Cobb Continues First Place Bateman

Pipp Has Made Six Home Runs and Horsey Eight—Roush of Cincinnati Takes Lead Among Batemen of National League

Chicago, July 13.—With an average of 380, George Sisler, youthful first base star with St. Louis, has battled his way to second place in the American League, displacing Tris Speaker, according to unofficial averages published today. Tris Cobb is safely out in front with 375. Cobb's speed in the lead base has given him possession of scoring honors. He has crossed the plate fifty-two times in seventy-seven games. The Georgian also leads in total base hitting, having driven out 109 hits, for 168 bases. Twenty of his blows were doubles, thirteen triples and three were home runs. Chapman of Cleveland dethroned Roth, his team mate for the lead in sacrifice hitting to forty-one. Pipp of New York, with six circuits, is showing the way to the home run lead. Detroit maintained its lead in team batting with an average of 254. The averages include games of Wednesday.

BOYS GO FREE

Four boys appeared before Magistrate Ritchie in the police court this morning to answer a charge of shouting and yelling in Alexander school yard, off Metcalf street, and using profane language. The charge was made by Policeman McLean, but he was unable to substantiate it and all four were allowed to go home. The policeman was warned that he should be careful when making out a report and not charge any person with violation of the law if he could not prove it.

(Halifax Chronicle.) News of considerable interest to Halifax steamship agents, pilots, ship provisions, and indeed, to the people of this port in general, is contained in a recent despatch from Washington to the effect that in the not far distant future the British government will abandon the policy of detaining neutral steamers at Halifax for examination.

FORD TRACTORS FOR IRELAND

New York, July 14.—P. D. L. Perry, European manager for Henry Ford, has arrived in this country. Henry Sorenson, the manager of the Ford plant at Dearborn, Mich., has been assisting Mr. Perry in constructing a plant at Cork, Ireland, which will be capable of turning out 50,000 farm tractors a year after it is completed.

YOUNG AVIATOR IS KILLED IN ONTARIO

Toronto, July 14.—Cadet Robt. Teasdale, only son of R. Teasdale, of 600 Yonge street, was instantly killed at Deseronto yesterday, when an airplane in which he was making a flight fell from a considerable altitude. Cadet Teasdale, who was nineteen years of age, had been at Camp Mohawk since July 5.

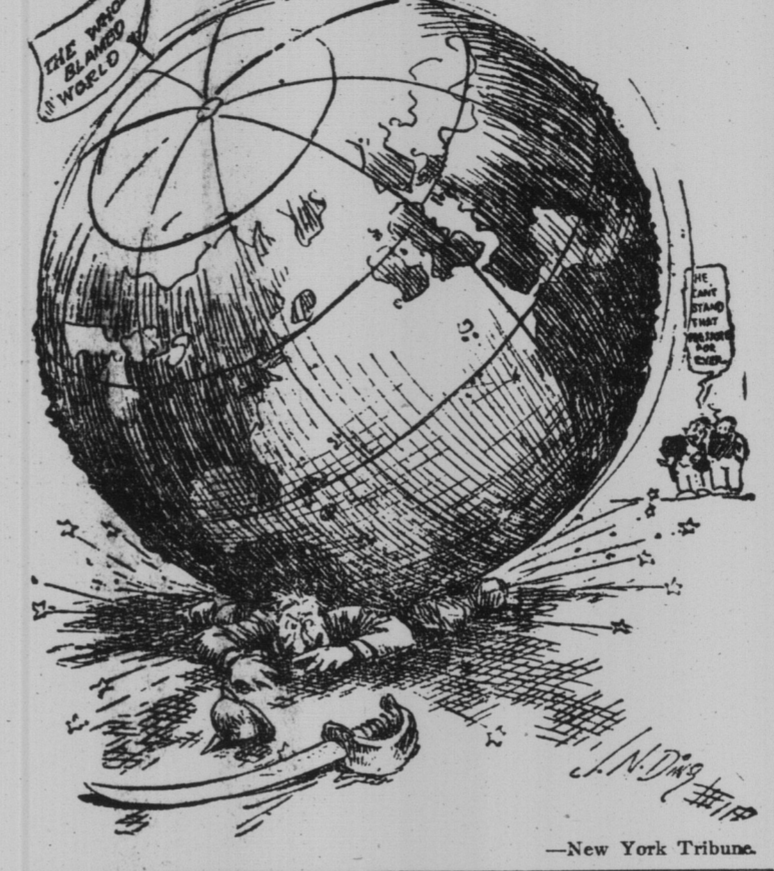

ROUMANIAN GOVERNMENT FACES CABINET CRISIS

Jassy, Roumania, July 6.—(Delayed.)—A cabinet crisis is confronting the Roumanian government. Four conservative ministers have refused further to cooperate with Premier Bratianu and they also demand that two more conservatives be admitted to the cabinet. They likewise insist that Mr. Bratianu resign and that Take Jonescu, minister without portfolio, be appointed to succeed him.

Graphic Account of Attack by Germans Near Yser and Gallant Work of the British Defenders

London, July 14.—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Reuter's correspondent at headquarters telegraphs a graphic story of the German attack on our front in Belgium on July 10, to which he incidentally remarks, the home military critics manifestly exaggerate. "The scene of the fighting is a tumbling, steeply rising bank covered with brownish grass. In some places the sand rises in little bluffs from the ribbed foreshore. In others it shelves gently toward the sea. The greatest height of land the enemy occupied was sixty feet above the sea level. Numerous holes and gullies afford good hiding, but indifferent shelter from gunfire, owing to the loose character of the land. The position was impossible of conversion into a trench, and although the French during their long tenure of the sector had made the best of it.

Very Large Crop If Fall Weather Good

Reports From New Brunswick Points to the Department of Agriculture Are Favorable

Fredricton, N. B., July 14.—The department of agriculture of New Brunswick has reports from its representatives in different sections of the province concerning crop conditions. In general the crop report as given by W. R. Reek, secretary agriculture, is encouraging. Hay and potatoes are particularly good, and garden vegetables also, in spite of the wet spring and early summer. Mr. Reek's report is as follows: "The season of 1917 has been peculiar and while some crops give evidence of enormous yield others are late and as yet it is rather difficult to form an estimate because early fall frosts have to be reckoned with. The hay crop is going to be exceptionally good in every part of the province. The growth has been exceedingly rapid and the meadows on the higher lands will produce a very large amount of high class hay. The intervals land will give an enormous crop except in some cases where the soil is too long in June. A certain amount of this, however, on account of deposits from freshets, is not going to be as clean and bright as the highland hay. The spring grain is late, but growing well. A favorable fall, with an absence of severe frost early in the season, will assure a normal crop of oats and in some sections a crop above the average. The demand for seed oats during the seeding season would be indicated that acre possible was being seeded. Doubtless some of the very late sown crop will have to be used for stock, but eliminating that acreage the prospects are for a normal crop. Barley is coming into use in some of the sections and, while the acreage is very small, nevertheless it is sufficient to introduce the growing of barley into many parts. Turnip sowing has been done under difficulties because of the very frequent and heavy rains. However, turnips have a good range for growing and while the crop is yet young, there is every indication that the crop will be satisfactory. Potatoes. Potato acreage has increased about twenty per cent. Where the seed was not injured during the very wet weather, the crop is growing very fast and promises a normal yield to the acre. Great many planted in response to the greater production appeal. Spraying should be followed closely to insure against disease. Pastures are excellent and the milk flow is heavy. The cheese and butter output is very satisfactory in quantity. Markets are good and the dairymen will have a satisfactory year when conditions are considered. Strawberries are coming in with a promise for more than an average crop. Boston and Montreal markets are expected to consume large quantities which guarantees ready sale upon the home markets for the balance. Apples. The apple outlook is not so bright and throughout the crop will not be to an average yield. Vegetable plantings in gardens and small lots have been very largely increased, due to the demand for food. Everywhere these crops are flourishing and will have a decided effect upon the living in the province during this summer. The season has been good for gardens, but from now on more sunshine would be of great benefit. The increased acreage of beans, even although in very small lots, is of decided advantage to the province. Throughout New Brunswick, crop prospects are excellent if the weather during the coming fall is favorable, a very large crop will be harvested.

THE SALMON CATCH AND PRICES

While the fishermen are making heavy catches of salmon, it is said the surplus will have little effect on the local situation. It was suggested that large quantities might be placed in the local cold storage plant to provide for future local demands, but conditions, it is deemed, make this unlikely and, as a means by which many who were merely representing sufficient stock to carry over the city dealers until October. The reasons for this are found in the fact that the United States market will readily absorb all the surplus at profitable prices, while the dealers find it cheaper to import British Columbia salmon when it becomes available than to keep the local catch in storage. The freight across the continent amounts to only one and a third cents a pound and, when the season gets late enough to permit the transportation of the frozen fish, supplies can be brought here just as required. Montreal demand is for cheaper grades of fish and other food than are required for the St. John market, while Boston, for instance, says higher prices again than St. John. As a result of this surplus above the local demand, usually is shipped promptly to American cities, and there is little opportunity for the consumer here to profit by a prospective over-supply of the favorite fish.

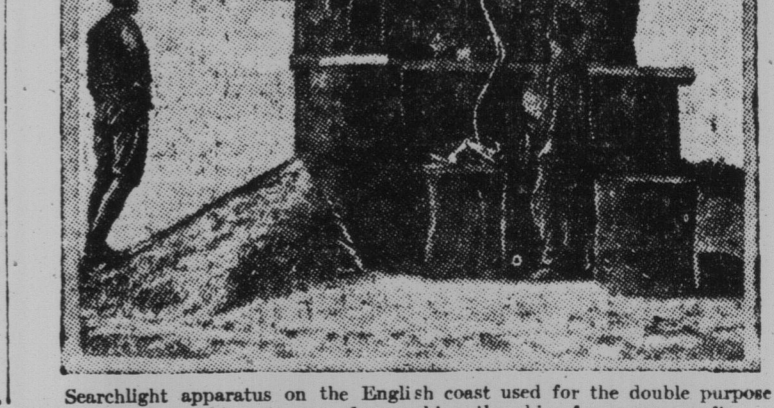

ALFONSO SPEAKS OF POSITION OF SPAIN

London, July 14.—Spain is determined to remain neutral throughout the war unless she is attacked, King Alfonso is quoted as saying, in an interview with the correspondent of the Daily Express. The king added that Spain's relations with France, Great Britain and Italy were excellent. "If England could send us coal and the United States send us cotton," he said, "everything would be perfect." Some Spaniards, he is quoted as saying, who are pro-Germans are not anti-English by any means. Referring to international affairs in Spain the king said that the country was suffering from financial indigestion. Part of the people were very prosperous owing to the war, while others were suffering severely. Many industries, he added, were ruined by the war, while others were not affected except to be benefited. Hence, there was much industrial unrest.

CHANG HSUN SAYS HE'LL FIGHT TO END

London, July 14.—According to a Reuter's Limited despatch from Peking, final efforts made on Wednesday night by General Wang, commander-in-chief of the Peking troops, and other officials to persuade Gen. Chang Hsun to surrender were unsuccessful. Gen. Chang Hsun declared that he would fight the republican troops to the end. The last message to reach Airm 'Sin' indicated that hard fighting was proceeding to the advantage of the Republicans. Damage is unimportant. London, July 14.—A 'Fin' 'Sin' despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company filed on Thursday, says that "most regrettable fighting" occurred in Peking. Communication between the city and the outer world, except by foreign military means, has been suspended temporarily. The last message to reach Airm 'Sin' indicated that hard fighting was proceeding to the advantage of the Republicans.

Russian Drive Continues

Gaining momentum as it moves westward the great Russian drive along the Dniester, capturing important heights between the river and Bukarowice, and occupied two villages. This advance is in the direction of Lemberg.

Northwest of Halicz on Thursday the Russians enlarged their gains north of the Dniester, capturing important heights between the river and Bukarowice, and occupied two villages. This advance is in the direction of Lemberg.

In the centre and on the southern end of the line the Russians have been victorious in heavy battles for the possession of the crossings of the river Lomna. They have made progress on the road to Dolina and have captured the crossings of the Lomna at Perekhino, about fifteen miles south of Kalisz, and four miles west of Bohorodany.

A probable resumption of heavy fighting on the western front north of the Prpep marshes and in Roumania is indicated. On the Drina and Sava rivers and near Smorgon, north of Plisk, there has been more active infantry fighting. No determined attack, however, has yet developed.

The Russian advance west of Stanislas besides endangering the Austro-German line immediately north of Galicia, also is a threat against the line in Roumania. The Russian and Rumanian artillery has been hammering the Rumanian positions there in the past few days and already advance parties have been thrown forward to test the enemy's strength. No attack in force has been reported.

Italian Guns Find Mark.

London, July 13—The official statement issued today by the Italian war office reads:

"There was considerable artillery activity yesterday. Our guns dispersed infantry columns on the march from Piazza Pedrazzo in the Ferragnolo Valley and wagon movement in the Idria Valley. At Speccheria, in the Valarsa, one of our hospitals, though bearing the Geneva Cross, was badly shelled repeatedly by the enemy.

"One of our patrols on Montefiel, in the Upper Conchevole district, raided an enemy post and put the garrison to flight. Another patrol, reconnoitering south of Castagnolezza, brought back two enemy trench mortars."

Claim Gain at Verdun.

Berlin, July 13, via London—Today's army headquarters announcement on the western front operations reads:

"Western front: The German Crown Prince Rupprecht: Artillery duel was intense in several sectors of the Flanders and Artois fronts. Enemy thrust east of Neuport, southeast of Ypres, near Hulluch and south of the Yser were repulsed.

"Front of the German Crown Prince: The fighting activity of the artillery in the western Champagne increased considerably and in the evening the firing on the left bank of the Meuse reached great intensity. At Hill No. 804 storming troops in a dash charge captured the trenches which the enemy had recaptured on July 8. Some of the occupants were killed and the remainder made prisoners. The positions were on July 10 over a width of four kilometres, including their forward, thereby is again completely in our hands.

"Eastern front: On the Drina, near Smorgon, and on the Sava there was spirited fighting, and also west of Lutsk there was a temporary renewal of activity in consequence of our reconnoitering thrusts. Russian attacks south of the Dniester at several places on the Lomna line were repulsed.

"Rumanian front: Enemy reconnoitering detachments pressed forward toward our positions at several places after heavy artillery preparations. They were repulsed everywhere.

"Macedonian front: East of the Nidze Planina a successful Bulgarian thrust dispersed local counter-attacks, which failed, with heavy losses."

German Reichstag on Strike

Copenhagen, July 13—Serious news came from Berlin late today. The Reichstag has gone on strike and the members have decided to suspend the labors of the full house and the main committee until the political situation is cleared up. This leaves ten members of the Reichstag to carry on the work of the general staff, and General Ludendorff, chief of the cabinet, and the chief quartermaster general, for a conference.

This news should be interpreted in connection with intimations that the German government has decided to refuse to parliamentarize the cabinet and the difficulties reported in connection with the adoption of a peace resolution.

Swears To The Similarity Of Hoof Prints

The case against Joseph O'Brien and John Hughes, being tried on suspicion of setting fire to the summer house of William J. Crawford, in the Loch Lomond road, was continued yesterday before Chief Justice McKenna. The chief matter of interest during the session had to do with the marks of horse shoes found at the scene of the fire. These prints, according to the evidence of County Policeman Saunders, tallied exactly with the shoes of the mare, Kitty, which had been hired at Frank Donnelly's stable on the night of the fire, by the defendants.

At the afternoon session, Mrs. McAfee of the Three Mile House, was called, but was not present. Mrs. McAfee, the attorney-general asked that a bench warrant be issued.

James Conway was also called and did not respond.

The first witness of the afternoon was Frank Donnelly, who testified that the stable at which it is claimed the prisoners hired the horse. His evidence was along the line of that given at the preliminary examination. The County Policeman's Story.

Anthony Profit was then called to the stand. His evidence had to do with the shoeing of the mare Kitty which the defendants hired by the night of the fire. Mr. Profit produced two horse shoes in court made along the line of the last set he had placed on the horse. He was stood aside at this point and the attorney-general called County Policeman Saunders to the stand. The policeman told his story, as narrated at the preliminary examination, to the effect that he had been on the scene of the fire the morning after. He had seen traces of a rubber tired buggy leading from the highway to the Crawford house, also the marks of two horse shoes close together, one of a forward shoe and the other of the hind shoe. The latter was of a very peculiar shape, being much too long for the width of the hoof. He saw similar hoof marks on the Crawford property. He had measured the foot prints and he gave these measurements to the court. He had also traced the rubber tired buggy's marks to where they led into a bush and the horse had then evidently been turned. He had followed up the case the next day and as a result of inquiries among local livery men he had gone next day to Mrs. Lyden's house in the Loch Lomond road. There he saw the marks of a rubber tired buggy and shoe prints similar to those he had found at the scene of the fire. The tire marks had run for a distance of fifteen or twenty yards.

The next day he visited Donnelly's barn and asked to see the mare Kitty. He took the measurements of her hoofs and found that they corresponded to the measurements of the impressions he had found at the scene of the fire and the Lomond house. The peculiar hind hoof mark, the impression of which he had found at the scene of the fire, was exactly like the hind shoe of the horse at Donnelly's.

Four days later he had returned to Donnelly's stable and again examining the hoofs of Kitty, remarked, "These shoes have been shod." "These shoes were shod on the night of the fire," and it looked to him as if they had been picked up and stuck on there. The witness was cross-examined at length by the attorney-general as to the measure-

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera, infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets cure these troubles, and give occasionally to the well child to prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be free from any harmful or poisonous ingredients. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the stomach, keep the stomach cool and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A TORY PRAYER.

(From the Brantford Recorder.)

There is hope for the Toronto News. It concludes a Confederation editorial with the prayer, "God give us wisdom and sanity." The latter is sorely needed just now by a number of other Conservative editors in Ontario, who, depicting French-Canadian disaffection, trust deeper and deeper between the two races by their bitter partisan attacks on Sir Wilfrid Laurier and French-Canadian. The Ontario Tories have long followed fag waving in attempts to inflame the mind of this province against our much Quebec against Laurier. They made a compact with the Nationalists whereby the latter carried on an infamous campaign in the lower province against the Liberal chief, in Quebec he was represented as a traitor to his race and religion and held up to ridicule. In Ontario he was and is vilified in tissues of falsehoods by the partners and pals of Bonanza and his ilk. There is no man in Canada who has taken a stronger imperial stand than Laurier. Should the Boer Government appear to the people the verities will be overwhelmingly for Laurier, the true Imperialist.

Hardware Men's Annual Meeting

At the annual meeting of the Maritime Wholesalers Hardware Association, held at St. Andrews, H. W. Emerson, of the association, was elected in the place of the retiring president, Lieutenant-Colonel H. B. Simmons of Halifax. The members arrived in St. Andrews on Wednesday and the session was commenced that evening, being adjourned to closing up the year and the election of officers took place. H. W. Emerson was elected president and George Metzler, representing the firm of William Shier, Son & Morrow, of Halifax, was elected vice-president. The president's annual report was read, being a summary of the work of the association for the past year.

Besides Colonel Simmons, H. W. Emerson and George Metzler, the following members were present: A. W. Morton, Joseph Weyer, M. O. Cromwell, J. R. Harris, all of Halifax, R. J. Dickson, of Moncton, H. B. Stevens, of Amherst, J. F. Tilton, W. J. Stratton, J. W. Davidson, F. A. Foster, H. P. O'Neill, all of St. John.

The following guests were present, being representatives of manufacturing and mercantile concerns: J. W. Bell, of St. John; G. H. Rogers, S. M. Farquhar and W. P. Downing, of St. John; W. E. Bell, of Moncton; James Ramsay, H. E. Delphina and Charles Huestis of Boston.

To Compile Deeds

The financial committee of the municipal council met yesterday afternoon, Councillor R. W. Wigmore presiding, for the purpose of arranging financial matters for the quarterly meeting. As the result of an appeal from the St. John Law Society a recommendation will be made that $200 be appropriated to compile all deeds and records at the registry office from 1912 to date.

Dr. James Wilkes appeared before the committee claiming that the valuation placed on his properties in White street, appropriated to the hospital purposes, was unjust. Whereas the hospital commission placed a valuation of $100 on a lot with a house, Mr. Wilkes placed a valuation of $500 on the former and $2,000 on the latter. The committee did not consider the question within its province. It is altogether probable, however, that the question will be arbitrated.

The committee had a long session. A lot of routine business was put into effect after which a committee from the St. John Law Society, including F. R. Taylor, K. C., Judge McInerney, E. P. Raymond and Dr. J. Roy Campbell, K. C., as received. They applied for an appropriation to put deeds and records into compiled shape. This work was done up to 1912 but was deemed advisable to compile all records up to date. They were promised that a recommendation to this effect will be made.

Battleship Blows Up And 800 Lose Lives

London, July 13—The British battleship Vanguard blew up and sank on July 9, says an official statement issued tonight by the British admiralty.

An internal explosion while the ship was at anchor caused the disaster to the Vanguard. Only three men of about 800 men on board survived and one of them has since died. Twenty-four officers and seventy-one men of the full complement, however, were not on board at the time of the explosion.

"A full inquiry has been ordered," says the official statement.

The British battleship Vanguard displaced 19,250 tons and her complement before the war was 870 men. The Vanguard belonged to the St. Vincent class of dreadnoughts and was launched in March, 1909. The Vanguard was 316 feet long with a beam of 84 feet and a draft of 27 feet. Her armament consisted of ten 12-inch guns, eighteen four-inch and four three-pounders in addition to six torpedo tubes.

Paris, July 12—Three French merchantmen of more than 1,000 tons and one under that size were sunk in the week ended July 8 by mines or submarines, the admiralty announces.

HOW IS YOUR APPETITE?

Loss of appetite during the summer months is a common trouble, and indicates that the digestive system is out of order. Lacking a healthy appetite many people—especially women—go too long without food, or eat sparingly because food seems to distress them, and they are constantly tired and unable to stand the hot bit of weather. This simply means that the digestive system is not doing its proper work, and that the nutriment that should come from the food organs of the body. In other words the blood is growing thin and watery.

You need a summer tonic, and in all the realm of medicine there is no tonic equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Take a short treatment with these pills now and you will promptly find your appetite returns and your power to digest food improves. Your food will then do you good, your strength will return and you will no longer complain that the hot weather tries you out.

The best time to begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the moment you feel the least bit out of sorts. The sooner you do so the sooner you will regain your old-time energy. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BEFORE AND AFTER Using Cuticura

The first thing to do in restoring dry, thin and falling hair is to get rid of the cause, viz.: dandruff, itching and irritation of the scalp. Rub Cuticura Ointment into the scalp, especially spots of dandruff and itching. Follow at once with hot Cuticura Soap shampoo if a man, next morning if a woman. Rinse with tepid water. Make Cuticura your every-day toilet preparations.

FINDS BROTHER A CONVICT

Sister's Rise Compels Martin Sweeney to Reveal Identity

For twenty years, says the New York Times, Mrs. William McCormick of Chicago searched in vain for her brother, Martin Sweeney, who, thirty-five years ago was a famous jockey. A few months ago she inserted in the Chicago newspapers an advertisement to the effect that Sweeney's mother had died and left a legacy of $75,000 to him. During seventeen of the years Mrs. McCormick had been searching for her brother he had been in Sing Sing serving a twenty-year sentence for murder. He had refrained from writing to his people because he did not wish his mother to know of his disgrace. When he read the advertisement Mrs. McCormick published he thought he knew that his mother would never know and so he wrote to his sister telling her where he was. Then Mrs. McCormick went to Sing Sing and broke the news to her brother, where she and Sweeney's mother are waiting for him to serve the three remaining years of his sentence.

Mrs. McCormick once before came near finding Sweeney. Fearing that his long silence meant that he might be in trouble, she wrote a letter to the warden of every prison in the country. From the letter he received Warden Meyer told Sweeney of his sister's search. But at the convict's plea that his mother must not know Warden Meyer did not tell the sister that Sweeney was con-

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NEWS OF THE WEEK IN ST. JOHN

This week has been a notable one in St. John for the British and French Red Cross Societies.

Madame Furlong-Schmidt's singing of the Marsellaise was an exquisite performance, the pure, sweet, rich tones in her voice fully justifying what Madame Nondic said on an occasion in New York when Madame Schmidt sang a number on the same programme that contained the noted singer's name, that "Madame Furlong-Schmidt has a golden voice." When the singer, in answer to repeated calls for encore, appeared on the Imperial stage, gowned in black tulle and holding aloft the tri-color of France, the enthusiasm of the audience was intense.

The ladies of the committee who assisted Mrs. Lawrence in arranging the programme were Mrs. Frank S. White, Mrs. Eber Vroom, Miss Ethel Hising and members of the Y. W. P. A.

A very enjoyable picnic luncheon was held at the Royal Hotel yesterday afternoon and evening, were under the auspices of the Lancashire Red Cross Society, and the Marsellaise was sung by that charming singer, Miss Katherine Gallivan.

The music during the evening and evening was enthusiastically enjoyed at each performance. Others who delighted, the large audience present were Mrs. Valde Fenton, Miss Ermeline Climo, Miss Gladys Grant, Mr. A. C. Smith and Mrs. E. C. Givran.

The opening of the tea room at the Royal Hotel yesterday afternoon was attended by society very largely reserved for the ladies. The room was exceedingly attractive in all the departments. Attentive waitresses in the regulation black and white costumes waited upon those present and adding the needed bit of color to the waitresses' uniforms were the tiny Red Cross flags. Tea tickets also bore the imprint of the Red Cross.

Miss Gertrude Mills, of Boston, who arrived in St. John on Saturday and remained until Wednesday, when she left to visit her aunt, Mrs. Kilgour Shives, in Campbellton, was the guest of Miss Mills, Coburg street. Miss Eme Mills has returned to St. John, after a pleasant visit with relatives in Campbellton.

At the Cedars the opening days of the 1937 season are filled with gaiety. Baseball and bathing in the day time and dancing in the evening, are the principal amusements. Among the guests at this slightly picturesque spot are Mrs. Margetta and daughter Betty. Major D. D. McArthur is entertaining a party of young people at the Cedars this week, which includes Mrs. W. K. Evans, Mr. A. M. Evans, Mr. Y. Lloyd Evans, Mrs. Katherine M. McArthur, Miss Marguerite Howe, Miss Florence P. Harvey, McKerson, of Boston, arrived at the Cedars on Thursday to spend the remainder of the summer, and Mr. Harry Stubbs, of the Royal Bank, Halifax, is another guest at the hotel. From Boston, Miss Kathryn Brown and Miss Anna Hyatt are guests at the Cedars.

Miss Muriel Ferguson, of New York, who was a guest at Mrs. F. B. Scholfield's, this week, left on Friday to visit relatives in Bathurst.

Mrs. P. Holden, Fredericton, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Taylor, Princess street.

Through the efforts of Miss Bertie Hegan, at the time a visitor in New York, an improperly constructed Union Jack flag, displayed on one of the exclusive buildings in the heart of the metropolis, was removed, and Miss Hegan, who was to the management of the error in the construction of the flag, was thanked.

Mrs. Joan Foster, daughter of Hon. T. A. Foster, was hostess at the home of Lance Corporal John Fasson of Toronto.

Mrs. James Hay Robertson, who was the guest of Miss Mills, Coburg street, on Wednesday for her home in Digby (N. S.).

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Skinner are leaving today for Sumnerland (B. C.), to visit Mrs. Skinner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kerr.

Miss Joan Foster, daughter of Hon. T. A. Foster, was hostess at the home of Lance Corporal John Fasson of Toronto.

Mrs. James Hay Robertson, who was the guest of Miss Mills, Coburg street, on Wednesday for her home in Digby (N. S.).

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Skinner are leaving today for Sumnerland (B. C.), to visit Mrs. Skinner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kerr.

Miss Joan Foster, daughter of Hon. T. A. Foster, was hostess at the home of Lance Corporal John Fasson of Toronto.

Mrs. Hugh Mackay, Mrs. Charles Hare, Montreal, Mrs. Sherwood Skinner, Mrs. Harold C. Schofield, Miss Walter Foster, Mrs. Joyce Barnes, Miss Sidney Smith.

Mrs. Shirley Peters, Mrs. H. B. Robinson, Mrs. F. C. Macnell, Mrs. Mortimer, Miss Laura Hazen, Miss Sara Hare.

Mrs. G. H. Mackay, of Boston, is in the city visiting her father, Mr. James Whitaker, Dorchester street.

Mrs. Charles Palmer has gone to Hampton, at the Wayside Inn, to spend the remainder of the summer.

Mrs. H. V. MacKinnon and children have been on the Washademoak for a few weeks.

Mrs. Kent Scovil and son Lauson left on Friday to spend a few weeks at Aqueduct Beach, Maine.

Miss Nora Knight who has been in the city for a few days has returned to her summer home at Little River.

On Thursday afternoon the following ladies were presented medals from Lady Gwendolen Guinness for their services in recruiting men for the navy. His Worship Mayor Hayes made the presentation: Mrs. Mary L. Hayes, wife of Mayor Hayes; Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, Mrs. John R. White, Mrs. Jean S. Daniel, Mrs. Gertrude C. Sturdee, Miss E. V. Smith, Miss Violet Whitaker, Miss M. Hare, Miss Ermeline Climo, Mrs. M. A. Hallamore, Mrs. M. M. Mulcahy, Misses Hilda Shaw, Edith Skinner, M. Desjardins, Hazel L. Pidgeon, Ellen Keefe, E. P. Sturdee and K. G. Sturdee; Mrs. Mollie Davidson, Mrs. Mary McLaughlin, Mrs. Lois Grimmer, Mrs. M. M. Gerow, Mrs. Edith W. Mahoney, Mrs. Ellis Nelson, Miss Helen Church, Noraah Doody, Mrs. James H. Doody, Misses Frances Murdoch, Vallie Sandall and I. Millidge.

Shaped like a shell, invitations were issued by the McAvity munition workers to attend a moonlight patriotic excursion last Saturday. Those who accepted enjoyed a delightful trip to Crystal Beach, where an entertainment and dance was held and a good amount was secured for local patriotic purposes.

Mrs. Chadwick and son Maynard are guests at the Cedars, on the St. John river.

Mrs. Hope Grant and her daughter, Miss Nell Grant, expect to leave on Monday to spend a week at the Cedars.

Miss Nora Nevins, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Charles Nevins, Orange street, left this week for Montreal to spend a few days with Mrs. Stanshouse before returning to New York to resume her studies at St. Luke's Hospital.

Mrs. E. Atherton Smith, on behalf of the Royal Standard Chapter, I. O. D. E., presented to the military authorities last Wednesday the splendid motor ambulance procured by the chapter through individual effort and through the generosity of the citizens, here and elsewhere. Brigadier-General McLean received the ambulance for the military.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Elkin left town this week to reside for the remainder of the summer at Acamac.

Miss Maude McLean, of Moncton, is visiting her brother, General McLean, Horsfield street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harding and family are spending a month at the Cedars.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hamilton, who returned to St. John from New York, have returned to the latter city.

Captain Eber H. Turnbull, lately returned from France, and Mrs. Turnbull are visiting Mr. Turnbull's father in Digby (N. S.).

Mrs. Louis Barker and daughter are guests at the Kennedy House for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. MacPerson, of Winnipeg, are guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. White, Sydney street.

Miss Maunsel, of Winnipeg, is the guest of Mrs. Maunsel at Rothesay.

Mrs. T. Escott Ryder entertained at tea at the Green Lantern on Tuesday for Mrs. P. Holden, of Fredericton, with guests Mrs. Holden, Mrs. Stuart Nell, Mrs. Forbes White, Mrs. Stanley Elkin (her guest), Miss Marie Stewart, of New Brunswick, and Mrs. Elkin, Miss Phyllis Taylor.

Mrs. George Miller and children, Helen and Jack, arrived yesterday at Woodman's Point to visit Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Bilzard.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Macnell expect to leave shortly to spend a month at Woodman's Point.

Lance-Corporal Fasson spent last week end at Rothesay with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Robinson.

Draft Wins Three To One

Straw Votes Indicate Large Majority for Military Service Bill; A Few Qualifications

(Toronto Globe) An interesting straw vote on conscription, showing a very decided percentage in favor of it, was taken in the supply of most, fish, potatoes or any of those articles which Mr. Hanna says are necessary for shipment abroad to the armies on the battlefields.

It is not because the people are unwilling, but they need positive direction. These should be invoked at once a few "shell notes" in connection with the food control campaign. If meat is scarce and its consumption must be curtailed "meatless days" be declared. The people need not be feared. They are anxious to make war and necessary sacrifices to help win the war. They only ask leadership. If there is to be no fighting at the end, the onus is on the premier and his cabinet—not on the people. They are ready to follow wherever they have done most of the leading."

Will Fight When Wanted At the Union Station, where they came and go, all twenty of those seen favorable to conscription except a western Canada farmer, who was unimpaired because he didn't like a government. Of the nineteen others—some were of foreign birth—one man said: "Dis country good to me; I fight for it when they want me."

Thirty tourists who passed through the gates to catch trains for all directions were seen. Nine were out-and-out conscriptionists, fifteen were in a hurry and couldn't or wouldn't express an opinion, and seven were in favor of it, "dead again it."

It's a busy corner at Queen and Yonge, but fifty citizens were caught in their rush and asked the question: "Are you in favor of the military service act?" Thirty-eight were decisively for it, and six of the others were for it. "If wealth was conscripted also." The other half dozen hadn't made up their minds. "You've had time," said a listening bystander. "Yes, that's true, but a man's life is a precious thing." "Yes, that's what the boys think who are fighting your battle in France." There was no answer to that.

RECENT DEATHS Edward J. Haley.

The death of Edward James ("Eddie") Haley, well known in West St. John, took place under very sad circumstances at Montreal last evening. He had been in St. John for some time, and was also of St. John, and the happy young pair had gone on their honeymoon to Montreal. They had been there for only a few days when the husband was stricken with a bad attack of appendicitis. He was taken to the General Hospital there and operated on and his condition was considered to be very satisfactory. Some complications set in, however, and his condition became rapidly worse, until he finally passed away last night.

Mr. Haley was the third son of Margaret and the late Cornelius Haley, of West St. John, and had been employed as bookman on the C. P. R. He leaves besides his grief-stricken bride, his mother and three brothers—John, of Pictou (N. S.), Frank and Harold, of this city, and his sister, Mrs. Alexander Goldie, whose husband was killed at the battle of Vimy Ridge on April 9.

A NEW POTATO STORY
 Potatoes have been classed and are classed as an annual plant, but just recently they were proven to be identical by a prominent North Wharf business man. He has for the last few years been planting potatoes in his garden, a few miles out of the city. Last fall he failed, however, to dig all the potatoes in the ground. This year when he started digging up the soil, getting it in readiness to plant again, he found in the ground

The Man In The Street
 At the moment of writing the chief question is whether the weather will or whether it won't.
 If there is any reason why the weather man should have such a grudge against the Saturday half-holiday, he might at least submit the matter to a board of conciliation.
 The double hoodoo of Friday, the thirteenth, seems to have left no trail of disaster around this vicinity.
 However, it was the day on which the German Reichstag decided to go on strike—which fact may lead the Kaiser to wonder how much there is in these superstitions.
 It is almost too much to expect of hope that the Germans would celebrate the fall of the Bastille by tipping over the Kaiser's throne.
 But if we were in Wilhelm's position, we might be inclined to think that it is about time to learn a money-earning trade.
 The government which appoints a fuel controller to keep down the price of coal and then, through its railway department, adds a little matter of half-a-dollar to the cost, evidently believes in the injunction with reference to not letting the right hand know what the left hand is doing.
 The food controller who is asking the people of Canada to use less bread might also show them how to spend less money for what they do use; the fact that flour still sells for less in Great Britain than it costs in the country where it is produced sticks out as prominently as the proverbial sore toe on a barefooted boy.
 Russia seems to be demonstrating the theory that a heavy-weight really can come back.
 But Russia is coming back by going forward.
 A careful study of their tax bills has convinced some of our citizens that the assessors have ideas of their own on the subject of conservation of wealth.
 Personally, we have no objection whatever to the conscription of wealth—provided some one would provide us with the wealth to be conscripted.
 The fact that not a single recruit—or a married one, either, for that matter—was enlisted in St. John yesterday, may indicate that the men of military age expect conscription soon, or it may indicate something quite different.
 There would be no objections to a longer term for the Baden government—provided the members served the term in the place to which other offenders are sentenced.

ANNIVERSARY OF FALL OF BASTILLE
 This is the Fete Day of France—Rothsay Taggers at Work
 Today France celebrates the fall of the Bastille, the event which marks the beginning of her history as a democracy and this year again her allies throughout the world join in felicitations on her anniversary. July seems to have been a popular month for the births of new nations. With our own Dominion Day on July 1, the United States' Independence Day on July 4, and now France's natal day on July 14. As the event falls on Saturday it was found more convenient to have the local observation in honor of the day somewhat early and the theatrical entertainments on Thursday and the fete in the Royal Gardens on Friday. Not only were tributes to our brave allies, but also added substantial sums to the fund for the sick and wounded French soldiers.
 The Rothsay Red Cross Circle is devoting this day to the same purpose and the "taggers" are busy exchanging tri-color badges for cash contributions. The districts surrounding this popular suburb are co-operating and it is expected that the returns will be large. Collectors traveled to the city on the early trains today to give each passenger an opportunity to do their bit and each train which stops at Rothsay today will be boarded for the same purpose. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. F. W. Daniel, Miss Alice Davidson and Miss Sophie Robertson, and members of the Y.W.C.A. are assisting in the work at Renforth.

LETTER FROM MINISTER OF MILITIA IN REFERENCE TO DEATH OF HIS SON
 Thomas Henderson, of Golden Grove, has received the following letter relative to the death of his son in the war:
 Dear Mr. Henderson:
 I desire to express to you my sincere sympathy in the recent decease of your son, No. 709257, Pte. Ira Alves Henderson, who, in sacrificing his life at the front in action with the enemy, has rendered the highest services of a worthy citizen.
 The heavy loss which you and the nation have sustained would indeed be depressing were it not redeemed by the knowledge that the brave comrade for whom we mourn performed his duties fearlessly and well as became a good soldier, and gave his life for the great cause of human liberty and the defence of the empire.
 Again extending to you in your bereavement my cordial and heartfelt sympathy, I am,
 Yours faithfully,
 A. R. KEMP,
 Minister of Militia and Defence for Canada.
 Mr. Thomas Henderson,
 Golden Grove, Mills, N. B.

TWELVE DEATHS
 Twelve deaths were reported to the board of health during the week from the following causes—Scullity, two; apoplexy, endocarditis, myocarditis, neurasthenia, Bright's disease, heart disease, embolism, broncho-pneumonia, intestinal cancer, hemorrhage from gunshot wounds, one each.

BERRIES DEARTH
 The price of strawberries advanced today and some were retailing at eighteen cents. The cause, it is said, is no Nova Scotia berries arrived last night; also that very few came down the river yesterday.

Churches Must be Made Over If They Are To Be Ready For Boys When They Come Home

If Our Soldiers Come Home to Churches Sleepy, Short Sighted, Unenterprising, Without Vision or Aspiration, With No Plan of Campaign or High, Heroic Spirit, They Will Turn Aside, Says Captain W. A. Cameron: Calls For Interdenominational Co-operation, Vigorous Religious Crusades, Broader Humanity, Social Service, and Aggressive Evangelism

(Toronto Star Weekly) No Canadian preacher has come into more intimate touch with our soldiers at the front as Captain W. A. Cameron, pastor of Bloor street Baptist church, who called this week to resume his evangelistic work in France as the special representative of the Y.M.C.A. While on two months' leave, Captain Cameron, in conjunction with Major Birks, has raised over $100,000 for Y.M.C.A. work among the Canadian boys in England and France. All last winter Capt. Cameron labored among the men in France, sharing their hardships and dangers and discussing their religious problems with them. In the following article he tells how the churches of Canada must be transformed if they are to attract, rather than repel, the boys when they come home, and take advantage of the splendid spiritual impulses that have been awakened in their lives. The article, written at our request, covers much of the same ground as Captain Cameron's farewell sermon, "When the Boys Come Home."

while many who were thoughtless at home, have continued to be thoughtless abroad, the religious have taken their religion with them, and hundreds of the former have joined the category of the latter. They do not talk the conventional language of piety, but there is many an indication that the really great things have become real to them. I always found it a moving sight to face in a Y.M.C.A. but a congregation of these brazen, rolling, eager men—some born fighters itching to destroy the enemy who have made havoc of peace on earth, others hating the whole brutal business of war, yet doing their bit gamely—all of them jeopardizing their lives when life is sweet and flustered with hope, courting danger rather than taking cover, and all of them listening to an address on a great gospel theme, and then giving themselves as the convenanters did long ago to prayer and to God. The surface shyness about religion has melted, and everywhere men are not ashamed to profess that faith is the bread of their souls. They talk about the great things, though they have neither time for titing on the niceties of creeds nor enthusiasm about the shibboleths of sects. Up against the elemental facts they appreciate the value of the elemental verities. The lit of their souls is furnished with the weapons that win victory over danger and death. Not through these will Britain be put to shame! A Challenge to the Churches It is for the people at home to make their thinking and saying and doing worthy of them and our great cause. The splendor of their youthful courage and sacrifice has a meaning for the Christian church. The church is summoned to garner the fruits of a great emotion and to see that this emotion is (Continued on page 18.)

We've Got His Number

Kaiser Bill Is Going to Get His in February, 1918—He's the Original 666

(By Dr. Frank Crane) There's no use of Mr. Hohenzollern carrying on any further, really. He has only a few months to run. The date is set. We've got his number. That's why. A friend of mine who is strong on prophecy has been rummaging around in the oracles and has found out just who William K. Hohenzollern is, and why. Also when he is going to get his. There are few things you cannot prove by the Scriptures if you set yourself to it. When I was a boy the Millerites had the time of the end of the world all figured out. On the day fixed they settled up their worldly affairs and adjourned to a hill where they could have front seats when the Day of Judgment opened up. They were thus at a great advantage over the unbelievers, who went on with their chores as per usual. The affair did not come off according to schedule, but that was no fault of theirs. They had used the wrong timetable. There is a sect also that predicted the end of the world in 1914, and I knew a man who sold his farm in Illinois and went out to Colorado to be ready for the grand smash-up. These believers came pretty close to making a good guess, too. It wasn't the Day of Judgment that hit us in 1914, it was a little too much like it for comfort. But to return to Mr. H. My friend writes me and says that if we will read the fourth, fifth and eighth verses of the thirteenth chapter of Revelations we will find out just where William the Terrible is going to get off. These verses run as follows (in case you do not have your Bible handy): "Fourth—And they worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast; and they worshipped the beast saying: Who is like unto the beast? Who is able to make war with him? Fifth—And there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies, and power was given him to continue forty and two months. Eighth—Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast; for it is the number of a man and his number is six hundred three score and six. Now when this war started William was fifty years and six months old. That is 666 months! Figures cannot lie. You cannot escape the conclusion that the original and only genuine 666 is Mr. Hohenzollern, because he is so feebly and fitly described in verses four and five. He is going to last for forty-two months. There is therefore no need of speculating as to when the war will end. It began in August, 1914, and it will close in just forty-two months from that time—that is, in February, 1918, for it plainly says in verse five that power was given to the beast to continue forty and two months.

I. CHESTER BROWN 32-36 King Square Next Imperial Theatre

Empire's King and Queen Gain in Popularity

The New York Sun recently published the following special despatch from London:— Royalty is about the most democratic institution in Great Britain nowadays. The other day King George and Queen Mary went touring about the country by special train, visiting the munition works and shipyards. A carload of representatives of the newspapers was attached to the royal train, and one night the entourage hung up at a country place where there were no particular arrangements for entertainment of the royal pair. But what of that? No trouble whatever! The carload of correspondents was switched off to a siding in the town and the royal carriage was whisked out half a dozen miles into the country, shunted to a siding far from any habitation and left for the night. There were aboard the car the king and queen, the Scotland Yard men and the servants needed to manage the car. The king and queen slept aboard their car, and bright and early in the morning the correspondents hurried out to learn how the night had been passed. At seven o'clock they arrived, but too late. The king and queen had risen, dressed, taken tea and climbed out of the car for a tramp in the country. Tramped Off Alone. Nobody ever did discover where they went or how far; they permitted no escort to bother them; just tramped on until they had enough and then wandered back. It was a performance characteristic of the present royal couple. A McKinley campaign train once did the same thing in a mid-western state because the party had been delayed and the prospect of a midnight reception was too much for the president and Mrs. McKinley. On that occasion there was a fine row because the whole town had been waiting for the arrival of the presidential party and lost a night's sleep. But kings don't campaign for votes, and it wasn't necessary for the royal train to remain where its occupants could be inspected. In their way, however, the king and queen are good campaigners. They live simply, both of them work harder than the munition makers, and take the greatest interest in their people. There was a time when they could not honestly have been set down as a thoroughly popular royal couple. But that time is past; most decidedly past. Their simple ways of living were regarded a bit amusingly by certain of the aristocracy and sniffed at by people who ape the aristocracy. Interested in People. That was before the war. The genuineness of their interest in everything the people are doing, their seeming preference for the simple affairs of the working people as against the ostentations of the rich and distinguished, have endeared them to the people in these rough times. The British public doesn't want to be patronized. Any pretension, from the rule of strict dignity and full recognition of the estate of royalty, far from making the royal family popular, would be accounted cheap. It happens that the king and queen know exactly how to do the right thing. They neither under-do nor overdo it. It is one of the lucky things for British royalty in these times that the queen is of English birth, a Princess of Teck. There is a strong German strain in her family, of course, but she was born in England and is English by race and tradition. Women say the queen doesn't know as much about clothes as a queen really ought to know. Neither the queen nor her only daughter, Princess Mary, would be called distinctly a good dresser. But that makes little difference nowadays. In ordinary times, if the queen could always be the best dressed woman in the land, royalty would be as firmly fixed in its saddle as any conceivable institution of human origin. King Edward and Queen Alexandra knew the stage business of royalty as thoroughly as any rulers of modern times; they dressed precisely right, knew their part and were a real influence in the country. Queen Victoria on the other hand could do almost anything better than choose and wear her clothes. To this day even the old people who are sure she was the greatest ruler of all times shake their heads dubiously when her clothes come under discussion. The King Leads the People. Everybody who recollects his school-day Outlines of English History will understand vaguely how the people have always wanted to look up to the king as their leader and protector against the impositions of the wicked barons. Sometimes the kings were a poor reliance, and sometimes the boot was on the other leg; but nevertheless it is bred into the British character to be sure that the king is the natural partner and protector of the plain people against the favored aristocracy and plutocracy. This was illustrated a few days after the great air raid on London had killed over a hundred and maimed four times as many. There was terrific indignation that, although the raiding airships had been sighted at the coast, their coming had not been notified to the city. The people demanded that instant measures be taken to correct that omission in future. Accordingly, as London will, London met in a great meeting on Tower Hill. The government, the admiralty, the air service, everybody that could possibly be mixed in the responsibility, was roundly berated; and finally a radical speaker—one of the sort that Americans are at times unmistakably wont to regard as the enemies of all royal institutions—aroused the climatic demonstration of the day when he declared:—"The government, the naval and military authorities, must act; if they fail to act, then the people, headed by the king, will take matters into their own hands!" Whereupon, having roared itself hoarse in approval of this dire threat against the government, the throng adopted by acclamation the resolutions that had been prepared in advance and that everybody knew would be adopted, and went home feeling better. The king and the people would take matters into their own hands if the government didn't have.

RUSSIA'S MESSAGE TO UNITED STATES In New York last week, in reply to Mayor Mitchell's welcoming address, Ambassador Bachmeteff of Russia said: "The United States has joined the ranks of the nations which are fighting for justice and has raised the banner of the same lofty human ideals that animate the people of Russia." There was a dramatic pause as the speaker took from the lapel of his coat the medalion of the reception committee, and waving it aloft said: "The inscription on this medal says: 'To make the world safe for democracy—we are one!' 'Democracy, liberty and democracy are the challenges of the Russian revolution, such are the aims which our nation is endeavoring to secure within its own boundaries and hopes to see attained for all nations. 'Is there not a deep historical meaning in the event that, while the first American troops stepped upon the soil of Europe as the champions of mankind, Russia, inspired by the burning vision of freedom and democracy, is thrusting her warriors with unyielding impetus upon the yet unbroken ranks of the common foe of liberty. 'In these united efforts there lies the hope of mankind! May peace, democracy and liberty rule the world!'"

Why I Bought a Mitchell Written by a Well-Known Mitchell Owner I am asked to state why, after owning 11 other cars, I finally came to the Mitchell. It was mainly because I saw the Mitchell factory. And because I met there John W. Bate, the great Mitchell engineer. No one could do that without imbibing tremendous respect for this car. 40-Year Service I saw certified records which proved that two of these cars had actually run over 200,000 miles each—about 40 years of ordinary service. I saw the facts by which they prove 100 per cent over-strength in every vital part. I saw countless reports which record amazingly small cost for repairs. I saw the safety parts, all vastly oversized. I saw the springs, built to double-strength, which have never yet been broken. A man who knows cars as I know them counts a great deal on that sort of endurance. An Amazing Ride I took a long ride in a Mitchell on a pretty tough road. I never saw such performance. And I never knew such comfort in a car. I never knew another car car which did not need shock absorbers. This comfort is due to those long Bate cantilever springs. The Extra Value I found in this car 31 wanted features which I never had before. I found new luxuries by the score. I found body designs which struck me as the smartest I have seen. There are no show parts, no fold-overs. Every extra adds value and distinction. I found more for my money than I ever got before. I had read the claims of Mitchell efficiency. But until I saw the factory and saw the results I did not realize its meaning. Come and see the cars of which this owner writes. See the extras, see the added luxuries and the over-strength. Then let us prove the comfort and performance. You, too, will be surprised. MITCHELL MOTORS COMPANY, Inc. Racine, Wis., U. S. A. Preserved RASPBERRIES —Delicious and very Economical HOW you will miss the fresh fruits next winter. Fruits preserved in tin promise to be unusually scarce on account of the high cost of metals. Every jar of berries that you can preserve at home will be a genuine economy, a real safeguard for you and your family. Don't let the fact that sugar is slightly higher than in former years prevent you from preserving plentifully. A pound of sugar is enough for three quart jars of fruit. Divide the difference between the present price of sugar and the former price by three, and you will find it is less than a cent a jar. On the other hand the value of the jar of preserves is greater than ever before owing to the increased cost of other sorts of food. For preserving raspberries and all other fruits buy LANTIC SUGAR. LANTIC is specially advantageous for the early fruits in which the color is hard to preserve as the "FINE" granulation does away with long cooking. The fact that no artificial coloring is used in LANTIC SUGAR commends it to the fastidious housewife. 2 and 5 lb. cartons 10, 20 and 100 lb. sacks. Preserving labels free: Send a red ball trademark cut from a bag or from the top panel of carton and we will mail you a book of assorted preserving labels, gummed and printed ready to attach to the jar. DO YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES? Tells Simple, Harmless Way to Overcome This Trouble at Home and Improve Hearing 100 Percent in Many Instances. Thousands of people are constantly troubled with buzzing, ringing, rumbling or hissing noises in their head and ears, are hard of hearing and fear the day when partial or total deafness may be their lot. Such cases, even though of long standing, are not hopeless as a simple home prescription used daily has shown it possible in many instances to overcome the head and ear noises in less than ten days and to restore clear, distinct hearing in less than thirty. Get from any druggist 1 oz. Parmitin (double strength) which costs about 75 cents. Take this home and add to it 3/4 pint of hot water and 4 oz. granulated sugar. Stir until dissolved and then take one tablespoonful four times a day. Parmitin is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective. NOTE—While Parmitin is widely used in the treatment of catarrh people who suffer from head noises or defective hearing should be certain to get it in the special (double strength) form especially designed for treating such cases.

Ireland Gives World Lesson

Convention to Settle Troubles An Idea to be Later Widely Adopted

Coercion, convention and chaos are the alternatives in Ireland today, says Sinaue Leslie, writing in The New York Evening Sun on "The Irish Convention."

They are stages which every country engaged in this war has to face. Millitancy is coercion, whether applied at home or to another. Chaos is the fate of Russia, whose shapeless Duma does not compare with the well-defined convention in Dublin.

Before the coming of the next era the whole world must go into convention. On a small scale Ireland is giving the world a lesson in the art of making peace.

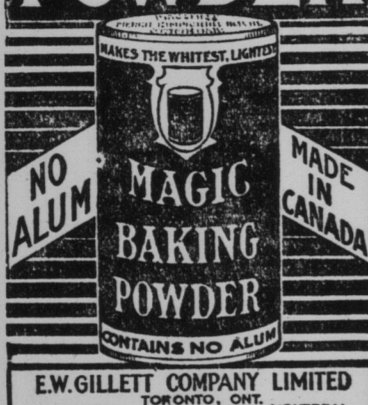

As to the fairness of the convention, it is popularly representative, though not elective. It is more democratic in fact than in theory, which under the circumstances is more likely to produce a democratic result than a flash referendum to the people.

In the latter case there would be danger of no result at all. It is to be noticed that the machine politicians have been largely machined out. In view of revolutionists, embryonic in Ulster, and full fledged in the Sinn Fein, Redmond has agreed to nominate the absurdly small number of five delegates out of a hundred. The Unionists have been induced by an additional five to their party five to play the role of Curtius and leap into the chasm for the general good. But they are pretty certain to land on their feet in a Home Rule Ireland. Under modern conditions an industrial district like Belfast need never fear parts devoted to agriculture.

Belfast can be an iron menace to Dublin, but Dublin can only threaten Belfast postically.

As to the clerical contingents, it will do Catholic and Protestant Bishops all the good in the world to sit together.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

WINNIPEG TORONTO MONTREAL

Should they disagree at all, a stout Presbyterian has been provided as a lightning conductor.

The x or doubtful quantity which will swing the convention is contained in the fifteen members of the crown. They will prove the uncertainties, the dubitations, the free liners, and probably the deciding factor. They will adjust both the preliminary solvent and the final cement in the right proportions. Representatives of churches, chambers of commerce, parties and local councils are restricted to their own interests.

The recent delivery of the prisoners from prison is a wise stroke essentially to the success of the convention, in which we must recognize the smoothing hand of Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, who if he were not wanted now in Washington would make as good a president of the convention as any mentioned.

Guarantee of Success

The crisis in the time, as well as the variety of opinion rallying to the convention, insures its successful result. England is radically converted to Home Rule on the best grounds, the practical.

Northcliffe's conversion is not a sentimental one, but based on the big imperial and world interests involved. On such a basis there is some hope for a solid bargain. It is better it should be so. England stands to lose more than Ireland does by a failure in the convention.

The Irish prefer Northcliffe's frank volteface to waxy radicalism in England.

Sentiment has too long taken the place of reason and argument in Ireland. The Sinn Fein and Ulster parties are more sentimental than practical, as is proven by their insistence on rebellion in the last resort.

The Irish impasse is a classical one of sentiment, which, owing to its insubstantial nature, can find no clearing house. What is needed is a reduction of all rivalries and debts and claims to the practical. This the convention is eminently fitted to do.

On the whole it is desirable that outside comment and interposition should refrain from disturbing their delicate work.

Its success will lie in the power of its members in exacting moderation among themselves and firmness toward England. They must be able to stand "thus far and no further" to one and then drive a strong bargain from moderate ground with the other.

In Irish politics there is one rule—be bronze or be broken. When the Celt breaks into blind hysteria the English politician can get the better of him, but for a permanent agreement he would prefer the rules of the game.

He did not understand Parnell, but he was glad to strike the Kilmainham treaty. Parnell became a cool barterer, and Home Rule a practical expedient. The Irish slaughtered him in a fit of sentiment. Redmond made his bargain, but unfortunately the goods were not delivered. Ireland rose against her leader again.

AN AVIATION CLUB IS FORMED

Will Provide Comforts for and Attend to Welfare of Flying Men

Convalescent Home Will be Arranged For—Duties and Privileges of Membership—Gift of Aerodrome

The last few weeks have seen the inauguration of a new war activity on the part of women in Canada, promises specifically to become a very valuable auxiliary to the air service in Canada.

This originated with a few ladies, all relatives of officers in the Royal Naval Air Service or the Royal Flying Corps, whose idea was that "there was a distinct need of some organization that would provide comforts for, and attend to the welfare of, the many hundreds of cadets and men of the Royal Flying Corps, or who will be stationed at the various barracks, schools of instruction, and aerodromes that already are, or will be established in Canada, with headquarters of the Royal Flying Corps at Toronto. The organization is called the Canadian Aviation Club, or "C. A. C.," as it is already known among its members.

At one of the inaugural meetings last month, Col. W. Hamilton Merritt emphasized the need of a club such as this. He laid stress on the fact that the Royal Flying Corps, being an imperial army unit, has not the advantages of a grant either from the dominion government or from the city, as most Canadian units have, and that it is therefore necessary that anything (apart from their pay) to be done for the comfort and welfare of the cadets and men in Canada shall be undertaken by some such organization as this, or by individual enterprise.

The C. A. C., having organized itself, will now apply itself in view of a generous gift by Mr. Robins of the use of a large tract of land in North Toronto for the establishment of an aerodrome—to the speedy acquisition of a suitable building, to be used as a combined convalescent home and aviation club house.

Already the C. A. C. has been active in other directions. It has provided many comforts for the Glens street barracks and the aerodrome at Camp Borden. The funds have been obtained from members' fees and contributions, private subscriptions, the proceeds of a concert and the proceeds of an afternoon bridge and evening dance.

Any woman interested in the aims and objects of the C. A. C. is eligible for membership, on her name being approved by the executive committee.

The membership fee is $1 a year, and the payment of another dollar secures the badge of membership. Every member is expected to donate at least one pair of socks each month. It is hoped to establish branches of the club in Montreal, Hamilton, Merritt is honorary vice-president. Mrs. E. H. Duggan, of 336 Huron street, Toronto, is president. Mrs. T. G. Pepler, of 331 Huron street, is vice-president, and Mrs. Stuart Strathly is secretary-treasurer. The executive consists of the president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. W. Inc, Mrs. W. B. McLean, Mrs. Stewart Strathly, and Miss Catherine Merritt. The general committee consists of Mesdames T. D. Delamere, W. Anderson, Frank Hodgins, A. M. S. Stewart, Fred Leach, Spratt, and Grange.

When you wash off the wax the next morning, the skin will be smoother, the freckles will be almost invisible particles of oxide come with it. Repeating this daily, the complexion will be absorbed, but so gradually that the slightest hurt or injury will not be noticed. The underlying complexion is affected. The underlying skin which forms the new complexion is as fresh and youthful-looking, you'll marvel at the transformation. The Suicide Of Holland

(Toronto Globe.)

Holland is now so prosperous that many of her people are fighting for food. The cause of this rather anomalous condition lies in the fact that Holland is no longer Dutch, that the instruments of nationhood no longer respond to the will of the masses. So Germanized has grown their government, so infested have their strong places become with the Kaiser's spies, and so completely have their merchants succumbed to the lure of Teuton gold that the people find themselves unable to obtain the necessities of life, and serious rioting, together with general strikes, in Amsterdam has resulted.

The first outward manifestation that something was radically wrong came last week when enraged women and children stormed potato-laden barges in the inner harbor of Amsterdam and seized large quantities of this foodstuff.

There emerged from this and similar episodes the revelation that Dutch merchants are making such a harvest of gold from selling potatoes, along with other foodstuffs, to the Germans that the people of Holland have been in some cases reduced to almost starvation rations.

The potato riots have let the cat out of the bag, and the British authorities have been quick to seize upon this occasion to make the Dutch position clear.

The British Legation at The Hague issued a statement in which it was said that there was no obligation on the part of Holland to ship potatoes to Great Britain so long as none are sent to Germany.

The statement adds that the existing contract between Britain and Holland only stipulates that exportations to Germany must be preceded by the exportation of a certain quantity to Britain.

"It will thus be seen," the statement concludes, "that the remedy for an deficiency in Holland rests entirely with the Dutch parties interested. The whole trouble has arisen from the anxiety of the Dutch to supply Germany with potatoes."

Through contiguity, espionage and German gold Holland has now been placed in a position quite similar to that of Greece up to the deposition of Constantine. In both countries the resources of the people, contrary to their favorable to the Central Powers, their governments ceased to be their protectors, and instead worked hard for the strengthening of the Teuton position, which was equivalent to their own undoing. The Dutch people are surely, if not strongly, pro-Ally in sentiment, but as a correspondent says, "the attitude of the Dutch government is another matter." Will the Entente Allies exert pressure upon that government as they did upon Constantine and his entourage in an economic way is just as important as the help given to the Teutons by Greece in a military way. It hinders the Entente Allies' triumph just as effectively by helping to feed Germany as the Greek king did by maintaining a menace in the rear of Sarraff's armies.

Colossal War Activity Of United States

The progress of the United States' preparations to wage offensive warfare is not being reported in a detailed way. Some information on that point, says the Toronto Star, may not be amiss. A preliminary war budget of three billion dollars has been approved. A two-billion dollar bond issue has been over-subscribed by fifty per cent. One billion dollars in cash has been advanced to the other allied nations. A few days after the declaration of war a large flotilla of American destroyers with parent or supply vessels left for British waters. Temporarily the American Admiral Sims now in charge of operations off the Irish coast. The allies also put Admiral Caperton with a squadron of Pacific coast cruisers in command of anti-submarine operations in the South Atlantic, the French and British warships there have been undergoing training with a view to offsetting the American expeditionary forces. At least 20,000 American troops have been landed in France. Ten million men have been recruited for military service. By the end of July the selective process will be completed, and 200,000 active troops and 120,000 reserve troops will be put into training. In addition to this the regular army has been increased from 120,000 to 200,000 men. The National Guard has been increased from 100,000 to 150,000. The Marine Corps has been increased from 45,000 to nearly 80,000. The navy has been recruited from 60,000 up to 120,000. Nine regiments composed entirely of experienced railway men have been formed. Billions of dollars have been spent on orders for cannon, machine guns, and other war material. Hundreds of fast submarine chasers are under construction, and a colossal merchant ship-building programme already is far advanced. Work is being rushed on the largest fleet of aircraft contemplated by any belligerent. The United States intends to render the allies in Europe invaluable help this year and to bring its military strength into play next year with overpowering effect. The biggest blunder Germany has made since she risked a conflict with Britain was her courting of the hostility of the United States.

MAMMY TO SIX HUNDRED
The Boast of Aunt Tempy Avery of North Carolina

In the midst of one of the finer residential sections of Asheville, N. C., stands the old cabin of Aunt Tempy Avery. Her front yard runs down to the paved street, and from her back door she commands a view of the far-famed Mount Pisgah and "the Hat". Many tempting offers have been received by the old Mammy for her valuable holding, but never has she wavered in her refusal. "My ole marster gave me dis home when he died," she would explain, "to be mine until I die." Nobody knows just the age of Mammy Tempy, though she unhesitatingly asserts that she is one hundred and six. It is said that she was a chattel of considerable value in 1840, when she was given as a wedding present to her "Young Master" from her "Ole Mis-tis." This new "mistis" and her children and children's children she served faithfully many a year. In all these and the later years, when she "thred out," she cared for between five and

British Labor And the War

The way in which organized labor in Great Britain has adjusted itself to the inescapable duties imposed upon the country by the war, makes an interesting story as told by Sidney Webb in the North American Review for June. It will readily be recalled, says the Toronto Star, how widespread the fear was that trades unionism, being as strong as it was, would make trouble for the military authorities in taking those measures which so serious a war made necessary. This fear hung over everything, and even when matters had got going fairly well, there was a recurrence of the fear when it was found necessary to resort to conscription. But even that did not produce the dreaded conflict.

The explanation of it all is, we believe, to be found in the fact that real statesmanship was applied to the case. Where politicians would have failed, statesmen succeeded. Instead of regarding trades unionism as a force necessarily hostile to the purposes of government, and therefore to be either overborne or circumvented, the strength of trades unionism was conceded, the importance of the organization it possessed was recognized, and its co-operation was frankly sought on terms favorable to both labor and the nation. Not only were the leaders of organized labor called into consultation in matters of policy in connection with the production of munitions and supplies, but co-operation went much farther than that, and the organizations, as such, were given recognition which will make their position and public responsibility permanent. Nothing but the crisis of the war could have brought about so sane a relation between organized labor and organized government in Great Britain.

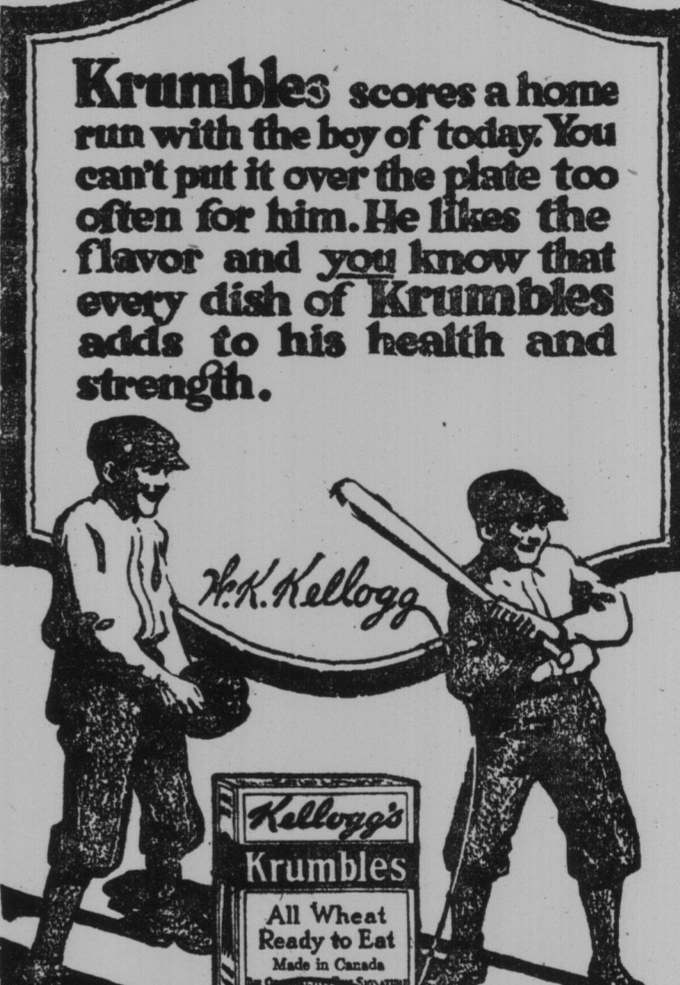

The trades unions responded to the necessities of the situation. Mr. Webb in his article mentions some of the respects in which they gave up their rules and customs in order to increase production. They laid aside all restriction of output; all limitation of the working day; all refusal to work overtime, at night or on Sunday; all objection to the introduction of labor-saving machinery; all resistance to the introduction to their trades of non-unionist unapprenticed men, laborers, boys and even women; all opposition to the substitution of piece-work for payment by hourly rates, and all reluctance to compete in teams at component parts instead of each workman completing his own task. They gave up the right to strike and submitted to compulsory arbitration, and assented to regulations forbidding a man to leave his employment. The trades unions in fact pooled everything with the country in the winning of the war. But note the fact that they were called into conference and participation

The Testing Time!

WHEN the test of the world-conflagration called for every ounce of strength in every available man to stem the tide of destruction, one of John Barleycorn's greatest friends, Russia, was the first to abolish the Traffic because it could not meet the test. In good time, when her hour of test arrived, New Brunswick banished the great Drink curse let us hope forever!

After the war, in his turn, John Barleycorn is going to put New Brunswick to the test. Prohibition may again be voted upon after the war.

Every bit of law enforcement and indifference is just so much ammunition for him to use against us. How does Prohibition meet the test?

Russia—
Some idea of the enormous effect of Prohibition is afforded by the wonderful example of Russia. In spite of the fact that millions of producers are in the army the savings of the people enormously increased. In 1912 and 1913 they were saving, per year, about $20,000,000. In the first five months under Prohibition they saved $60,000,000. In 1915 the banks took in $285,000,000. For the first half of 1916, the Russian people saved $300,000,000!

The Dakotas—
Town and city population in South Dakota under License increased 138 per cent. in 20 years. In the Prohibition state of North Dakota it increased 494 per cent.!

In "dry" North Dakota, for the year 1909, 2,789 men produced $19,137,000 worth of manufactured goods. In the "wet" Dakota it required no less than 3,602—813 more men—to produce only $17,870,000 worth of manufactured goods, or $1,267,000 less!

In 1890 commitments to Insane Asylums in "dry" North Dakota were 40 persons per 100,000 more than South Dakota. After twenty years of Prohibition they were forty less! And the Prohibition State began the period with only about half the population of its neighbor! South Dakota has since adopted Prohibition.

Russia Prospers
During the first eight months of Prohibition in Russia the Savings Banks reports show savings increased 5,000 per cent. (net).

Help to Enforce Prohibition
Permanent Prohibition in New Brunswick demands strict enforcement between now and the day when Prohibition may again be voted upon after the war. The whole task of enforcement must not be left to the officers of the law alone. Everyone should help. Eternal vigilance is the watchword.

Studebaker

Before you buy any car Investigate the Canadian Built Studebaker Car

YOUR car is probably the second most important investment you will ever make. FIRST—comes your home. THEN—your car. Before you buy that car stop and think. Are you going to be completely satisfied with it? Is it sure to be the comfortable car you want? Motor car comfort has been a thing of slow development. It means more than the physical ease of a fireside chair.

POWER is the first factor of automobile comfort. No man can be thoroughly comfortable in his car if he has to be continually pushing pedals and pulling levers. You want a car that will climb the hills and pull through mud and sand without appreciable effort; a car that will take you anywhere with a minimum shifting of gears.

The Studebaker FOUR has full 40 Horse Power—the Studebaker SIX has full 50 Horse Power. Both cars are built in Studebaker factories at Walkerville, Ontario. They are probably the most powerful cars of their weight on the market today.

ROADABILITY is a point of automobile comfort. You want an easy driving car, one that does not jump and sway and make you work to hold it in the road. The perfect balance of the Studebaker chassis, the basic design of which has been continually improved and refined over a period of four years, makes the Studebaker car one of the most roadable cars in the world. A Studebaker car drives straight as an arrow and has no tendency to jump or sway.

DEPENDABILITY is another point of automobile comfort. Studebaker uses the best vanadium steel in its chassis construction. Studebaker uses drop forgings wherever possible to add strength and lightness.

The use of high grade materials and of skilled, experienced labor makes for the mechanical perfection of Studebaker cars—which in turn makes for unusual durability.

Studebaker brakes are oversize—the area of braking surface is very large. A slight pressure on a Studebaker brake will bring you to a gentle halt, a stronger pressure will stop you within a few feet.

Think how it will add to your comfort to know that yours is a durable car with thoroughly dependable brakes.

ECONOMY is also a factor. It is always comfortable to know that your up-keep bills are going to be low.

Studebaker cars with all their power are very economical in their consumption of gasoline.

Studebaker owners frequently report from 8,000 to 10,000 miles on a single set of tires.

APPEARANCE. You can never be comfortable in a car that needs apology. Studebaker cars are big and handsome. Their finish of gunmetal gray with ivory striping makes them distinctive in appearance.

FINALLY there is the question of physical convenience and comfort. The driver of a Studebaker car has everything at his finger tips. His hand falls naturally on the levers, the pedals may be adjusted to suit his individual requirements, electric starting and lighting switches are conveniently placed on the dash within easy reach of the driver; the starter pedal is directly under his right heel.

The front seats of Studebaker cars are individual and form-fitting, adjustable forward and back to all leg lengths. The seat next the driver is reversible, its occupant may face the tonneau if desired. The tonneau doors are 21½ inches wide—easy to enter or leave. The tonneau seat is 48 inches wide—the ideal width for three. There are two auxiliary seats under the tonneau seat for your convenience should you want to carry extra passengers.

All cushion work is of the best long curled hair mounted on resilient spring springs.

All upholstery is of genuine, high grade hand buffed leather. Each seat in a Studebaker car invites rest and relaxation.

You certainly owe it to yourself to investigate the Studebaker car before coming to a decision as to what your car will be.

There will be no change in Studebaker models this year, but the increased cost of materials and labor may force Studebaker to make an advance in prices at any time without notice.

translated into life. The church has been troubled about many things—too many things in fact. One afternoon in a hut in France they lay on a table a copy of Professor Denny's address on "The War and the Voice of God to the Churches," with this passage underlined by some grateful reader: "If the war resulted in the transformation of the churches it would be the best security for all the other victories."

Everybody knows that a new Britain is being created by the war. "Four things, Almighty God, I ask for Britain in her awful task. The passionate heart of one who fights, Compassionate even when she smiles, Set lips and close, from which shall fall Speech, grave and pure, if speech at all; Hands bloody—since it must be seen By Three indignities, though dimmed with blood, or tear."

Or the dark shadow itself—see clear. Four things I ask—way, all in One! The mind that was in Christ "Thy Son So purged and cleansed shall Britain stand. Arisen again and at Heaven's command; And Thou shalt view her from above, Affame with noble wrath—and love."

Yes, a new Britain is being born. Men are saying: "We must make the Britain for which men are laying down their lives in tens of thousands, a Britain that shall be better worth living in for the children and grand-children of our heroes." What part are the churches going to play in the making of the new Britain? Are the churches preparing for "When the boys come home," short-sighted, unenterprising, without vision, without aspiration, without plan of campaign, with no high heroic spirit, the boys who have been doing their bit with turn aside and the churches will know them no more. God send us men who are leaders of men, and then the courage and endurance shown in Flanders will be used in winning victories hitherto undreamed of in the "Wars of the Lord."

Changes Must Come in Churches.

To the boys who come home life can never be the same again. Changes will be called for in every department, and most of all in the church. Kipling's couplet may sound little more than a jingle.

"I started as an average kid,
I finished as a thinking man."

but the words enshrine a principle which is of considerable significance in the main of religion. Are the boys coming home to the old routine? Is there any adjustment to be made to meet the needs of our fighting men? For anyone to suggest that all this upheaval can pass and leave things as they were would be a dismal proof of a church without a Christian people can sleep. What then will be the characteristics of the church of tomorrow?

In the first place the church must have a plan of campaign and be enterprising in carrying it out. She must throw herself wholeheartedly into the business of the Kingdom of God. This is the very least that will be expected by the men who have been doing their bit in this bloody business, this most recent phase of the age-long conflict between the Kingdom of God and the Kingdom of Satan. While keeping her needles true to the evangel the church will call out the heroic in men by giving them a Job worthy of their calling. Never again can the church attract by gossamer evenings and socials. She must endow men with the spirit of the Crusades and send them out to win the trophies for the Glory of their Master.

As the long, thrilling months of the war have followed each other there has been in the churches the cumulative conviction that the methods of approach to the man before the war were much too soft and sentimental and not nearly so robust and virile enough. The result was that the moral forces which were hidden and unexpressed, and which have been kindled into activity by a great national appeal, lay dormant while they should have been kept aroused by the spiritual appeal. The church needs something of that magnificent energy which counts life worth having only for the accomplishment of great deeds. We are the children of a King, and the royal robes of confidence should fill our preaching, our prayers, our life.

Must Drop Christmas Trees.

The church of tomorrow will be characterized by the spirit of co-operation. She will prosper as the glad and unmatched exponent of the things we today know to be the things needed. She will be the nurse of great convictions, one church in spite of all that seems to deny the appearance of this with one faith and one goal. In the services at the front I was always conscious of a spiritual union embracing in a solid spiritual friendship all who worship Jesus Christ and Him only. God has come near and blessed those gathered in this spirit. When the men come home sorrow will fill their hearts if we are satisfied with anything less than the good of the people of Canada. Sometimes French regiments arrive at the front decorated like little Christmas trees with all the kind things presented to them by their maiden aunts. After they have had a spell in the trenches they carry nothing with them but what is necessary. The church of tomorrow on active service for the Lord, will drop her Christmas tree decorations, and carry nothing but the common essentials of our faith.

The church must stand for a broad humanity. This has been one of the secrets of the great success the Y. M. C. A. has attained in its work among the soldiers. It has stood for a spirit of fellowship which is genuinely Christian, and such as the churches will do well to emulate. The men are most reverent at simple services; they sing the classic hymns with hearty enjoyment and deep feeling; they listen with attention that puts to shame torpid congregations at home to simple human, religious talks. Brought face to face with the great solemn reality of possible and even probable physical extinction, they remember that they have souls. The secret of an effective ministrations at the front is to be found in the adjectives already used—simple, human. When the men come home they must be approached as human beings. They cannot be understood unless they are familiarly known. And in the things that really matter there is not a vast difference between the "kiss and the dicker," as they say in England.

Holy Every Day of the Week.

Once more, the church of tomorrow must be practical. The Y. M. C. A. has given a wonderful illustration of this at the front. It has catered unflinchingly to men's bodily needs, has studied their comforts and helped them over difficult places. The church must learn to do the same. She will need to be more diligent and enterprising in providing rivals to everything that degrades manhood and in showing her interest in the whole of human life. In seeking such things she will not be betraying her spiritual mission, but only following the example of her Lord.

Finally, the church of the future will be aggressively evangelistic. She will convince men that she is tremendously interested in the salvation of their souls. No amount of adequate machinery will make up for a lack of evangelistic passion. Much money will never take the place of fervent love. The passion of the soul must be the passion of the church.

"There with a rush the intolerable crashing, Shivers throughout me like a trumpet call, Oh, to save men, to perish for them, Die for their life, be offered for them all!"

We look out upon the fields of Europe today, shaking beneath the tread of contending armies, with tens of thousands of men at grips with death, and the first impression is one of fear and trembling. We see the hills about France and Belgium crowned with artillery and with every instrument of ruin that the science of modern warfare has devised. We see the long files of soldiers, the rush, the dash, the charge, the awful slaughter of our brother men, and as we contemplate the fearful carnage of death and think back of the meaning for unnumbered faraway homes we wonder whether God is in His heaven, for all is not right with the world. And yet I am sure the great war will issue in immense blessings to mankind. It will arouse some nations from their age-long sleep. It will shake down the idols of militarism and prepare the soil for the seed of the Gospel. The world is in the travail pain of a new birth. Out of it will come deliverance from the thralldoms, both civil and religious and mental, that are heavy with the snows of countless years. Through the darkness and confusion and clash of arms we may see the King treading the waves of the world's battling deep, moving upon the face of our national waters, walking in the greatness of His strength. He has not failed. He cannot fail. He will not fail. He carries out His mission. Let the churches meet the adjustments which the dawn of the new age calls us forth to consider. In the case, for the Church's credit, if not by way of gratitude to her sons, something must be done if a God-given opportunity is not to be irretrievably lost when the boys come home.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

THEY STILL ARE ATTIC.

And Plenty of Appreciation for Treasures They Hold.

An eastern newspaper laments the passing of the attic. The modern house is without this historical museum of the family. And so for the flat, why, the attic of the flat is a miserable little store-room in the basement. Where the attic once flourished, in the old-fashioned mansion with the clock on the stairs, there is now a luxurious suite for the cook, or for the boys. And the walls have paper with pink roses on it, and there is plumbing and all that sort of thing. Where are the trivial fond records of the family's long or recent past now kept?

In this section of the country we take heart of grace. A side to aid the cause of woman suffrage reveals the outpouring, if not of the old familiar attic, yet of something that must have been the larger and more frequent closet "with a window in it."

In any event, attic or no attic, things have come out that have the attic salt—the old book, the dress sister wore at Ethel's wedding, the art nouveau that once attracted by its strangeness, the singular table that trembled on its legs, the object d'art at which the family limousine now shies violently and trembles in every limb.

The attic may go, but the attic spirit remains. Somebody in the world somewhere, wants these things. They come now and are "snapped up." If there is no attic in the modern home, there must be something that corresponds to it. It is a big closet somewhere, or is there a room at the top that still gathers the odds and ends?—Minneapolis Journal.

Lloyd George Looks To New Britain After the War

He is Urging All Classes To Consider Now What Future Era Will Be—Warns All Elements of Need For Mutual Concessions—Shocks Are Predicted

Judson C. Wellver, London representative of the New York Sun, makes this forecast regarding reconstruction in Britain after the war: "If England is as willing to follow David Lloyd George after the war as it is now, it is certain to experience many revolutionary, social and industrial changes. The premier is being continually strengthened by constant testimonies that the nations allied with England consider him the real intellectual and moral leader of the whole entente power."

"The premier has in mind that he is going to reform both the Tory capitalists and the extreme labor elements. The ideal of industrial democracy almost comes early into the conversations of those men who are credited with most influencing the premier and most accurately understanding what is going on in his very active brain.

"While he was minister of munitions, Mr. Lloyd George learned a lot of things about the narrowness, the unreasonableness and the bigotry of trade unionism as it is organized today. It is a common observation that the two most illiberal forces in England are the Tory capitalists and the extreme labor elements. Yet if England is to be restored to its industrial and commercial preeminence the restoration must be accomplished through an intelligent and mutual advantageous co-operation of these two forces.

"Mr. Lloyd George, while at the ministry of munitions indicated rapidly that he had become imbued with a perception of exactly this situation. He is anxious as any man that the condition of the working class should be improved. He has no more sympathy for the Tory capitalists than he has for the 'Little Welsh lawyer' he prepared, introduced, and fought his political career upon and fought to victorious acceptance his now famous budget.

"Likewise he has no less sympathy for the men who work with their hands and brains, and when occasion demands likewise fight with their hands and brains, to maintain British leadership in the world. But he has become convinced, seemingly, that neither of these classes has all the right on its side; that neither of them is capable of organizing a programme that will be ideal and that in fact the long future must be to a considerable extent forced upon both these groups of irreconcilables."

speech of March 6, which has recently been made public, is that which assumes that the premier is warning all elements of the need for mutual concessions and for a very liberal disposition. He wants them all to realize that the national interest is superior even in peace times to the interest of any class; just as everybody has recognized it to be in war times. The premier seems to have in mind a good deal of readjustment that is going to shock Radicals and Tories about equally. He believes that it is going to be good for both.

This speech of March 6 has a ring in it that is reminiscent of the Lloyd George of budget times, defying all critics, insisting upon his own experiment, demanding a fair chance to try new things even though these may not entirely satisfy any particular faction.

Mr. Lloyd George does not intend to turn the country over to the capitalists nor to put its enterprises too far under the control of the Laborites. Just as in America the interest of the public has come to be regarded as superior to that of either the "producer" or the "consumer," so Mr. Lloyd George has been formulating a theory that in England the interest of the nation and the employee must have precedence over that of either capital or labor. His scheme of reorganization after the war, which he frankly characterizes as an "audacity," is likely to be regarded as audacious from the standpoint of either of the elements he is trying to reconcile.

Here are some of the things Mr. Lloyd George said in his address to the labor deputies:

"The country will be prepared for bigger things immediately after the war than it will be when it begins to resume the normal sort of selfish interests which always comes with the ordinary workaday business affairs and concerns of the world. I believe the country will be in a more enthusiastic mood, in a more exalted mood, for the time being, than it has been for some time. I believe it will pass away. Therefore, you are doing well in giving your time and thought to considering, and considering deeply, and considering on a bold scale, on a daring scale, what you are going to do after the war.

"I am not afraid of the audacity of these proposals. I believe the settlement after the war will succeed in proportion to its audacity. I just drop that as a hint, and I hope the working class will not be the class that will get such a example, because if every class insists on getting back to pre-war conditions then God help this country! I say so in all solemnity. "Therefore, what I should be looking forward to I am certain, if I could have presumed to have been the adviser of the working classes, would be this: I should say to them audacity is the thing for you. Think out new ways; think out new methods; think out not even new ways of dealing with old problems. When You Market Consider Your Less Fortunate Neighbor.

"Every citizen who uses more in his household than his household actually needs is increasing the cost of living for those less fortunate, and he is hindering the prosecution of the war."

—Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance.

THE well-to-do woman who sits at her phone and orders provisions lavishly, regardless of price, is abusing the power of money as a bully abuses brute strength!

No longer can we help ourselves as we see fit from an unlimited food supply—we are either limiting our buying to our own real needs or "hogging" someone else's share.

Extravagant buying by those who can afford it, with waste in some kitchens, and excess at some tables, will inevitably bring still greater hardships to those who cannot afford the prices, and hunger to those who must live on less.

Buy for your household as carefully and economically as your husband buys for his factory, store or office. Study food values as well as prices—make it a point to know just what you are getting—eliminate waste—and you'll find that you can feed your family well on far less than you spend now.

Invest the saving in Canadian War Savings Certificates and you will be doubling your service to the nation.

War Savings Certificates are issued in denominations of $25, $50 and $100, to be repaid in three years at full face value. They cost $21.50, $43 and $86 respectively, at all Money Order Post Offices and Banks, thus yielding over 5% interest.

ITALY'S MUTILATED SOLDIERS

Crippled Heroes Are Taught Trades by Which They May Gain a Living - The Work at Villa Mirafiori, Rome

Villa Mirafiori in Rome, the former residence of the American Academy, has generously been placed at the disposal of the government for the use of mutilated soldiers ever since the beginning of the war. The lovely position of Villa Mirafiori, situated outside of Porta Pia on the Via Nomentana in the midst of large shady grounds, makes it a charming place for the soldiers to spend their time of confinement. The Villa has been thoroughly equipped with all modern medical and surgical conveniences, its large halls and rooms being turned into dormitories, operating rooms, laboratories, etc.

Thanks to modern methods of science and to recent orthopedic improvements, there is the possibility today of rendering the mutilated less handicapped than formerly. Their so-called re-education, which is giving excellent results, is largely to the skillful and untiring enterprise of its director, Prof. Della Vedova and Prof. Guadagni, who have interpreted most admirably the needs of the mutilated soldiers, the majority of whom have lost a leg or arm and sometimes more than one limb.

Besides the most improved therapeutic treatment, the soldiers are given also technical instruction to prepare them for different trades, and there are also courses in general culture, including language lessons and bookkeeping for those desiring them. For this purpose laboratories and workshops have been provided, and in these the soldiers who are convalescent are being taught carpentry and carving, book-binding, boys-making and saddlery, and other leather work, besides the trades of blacksmith, shoemaker and tailor.

Much importance is given also to agricultural work and gardening, the ground around the Villa being entirely cared for by the soldiers themselves. The directors study carefully the adaptability of each man to the trade chosen. The men work about seven hours a day, and while apprentices, receive a small reward for their labor, the wage varying according to their capabilities. The government also allows each mutilated soldier one franc a day as an encouragement besides the pension to which he will be entitled.

All the work of these soldiers is worthy of the highest praise and admiration. Carved furniture, saddles and shoes, boxes and mosaic work are being made for outside orders. Not only that, but they may be said to manufacture their own arms and legs, and the state of perfection to which these have been brought is quite wonderful. Ingeniously-made iron pinchers or clamps of different forms, according to different needs, are applied with straps and bands to the stump of the arm or to the wooden arm, and sometimes fastened also on the shoulder.

On these wide pinchers or clamps are holes of different sizes, and catches for the screwing on of the working instruments. With this arrangement a man is able to use almost any tool and can even hold a pen. Thus a carpenter's clamp is made for holding hammer, saw and plane, etc., while that for a farmer enables him to use a scythe, sickle, reaper or pair of shears.

When they first enter Villa Mirafiori the mutilated soldiers have to undergo a minute medical examination, of which a careful record is kept. They are weighed, measured and put under X-ray examination, massage and heliotherapeutic treatment usually following. Eight voluntary Red Cross nurses aid the doctors in this department.

First the men are given temporary limbs made of felt and hardened plaster, which they sometimes wear two and three months; afterwards, when the physical condition of the injured part allows it, they undergo the application of their fixed limb, made of wood and leather, which permits articulation and free movements. With these they are able to walk so naturally after a while that one scarcely detects the difference between nature's own and science's contrivance.

A jolly group of soldiers was walking to the dining-hall for their dinner when I was visiting the place, and a nurse called my attention to one of them who had lost both feet, but who was walking ever so well with his two new wooden ones. One of his comrades, noticing my look of interest, jolly laughed out and said, with his rich southern accent: "Well, at least he won't be sensitive about people stepping on his toes any more; mine are always in the way." Another jokingly added: "He won't be bothered with chills either!" Their cheerful spirit and happy disposition, even when maimed for life, are but a confirmation of the ever-buoyant and optimistic nature of the Italian soldiers.

They are usually kept at the Villa about six months, but the time is prolonged if one desires to perfect himself further in a trade. Much attention and solicitude are bestowed on these invalided men by Her Majesty Queen Elena, who takes great pains to provide for them every possible comfort and recreation, organizing entertainments and fetes for them in the Royal Palace. Her personal interest and sympathy have left deep impression in many a soldier's heart for the devotion with which, as an angel of mercy, she dedicates time and strength to the mitigation of the suffering caused by the war. She is the noble and worthy companion of the first soldier of Italy, that well-known figure who is at the front sharing unobtrusively with his soldiers the hardships of the war.

Italy's King and Queen stand out as noble examples of concerted love for the nation, and are indeed an inspiration and incentive to the country.

SOME FOOD PROBLEMS.

Discussion in Which Reference is Made to Pigs and Tobacco.

In the general effort to increase the food production of the country there has been much talk about the best directions in which individual and collective effort may be expended. In the way of increasing the meat supply, some of the agricultural authorities have been urging people to pay more attention to pork.

Pigs, we are told, are in the most practical way the most grateful of all animals. They make better use of the food that is given them. For every four or five pounds of dry matter which pigs eat they put on a pound of flesh, while for every pound added to the weight of cattle ten or twelve pounds of food is required.

But this is not the full extent of the pig's gratitude. He gives larger measure of himself to the sustenance of the human race. When dressed the pig yields from seventy to eighty per cent of its live weight as edible meat, whereas a steer gives only fifty-five or sixty per cent. Moreover, a pig occupies less room than any other meat-producing animal, and according to the popular view needs much less attention. But, of course, these are facts that are not of much interest to back-yard gardeners in cities.

Another much-discussed problem in connection with this question is the extent to which productive land should be diverted from its ordinary uses, and turned to some more urgent need. The situation naturally affords a fine chance for the anti-tobacco agitators. William Powick of Pen Argyl, Penn., unburdened himself in a communication to his favorite newspaper as follows:

"Sir—Why not prohibit tobacco raising? What is tobacco good for but to kill lice on roses? We need to multiply the acreage of foodstuffs and are enlisting and mobilizing farm labor to this end. Why not, then, forbid the tillage of harmful and wasteful plants as a war measure? 'Bread or tobacco' is about as pertinent a slogan as 'Bread or booze,' and as worthy of governmental regulation in the time of stress before war."

If it came to a personal pinch there can be little doubt that most users of the weed would not hesitate very long over a choice between bread and tobacco. Perhaps in this time of stress the question is one that ought to be thoughtfully considered among measures for the general welfare. But at present Mr. Powick's suggestion seems of greater interest as evidence of his own prejudiced viewpoint as to the merits of tobacco. His line "What is tobacco good for but to kill lice on roses?" is a literary gem to kill lice on roses?" is a literary gem worthy of a place in "Bartlett's Quotations" with the other utterances on the subject.

From the closing of the sixteenth century down to these days of Mr. Powick and Dr. Pease, tobacco has inspired the literary and oratorical articulation of countless poets, philosophers and reformers. Probably one's views of tobacco and its uses depend not only upon one's personal habits, but largely also upon whether one happens to be a poet, a philosopher, or a reformer by temperament.—Providence Journal.

WOULD BE A NATIONAL BLESSING

(From the Sydney Record.)

Some newspapers in Upper Canada are much given to dwelling upon the fact, or what they believe to be the fact at all events, that maritime province people "take their politics very seriously." They point this out as a difference between Upper Canadian and maritime province citizens. They may be right, but there are other differences, too. Through many of their people, Ontario and Quebec are continually squabbling over religious and racial questions. It is an open question as to which province is the more to blame. Certainly, between the two of them, they have created bitterness which has had its influence in other provinces. In the maritime provinces there is more than one race. But these provinces are virtually free from the bitter wrangles of Upper Canada. There is the best of feeling between the English-speaking people and the Acadians, and Protestants and Catholics worship their different ways without difficulty arising between them. If this condition can obtain only where people "take their politics very seriously," a little more seriousness in Ontario and Quebec would be a national blessing.

SUGGESTS FEDERAL TAX ON PLEASURE CARS

(Toronto Saturday Night)

This country is fast becoming motor mad. At a time when we preach economy a large proportion of our population is spending its surplus (when it is not running into debt) on joy riding. People are mortgaging their homes and their future solvency for the pleasure of owning motor cars. Clerks and salesmen whose incomes would not average twelve or fifteen hundred per year are putting themselves in the position of spending per annum at least one-third of this sum on gasoline and "up-keep." The time was when the motor car was considered the rich man's pleasure. It has now developed into the poor man's folly. Of course, later on the entire country is going to suffer from this motoritis. The next eggs which should be put into war bonds or other good securities out of the surplus which has come the way of the people through an extraordinary, and one may say, temporary prosperity, are being dissipated in motors, repairs, tires, gasoline and oil. It seems to me that the finance minister has, in this motor craze, an excellent source of revenue which up to this time has been sadly neglected. A federal tax on motor vehicles, other than those used for commercial purposes, graded say from $25 per annum up, according to horse power, with a federal tax of five or ten cents a gallon on gasoline and twenty or twenty-five cents a gallon on oil used by pleasure cars, would be a thoroughly legitimate source of revenue, and one which would bring into the federal treasury a substantial sum of money at a time when it is very badly needed. Surely if a man is able to sport around in a pleasure car in war time, he can afford to pay a considerable sum to the federal government for the privilege. It may be pointed out that in the United States a special federal tax is now being levied against motor pleasure vehicles, and we could not do better than follow their example.

WHEN AUNT HANNA GOES SHOPPING

(From the Toronto Star.)

The cans which the packers use in putting up vegetables and fruits are costing the packers $17.25 instead of $11.15 a thousand, which was the price last year. The "big increase" is spoken of as indicating still higher prices for canned goods this year. This "big increase" amounts to two-thirds of a cent on each tin. But it will probably serve as an excuse for an increase of five cents per tin on canned goods as bought by the consumer. But the consumer is in a new position now. Hon. W. J. Hanna is food controller, and with him on the job, canned goods can no longer be priced entirely to suit the desire of the canners. When Aunt Hanna goes shopping the prices will have to be explained and justified. There is a shortage of tin. But the tin-can supply is not so very short as yet, and from now on no excuse for hoisting prices will pass muster unless it proves on examination to be a good one.

"THE BLACK BUTTERFLY"

This picture is based on the war in Europe, shows Paris as it was before the war and as it is today. There are exceptional elements of love enacted by this greatest of emotional stars. The play is exactly suited to Mme. Petrova, and she has given it her own title, "The Black Butterfly." One of the remarkable scenes in the picture is the famous battle of the Marne, where Von Kluck's invading army were turned back and Paris saved. Another scene is that of a den of Paris Apaches, where they drink, dance and dine. Into this sordid scene steps Mme. Petrova looking like a lily shining in a cellar.

The climax to this wonderful play shows the woman as a Red Cross nurse on the battlefield meeting the man who she believes has ruined her life, and she gives up her blood in a transfusion operation so that he may be saved to fight for his country.

Omar Khayyam Wins Great Race

Defeats "Hourless" in Brooklyn Derby; Was Reluctant to Race and Appeared Sulky

New York, July 12—Omar Khayyam, an imported colt by Marco-Lima, and owned by Wilfrid Viau, a former Montreal resident, captured the three-year-old racing laurels of the season when he won the Brooklyn Derby at Aqueduct in a decisive manner. The seal was set on the greatness of Omar Khayyam by the brief sentence at the end of the summary: "Hourless also ran." Those three words were prophetic in their import, for until today Hourless has been considered the price colt of his year and suffered his first defeat of the season when he trailed in many lengths behind the brilliant chestnut that carried the purple and white stripes of the Montreal sportsman. Since the great Hanover won the Brooklyn in the first running in 1887 it is probable that no better race horse than Omar Khayyam has achieved victory in this classic.

There was a dispiriting setting for the race, which promised to be the greatest three-year-old event of the year—the first meeting of the winner of the Withers and the Belmont with the victor in the Kentucky Derby. Heavy rain all the morning discouraged turf patrons, who knew from experience that

T. E. Powers Now Lieut. Colonel

Major T. E. Powers has been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

Lieut.-Col. T. E. Powers commenced his career in the artillery of the militia forces of Canada. After serving some time in this branch of service he took up the study of signalling and in a short time became an expert in the art and was put in command of the signallers for the maritime provinces. He was among the first to volunteer for active service and went to Valcartier, where he trained under the command of Major J. Lister, who was in charge of the signallers of the first contingent.

Lieut.-Col. Powers relinquished his rank as major in order to get overseas, going as lieutenant. He and Lieut. Alvin Leavitt were in the same unit. He was one of the few Canadian officers to pass through both Ypres battles and for carrying on under heavy fighting was awarded the D.S.O. and was also mentioned in Sir Max Aitken's dispatches as well as his book "Canada in Flanders." He was returned to Canada on leave and for some time was engaged in instruction work. Later he was placed in command of the Base Signalling Depot, situated at Lansdowne Park, Ottawa. Here he has about five hundred men under him, from which drafts are sent to the front.

POLICE COURT.

In the police court yesterday, Thomas Murphy was charged with the theft of a dog from Frank Foster, of 141 Victoria street. The case was set over until Monday. The case of George A. Cameron, charged with violating the prohibitory act, which was to have come up yesterday afternoon, was again postponed. Percy Stillwell and Grant Gregory, charged with exceeding the speed limit with their automobiles in Main street, were each fined $10.

The case of Mrs. Isabella McKay, charged with having wilfully neglected her eight-year-old son, was concluded in the police court yesterday afternoon. The case for the defence was conducted by W. E. McMonagle, who appeared for E. J. Henneberry, who was engaged in the supreme court. His honor, in the course of the hearing, said that he wished it understood that there was nothing against the defendant excepting that she had neglected the child from 7 o'clock Saturday evening until 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The defendant was allowed to go on condition that she furnished the court with a certificate from her clergyman. Mr. McMonagle was congratulated by the clerk of the court on his first appearance before the court and on the manner in which he had handled the defence.

The public works department has completed the two retaining walls in Clarendon street, the southern one of which has been built to conform with the request of the property owner, Miss Grace Murphy. The department has started at work on the Simonds street wall.

Kaiser Dashes Around In Train Constantly

He Has No Settled Headquarters But Keeps on the Jump - Afraid of Air Raids - Very Much Depressed by Bad News - What His Train is Like

(By a Neutral Military Attaché.) The Kaiser has no settled headquarters. Since the outbreak of the war he has kept continually on the move, rarely staying more than a week at any place and often only a day. But the place, wherever the Emperor may chance to be, is the official German headquarters.

The Emperor has spent a considerable portion of his time in the imperial train since the outbreak of war - indeed, it might be regarded as his most permanent headquarters. I was taken over by a Dr. Von Niedner, one of the doctors of the imperial household, while the Emperor was at Neustadt.

It consists of five saloon coaches, two kitchen coaches, a cable car, six sleeping coaches, and five luggage wagons. Two saloons - one used as a smoking parlor and the other as a dining room - are used respectively as a car for the Emperor and for the Emperor's private servants.

The Kaiser has not ceased since the outbreak of the war to satisfy his never-ending desire for holding great military functions, and the giving of elaborate and costly banquets. Dr. Niedner, who told me of this, was severely criticized by the Emperor's master of ceremonies.

"In these days," he said, "when the most dire distress is in many parts of Germany and sorrow is everywhere, that the Emperor should give those costly banquets is a most regrettable thing, and one that would fill many people with indignation if they knew of it."

The Emperor is greatly affected by the character of the news he receives. If it is bad he is often profoundly depressed by it, if it is good he is wildly overjoyed.

No news during the past eighteen months had a more depressing effect on him than the announcement of the destruction of the Zeppelins in the air attack on England last November.

The Kaiser was at Cologne when the English official announcement of the destruction of the two airships reached him.

Often Much Depressed. In the morning he had a message from the German Admiralty informing him that an attack had been made on his fleet by six airships, but that only four had returned. The receipt of this news did not much disturb the Emperor, but it was a common enough thing for some airships of a raiding squadron to return to their base much later than others.

But when the Kaiser learnt the contents of English communications he was deeply affected. On returning to his headquarters he went to the room used as his private writing room where all the latest war news was put on typed slips on a long board covered with green silk.

He glanced quickly at the slip headed "English Official." Captain Weissenrode and Dr. Niedner were standing just behind him when he read it. He turned to them and said: "That is very bad news - very bad news." Then he dropped into a chair and sat in silence.

He was to have dined that night with a General Winterfeldt, who was in charge of the military district at Cologne, but he sent a message to him to say he regretted he could not go, and dined in his private room at headquarters. Captain Weissenrode and Dr. Niedner dined with him, and the Emperor scarcely touched his dinner. He talked the whole while of the destruction of the Zeppelins.

"It means," he said after a long pause, and speaking very slowly, "the destruction of something more than the two airships. If our airships can be brought down as easily as the English appear to be able to bring them down now, it means that our air squadrons have become useless as a weapon of attack."

The Emperor telegraphed to Count Zeppelin to come to see him, but the Count was ill and could not come; perhaps he did not wish to see the Emperor just then! The whole of the next day the Emperor remained in a deeply depressed condition; he ate nothing at all, but drank a lot of coffee and occasional liqueurs, and smoked incessantly.

Afraid of Air Raids. In the evening Generals Ludendorff and Von Falkenhayn arrived to have a conference with the Emperor. "Their arrival," said Dr. Niedner, "made him forget for a moment about the loss of Zeppelin and saved him, I believe, from a most nervous breakdown."

The Emperor has a great horror of being caught in an air raid. This is a besetting fear with him, when at any place that is in the least likely to be bombed by allied airmen.

Once the Kaiser said to Dr. Niedner: "I cannot imagine a more horrible death than to be killed in a house when it is being bombed by airmen."

The Emperor has frequently expressed the wish to witness the bombardment of London or other big English city by Zeppelins.

The Kaiser at one time every week, wherever he was, used to receive full reports from different centres in Germany relating to the state of the food supplies for the civilian population.

On one occasion the Kaiser, after spending the greater part of the forenoon in going through the food reports, flung the papers from him in a rage, and turning around to one of his secretaries exclaimed: "Oh, curse the people! If they can't get food they must starve!"

The secretary repeated the remark to some of the Emperor's equerries, and the story got about. It was printed in a Socialist paper in Cologne, with the result that the Emperor was imprisoned and the paper closed down.

The story was no doubt the direct cause of the riot that occurred at Cologne last May when the troops fired on the rioters, killing half a dozen.

There is no doubt from all I heard that the Kaiser has keenly felt the loss of Germany's colonies. "To our colonies!" is a toast that is drunk every night at the Kaiser's headquarters. From all I heard it appears to have taken the place for the moment, at all events, of the famous toast of "Der Tag" which formerly was drunk at the Kaiser's headquarters.

Arthur's Note - One of the outstanding paradoxes of the current war is the fact that not from soldiers in camp, or quarters, or trench, or on blood-drenched battlefields are heard any word or chant of hate against the Hun. The poem of blood-lust and of dire vengeance is invented by the civilian non-combatants who stay in safety at home, and know not that amongst the Hun armies there are hosts of men who have kind and tender hearts, who long for peace and the return to their family circles, who even on the battlefields, exchange greetings and give succor to wounded foes, and who, if they fight for wrong, as they do, conscientiously though not joyfully fight on because they must. There are, of course, profane execrations on both sides, under mighty emotional shocks or excitement. When one looks, as I have looked, on the unrecognizable form of a dead comrade, probably head down off his brain, or the appalling horror called war, or General Sherman's epigram, that war is hell, is an euphemistic lie on the latter. Hell is a metaphor for acute agonies; modern war is such a holocaust of horrors that it utterly rends the souls of those who have seen it. The following verses, written amid these horrors, envisage what I have actually witnessed, namely, Faith and Hope and Charity triumphing in places where war utterly ravaged all that was lovely in life and nature and Death was inlaid. This is the new apocalypse. - J. D. L.

When I beheld in march, through Picardy (Not pleasant Picardy of yore), The spectacles I saw in Picardy In Picardy despoiled by war, Were not alone the waste I thought would be, Nor only death I should abhor, But I beheld in town, in trench, on plain, What may not be on earth again. The forms of Faith and Hope and Charity Walk close with Death in Picardy. But near the ruined Chateau Brevisy I saw three wan-faced women fare, Amongst wayside graves, some sweet as holy nuns, And bless the tombs of martyred sons, Then I knew Faith had found safe sanctuary In widowed hearts in Picardy. The once fair fields of fertile Picardy (Oh, ruthless was the conqueror!) Stretched gray and fallow, far as I could see - Unploughed save by the shards of war. But when I passed beyond Sainte Emelle, I glimpsed an old man, bent and hoar, At work afield, while shells burst with their dread, Fell devils above his head, Thus Hope held fast, and wove earth's livery Of green and gold in Picardy. The wooded, winding roads in Picardy That echoed off to lovers' song, Are now rude, iron trails in Picardy, O'er which brave legions bear along To whom men die for Right and Liberty. And foemen die for Might and Wrong Amid that host of life innocents, I overheard no word of hate; But I saw Christ, in form as Charity, Speak peace unto Death in Picardy. SEVEN YEARS TORTURE

Nothing Helped Him Until He Took "FRUIT-A-LIVES"

ALBERT VARNER. Buckingham, Que., May 28, 1915. For seven years, I suffered terribly from Severe Headaches and had Indigestion. I went to several doctors and wrote to a specialist in Boston, but without benefit. I tried many remedies but nothing did me good. Finally, a friend advised "Fruit-a-Lives." I took this great fruit medicine and it made me well. I am grateful to "Fruit-a-Lives," and to everyone who has tolerable health with Constipation and Indigestion. Bad Stomach, I say take "Fruit-a-Lives," and you will get well. ALBERT VARNER. 50c. a box, 6 boxes for $2.00, trial 10c. circles, owes its wealth to Joseph Denton, who (the London Daily News says) was born at Leeds in 1728. His parents had no money to pay for schooling, so he taught himself to read and write during the intervals of his work as an errand boy. He then went to London, and secured a clerkship in the counting-house of John Dillon, a St. Mary Axe merchant. He worked his way up to a partnership, and John Dillon, falling sick, began business for himself, taking the Lonsborough family, one of whose members is marrying into royal old master as a clerk.

Nuxated Iron to Make New Age of Beautiful Women and Vigorous Iron Men

Say Physicians - Quickly Puts Roses Into the Cheeks of Women and Most Astonishing Youthful Vitality Into the Veins of Men - It Often Increases the Strength and Endurance of Delicate, Nervous "Run-Down" Folks 100 Per Cent. in Two Weeks' Time.

Opinions of Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City; Dr. Howard James, late of the Manhattan State Hospital of New York, and formerly Assistant Physician Brooklyn State Hospital, and Wm. R. Kerr, Former Health Commissioner, City of Chicago.

New York, N. Y. - Since the remarkable discovery of organic iron, Nuxated Iron or "Fer Nuxate," as the French call it, has taken the country by storm. It is conservatively estimated that over three million people annually are taking it in this country alone. Most astonishing results have been obtained by both physicians and laymen. So much so that doctors predict that we shall soon have a new age of iron men, beautiful, rosy-cheeked women and vigorous iron men.

Dr. Ferdinand King, a New York Physician and Medical Author, when interviewed on this subject, said: "There is no more vigorous iron man without iron. Pallor means anemia. Anemia means iron deficiency. The skin of iron-deficient men is pale; their eyes are feeble, their muscles lack tone; the brain fags and the memory fails and often they become weak, nervous, irritable, despondent and impatient. When the iron goes from the cheeks of women, the roses go from their cheeks."

In the common foods of America, the starches, sugars, table syrups, candies, polished rice, white bread, soups, cereals, macaroni, spaghetti, tapioca, sago, farina, degreased cornmeal, no longer is iron to be found. Hence, the iron which moved the iron of Mother Earth from these impoverished foods, and stilly moved down the waste pipe the water in which our vegetables are cooked, are responsible for another grave iron loss.

"Therefore, if you wish to preserve your youthful vim and vigor to a ripe old age, you must add to your diet a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while double their strength and endurance and entirely rid themselves of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this, after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit."

Dr. Schuyler C. Jaques, Visiting Surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York City, said: "I have never before given out any medical information or advice for publication as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But in the case of Nuxated Iron I feel I would be remiss in my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and given it to my patients with most surprising and satisfactory results. And those who wish to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

Dr. Howard James, late of the Manhattan State Hospital of New York, and formerly Assistant Physician Brooklyn State Hospital, said: "Nuxated Iron is a most surprising remedy. A patient of mine remarked to me (after having been on a six weeks' course of it): 'SAY, DOCTOR THAT THERE STUFF IS absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it, and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking, just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. THE REVENGE OF DIGNITY. (From the Springfield Union.) Cardinal Mercier in telling the governor general of Belgium that his priests will pay fine upon fine rather than give assistance to the Germans in carrying on their policy of deportation, says: "We are not speaking of our earthly vengeance. We have that already, for the regime of the Judgment of history, of the inevitable and of the God of justice." It takes more than the guns that silenced Liege to silence this great prelate and the simple truths he utters.
