'Mercy, My Lord.'

Mercy, Not for Me, but the Wife.

MRS. STRUGNELL, are you there? once more shouted the constable. He was answered by a low moan. In an instant the frail door was burst in, and Mrs. Strugnell more dead than alive, from underneath the bedstead, where she, in speechless consternation, lay partially concealed. Placing her in a chair, they soon succeeded—much more easily, indeed, than they anticipated—in restoring her to consciousness.

Nervously she glanced round the circle of eager faces that environed her, till her eyes fell upon Armstrong and his wife, when she gave a loud shriek, and muttering, 'They, they are the murderers!' swooned, or appeared to do so, again instantly.

The accused persons, in spite of their pretended protestations of innocence, were instantly seized and taken off to a place of security; Mrs. Strugnell was conveyed to a neighbors close by; the house was carefully secured, and the agitated and wondering villagers departed to their several homes, but not, I fancy, to sleep any more for that night.

The deposition made by Mrs. Strugnell at the inquest on the body was in substance as follows:—

'On the afternoon in question she had, in accordance with her usual custom, proceeded to town. She called on her aunt, took tea with her, and afterwards went to the Independent Chapel. After service, she called to see Miss Wilson, but was informed that, in consequence of a severe cold, the young lady was gone to bed. She then immediately proceeded home, and consequently arrived at Craig Farm more than an hour before her usual time. She let herself in with her latch key, and proceeded to her bedroom. There was no light in Mr. Wilson's chamber, but she could hear him moving about in it. She was just about to go down stairs, having put away her bonnet and shawl, when she heard a noise, as of persons entering by the back way, and walking gently across the kitchen floor. Alarmed—as to who it could be, Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong not being expected home for a few days, she gently closed her door and locked it. A few minutes after, she heard stealthy steps ascending the creaking stairs, and presently her door was tried, and a voice in a low hurried whisper said, 'Mary, are you there?' She was positive it was Mr. Armstrong's voice, but was too terrified to answer. Then Mrs. Armstrong—she was sure it was she—said also in a whisper, and as if addressing her husband, 'She is never back at this hour.'

A minute or so after there was a tap at Mr. Wilson's door. She could not catch what answer was made; but by Armstrong's reply, she gathered that Mr. Wilson's had lain down, and did not wish to be disturbed. He was often in the habit of lying down with his clothes on. Armstrong said, 'I will not disturb you, sir; I'll only just put this parcel on the table.' There is no lock to Mr. Wilson's door. Armstrong stepped into the room, and almost immediately she heard a sound as of a violent blow, followed by a deep groan and then all was still. She

Nerves at High Tension

Slight extra strain means collapse—Restoration obtained by using DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

The successful men and women are often of the high-strung nervous type—keen and active—but with too little reserve force.

A little extra worry and anxiety and snap goes the nervous system. Weeks and months are often required before energy and vigor are regained.

Rest helps, so does fresh air and exercise, but the blood must also be made rich and red by use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. Wm. Branton, Victoria St., Stratford, Ont., writes:—My nervous system seemed all unstrung. I could not sleep, had no appetite, my digestion was poor and I had jerking of the limbs. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food helped me and I continued until I had taken twenty-four boxes. This treatment has made a radical change in my condition, building up the system and strengthening the nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, all dealers or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

was paralyzed with horror and affright. After a lapse of a few seconds, a voice—Mrs. Armstrong's undoubtedly—asked in a tremulous tone if 'all was over?' Her husband answered 'Yes; but where be the keys of the writing-desk kept?' 'In the little table-drawer, was the reply. Armstrong then came out to Mr. Wilson's sitting apartment. They soon returned, and crept stealthily along the passage to their own bedroom on the same floor. They then went down stairs to the kitchen. One of them—the woman, she had no doubt—went out the back way, and heavy footsteps again ascended the stairs. Almost dead with fright, she then crawled under the bedstead, and remembered no more till she found herself surrounded by the villagers.

In confirmation of this statement, a large class-knife belonging to Armstrong, and with which it was evident the murder had been perpetrated, was found in one corner of Wilson's bedroom; and a mustache comb, for one thousand pounds on Craig Farm, the property of Wilson, and which Strugnell swore was always kept in the writing-desk in the front room, was discovered in a chest in the prisoner's sleeping apartments, together with nearly one hundred and fifty pounds in gold, silver, and county banknotes, although it was known that Armstrong had but a fortnight before declined a very advantageous offer of some cows he was desirous of purchasing, under the plea of being short of cash. Worse perhaps than all, a key of the back-door was found in his pocket, which not only confirmed Strugnell's evidence, but clearly demonstrated that the knocking at the door for admittance, which had roused and alarmed the hamlet, was a pure subterfuge. The conclusion, therefore, almost universally arrived at throughout the neighborhood was, that Armstrong and his wife were the guilty parties; and that the bundles, the broken locks, the sheet hanging out of the window, the shiny, black hat, were, like the knocking, mere cunning devices to mislead inquirers.

The case excited great interest in the county, and I esteemed myself professionally fortunate in being selected to hold the briefs for the prosecution. I had satisfied myself, by a perusal of the depositions, that there was no doubt of the prisoners' guilt, and, I determined that no effort on my part should be spared to insure the accomplishment of the ends of justice. I drew the indictment myself; and in my opening address to the jury, dwelt with all the force and eloquence of which I was master, upon the heinous nature of the crime, and the conclusiveness of the evidence by which it had been brought home to the prisoners. I may here, by way of parenthesis, mention that I restated to a plan in my address to the jury which I have seldom known to fail.

Story of the Consol.

How the British National Debt is Made Up.

Almost all the debt of England consists of the funded debt, so called, and the greater part of this is made up of "consols," which is an abbreviation of "consolidated stocks," of which we read every day in the papers, and the price of consols is the financial pulse of England, says the Bankers' Magazine.

Consols were created in 1752 by statute 25 of George II, chapter 27. But no scrap of paper ever represented a consol until, to facilitate commerce, in 1870, a statute was passed allowing the Government to issue certificates to represent them. The property that all the world ask the price of every day was unrepresented by any monetary securities until 1870, and even now very few certificates have been issued.

Now, this is a consol, and this is its history: Originally some one had loaned the Government $500, and the Government has caused his name to be enrolled on its books as a creditor, from whom it has received that amount, and to whom some day it might, if it chose, repay it. It need never do so, but until it did it must pay him an annuity of $15—that is, he received 3 per cent. on his money as long as the Government chose to keep it, but the Government could pay it back at any time it chose to do so. This creditor then owned a consol—that is, he owned such a debt from the Government as I have just described.

A Practical Apron.

A serviceable work apron such as the one here shown, not only protects the entire dress, but is very becoming as well. It may be made with very little difficulty, and the ease with which it may be slipped on and off is a feature that will recommend it at once to the busy housewife. The bib is cut circular and slips on easily over the head requiring no pins or buttons to hold it in place. A generous size pocket is a useful addition that will be appreciated by the wearer. Such a garment as this could be successfully made from linen, gingham, muslin and percale. The medium size will require 3/4 yards of 36 inch material for the making. Sizes for small, medium and large.

A pattern of this illustration will be mailed to any address upon receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A Practical Model showing New and Attractive Ideas.

This comfortable model has several excellent features, but its strong point is the centre back closing that extends to the lower edge of the skirt, and is a great saving of trouble in laundering. The waist may be finished with a standing collar, or with the sailor collar. Deep shoulder platts give breadth and lend fullness to the design. The skirt may be plaited or gathered. The design is adapted for woolen materials, and also for gingham, chambrays, percale or repp. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 years. It requires 4 5/8 yards of 24 inch material for the 8 year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

If he wished to transfer what rights he had—that is, his 3 per cent. per annum—and the right to his $500 when, if ever, the Government chose to return it, he could go to the Bank of England with his transferee and receive the purchase price from him, and the stock would be transferred to the man paying the consideration to the former owner, and thereafter the transferee would receive the $15 a year and the $500, if it was ever paid back. But no paper passed except the receipt for the purchase money which was given by the buyer, and which the bank officials checked with a red mark.

These receipts were not certificates of ownership and were seldom preserved, never except for purpose of identification when the new owner went to draw his first dividend. After that they were destroyed. It is true in olden times the owner of a consol was given a tally, which was nothing but a block of wood with notches on it, split in two so that a portion of each notch should be on each half and the owner of the stock the other half.

These showed the state of the account between the Government and its creditor, but this was an antiquated system of keeping accounts, brought down from the days when writing was little known, and at last they were abolished by act of Parliament and burned. There were so many of them that when they were thrown into the furnaces these became superheated, and the Parliament houses burned down, which perhaps served the authorities right for keeping the antiquated system so long.

The Prince and the Pauper.

In a large barred packing box in the tween deck section of the Hamburg-American Line freighter Christiania travelled together two friends—King James, a royal Bengal tiger, and Spud, little Spud, the homeliest, "ornariest bunch of yellow mongrel hair and snapping black eyes. Some how fate, instinct, or perhaps just dumb luck led him to Hexamer's livery stable in New York, where King James, the young Bengal, was lunging nervously about within the narrow confines of his packing box. Spud was dirty. One of his hind legs was askew, and his tail resembled a piece of moth-eaten fringe. A part of his left ear was gone. The Hexamer man viewed the visitor with little sympathy and yet not unkindly: for an animal is an animal, and by a certain instinctive process men who handle beasts, whether wild or tame, develop a sentiment concerning them that is rather difficult to define.

So they let him run about the stable until fate, instinct, or just dumb luck—take your choice—led him to the prison of King James. The stablemen heard the mongrel's joyous yelp and discovery, and to a man they trooped back to witness Spud's finish. But there was no finish: it was a beginning. The men saw Spud—they gave him that name later—standing on his hind legs, his paws against the bars of the cage, his ears cocked stiffly, and his fringe of a tail wagging so swiftly that it was nothing but a pale chrome blur.

And King James—the fur was unruined, even along the back of his neck, and that was good for Spud. The Bengal slouched lazily over to the bars and gave his guest a thorough sniffing, and then—lowered his head like a great big contented cat and rubbed it against the bars as near as possible to Spud's little moist nose.

A door with this device shuts out cold draughts, noise and odors, and is operated silently.

Doors so equipped can't be slammed or left open, the action is quick, firm and noiseless.

A door check is now a necessity rather than a luxury on most outside and many inside doors; its field of usefulness is constantly increasing.

The only successful door checks are those of the liquid type, and the Blount, since its introduction more than ten years ago, has been universally recognized as the leading and best Liquid Door Check on the market. It is made in six different sizes and many finishes to meet all requirements.

The pact of friendship had been consummated, and the stablemen looked at one another wonderingly. Men who are much with wild beasts see things like this occasionally—but only occasionally—and so the wonder of it all never wears off. Just for a rest they made believe to drive Spud away from the cage, and, wonder of wonders, this humble little product of the gutters turned and showed his teeth, and as for King James, he roared and roared until the stable shook.

Well, there was only one thing to do. They opened the grating and tossed Spud in, and Spud was not afraid, not one bit. He walked right up to the tiger with a happy squaw, and the great beast made him know his temerity by a gentle box with his sheathed claws. And thus having asserted his majesty, he rolled about and played with his new friend until both were so tired that they lay down, very near together, and slept.

Spud never thought of leaving the cage after that, not even when the street sounds and the barking of other dogs called, and when the time came to ship the tiger to Spud stay, and no doubt so they will remain until death time do part—New York Times.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Why do men, as a rule, have clearer and better skins than women?
I have often heard that question propounded, but up to yesterday I never heard a satisfactory answer except the whimsical comments on the cruelty of the fate that arranged matters that way.

"Violet" or "Amaryllis" or "Pale cheeks" on this most important of subjects.
And the most common question is a request for a receipt for a skin lotion that will make a homely, fallow skin clear and attractive.

"Probably because they shave."
"What has that got to do with it?" we retorted.

"Of course I can't give that."
If I could, I should have a fortune ready made to my hand.

"Just that a man who shaves keeps his skin in good condition by giving it a thorough massage everyday with a very fine soap and a brush."
"But why couldn't women do that?"

"No one can give that receipt no matter what alluring advertisers, who know the feminine public's longing to be fooled on this question, may say."
But if any girl really wants an attractive skin enough to work for it, why not try my doctor friend's prescription for a few months?

"And while I am about here are one or two more beauty hints."
The red corpuscles in the blood are increased by sleep more than by anything else.

"Above all things, remember that the best way to improve the skin is to improve the general health—especially the condition of the bowels and kidneys, which in their functions are closely related to the skin."
Drinking plenty of water and keeping the bowels in good order will do infinitely more to give you a clear skin than the most exquisite and expensive skin lotion that was ever invented to coax the dollars out of feminine handbags.

I don't pretend to be able to teach my readers how to be beautiful though homely, but every once in a while I get a letter from "Edyth" or

Making a Famous Dictionary.

Store of 5,000,000 Quotations.

Many extraordinary facts relating to the preparation of the great and still unfinished Oxford English Dictionary were stated by its editor, Sir James Murray, in a lecture at the London Institution recently.

In 1877, Sir James said, he had the offer from an English and American firm of publishers to edit the dictionary, and forthwith materials for it began to pour in upon him from all quarters of the British Isles and beyond the seas. Quotations to illustrate meanings of words numbering millions and weighing tons were sent to him. Much of the accumulated material of twenty-five years' collecting had been sent by the numerous voluntary sub-editors to the late Dr. Furnivall's house, where they were stored in hamper and sack.

To discover further materials he himself had to make journeys to distant country houses and parsonages, where he found in some cases that the original collectors had died and that their unsympathetic successors had relegated bundles of precious quotations to the stables.

Then he was confronted by the problem where he could place the weight in tons of the three million quotations he had collected. If stored in his house at Mill Hill they would have filled it from top to bottom. The notion of leasing an adjoining cottage or them had to be abandoned for fear of fire. Eventually he had an iron room erected in his garden.

STORES FOR POSTERITY.
In the Scriptorium at Oxford were pigeon-holes, each of which held 6,000 quotations, and the total collection numbered five million. If postscript could want a dictionary of 100 volumes the material were ready in that iron storehouse.

If the five million quotations were laid end to end they would stretch 550 miles—from London to Scotland—and he writing if extended would reach from England to the Great Wall of China. If a man started reading these quotations, one quotation a minute during an eight hour day, he would take thirty years to finish them.

A lexicographer who desired to be accurate, the lecturer observed, and to be a universal inquirer. He illustrated the nature of these investigations and verifications by some typical examples. To the Director of Kew Gardens he had to write for the best cord of an exotic plant; to a Jesuit father on a point of divinity; to a Newcastle boat builder regarding the keels on the Tyne; to the India office about a word mentioned in a letter of the year 1620; to Yarmouth for a full description of a bloater; to Lord Tenison about the meaning which he attached to the word "balm-cricket," which he used in his lines:

"The balm-cricket carols clear
In the green that folds thy grave."

From every standpoint. A few of the titles are comprised in the following chapters: "The Proper Way to Walk," "Tips for Walkers," "The Opinions of Prominent Men on the Benefits of Walking," and "Walking for School-girls." Specimen walks in the vicinity of New York, selected from the official schedule of the Fresh Air Club of New York, forms an interesting chapter for pedestrians in the vicinity of the metropolis. A sketch of the origin and aims of the Fresh Air Club, which was founded by the late William B. Curtis in 1878 is also given. The articles of direct interest to the competitor in a walking contest are embraced in chapters on "How to Train for a Contest," "Judges of Walking," "Sam Liebold's Career," "Sam Austin's Views on Walking," and "Official Rules for Walking." A complete list of walking and running records is also appended.

To every follower of long distance walking the careers of Edward Payson Weston, Dan O'Leary and John Emms are familiar, and a book on walking would be incomplete without some mention of their achievements. The illustrations are numerous and good, and includes pictures of professional "walkers" will be sent to any address in the United States or Canada upon receipt of 10 cents by the publishers, the American Sports Publishing Co., 21 Warren Street, New York City.

Household Notes.

- Paint wooden pails and tubs with glycerine to prevent shrinking.
- Rub mirrors with methylated spirits and polish with a touch of blue powder.
- One tablespoonful of ammonia to a quart of water will clean gold or silver jewelry.
- An old-fashioned Shetland shawl should be washed in bran and warm water; no soap.
- Place all cakes to cool on a wire sieve and never put them away in this till perfectly cool.
- Slices of lemon topped with grated horseradish makes a tasty and pleasing garnish for veal served in any form.
- Ordinary wall papers may be cleaned with dough, or rubbed with a soft, clean flannel dipped in fine oatmeal.
- Candles used for lighting the dinner table will not drip if placed on ice for two or three hours, just before serving the meal.
- To prevent old potatoes from discoloring, put one or two tablespoonfuls of sweet milk into the water in which they are boiled.
- Tomatoes cannot be cooked in a hurry. If you cannot give them at least an hour, preferably two, do without them for that time.
- Do not throw your worn-out hot-water bag away, but cut it in round or oval pieces, and use them as mats to put under flower pots.
- Coffee stain, even with cream in it, can be removed from the most delicate silk or woolen fabrics by brushing the spots with pure glycerine.
- If when drying curtains they are hung double over the line they will not stretch at all, as is so often the case when hung up by the edge.
- For dusting women's heavily-trimmed hats the best brush is a cheap shaving brush, as it is both stiff and small enough to reach every crevice.
- Sew matting with raffia and prevent unsightly stitches of thread. Raffia is very strong, and may be bought to match almost any kind of matting.
- A simple way of repairing a rent in an umbrella is to use a piece of ordinary adhesive plaster. If the plaster is not black it may be easily colored.
- Fill a bottle with hot water, place the splinter over the mouth, press tightly; the suction will loosen it, and it will be an easy matter to remove it.
- When next creaming carrots add half a teaspoonful of onion juice and a dash of grated nutmeg to the white sauce. Add the boiled, diced carrots and serve.

Supreme Court.

(Before Mr. Justice Johnson.)
King vs. T. Owens.

The following men were sworn in as a jury: John Summers, Ed. Le Mesurier, Jas. Norris, Jas. Warren, Thomas Ryan, Hubert Driscoll, Wm. Kenny, Wm. Freigan, Wm. Summers, Jas. McCoubrey, Arch Radford, Wm. Godden.

After the jury were sworn in, Mr. Hutchings, K.C., Deputy Minister of Justice, stated the case for the Crown. He called Stipendiary Magistrate March, who testified that he was a Notary Public, and that on Sept. 24th, 1910, Wm. Butt and Thos. Owens swore and signed a protest. He identified Owens' signature and put in protest. The protest stated that the Livonia was lost by perils of the sea, 500 qts. of fish, 10 casks of oils and some goods on board.

Arthur Peters, Acting Secretary of the Nfld. Mutual Insurance Club, testified that application for insurance of Livonia was made by James H. Baggs, of Bay of Islands, owners being given as Butt Bros. A survey was made, which was put in. The Club insured vessel for $750 from June to December 31st. He learned of loss from Mr. Baggs, got protest and surveyor's report, which stated that the stem was out of Livonia and she was a total loss. It was signed by J. H. James and G. Butt. The word "bottom" has been stricken out of document. No insurance has been paid. All claims go before directors in the second week in January for consideration. In the regular course, the claim will be considered.

Cross-examined by Mr. Gibbs—Accused has made no claim for insurance.

William Butt swore he was master of Livonia, owned by self and brothers, John and James. It was hired by W. J. Buckle for trading voyage on Labrador. Sailed on Aug. 19th. Crew consisted of the accused, Amin Butt, W. J. Buckle and self Owens first as cook; Buckle made him mate. Had general cargo for trading. First went to Bonne Esperance, did up trade, went to see Buckle's father, then went to Lance au Clair, but returned same day to Forteau. Did a little trading at Forteau and Lance au Clair for fish and oil. Remained at Forteau till Sept. 16th. While at Forteau the second time, Buckle and Owens asked me about losing schooner. Buckle was at me the whole time about it. On board at Forteau, Owens said she'd be no good another year and there was a good chance to get rid of her. I lived aft. Brother and Owens lived in forecastle. I said at first I did not want to get clear of her. At last I gave my consent. Goods were all being given away by Buckle and no fish coming in. I wanted my charter from Buckle. He gave me a note to send my brother for $50 worth of goods from Thorne. I got no answer for two trips of Home. Buckle gave Owens a $45 cheque for me if goods were not forwarded to Bay of Islands by Thorne, manager for Ayre & Sons if my brother did not get goods from Thorne, cheque was to be good. I said cheque was no good. This led to row between me and Buckle. I went ashore a week later with brother. Buckle and Owens left on schooner. One anchor was holding the schooner. While I was away Mr. Owens put out the other. Next morning I found only one anchor. Owens said the other was all right during the night. He had let it go to hold ship. As we were about to go home, I said the cheque which Owens had was no good. Buckle took the cheque from Mr. Owens and put it in pocket. I would not take cheque. I said it was no good. I said I would take vessel to Western Mills and send home for another anchor and then send schooner home. Buckle said he owned the schooner and would do as he liked with her. Owens and others were in forecastle, where conversation took place. Buckle said schooner had to be lost. Owens being in forecastle could hear conversation. I went on deck. Owens came on deck after me and said there was a better way of settling the business than that. Buckle sent my brother on board Uddell to change cheque. My brother brought back cheque. Then Buckle gave me forty-five dollars in notes. Owens was there. An agreement was written that if my brother received goods at Bay of Islands I was to return money. We stayed at Forteau till Sept. 16th. About 3 or 4 on that morning we set sail for home. We beat up to Isle au Bois. On the way Buckle, Owens and myself arranged to lose Livonia on Isle au Bois. I am not sure Owens talked about losing her, but Owens knew of the arrangement to lose schooner. Owens had to take wheel and my rudder head was gone, and then we'd come to anchor. This was arranged between Owens, Buckle and me. I am not sure whether it was arranged on the morning we left or two mornings before. Before that we had a plan arranged for Mr. Owens to lose her at Forteau. This plan was made between Buckle, Owens and me. When we stood in for Isle au Bois Mr. Owens took the wheel. When we were abreast of island and stood off again, Buckle asked Owens if he'd got her in the right place. Owens said no. When he'd put her in the right place he said the rudder head was gone and we let go both anchors. We slacked away chain and brought her up. Then Owens, Buckle and myself went aft. Brother held on to dory to keep top breaking it up. Buckle, Owens and myself tried to get iron off rudder head. We couldn't do it. Then I knocked out wedges and we tried again and hauled it almost off. They let it go and I finished it. The three of us went forward, slacked up a little chain until we came to a link I had broke myself in Forteau, and slipped it and let it go. Mr. Owens told me to take the end of the chain and haul enough to reach through hawse hole. I went then to other chain and tied end of line to chain and fastened end of line to windlass. The big chain was let go. The schooner was held only by line. I tied line myself. Owens was against windlass. Buckle was there too. Myself, brother and Owens got down dory. Buckle chopped the line.

The Court here adjourned till 2.30 this afternoon.

Holes in Ship.

To-day the tugs John Green and Ingraham are out to the s.s. Phoenix putting powerful pumps on board to keep the ship free of water. The captain to-day stated to a Telegram reporter that the vessel had terrible weather after leaving Tilt Cove with a hurricane from the eastward and tremendous sea. She started to leak at 8 p.m. Tuesday and all hands while she lay to had to go below and shift the copper on board to get at the holes which had been pierced in the hull between Nos. 1 and 2 tanks. In such weather it was hard work, and men got at the leaks Wednesday morning and plugged them, but not so as to make them water tight. The water still continued to come on board and the captain decided to run for this port. She will be berthed possibly at the dock premises this afternoon when a diver will go down to ascertain the extent of the damage. It is likely that the R. N. Co. will effect repairs, although no decision has yet been arrived at.

Sailor Severely Hurt.

This forenoon one of the sailors working on the deck of the s.s. Phoenix, named Christian Durand, while upon one of the davits reefing some tackle, fell to the rail and struck on his back. He was very severely injured in the spine, was attended by a doctor, and being brought into the King's wharf was taken charge in the ambulance to the General Hospital.

Another Sudden Death.

Mr. Edward Hollahan, who has been all his life time almost a constant weight on dried dog biscuit mixed with known quantities of water. Bovril—from 2½ to 7½ grammes—was then added to the food, with the result that the weight of the animal went up as much as 50 to 100 grammes, or, in round numbers, 10 to 20 times the weight of the Bovril given. Afterwards Bovril was discontinued, and the animals fell back to the original weight. Compared with the effect of hard-boiled white of egg, it was found that from 8 to 10 times as much by weight of the latter had to be given to obtain the same increase in weight, or, taking the dried organic solids in the two foods, from 2½ to 4 times as much egg white had to be given to obtain the Bovril effect.

In several of the experiments there was a retention of reserve nitrogen, and in all an increased utilisation of other foods.

It was therefore concluded that Bovril had both a direct and an indirect nutritive value, the latter by causing a more complete digestion and absorption of the other food given.

Express Arrived.

The express from Fort aux Basques reached town at 1.25 p.m. to-day. Last night a terrible storm was encountered crossing the Gulf Topsails, rendering progress slow. Rain fell in torrents, there was no snow seen until Holyrood was reached. The ground is covered to a depth of five inches from that on to town. Among the passengers who came in were: Inspector General Sullivan, Mrs. Sullivan, P. F. Moore, M.H.A., W. J. Higgins, J. Lighter, J. Lamb, E. Russell, Thos. McGrath, J. Donnelly and Frank Pike.

Labrador Territory.

I would call your attention to a notice in this morning's "News" stating that a large tract of land on Labrador has been sold by a Nova Scotian company to some New Yorkers. Can this be possible? The land in question comprising some 450,000 acres is situated in the neighbourhood of Sandwich Bay.

That territory—No matter what decision may be come to on the question of the Labrador boundary—is undoubtedly Newfoundland Territory. Unless our Government has given up the fight altogether and handed over the entire of Labrador to Canada, Canada has been brazenly pushing herself forward into Newfoundland territory for some years past; but this last act is the most audacious of all. Is it yet too late to check their encroachments, until the boundary question is settled?

Editor Evening Telegram.

Sir—I find that most of our professional musicians have agreed amongst themselves to decline to play or sing at public concerts, unless they are paid a fee for their services. I do not wish to say a word against their decision, they have, of course, a perfect right to do as they please in the matter; but I should be grateful if you would allow me to make it generally known that I am always willing and glad to play and conduct without any fee whatever, the only conditions I make being these: (1) a decent instrument shall be provided; (2) I shall not be expected to perform or to take part in any work below the standard of the average educated musician. Perhaps I ought to add that there is certainly nothing new or wonderful in this; as a missionary in the cause of "clean" music, it has been my custom for many years, and I have always found myself in very good company.

I remain, Sir,

Fight Beginning Anew in British Politics on Constitutional Question.

London, Nov. 4.—Newspaper headlines displayed here say: "The fight of the fighters"—"The men with the American money quote England for sale"—"A bid of $200,000"—"The nation's rally"—"The possibility of an early election has plunged Britain into a sea of excitement"—"Both parties are clearing decks for a life and death struggle."

Unionist Call to Arms.

The foregoing headlines taken from the Observer which is foremost among the aggressive Unionist journals, whose editor is Mr. Garvin, indicate the militant wary cry which the fighting Unionists are sending through the kingdom. With such a cry and a leader like Mr. Chamberlain the radicals would fall like nine-pins when the election day comes.

Mr. Garvin's Appeal.

Mr. Garvin says: "What is the vital word in this struggle? It is that Mr. Redmond landed at Queenstown last night with 200,000 dollars in his pocket for the purpose of tearing down the British constitution. He comes to provide if he can, with his trans-Atlantic subsidies and nothing else, another majority for his kemp ministry. He comes with the money of Patrick Ford to wipe out the political interests of England, to hand over England to the domination of Socialism, to keep free imports fastened on the back of the British masses, to make a final end of the old dignity, honour and estate of the Mother of Parliaments. Above all he returns with his republican cash to extort from the British Crown his guarantees and if he can get them for £40,000 let us concede they would be dirt cheap at the price. In a word he comes once more with his freely imported pelf to resume the evil work that hurried King Edward to the grave. He appears to effect a conquest more shameful and more ignominious than could be effected by foreign 'kemp'. We not only tell him he will never succeed until every soul and the patriotism of England are dead, we tell him that from the judgment of England he shall not escape. The nation recognizes the emergency, recognizes that this is like nothing else ever known in our politics or in the politics of any great people. Within a week throughout its length and breadth, Britain will be ablaze with indignation and will be so lighted that no efforts of the kemp ministry and of the men with American money shall put it out. The manifestation of public feeling will end the idea that the price of Great Britain and all the permanent interests of the constitution is two hundred thousand dollars."

Wm. O'Brien's Onslaught.

While the whole south-western and southern coast of Ireland was ablaze with bonfires to welcome Mr. Redmond, William O'Brien was delivering a terrific onslaught at Dungarven. He said Mr. Redmond was returning with another lot of boodle or swag which he had scraped together by tumbling and tight rope dancing in America. It was Redmond's double dealing in America that caused the revolt in the Tory party which wrecked the veto conference and threw them back into a conflict which would last through several parliaments to come. He, O'Brien, had urged from the beginning of the conference that the wiser course would be to extract the utmost advantage from it for Ireland and, to a marvellous extent were succeeding, up to the time of Mr. Redmond's right about face in America in disarming English apprehensions and making all Englishmen feel that the Irishmen's words could be trusted but the moment the American dollars were safely banked and Dillon issued his orders from Ireland, Redmond sank on his knees and cabled across his recantation before night was over and Mr. T. P. O'Connor would doubtless do public penance for his Canadian speeches. It was a very disgusting picture and its instant effect was to make all Unionist statesmen and newspapers distrust him who were capable of such equivocation and double dealing. The first essential thing for Irishmen was to make Home Rule practical politics by being ready to enter into friendly conference with all parties for the most generous measures of self-government attainable and making all men feel that any agreement they entered into with England they would stand by. They had arrived at this position by the amazing success of the new spirit born of the All-for-Ireland movement."

Lloyd George's War Cry.

Turning now to the Radical side Mr. Lloyd-George gave away the war cry as follows: "Having in vain used every endeavour through conciliatory methods to win equal rights for all Britons we are now driven to fight for fair play in our native land. We repudiate the claim put forth by 600

Nerves Were Exhausted

Wants others to know of her remarkable cure by use of DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.
Mrs. Martin's condition as described in her letter below gives some idea of the extraordinary reconstructive power of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Such cures as this have placed Dr. Chase's Nerve Food where it stands today as the most popular and most effective nerve restorative that money will buy.
Mrs. Edwin Martin, Ayer's Cliff Que., writes:—"Before I began using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food I was in a terrible condition. Dizzy spells would come over me and I would fall to the floor in a faint. I could not even sweep the floor without fainting and my nervous system seemed to be entirely exhausted.
"The use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food has built up my system wonderfully so that I can do my housework and washing without any trouble, and I want others to know about it." In a list on getting the genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cts. a box. 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Ed. Hanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

JOHN JACKSON, Resident Agent

Tory peers that they were born to control the destinies of 45,000,000 of their fellow citizens and to trample upon their wishes for the good government of their own country."

Radical Comment.

The Chronicle gives as a watchword—"Strike now! Strike hard!" It calls Mr. Garvin's article a wild Dervish dance of inflammatory rhetoric and says his suggestion that King Edward was hurried to the grave by the government policy is a cruel calumny for which there is not a shred of justification. The Daily News vehemently declares the National who is not dragged by appeals to national and race hatred and adds: "The sole issue is shall the Lords or the people rule?"

F. E. Smith's Eloquence.

To-night Mr. Bonar Law enters the fray. Another leading Unionist fighter is Mr. F. E. Smith who raised Unionists to much enthusiasm to-day by a speech at Brackley when he said: "Never was the spirit of the Conservative party higher, never did a greater army attack an enemy embarrassed by such open humiliation. Mr. Asquith is inarticulate. No cabinet decision on any point is possible. He makes no decision until the uncrowned king of political mendicants (laughter) his pockets bulging with American gold appears from the sea like Aphrodite, but less lovely (laughter) to give insulting direction to the success of Chatham. The Liberals were supreme a year ago in the house. To-day they are no more than equal to the Unionists. If this was achieved in January before the budget was nailed to the counter, what is possible in December? (Cheers). Only one condition is necessary to success. It is unity first, last and all the time. The men who to-day criticize their leaders or refuse to subordinate mind or differences are guilty of treason to party, country and empire. No since the days of Pitt have the Tory Party in a graver crisis contended for a cause so high. We contend for a navy against a party which depends for its life upon the faith healers of politics. (Laughter.) We contend for conservation against those whose avowed ideal is single chamber. We contend for Empire against those whose tariff education ends in: cul de sac of cocoa. If there were no issue but the navy this quarrel should nerve and imbue them with the spirit which saved England and Europe in the Napoleonic wars. A great nation, virile, organized and resolute was challenging with stupendous exertions our supremacy of the sea. Marine strength is to them a luxury, but to us life. (Cheers.) Never was it more necessary for every loyal Englishman to recall Chatham's unforgettable cry "Be one people." I see you the example. Is this a moment England should depend for office upon Kier Hardie? Is this a time for plunging into bitter internal dissensions, for perpetuating divisions, which the finger of history might well brand as the blood-guiltiness of Empire."

Minard's Liniment Co., Ltd. Gentlemen,—In July 1905, I was thrown from a road machine, injuring my hip and back badly and was obliged to use a crutch for 14 months. In Sept. 1906 Mr. Wm. Outridge, of Lachute, urged me to try MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I did with the most satisfactory results and to-day I am as well as ever in my life.
Yours sincerely,
MATTHEW X BAINES, mark

Stomach Misery Just Vanishes.

No Indigestion, Heartburn, Gas or Dyspepsia in five minutes later.
As there is often some one in your family who suffers an attack of indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapiesin in the house handy?
This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy Stomach five minutes after.
Tell your pharmacist to let you see the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapiesin then you will readily see why it makes indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.
Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.
This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.
A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapiesin.

Tell your pharmacist to let you see the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapiesin then you will readily see why it makes indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.
Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.
This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and besides, poison the breath with nauseous odors.
A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapiesin.

Steamer Arrives in a Leaky Condition.

At 4.30 p.m. Saturday the S.S. Phoenix arrived in port from Tilt Cove with several feet of water in her hold. The ship left Tilt Cove on the 11th inst. bound for Swansea with a load of copper ore and encountered weather similar to that experienced by the schooner Gypsum Emperor, which came in here Saturday morning leaking also. Shortly after the Phoenix left port the weather became very stormy, gale succeeded gale, and the vessel heave to and was almost constantly sea swept. Wednesday and Thursday last the storm reached its culmination and in the mountainous seas which ran the ship laboured heavily, some of the plates became damaged and she was found to be leaking badly. The pumps were set going on the ship but could hardly keep her free, and the captain of the ship decided to run for this port for repairs. The ship will likely be surveyed and may have to discharge portion or all of her cargo to get at the damage to the hull. If such occurs it will give a deal of badly needed labor.

Bonavis'a Notes.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized here yesterday afternoon when the church's matrimonial blessing was pronounced upon Mr. Hubert Sweetland and Miss Emma Miles, both of this town. The wedding party was met at the west door of Christ Church by the clergy and surpliced choir, and hymn 350 was sung as a processional. Miss Rowsell acted as chief bridesmaid and Mr. Alexander, head shopman at Ryan's, supported the groom. At the close of the ceremony a beautiful admonitory address was given by the Rector. The wedding march was played by Miss Ella Templeman. After signing the register the wedding party drove to the residence of the bride's father, where, owing to a recent bereavement in the family of the bride, a quiet wedding only was kept. Miss Miles being a member of the choir, Sunday School teacher and a general favorite, received a large number of valuable wedding presents, consisting of silverware and other pretty and useful items of household furnishings. Mr. and Mrs. Sweetland have the best wishes of the community for a long and happy life.
A very successful supper, musical treat and dance was held in the S. U. F. Hall this evening under the auspices of the C. of E. Women's Association. The supper was an excellent one, the musicale very enjoyable, and a glance at the happy figures gliding gracefully over the floor in wait lancers and quadrille was sufficient evidence that this portion of the programme was being equally well enjoyed.

Rescued a Prisoner.

Saturday night two men engaged in a fight on Water Street, when Constable Fitzgerald who appeared on the scene placed both under arrest. He was managing his prisoners well and getting them to the station when a crowd gathered, hemmed him in on all sides and a man, whose name the Officer has secured, took one of the prisoners away from him. Fitzgerald held the other man and brought him to the lock up. Several in the crowd which surrounded the officer were hostile to him, and no doubt the party who took the prisoner from him will be severely punished.

MADRID, Nov. 18.

The discussion of the Padlock Bill was begun in the Chamber of Deputies to-day. The Carlists opposed the measure. The adoption of this legislation by the Senate by a vote of 149 to 58 on Nov. 4th was regarded as a signal triumph for Premier Canalejas, and its success in the lower house has been anticipated. It prohibits the creation of further religious establishments in Spain during the next two years. As originally drawn it forbade the entrance of new orders until revision of the Concordat had been accomplished, or a definite law on the subject passed. The senate adopted an amendment limiting the period of interdiction to two years. This was viewed as concession to the opposition by the Premier and was also pleasing to the Vatican, where it was construed as an indication that Canalejas was in a mood to compromise with the church. When it was announced by the Government that it would introduce the Padlock Bill, which caused a controversy between Spain and the Holy See and led to the suspension of the negotiation then underway for a revision of the concordat, the Vatican took the position, that in view of the pending negotiations, the Government should not adopt any legislation, having a direct bearing on differences that might be adjusted in a revision. This attitude has been maintained. Rome reiterating that the work of revision would not be resettled unless the measure was withdrawn.

LONDON, Nov. 20.

The British Premier, Mr. Asquith, opened a racy campaign in a speech at a luncheon in a National Liberal Club. He announced no new policies, confining himself to nailing down the planks of the platform upon which the last election was fought.

The Government, Mr. Asquith said, was determined to bring to an end, at once and for all time, the present system under which Liberal legislation did not have a fair chance, and to confine the second chamber to subordinate functions, appropriate to such a body. The Liberals were fighting for fair play; for progressive legislation; and for the complete establishment of representative government.

Regarding the recent activity of the lords in the matter of reforming themselves, the Premier said that the reason for this was clearly apparent, as the Tories could not face another election with the incubus of the lords on their backs.

There appear to be other dictators besides Redmond among the Government's allies. James Keir Hardie has announced that unless the Government took measures to secure a reversal of the Osborne judgement before the dissolution, the labour and socialist parties would oppose them throughout the country. This in itself would render impossible for the Liberal Party to secure an independent majority in the next House of Commons, which raises the question again as to what would be the use of holding an election with such a result obvious in advance. The indications of the late and rapid consolidation of the Unionist party have become strong during the past few days, hence the anxiety of the Government not to delay dissolution beyond this week.

At the R. C. Cathedral.

Yesterday was the last Sunday of the Ecclesiastical Year at the R. C. Cathedral. The gospel of the day, Matt. 24 chap. 15th to 35th verses include: "When ye shall see the abomination of desolation spoken of by the Prophet Daniel, etc." furnished texts for sermons preached at all the Masses.

At Vespers Rev. Fr. Gough occupied the pulpit and preached an impressive sermon on the certainty of death, taking his text from St. Paul to the Hebrews: "For it is appointed to all men once to die and after death the judgment." The preacher quoted richly from the Scriptures in support of his discourse: "Watch," therefore, for ye know not the day nor the hour when the Son of Man shall come." The rev. preacher exhorted the congregation to be always ready for death by being in a continual state of grace and leading good Christian lives.

LONDON, Nov. 19.

The presence of Wm. H. Haywood, of Idaho, of the Western Federation of Miners in the Welsh coal fields, where extra police and militia have been required to check the rioting of strikers, is interesting. The military authorities who have to come with the situation report there is considerable tension still prevailing among the miners. A number of continental labor leaders are in the district, but the authorities are acquainted with their methods of conducting strikes, a knowledge which is lacking in the case of American labor chiefs. Haywood has addressed the miners at some of their demonstrations. Though the strikers are remaining quiet, troublesome undercurrents continue to manifest themselves, and the local militia have been ordered to report to the supply station any communications they may possess.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.

One man was shot and four others bruised and cut in a riot of striking garment workers at the Kedzie Avenue Station of the Metropolitan elevated railway last night. The disturbance assumed such threatening proportions that reserves from the West Avenue police stations were rushed to the scene in an effort to clear the streets of struggling men and women. The trouble is said to have started when strikers appeared on the platform of the Kedzie Avenue Station on the Humboldt branch line and accosted men claimed by the police to be strike breakers, and women who had been passengers on a train ran to the doors; but it was not until some time later that they were able to reach the street. When the first of the patrol men had arrived the fighters had fled from the elevated station and disappeared in the crowd which had gathered in the street.

How Billy H— Showed the British Army a Trick or Two.

Writing of Ross's Scouts, who took part in the Boer campaign, the author of "The Rough Riders of the Plains" says:—

In riding they were the admiration of the regulars. The story is told of how a well known Imperial officer on one occasion was treated to an exhibition of "broncho-busting" such as he had never before witnessed, and was not likely to witness again outside North America.

A line regiment, under General Hutton's command in the Bloemfontein district was boasting one evening of a horse, an Australian water, which none of their men could mount. The horse was a big, powerful black brute, full of devil, and the consensus of opinion was that he had better be shot or sent to the Remount Department to be broken in. He was of no use for present service. An officer of the C.M.R. happened to hear this, and ventured to dissent. "I'll bet you fellows," he said, "that I've a man in my troop who'll ride him." The challenge was taken up, and the following day fixed upon for the contest. The C.M.R. officer went to his men and said: "The —th over there have a horse that they can't manage. Now I want one of you to show 'em how to ride it." At this, pretty well all the troop stepped forward, but it was explained to them that they couldn't all get on the water's back, and that one man alone was needed. "You can settle it among yourselves," said the officer. I just want the best man, that's all." The troop decided by selecting Billy H—, an ex-cow-puncher of wide reputation as a "buster." The horse wasn't born, he declared that could beat him. So in the morning, Billy, dressed in cowboy style, shirt and "shaps," and wide-brimmed hat, and armed with a stout quirt, strolled down to the appointed place, where the —th were waiting to see the fun.

Walking leisurely to the Imperial officer, who was resplendent in all the glory of gold lace and plumes, Billy prodded him in the chest with the quirt. "Whar's this son of a gun, you say you kain't ride?" he asked. For a moment the officer had no breath to make a reply with, but on recovering himself, he ordered the water to be brought out. Then Billy H— took the matter in hand. The big black horse having been turned loose, was skillfully "roped" by Billy's friends, and the ex-cow-puncher's own saddle was placed upon it. When the animal struggled to its feet, Billy was in his seat ready for action.

The water was something of a terror, there was no gainsaying the fact. He bucked and corkscrewed and twisted and bit, and indulged in all the devilments that an outlaw horse could possibly devise. But through it all, Billy H— sat tight, as if he were part of the animal itself. To his comrades' loud cries of "Stay with him, Billy! Stay with him!" he spurred and quirted the water to a pitch of madness, until the frenzied brute tore wildly across the veldt. It came back to give vent to more bucking, but not for long. The cowboy proved the master, and when he threw himself off at last, he had just what he ordered. The buck-jumper was tamed.

The Imperial officer had watched the exhibition with amazement. Nor was he alone in this. Very few of those present had seen a better display of riding. "Wonderful!" he exclaimed. "Wonderful, by jove! I should never have believed it possible!" Billy H—, with his saddle on his arm and his quirt trailing on the ground, spat some of the dust out of his mouth. "Wah," he said, "dunno. I guess in my country we'd just call that hoss a galdarned cayuse!"

DR. GRENFELL.

Dear Sir,—Judge Prowse has often claimed to be the most abused man in Newfoundland, and seemed more pleased than otherwise; but I fear that he will have to make way for Dr. Grenfell who, at the present time, is receiving close attention from certain malevolent people. True, the Judge is always on hand to defend himself, and loses no time in doing so. Unfortunately such is not the case with the learned doctor, and his traducers generally get in their work during his absence. It is but just to say, however, that those who are after the doctor's scalp are few, and are looked upon by the majority of our people with good-natured contempt. Dr. Grenfell's work among the Newfoundland fishermen is the best answer to those snapping at his heels. A smart Alec, made a newspaper attack on the doctor some time ago, with the result that the aforesaid smart Alec had to make a most abject apology and glut himself with "crow." People do not forget that little incident by any means. But Dr. Grenfell can rest assured that if he has enemies of that stamp in our midst they are in the minority, and one need not be a Yankee to guess the object of their attacks. The fishermen and seamen of our seagirt isle, together with those in other walks of life in this Newfoundland of ours, do not forget the incalculable good done by him since coming amongst us, and wish him God-speed in his noble work; and no amount of anonymous letters or lines of doggerel will blind us to that fact. The sooner pin-prick scribblers admit this the better.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I would advise Grenfell's calumniators to cease and remember that the Britisher believes in fair play and fully appreciates the truth of the lines:—

"I do like a man to stand boldly up
And tell me at once what he means;
I can fight with a lion who roars in My face.
But I don't like a cur at my heels."
Thanking you for space, I remain,
Dear Sir, Yours truly,
FAIR PLAY.
St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 21, 1910.

A Dastardly Action.

Just about one mile this side of Carbonear a pile of stones was discovered on the railway track Saturday morning by the driver of the engine which brought in the local train. This dangerous impediment was removed and the matter was communicated to headquarters here and in turn the police were apprised of the matter, and Head Constable Newhook with others of the Carbonear force are investigating. Several times in recent years on the shore line outrages of this kind have occurred. The man who would put such an obstruction on the track is a murder at heart for he cannot tell how many innocent lives he will sacrifice by his action. If the author of this act is caught he should receive no mercy, but the severest penalty should be meted out to him.

B. I. S. Meeting.

The Quarterly Meeting of the Benevolent Irish Society was held yesterday. Mr. J. M. Kent, Vice-President, occupied the chair. Three new members were admitted. The reports of the officers were submitted showing the Society to be in a prosperous condition.

A Big Undertow.

Yesterday forenoon for some time the Bellaventure pounded heavily against the pier to which she was moored at A. J. Harvey & Co.'s premises. The ship was berthed differently later but still surged with great force against the pier, and at 12.30 the tug—John Green—had to come to her aid and haul her into the stream where she anchored. Owing to the N. E. gale which prevailed a heavy undertow ran in the harbor.

Found a Team.

Saturday night Officers Fagan and Frampton who were doing the Military Road beat, found a horse attached to a square body wagon wandering around Georgetown. The owner, who evidently belonged to the country, could not be found, and the rig was placed in Mr. Kavanagh's stable.

TYPHOID FEVER.—There are now four cases of typhoid fever in the hospital and four also being nursed at home.

SUDDEN DEATH.

PHILIP FIELD COLLAPSES ON GOWER STREET.

While passing along Gower Street last Saturday night, Philip Field, 22, carman, of Quidi Vidi Road, was seized with an attack of illness. He became so weak that he collapsed at the door of Mrs. Miller's house, 79 Gower Street, where he knocked at the door and asked for a drink of water. He was asked to come in and sit down. On being offered the drink he was unable to take it and a minute after went off in a swoon. He slipped off the chair to the floor, where he lay unconscious till the end. Mrs. Miller and her daughter then ran out for assistance. Sergt. Mackay was on the scene quickly and rendered first aid without effect. Constable Cleary meantime went looking for a doctor. He phoned to several—one refused to come, the others could not be found. Cleary then went to the lockup and found Dr. Cowperthwaite there, who was putting stitches in the hand of a prisoner who had driven his hand through a pane of glass. When Dr. Cowperthwaite arrived at Miller's poor Field was dead of heart failure. Supt. Grimes, who was now present, ordered that the body be taken to the morgue, where it remained till yesterday morning, when the father of the deceased came and took it in charge. Deceased, who leaves a wife and two children, was about town in good health all the day. Deep sympathy is expressed for his relatives.

Mr. W. D. Reid, of the R. N. Co., who left here Wednesday last in company with Drs. Paterson and Chamberlain in the yacht Fife to go over the branch railway line, returned here at 11.15 Saturday night. Capt. Delaney was in command of the yacht, which went to Bonavista. Mr. Reid drove to Catalina and then went over the line, the rails of which are laid to Port Rexton, formerly Ship Cove. Grading has been done to Catalina and should be extended to Bonavista by to-morrow. About three miles of track are laid daily, but the weather for some time past has been very bad and work as a result is not as favorable as would be wished for. Some 1500 men are now employed on the line, and the work henceforth will be pushed forward with all possible despatch.

Received a Bad Wound

Saturday night a resident of Bell Street, while passing along near Gower Street in an intoxicated condition, drove his right hand through a pane of glass in a shop window. Constables Pitcher and Stamp were near, and on arresting the man he vigorously resisted. They were compelled to handcuff him and drove him quickly to the station, as they saw that his right hand was badly cut and bled profusely. Dr. Cowperthwaite was called to the station and put several stitches in the wound which was a nasty one as some of the veins had

In all its Forms can be Cured.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear persons say: Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache, I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself and at times I care for nothing. I often have a pain in the pit of my stomach, no appetite, my heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion. I feel just as tired when rising in the morning as when retiring to bed. My sleep is often disturbed, and I often awake with a sense of suffocation and a difficulty of again going to sleep. I have to be careful of what I eat, and my life seems a veritable burden.

Now, it seems a shame and a pity for persons to be suffering like that when it is in their power to get cured by taking a Bottle of Dr. Stafford's Prescription A. A sure cure for persons afflicted with stomach troubles. It can be obtained at

DR. F. STAFFORD & SON,
Theatre Hill. Small size, 25 cents; postage 5c. extra; large size, 50 cents; postage 10c. extra. Mail orders must be accompanied by remittance.— Oct 25, 11m.

SEALSHIPT OYSTERS

are the ONLY Oysters with a brand name.

The name refers to the particular manner in which they are grown, shipped and sold to you.

Sealshipt Oysters may be Blue Points, Narragansetts, Northports, Oyster Bay, Chesapeake, etc.

The Best Oysters are not necessarily Shell Oysters.

The Shell has no more to do with the taste of an Oyster than feathers have to do with the taste of a chicken.

Sealshipt Oysters have the same flavour as Shell Oysters taken directly from salt water, that Sea Tang looked for by Oyster lovers.
