The Streets.

They are Dangerous and in a Filthy Condition.

It is about a year since the ADVERTISER began an agitation for street reform. Considerable enthusiasm was stirred up, and for a time there was every indication that at an early date there would be a radical improvement. What was the result? That one vacant lot was, by private enterprise, wharfed up, filled in and a neat sidewalk constructed. In the face of the fact that many others along the west side of Main St. are infringing more or less on the street, this was a praiseworthy act, and a first rate initiative to a good movement. But the most needed reform is to come yet. And the authorities should see that it DOES come. To close up the dangerous gullies and driveways that infringe on the street should not be looked upon as a matter of mere condescension on the part of the land holders. The truth of the matter is that it is an outrage that conditions should remain as they are.

Stuff and garbage is thrown into the street so that the stench arising is enough to poison the atmosphere for miles around.

Of a truth it cannot be said that Hartland's pride is in its streets.

LATER

Since writing above the ADVERTISER has asked to announce a meeting of the citizens to be held next Tuesday evening in the Hose House to consider ways and means for raising funds for repairing the old and constructing new sidewalks.

The Reading Room.

The Reading Room, lately removed to the "Hartland House," is a decided success in as much as it is steadily frequented by that class of people in whose hands it is desirable that good literature be placed. Any evening many of our young boys may be found there, and they are, for the time at least, quiet and orderly. Granting that no good comes to them, it is certain that less harm can reach them there than in any other place outside their homes. It is just a year since Rev. John B. Gough, then pastor of the Methodist Church, wrote for the ADVERTISER the first plea for the Hartland Reading Room.

With regard to the Reading Room, however, there is one matter of regret. That is, so few adults visit the place.

Missionary Meeting.

On Tuesday evening there was a public meeting in the Methodist church in the interest of Home and Foreign missions. Rev's Dr. Chapman of Woodstock, and John Dystant were the chief speakers and they gave very interesting addresses. The music was good, on account of the rain not a great many attended the meeting.

Incendiarism.

Two Young Men Arrested on Suspicion

Last fall the house, outbuildings and farming machinery of Sidney Lloyd of Centreville, were completely destroyed by fire, and incendiarism was strongly suspected. Of late suspicion has been aroused against two young men, brothers, Crabb by name, and neighbors of Lloyd. So strong and well founded was the suspicion that Gaolor Jones and Deputy Sheriff Foster were summoned, and on Wednesday they arrested the fellows, who are 20 and 23 years of age. They were taken to Woodstock, passing through Hartland on the hobo Wednesday evening. They were examined by the Police Magistrate.

SAMUEL E. CAMPBELL.

Thursday morning one of Brightons best known citizens passed quietly away to his long rest. This was Samuel E. Campbell of Upper Brighton.

Last Friday morning he was suddenly struck with paralysis while building the morning fire. He never regained consciousness, Mr. Campbell was born in July 1828 and has lived rather a public life. For 10 years he sat at the Council board and at the time of his death held the office of supervisor of great roads for his district. In his younger days he was prominent in lumbering, riverboating, etc. and later became interested in milling.

Mr. Campbell was married twice: first to Sophia Day, by whom he had four children. His second wife, Elizabeth Miles, bore him three children. The deceased leaves one son, Howe; and three brothers, James Campbell of Hartland, John Campbell of Peel and Nelson Campbell of Boston, and one sister, Mrs Maurice Day of Somerville.

The funeral was held yesterday by Rev. A. H. Hayward.

The Shippers Meet.

There was a meeting of the "Shipper's Union" at Bath on Wednesday at which routine business was the chief occupation of the time. Committees that had been appointed were given an extension of time for completing their work.

H. D. Keswick was admitted as a member and J. T. G. Carr was elected vice president. The next meeting will be at East Florenceville sometime next week.

The benefits to be derived from the Union are manifold. To encourage the farmers to grow better stuff, to raise the standard of Carleton Co. production, and to get higher prices and lower freights are the chief objects.

Yukon Bill Killed!

The famous Yukon Railway bill was killed in the Senate by a vote of 52 to 14.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

Abby's Indigestion Tablets at Thisle's Drug Store, price 25cts.

"I'm troubled about that draft from the West," said the head of the firm. The office-boy hurriedly closed the transom and then looked as if he expected an immediate advance in salary.

R.P. & Co. have their spring suits and suitings in for men and boys, all latest styles.

He—The young lady doesn't look like a singer.

He—Doesn't sing like one, either.

Keith & Plummer have a small quantity of White Russian Wheat and Western White Cluster Oats (weight 42 lbs. per bush.) ordered for seed. Farmers wanting such seed better speak early.

Police Officer—You seem to be lost, my little man. Am I not right?

Willie (aged seven)—The perspicacity of the modern officer of the law is most wonderful.

Good morning! Have you seen the new wall papers at Carr's? They are beauties and the price is so low.

"I have a doctor's certificate here that I cannot sing to-night," said the prima donna.

"What?" roared the manager; "I'll give you a certificate that you never could sing."

Shaw & Dibblee have put in stock 1 car Purdy & Green Line, better known as Greenhead line, 1 car Ryan brick and 4 tons of celebrated Sherwin-Williams ready mixed paints.

Hiram Hayseed—B'gosh, continuous performance for a week only er quarter! Gee, I'd take that show in only I ain't goin' ter be in ther city but three days!

Trunks and valises for Klondykers C. Humphrey Taylor's.

"Which of Mr. Carrol's poems do you think evinces the boldest flight of imagination?"

"That in which he refers to himself as a poet."

Go to Watson's Hartland, for a fine parlor suit cheap, also a large stock of spring roller window shades for 25 cts

Her Adorer—May I marry your daughter, sir?

Her Father—What do you want to marry for? You don't know when you are well off.

Her Adorer—No, perhaps not; but I know when you're well off.

Have you tried Dragon Blend Tea? It is the best Tea on the market.

He—I'd like to see that sixteen-inch gun which is being made for the defence of New York harbor.

She—So should I. I had no idea any of those guns were as short as that.

Look at our "Royal Canadian Wringers" at $3.50, it is a beauty and so easily attached to the tub; we have cheaper wringers too. Shaw & Dibblee.

"I don't know which is worse," muttered young blunderheels at the swell reception, retreating to a corner and wiping his perspiring brow; "but I believe I would rather be run over by a train than to step on one!"

Tobique plaster for sale at Carr's.

Professor—How would you punctuate this sentence? "Miss Wood, a pretty girl of eighteen, walked down Fifth Avenue."

Young Student—I would make a dash after "Miss Wood."

Shaw & Dibblee say their two tin pails for 22 cents are genuine hand made pails, and that they are not in the same class as the cheap factory made tumble down stuff.

Patient—Doctor, is it dangerous for a person to go into the water after a hearty meal?

Doctor—No, but there is no occasion for it. There's plenty of restaurants on 'dry land.'

Driver's Boot Calks. Shaw & Dibblee.

The Secret of Longevity.

Sir James Sawyer, a well known physician of Birmingham, England, has been confiding to an audience in that town the secret of longevity. Keep the following 19 commandments, and Sir James sees no reason why you should not live to be 100:

1. Eight hours' sleep.
2. Sleep on your right side.
3. Keep your bedroom window open all night.
4. Have a mat to your bedroom door.
5. Do not have your bedstead against the wall.
6. No cold tub in the morning, but a bath at the temperature of the body.
7. Exercise before breakfast.
8. Eat little meat and see that it is well cooked.
9. (For adults) Drink no milk.
10. Eat plenty of fat to feed the cells which destroy disease germs.
11. Avoid intoxicants, which destroy those cells.
12. Daily exercise in the open air.
13. Allow no pet animals in your living rooms. They are apt to carry about disease germs.
14. Live in the country if you can.
15. Watch the three D's—drinking water, damp and drains.
16. Have change of occupation.
17. Take frequent and short holidays.
18. Limit your ambition.
19. Keep your temper.

Blue Blood.

The origin of the term "blue blood" is most suggestive. After the black Moors were driven out of Spain, the aristocracy of Spain was held to consist of those who traced their lineage back to the time before the Moorish conquest. These people were whiter than those who had been mixed with Moorish blood. The veins upon their white hands were blue, while the blood of the masses, contaminated by the Moorish infusion, showed black upon their hands and faces. So the white Spaniards of the old race came to declare that their blood was "blue," while that of the common people was black. The phrase passed to France, where it had no such significance and was, in fact, quite arbitrary, and thence it came to England and America.

THE LITTLE WOMAN.

Don't talk to me of Olympus' maids,
"Divinely tall or fair,"
Of Cleopatra's imperious form,
Or Juno's stately air.
Those mighty dames, with redoubted names,
May erst have held their sway;
Tis the little woman—bless her heart!—
Who rules the world to day.

With her willful, witching, winsome ways,
Her artful, artless smiles;
Her airy grace and her fairy face,
Her wisdom, wit, and wiles:
She mocks the pride, and she sways the strength.
She bends the will of man,
As only such a despotic elf—
A little woman—can.

Though her pathway lead thro' the darkest,
way,
She always finds a light;
Though her eyes be dazzled by fortune's rays,
She's sure to see aright;
Though her wisdom be of no special school,
Her logic, "just because,"—
The first has settled a kingdom's fate,
The last has made its laws.

Tis the little woman that goes ahead
When men would lag behind;
The little woman who sees her chance,
And always knows her mind;
Who can stily smile as she gives the word
To honor, love, obey,
And mentally add the saving clause
In a little woman's way.

Would the diamond seem such a perfect gem
If it measured one foot round?
Would the rose-leaf yield such a sweet perfume
If it covered yards of ground?
Would the dew-drops seem so clear and pure
If dew like rain should fall?
Or the little woman seem half so great
If she were six feet tall?

Tis the hand as soft as the nestling bird
That grips the grip of steel;
Tis the voice as low as the summer wind
That rules without appeal;
And the warrior, scholar, saint, and sage
May fight and plan each day,
The world will wag till the end of time
In the little woman's way.

Three Lives Saved.

Two Parisian gendarmes were walking along the banks of the Canal d'Ourcq one day a few weeks ago, says the Gazette Anecdotique, when they came across a beautiful Russian deerhound, evidently astray. On his collar was nothing except what was evidently his name—"Dimitri."

Tying a stout cord to his neck, policemen led him along with them, meaning to take him to the pound. Destiny seemed to be luring him to his death, for unless he were claimed within a week or two, he would surely be asphyxiated according to law.

Suddenly the trio arrived at Quai de la Marne, where a large crowd had collected. A child had fallen into the water and was drowning, while its mother was running up and down crying in agony:

"Oh, save my child! Who will save my child?"

Finally a man named Emil Nolle jumped into the stream and swam out to the boy. Encumbered with his clothing, he was seized with a frantic grasp by the struggling child, and both were disappearing, to the horror of the spectators, when like a flash of light "Dimitri" sprang into the canal. He had bitten his rope through.

In two minutes the drowning pair were at the side of the canal, where willing hands drew them from the water. In the excitement of the work of resuscitation, the bystanders forgot the dog. When at last they looked around for him, he had disappeared. His captors never saw him again, and there were three lives saved.

More Osteopathy.

A member of the Legislature, one who favored the bill incorporating the osteopaths, said Friday that he believed the fight would be renewed next year and that the apostles of the new science would be on hand in force, prepared to fight the bill. He looks for the coming to this province during the year of two or three practitioners of this school and says they will appear before the Legislature next year, meet the old school practitioners and fully explain the science.—Globe.

A car load of nice hemlock boards and a car load of shingles this week at Shaw & Dibblee's.

McAdam Notes.

It seems about settled that McAdam is to have a handsome station shortly. The sight, it is said, will be below where the repair shops are now, a considerable distance removed from the present site. Work will be commenced shortly. It is said that there is not a vacant house in McAdam. There are two schools, one taught by Mr. Perkins and another by Miss Hoyt. The junction house changes hands the first of the month. Mr. Matthew is leaving and it is said that Colin Campbell, of Woodstock, will likely be his successor.—Dispatch.

FRED H. STEVENS, - Editor & Publish
HARTLAND, Carleton Co., N. B.

P. O. Box, 17.

One of the striking features of business methods in Canada is what may be termed the premeditated effort to sell goods as near the margin of cost as is possible.

This peculiarity is not boon of any love for humanity; it is the offspring of a jealous desire to grab all the nuts in the jar. In other words, to do all the business, and leave not even the crumbs for competitors. It is the very opposite to the spirit of live and let live.

No business man is entitled to an exorbitant profit on the goods he sells, but every business man, in justice to himself, in justice to his creditors, is entitled to a fair profit.

There are no figures extant showing how many business men fail because they sell their wares at prices which do not return them a fair profit, but the number is undoubtedly large.

Goods should never be sold below cost except when they have become shop worn, out of date, or damaged. Then business common sense declares they should be marked down to a figure that will insure their sale.

It is better to make 15 per cent profit on $1000 worth of goods than 5 per cent on $2000 worth of goods. And yet there are a good many merchants who appear to lose sight of this fact in their eagerness to get business.

Business is business. Selling an article at a lower figure than it should be sold at is not business, it is foolishness.

It takes backbone to stand firm for a price which is just and reasonable, but it pays

Anglo-American Unity.

Our Poet Laureate has just produced another poem which is published this week for the first time. It was sent by special cable to the New York Herald.

What is the voice I hear,
On the wind of the Western Sea?
Sentinel, listen from out Cape Clear,
And say what the voice may be.
'Tis a proud, free people calling loud to a people loud and free.

'And it says to listen, 'Kinsmen, hail!
We severed have been too long;
Now let us have done with a wornout tale,
The tale of an ancient wrong,
And our friendship last long as love doth
last, and be stronger than death is strong.'

Answer them, sons of the self same race,
And blood of the selfsame clan,
Let us speak with each other face to face,
And answer as man to man,
And loyally love and trust each other as none but free men can.

Now fling them out to the breeze,
Shamrock, thistle and rose,
And the Star-Spangled Banner unfurl with these,

A message to friends and foes,
Wherever the sails of peace are seen and wherever the war winds blows.

A message to bond and thrall to wake,
For wherever we come, we twain,
The throne of the tyrant shall rock and quake
And his menace be void and vain,
For you are lords of a strong young land,
and we are lords of the main.

Yes, this is the voice on the bluff March gale
'We severed have been too long;
But now we have done with a wornout tale,
The tale of an ancient wrong,
And our friendship last long as love doth
last and be stronger than death is strong.'

There is a great exodus of our young men to British Columbia. On Monday five young fellows from Waterville, and on Tuesday Thos. G. Simms of Windsor, Issac Withrow Knowlesville, and Merrill Bubor of Rockland, departed.

On March 22nd. Mrs. Albert Grant, died at her residence, Four Falls, Victoria Co. She leaves a husband and five children, the youngest two and a half years of age. The funeral was attended by Rev. H. D. Worden.

The old adage, "in like a lamb; out like a lion" was beautifully exemplified by the career of the month of March. It was not only "in like a lamb" but remained as such throughout until the very last day, when a good old fashioned storm set in.

St. John Sun: Postmaster Hanington a few days ago made an announcement that if there were a John D. Duff he desired to see him. John D. Duff of Fairville, blacksmith, answered the call learned of the death of an uncle and that he was one of the ten heirs to an estate of about $10,000.

A painful incident of Mr. Gladstone's illness has been his bombardment by uninvited spiritual advisers. Not a mail reaches his residence without containing a shower of chapters of the Old or New Testaments, extracts from the lives of scriptural personages, or isolated texts, hymns, poems, etc.

A Rockland correspondent says: In order to make it clear that the religious interests of this place are well looked after, I have but to say that H. J. Shaw and J. W. S. Young have been holding revival services in connection with the Baptist Church five or six weeks and for about two weeks Rev. J. J. Barnes has been holding similar services in the F. C. B. Church and as a result the former have baptised fifteen and the latter five candidates with a prospect for more. Especially are the results encouraging since the F. C. Baptist, in keeping with the spirit of reform and advancement characteristic of the age have joined the Orserites.

EAST FALLS.

Muddy roads are now the order of the day. Oh, for the completion of the sidewalk.

Miss Louise Hume who has been visiting friends at the Celestial, returned home on Tuesday.

Some of our local merchants are now conspicuous by their absence, rumor says they have gone to Klondyke.

On Sunday night some miscreant broke in the station house and after making a careful search had to make his exit without much to repay him for his trouble, the thieves also entered A. C. Smith & Co. warehouse and gained entrance to the office. Very little success attended their efforts in this case. The C. P. R. have offered a reward of fifty dollars for information that will lead to the arrest of the guilty ones.

We have not heard for some time the rumblings of the Election Flour Mill that was to be completed this spring. Nor is there any sign of an election the coming summer. The Hartland bridge and the Flour Mill are not likely to be the topics of conversation the next few months. Talk is cheap, but it takes money to buy oats.

A large number of our farmers are busily engaged gathering the sap. Nelson can show them all a wrinkle when it comes to boiling down.

On Saturday evening last, the ladies of this place who are interested in Forestry assembled in force at Foresters hall and surprised the members by spreading before them a well filled table and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Our Court is in a very prosperous condition and no doubt the deep interest taken by our ladies has, to some extent, materially aided us in the work. Why shouldn't they?

Mr. O. R. Merritt has spending some days in Woodstock, assisting Rev. Mr. Rathge in holding special meetings.

D. S. Jones has purchased a building lot near the railway crossing, and intends building soon. He has sold his present establishment to G. F. DeLong.

Mr. Charles Whitney, who was struck by the "Hobo" train a few days ago and receive a severe shaking up is recovering from the shock, and is able to be around again.

Mr. George Davis had the ends of two fingers taken of a few days ago while working in the factory, by having them caught in a cogwheel.

Rev. A. H. Hayward went up to Sisson Ridge today, to assist Mr. D. F. Mellen who is holding revival meeting there and expects to baptize a number while there.

WEST SIDE NOTES.

The sap-fly and mud, those true harbingers of spring and bad roads, have put in an appearance on the West Side.

The ice in the river is fast becoming dangerous for travel and it will not be long until Capt. Shaw will again have his boats on her trucks, and we ask,—"Is it for the last time?" From present indications we judge that by this time in 1899 the Hartland ferries will be ancient history.

Ed. Kenney made a trip up country Saturday, returning Monday.

PROSPECTS FOR DRIVING.

The Upper St. John Lumbermen Look For an Easy Time of It.

Reports from the Quebec lumber woods are to the effect that there is yet between three and a half and four feet of hard and solid snow there, and everything in good condition for hauling. It will probably be next week before some of the operators are through with their hauling. The chances for steam driving are excellent. The ice in the brooks is very weak and there is abundance of snow to provide all the water that is required for easy driving which it is expected will begin shortly before the middle of April. All of the lumbermen on the upper St. John look forward to an easy and comparatively inexpensive season for getting their logs to the booms. As before stated, the cut on the St. John, as on the Miramichi, will be much lighter than last year. The operators on the upper branches have cut as follows:—

John Kilburn,.....	7,000,000
Gilman, Burden & Bros.,.....	5,000,000
Cunliff Bros.,.....	6,000,000

New Paint.

The "Hartland House," Mrs. M. E. Boone, proprietress, is looking much better for the application of a fresh coat of paint. For the same reason James Campbell's building on Main St. adds to the appearance of that part of the town. J. T. G. Carr has been having some painting done inside his store and the effect is to brighten the place quite noticeably.

A MOTHER SPEAKS.

Tells how Dr. Chase Saved her Boy.

His Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine a Precious Boon.

MRS. A. T. STEWART, Folgar, Ont., says: "From the 7th of January to the 30th, we were up night and day with our two little boys, employing doctors and trying every kind of patent medicine we ever heard of. At this time we did not know of Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine until after the 30th, when our young est darling died in spite of all we could do. Sometime in February the doctor told us our other boy couldn't live till spring. We were about discouraged, when I got my eye on an advertisement of Dr. Chase's Syrup.

"I tried at once to get some, but none of the dealers here had it. A neighbor who was in Kingston managed to purchase two bottles which he brought straight to us, and I believe it was the means of saving our only boy.

"One tea-spoonful of the Syrup stopped the cough so he could sleep till morning. Our boy is perfectly well now, and I would not be without Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house."

A Dreaded Disease.

More People are Tortured by the Pangs of Rheumatism
Than by any Other Cause.
There is a Cure For It.

Mr. Richard Nixon, of Lower Brighton, is one of the most prosperous and best known farmers of Carleton Co., N. B. In June, 1897, Mr. Nixon was seized with an attack of acute rheumatism and for six weeks lay abed suffering all the tortures of this terrible disease. He grew so weak that he was unable to turn in bed, and his friends almost despaired of his recovery. At this stage one of his friends, who had been cured of the same disease by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills urged Mr. Nixon to give them a trial, which advice was followed. Almost from the day Mr. Nixon began the use of the pills an improvement was noted. Previously his appetite had almost completely failed and the first sign of returning health was a frequent feeling of hunger. Then the pains began to leave him, and his strength gradually returned and after using about a dozen boxes Mr. Nixon was as well as ever he had been. To the reporter of the HARTLAND ADVERTISER, Mr. Nixon said he had no doubt his present health was due entirely to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and since his recovery he occasionally uses a box to ward off a possible recurrence of the trouble.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by making new blood and invigorating the nerves, but you must get the genuine, always put up in boxes the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Do not be persuaded to take any of the numerous pink colored imitations which some unscrupulous dealers say "are just the same." In case of doubt send direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont., and the pills will be mailed post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

Money Value of Toads.

Mr. A. H. Kirkland asserts, after an examination of the character of the food eaten by toads, that those ugly little animals are great benefactors of the farmer. They destroy enormous numbers of injurious insects, and other enemies of cultivated crops. The amount of money that a single toad might save to a farmer in one season by the destruction of cut-worms has been estimated at nearly $20. This calculation is based on the damage that the number of cut-worms a toad could eat in a season would be able to effect among growing crops.—Youth's Companion.

What's your opinion of a lobster, Mr. Brown?

Mr. Brown—Oh, they're very good at a pinch.

NEW SWEDEN'S NEW WOMAN.

A writer in the Youth's Companion tells the following story:

Mr. W. W. Thomas, recently appointed minister to Sweden, formerly occupied the same position. His residence in that country gave him an opportunity to master the language, to study the character of the people, and eventually to recruit a colony.

About twenty-seven years ago Mr. Thomas brought from Sweden a small number of picked Swedes, and led them up the St. John River, and founded a colony in the Maine woods, a colony which has now grown rich and prosperous, and numbers three thousand people.

This Swedish settlement is the only successful colony founded in New England with foreigners from over the ocean since the Revolutionary War. Its prosperous condition is, of course, due to the superior character of the pioneers who were men of sterling qualities. The women who accompanied them have shared, and shared alike, the labors and trials of their husbands and fathers, with an indomitable courage which throws the theoretical "new woman," so-called, quite into the shade.

"In the early days," Mr. Thomas said to a writer in the New York Tribune, "many of the Swedes cut their logs into lengths for piling, with cross-cut saws. Whenever this was the case you would see that the Swedish wife would have hold of one end of the saw, and she did her share of the work."

Once, when riding out of the woods, Mr. Thomas met one of these Swedish women walking in with a heavy sack on her back. As she passed, she noticed a commotion inside the sack.

"What have you got in there?" Mr. Thomas asked.

"Four nice pigs," the woman replied.

"Where did you get them?"

"Down river, two miles beyond Caribou."

Two miles beyond Caribou was ten miles from New Sweden. So this good wife had walked twenty miles, ten miles out and ten miles home, with four pigs on her back, smiling all the way to think what nice pigs they were!

Another wife, Mrs. Kjersti Carlson, when her husband was sick and her children cried for bread, with her own hands felled some cedar-trees, sawed them into butts, and rifted up and shaved these boards into shingles, one bunch of which she carried five miles through the woods on her back to barter at the corner store for medicine and food for her husband and children.

By such toil was this wilderness settled, and that bunch of shingles has become a part of the history of Maine.

Easily Stated.

A committee having in charge a local entertainment went to a noted editor to request him to take part in it.

"What do you want me to do, gentlemen?" he asked.

"We would like to have you give us a talk on spelling reform," they replied.

"Well," he rejoined, "I can give you my idea of spelling reform in one sentence: Just leave 'me' off the 'program.'—Youth's Companion.

This is a day of "patent medicines." People are being more or less humbugged every day with one nostrum or another. Some medicines have much virtue, and on their success thousands of worthless quack compounds have sprung into existence.

K. K. K. is a new medicine, and as yet is not generally in use. But every single bottle of it that has been sold has worked wonders. It will clean out stuffed up nostrils in one minute; it will cure a cold in the head in one day. And if it is persistently used will cure catarrh of the nose and throat in a remarkably short time. Their Opinion of War.

Youth's Companion Counts The Cost.

People who talk lightly about going to war can hardly realize how ill-prepared we are for such an enterprise. If war should be declared, it must be fought somewhere. If the war is with Spain over Cuba, shall we fight at sea, or in Cuba, or in Spain, or at our own seaboard and upon our own soil?

It is not left to one antagonist to make the choice. We must be prepared to take either the offensive or the defensive or both, as circumstances may require.

We have the beginning of a modern navy, of which we are justly proud. The ships are among the best of their respective type, and are well-armed and manned; but after all, they are only the beginning of a navy, and too few to guard our extended coast-line and engage also in aggressive operations. The recent disaster to the battle-ship Maine at Havana was deplorable, not only for the loss of life, which was greater than takes place in many sea-fights, but for the loss of the vessel, which represented one-sixth of our battle-line.

Moreover, if one of our ships in action should suffer serious damage, we have no dry dock on the Atlantic seaboard where she could be repaired.

We have begun constructing modern coast defences, but the work is only one-third done, although we have been engaged upon it for ten years. If all the guns planned for were in position to-day, we have not nearly enough artillery-men to man them.

As for aggressive movements, we have no army which we could dispatch to Cuba or to Spain. Our entire army numbers less than thirty thousand, men and is scattered over thousands of miles territory. And if we had a force to send to Cuba, we should send them to death by disease, for the climate is deadly to men of our race.

It is true that the endurance, patriotism and resources of the American people would sustain them in any just war; but the fact should not be overlooked that we are so situated that even a greatly inferior adversary could inflict upon us, because of our unprepared condition, injuries that would be appalling alike to the humanitarian and to the political economist. A proper understanding of this will keep us from being unduly boastful, and from talking flippantly of the chances of war.—Editorial in Youth's Companion, Boston.

Evaporating Potatoes.

Mr. J. R. Scott, of Napanee Ont. is opening up a new line of business, the evaporation of potatoes. His factory is at Camden East. He will use one hundred bushels per day. The method of evaporating potatoes is: The tubers are cleaned and boiled, skinned and sliced up, by machinery, and afterwards evaporated. A bushel of sixty pounds is reduced to five pounds. They are canned or boxed up, and are capable of being transported any distance, or exposed to any temperature without injury. When used they have only to be soaked in warm water for awhile and then cooked.

STORIES OF HENRY GEORGE.

The activity and power of intellect of the late Henry George did not prevent absentmindedness. A writer in The Review of Reviews says that this quality was "the jest of his circle."

Names escaped him. I heard him say of Mr. Dayton, the candidate on his ticket for comptroller and one of the best-known men in New York:

"You won't mind it, I hope, if I forget your name. I am so conscious of the danger of getting names wrong that when the need of remembering comes it rattles me, and away the name goes."

He came late to a dinner at the Lotus club, where he was to discuss with some friends the question of his being a candidate in apprehended contingencies. It was raining, and he took from his pocket the slippers with which Mrs. George had insisted on providing him in case he should get his feet wet, and as he put them on he apologized with honest gravity:

"I lost time looking for a man I kept asking after as Kinsella, and it turned out his right name was Moriarity. At least I think that was what he told me it was when I found him."

But there was no absentmindedness when discussion of the business in hand ensued; he was keen and wide awake.

One Step Too Many.

The Australians are said to be a rather solemn people but circumstances sometimes amuse them in spite of themselves. The recent elections in Victoria supplied several laughable incidents.

A candidate for a Melbourne constituency, in a burst of eloquence, asked the question:

"What is it that made England what she is—mighty, revered, feared and respected?"

"Oireland!" was the prompt and unexpected reply, in a fine brogue, from the rear of the hall.

Another Melbourne candidate, after laying down a somewhat advanced programme, exclaimed:

"Yes, gentlemen, and I will go one step farther," saying which he stepped over the edge of the rostrum in shortsighted enthusiasm, and fell among the reporters beneath.

Informal Receipt.

Uneducated people sometimes have a happy knack in coming to the point. Here, for example is a story from the Boston Herald.

Dan and Mose, neither of them noted for erudition, partners in an enterprise which it is needless to specify. One morning a customer called to settle a small bill, and after handing over the money asked for a receipt.

Mose retired to the privacy of an inner room, and after a long delay returned with a slip of paper, on which were written these words:

"We've got our pay. Me and Dan."

Men who use lime tell us that four casks Purdy and Green Lime will cover as much as five casks of other makes. We know that it is good lime, and would advise you to haul it home on snow. Shaw & Dibblee.
