METHODISTS MAKE A PLEA FOR MODESTY

Resolution Condemning Form of Dress and Dancing Passed.

CONFERENCE AT ORILLIA

Action of Attorney-General Raney On Gambling Is Approved.

ORILLIA, June 13.—Making a plea for "modesty," the committee of the Ontario Methodist Conference, at today's session brought in a resolution that specially condemned the modern dance. As at first passed by the conference the resolution included reference to the "form of dress worn by women," and was a bit stronger than the final stage. In the original form it was referred back to the committee and toned down as to the evils resulting from dancing, and the reference to women's short skirts was entirely eliminated. Then the resolution was carried unanimously following is the resolution as finally accepted:

The conference regrets that in some of the social questions, and in the character of much of the dancing commonly indulged in, an undue appeal is made to the baser impulses, resulting often in serious moral peril, and in some cases ultimate ruin to those who are subjected thereby to fierce temptation. We beg to point out that this is especially injurious to the boys and girls in the adolescent period. We urge our ministers faithfully to point out these evils to their people. We also recommend that in all our churches a serious effort be made to deal with this problem in a constructive way by endeavoring to secure for our young people the wholesome, healthful recreation they need.

A resolution commending Attorney-General W. E. Raney for law enforcement and for his stand on gambling was passed. The resolution stated that "the bitter and unscrupulous character of the gambling industry was the best evidence of his usefulness."

Alex. Mills, K.C., Toronto, led in the attack on the jockey clubs. He declared that the conference was dealing with a species of gambling which in every church, including the Methodist Church, is a constant temptation. Further, he said: "It is ever getting into the homes of the ministers. There are many who think it very respectable and say: 'What the governor-general can do, our boy can do.' We should break it up."

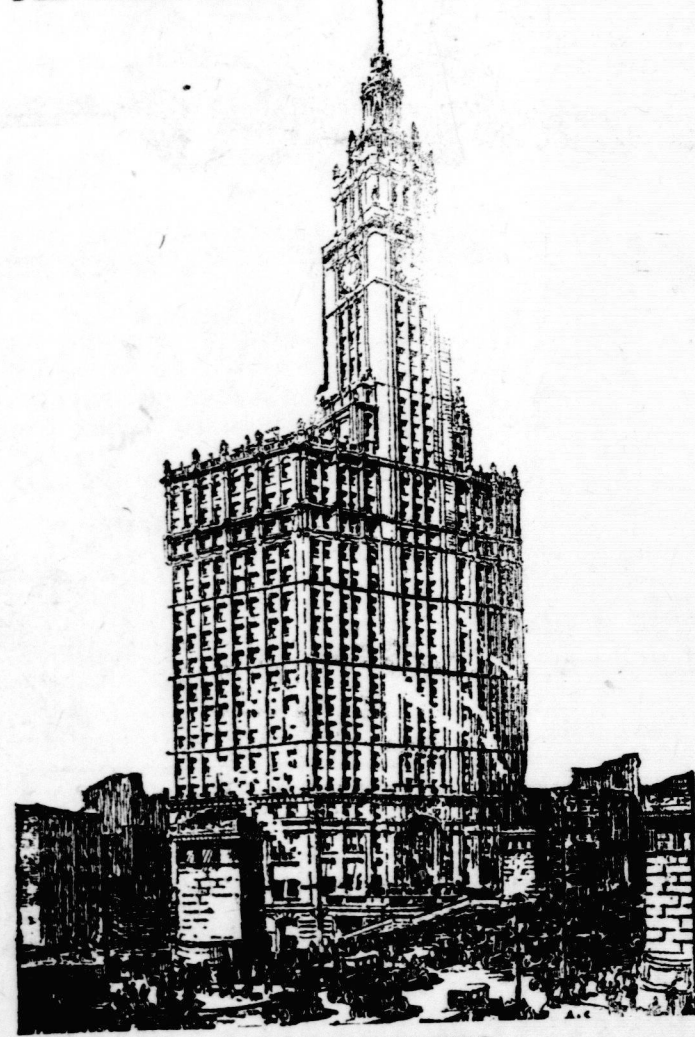

The resolution on race-track gambling called attention to the fact that $15,000,000 had been wagered at Ontario race tracks last year, and characterized the business as an economic waste. "We, therefore, call upon the Dominion Government to place gambling on race tracks on a level with other business," the resolution said.

Among other resolutions passed was one asking the members of the Methodist Church to practice self-denial in relation to the use of tobacco, as an example to boys. Another resolution deplored the increasing number of applications for divorce.

A resolution on motion pictures characterized some pictures as "highly detrimental to the morals." The conference found time during the day to listen to a deputing representative of the striking printers of Toronto state the case for the matter. No discussion took place on the matter, however, and there was no action taken.

CRIMINAL NEGLIGENCE.
TORONTO, June 13.—A verdict of criminal negligence was returned by a coroner's jury here tonight against Ernest Morrison and James Smith, drivers of two automobiles which collided in the west end of this city at 2 o'clock in the morning of June 8, two men being killed in the accident. Bertram M. Richardson and Samuel Ewers, Morrison and Smith have been under arrest since the accident on charges of manslaughter.

ADVERTISING BUILT IT

WRIGLEY BUILDING

The building is covered with enamel finish terra cotta on all four sides. It is regarded as one of the most beautiful buildings in Chicago and people and press are enthusiastic about it. The Chicago Tribune published a picture labeling it "A Jewel of the Link." Wrigley recently completed new factories at Chicago and New York, and the Canadian and Australasia Wrigley companies have built new factories at Toronto and Sydney. All this new construction work in the space of a few years is certainly a tribute to the power of advertising and the accumulative effect of a multitude of 5-cent sales.

CANADA LOSING CHINESE TRADE, SAYS J. H. WOODS

Teeming Millions Ready To Buy Canadian-Made Goods.

VICTORIA, B.C., June 13.—"Canadians do not appreciate what China has to offer in the way of trade," said J. H. Woods, managing editor of the Calgary Herald, just back from a tour of the Orient.

"There are," he pointed out, "not only the teeming millions, but there are great commercial syndicates there headed by successful men ready and willing to trade with Canada.

"Apart from the great British firms which have been established throughout the treaty ports, the American business connections have greatly expanded during the last few years of the war, and since the armistice, the American merchants are selling the goods which Canada should send, possessing as she does the shortest trade route across the Pacific Ocean."

RAILWAY WAGE CUT EFFECTIVE JULY 1

Friday's Report Confirmed—Conference To Be Held
This Week.

MONTREAL, June 13.—On the authority of high officials of railway companies, with head offices in Montreal, the statement made Friday that railway wages will be reduced by an average of twelve per cent on July 1, was repeated today. The conference to be held Friday between the employees and officials of all lines will be of a purely informal character and is expected to cover general discussion of wages and working conditions.

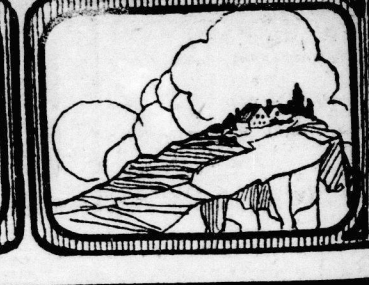

An official statement will, it is expected, be issued tomorrow covering the general purpose of the local conference.

NO CHANGE IN SITUATION.
TORONTO, June 13.—Another conference between the employing printers and the striking pressmen and pressmen's leaders was held today without any definite conclusion. Chairman F. M. Kimbark of the employers' negotiating committee stated tonight that he felt some progress had been made, though it was of an indefinite character.

The various headquarters of the unions involved in the strike reported today that there had been no change in the situation.

STRATFORD, June 13.—The death
Sunday night of Robert Larmour removes another link with the past, not only of Stratford, but of Canada. He was in his 82nd year, being born at Iroquois, Ont. As a lad he entered the service of the Grand Trunk. He came to Stratford in 1872, as superintendent of the northern division from Toronto to Detroit, which post he retained until January, 1886, when he was transferred to London as superintendent of the southern division.

Several years later Mr. Larmour returned to Stratford, where he started a school of telegraphy. Mr. Larmour's proficiency as a telegraph operator led him to be chosen to accompany the late King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, as his private operator on the royal train during his tour of Canada.

In his younger years the deceased took an active interest in military activities and while in charge of the sta-

REVISION OF RURAL CONSTABULARY IS TO BE CONSIDERED

ST. THOMAS, June 13.—There will be a revision of the rural constabulary list by the judge, the magistrates and general constables before the close of this week. Many of the countryside officers have outgrown their efficiency, and many have remained on the force as active service men, who have gone the way of the majority of constables. Some will be retired because of their old age, and charges of incompetency may be brought against a few.

That there is a need of some reformation in the small army of county constables is not denied by the officials in direct touch with the men in actual service. The county according to the list of living constables, must be flourishing in criminal activities to be able to provide and protect a large crowd of magistrates and officers. For every justice of the peace, at the general sessions of the peace, would appear to have provided each with a staff of policemen.

MOUTH OF RIVER THAMES TO BE DREDGED THIS YEAR

CHATHAM, June 13.—A govern-dredge will commence operations mouth of the River Thames on or the 15th of this month, according announcement made at the re-meeting of the city council this noon.

Mayor Briscoe stated that the
of taking up the tracks of the C.
L. E. electric railroad on King was commenced this morning by a of railway workmen, and that when completed the work on the payment for King street would started.

Several industrial prospects were referred to the city council by Ald.
M. Gray. These were reviewed in customary manner, and it is believed that Chatham will have several factories in the near future.

WANT DETOURS OILED.
BRANTFORD, June 13.—Citizens and motorists have asked that oil be sprinkled on the Hamilton highway detours. One big detour around Echo Place, which necessitates a four-mile run to go one, is entirely devoid of oil. The city is ready to do its part, but the township of Brantford refuses to aid in the expenditure.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. CURTIS STREET RATEPAYERS TO MAKE PROTEST Object To Paying For Curb It Is Proposed To Build.

DELEGATES ARRIVE HOME

St. Thomas Representatives To International Waterways Convention Back From Cleveland.

ST. THOMAS, June 13.—The property owners on Curtis street will not pay for the double-barrelled curb which is proposed to be constructed on that much-travelled thoroughfare, as the board of works has been warned and if the price of it be apportioned to the general taxpayers. The question of liability will go farther than the court of revision. Similar objections are in evidence over the laying of storm sewers in the section of the city where some streets are being improved. The property owners affected declare in their petitions for paving and curbing that there is no mention made nor a suggestion offered directly or indirectly for the laying of storm sewers. If they are placed as the board of works will have it, the people affected by the additional and apparently unwarranted expenditure will ask for relief from the county judge. Similar proceedings will follow if the cost is charged to the general taxpayer.

Delegates Home From Cleveland. The city representatives to the international waterways convention in Cleveland were Chairman Albert Roberts, Commissioner George Geddes, S. O. Perry, Col. A. F. McLachlin and Alonzo Bowley.

Rev. Arthur F. Lawson, formerly rector of St. Luke's Church, Yarmouth Heights, has returned from a week's visit to New York City.

Stole a Generator. The telephone booth of the London and Port Stanley Railway at the Gravel road crossing is being interfered with by apparently young people, and the railway authorities are looking towards prosecuting some one of them who stole a generator.

Flag at Half-Mast. The flag is at half-mast at the city building in a mark of respect to the memory of Thomas Allan, late superintendent of the waterworks.

The revenue from the street car service to the park yesterday reached about $150.

Mrs. Sarah Duncan Dies.
The death of Mrs. Sarah Duncan, wife of William B. Duncan, formerly of St. Thomas, is reported at Salt Lake City. She was a daughter of the late John Rowe, who went to Utah about ten years ago.

Sperrin N. P. Chant, son of ex-Mayor Sperrin and Mrs. Chant, has been awarded the Hamilton Fisk Biscuit Scholarship. He came out first in class in this year's arts work at Toronto University.

Death of Mrs. Waite.
Stricken with paralysis this morning Mrs. Charles Waite, wife of the late Charles Waite, died suddenly this morning at her residence, third concession, Yarmouth. She was in her 75th year and was a former resident of Hamilton. Two daughters and a son survive. Mrs. Charles L. King of Aylmer, Mrs. Mitchell Hepburn of Union, Robert Waite of Sparta road, Mrs. Miles Ketchum of London is a sister. The interment will be in Union cemetery on Wednesday afternoon.

Put to Good Uses.
The flowers on exhibition in the peony show yesterday were donated to Anas Wood hospital and the Alma daughters for their bazaar tables this evening. The ladies guild held their annual outing to Pinafore Park today and the hours spent in the lovely surroundings were immensely enjoyed. The next gathering of the members will be at the summer cottage of A. S. Smith, Port Stanley.

Mrs. James Acheson Dies.
Mrs. James Acheson passed away yesterday at her home 25 Margaret street, after an illness of some weeks. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Pallen and is survived by a brother, Dr. L. G. Pallen, Havana, Ill., and three sisters, Mrs. Charles Pallen, St. Thomas, and Mrs. J. E. McElmair of Winnipeg. The funeral will take place at St. Thomas cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

The Railwaymen's Outing.
The local division of the R. T. B. of L. E. and O. R. C. have elected the executive officers of the proposed big outing to be given by the railwaymen at Pinafore Park in August. Mayor F. L. Brinkman will be general chairman, Walter Weaver, Brantford engineer, was elected vice-chairman; F. Cunningham, M.C.R. engineer, secretary to the general chairman, and H. Sharp, M.C.R. conductor, treasurer to the general chairman. Like the big gathering of a year ago, the railroadmen will provide a big day of enjoyment for their hundreds of guests.

GERMAN COMMUNIST PLACED ON TRIAL FOR HIGH TREASON

Max Hoelz Incited Reign of Terror in Planen Region.

FIFTY CRIMES

Indictment Includes Murder, Arson, Robbery, Black-mail, Treason, Etc.

BERLIN, June 13.—Max Hoelz, the Communist leader, who last year incited a reign of terror in the Planen region, during which murder and arson were rampant, was arraigned before a special court here today on charges of murder, high treason, and disturbing public order.

Unusual circumstances attended the trial. All those entering the courtroom had to submit to being searched. Hoelz made a ringing statement to the court in which he refused to regard himself as a person accused of crime. On the contrary, he asserted that he was a complainant against the defendants society which you represent.

To allegations of specific crimes, such as shooting a man in the back and murdering children, Hoelz replied, "These are among a lot of other things that are being laid to my door. You will have to prove them."

Requisitioned Money.
To the charge of blackmailing property men into giving himself and followers money, the prisoner said: "We requisitioned money from the bourgeoisie. That is not plundering, but fair play. We had absolute power, but we did not misuse it."

Hoelz was born in Saxony, the son of a poor farmer. He herded cattle until he was eleven years old, then went to England where he studied and worked as a boy. He was for four years with the German army on the eastern front during the war.

Fifty Separate Crimes.
There are fifty separate crimes charged against Hoelz, these including murder, manslaughter, treason, arson, robbery, blackmail, grand larceny, breach of peace, and violation of the law against the transportation or use of explosives.

During the Kapp rebellion in Germany in 1920, Hoelz, whose ostensible job was that of a lecturer in moving picture shows, seized the reins of power at Falkenstein, Saxony, fifteen miles from Planen. After the fall of the Kapp dictatorship Hoelz and his band raided adjacent towns.

During his reign of terror Hoelz was said to have held on entire towns for ransom, burned villages and shot or imprisoned persons hostile to him.

BARN, CONTENTS AND TWO HORSES BURNED
Loss To Raleigh Township Farmer Estimated At $8,000.

CHATHAM, June 13.—John Crow, a farmer residing on the river road, Raleigh Township, lost his barn, stable, shed and corn crib in a blaze which took place early this morning. Two horses were burned to death; another was badly burned, but may recover. Five head of cattle received superficial burns, although the loss of livestock will be about $12,000. The total loss of the barn and contents will be about $8,000.

The presence of a large maple tree heavily covered with leaves saved the farmhouse from being consumed. At times the roof of the house caught fire, but strenuous efforts on the part of a bucket brigade saved the house and the granary which was also close to the scene of the conflagration. Neighbors from nearby farms and the village of Prairie Riding lent assistance in extinguishing the flames.

SIMS SPOKE THE EXACT TRUTH, MORNING POST

British Paper Declares Everybody Knows That This Is So.

LONDON, June 13.—Commenting on the Sims case the Morning Post says: "Everybody in the United States and everybody in this country knows that Admiral Sims spoke the exact truth."

Every thorough agreement with Admiral Sims' assertion that it was necessary to counteract Sinn Fein influence in the United States was the paper declares it is still necessary, and adds: "And how this can be done if men like Admiral Sims do not speak their minds, we are unable to conceive. We believe that the great mass of United States citizens, equally with the people of Great Britain are heartily resolved upon the maintenance of friendship between the two nations. We, therefore, appeal to all good citizens of the United States to see that the bad Irish, who are a curse to every land in which they set foot, are not permitted to work their wicked will."

Incappable of Government.
After asserting that the Irish are incapable to government, the Post says: "Their whole conception of this is the exercise of corruption," and citing such killings as the aged Very Rev. James Finlay, Sunday asks: "Are such savages as these to estrange two great nations?"

The Post expressed the hope that Admiral Sims will carry away the most pleasant memories of his visit, followed by the cordial good wishes of the British people.

LATEST OFFER OF MINE OWNERS WILL LIKELY BE ACCEPTED

Details Are Being Explained To Miners At Meetings.

STRIKE COSTLY

Money Loss Placed At Nearly Half a Billion Dollars.

LONDON, June 11.—(Canadian Associated Press)—Reports from various mining centres indicate a growing feeling among the men in favor of accepting the coal owners' latest offer. Meetings to explain details of the offer will be held in many districts before the ballot of the miners on Wednesday. A few of the miners' leaders remain irreconcilable. Vernon Hartshorn, for instance, telling the Glamorganshire miners that the owners' terms are "surfer pure and simple for them, and arguing that they would get better terms if they continued the struggle. Charles Gill, treasurer of the Bristol miners, also declares that the longer the miners remain on strike the greater will be the pressure brought to bear upon the Government to force the owners to make concessions.

Against these sentiments is the definite declaration of Herbert Smith, acting president of the Miners' Union, that a two-thirds majority against the owners' proposals will be necessary to continue the strike.

Negotiations between the masters and men in the cotton industry have been adjourned till Tuesday.

An authoritative estimate of the cost of the coal strike to the state is $30,000,000, including the abnormal unemployment pay, $20,000,000 for the defence force, $10,000,000 for the railway, and $25,000,000 loss in export coal trade.

SAY ASSESSMENT DEPARTMENT VERY UNFAIR IN WORK

Wrathy Brantford Ratepayers Make Charge That System Is "Rotten."

BRANTFORD, June 13.—The assessment department was under fire here again tonight, when charges of unfair assessments, based on increases for two years past on property in the workmen's residential district were filed by residents of Terrace Hill and Eagle Place, one man offering to sell a vacant lot for 10 per cent less than the assessment value.

Unfair assessments were backed up by Aldermen Reeves, Robertson and Billo, who early in the year fought for the adoption of the cubical contents system. Ald. Robertson declaring that the assessment system was rotten; the assessments because he dealt in real estate, and that it was impossible to get British justice, for the court would have given a decision. He charged that the members of the court of revision went there, as one member had frankly avowed to the Evening Star, to uphold the assessment.

Ald. Fisher, during a discussion on placing of war trophies here, suggested that a machine gun be put in the assessment department, for it would be needed, while Mayor Wedlake, the assessor of Ald. Robertson, that the assessment department was rotten, suggested that it be handed over to the board of health to clean up.

SELF-PRAISE.

Self-praise, whether from nations or from individuals, is generously discounted by those to whom it meant to appeal, and it is still more unpalatable when comparisons are made which have for their object the exaltation of one at the expense of the other. "Comparisons are odorous," remarks Mrs. Malaprop, and as a rule they have that defect. It is in this connection that the New York Times makes a few observations on the recent statement of President Harding, who asserted that "if all the nations of the earth were as honest and unselfish as this republic, there never would be another war."

"President Harding," says the New York Times, "was only following precedent when he thanked God that America is not as other nations are." The Times goes on to say that this sort of thing is common presidential form, and that Mr. Wilson often made use of it, though usually with more delicacy of expression. It is also pointed out that other countries from time to time take their turn at national boasting.

We fear that this is only too true, and nations have done so from the beginning of time. Some people call this patriotism. It is considered in some quarters the correct thing to have "a good conceit of ourselves," and this is quite a harmless idea, providing it is not carried too far. Once individuals or nations get it into their heads that they are just about perfect it is then that progress stops, and those who have a more modest estimate of their standard of excellence are apt to forge ahead, for the simple reason that they have not slackened their efforts towards self-improvement.

We are justly proud of the progress that Canada has made and is still making, but we are apt to forget the "spade-work" that was done by the early pioneers. That vigor and enterprise which characterized the builders of Canada must continue if the nation is to maintain its position in the march of events. We are still a long way from the top-story of the structure, and no matter how firmly the foundations may be laid, the higher we go the more care and skill is required to make the whole edifice secure. The honesty and unselfishness of nations can only come from the prevalence of these characteristics in individuals.

THE ROAD TO TOWN.

Writing of "Walking Tours," Robert Louis Stevenson remarks: "There are many different ways of seeing landscapes quite as good, but none more vivid, in spite of dilettantism, than from a railway train." Certain it is that there are roads leading to London by rail that prepare the eyes for the crowning wonder of the beauty of the city's tree-setting.

All the lush growth of early summer is upon the hillsides, and deep in the valleys, and over the woodlands are the lovely contrasts of "beech green and shadows numberless." The most casual glance about a railway coach reveals faces constantly turned toward the glory of fleeting pictures from the windows. Such vibrant beauty on all sides compels the attention of even the most moderate man of business, of whom Stevenson claims: "You may do what you will for him, put him in Eden, give him the elixir of life, he still has his businesslike habits." With beauty lavishly displayed in ways inaccessible to the seemingly inevitable motor of the day, one can acquire much wealth from making it a "business habit" to board un hindered the poetry hidden in the delicacy of fluttering poplar leaves gleaming in June sunshine, or the strength to be gathered from the eternal fields and trees. "However times reduplicated," writes Richard Jefferies—"their beauty only increases. The sun rises on the same grasses and the same green ledges, there is the same blue sky, but did we ever have enough of them? No, not in a hundred years! There seems always a depth somewhere unexplored, a thicket that has not been seen through, a corner full of ferns, a quaint old hollow tree which may give us something."

It is interesting to watch the shadings of soft grey fall over wooded distances with the coming of a summer shower, and then with the passing of the blurring threads of silver, the rich brown life of the earthen fields asprout with coming grain. Fresh tones are added to deep woodlands, where quaint old beeches sweep their gatherings of last year's leaves with low branches of new green. Old roadways that thread through quiet ways, whose dust is seldom disturbed, take on a golden beauty of wet earth, and a still deeper seclusion of dreams. Thickets of sweet clover hold jewels of clinging raindrops, and curving fern fronds in dark woods places sway softly in a gentle prayer of gratitude for the needed moisture.

Such a wealth of beauty finds richness of growth along railroad embankments. Long, high stretches reveal carpets of blue lupin so vivid and tender in coloring one waits yearningly for more and more as the train speeds on. Seas of ox-eye daisies blend their new white and gold with the delicate pink of reverfew. Waxen mayapple blooms hide under their great parasols of green, coquetting so winsomely with the bolder rose-tinted flowers of wild geranium and purple iris. Trails of the gypsy gold of creeping buttercups and the white gleam of tiny starflowers alternate with the graceful delicacy of columbine foliage.

Fields of clover heads of honey neighbor with fields of wind-rippled wheat. Bobolinks flit into grass nooks of feathery length and bluebirds and flickers pause on fence wires, quite aware of the wealth of petal and leaf that is theirs. In pauses of the train at the different quiet stations the recurrent pure melody of song-sparrows is a matchless anthem of thankfulness for summer showers and a June world of beauty.

For great leaf-lit trees left solitary in field centers, edging fences and marking curved, woodland-bordered pastures for clumps of old-pines left to enhance a sunset, one gives quiet gratitude to those who love to preserve beauty.

To have found "a sweet breath on the air, a soft warm hand in the touch of the sunshine, a glance in the gleam of rippled waters, a whisper in the dance of the shadows," is to have become armed against the turmoil and anxiety of the times, and to have found a fulness of life in the exceeding beauty of a summer world.

GOLF'S GLORIOUS UNCERTAINTY.

"Is there any other game in the world—a real game, that is—where 'form' is so incalculable as in golf?" says the Manchester Guardian, referring to the collapse of the American players at Hoylake. "The royal and ancient game" is certainly not only an infallible test of the patience of the players—and tell it not in Gath—the "fooling" of a ball or the miscalculation of a putt has, it is said, caused more than one wearer of the "cloth" to give vent to expressions not found in the ritual of any known denomination. "What doth it profit a man to gain the whole world if he lose the last hole?" is a reflection which a depressed clerical player is alleged to have made.

Undoubtedly, golf is a fascinating form of recreation, but "this cold game of meadow billiards," as a German paper described it during the war, is full of glorious uncertainties. The play in last week's ladies' championship on the local course demonstrated this, and if betting were by law transferred from the race-track to the golf course, it would soon die a natural death, because to foretell the results of a match is, as a rule, far more baffling than spotting the winner where horses are the contestants.

Probably some of the International Rotarians from this side of the Atlantic who are now convening in Edinburgh may find time to visit the splendid golf course in the historic town of St. Andrews. The Scot, as a rule, takes his golf seriously, and old and young, rich and poor, mechanic and millionaire, have a go at the game wherever there is a golf links to be found. All around the coast, where the green turf borders the sea, and the heather and whins scent the air, and the skylark sings blithely overhead, there the player derives health and vigor and patience and self-control from the grand old game, providing he goes about it in the right way.

In Canada, unfortunately, this game is at present too much the privilege of the few, but there is no reason why it should continue to be so. Surely we are democratic enough to find ways and means for providing golf courses in the vicinity of every town where all and sundry may enjoy the game, if so disposed. True, it may not be "caviare to the general" for a time, and for high-strung excitement and genuine thrills does not compare with baseball, but we are not overdoing the thrill business these days? Besides, in baseball the players are few, while the lookers-on are many. In golf it is just the opposite. Many can play the game on the same course at the same time, and thus get all the good that this form of exercise affords.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Today is strawberry day in London. A word to the wise is sufficient.

The tail of Wincek's comet, which may give the earth a bit of a jolt about June 27, is estimated at 1,000,000 miles in length. Some tail!

Great Britain is to stand aside in the scrap between the Greeks and the Turks, but this does not prevent the ruler of the waves from acting as referee.

Secretary Denby's order to Admiral Sims to come home puts one in mind of the Dugal crater's invitation to Baillie Nicol Jarvie in "Rob Roy," to "Come away and be drowned."

The "silent" policeman, who was struck by the auto at the intersection of Dundas and Richmond streets early on Sunday morning, consistently refuses to say anything about the matter.

France is sending a special mission to thank Canada for her aid during the war. The French may always be relied upon to do the right thing at the right time in the most graceful manner.

The London man who found three bottles of champagne of 1841 vintage in his cellar has not yet communicated with the King's Remembrancer, the official who has to do with treasure trove.

It is rumored that the prices of haircuts and shaves are to be cut by the barbers in town. Of course, and for those who have not reached the full years of whiskerhood, the shave is always down.

Americans are comparing the waiters in hotels in Italy to Ali Baba's forty thieves, owing to their fondness for tips. But who gave that famous Italian waiter, Christopher Columbus, the tip which led to the discovery of America?

A LITTLE DIFFERENCE AMONG FRIENDS.

The French would like to have Poland strong enough militarily to be a danger to Germany, to have enough German territory and resources to weaken the Germans. The British say they will not follow the French in that policy, and that they will not support Poland. That alienates the British and the French, and the effects of the alienation may be found later in the Rhine country, in the Ruhr and the Saar. If the Germans and the Russians get opportunity to handle the Polish way they want to, the Germans may find the opportunity to try to handle the French way they want to. No friend of peace can find any comfort in such possibilities, and Poland aggravates them by attacking Germany and Russia. The Poles cannot find any historical guaranty for their future in pursuing such a policy. They may feel that they are entitled to what they seek to get, but that will not do them any good. They were entitled to remain as a nation before, but they did not.

ENVOY TO IRELAND.

The government will have acted wisely if they have chosen Lord Derby as an envoy to Ireland. Lord Derby has qualities which fit him peculiarly for such a mission. First, and above all, he has the reputation of being an honest and open-minded man; secondly, he represents a type which Ireland understands and appreciates; thirdly, he is, in the best sense of the word, a sportsman. Such a man may not be versed in the finer shades of government, but he is not likely to regard as indispensable to any negotiation with Sinn Féin; but, at least, he can speak plainly after the manner of the plain Englishman and we do not think the instinct which tells Englishmen that he is the right man for a task requiring frankness rather than subtlety is far astray.

OTHERS' VIEWS.

LOCAL SENTIMENTALITY.

Arthur Ellis, official hangman in an interview with the press, gives his views on the system of county hangings carried out by himself since he succeeded Radcliffe, and advocates concentrating the executions at the penitentiaries because of the facilities for the safe custody of the condemned man and also because the man would be removed from the locality of the crime and the sentimental influences excited on his behalf by numerous friends. "Within fifteen days of the passing of the sentence of death," he said, "I am able to get 20 or 30 people of the district to sign a petition to defeat justice because of sentimentality," said he. Proceeding, Hangman Ellis further states "that sentimentality would have been lacking had he gone to the penitentiary. There would have been seven days talk, and then the boy hidden away in the penitentiary would have already passed away into oblivion."

WHEAT WATER CARRIAGE.

The American wheat farmers, without directly intending it, have made a strong case for the Lawrence waterway. With that waterway in operation, grain can be carried from lake ports to salt water at less than half the present rail charges. The savings effected will go almost entirely to the farmers. So long as we export grain, the price in our market is fixed by that of the surplus which goes abroad, and the price abroad is fixed by world conditions. Everything which enables the American farmer to reach that market more cheaply adds to his income—and there is no bigger or more needed task just now than to encourage American farming.

DEAD YET SPEAKING.

[Montreal Standard.] An interesting fact so far has not been the light of publicity was disclosed when the executors of Sir Wilfrid Laurier opened the safety deposit box where the dead statesman kept his personal papers. In the middle of the box were found a number of documents of a similar nature was a biography written by King George, offering Sir Wilfrid a pension which he refused. It was found that the letter there with intention. It could not escape even the most careless eye. So far as we know, Sir Wilfrid never mentioned it to anyone. It was a great surprise to his executors, one of whom at least had shared his most intimate confidence. But Sir Wilfrid was not a man who loved to be remembered. He was a simple, unassuming man, but he was proud to announce when he had left this earthly scene. A pension would not have made him a hero, but he was proud to be remembered. Sir Wilfrid was a great man, and his greatness was fittingly recognized in the highest places.

CANADA AND JAPAN.

[St. John Standard.] Whatever the people of Australia and New Zealand feel about the matter, they may rest assured of this, that, with the questions of international politics which are disturbing the relations between the United States and Japan, Canada has no concern and desires none. What they are quarrelling over is the trade of China and Siberia. They both claim to be supporters of the "open door" policy. Japan wants the principle of free trade, but Japan's policy is far from it, and, as for the United States, its actions with regard to its own mahogany are by no means convincing. They are probably quarrelling because neither of them is sincere, and they both know it. The empire can afford to isolate itself from such a dispute. Canada cannot afford to do anything else.

MR. MEIGHEN AND QUEBEC.

[Quebec Telegraph.] Premier Meighen at the convention of the Manufacturers' Association, declared that there were no favored cities in the Dominion, and that there would be no tariff while he was at the head of the Government. Well would it be for the Dominion in general and for Quebec in particular if it could be just as emphatically claimed that there were no favored cities in Canada. This cannot be urged, however, while Quebec continues to receive the treatment at present handed out to her, for while railroads under federal control insist on charging the same freight rates on grain from the West to Quebec as they do on grain from the West to Halifax and St. John, hundreds of miles farther east, the same rate of freight from Montreal to a European port as from Montreal, 150 miles farther away, notwithstanding the fact that the latter route involves a cost of piloting, coal, insurance and other expenses.

Mr. Meighen admitted yesterday that there was no question but that freight rates were too heavy in Canada and that these were a great hindrance to the country. The government, however, could not rectify this in one part of the country, no more could it in the rest of the country. They had to look at the matter from a national viewpoint. He recognized the importance of the traffic from the West to the United States to Canadian ports. This, he said, it follows that the small sacrifice of freight rates on grain from the West to the port of Quebec, instead of through American ports, would be a great benefit to the country. It would increase the business that would be brought to the greater mileage of Canadian railroads, to Canadian steamships, a Canadian seaport and Canadian ship laborers even though the latter be Quebecers and the port, Quebec.

POETRY AND JEST.

THE MILL-STREAM.

[Canon Scott.] Clear, down the mountain, 'neath the arching green,
And o'er mossed boulders dappled by the sun,
With many a leap, the laughing waters run.
They tumble fearlessly down each dark ravine,
And roam through caves where day has never been.
Until, at last, the open pool is won.
Where, by their poisoned strength, man's work is done.
In that old mill which branching cedars screen.
Here, all day long, the massy logs, up-drawn,
Against the biting saw, are loud with shrieks,
Here, too, at night, are stars and mystery,
And nature sleeping; and, all round at dawn,
The rugged utterance of mountain peaks
Against the infinite silence of the sky.

FAITH.

[Exchange.] Dr. Simon Flexner, head of the famous Rockefeller Institute, said at a dinner in Philadelphia: "I am not surprised at the faith cures you hear about. Even in legitimate medicine faith plays a large part." "A friend of mine treated an old Maasunk woman for typhoid fever. At each visit he put his thermometer in her mouth to take her temperature.

She improved, and finally day came when she found could dispense with his temperature taking. That day he merely prescribed and departed. "But he hadn't got far from the house when the old woman's daughter ran after him and called him back. "Mother's much worse," she said. "My friend went back to the old woman. She looked at him reproachfully from her pillow and moaned: "Doctor, why didn't you gimme the jigger under me tongue today? That does me more good than all the rest of yer trash."

AN OLD GARDEN.

[Beatrice Molyneux.] There is an old, old garden,
A wilderness of weeds,
Where thorns and thistles flourish,
And queer things there to seed.

No touch of human sorrow,
No breath of sin or evil,
The sacred memories lingering
In that old garden still.

The holy angels weeping,
Fold their white wings in prayer,
For it was once called Eden,
And God, himself, walked there.

And in that old, old garden,
Faintly, the white wings of angels,
Christ waits. A lonely monarch, Crowned with a crown of thorns!

WAITING FOR THE STEAK.

[Exchange.] "Say," remarked the peevish party at the table, "How long have you been working in this restaurant?" "Since we opened the water," replied the waiter. "I beg your pardon," apologized the peevish party.

SPANISH DOUBLOONS.

BY CAMILLA KENYON

"Cookie," I said sternly, "you've been drinking to me with coconut milk, and it has gone to your head. What you saw was just a plain ordinary pig." Cookie disputed me as against the hue of the apparition as against the fact that all our island pigs were black. "Then there happens to be a blonde pig among them that we haven't seen," I assured him.

But the eye of flesh, Cookie reminded me, was a heavy, lumbering creature. This Shape was silent as a moonbeam. There was also about it a dreadful air of being a witch's cat. Cookie's eyes bulged at a witch's cat vision which he had disappeared from Cookie's vision as did the ghostly pig.

For a moment I wavered in my determination to hunt the island had rimination. But after all? But neither lynx nor panther nor any other beast of prey is white except a polar bear, and it would be unusual to meet one on a tropical island. Cookie's pig, after all, was a pig, though still in the flesh. I thought I remembered having seen quite fair pigs, which would pass for white with a lightened negro in the light of dawn. So far only black dim light of dawn. So far only black dim light of dawn.

As the woods shut out the last glimpse of the white tents in the clearing, as even the familiar sound of the surf died down to a faint, half-imagined whisper mingling with the rustling of the palms overhead, I experienced a certain discomfort, which persons given to harsh and unqualified terms might have called fear. It seemed to me as if a very strong cord at the rear of my mind were jerking me back toward the inglorious safety of the cave. Fortunately, however, I was a man of vision, and of Mr. Tubbs heroic valor, exposing his devoted bosom to non-existent perils, and I resolved that I would not cross my fingers if I heard or saw anything suspicious, and struck out into the woods.

For all my brave words to Cookie, I had no intention of going very far. I had observed that the ground behind the clearing rose to a summit of a low ridge, perhaps 400 feet in height, which jutted from the foot of the peak. From this ridge I thought I might see something more of the island than the limited environment of Lantern Bay.

As the woods shut out the last glimpse of the white tents in the clearing, as even the familiar sound of the surf died down to a faint, half-imagined whisper mingling with the rustling of the palms overhead, I experienced a certain discomfort, which persons given to harsh and unqualified terms might have called fear. It seemed to me as if a very strong cord at the rear of my mind were jerking me back toward the inglorious safety of the cave. Fortunately, however, I was a man of vision, and of Mr. Tubbs heroic valor, exposing his devoted bosom to non-existent perils, and I resolved that I would not cross my fingers if I heard or saw anything suspicious, and struck out into the woods.

There was little undergrowth between the crowding trunks of the cocoa-palms. Far overhead their fronds mingled in a green thatch, through which a soft light filtered down. Here and there the close ranks of the palms were broken by an outcropping of rock, glaring up at the sky. The ground was still the same, but the air was different. It was a room with drawn blinds.

I gained the summit of the ridge, and stood upon a bare rock platform, scarcely elevated above the level of the forest. I looked down at my feet, and saw a large, smooth, waxy leaf of lily green. On the left rose the great mass of the peak. From far above, among its crags, I saw a faint, distant light. The ground fell away to the level of the low plateau or mesa, as we say in California, which made up the greater part of the island. Cutting into the green of this was the gleaming curve of a little bay, which in Mr. Shaw's chart of the island showed slightly larger than our cove. Part of it was hidden by the shoulder of the peak, but enough was visible to give a beautiful variety to the picture, which was set in a silver frame of sea.

I had not dreamed of getting a view so glorious from the little eminence of the ridge. Here was an item of news to take back to camp. Having with great originality christened the place Lookout, I turned to go. And as I turned I saw a shape vanish into the woods.

It was an animal, not a human shape. And it was light-footed and swift and noiseless—and it was white. It had, indeed, every distinguishing trait of a "coconut pig." Only it was not a pig. My brief shadowy glimpse of it had told me that. He knew what it was not, but what it was I could not say. I stood there rooted, even guess. Would it attack me, or should I only die of fright? I wondered if my heart were weak, and hoped it was, so that I should not live to feel the teeth of the Unknown Thing sink into my flesh. I thought of my revolver, and after an infinity of time managed to draw it from the case. My fingers seemed to open nervelessly limp and woodenly rigid. This was not a all the fault of the Unknown Thing. I had dreamed of meeting danger. I had fancied myself with my automatic making a rather pretty picture as a young Amazon—biting the dust in a dramatic fear that my revolver might speedily go off and wound the Thing, and then even if it had mediated letting me go it would certainly attack me. Nevertheless I clung to my revolver as to my last hope.

I began to edge away crabwise into the wood. Like a metronome I said to myself over and over again, monotonously, "Don't run! Don't run!" My legs floated through my brain. But how I quelled this creature with my eye when I could not see it? As for the hopeless peevish party. "Then it wasn't you I ordered that steak from."

YOUTH IN AGE.

Once I was part of the music I heard
On the boughs, or sweet between earth and sky;
For joy of the beating of wings on high My heart shot into the breast of the bird.

I hear it now and I see it fly,
And a life in wrinkles again is stirred;
My heart shoots into the breast of the bird,
As it will for sheer love till the last long sigh.
—George Meredith.

WHY?

[Dorothy G. Mason.] Why did you go away from me, Beloved of mine?
Why did you go and take with you
The bright sunshine?
Why did you take the happiness
That once was mine?

Why did you go away without
A single tear?
Why did you give me one cold kiss,
And leave me here?
Why can't you tell me (though you lie)
You love me, dear?

Why don't you listen when I say
That I love you?
Why not believe that till life's end
I will be true?
Why are there many loves for thee,
And for me, few?

J. LIGHTFOOT'S PIGEON

WINS 100-MILE FLIGHT

The Forest City Pigeon Club held its weekly race for the Average Cup for 400 miles. The weather has not been favorable to flying owing to thunderstorms, but the first four birds made remarkably good time under conditions. J. Lightfoot's bird won under race with a velocity of 350 yards per minute. It was exceptional speed for the day. The results:
1. Lightfoot—350 yards per minute.
2. Westman—275 yards per minute.
3. T. Westman—250 yards per minute
(b).
4. Rawson—237 yards per minute (a).
5. H. Dillon—217 yards per minute.
6. Penn—201 yards per minute.
7. Rawson Bros—250 yards per minute.
a—25c pool.
b—10c and 5c pools.
The next race is from Britton,
Mich., Saturday.

G.T.R. Wins From

Bolt and Hosiery

Pring Effective in Pinches.

The Bolt and Hosiery Baseball Team lost to the Grand Trunk aggregation in a manufacturers' game at Queen's Park last evening by the score of 3 to 2.

Frank Pring, on the mound for the combination team and the heavy hitter of the G. T. R. only found him for five hits. But these came at opportune times. Cline got a three-base clout, while Crawley hit for two sacks.

The Bolt and Hosiery, after holding the railwaymen scoreless in their half of the sixth, began to make it interesting for Pring. Sumner and Sanford both singled. Two walks followed and Ballantyne was forced over the plate. However, Pring again proved effective and fanned the remaining batters.

The score:
G. T. R. 101 010—3 5 2
Bolt and Hosiery 000 101—2 3 4
Pring and Crawley; Sanford and Biggs.

HOME RUNS FEATURE
BIG LEAGUE GAMES
New York, June 14.—The feat of hitting two home runs in one game was performed by three major league batters yesterday. Ruth made two and brought his season total to 21. The other sluggers were Whitely of the Pittsburgh Nationals and Mann of the St. Louis Nationals.

Rice of Washington hit one homer and added to it two doubles and two singles. Five hits in five times at bat also was the record of Maranville of the Pittsburgh Nationals. Cline hit for two of the past thirteen contests played in the Philadelphia American League Park.
Three of the four made yesterday were hit by the St. Louis team, which lost.

A triple play was executed by the New York Nationals against St. Louis. When the Cardinals tried the hit-and-run play, Second Baseman Monroe caught Hornsby, and threw the ball to Kelly at first, doubling Stock, and Kelly threw to Shortstop Patterson, covering second, where Fournier was an easy out.

MANHASSET, N. Y., June 13.—Determination is written in bold letters across Georges Carpentier's fighting face. As he prepares for the world championship battle with Jack Dempsey, the challenger's visage is being moulded into the stern lines of the warrior of old.

Carpentier's face is an interesting study. About the corners of his eyes are numerous laugh wrinkles, that frown when he steps into the ring for a sparring session.

Georges is usually smiling and laughing, but when he goes to work there is a remarkable change in his countenance. The shining teeth disappear behind an under lip that is curled forward; the laughing eyes give way to a seriousness characteristic of the eyes of a scientist, the jaw drops an inch and the usually smooth forehead resembles a piece of cord.

During tense moments Georges grits his teeth and his muscles grow taut. In this manner he brings to command all his punching power.

The Carpentier forehead, receding slightly upward from the brow is what the phenologists call a sure sign of great will power and fighting instinct.

Richard Coeur de Lion, Napoleon, Washington, Lincoln, Robert E. Lee
all had receding foreheads. Stanley Ketchel and Jack McAuliffe were some of the great American boxers with this physical characteristic.

FOUND GUILTY OF RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS

Jury Convicts William Andrews After Deliberation of Few Minutes.

JUDGE DEFERS SENTENCE

Tells Accused He Will Consider Case Before Making Pronouncement.

After being out but five and one-half minutes the jury in the case of William Andrews at the county court Monday evening, found the prisoner guilty of receiving stolen goods, one of three charges preferred against him. The jury went out at 7:25 o'clock and returned at 7:50 p.m. Judge Talbot Macbeth remarked that he was not dissatisfied with the verdict. He told Andrews that he would not sentence him at once, but would give the matter thought before he passed upon his case.

The evidence in the case was not heavy. W. J. Nichols, Frank Oullette and William Mayhue, Canadian Express agents at Chatham, Tecumseh and Walkerville, respectively, all found liquor missing for which they had received waybills. They could not say, however, whether it had been put on trains other than the ones on which they were expecting it to come.

Special Agent Testifies.
Joseph McBride, a special agent for the express company, told of the arrest of Andrews at the home of Joseph Smith, Sarnia street. He said that W. A. Smith, former Canadian Express detective, Police Sergeant Thomas Noonan and Andrews' brother were with him.

The evidence of Sergeant Noonan was read, as he was unable to be present, having been in hospital for several weeks.

James C. Ross, an employee of the company, found some broken whiskey cases and stray wrappers for bottles on the siding of the McClary Manufacturing Company, just east of "Clarke" street, shortly after the time the theft was alleged to have occurred last August.

Sergeant A. Clark, express messenger, said that on August 27, the date the whiskey was missed, he checked cases for Tecumseh, Chatham and Walkerville at Toronto. This same liquor was afterwards found to be missing.

W. A. Smith, former detective of the London Police, who was in Chicago, said that he arrested Andrews for the theft and asked him to tell him where the liquor was. He said that Andrews signed a statement to the effect that he only secured three bottles, and that he was given it by a man named Smith.

Admits Intoxication.
Andrews declared that he did not know what he was doing, as he had been drinking steady for three months when he signed the statement. He said that he had been employed by the company for a year and eight months. He said that he found the paper and straw that had been in the broken cases on the siding, but that the cases had already been taken to the express office. He said that he was too drunk to go home.

Albert M. Judd, who was assigned to the case, said that he had been in the absence of J. M. McEvoy, and P. H. Bartlett conducted the defence. Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop was prosecuting.

MOTHER AND FATHER DROWNED IN SIGHT OF TWO SMALL SONS

Wife Went To Aid of Her Husband Seized With Cramps.

DETROIT, Mich., June 13.—Henry and Edmund Wotyszewski, 5 and 7 years old, respectively, saw their mother and father drown in the waters of Lake Erie at the mouth of the Detroit River, this afternoon. They saw but did not understand. Tonight as they stood by the twin caskets in their home weeping bitter tears, they could not understand either why their mother was smiling, but did not speak to them.

The scene was too much for friends, who had come to pay their last respects to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Wotyszewski, 638 Chene street.

The children were taken to the home of their grandmother. The father and mother were drowned this afternoon shortly after they had finished lunch on a picnic party down the river. The father had gone for a swim and was seized with cramps. His cry for help was answered by Mrs. Wotyszewski, who plunging into the water seized her husband about the neck. Both sank together and did not reappear.

WINGHAM PIONEER DIES FOLLOWING EXTENDED ILLNESS

Simon Mitchell Was Reeve Two Years and Alderman Twelve Years.

WINGHAM, June 13.—The death of one of Wingham's most respected citizens occurred this afternoon after a lingering illness. Simon Mitchell was born in England in 1845, came to Canada when a young man, settled in Mitchell and went into the flax business. After some years he went to Listowel in the same business, and disposing of that, he came to Wingham and started a cement works, where he built up a good trade, being in the town here for 30 years. He took great interest in municipal work, was an alderman for twelve years, and held the position of reeve for two years. At the time of his death he was an alderman. He was in his 76th year, a Methodist, and a member of the Chosen Friends, No. 220. In politics he was a Conservative and in religion a Methodist. Surviving besides his widow are two sons and three daughters. A. J. Mitchell of London, Herb Mitchell, Mrs. Fred Fuller and Mrs. H. Walton of Wingham and Miss Rebecca Mitchell of Toronto. The remains will be interred in Wingham Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon.

MANY LONDONERS ATTEND BANQUET OF ALMA DAUGHTERS

London Graduates Largely Represented At St. Thomas College Banquet.

The annual Alma Daughters' banquet held at Alma College, St. Thomas, last night, took many Londoners over there to join in one of the most important functions in connection with commencement, and to hear home the Sisk Trophy Cup to the local Alma Daughters' Association for greatest club membership. Mrs. A. T. Edwards, who was yesterday re-elected president of the Alma Daughters, presided over the long banquetting tables, where over one hundred and fifty were seated, the function being held in the big dining hall of the college. Mrs. Groves, the distinguished Toronto educationalist, was the chief speaker of the occasion, her subject being "The Kingdom of Childhood," which she dealt with very successfully by giving readings from some of her very delightful poetry and children's stories, making it clear to those who listened that only he who came with the heart of a child could enter that kingdom.

Bouquet to Nebraska.
The presentation of a large bouquet of Nebraska, following the old custom of the Alma Daughters, was a pleasing feature of the evening. Another interesting moment was when Miss Gladys Burk, who is the Alma Daughter and sister of the late Miss Gladys Burk, who for music, rendered delightfully McDowell's "Etude de Concerto." Other speakers of the occasion were Dr. R. L. Warner, principal emeritus of the college, Rev. F. S. Dobson, the principal; Mrs. J. D. Curtis of St. Thomas; Miss Ida Alderson of Toronto; Mrs. J. L. Letourneau of St. Thomas; and Mrs. S. J. Chant of St. Thomas, while Miss Irene Ryckman rendered a very fine vocal solo.

Miss Sisk, a former lady principal of the college, was a part of the action of the Alma Daughters' board in the afternoon, when they voted to raise money to erect a school building in order to perpetuate the memory of this woman. It is probable that the scholarship will go to the daughter of the late Miss Sisk, as Miss Sisk first came to the school as a teacher of music. At this board meeting Mrs. A. T. Edwards was again elected president; Mrs. Warner, honorary vice-president; Mrs. Dobson, honorary president; Mrs. E. S. Brown, first vice-president; and Mrs. S. J. Chant, second vice-president.

Garden Fete Held.
Previous to the banquet a very delightful garden fete was held in the college grounds, the most interesting ceremony being the crowning of the May queen, Miss Isabel Taylor of Tillsonburg, who was chosen for this honor on election of the pupils themselves, as well as the crowning of the flower queen, Miss Helen Taylor of Tillsonburg, who was chosen for this honor on election of the pupils themselves, as well as the crowning of the flower queen, Miss Helen Taylor of Tillsonburg, who was chosen for this honor on election of the pupils themselves.

London Daughters Present.
The London Daughters present at the banquet included Mrs. A. T. Edwards, Mrs. (Dr.) Hughes, Miss Venning, Mrs. LeTouzel, Mrs. (Dr.) Grant, Miss Harkins, Miss Parker, Mrs. Selman, Miss Marshall, Miss Selman, Miss Flood, Mrs. Tanner, Miss Arletta Sells, Miss Gertrude Morgan and Miss May MacGregor.

A very fine exhibition of the pupils' work is on display in the reception room at the college.

FAILURE TO LIFT EMBARGO A BREACH OF FAITH WITH CANADA

LONDON, June 13.—(Canadian Associated Press.)—Hon. Duncan Macphail, minister of agriculture for Alberta, gave evidence at the cattle embargo inquiry today on behalf of the provincial legislature. He said the Alberta Assembly was unanimously in favor of the removal of the embargo, and that there was strong feeling among Canadian farmers on the subject. No promise could be more definite than that given at the conference of 1917, in the effect that the embargo would be raised at the end of the war, and it was in his opinion a breach of faith with Canada that this had not been done.

L. & P. S. Would Show Deficit If Certain Charges Were Included

Declares Robert B. Rifenberck In Giving Evidence At Radial Probe—Hon. Dr. Reid Says Government Is Ready To Sell Radials To Hydro Commission.

TORONTO, June 13.—Hon. Dr. Reid, minister of railways, appeared today before the royal commission inquiring into radial railway projects on invitation of the chairman, Mr. Justice Sutherland, and made it clear that there was no agreement by which the Hydro-Electric Power Commission's proposed radial railways were to be used merely as feeders to the Canadian National Railways, as had been intimated by objectors to the radial schemes. Hon. Dr. Reid stated that he had not gone into details with Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, but his understanding of the matter was that there would not be any attempt on the part of the National Lines to squeeze the radials, or to use them merely as short-haul feeders to keep the National Lines going.

Hydro Would Buy.
Hon. Dr. Reid said his understanding was that the three radials which Sir Adam Beck wanted to buy from the Dominion Government, the Toronto and Eastern, the Toronto Suburban, and the Toronto St. Catharines, would have every chance to make the best possible use of any traffic, whether freight or passenger, which originated on their routes.

If freight developed in the Niagara Peninsula, the minister said, the National Railways would be content if the radials hauled it to the extreme eastern limit of their line and then handed it over to the steam lines.

Government Ready To Sell.
The minister of railways said the Government was not trying to sell the electric lines in question, but were willing to sell because the hydro commission wanted to buy them, and to obviate the necessity of the hydro commission constructing new lines to parallel them, as to the interchange of freight, the minister said there had never been any difference of opinion between himself and Sir Adam Beck.

Sinking Fund Not Needed.
Robert B. Rifenberck, of Detroit, Mich., formerly consulting engineer to the Detroit United Railway, was on the witness stand today at the request of the minister of railways, and being conducted by a royal commissioner, first of the commission's witnesses in the probe.

Mr. Rifenberck agreed with Mr. L. F. Hellmuth, K.C., government counsel in the inquiry, that there was no sound economic justification for a sinking fund charged against the property after depreciation had been placed on it.

An Unfair Thing.
"A sinking fund has always appeared to me to be an unfair thing to charge against a property at any time," said Mr. Hellmuth. "If it is to be charged at all, it should be charged on the first year, but would not the result of charging a sinking fund be if on a 40-year basis, that at the end of 40 years the property would be there with all the capital returns?"

"Absolutely so," replied the witness.

No, if you charge sinking fund after you have charged property depreciation, you are really returning the capital to the original investors.

"Doubting it," responded the witness.

The witness agreed that if through necessity a sinking fund had to be provided for, it should be started in the first year, instead of waiting for the tenth year as in the hydro estimates.

Every day is a "national wheat day." Most people do not eat enough wheat—the food of health and strength. But be sure you eat the whole wheat.

Shredded Wheat

is 100 per cent whole wheat made digestible by steam-cooking, shredding and baking. It is a builder of muscle, brain and bone. Eaten with milk for breakfast it puts you "on your toes" for the day's work.

Delicious for any meal with berries or other fruits. Two biscuits make a nourishing meal.
