FORTY ARE KILLED GREAT VIOLINIST SAYS ART IS HIS REAL LOVE

Mischa Elman Declares CanaMost Reautiful New Books in the World.

TALKS OF RUSSIA Declines To Pass an Opinion on Merits of the Soviet Government.

Mischa Elman, acknowledged one of the world's premier violinists, may go from Canada with the applause of an enthusiastic musical public ringing in his ears, but the memory he shall most fondly cherish is the vision he has had of radiant, beau-tiful Canadian womanhood.

When last here, Elmann announced exclusively in The Advertiser that his engagement to Mildred Stone, American Society beauty, was no more. He admitted he was brokenhearted. But that was a year ago, and he has since plunged into his music with a fervor that has made him forget the blasted romance of his life. Now he is in love, passionetty in the same that he was brokensionately in love, but it is with his folart.

"No woman ca ntake the place of my art," Elman said.
The great musician is a tiny man,

A second shift of wreckers had accomplished nothing energy which has made him one of Pyjamas are usually regarded as quite a handicap to a man's pres ence. But pyjamas detracted not an iota, from the powerful personality which is Elman's. When interviewed by The Advertiser today, the musi-cian had just emerged from his bath. Hastily donning pyjamas, he sat nervously playing with some coins on the table while the interviewer peppered him with a barrage of ques-"What is the finest type of woman injured are United States citizens, in the world?" was a query which residents of this little fown, whose brought smiles over the little violinist's rugged face, and he answered unhesitatingly, "Canadian women."

"Of course, it may be that I, a stranger, would notice them more than a Canadian," Elman explained, "but I can honestly say I have never seen such heauty in my life Canage. seen such beauty in my life. Cana-dian women are roses in the garden

"It must jar on you to dance to an ordinary orchestra and hear poor music?" he was asked. "Sometimes. But that depends on the young lady I am dancing with.
With some girls I would dance to a bagpipe, and nothing can be worse than that. You see, I took up danc-ing because I became suddenly aware f my bachelorhood. Besdes, it's leap Elman added that he was urged to dance about six months ago. His friends said he mustn't get into an "Why don't you get married?" was the next question.

The violinist cogitated for an instant. "Why," he repeated, "the reason is that I am a bachelor by accident just as other men are married by accident. I have ideals. Perhans no woman shell ever come the ried by accident. I have ideals. Per-haps no woman shall ever come up to my ideal, but in there is one and I meet her—well, I shall marry her." "You see," he continued, "she must be a superwoman to compete with my art in the hold it has on my af-fections. Perhaps I could find an ideal Canadian woman. They are certainly the most beautiful."

Talks of Russia.

The subject changed to Russia. Elman was born there an dstill es a deep love for his father land. It was there he found success when as a musical prodigy of 16 he startled audiences in St. Petersburg with his wonderful technique.

How can any man not a musician attempt to judge music?" Elman said. "How then, can a man who isn't a Russian attempt to judge Russia? I haven't been there for years so I shall not say whether the sayist government is good or had soviet government is good or bad. But I can think for myself. Only people who actually live in Russia are justified in passing any opinion on Bolshevism. What the newspapers say about it is obviously propagan-

Elman believes the world would be better if alcohol had never been dis-covered. Nevertheless he is not an advocate of prohibition. Prohibition strikes the very foundations on which strikes the very foundations on which the theory of personal liberty is built, he said. But aclohol is a curse. He never took a drink in his life:

As for falling in love Elman admitted he might succumb to such a thing. He wasn't sure of himself. Being the only famous musician still a bachelor, with the exception of Heifitz, Elman thought that, in time, he might meet the fate of his contemporaries.

Dr. Edwin Seaborn Tells the Kiwanis of Story Heard While on Tour.

PORTUGAL IS BUSY

From Spain, Dr. Edwin Seaborn the London physician who has re-turned recently from a year spent in turned recently from a year spent in Europe, brings back a story which supports his belief that German capital is responsible to a large extent for the remarkable increase in building operations there. This be told to the Kiwanis Club today in the course of his address on "Impressions of Europe". It was brought pressions of Europe." It was brough up in connection with Dr. Seaborn's omment on the surprise he received to find Spain with the appearance of possibly the busiest of all the European countries visited in his trip.

In conversation with a German officer and a Spanish busicessman, Dr. Seaborn had asked the former to confirm his impression that much German capital was being spent in quicker, and to Dr. Seaborn's e more truthful, in answering "yes." "Spain was something of an eye-opener," Dr. Seaborn said. "I had expected to find men bearing traces somewhat of the effete, but instead of that the men were of a big, fine athletic type. With regard to the country itself there seemed to be oustle and activity everywhere." He used descriptions of the popular national pastime of bull fighting as means of comparing the racial characteristics of two countries-Spain and Portugal,

"In Portugal, I was surprised at the industry of the people. They have utilized every square inch of their country. They have terraced ill the mountains, and even trained vines over some of the rivers to produce as many grapes as possible for their wine. They go about in rags a great many of them, and still greater number are barefoot, bu good natured, and easy-going-per haps a trifle too easy-going—people."

The Portugese, Dr. Seaborn said, display greater sportsmanship in their bull fights than do the Spaniards and treat the bulls in a much Clad in sky blue the 1924 London directory makes its bow today. As s common in most directories on the American continent the Smiths have the bulge, as far as numbers are con-cerned, on all other names. In this number there are 410 of them. William seems to be the most popular form of Christian name for the Smiths as there are 26 in the directory. There are 8 Mary Smiths, 15 John Smiths, and 19 James Smiths. There are quite a few names that appear only once in the lists, such as Sterritt, Strip, Tremeer, Treble, Silleth, Beame, Coxan, Coxwort, Craft, Dando, Footwinkler, Geron, Humpidge, Layng and a host of other names. The Andersons do pretty well and have 85 to their credit. The Flemings also are well represented with for several years. Spain.

The German was quick in answering "no," but the Spaniard was even spain and the roster. That real Irish name, Flanagan, is not hidden beneath any bushel of numbers and together with Flannigan has 24. Ward is another common name in London. There are 66 Wards in the new di-

INDIGENTS CARED IN '23 TOTAL 198

Adherence to Bylaw Saved City $8,000, Says Dr. W. S. Downham.

NUMBER DECREASES

As many as 198 indigent patients were admitted to hospital during 1923, according to a report to the members of the finance committee by Dr. W. S. Downham, city medical officer of health. He estimates roughly that his office saved the city nearly $8,000 during 1923 by a strict adherence to the indigent bylaw.

It is reported also that a number of emergency cases were treated that were not referred to the city department. Of the 103 cases not admitted to the hospital, 76 were treated by Dr. Downham; 15 did not belong to London, 3 were mental cases, 5 were addeded to drugs, others were sent to other institutions, while 3 did not require medical attention. Dr. Downham adds also that in addition to the indigent patients coming under his notice, there were large number of indigent patients treated by family physicians at home who would have ultimately reached the hospitals had it not been for the city's indigent bylaw passed in 1699. city's indigent bylaw passed in 1922. Dr. C. C. Clegg has reported to the city health authorities that there has been a notable reduction in the number of indigents admitted to Victoria. Hospital.

Hospital.
"It is difficult to estimate just what has been saved by keeping 103 patients out of the city hospitals," Dr. Downham said. "Supposing, however, that it would cost about 10 nowever, that it would cost about $2.50 a day for each person, and that each would remain in hospital on an average of 30 days, the amount would be $7.725. One prominent physician estimates, however, that each indigent patient would remain in hospital two months, in which event the saving would be double, or $15.450.

it appears, do not aspire to a career. They incline toward recognition on the stage and in social work, but the urge to match wits with men in the industrial world seems completely lacking.

This deduction is based on the number of girls taking the commercial course at the University of Western Ontario. The number is exactly nil. Some have tried to master the intricacies of business and others have concentrated courageously on salesmanship and the principles of transportation, but all have come to grief. No college girl, in fact, has ever managed to survive the University of Western Ontario commerce course.

Yet the university is willing to teach any young women in those lines of business usually followed by men. In other cities, where the flare for feminism has become epidemic, one will find at least 30 per cent of all commercial courses comprised of fair students. They study and toil, confident in the belief that the female confident in the belief that the female brain is as suited by nature to wrestle with the problems of industry as male brains. And a few—a very few—emerge triumphant from the test. These invariably get obscure jobs as secretaries and many become stenographers ographers. Feminism in London, however, is virtually an unknown thing. If it were not, many more girls would seek admittance into the commercial courses. Hundreds, of course, take courses in shorthand and typewriting, but that is not considered business in the true sense of the word.

The few girls who have started the course and failed have demonstrated one thing—that women are superior to men in detail. That is to say they are more thorough in the doing of smaller things, which are never-theless vital in the conduct of any to successful business. But to be a master of small detail is not one of the main requisites. Canadian col-leges, in fact, eliminate detail as much as possible, leaving tuition in this particular department to be picked up by practical experience. The course is designed to make business executives.

fired the first shot in the campaign by appearing first on the scene, locally at any rate. The picture itself gains for her much ground which Mary in "Rosita" must battle to make up.

"The Spanish Dancer" appears as possibly the best of Pola Negri's American-made pictures. The story has a colorful historic background, against which is ranged a picturesque love story wherein Miss Negri is not the important figure, but merely one of a splendidly adequate company. It is excellently directed.

Best Work.

If the task were imposed of selecting he who does the best work in the picture, the choice would almost necessarily fall upon Wallace Beery as Philip the Fourth. This dissolute, overbearing and sometimes fatuous-appearing monarch could hardly be better portrayed than Beery has done it. His last scene, especially, with the cardinal, was a work of art not lost upon the audience.

The romance of Don Ceasar de Bazan and Maritana, the gypsy queen, is a thrilling tale, well-told. the transferal of the large company to a setting of four hundred years ago, and the filming of the stirring carnival scenes in Madrid has been done marvelously well. The picture might take its place among the most pretentious of costume efforts, and yet with all its color and glampr it yet with all its color and glamor it loses nothing in the way of swift and romantic action.

Included in Cast.

In addition to the two mentioned the cast includes Kathlyn Williams, Antonio Moreno, Adolphe Menjou, Gareth Hughes and Robert Agnew, the minor roles, too, having been well unusual. The opening act drew un-restricted applause. With a modicum of apparatus, the two acrobats ac-complish spectacular things. What complish spectacular things. What apparatus they do use is cleverly concealed in the stage furnishings, thus providing a different touch. Acts so genuine as this are seldom frequent enough to prove monotonous Baby Sylvia Froos, a child mimic, is a triffe past the "baby" line, but she has unquestionable ability and can handle popular songs in a style which is a long way ahead of many who come through and attempt them.

The concluding act is rich in humor, novelty and skill, which may be construed into genuine praise for Rumor Started Following Meeting Student's Council Held Before Holidays.

There is a rumor at the University of Western Ontario to the effect that the prefect of the student's council of that institution is about to resign his office. Roundtable expressions of opinion among the students led to that conclusion.

urging as a reason the necessity of attending a lecture.

On this occasion the sub-prefect was appointed to take the post, and the prefect left the meeting. ## Local Juniors Set For Debut Before Home Fans Tonight

LONDON IS BITTEN BY JUNIOR HOCKEY BUG

Fans Show Intense Interest in Kids' Debut Tonight at Arena.

GLENCOE STRONG

The debut of the local youngsters in the O. H. A. junior race against Glencoe here tonight is attracting as much interest as any game so far this

The junior hockey bug has bitten London apparently as well as the other towns all over the O. H. A.

The jump to popularity of the jun for game is of comparatively recent date. Not so long ago, the fans went to see junior games, more out of sentiment than to see good pastiming, but the way the juniors have come have made the youngsters gam attractive to watch as that played in any series.

Merely Years.

The junior game isn't so much different either except in point of years and perhaps a little poundage. The Kitchener Twin City team is an example of a junior crew jumping into senior ranks, and making good at the task. In Toronto, juniors seldom go through the intermediate process, but are found fast enough for senior ranks if they have any talent at all. London has never had a better ap-pearing junior team than the one which takes to the ice tonight. In workouts they've shown everything necessary to make them a high-class organization. Tonight the fans will short order. see what they look like under fire

The game's important, too, in that London has had it put strictly up to them to match Woodstock's against Glencoe. Woodstock is the team to beat in the junior group, according to all the preceding dope nd tonight's result will give a line on what is likely to happen Monday night, when the locals get their big test against these same Woodstock

Howard and Biggs will likely both take a turn in goal. Both lads are good, and it's a hard choice between them.

Moore (formerly of Paris) and Milne will team up on the defence, which sends Barrett up on the forward line. Monahan and McMillan will hold down the wing positions Robson and Palmby as subs The forward line men are all stocky youngsters, tricky stick-handlers, and can heave some heavy drives at goal. The defence is likely to be a revelation to the fans.

CHICAGO Y.M.C.A. QUINTET SWAMPS HAMILTON 38--12

Canadian Press Despatch.
Hamilton, Jan. 3.—The fast Chicago basketball team swamped the local representatives here tonight in one of the speediest games of recent years. The score was 38 to 12, with the Americans leading all the way. Their terrific pace completely demoralized the Hamilton quintet, and, as a result, the locals went through the entire game without once brings. the entire game without once bring-ing their clever combination play and shooting strength into evidence.

Cross Checks

The tide does not always turn toward the bigger places. Glencoe once lost Davenport to London, out got him back again.

Morenz is beginning to feel more at home in the pro ranks. He's started butt-ending.

Manager Freddy Naylor, of the along in the past seven or eight years | Hamilton Beaver intermediates, announced this morning that he and officials of the Beavers were making strenuous efforts to have George Awrey come out and coach the westenders for the season. The game against Dunnville last week brought out many weak snots in the Beavers' team and play, and a good coach is sadly needed. If George can be induced to help the red and black, the outfit should prove one of the strong est contenders in the group within a very short time, as George has a way of bringing development to a head in

Hamilton Herald:

Bill Boucher, right wing player for the Montreal Canadiens, was on a rampage again last night. He hooked to his heart's content throughout the Hamilton-Canadien game, butt-ended Mickey Roach over the eye when the little Hamilton forward was not opped off his unsportsmanlike display by hitting a spectator, Walter Noble, over the head with his stick as the teams were leaving the ice the conclusion of the game. But for the timely intervention of the Canadien players, arena employees and the police. Boucher would have een roughly handled by the crowd. It is high time that President Calder of the National Hockey League took drastic action against this troublesome youth. As a hockey player he ranks among the best in the professinal league, but his deliberate rough work usually offsets his fine play.

The N. H. L. doesn't want players of the Boucher type. He is dangerous. Certainly the fans of Hamilton have seen enough of him. If he isn't at least warned against his "dirty" tactics the people of this city will petition that the league take action. Suspension may prove the necessary medicine; if not, expulsion Suspension may prove the enjoys a fine reputation that has been built up only after many years of hard work. Are the league officials going to sit back and allow Boucher

The Hamilton Club should make the first move by filing a complaint with President Calder. Referee Lou Marsh also ought to have something

If something isn't done, Boucher may wind up in a hospital. The players on the other clubs say they are "fed up" on taking his abuse.

Collingwood intermediates believe that they will win the O. H. A. cham-pionship if they can get past Niagara Falls. Four of the old reliables, Foulis, Draper, Belcher and Walton, have returned to the ship walton, have returned to the ship building town, and are ready for a strenuous winter's sport. The other players will be graduates from the good junior teams of the last T. Bowman acted as chairman, while two seasons. Thomas Ramsay was secretary.

Players Who Write For Profit Declared Ineligible by U. S. Tennis Body.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Jan. 3.-Tennis players who profit substantially by writing for newspapers or magazines will be declared ineligible for amateur com-petition in the United States if a proposal by the amateur rule com-mittee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association announced tonight is adopted.

This stringent interpretation of amateur status, designed, according to the committee to check the menace of commercialism to tennis, already has been approved by the executive committee of the U.S. L. T. A., and committee of the U.S. L. T. A., and will be laid before the annual meeting of the association here February

2 for final action.
Although George T. Adee, chairman of the amateur rule committee, declared the move was not aimed at any particular individual it is gener ally understood it is to curb the journalistic activities of several star world's premier player; Vincent Richards, youthful Yonkers star, and former United States national doubles champion, partner of Tilden; in arm, with "Pa" and Herbert bringing up the leading role of the lead one of the leading metropolitan racquet wielders. Because of recognition that some players already may have signed contracts to write tennis articles this year, the resolution provides that the new interpretation would not become effective until January 1, 1925.

GRANITES WIN EXHIBITION GAME AT NIAGARA FALLS

turned out to be a most felicitous one for the Striblings of Georgia. Nineteen-year-old William L (Young) Stribling, Jr., dealt out an almost annihilating pasting to Dave Rosenberg of Brooklyn, in the ring at the Newark Armory, while "Pa" Stribling, "Ma" Stribling and a younger brother, Herbert, looked on with ap-

"Pa" Stribling and Herbert, a year-old boxer, who hopes to become as famous as his big brother, were in the Georgia boxer's corner. "Ma" sat in a ringside seat just back of the corner. And it was to "Ma" that the Macon high school boy of Philadelphia, the United States battle was over. He leaped over the national champion, and recognized ropes and was in her arms in less time than it takes to shake a lamb's tail. "Ma" smothered her boy with

CLEAR UP BASKETBALL.

Despite a distorted report of the meeting of the L. A. A. A. last night basketball will be included in the program this winter. The L. A. A. A. basketball sub-committee has not apparently functioned, but there is material for a good intermediate O. B. A. team, which is without any supporting organization, and the L. A. A. A. will take this team up. The "Y" is putting one team in: Western "U" looks after some more of London's asketball talent, but unless the L. A. A. A. takes the game under its wing here will be a lot of basketball orphans around the city.

Girls' basketball will also be sponsored so that full use will be made of the development going on in the Girls' City League and in the Manufacturers Girls' League.

If the L. A. A. is to become the force it should be in the athletic life of London, a paid secretary is a necessity.

VERSATILITY.

Percy LeSeuer, who has made a reputation as one of the best hockey coaches in Canada, has taken up the pen now that amateur officials have banned pro. coaches. He writes for the Hamilton Spectator, and following are a few of Percy's proverbs on hockey:

"There's many a slip 'twixt the shot and the net." "A goal in the last minute makes all rooters kin."

"A game on keen ice is worth two in the slush." "Take care of the timekeepers, but let the referee take care of himself." "Too many rooters spoil the silence."

"It's a long game that has no penalties." "All are not goals that go into the net-it depends on the goal umpire."

"A faint kick ne'er won a fair penalty." "A goal in time saves overtime."

Robert McAllister, who has been much in the public eye as an athlete and a detective, yesterday announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the American Olympic team and declared himself a nominee for a place on Mr. Gatti-Cazazza's squad. From sprinting McAllister has gone to warbling. From spiked shoes the one-time flying cop has gone to the yodel. From high stepping on the cinders and boards he has gone to high C-ing.

MY COUNTRY, 'TIS OF THEE.

The ruling of the international Olympic committee seems to have made Mrs. Franklin I. Mallory, six times American woman tennis champion, a woman without a country. Mrs. Mallory wants to compete in the women's tennis at the Olympic games. The committee has ruled that she cannot compete as an American because she competed in Norway in 1914 and that she cannot compete as a Norwegian because by her marriage to Mr. Franklin I. Mallory she became an American citizen.

All of which may be inconvenient for the U. S., but will probably save Molla one more defeat.

DUTLAW RUMOR

New League Would Include Toronto, With Eight American Cities.

QUESTION KNOTTY LEE

Special to The Advertiser. Toronto, Jan. 3.-There is no rest for the wicked or the baseball magnate, sorrow is their portion and trouble a daily diet. Now the International League owners, who have just worried through a stressful season, are threatened with an outlaw invasion, and though they profess to treat the menace lightly, it is well treat the menace lightly, it is well known that they are badly worried Joe Vila, the prominent New York sport writer, predicted some time ago that something of the sort was on tap, and also that the backers of the proposed third major league would handle the situation a little differ-

His tip-off was that the outlaws would not make a move until they had lined up good substantial men in the several cities interested to finance the clubs, and that nothing would be done until the players wanted were under contract. As usual, when a league of this kind contemplated, Toronto is one of ently than did the men who sponsored the ill-fated Federal Play on Mainland. This occasion is no exception, and the promise is held out that if the project goes through that the club will play in a park on the city side. It is hinted that the local men in the 'know" are members of the syndicate attempted to purchase the Boston Red Sox franchise last spring. They are all good baseballers with plenty of money to swing such an through his efforts that the Mint undertaking as the one proposed.

Sticking Five or Six Rounds Will Enhance White Battler's Prestige.

SPALLA COMING TO U. S.

By FAIR PLAY. Copyright. New York, Jan. 3.—Bartley Madden, the rugged west side battler, has simple proposition before him. In mple proposition before him. In ting Harry Wills the end of the month in Newark all he has to do is to stick five or six rounds to ence his reputation. And in so doing he will put a serious crimp in Harry's fair repute.

Should he go the twelve rounds,
Wills would be done for as a chamdonship contender, and Madden's tock would go away above par. But there is little chance that Wills will trike a snag. Else he would not make the match.

It would seem that Wills has nothng to fear from Madden so far as ounishment is concerned. In fact the hole issue revolves around the negro's ability to jar the Irishman to the point of coma, or condition apnating thereto.

for instance, or his great ability in a pinch. These things all have to be lowing managers as having some claim for the job: John J. McGraw, Fred C. Clarke, Connie Mack, Frank Chance, Pat Moran, Bill Carrigan, Wilbert Robinson, George Stallings

Now every man in that lot has some special claim to greatness. Most of them never got what was coming illness he went from Boston to Chicago and started building.

McGraw, Chance, Clarke and Stallings used pretty nearly the same system. They were, and are, ag-gressive. They always made a point of studying the weakness of every player in the league, including their own. If it were a weakness of character or a weakness at the bat, that made no difference. They felt it their job to prey on that weakness.

These men all were builders. They worked hard with the team at hand, but in every move they were figur-ing on the future. In other words they built their teams two years

None of these men was ever gentle or fatherly in handling men. They were leaders who took part in the fight and made every man stand on his own. They had no patience with players who were not ready to start a scrap or make noise. I remember one time McGraw telling me that he had just got a tough break of luck.

"I've got four Irish ball players," he said, "who can hit and field, but ot one of them ever makes a crack in the outfield that you can hear to the bench. Can you imagine Irishmen

Both Stallings and Frank Chance were so aggressive that, in case an argument on the bench or in the clubhouse went too far, they were ready to settle it with their good right arms and clinched fists. Clarke also would go to the mat with any-body who felt like disputing his authority.

The players always admired these men because they knew that the manager not only knew what he was talking about, but could do the job himself if necessary. It means a lot to a ball player to know that the manager can do whatever he tells you to do. It's just the same as the army officer who wouldn't ask a private to do anything that he couldn't do and wasn't willing to do himself

The Kind a Fellow Slaves For. Now, Wilbert Robinson, Connie Mack and Frank Selee used another system, all about the same. They are of the gentle, lovable type, for whom men will work their heads off just because they like them—would not want to offend or disappoint

Those men were particularly good in handling timid young players or the freaks who could not get along elsewhere. They made a point of finding what troubled a young fellow and nursing him along by gentleness and encouragement. Robinson saved no less than four good players to the game by being patient and forbear-ing with them, and there is no telling how many Connie Mack made valuable to the league.

Some players are really temperamental and get upset when ridden too hard. They are artists at heart and get discouraged when things don't break right. Robbie used to get two or three fellows like that together and take them off on a fishing or hunting trip, making them feel they were members of the family. The

"The Maid of the Mountains' Draws Capacity House On Opening Night.

ETHEL WALKER STARS

The high merit if "The Maid of the Mountains" as a musical classic is well illustrated in the long and successful run it has enjoyed in England and this continent. The songs may be this continent. The songs may be marked with age and the comedy a bit rusty, but it seldom fails to draw packed houses, and every patron just naturally becomes an enthusiast.

Last evening "The Maid of the Mountains" was revived at the Grand after an absence of three years. All the delicate glamor of old has been retained in this new issue of that deretained in this new issue of that delightful production. It is reminiscent of Gilbert and Sullivan at their best, and the haunting melodies which ripple through the play with the un-obtrusive subtlety of a gleaming brook become sweet memories for all who are fortunate enough to witness he presentation. Ethel Walker as Teresa, the child of superb hauteur, is, of course, the main attraction in "The Maid of the Mountains." This talented actress Mountains." This talented actress gives a really fine performance of the mountain maid, with her splendid arrogance and charming reserve. It is Miss Walker's beautiful voice, how-is Miss Walker's beautiful voice, however, which enchants. A thrilling, penetrating voice it is, modulated by experience and perfected by training, the voice of an artist who knows how to make use of a rare gift.

The cast is entirely different from the original one which entranced London some years ago. But Miss Walker proved as good and better than her well-known predecessor, who first initiated the theatre-going public with the charm of Stanley Vermilvea's lovely musical comedy. Vermilyea's lovely musical comedy.

The singing honors go without doubt to Miss Walker and L. A. Templeton, who acted Beppo. Mr. Tem-pleton is the possessor of a telling, vibrant baritone voice, and won a triumph with his introductory "Live For Today." The number in which Beppo takes the main part, however, is "A Bachelor Gay," which is prob-ably the second best in the show's Mona Desmond made a dainty Vittoria, and demonstrated she could act. With Donald MacMillan as act. With Donald MacMillan as Toniox she was responsible for much comedy. Toniox was extraordinarily well played, Mr. MacMillan's figure and personality being admirably suit-and personanty being admirably suited for the part.

With the setting changing from the mountain wilds in the first act to the courtyard of the governor's palace in the second, and a lonely beach on Devil's Island in the third, there is an interesting variety of there is an interesting variety of scenery. The costuming, too, is well chosen, and the small chorus was distinguished by the beauty of its members and the possession by them of fairly good voices.

"The Maid of the Mountains" is an operetta favored by the public because of its tuneful melodies and the spirit and verve of Ethel Walker. whose ability is pronounced. The other characters were suitable, too. Beppo and Walter Greaza as Baldasarre; the robber chief, flavor their parts with an overdose of sentimentality for this type of show, but both have good voices, and that, after all is the big requisite.

Recognizing the U. F. O.

Hon. W. E. Raney has been named s house leader for the U. F. O.

Premier Ferguson intimates that as the Liberals will be recognized as the official opposition, and the U. F. O. will apparently be tolerated and that's all.

Premier Ferguson has some queer views that he makes himself with the advice of anyone who knows more than he does of parliamentary

The speaker at Ottawa recognizes the premier as leader of the Liberals; he gives the same recognition to Hon. Arthur Meighen and to Mr. Robert Forke.

The three parties in the British Commons are recognized. Liberal. Conservative and Labor.

The chief weakness in Mr. Ferwho sent them there. That ends the case in a country where there is responsible government.

The speaker will have no more right to refuse recognition to Hon. W. E. Ranev as leader of the U. F. O, than he would to refuse to notice the existence of Mr. Ferguson as leader of the Conservatives or Mr. Sinclair as leader of the Liberals.

A STORY OF COURAGE. By ELENORE MEHERIN.

CHAPTER LXI. Which Way?

They were sitting at the breakfast table two days after the telephone call from Petra Channing. Katy call from Petra Channing. Katy poured the coffee, then she leaned back with a magnificent air: "You know, Denny, I have a lovely idea."

"Another one, Katy-kid?" He look.

"Oh, so you admit I've had lovely ideas before. Thanks. But this concerns me. You see, Denny, Clay wants to take me to the opera on Saturday and on Sunday he wants to drive me all over the grounds where the great fair is to be. I'd like to go, of course, But its hard from here. So I thought —wouldn't it be pleasant to stroll over to Old Lady Traynor's and spen the week end? Now, do you con-sider that a brilliant manouevre?" "Humph! That's a funny one Katy.

"Don't you want to go, Denny?" Katy covered the nervousness with a laugh. "Why, I should think that would be delightful, and you know machine. Makes it spiffy, doesn't everyone should have friends.

Say a cheery good morning for me to the "old Irish woman" on the Bank corner, and tell her that a lot of the boys are coming back some day, and the boys and men of generations to come will yet make pilgrimages to London, Ont., because she herself, that "old Irishwoman," is bigger than Trades and Labor Council, the whole city council, the unbuilt Lloyd George Hotel, and all the factories in Lon-

I said that a few months ago I was very homesick for London, Ont., but since then I have been there and back. My homesickness vanished quickly, because I met two marked classes of old friends, those who inquired if I were "through wander ing," and those who vacantly congratulated me upon being lucky enough to get away from London. Both types are wrong, I contend, and do almost equal amounts of harm. London, Ont., has both faults harm. London, Ont., nas both raunts and good points, both advantages and disadvantages. It has picayune vii-lagers and it has great city-builders. It did seem quiet on that Sunday morning when I walked up Richmond street, after waiting two and a half hours in St. Thomas for the first L. and P. S. R. train to London. But later I walked away up to the end of St. George street, and looked at the new university buildings and thrilled with new love for London, Ont., in the realization that here was one hange that had transpired, one truly change that had transpired, one truly metropolitan attribute that London. Ont., had acquired within a year past. Let's be fair. The Western Ontario University buildings are not as massive or crowded in number as those of Columbia University, but they are fully the equal of the New York University buildings on University Heights in the Bronx, where the Hall of Fame is located.

the Hall of Fame is located.

London, Ont., has done one thing London, Ont., has done one thing on a metropolitan scale. Why not do everything else on the same scale?

After looking at the transformation on the hills to the northwest, I came back with renewed endurance to withstand the monotony of Manhattan—much the same monotony as so many bright youngsters complain of in London, Ont., by the way.

"Do you fall in love very much, Denny?"

"Very much, Petra, but not often."

"Come, we have to go—" She tossed her head. Because her lips were close, he kissed them; because her eyes assented, he kissed them, too.

If Katy had seen him grin as he put on the white flannels for dinner she would have said: "It's love. I know. Indeed I know!"

From the moment the door had closed on him, Katy's thoughts were with him. She tried to put away a fear that fought to enter her mind But it gained on her. Katy would have emptied her heart of its blood to make Denny happy. Was he going to be happy? Was Petra the girl? For two days the question nagged her. Why had Petra phoned to her? Didn't she understand how piercingly Katy would feel the terror of becom ing a burden. Didn't she know that Katy loved him—oh, longer and more

Minister of Justice, After Long Service To Country, Gives Up His Post Because of Ill-Health-Prime Minister Receives Resignation With Keen Regret At Loss of Able Colleague.

PRAISES WORK OF SIR LOMER FOR CANADA

Ottawa, Jan. 3.-Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice, has resigned from the government because of ill-health. Following of Commons for Brome, who crossed today's meeting of the cabinet council, Premier King announced the floor of the house during the last that the resignation had been accepted to take effect immediately. No announcement as to his successor has yet been made. Sir Lomer's resignation follows a considerable period of ill-health.

When the assembly concluded its labors, the two Canadian delegates left Geneva for London to join Premier King as Canadian representatives at the imperial conference. but on the way Sir Lomer stayed over in Paris for several days, detained by the condition of his health, and did not reach London until the conference was well under way.

Sir Lomer took part in the proceedings of the conference and sat several committees, but evidently his health had not fully recovered. He returned to Paris before the conference had ended and, it is understood, consulted specialists there. A couple of weeks' rest in France before leaving again for Canada seemed to result in improvement and on his arrival at New York Sir Lomer denied rumors of his impending resignation. The improvement, however, was not maintained and, following medical advice, Sir Lomer has resigned that he may be able to take a complete

Retains Seat,

While resigning his portfolio as minister of justice, Sir Lomer re-tains his seat in the House of Commons. His letter of resignation dated from Montreal, Dec. 31, follows: Dear Prime Minister:

"As I have had occasion to mention to you in the course of our recent interview, I feel that the state of my health does not allow of my con-tinuing to administer the department which you intrusted to me at the time of the formation of your cabinet. "You will, I understand, have to call the members of parliament in assembly at a comparatively early date, and in order that my successor may have an opportunity to acquaint himwith the great lines of the administration of the department I beg leave to tender you my resigna-tion as a member of the government,

Premier's Reply. Premier King's reply, dated yesterday, follows: "My Dear Sir Lomer: "I have just received your letter of New Year's Eve, in which you tender your resignation as a member of the government. To our colleagues in the cabinet the word that the state of your health will not permit of your continuing to hold the portfolio of minister of justice and compels your resignation, will be received with a regret second only to that which I myself experienced at the time of your first mention to me of this pos sibility. I can only repeat what I then said, that it is with feelings of the deepest regret I find in the circumternative other than that of meeting

Mr. McMaster criticized what he said was the habit of passing public estimates in a hurry in the dying house of the federal session. He pressed for the formation of a committee of the house to probe the expenditures of the railways, advocated elimination of the monetary clause in immigration regulations, and urged courage augmented immigration. He made a plea for co-operation from all those who hold similar views, in order that the common aim might be accomplished as soon as possible.

"We must reduce expenditure,"
Mr. McMaster said. "This country

None of the great violinists of the day make so direct an appeal to an audience as does Mischa Elman. And this in spite of the fact that his stage presence is rather formidable. Mischa Elman, the man, appears to lose himself entirely in Mischa Elman the musician. His face is a mask beind which the musical genius works undisturbed. And so fraught with feeling and so brilliant is his playing feeling and so brilliant is his playing that everyone is amazed in the wonder of his artistry.

His program last night was completed within the space of an hour pleted within the space of an pleted within the space of an hour and a half, all too short. But what he gave was worth travelling many of the Classical Association at Princeton University, Princeton, N. J. miles to hear. First of all there was the Handel Sonata in D Major, with its poignantly beautiful Larghetto movement. And even in this first number, the first number which usually serves to warm up the audience rather than thrill, the artist had begun to play upon the heart-strings of his listeners. Plays Sympathetically.

Then followed the magnificent "Symphony Espagnole," from "Lalo," which runs through the gamut of all human emotions. And as Elman played, beautifully and sympathetical love triumphant and happy, and of love which is one long exquisite pain, and it seemed as if the beauty of his playing was even more than could be borne.

Elman plays dramatically and at the same time as delicately as the whirr of butterfly wings. His tone is golden, and when his notes sing high and clear they fall on the air like tiny streams of water into a crystal

It was after the second number that Elman first consented to an encore, the Bach - Winternitz "Minuet," an elusive little air which captivated his listeners. Without waiting for practically any time tween numbers, the artist of the ening played out his program to the establishment of the shrine in a brilliant close. There was the Mozart-Freidberg "Adagio," quickly been a member of the establishment of the shrine in a brilliant close. been a member of the official divan, advancing at the fall ceremonial to ment of the Mozart "Contredanse, which was received with a storm of applause. Perhaps one of the most beautiful numbers of the whole evening was the Chopin-Wilhelmi "Nocturne," rendered with muted strings.

Splendid Technique. Marvellous technique was displayed in the final number of this group, 'Dans les Bois," (Paganini-Vogrich), with its cob-webby notes in the higher passages. No more magnificent closing numbers could have been chosen than the "Hymn to the Sun," from "Coq d'Or," (Rimsky-Korsakoff-Franko), and the Sarasate "Introduc again exhibited marvellous technical ability.

Mischa Elman played three encores in all. The first, the Bach "Minuet." arranged by Winternitz, followed later in the program by Schubert's Sentimentale," and J. Bous off's "Valse Stacatto."

Many Lives Imperiled As Water Rushes Through Streets of Suburbs.

Associated Press Despatch. Paris, Jan. 3.—The ravages of the ine flood are becoming more tragic in the suburbs, though the city officials remain optimistic as concerns Paris. Their optimism is not shared by the many thousands of people lining the waterfront and crowding the bridges, who are watching anxiously as the waterline creeps closer and closer to the high mark of 1910.

The most serious situation is at Alfortville, just east of Paris, where he swollen river Marne is sending down a rush of water that is carry-ing away embankments and flowing so swiftly through the streets ad-lacent to the river that the residents are unable to get away without the help of boats.

Energetic Members Venture on New Work at Yesterday's Meeting.

PLAN LEAP YEAR BALL

February 29 Will Be Marked by Dance in Aid of Educational Memorial.

To welcome new Canadians coming to London, also to welcome and encourage others passing through to the west, is a new venture, launched by the Campbell Becher Chapter. I. O. D. E. This energetic chapter has already formed a committee which will work in conjunction with the Y. M. C. A. in this work. Mrs. F. W. Kirkpatrick has been appointed convener, with a committee in-cluding: Mrs. B. B. Hookaway, Mrs. C. A. Harris, Mrs. Weldon, Mrs. W D. Mcregor, and Mrs. Roy Cunning-ham. This committee will get in touch with the new Canadians through the Y. W. C. A. and will arrange teas, and in every way try to make these newcomers feel at home. The Campbell Becher Chapter is the first one to attempt anything of this nature in London.

The most baleful superstition in the world is the belief that there is some conjure in the marriage ceremony that changes the whole nature

Secret of Unhappy

> People, otherwise intelligent. go with the trusting faith of a fanatic to the altar, confident that there is some magic in the words that a priest or preacher will mutter over them that will turn them into different individuals from the ones they are. and alter their every taste, habit

on Fanatic Belief in Power

That is the real secret of why there are so many unhappy marriages. The miracle fails to

A man is taken by the pretty face of a girl whom he knows to be utterly unsuited to be his wife. But he goes along and marries her in the fond belief that all you have got to do to a woman is to dress her up in white satin and orange blossoms and parade her up the church aisle to the tune of the Mendelssohn march and she will come down again endowed with every feminine and domestic virtue. A girl falls in love with a dissolute rogue. She knows that to marry him is to bring almost certain misery upon her. But does she hesitate to risk her happiness on so desperate a chance? She does not, because she honestly believes that there is some mysterious power in getting married that metamorphizes a rounder into a staid and moral citizen and turns a spender and a waster into a thrifty worker.

We smile when we tell the children fairy tales about the wishing ring that one had only to put on one's finger to get what one desired. Yet we grownups believe implicitly that the wedding ring is a wishing ring that will work white magic for us. We are horrified at the ignorance of the heathen who think that the priests can drive out devils and cure those who are sick by the making of a few passes above them, and a little hokus-pokus. Yet we cling to the superstition that the marriage ceremony will cure a virago of her temper or a brute of his cruelty, and heal the lazy and the shiftless of their infirmities. This alone explains the inexplicable marriages that people

A man who is a cultivated student will marry a silly little girl who hasn't two ideas in her head to rub together. In the days of courtship it was inevitable that he should take the measure of her brainlessness and find out that when he talked to her of books that he spoke of an unexplored world to her, and that when he discussed the things in which he was interested she yawned in his face. Nor could he help perceiving that her chatter was the chatter of a magpie, and the things in which she delighted were things that bored him stiff.

His common sense shrieked to him that marriage between two people who had not one single idea, nor an ideal, nor a thought, nor a desire, in common was bound to be a failure. But the man, wise and sophisticated in other things, but clinging blindly to his superstitious belief in the potency of the marriage ceremony, refused to heed the warning.

Somehow, he was confident that just getting married would change a silly, ignorant girl into an intellectual woman who would be a fit companion to him; miraculously make one who had never even read a sixth best seller familiar with the world's best literature, and make her prefer to dis-

We wonder why poor men marry fashion plates; why men who love Miss Margaret Fraser of Brantford was in town Wednesday, and was a givest at the dance given by Colonel Temoval from the community, to Thamesford, where they intend to reside. A silver collection was taken in aid of the "Save the Children Fund."

The subject for the next monthly to eat marry girls who loathe the kitchen; why quiet, domestic men marry girls who live to dance and go to cabarets. They are all poor, blind heathen, trusting in the marriage ceremony to make an extravagant girl heathen, trusting in the marriage ceremony to make an extravagant girl al. a frivolous girl serious, an undomestic girl domestic.

> Not only do we superstitiously believe in the power of the marriage ecremony to change other people. We actually think it will change ourselves. The philarderer believes that he will never cast a roaming eye at another woman as soon as he is married. The loafer believes that he will be filled jull of pep and energy by the mere fact of having a wife to work for. The stingy, selfish man is confident that he will enjoy spending money on his family. The girl who has never thought of anything but dolling herself up and having a good time believes that as soon as she is married she won't care any more for fine clothes or going about, and that she will be perfectly satisfied to stay at home and save her husband's money and cook him good things to eat.

But alas! the miracle of the marriage ceremony no more works on us than it does on those we marry.

Long before the honeymoon has waned we make the discovery that somehow the mysterious something that was to change us didn't take, and that we are the same old individuals, with the same old tastes and desires that we always had. Then to so many comes the cold, bitter knowledge that they are tied for life to one who is utterly uncongenial, to one who bores them and gets upon their nerves.

The moral of all of which is to pick out a husband or a wife who is what you desire in a life partner as he or she is, and to put no faith in the possibility of marriage changing him or her.

Danny and Nanny Discover a Cousin Down in the Sunny South

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

The new home under a stump on the edge of the garden really did seem like a very safe place, and Nanny Meadow Mouse began to feel better right away. Nanny is a great home lover, and was anxious to get this new home completed at once. So presently they started out to look for something to make their bed of presently they started out to look for something to make their bed of. There was plenty of good material. They found all the dry grass they wanted. It wasn't as soft as the grass they had been used to, but it did very well. Then Danny discovered some white, soft stuff in a field which injured that garden. It was which joined that garden. It was cotton, though, of course, Danny didn't know this.

But he did know that this would make the loveliest kind of bed, and he carried as much of it back to the new home as he could. Nanny was just as tickled with it as Danny had more. It was quite a journey for two such small folks, but they felt that path through these weeds. It was path through these weeds. It was Nanny felt quite settled.

With the new home finished, there was no work to be done and nothing in particular to do but to hunt for food and to get acquainted with their new surroundings. As is their way,

GENERAL ELECTRIC GAINS 41-2 POINTS

Buying of Industrial Shares Carries General Wall Street List Upward.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Jan. 4—Wall Street, Noon.

Buying of numerous industrial shares based on individual trade considerations, carried the individual list upward again during the morning, but there was little alteration in the prices of the customary leaders. The principal gains were recorded by ordinarily inactive issues, General Electric rising 4½ points and American Electric rising 4½ points and American Sumatra and Lorillard Tobaccos, Marine preferred, American Brake Shoe and Foundry, and Fisher Body selling 2 to 3 points above yesterday's closing levels. Chemical and fertilizer issues gave a good demonstration of group strength. Intermittent heaviness was noted in the independent steels, Corn Products and Chandler Motors. Call money opened at 4% per cent.

MONTREAL MARKET SHOWS ACTIVITY

Trading on Stock Exchange Is Carried Over Broad Range of Issues.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Montreal, Jan. 4.—Noon.—Trading on the stock exchange this morning was moderately active, and was carried on over a broad range of issues. The price trend was firmer, gains outnumbering

Montreal Power led in point of activity and closed at noon at 142% for a het gain of 2½ points, which also made it the strong spot of the list. Second in volume of trading came Smelters, which was easier, being % to 30%. Brompton came third in activity and registered an advance of 1½ points.

The greatst loss of the morning was suffered by Steel of Canada, that issue closing at 75% for a net loss of 1½ points.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Jan. 4.—Buying of dollar exchange in Paris and London again today influenced lower sterling and franc exchange at the opening of the New York foreign exchange market.

Francs dropped 5½ points to 4.84½ cents, a new low price for all time.

Traders reported there was some selling of franc bills in this market because of the enormous increase in French note circulation as disclosed by the weekly statement of the Bank of France.

Demand sterling opened at 4.28%, a decrease of one cent from yesterday's close, and then improved to 4.29%.

Other continental exchanges opened slightly lower.

A rate decision is still to come in the case of Twin City Rapid Transit. It is thought that they will be allowed sufficient for their legitimate needs. This company should shortly begin to reap the benefits of the new Ford piant being finished in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

It was recently appropried that the zation for the construction of has already been given.

STEAMSHIPS PREFERRED

The further rally of 1½ points in Canada Steamships preferred to 43 was the most important price change of the session. This stock has lately been under accumulation around 40, and there are suggestions in the action of the stock that the supply at that level has been exhausted, and that further requirements will have to be bid for in a market depleted of chief offerings. Perhaps even more significant was the reported character of the buying. The company is known to have improved its financial position, and the annual statement for the year just closed will be awaited with special interest, owing to the change which may ensue in connection with the giving to preferred shareholders of a vote, now that the dividend is two years in arrears.

The likelihood of the dissolution of the obsolete voting trust is regarded as another factor of interest. Changes of management have been freely talked about in the street, but as yet have not been officially confirmed.

WHY TECK-HUGHES IS STRONG.

The strength in Teck-Hughes stock is reported as being on account of a new strike of jewelry ore, according to to Forest, Dobie & Co.

Teck is an interesting study at the moment. They have $500,000 of stock still in the treasury, and it will take practically that amount of money to carry out the additions to the mill and the sinking of a new shaft. If this treasury stock is sold to the shareholders at a price of par the money will be provided, and the shareholders at the same time would receive valuable rights. By financing in this man-

MARKET SIDELIGHTS Traction companies seem to be making gradual progress in regaining their impaired position of the war years. The principle seems to be becoming established that these companies must be permitted a fair return for the investor, and at the same time provide for extensions to keep pace with the growth of the communities which they serve.

The recent buying in Montreal Detroit United Processing the company to determine if the anticipated improvements will be made by the sale of the treasury stock. Upon this decision will be course. case, it is evident that the Teck will probably sell at double its present price within a year, when the greater capacity is obtained.

There is also an interesting rumor of the possible purchase of the Kirkland Lake mill and property.

Just what bearing this will have on the stock is, of course, dependent on the price.

SMELTERS' PRODUCTION In discussion the continuous in

SMELTERS' PRODUCTION.
In discussion the continuous interest shown in the shares of Consolidated Smelters, we have referred to the hopes and gossip of the street regarding the possibilities of increased dividends on the strength of increased business.

A basis for these hopes was established last week, in the shape of an advance in price of the company's products, especially lead. The advance of this metal to 8c a pound is a new high level for the present price movement this metal to 8c a pound is a new high level for the present price movement in the United States. Statistically, lead looks as though it ought to be on the rise, or at least firm, for some time to come. The upward movement is the result of restricted supplies of new lead, coupled with steady and heavy consumption. The possibility of suspended production in Mexico for revolutionary causes proved the psychological reason for the sudden spurt in price.

BRITISH-AMERICAN OIL

BRITISH-AMERICAN OIL.

British-American Oil Company shares have shown a steady advance of over 5 points in active trading in the past month on the unlisted department of the Toronto stock exchange, and buying is coming for quarters which lend significance to this move.

The company is understood to have been heavy buyers of crude oil on the recent drop in the price of crude oil, and it is stated that every available bit of space has been put into use for the storing of this oil. Now that prices have again adtvanced substantially. British-American should derive good profits from the policy carried out by the management.

Service stations have been purchased from time to time and paid for out of earnings, without any increase in capital. It is now reported that the stations are more than paying their own way, and the directors are considering capitalizing them and distributing the securities to shareholders as a bonus.

The company is in excellent financia, standing, having no bonded nor bank-

Yesterday's Session Shows Market At Hesitating Level-Oats Continue Firm.

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, Jan. 3.-The wheat market was very dull today, holding steady, with extremely narrow fluctuations. Trade was light and featureless. There was no pressure, and although there are heavy accumulations, pit offerings were small. The market seemed to have reached a hesitating level again, after making a price record during the last week of 3%c a bushel, or from last week of 3%c a bushel, or from 96%c to $1, the advance being largely in the adjustment of short interests. The oats market continued firm, in sympathy with other grains, although trade was very small. The barley market was dull but firm, with few offerings. The flax market again was stronger, with fair buying by speculative interests. There was no activity in rye.

There was no change in the cash market, which continued very dull and uninteresting. Although business was extremely light, the undertone was firm, and spreads were quoted at fractionally better than yesterday.

The coarse grains and flax also were very quiet, generally showing a fractional advance.

Special to The Advertiser. Windsor, Jan. 3 .- Confirmation of ne report that automobile owners of the province will be expected to pay increased license fees this year was given this afternoon by the Hon. G. S. Henry, minister of highways, speaking to a delegation of Essex County residents who were asking that the concrete pavement at Essex be extended to the division road which branches off to Leamington and Kingsville. Declaring that fees from automobile licenses was not sufficient to pay the cost of assisting township roads, the minister plainly hinted that the government intends increasing the financial obligations of automobile owners. The delegation was introduced by Frank W. Wilson,

Kent County Roads.

Special to The Advertiser. Chatham, Jan. 3.—"The solution is largely in your own hands," said the Hon. G. S. Henry, minister of highways, speaking at a board of trade banquet here tonight. in which numerous speakers urged that permanent roads be constructed be-tween the end of the present paved stretch of the provincial highway west of the city to Tilbury, and be-tween Chatham and Wallaceburg. The latter is a county provincial road. Strong delegations from Windsor, Tilbury and Wallaceburg were present to support the requests.
Mayor E. Odette of Tilbury declared

two years. Miss Elizabeth Thom of When Miss Thom first arrived in Grey street, brings back a stirring tale of the ravages this little nation is undergoing as it is whirled in the maelstrom of European unrest. Armenians look back on a long history is undergoing as it is whirled in the maelstrom of European unrest. Ar-menians look back on a long history of persecution. The war took its ter-rible toll. And now the country is feeling its sanity and morale being torn to shreds by Communistic in-roads. Altogether, the impression of this ancient and long-suffering little country of Christians, which one gathers from the London girl is one organization is concentrating at preent on the education of 20,000 or the Armenian children, Miss Thom says. In Djalal Cgli where she has been for the past year, there are two orphanages, in each of which there are 5,000 children, who are being taught a number of useful trades, which if the opportunity comes, may be utilized in restoring their country to some form of prosperity once

As far as possible, she tells, the relief workers try to use the orphans in the work of the orphanages, which were formerly Russian barracks and are admirably adapted for their new use. The children usually stay until they are from 16 to 18 years of age, but even then they are not turned out if they wish to remain, but

Salary Question.

This question of salaries, Miss Thom says, was one of the first things that caused difficulties be-tween the workers and the govern-ment of the country, because the govment of the country, because the gov-ernment employees did not receive as much as those employed by the workers. Consequently, the govern-ment complained that all the best workers in the country were em-ployed by the relief and forced the staff to lower the wages paid. Miss Thom also tells of the trouble they had in discharging dishonest or un-Tale of Great

Left for Polygom. Miss Thom, who left Westminster Hospital here in August, 1920, for Armenia, went by way of Naples, Constantinople and Tiflis to Alexan-drople to the Polygom orphanage, and found the children in very poor con-dition, suffering from trachoma and

dition, suffering from trachoma and favus. During the first winter they were unable to secure any wood to speak of, and the children were often given dry rations, as there was no fuel to cook food. During this time, little bands of the boys would start out with an Armenian flag at their head, as the Turks were in the city, and go to the neighboring railcity, and go to the neighboring rail-road and each bring back a stick of wood for the fires to cook their

Although the Armenian govern-ment wants to take over the education of the children, as they are not being taught communism in the or-phanages, it is not yet ready to handle the situation and will not be for at least two years, and Miss Thom pointed out that it would be a sad thing if the Americans had to go out at present.

But supplies are still needed and money, which is becoming increasingly hard to get. All kinds of old clothes are most welcome, and if too many for the immediate needs of the orphanages arrive, they can be sold to the government and food from th country purchased. Food is not as scarce now, but at first the chil-dren depended entirely on that sent

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnson Are Presented With Rocking Chair.

Brick street friends to the number of fifty gathered at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnston, Glenfashioned surprise party. Mr. and Mrs Johnston were presented during the course of the evening with a large, comfortable, leather rocking-chair by the Brick street delegation. Mrs. S. D. Dawson read the address which accompanied the gift, which was signed by James Mair, William Bartlett and S. D.

Dawson.
The address referred in glowing terms to the friendship which had always existed between Mr. and Mrs. Johnston and all their Brick street neighbors, special mention being made of the splendid work accomplished by them as members of the Brick Street Methodist Church, where Mr. Johnston was a member of the board of trustees and choir leader for many years. Mrs. Johnston was formerly president of the Women's Missionary Society, and under her able direction great strides were made in the missionary work.

made in the missionary work.

Mr. Johnston made a short and appreciative reply, after which an impreciative reply, after which an impromptu program was rendered under the chairmanship of Stanley Tunks.

Those taking part in the program were Miss Marjorie Whitehall, Mrs. Richard Lucas, Benjamin and Lorne Lawson, Mrs. Jack Bouk, Mary Samble, Richard Lucas, Mrs. Basil Cornell, Norman England, Richard England, Winifred Whitehall, Mel England, James Mair, William Bartlett and others.

Four-Candle Power Used, Club Secretary Warns.

Owners of cars are warned by the secretary of the London Motor Club, that from now on, under the new highway act, the rear lights on their cars must be of four candlepower, and that it must be placed in the center of the rear license marker, so as to illuminate the plate clearly. He points out that the large majority of the rear lights in use at the present time are two-candlepower lamps, and that they are, therefore, illegal under he new act.

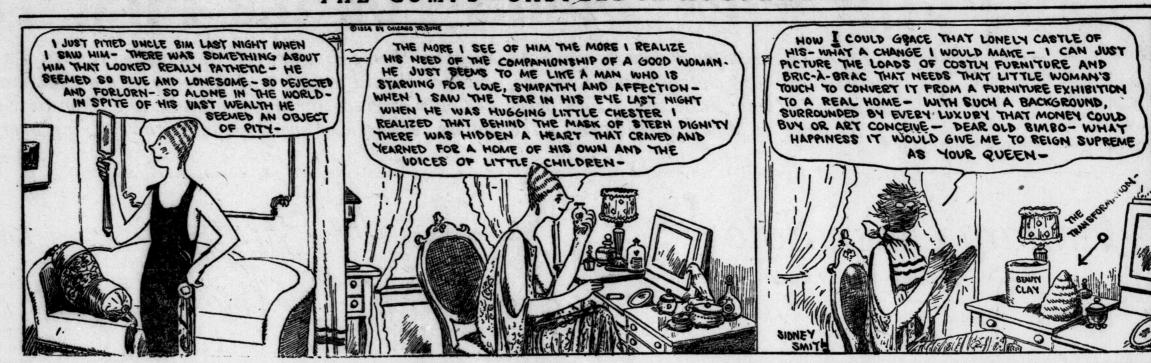

Motor vehicle permits for 1923 will be extended until Jan. 31, when the new 1924 plates will be ready. New application forms for 1924 are being prepared and when ready they will be mailed to all registered owners.

Presents Fifth Avenue Colors For Spring, 1924

Fashion-right colors in merchandise for the coming season given in the order of their present popularity.

FIRST GROUP, STAPLE COLORS SECOND GROUP, HIGH COLORS -The four best staple colors for spring are given in the first group on the color card. They will form the neutral background for newer shades in the high colors.

BLACK WITH TOUCHES OF WHITE continues its run as a fashion favorite. Lustrous black silks, that add to fashion's slenderness, especially the satins and shimmering alpacas. With perhaps a few pearls here, a gardenia there, or a bit of contrasting white satin or lingerie trimming-to relieve the background of black.

NAVY, OF COURSE, is always important and this year especially so because all the blues are receiving a great deal of attention from Paris dressmakers. Navy is used for the little frock of twill. Navy three-quarter length coat or costume suit of twill. Then there are a few of the new tailleurs in this practical navy blue.

ALL THE TANS (of which the golden tan is one of the smartest) are particularly good in soft woolens for topcoats. They are good also in satin or novelty crepes, for both sports wear and formal dresses. And they are best of all for new tailored suits when these suits are of covert cloth or men's suitings.

LIGHT GRAYS continue their inconspicuous popularity for top-coats and flannel dresses and for the formal three-piece suit or gown of crepe.

THE DARK OXFORD GRAYS in covert cloth or men's suiting are very strong for the mannish tail-. . . .

N.B.—The new colors may be seen at Silk Counters.

-The high colors form the foreground of fashion's pictures for spring. These high colors stand out. Fashion emphasis is placed upon them. Although the staple colors predominate in numbers, all the high colors are receiving so much attention already that it is certain they are very important. Especially for sports clothes and for informal wear. The Breath of the Avenue has covered the Palm Beach and early spring showings, with the purpose of finding out which colors are emphasized and their relative order of importance.

A count of the high-colored garments shown is taken by one group of reporters. And the relative numbers of the different colors are noted. This count is checked by another group of reporters.

The percentages vary slightly at green may predominate, at another blue. The figures given strike an average from findings at all stores. OUT OF ALL THE HIGH-COLORED GARMENTS SEEN. 30% are green, 25% are blue, 12% are Oriental reds, 3% are pink and flesh tones, 2% are miscellaneous orange, etc. And 28% are yellow. (Yellow is considered last because it is distinctly a color for resort leading high color for over a month. This green is, as you know, a hold-over from last spring.

AND NOW THE SOFT BLUES (of the various porcelain shadessome of them have a greenish caste) are creeping up on the greens. The blues are newest of all and are receiving rapid recognition. They are already ahead of green at some shops. The medium blues, which, except as trimming details, have been out of the running for so long, ought to be ready for a come-back.

DRESSES FOR SPRING.

Almond green and the newest shades of procelain blue are being featured very strongly in the advertising and display of Fifth Avenue shops now.

THE NEW SHADES IN SPRING COATS.

We see many high-colored coats in spring showings, in soft finish fabrics or fine twills and poplins. These high-colored coats were introduced late for big winter business. They are more logical for spring than for winter selling. The almond green is still the best high color for these coats.

FOR PALM BEACH AND TROPICAL WEAR, yellow stands far ahead of any other high color. (We are not considering white or the light neutral shades which are, of course, the background of sum mer colors.)

THE PINKS, CORALS AND FLAME TONES are far behind, but they are newer for day-time wear and they will probably increase in done. For evening the pink shades are important both for southern FINALLY THESE HIGH COLORS are important in printed crepes, in conventionalized floral designs. These floral-printed crepes are quite often of Chinese inspiration with designs copied from the embroidered flowers on old Mandarin coats. Prints in all the high colors and staple shades shown will play their part in the spring color scheme.
