off employees. "Extensive industry shutdowns, throwing a huge number of employees into idleness, are threatened in the near future. That is most serious in that future. That is most serious, in that the number and variety of foreign contracts are constantly rising. A further accentuation of the situation was caused by a continual lack of raw material."

Of the 10.245 army nurses who saw service, 266 died while on duty and 3 were injured in action.

MRS. ANITA CARSON JOINS LONDON CON-SERVATORY OF MUSIC

Winner of Many Distinctions in England Schools.

IMPORTANT ACQUISITION

This Institution Always Does Its Best To Give Public Very Best Available.

Mrs. Anita Carson, the piano and riolin soloist, has joined the London Conservatory of Music staff and will egin teaching immediately.

Those who were present at the Sat-urday night "Pop" a few weeks ago will remember Mrs. Carson and also the splendid solos she rendered in her own artistic way. Mrs. Carson is not only a violinist of great merit, but she is also a very fine planist, and will teach both these subjects.

is also a very fine planist, and will teach both these subjects.

Mrs. Carson is a graduate of the Royal Academy of Music, London, England, in both giolin and plano. She is also a graduate and an associate of the London College of Violinists, London, England. Besides being a graduate from these noted schools of music, she won the distinction of being presented with three medals for her superior work, while studying at the Royal Academy of Music. One medal was given her for ear test and sight reading, having the honor of being one of the five who received a medal out of the eight hundred students contesting. This medal was presented by the Duke of Connaught at the Queen's Hall, London, England. The other two medals, one for violin and the other for piano, were presented by the Princess Henry of Battenburg at a great reception given in the Queen's Hall. Mrs. Carson had the honor of being one of the twenty-five chosen artists who performed at this princess' reception. Mrs. Carson had the honor of being one of the twenty-five chosen artists who performed at this princess' reception. Being a member of the Royal Academy of Music Orchestra, one of the finest in England, Mrs. Carson received a wonderful training in orchestra work under the well-known conductor Sir Alexander McKenzle. This orchestra was often conducted by such well-known musicians and composers as Edward Elgar, Sir Henry J. Wood and Coferidge Taylor. Besides having her regular seat in the violin section of the orchestra, she acted as assistant acorchestra, she acted as assistant accompanist to the orchestra.

Musical London is very fortunate indeed to have another musician in its midst of such rare ability. The London Conservatory of Music takes pleasure in announcing this new acquisition to its already artistic staff, and will go further to prove the fact that this institution believes in giving its patrons the very best in music and dramatic art. rchestra, she acted as assistant ac-
