Girl Who Was Arrested Wore Steel Body Armor and Carried Lewis Guns.

DUGOUTS WERE FULL OF ARMY SUPPLIES

Death Penalty May be Inflicted for Possession of Stores in Martial Law Area.

at 00 000 000000 H. J. B. B. G. K. Jan. 14—The authorities at each great importance in the result of the raid on the alleged chief arsenal of the Cork first brigade of the Republican Army of which the late Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, was the commander, according to the government officials.

A Dublin despatch said a woman crossing a boat just outside Cork attracted the attention of the military, and that an investigation showed she had dropped a Lewis gun. It was added that a search of the boat revealed dugouts which contained rifles, revolvers, a quantity of ammunition and other explosives, in addition to military equipment and certain papers.

Find Real Arsenal

The police and military who are still searching the place are said to have unearthed an extraordinary collection of war materials, including Lewis guns, and ammunition for them, rifles, revolvers, bombs and "Irish Republican Army" uniforms, gas masks, goggles, cotton, megaphones, periscopes, gas masks, and mail bags which had been missing a result of raids, and also a large quantity of correspondence which it is anticipated will throw light on recent ambushes and kidnappings.

Wore Steel Armor

The young woman, who played such a part in the raid on the arsenal of the police and military in attempting to send the Lewis gun, was found to be wearing steel body armor and to be carrying several loaded service revolvers, according to the police, who refused to give the slightest information in this respect, and with four other persons is now in the Cork jail.

Death Penalty Possible

These persons are said to have rendered themselves liable on conviction to the death penalty, as the law in martial law. The woman resided with her mother in a cottage near the scene of the alleged discovery of the war stores, and the police in digging the body being carried out from beneath the treacle. Walter Bourdret, Dominion Coal Company police officer who was one of the party who assisted in carrying the body from under the treacle swore that it was taken out in the opposite direction.

QUEBEC TRYING TO ENFORCE ITS DRY REGULATION

Premier Declares He Will Use Full Power of Government to Do So.

OPPOSITION ALLEGES SERIOUS GRAFTING

Liberal Members Warn Premier They Will Grant Him Only Moderate Support.

Quebec, Jan. 14.—Premier Taschereau in a speech in the legislature yesterday afternoon clearly announced that he would carry out the government control of liquor policy as foreshadowed in the speech from the throne, despite the attitude of opposition of a group of members of the Liberal party.

The Premier pointed out that the excessive profits of the liquor vending class made them a privileged class, not to say a class of profiteers with the result that liquor is sold to day at a huge profit and of poor quality.

Not Local Prohibitionists. "The majority of our people," he said, "do not believe in total prohibition. They desire a reasonable regime which while putting a stop to abusive and not encourage hypocrisy, illegality or fraud. We will endeavor to realize this view with the help of all the members."

Serious allegations against the government's administration of the Temperance Act voiced by Arthur A. Sauve, leader of the opposition, who affirmed that it had been openly stated that ministers, mayors of large municipalities, and even legislative councillors, were associates of liquor vendors, and if this were true, these persons were party to a scandalous and criminal commerce.

Alleges Money Making. He asked for the name of the politician who had made $35,000 in one week by carrying liquor from the Province of Quebec to Rhode Island. General opposition to the government scheme of taking over the liquor business and controlling it, both as the sole importer, and having its own retail shops, was voiced at a caucus of about thirty Liberal members of the Legislative Assembly.

The members, however, are willing to meet the government half way by agreeing that the government shall do the importing, but they want the sale to the public to be by authorized vendors.

These vendors would be licensed by the government, and secure their supply from the government at a fixed price, and be controlled as to the retail price by regulation. The thirty members agreed practically unanimously to a proportion along these lines.

They also believe in doing away with the farce of medical prescriptions and are thereby in accord with what is believed to be the government decision on this point.

STOCK BROKER IS SHOT DEAD AT MONTREAL

William Holland, Manager of MacDougall Bros., Murdered in His Office.

ASSAILANT SURRENDERS TO POLICE AFTERWARDS

Major R. M. Griffith, Well Known in Social, Military and Financial Circles, Held

Montreal, Jan. 14.—At 3.45 this afternoon William Holland, 49 years of age, formerly manager of the Montreal clearing house and for the past two years manager for MacDougall Brothers, well known stock brokers of this city, was shot through the heart and died in a few minutes in the stock broking office of Gordon, Strathly & Co., into which he had staggered groaning: "I'm shot; I'm shot."

Surrendered to Police.

At 4.45 in the afternoon Major R. M. Griffith, well known in social, military and financial circles here, accompanied by his brother, Dr. T. G. Griffith and his brother-in-law, Dr. J. J. McGovern, entered the headquarters police station of this city and gave himself up for the shooting of Holland.

Suspect Old Enemy

It is conjectured that Griffith, who was known to have sustained heavy losses on the stock exchange in recent months, may have conceived a personal enmity for Holland, and it is stated that the latter had received threatening letters from Griffith.

Major Griffith is stated to have heard "voices" when on a short visit to a mountain resort near here recently and was sent to the Home-wood Sanatorium at Guelph, Ont. While on his way there he broke away from his escort, but later gave himself up. Subsequently he was released and returned to Montreal, where he was engaged in selling bonds in connection with the shooting of Holland.

Admits the Crime

In surrendering to the police headquarters, Major Griffith said: "I shot William Holland. What are the formalities that I must go through?"

Questioned by Chief of Detectives LePage, Major Griffith again admitted that he had shot Holland and was placed in the cells.

Major Griffith was well known about the city for his curious habit of wandering around the town at night and sleeping during the day.

His Strange Answer

When questioned as to why he did this, he used to reply that he was under a hypnotic spell of a man whom he feared. He had only one way to break the spell, he said, and that was to break down the other man's health. "He cannot sleep while I am awake and in this way I will break down his health. Some day he may make me ill a man and then he'll get into trouble."

Unemployment relief and free treatment in sanatoriums were among the main features of the labor programme to which this objection of heavy cost was raised by the members of the government.

Finance Comm. In Busy Session

Many Exciting Clashes Between Councillors in Discussion of Estimates.

The Finance Committee of the municipality of St. John City and County put in a strenuous day yesterday at the secretary's office. From 11 o'clock in the morning until 11:30 at night, with time out for lunch, they were at it. The arguments and discussions were heated at times, occasionally amounting, but with all there was a decided inclination shown to cut down expense and bring everything within the scope of economy in the administration of municipal affairs.

Councillor Thornton was a live scrapper and gave evidence of being a descendant of the Niissourans, as he had to be shown the whys of everything. The county councillors and those of the city clashed frequently and on most motions passed were opposed to each other. The fiercest discussions reached the warm stage and became exciting. Councillor Frink was always able to pour oil on the troubled waters, and straighten out the entanglements that arose.

Afternoon Session.

The first item taken up was the general public hospital estimates and after considerable discussion and the inclusion or exclusion of the amount of $6,000 for lipens for the nurses' home, the committee finally decided by a vote of five to three to recommend the hospital estimate as $153,373.1, a cut of $4,100 from that presented by the hospital commissioners and leaving the appropriation for lipens in the estimate.

The estimate of the county hospital was then taken up, and after some explanation by Dr. S. H. McDonald, was passed with $900 cut, $500 on butter and $400 on groceries.

The county treasurer appeared before the committee and dealt with a procrustean for his office and for an increase in salary of $400, bringing it up to $2,000. G. W. Mullin applied for the position of auditor with an increase of salary from $1,500, which he at present is getting, but did not specify any amount.

Commissioner Jones moved that a committee of three be appointed to look into the matter and report back to the committee. Commissioner Thornton said he thought before any action was taken the report of a committee which had been appointed some years ago, and which he understood was in the hands of the county secretary, should be brought before the court. This was satisfactorily explained by the accounting methods of the treasurer's office and action should be taken on it.

Councillor Frink moved that J. L. Thorne be continued as treasurer at his present salary of $1,500. The vote was three to three with two councillors not voting, and Councillor Thornton expressed his intention of not voting until he had more information.

Comm. adjourned to meet at eight o'clock.

Evening Session

The evening session was started with Alex. Rowan, representing the Municipal Home Board, who explained the extra fee of $100 paid to B. J. Gerow for professional services. It was shown the fees paid came from money paid in on factory cases, for which services had been rendered. Commissioner Thornton wanted to know why women at the home sent there for care during confinement, did not receive the $200 allowed them by the court. This was satisfactorily explained by Mr. Rowan. There was considerable hot air over Municipal Home affairs, but after all was said and done it was regarded as a well conducted institution.

It was voted, on motion of Councillor O'Brien, that a warrant for $8,000 be drawn to the credit of the Home.

Again taking up contingent accounts, arguments were resumed on question of treasurer's salary. He now gets $1,800 and wants $2,000. It was voted to pay him $1,600.

Commissioner Thornton thought it the part of business wisdom to amalgamate the office of accountant and auditor, as the work would not be too much for one man. If necessary, hire chartered auditor each year to go over all accounts. He was opposed to increasing salaries.

Councillors O'Brien and Golding thought their accountant was entitled to more money than the $1,500 now paid. The officer asks for $500 more. Mr. Thornton thought $1,500 enough. Councillors O'Brien and Golding voted $1,800.

Commissioner Frink moved that Mr. Mullin be retained as accountant at $1,500 a year, and that an auditor be employed to audit his accounts and be properly remunerated for services. Councillor Frink's idea prevailed.

It was moved by Councillor Thornton that three months' salary be paid to the widow of the late auditor, Mr. Thomson, in recognition of faithful services performed by the lamented auditor. It was carried by unanimous vote.

The committee decided favorably on $100 for the clerk, $1,300 for four marshals, $2,510 for rent of offices and safety vaults, $1,000 for coroner's orders.

Herbert Humphreys On Serious Charge

Cracked George Grayley on the Head With Bottle, and Injured Policeman Thomas

In the police court yesterday morning Herbert Humphreys of the S.S. Canadian Settler was charged with being drunk, assaulting and doing grievously bodily harm to Geo. Grayley, 47 Dock street, and assaulting and beating Policeman Thomas. He admitted being drunk and assaulting the officer, but said he knew nothing of the other assault. Grayley said he was in a beer shop on Brunswick street Thursday night when accused and several others entered. About 11:15 the proprietress asked them to go out as she wished to close the shop. Accused struck witness on the head with a bottle and knocked him out. When he came to he went to J. R. Nugent to have his head dressed, but wound was cauterized, and several stitches were necessary to close it.

Miss Gladys Woodworth corroborated Grayley's statement as he is confined to his home through his injuries. It is said his head struck the guardroom was during a tussle with Humphreys. Adjourned to summon more witnesses.

The preliminary examination of Augustus Waters, charged with obtaining $1,164.41 from the Colonial Hide Co. by false pretences was concluded and accused sent up for trial. W. A. Ross appeared for the prosecution and J. F. H. Teed for the defense.

Mrs. Josephine Zed, charged with selling liquor illegally, took the stand and denied that she had sold liquor to a colored man named Peters, or to anyone else. Her husband had liquor in the house for his own use, but it was all used up. Adjourned till Monday afternoon.

Geo. Moses was charged with having an Improperly lighted conveyance in the city. Officer Killen gave evidence and a fine of $3 was imposed.

goring. Councillor Thornton was very much opposed to granting the extra money unless it could be shown that it was necessary.

A letter was read from Premier Foster informing the committee that prices had gone up, and that when the municipality had been paying $1.00 a week for paper cases, they would be obliged to pay $2.50 a week starting from March 1, 1921, and that legislation covering that advance would be passed at the next legislature. Councillor Bellmont thought different from others and believed, as the premier had suggested, all must fall in line.

Councillor Thornton and Frink thought the item was worthy of an enquiry, and the Government should be interviewed regarding the same.

Councillor Frink moved that item of $14,150 asked for be approved, subject to legislation being passed making the rate $2.50 a week for paper cases and a warrant ordered drawn for $10,150 and held awaiting legislation.

Without any serious objections being raised, it was agreed to allow cases effective. The motion was carried and a warrant ordered drawn for $10,150 and held awaiting legislation.

(Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger, London, Dec. 14.—Admiral Walter Kerr, C. C. B., president of the Catholic Union of Great Britain, in answer to Cardinal Mercier's letter to the Irish Bishops, writes to the Cardinal on the Sunday when the octave of St. John the Baptist is celebrated. In common with all Catholics in Great Britain, I join in your deep sympathy for the most noble position in Ireland, yet at the same time I cannot but feel that we may have been misled in our view of the position in Ireland, and that the responsibility must rest with the British Bishops.

"May I say in the first place, no question of religion is involved in the Irish question. The Catholic and Protestant parties in Ireland are not engaged in a religious war, but in a political struggle. The Catholic faith is taught to Catholic children in public schools while the government officials and the learned professions are open to Catholic and non-Catholic alike. Moreover, in the measure being passed through Parliament, Catholic and Protestant alike are asked to give their own private bodies up precisely to the same terms.

"In the beginning of 1916 the national constitution of Ireland was given effect. In England, at that time, a rebellion, fomented by maniacs, broke out in Ireland, and a great part of that rebellion was the result of the fact that for some days in the hands of the land lords, to be given their own private bodies up precisely to the same terms.

ADMIRAL KERR PRESENTS THE BRITISH SIDE

President of Catholic Union Writes to Cardinal Mercier

ASKS AID TO END MURDER CAMPAIGN

German Plots Cited to Show Vital Necessity of Keeping Ireland in Empire.

(Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger.)

London, Dec. 14.—Admiral Lord Walker Kerr, C. C. B., president of the Catholic Union in Great Britain, has sent the following letter to Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, in answer to the cardinal's letter to the British bishops on the Sunday within the octave of All Saints. In common with all other Catholics in Great Britain, I join your eminence in deeply deploring the gross position in Ireland, yet at the same time I cannot but feel that you may have been misinformed as to how that position has arisen and with whom the responsibility must lie.

"May I say in the first place that no question of religion is involved. The church in Ireland enjoys the fullest liberty, there is no restriction on divine worship, the Catholic faith is freely taught to Catholic children in the public schools while the government officials and the learned professions are open to Catholic and non-Catholic alike. Moreover, in the measure now being passed through Parliament, the Catholic and Protestant parliaments are to be given their own legislative bodies on precisely the same terms.

German Plots Cited.

"In the beginning of 1916 the internal condition of Ireland was profoundly quiet. In Easter of that year, however, a rebellion, instigated by German machinations broke out in Dublin, and a great part of that city was for some days in the hands of domestic enemies at a time when the fate of the war was undecided, and your eminence's own country was bleeding under the yoke of an unpopular and unrighteous war. It is not surprising, with the exception of certain leaders the utmost docility was shown to the rebels; but from that time onwards efforts have been made to bring about an entire separation of Ireland from Great Britain. A second plot with German aid at the crisis of the war in the spring of 1918 was frustrated before it matured, but the rebellious movement went on unrelentingly and has this year entered a campaign of murdering against police-men, soldiers and other servants of the government.

"It would not be fair to say that all the partisans of the movement are instigators or abettors of murder, but in the pursuit of their designs they profit by its recurrence, and all are rebels against lawful authority. Those who do not honor the king are hardly likely to fear God, and I know not by what argument it can be held that King George is not the lawful sovereign of Ireland. With men who strike thus at the root of authority no government can make terms, and in particular the British Government could never tolerate the secession of so vital a part of its dominions. We know too well by the experience of the war that should the Irish coast fall into hostile hands, Great Britain in a future emergency would be at the mercy of her foes.

204 Murdered in Year.

"During the last eleven months 153 gothems have been murdered, fifty others and soldiers and two officers. They have been ambushed in lonely roads or shot in the back in crowded streets, and in some instances butchered in their beds. Many have been motivated by expanding bullets; one was killed from behind as he knelt at mass. The greater number last their lives simply because they were agents of the government without any suspicion of personal offenses—and (though it is irrelevant to the guilt of their murderers) many—probably a majority—were Catholics, like the three officers murdered in Dublin to whom a solemn requiem was lately given in Westminster Cathedral. It is to meet with a violent death on account of the performance of duty consists martyrdom, these men have earned that title as surely as did so many of your eminence's countrymen during their recent tribulations.

"Your eminence will doubtless have heard little of these horrors, but will have heard much of charges of regiments and outrages against innocent persons by soldiers and police. These charges are circulated throughout the world by an unscrupulous propaganda, and included in them is every instance of persons killed when resisting or disobeying lawful authority, every death by accident during a tumult, and not a few cases, there is good reason to believe, of private vengeance and of murder by rebels themselves disguised in uniforms which they have stolen. At the same time I do not deny that there have been cases in which policemen and soldiers, ambushed by the slaughter of their comrades, have fallen into deplorable crimes, of which no defense is possible. Such offenses gravely embarrass the government, bring discredit on the cause of law, and merit the reputation of all Christian men.

Your eminence should know, however, that forty-one policemen and officials had been murdered this year before the first case of retaliation for these outrages was even alleged, and justice will award the greater condemnation to the rebels alike against God and Caesar from whom the provocation and the example came. Let me add that no inquiry such as your eminence suggests is possible, as no witness from among the people can give testimony for the government unless at the peril of his life.

Frank Wragge Not Ignored.

"In writing that I do not ignore the wrongs of the past history of Ireland, but while history may explain it cannot excuse the crimes committed in Ireland in the name of liberty today. No present injustice has provoked them, no principle even of pagan morality could defend them, and they constitute a grievous stumbling-block to the religion which their perpetrators nominally profess. Scarcely less of a scandal than the crimes themselves is the difference with which public opinion in Ireland regards them, and the unwillingness or inability of the better disposed to aid in their detection and punishment. And saddest of all, my lord cardinal, is the fact that no concerted effort has been made by the spiritual leaders of Ireland to stamp out the murderous spirit which is a reproach to their people and their faith.

"Into the purely political aspects of the Irish question I have no wish to enter further than to say that no party in Great Britain has any other desire than that the Irish people should always take their place in the British empire with the full rights, privileges and status that the English, Scotch or Welsh possess. There is no oppression of nationality in Ireland any more than there is oppression of religion, and on neither ground can sympathy with the Irish revolutionary movement be justly claimed from a free Catholic people like the Belgians.

"I rejoice to note the gentleness and generosity with which your eminence acknowledges the part played by Great Britain in the liberation of your country, and I can assure, in truth and conscience, that our policy and sentiment toward Ireland are in no way inconsistent with the principles of freedom which the British people in common with your own through long years of bitter struggle so strenuously and painfully upheld.

"Believe me to remain, my lord cardinal, with great respect, your obedient servant.

Hollander Was Smuggling German Notes Out of Country—Shoemaker Fined.

(Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger.)

Berlin, Jan. 14.—German currency may have depreciated in value, but not to the extent that federal authorities will permit a man to have his shoes half-soled with thousands of marks especially if he is a Dutchman prone to speculation and planning to return to his home with the paper-bottomed shoes.

Many chances have been devised for taking German bank notes out of the country for speculative purposes in violation of the laws, and government agents are doing all in their power to break up that practice or reduce it to a minimum. Federal authorities were recently informed that a shoemaker in Berlin had been carrying them, no principle even of pagan morality could defend them, and they constitute a grievous stumbling-block to the religion which their perpetrators nominally profess. Scarcely less of a scandal than the crimes themselves is the difference with which public opinion in Ireland regards them, and the unwillingness or inability of the better disposed to aid in their detection and punishment. And saddest of all, my lord cardinal, is the fact that no concerted effort has been made by the spiritual leaders of Ireland to stamp out the murderous spirit which is a reproach to their people and their faith.

Irish Lawyer Is Shot To Death

Occasional Work as Judge Thought to Have Been Cause of His Murder.

Dublin, Jan. 14.—King's Counselor, J. McGrath, who was shot to death by Sinn Feiners here today, was a well known Irish barrister. He had been a journalist on the staff of the Freeman's Journal, but became a King's Counselor last year, and occasionally acted as a judge.

Mr. McGrath was a strong supporter of the constitutional nationalists, but was inactive politically. He was president of the "out of work committee on donations."

Before he died he is quoted as having said: "I had to turn down a good many claims, and if I should die those people will be disappointed."

GERMANY IS HATCHING DYE MARKET PLOT

Abandonment of Chemical Works Which Provided Poison Gas Proposed.

FUTURE OF DYE INDUSTRY INVOLVED

Stoppage of Production to Create World Demand and Unrestricted Trade.

By WYTHE WILLIAMS. Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger.

Paris, Jan. 14.—Germany has proposed chemical disarmament. Into the whirlpool of European emotions following the latest general disarmament and reparations breakdown, she has slipped a cog that she perhaps counts upon eventually to complete the attack upon the Entente gears. Her proposal to abandon the industry which supplied gas, explosives and poison gas, and enabled her to wage war as long as she did, cover another suggestion that it is evidently hoped will be found dull and colorless, but which contains both dynamite and color in the German coal-chemical industry so that Germany may regain her world market in dyes.

Dyes First, Then Explosives. So, while the allied chancelleries are in a turmoil, while the British press is agitated on the subject of the American proposal for a naval holiday, while the new threats against Poland and Rumania are bringing military chiefs of those countries to Paris to seek the advice of their "uncle," Ferdinand Foch, with the League of Nations and its attendant sunlight again obscured, the supreme council prepares to turn the spotlight on itself in Paris instead of in a Riviera concave.

While Germany has been informing the reparations commission that she could not fulfill many engagements, she also has been telling them many things on the subject of dyes. Her proposal to do away with the manufacture of deadly chemicals and poison gases might find favor from a strictly military standpoint, were it not pointed out that it could not be carried out so long as Germany goes on making dyes. For it all comes from the same base—coal tar—which, developed through a certain number of processes, becomes a certain kind of dye, or, if developed only a few points further, becomes high explosive or poison gas. It was coal tar that alone enabled Germany to fight so long.

There is evidence in Paris, where a large force of dye experts now are gathered to help the reparations commission, that the German dye attack is to be centered most vigorously upon the United States market. France has a tariff law that enables her to build up her dye industry un molested. England has a new law operative January 15 that excludes dye such as she produces and admits those she does not produce, but which her consumers need. Japan is taking steps to protect her chemical industry. The United States is the only important nation actually at the mercy of German chemists. For the moment America is protected by the war trade board, but this barrier will fall with the end of the war, and the technician state of war with Germany.

Attempting to Create Demand. German dye manufacturers, realizing this, are causing the reparations commission much trouble by refusing to produce except under pressure the dyes most needed in the United States. They are willing to offer large quantities of dye in competition with the output of the new American dye industry, but still are making excuses for failure to produce non-competitive dyes. Thus they hope to encourage consumers to demand an open market. Also in this manner, with the experience of her fifty years world monopoly of dye manufacture against five years of American experience, Germany hopes to throttle the American industry and leave America helpless in this respect, should there be another war.

German peace production of dyes is so closely allied with her production of munitions that a separation is impossible. Destruction of one would mean the destruction of both. Students of the German proposals now in Paris consider that America is the last hope the German manufacturers have and they will not give up as long as America does not protect its dye industry by a law similar to that of Great Britain. They see further that real chemical disarmament can be accomplished only by breaking Germany's monopoly of the dye industry and encouraging the building up of a similar industry in all the countries of the Entente, and especially in the United States.

AS JESUS SAW THE MONEY QUESTION

The International Sunday School Lesson For Jan. 16 is "Our All For The Kingdom."—Matt. 19:16-30.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Plating like a key and its lock to our own existing world conditions is one of the modern tragedies of the New Testament. The tale is that of the rich young man who came to Jesus, questioning after the manner of Jood. Every reader of the old story finds his heart warming to that noble youth. He had a fine spirit, and rare polish, and a real eagerness to live life at its best. It required no small degree of courage for that son of privilege to be seen in a conference with the radical Rabbi from Nazareth. With his courage went open-mindedness also. He may fairly be said to represent the highest type of modern university man of an inherited fortune.

Before we strike the stride of the story, let us stand apart for a paragraph to contemplate that young man, so many homiletic sermons have been preached to him for ages that we lose sight of his real worth. For he was a fine young man. His wealth and privileges had not shut the doors of his inquiring mind. He wanted to be bigger than his fortune. In real sincerity, he sought light upon his problem, which he perceived was a spiritual problem, from every possible source. That the unconventional Nazarene, upon whom members of the young man's conservative class had begun to frown, had the word of light and leading, he had become assured. Therefore he sought his wisdom searched by the question of Jesus, the young man proved to be both moral and religious, a keeper of the Law. Small wonder the Master looked upon him with yearning and admiration. So he bade him do the one thing more that was needful—sell his goods for the benefit of the poor, and join the discipleship. That final test the young man could not meet; for he was rich. Upon the incident Jesus has left some remarks about money which are peculiarly appropriate today.

What Money Has Done to Us Without passion or prejudice or demagoguery, let us try to get the Jesus-view-point upon the money question as it exists in our own world.

As all who follow international affairs closely are well aware, it is the money-side of the readjustment of the world that has made most of our present trouble. Commercial ambition and antagonism was one of the leading causes of the war. Lurking in the background of all the decisions made at the peace conference were the financial phases of territorial changes, a big and disturbing book has been written upon the economic aspects of the peace treaty. Territories were desirable or undesirable according to the money that the big power saw in them. Minor wealth bulked big in the moral considerations in some instances. Reparations hang like a storm-cloud on the horizon toward which we look for peace. The manner in which governments have met themselves to commercial profits and practices is assuredly a serious factor in creating discords between recent allies. In a word, money is a present international problem of greater magnitude than any mere question of exportation of exchange. Peace has been lamed by the blow of gold.

All this is commonplace. We know that love of money has marred the honor of the nation in the past two years. Even more familiar is the fashion in which greed of gold befouled the high idealism of the peoples at war. With shame we confess the sordid story of the munitioners and other war profiteers. That scandal is one that will seek for long years to come; for its blackness appeared against the golden background of the courage and charity and sacrifice of the greater company of men and women.

Withal, we have to confess to being part of a money-mad world. We have put the percent of gain, and indulgence in the luxuries it would buy, above the integrities of character. A first cause of the relaxed moral fibre of our time is undoubtedly this vague of money-madness. Last week two eminent citizens of an American community were sent to jail for robbery and betrayal of trust; with no other reason than that the prize for money had usurped honor and decency and good sense. What a much-discussed "crime wave" of the world today but a flouting of law and civilization for the sake of "easy money." Truly, this old world in which we dwell has been tornly wounded by this terrible fashion of eagerness for money.

When the Test Comes In these crass and vulgar fashion we discern the workings of the same spirit which kept the rich young man of old from becoming a friend and follower of Jesus—perhaps one of the great figures of the Apostolic Church.

Even among the "nice" people it is common to judge a person by his financial standing. So-called "Good Society" has a dollar mark for a pedestal. The standard of success today is the money standard. One could not hope to be a "leading layman" except to be wealthy! Individual churches and national religious organizations are factly, apocryphal towards persons of wealth. The thing is too common to create comment. Saints and heroes, servants of the world and teachers of humanity, are looked upon rather pityingly by "successful" men, if they have not made money. James T. Hill, who himself made more than money, once boldly affirmed that the one test of success was the ability to make and hold money. Whereupon a poet commented: "O Homer! poet-genius—What a woeful failure, thou As thou begruddest in town and city Squalence for life weaver, What thou, through the endless ages Laurel wreaths are on thy brow, Still thou hadst no earthly riches—And a woeful failure, thou."

O' Columbus! What a failure As thou sailedst uncharted seas! Tho' a world thou didst discover, Still a sovereign didst not please; House of money, by those thou honored, By thy genius and thy deed, 'Till in poverty thou perishedst. Thou'rt a failure—so we read.

Jesus! Saviour! What a failure! As Thou didst upon the cross! Ouldest Thou but have preached for profit, The Thy life should not know low! worlds redeemed acclaim Thee, With the thorns upon Thy brow, Neither made nor saved Thou So a woeful failure thou.

Facing a Grim Fact. Jesus did not despise money as money, any more than He despised food or homes or education. What He did despise—and that word should be read as "contempt" also scorn and contempt and pity—was the exaltation of money into first place in life. He saw that God's first in men's hearts is money; therefore He cried that we cannot serve God and Mammon. He asked for the rich man's money in behalf of the poor, only because He wanted the young man's life, and saw that his life, otherwise so fair, was in the grip of his fortune. The world has treated with incredulity the announcement of the renunciation of a legacy of a million dollars by a Massachusetts youth. The state of the public mind is such that it is difficult to entertain any other thought than that money is the principal thing.

So long as money thus rules life, Jesus will be kept from the throne of sovereignty. That is the clear and unwelcome teaching of the Bible. Money as a servant must always have a place; money as a master challenges the very kingship of God. Our young republic must be taught—by the practice of their elders—that money is not the principal thing. Unless we can produce a generation of Christians willing to be poor, we shall fail to make the best of all preparations for facing the tidal wave of revolution that is sweeping the world.

It is slowly being forced into my consciousness that the issue of the Russian revolution is in this land. Never so far as the privileged peoples of the western world are concerned. I saw many instances of the utter inability of the rich Russians to grasp the idea that their money would not always purchase them special consideration. To them it was simply unthinkable that any revolution which dethroned the rights of place and property could continue. Also that blindness has entailed the loss of many thousands of lives, and misery beyond reckoning. Please God, we shall never see any thing like the Russian revolution in this land. Nevertheless, there is under way an irresistible social movement which will reformulate values, and curb the peculiar privileges and power of mere money. That grim fact gives present point to the teaching of the Lesson.

Living For Things Worth While After his staggering words, about the rich man's entrance into the kingdom of heaven being as difficult as the passage of a camel through a needle's eye, Jesus proceeded to set forth to His amazed disciples the worth-whileness of service and sacrifice for the kingdom. Mere investments against wealth will get us nowhere. The way of the Master leads us to present the better part, the joy and privilege and reward of serving His kingdom.

He offered the rich young man the career of an earnest worker, as now, rich men were common; and, save for his ignominious contract with Jesus.

This nameless young man passed on into the obscurity of the merely rich. Well has it been said, "The rich man's soul do not have a fair chance in life." Doomed to be nonentities or worse, they go through the years as leonars upon life, instead of lifters of life. Most of them do no high deeds, serve no great cause, leave no noble mark upon their generation. What a chance the rich young man in the lesson story was given by the Master! And he missed it! But stay: what of ourselves and our sons? We are alive in the most plastic and portentous era in the world's history. Great events are shaping on every hand. One man, with vision and courage, may do more than was possible to a hundred men a century ago. What a day to be a servant of the living God, a true brother of all men, and a builder of the kingdom of heaven on earth? He who puts Christ first today lives the life that lasts.

THE LABOR FEDERATION

The New Brunswick Federation of Labor seems to be a peculiarly constituted body, which apparently has no sense whatever of proportion. It flatteringly turned down some perfectly reasonable suggestions, and at the same time most far-fetched and fantastic schemes that the imagination of man could conjure up.

increase in production, and in turn by unemployment. Lower production costs have resulted, not only through more work on the part of those who were kept on the job, but through lower wages and lower profits. Prices are coming down in consequence, and buying power is increasing, which must mean more production and more employment.

THE C. G. M. M.

The success which has been attained by the initiation of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine demonstrates beyond a doubt that the Government was fully warranted in engaging in the shipbuilding business, that it went about it in a thorough and business-like way seeking the best results at reasonable costs, that it succeeded to the extent that results and costs so far compare favorably with those of Great Britain and the United States, and that the Government and the country have reason for nothing but satisfaction and pride in the achievements to date.

Those doubters of the capacity of Canada and chronic critics of the country's administration had it that Canada couldn't build ships for herself and that even if she could the Government wasn't capable of undertaking the job. The ships were needed, but they professed to prefer that they be built on the order of the British Government, believing the agency of the Imperial Maritime Board, more capable than the Government of Canada. Had that proposal been followed, the splendid fleet of ocean carriers now built and building would not belong to this country but to Great Britain, would not be assisting in the promotion of the commerce of Canada, but be at the disposal of Great Britain and probably employed in strictly Old Country trade.

Instead of that, this country already has a large fleet of ships in actual commission, with more under construction. Canada hasn't had merely the privilege of paying for these ships, but has world have been the case had the proposal which the Government rejected been adopted; they are or will be under Canadian register, fly the colors of the Canadian mercantile marine, are under the sole jurisdiction of Canada, and are engaged in carrying Canadian goods to the world markets and bringing back supplies to this country. Canadian ocean tonnage has been increased by sixty or seventy per cent, and this year will probably see it at the highest point in the Dominion's history.

In addition, there has been revived by the Government's policy the shipbuilding industry the demise of which caused much regret and loss to Canada. We have also created the nucleus of a steel industry which it is hoped will relieve this country, to some extent from dependence upon the steel contraband of foreign countries—a dependence the effect of which was particularly felt during the war.

And it is not as if these achievements had imposed a financial burden upon the people of Canada. The Canadian national ships will pay for themselves and earn interest on the cost. Of that there need be little doubt. Canada needs now and will need in the future these ocean carriers. Thanks to the far-sighted, courageous policy of the Borden Government she has and will have them at her service. Had the fears and the sneers of timid "Little Canadians" been heeded, she would not have them.

FRENCH POLITICAL CHANGES. The Leger Cabinet has been defeated in the Chamber of Deputies of France. It came into being in September last when M. Millerand, then the premier, was elected to the presidency. From the first there were those who predicted its defeat. It stood the test of vote after vote, however, and carried some important measures, including one to revive diplomatic relations with the Vatican. It was also upheld on the question of sustaining the attitude taken by ministers against the communists. On December 17 it got a vote of confidence on the military issues, after the resignation of M. Lefevre, the minister of war. It was not a united party that sustained it, and some criticism was away the cement that held the groups together. The story has been repeated many times in French politics; and with a continuation of present developments it is likely in the future to be repeated many times in the story of other countries.

I SEE IN THE STANDARD

The appointment of the Earl of Reading as Viscount of Leeds is one of the most noteworthy events and shrewdly chosen. It is the consummation of a career of outstanding brilliancy. The earl's biography of the Earl of Reading has endeavored to draw a parallel between him and the Earl of Beaconsfield. The fact only that both were Jews is the only feature in common.

On his return from sea he was put to work in his father's office and later became a member of the London Stock Exchange. At the age of 28, however, he had proven himself a conspicuous failure as a stock broker. Taking up the study of law he was called to the bar in 1887, the year of his marriage, and within ten years he had won his K. C. U. degree. He had reached his thirtieth year when he had gained the distinction of being the foremost advocate in England.

Entering Parliament in 1904 as a Liberal, he became Solicitor-General, five years later and in the following year was knighted and promoted to Attorney-General. In 1913 he was appointed Lord Chief Justice of England, the most exalted law office under the Crown after the Lord Chancellor.

His father Isaac was created peer in 1914 and two years later a vicariously was conferred on him. This was followed in 1917 by an earldom. As Earl of Reading he was appointed Ambassador to the United States in succession to Lord Bryce returning to England in May, 1919, to resume his judicial labors.

The campaign which is now in course of inauguration for the purpose of raising funds to increase the endowment of Mount Allison, is deserving of the widest support. The large committee which is in charge of affairs is not only thoroughly representative, but it includes some of the best known men in the province, whose influence will be considerable assistance. The object is one which requires no special recommendations; its very nature is in itself recommendation enough. Mount Allison is one of the leading factors in the educational life of the Maritime Provinces, from which many of their ablest sons have been turned out; and these will now spare no effort to assist their Alma Mater.

WHAT OTHERS SAY. A Delusion. The mind of man is subject to many strange delusions, and one of these is that the stock market has a bottom.—Chicago Tribune.

Some Noise. Maybe the noise of riveting in our shipyard makes it impossible for Japan to hear the call to arms about disarmament.—Little Rock, Ark., Gazette.

The Abolition of Patronage. One of the biggest accomplishments of Union Government was the abolition of patronage. Ever since Confederation political parties have been promising in their election platforms to get rid of patronage—a promise conveniently forgotten upon return to power. The Union Government, when it went to the country in 1917, repeated this promise, and contrary to precedent put its pledge into effect. It was a reform, though which did much to make the country in 1917, repeated this promise, and contrary to precedent put its pledge into effect. It was a reform, though which did much to make the country in 1917, repeated this promise, and contrary to precedent put its pledge into effect.

Benny's Note Book

Today was papa's birthday, and after supper he was smoking and thinking in the sitting room not looking any older than what he looked yesterday, and I handed him a 5 cent bottle of mulligatawny kind of sticky on the outside on account of me having used a little of it to see how good it was, saying, Merry birthday pop.

O, I'm glad you like it pop, say, pop, can I go to the movies tomorrow afternoon with Fuds Stinkins I lead. Well I should say you can, no Fuds Stinkins is going to have anything on you, especially on my birthday, sed pop. And he gave me money for the movies, and me came in with a big white box, saying, Happy birthday Willyum, wat do you suppose is in heer for you?

Well well, surprise after surprise, well well, sed pop, and me gave pop the box and pop took the lid off and there was 2 slippers inside, pop saying, Well well, just the very thing, just as my other slippers were getting comfortable, I mean worn out, well well.

HIGHER DUTIES ON GRAINS AND DAIRY PRODUCE
Senate Finance Committee Adopts Measure Outlining New Import Rates.
DINGLEY TARIFF FOR ALL HIDES
Senator McCumber Wants Forty Cents Per Bushel on All Wickets.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The Senate finance committee considering the Fordney emergency tariff bill, adopted amendments today by Senator Dingley, Republican of New York, providing for import duties on butter, cheese and fresh milk and cream, and another by Senator Jones, Democrat, of New Mexico, restoring the Dingley tariff rates on hides.
The proposed rates on the dairy products follow:
Butter and butter substitutes, six cent a pound, cheese and cheese substitutes six cents a pound, fresh milk, 2 cents a gallon and cream 5 cents a gallon.
Duty on Wheat

Senator McCumber, Republican, North Dakota, obtained acceptance of a higher import duty on wheat.
The McCumber amendment would fix a tariff on imported wheat of forty cents a bushel instead of the thirty cents carried by the bill as it passed the House.

While the Senate committee was considering the emergency bill, Indians developed in the House ways and means committee of a sentiment among some members to delay framing a new permanent tariff until conditions become more stable.

Seven Hundred And Forty Students
Vocational Committee Hear Reports — Electricity and Chemistry Classes to Open.

A meeting of the Vocational Committee was held at 430 yesterday afternoon. Those present were the chairman, Dr. A. F. Emery; Mrs. W. Edmond Raymond, Mrs. Richard O'Brien, Alex. Wilson, secretary; A. Gordon Leavitt and the director, W. C. Lawson.
The director reported that the following classes had been opened during the past week: Motor mechanics, show card writing, bookkeeping, elementary mechanical drawing, machine design, building construction, dressmaking, millinery, domestic science, and on Tuesday next the classes in electricity and chemistry will be opened. These are the best of the classes provided for, and the number in attendance will be about 475.

Number of Applications
The number of applications received so far is 740, of which 443 are women and 297 are men. The director stated that there was no doubt that there were as many more applications which would have been filed if the courses had been more widely advertised, and if it had not been necessary to inform applicants that the classes in the most popular courses had been filled up before the New Year.

The majority of the classes are full but a few more can be accommodated in the drawing, chemistry and building construction classes.
It was recommended that additional classes in dressmaking, millinery, motor mechanics, show card writing and bookkeeping be opened to provide for the large number who have applied for training and who could not be accommodated in the present classes.

It was decided that, owing to the limited funds at the disposal of the committee, it would not be possible to extend the programme any further this year.
It was decided to hold a series of lectures, one each week, beginning next Wednesday evening, on popular subjects connected with the Home-making course for those enrolled, and which would be given by authorities

Her Friends Said She Was Going To Die
WHY MRS. MARKLAND PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

She Suffered Terribly and Lost Sixty Pounds, But Dodd's Kidney Pills Started Her on the Road to Health.
Picton, Ont., Jan. 14.—(Special)—Enthusiastic in her praise of Dodd's Kidney Pills is Mrs. Finlay Markland, a well-known and highly respected resident here. And Mrs. Markland is always willing to tell why she pins her faith to the great Canadian Kidney remedy.
"Two years ago I had a bad attack of flu and pneumonia," she states, "and the poison in my system all went to my kidneys and gave me diabetes. I had it for nearly a year before I knew it, but last fall I broke out all over with boils.
"I suffered something terrible. I went down in flesh till I lost 60 lbs. The doctor put me on starvation diet. I could not even put my shoes on. My husband and all my friends thought I was going to die.
"Reading of what Dodd's Kidney Pills had done for another woman with kidney trouble led my husband to get some for me. After I had taken two boxes I began to feel better. I have taken 21 boxes and feel splendid. I can do my work and eat almost anything. I have gained 20 lbs. I tell all my friends what grand pills Dodd's Kidney Pills are."

Petition Legislature
The chairman spoke of the unsatisfactory nature of the present law regarding Vocational Training in the province and its application to the City of St. John, having, as it does, some doubt as to the powers and status generally of the committee.
On motion of Alex. Wilson, seconded by Mrs. Raymond, the question of petitioning the legislature for a change in the Vocational Act, making the vocational committee separate and independent from the Board of School Trustees with all the power of the school board, was referred to a committee with instructions to draw up a resolution to that effect to be submitted to the next regular meeting.

Mention was made of the fact that the Board of Trade had a committee whose object was among other things the promotion of Vocational Training, and if it was desired by the community, every effort should be put forth by all interested in it at this time to establish it on a firm footing.

You can get votes and subscriptions anywhere.

Votes will be given on new subscriptions to The Standard and on renewals of old subscriptions that are paid in advance, also on payment of arrearages.

The opening date is Saturday, Jan. 23rd, and the first published list of candidates and the votes cast for each will be published in the editions of The Standard on that date. Candidates may begin voting-gathering at once, however, and votes will be issued for subscriptions secured from today on. Receipt books will be ready at the Contest Department of The Standard today. OBEY THAT IMPULSE

Send in your Entry Blank TODAY. Although active voting in the Contest does not begin until Jan. 22nd, votes will be issued on subscriptions secured before that date. Receipt Books will be ready at the Contest Department of The Standard, and there is nothing to prevent you from getting a runaway start while others are making up their minds as to whether they will enter or not.

Send in your Entry Blank at once, and get in your order for receipt books and other supplies. Then phone or write all of your friends whom you cannot personally call on. Tell them that you are going to enter the competition and that you would appreciate their support.

Do not wait until the first vote period is nearly over before making your start. The early start is half the battle.

NOT LUCK! NOT CHANCE! EFFORT ALONE WILL WIN THE PRIZES!

The Object of the Prize Contest

The object of this big undertaking is to secure new prepaid subscribers to The Morning and Semi-Weekly Standard; also to secure renewals, and collections of back subscription accounts, and while doing this to ascertain who are the most ambitious, persevering and determined men and women of this section of Canada. It costs nothing to participate in the competition. We furnish valuable prizes, while you furnish the new subscribers, renewals or collections in your spare moments.

An Early Start for Winners

One of the outstanding features of a short competition of this kind is that the early entrants usually carry off the big prizes. The declining vote schedule will also undoubtedly give the "early birds" an advantageous lead over those entering later.

AN EARLY START IS HALF THE BATTLE. ENROLL TODAY. THE CONTEST ONLY LASTS A FEW SHORT WEEKS.

The Districts

The territory covered by The Standard has been divided into two districts to equalize the distribution of the prizes, as follows:

DISTRICT NO. 1—Comprises all territory within the city limits of Greater St. John, including all suburbs and sub-divisions.

DISTRICT NO. 2—Comprises all territory outside the city limits of Greater St. John.

NOTE—Candidates are not confined to their own districts in securing votes or subscriptions—these may be secured anywhere by any of the candidates or their friends.

There Will Be No Losers

To each and every active candidate who works up to the close of the contest and does not win one of the valuable prizes, we will give ten per cent on all subscription money which he or she has personally collected, provided the amount turned in by said active candidate exceeds the sum of $25. There will, under this plan, be no losers. Every candidate who has earnestly made an effort to win one of the costly prizes will get something for his or her efforts.

RULES OF THE SUBSCRIBERS' GUESSING CONTEST

1. A subscriber may enter into the Barley Guessing Competition, provided he or she gives a subscription to a candidate in The Standard's Big Prize Contest, or pays a subscription into the Contest Office of The Standard for the benefit of a candidate.

NOTICE—Read rule 1 carefully. Notice that the subscriber must pay directly to a candidate or to the contest office. A subscriber will NOT be allowed an estimate if his or her subscription is paid to an agent who deducts a commission on the subscription.

2. One guess will be given for each dollar paid on subscription under the above conditions.

3. The Free Prizes for the subscribers' Guessing Contest will consist of the following:

- 5 Passenger Ford Touring Car.
- $215.00 Phonograph.
- Five $10.00 Cash Prizes.
- Five $5.00 Cash Prizes.
- 10 Orders for 1 Year's Subscription to The Standard.

4. Either the candidate or the Contest Department of The Standard will supply you with the necessary blank or blanks to fill in your guesses.

5. A subscriber or candidate may send subscriptions to boys at Military Hospitals or to other friends, and be entitled to send in guesses.

6. In the event the person subscribing does not wish to take advantage of the Subscribers' Guessing Contest, the candidate who secured the subscription may enter guesses on the subscription, provided said subscriber gives the candidate written permission to do so, in a case of this kind the following is to appear on the back of the guessing coupon: "I have submitted this guess, as subscriber did not wish to take advantage of the Guessing Contest," the candidate's signature must be attached. Then, also, this article must follow: "I relinquish all claims to any prize in your subscribers' contest which this coupon may win in favor of the above signed candidate." Subscriber's signature must be attached.

7. In the event of a tie, priority will be the deciding factor, and the tying guesses which reached us first will be given the preference. If the tying guesses reached the Contest Department simultaneously, the subscriber who gave the longest term subscription will be given the preference. If the tying guesses arrived simultaneously and the same amounts were paid by the parties tying, new subscribers will be given the preference over renewals or arrearage subscriptions.

8. A subscriber may give his or her subscription or subscriptions now and send in his or her guesses any time before the close of the subscribers' Guessing Contest, which will be the same night as the close of the Candidate's Big Prize Contest.

9. We would suggest that you get a jar similar to the officially filled jar, fill your jar with barley, and count the kernels in it, and thus arrive at some sort of an estimate.

10. The winners of the Subscribers' Contest will be announced with the other prize winners at the close of the Big Auto Contest.

One year's subscription to The Standard may cause you to win this elegant 5-Passenger Ford or one of the other valuable prizes offered in connection with the Subscribers' Guessing Contest. You will be assisting yourself and a candidate as well by subscribing.

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are changeable—some bright, the next one cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much.
In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or grippe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out colds and by their use the baby will be able to take the winter season in perfect safety. The Tablets are

Apohaqui

Apohaqui, N. B., Jan. 14.—Owing to there having been no service in the Methodist Church on the first Sunday of the New Year, the service, which was held on Tuesday, was conducted by the pastor, Rev. L. Johnson Lead, on Sunday last, when a large number were present, who sang many away with them much food for thought from the sermon preached. In the early remarks of the discourse, the speaker suggested the expenditure of legislation the New Year with a clean sheet, by bundling up all hatred, jealousies, contentions and kindred sins and casting them into the "sea of Oblivion." Continuing, the pastor expounded four different views of life, viz.: "The world view," "The self view," "The pleasure view," and "The Divine view," concluding with a convincing decision in preference of the last named as the only view of life which he regarded as happiness.

The regular meeting of the Lower Millstream Branch of the Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Robert Robinson on Tuesday evening, when a large representation of ladies were present. An extra amount of routine business was transacted owing to the business part of the preceding meeting having been omitted, since at the close of the December session, the ladies served a delicious supper to the public, whereby they raised funds to contribute to the assistance of the blind. A very interesting and instructive paper, "Legal Rights of New Brunswick Women," was read by Mrs. W. A. McVay. At the close of the session, afternoon tea was served by Mrs. Fred Fenwick and Mrs. H. Beware of BRONCHITIS.

Bronchitis is generally caused by neglecting a cold, exposure to wet and inclement weather. It begins with a tightness across the chest, difficulty in breathing, and a wheezing sound coming from the lungs. There is a rattling of phlegm, especially the first thing in the morning. This is at first white, but later becomes of a greenish or yellowish color, and is occasionally streaked with blood. On the first sign of bronchitis you should check it immediately by using Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, thereby preventing it becoming chronic, and perhaps developing into some more serious lung trouble. Mrs. Eric Cullum, Sheffield, Ont., writes: "I was taken with bronchitis, and was very sick with it all winter. One day I saw Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup advertised, so I got a bottle, and it helped me very much; I then got a 60c. size, and it completely relieved me. I cannot praise Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup enough. It has helped me and my neighbors are now using it for colds." Don't accept a substitute for Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; get the genuine, in a yellow wrapper, with the trade mark, price 25c. and 60c.; manufactured only by The W. H. Moore Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FOR WOMEN

ASSESSMENTS

Women Wear Red Hats Now

Leather of Bright Hue a Favorite Material — Lacquered Flowers Seen.

London, Jan. 1.—The red hat is a favorite at present. It has taken innumerable forms, and it is surprising how many can wear it. Have women better skins than ten years ago, or have millions grown more expert? The cozier leather toque, dyed bright red, comes first; next, the red velvet toque. This is no camouflaged hat, but a real thing, and in looking at it one might be excused for fancying that when we have grown tired of it we are to have a more elaborate affair. It is not the only color. There is a deep rich shade of seal brown leather which is used as the basis of a toque and has for trimming a half circle or volute of flame orange, brown and red; the leather is very wide from side to side. Military flowers, lacquered over, also deserve mention.

Black Hat With Kid.

Red lacquer is, of course, first in favor; and a hat of stretched black kid with a wide turned up brim may have a wide turned up brim composed of small arabesque details lacquered red and crusted closely together. Sometimes a row of lacquered flowers in different shades encircle the crown, but being beside a saffron yellow beanie scarlet, and so on till the circle is complete.

Plushes are used as much as ever, and the long velvet plume will still have its place, however original the means of displaying it. The trends of the long black plumes are often tipped with silver, as though they were frosted over. The basis of the hat is coarse silver lace over silver tissues, and the trim is of mole skin, the fur most fashionable. At one time English women gave little attention to the lighter type of hat for restaurants, but this year the hat-making specialty of Paris, the French milliners, like the French call it, has taken the lead. The most part of the hats are of metal laces and tulle combined, and are light and airy, and the drapery of delicate lace often falls on either side of the face, providing the only trimming. Others have a veil of the lace covering the top and falling over the hair behind, but this is a much shorter than formerly. Fur is used, but sparingly; a twisted bow of fur is sometimes placed on one side of the hat, or wheel motifs of fur and lace combined make up the necessary decoration.

"Victoria Cross" Is Very Cross Indeed

Woman Writer Says Critics Need a Higher Type of Intellect—New Comedy.

By HUGH DRYDEN.
(Copyright, 1927, by Cross-Atlantic.)
London, Jan. 1.—There is a certain type of woman writer who has little patience with the more or less harmless necessary critic. Miss Marjorie Corbett and the late "Victoria Cross" is very cross indeed because the critics, as one man, have damned her first play, "The Greater Law," an adaptation from one of her novels. Produced at the Kensington Theatre, this effort, intended for a serious drama, has been utterly misconstrued by the newspaper men, who have drawn attention to its humor when they should have dwelt on its poignant appeal and soul-stirring action. They apparently confused the man one with the other, much to the author's disgust.

Not a Funny Play.
"My play is right about the critics," she said to an interviewer, "and they would need a higher type of intellect than they have displayed to appreciate and understand the problem presented. The audience have been most sympathetic and enthusiastic. That is the answer to my critics." Asked if she intended it to be a funny play, Miss Cross indignantly replied, "Certainly not!" "Will You Kiss Me?" is the restrictive title of a comedy produced at the Comedy Theatre. Adapted by Cyril Harcourt from the American novel, "Too Much Efficiency," by E. J. Rath, it preserves the American atmosphere of the book (which is perhaps necessary to the plot), but is acted by an entirely British company. The story of the millionaire who brings into his household a young "efficiency expert" to ginger up his idle and extravagant son and daughters (one of whom, with the provocative phrase of the play's title, brings about the reformer's downfall), is brightly and tellingly presented. And here is a first-class company of players to interpret it, including the beautiful Miss Marjorie Corbett, Miss Ann Trevor, Miss Betty Brough, C. V. Franco and Donald O'Callaghan.

Westress a Star.
An amateur performance of Thomas Hardy's "Return of the Native" at the author's home town, Dorchester, has revealed an actress of the highest caliber.

Girls! Girls! Save Your Hair With Cuticura

SMART EVENING GOWN

Evening gown of silver sequins and tulle, with a long waistline and a high collar. Posed by Carmel Myers, Universal screen star.

Paris Decrees The Long Waistline

Skirts Narrow But Slightly Longer.

Paris, Jan. 1.—Advance spring showings show silhouette straight and longer. Sleeves may be either short or long, with some weight in favor of the latter, particularly bell-shaped, and on the part of the blouse, which collar is to be pushed again, although the alligator or the straight shoulder-to-shoulder neckline is the most generally advocated. It is not so much the straight, slender silhouette as if women were definitely wadded to the straight, slender silhouette. At the showings waistlines were, if anything, longer, and frequently with little girly treatment of any sort, some times with merely rows of stitching, indicating where the skirt should be. As noted, there is an effort on the part of a few houses to return to high waistline and full skirt, so far it has not met with sufficient success to hold significant. Even the skirts have low waistlines very often; that is, if they have waistlines at all, for the short, straight, youthful jacket which the French call a "jeanette" is a strongly featured style. When the jackets are more fitted, the majority have short peplums, with girdles at the sides. In connection with this, however, the silhouette is apparently far from settled, and the French houses are understood to be working out many experimental styles.

Capes Strongly Featured.

Capes are not only retained, but strongly featured in these advance showings. Sometimes they are short or three-quarters, to accompany dresses, otherwise they are long, and the most noticeable is the smoothness with which they hug the shoulder-line. The coat style most frequently offered is the straight-line, narrow overcoat, with a half length, but often belted at the bottom, and with upstanding collar. The straight lines of the dresses are broken by simple, but elegant, draperies, such as panels of self material stitched across back or front of the skirt and left hanging loosely at the sides, or made by leaving the extra width of the goods at the sides after the seams are made. The loose pan or straight panel of self fabric or drifon is used over and over again, mostly at the sides, where they do not sensibly add to the width of the silhouette, but really give of feet of greater length, because they invariably fall below the hem of the dress itself.

ant who is a restaurant waitress has had no stage training nor even professional coaching for her performance. Miss Gertrude Bugler is a beautiful brunette, tall, graceful, young, and her perfect command of any actress on the regular stage.

Jan. K. Hackett's admirable "Macbeth" is to be withdrawn from the Aldwych Theatre after a run of only four weeks. This is not due to lack of appreciation on the part of London players, but to previous arrangements.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR GIRL

By HELEN ROWLAND
(Copyright, 1926, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Surely, no man ever WAS as stupid, as he looks to his wife, when he's asleep.

When a man can't tell you his reason for getting married, it is usually because some girl has decided that she wants to put "Mrs." on her cards.

A woman's mind is like a riddle "Fliver" car; it will run up hill and down again; scurry around the corner of a subject without stopping her; dodge skilfully through a mass of unlogical arguments; and keep right on going interminably, on the weakest bit of fuel.

Every man firmly believes that a girl's refusal to be kissed is just a cleverly eluded little ploy, designed to make herself and the kiss more desirable, and her contemplated surrender more interesting.

A man will sing "Home, Sweet Home," for hours, just in order to put off going there.

When love is dead, a woman shuts the door of her heart and mourns; a man rushes to open the door of his—and let in another love.

A confirmed bachelor has no furnace to "load to, no servants' problem to worry about, no wind o'-boxes to plant, and no mother-in-law to quarrel with. No wonder he spends his time swearing at a little girl-baby flirting with other men's wives, defying the 18th Amendment, and reading Nietzsche, and playing himself!

In love, a woman's most effective weapon is a smile—a man's, is a sigh.

How To Arrange A Sewing Room

Many Conveniences Which Will Add to Comfort of Home Makers.

By Jeannette Young Norton.
A sewing room is the center of activity in the modern country home; it is the modern woman's hub. In town houses, where rooms are at a premium, it is not always possible to devote a room exclusively to the purpose, as keenly as the need for it may be felt.

An Unusual Room.

A modern and well equipped sewing room seen recently is well worth describing as the many features which could be used by the children in emergency, may help others who are building new, or remodeling an old room for this use.

The room was situated at the north corner of the house, just over the kitchen, and was larger than it was the kitchen, and was divided into a dining room, a living room, a bedroom, a bathroom, a study, a kitchen, and a sewing room. The sewing room was a small room, but it was well equipped with a sewing machine, a table, a chair, and a stool. The room was divided into a dining room, a living room, a bedroom, a bathroom, a study, a kitchen, and a sewing room.

WEDDINGS.

A quiet wedding took place January 13th, at the Methodist parsonage, 23 High street, the Rev. Harry B. Clarke officiating, when Miss Hazel Blanche Clarke was united in marriage to Job Hart. The bride looked very pretty in a tailored suit of silver-toned blue, with velvet hat and fur. The bride and groom have the good wishes of a large circle of friends.

Odd Little Aids.

A long, wide, cutting table against the wall also dropped when not in use, and had a border printed inches and feet lengthwise into yards. The sewing table has a double row of special legs, large and small across one end. Scissor handle and pin cases were hanging everywhere at convenient distances. Two adjustable figures on small raised platforms were remarkably known as large and small "Mary Ann Drapes." Folding-legged lapboards, a boon to the fat and lumpy seamstress, were at hand, and comfortable sewing chairs were scattered through the room.

French Women Have Suits "Refreshed"

Economies Which Are Being Practised in Paris—How to Make a Fuel.

(Copyright, 1927, by Cross-Atlantic.)
London, Jan. 1.—Word comes across the channel that Parisiennes are economizing by renovating old clothes instead of buying new ones. Every Parisienne is thinking about the new frocks she would have had in the winter, but so many are putting the idea of purchase aside!

It has been necessary to "refresh" an old dress. Most Parisiennes budgeters have at last found that the tassel between income and expenditure is hopeless. The world is long to have been effective. Well-dressed Parisian women now say, "I've been thinking on the old dress I had in the wardrobe, and I've decided to refresh it."

New Style of Stocking.
Very interesting indeed is the new stocking which has lately been put on the Paris market and has been sent over to London. One of the little worries of the fashionable world is the friction of the new style of stocking on the feet, which is caused by the securing of a perfect ankle (in the fabric, of course) without the drawbacks of a seam which were many. Seams were a habit of becoming uncomfortable. Beautifully-shaped seamless stockings were obtained by shrinking tubular shapes over a form, and were effective as long as they were in the shop. But after they had been worn, or to be more correct, after they had been worn and washed—the shape had vanished with the seams.

The new stocking has not this defect. It has the desired ankle without the seam. So far it has withstood the exacting feminine test. It is said to be obtained by a very delicate arrangement of needles in the machine. Some of them can be temporarily withdrawn from activity during the shaping as if the process were hand workmanship.

Most popular of occupations among good managers in these days of the strictest economy is the making of fuel at home for the new fires that can be afforded. This has long been practiced in England and may even appeal to the less hardy folk overseas. Necessary materials are old newspapers, old books, sawdust and water. You collect as large a number as possible of old newspapers steep them in buckets of water along with a quantity of sawdust for 24 hours, and roll the paste thus obtained into balls. All there is to do after that is to leave them in the air to dry. Mixed with coal or wood, these balls of damped paper are the equivalent of the briquette and a great saving in the eyes of the economical housewife.

Tea Drinking Will Continue

Once again an eminent medical man—no less a personage than the King's physician—has joined the locusts. Before his distinguished peers in the House of Lords he tried to shatter the belief that the cup of tea—our most popular beverage—possesses any power of refreshment, and that it is a tonic.

Mere Illusion! That is the opinion of the doctor, and the "anti-teaers" have once more whooped with delight. But their joy is unwarranted. For years doctors have conjured up pictures of the appalling possibilities of drinking tea. We have read their indictments, thought about them, and continued to drink tea.

Who is it that thinks of dyspepsia or indigestion when tea-time approaches? One thought possesses us (excluding, of course, the tiny minority who still cling to Elizabethan ideas), the one of tea will stimulate us, it will cheer us, it will do us good. Does it matter that it is only an illusion, that we derive no physical benefit? Not a bit. Illusions are good to feed on. Even the doctor who turns us tells of the air of comfort, the association of the pleasant aroma that surrounds the cup of tea.

SORCERER SUED FOR INFLECTING A MAGIC SPELL

Supplied Woman With Magic Salt to Satisfy Family Differences.

HUSBAND MADE VIGOROUS KICK

Sachet Placed in Clothes Spoilt His Temper and Caused Law Suit.

Paris, Jan. 14.—The "Sorcerer of Tours" is being sued for 100,000 francs damages before the local court. By this name Eugene Chateau is known along the Loire Valley from Orleans to Saint Nazaire. In 1908, Chateau set up a "chamber of healing and spiritual advice" at 17 Avenue Tranches, Tours, which has been attended by a steadily growing throng of applicants who spread his fame and reputation for the necessary combined private detective work—investigation in the interest of families—and a matrimonial agency through a matrimonial review called "The Dream," with the profession of healing the sick whom the doctors despair of. He did not even disdain to do a bit of veterinary work, and more than one veterinary farmer owes to him the life of a valuable horse, or a pedigree bull. During the year he said to have successfully located "missing" soldiers, both alive and dead, and to have given a few favored believers who were willing to go through an elaborate rite—and pay a heavy bill—a mysterious talisman that carried them safely through every danger.

Banished Temptation. Witnesses are ready to testify on the sorcerer's behalf in the case now brought against him by a certain M. Salleron, who claims to have suffered physical pain and great moral distress as the result of the "treatment" administered without his knowledge by his wife on a husband's advice. Salleron also charges Chateau with having obtained money from his wife by false pretences.

It appears that Madame Salleron, during her husband's absence on military service, fell a victim to an unaccountable affection for one of her neighbors. The latter she was unable to resist temptation despite her reverence for her marriage vows, the good lady sought the counsel of a fortune teller, Madame Irma, a year in vocation word for word, while he himself addressed a spiritual appeal to Saint Michael and appointed her his wife. The temptation immediately vanished and Madame Salleron, restored to peace of mind, was not even ruffled by the sorcerer's heavy fee.

Husband Kicks. Unfortunately, however, this remarkable case made a stir in the neighborhood and the affair ultimately reached the ears of the woman's husband. He overhauled his wife with reproaches and generally made her life such a burden that she decided to see whether Chateau's husband would not have an equally good effect on him. For this purpose she obtained from the sorcerer, again at post-war prices, a small handful of magic salt, which had been sprinkled with "oil of the holy face." As instructed she placed it in a sachet which she sewed into the lining of her husband's clothes unknown to him. Far from improving, Monsieur Salleron's temper grew worse on account of burning pains that began to afflict him all over. First he thought it was rheumatism, but finally his wife sobbed out the truth about the sachet, and he promptly decided he was the victim of a malignant spell, for which he is now claiming damages.

MEN AND BUSINESS

(By Richard Spillane)

A newspaper man delivered an address on Sunday night and at the close, a crowd of young men went on the stage to ask questions. They fired interrogatories at him from every conceivable angle of the labor problem. You can get more light on what ails us in our industrial relations from such an experience than in any other one way. One of the questions asked was whether the newspaper man thought it was fair for a great plant in this city that employs thousands of men to make a worker lose an hour of time if he happened to be over a minute late.

Fined For Killing Moose Eating Crops

Farmer Acquitted of Shooting Cow Moose by Evidence He Found Animal Dead.

Special to The Standard. CHESAPEE, Jan. 14.—The Sussex police court when Judge Poindexter disposed of four accused parties who were charged with violation of the New Brunswick Game Law, was a real game day. The first case taken up was that of Weynon, son of Springfield, who was charged with killing a cow moose in the month of October. Mrs. who pleaded guilty, stated that when he killed the moose was a full grown bull. He fired three shots at it. A fine of $150 and costs was imposed.

Eating His Crops. He was found to set the dogs on a second time and stated that he proposed protecting his property and would shoot the animals if they persisted in destroying his crops. Mr. Somers sent for Mr. Sharp, who had a game license, and asked him to shoot the cow moose which he did. Proceedings recently taken against Mr. Somers resulted in a dismissal of the case, the plea of justification being allowed by Judge Poindexter. Sharp was fined $100 and costs and the department will be asked to allow the fine to remain uncollected.

Leola Bell of Sussex, was accused of killing a cow moose in October, on the Pleasant Lake road, in the parish of Waterford. After hearing the evidence of Edward McShane, Edward Buchanan and Warren Forsythe, the judge dismissed this case. Forsythe's evidence was that he and Bell, while walking along the road, discovered blood tracks which they followed five or six rods into the woods where they came upon the carcass of the cow moose. At the time they discovered the carcass they noticed a man in the distance but did not know who it was. Neither he or Bell had fired a shot while in the woods on that trip.

Apohaqui Re-Opens Superior School

New Structure to Replace One Destroyed by Fire is Very Modern Building.

Special to The Standard. Apohaqui, Jan. 14.—The Superior School re-opened on Monday, January 11th, with the former staff of teachers, its opening having been deferred to await the completion of the new school building which has been erected to replace the comparatively new structure which was destroyed by fire last summer.

Site is Excellent. Erected on the foundation of the former structure, it occupies a beautiful situation somewhat apart from the village at the "meeting of the ways"—where four roads join, and from its elevated position commands a panoramic view of the valley through which the Kennebecasis river winds its way and on the other hand, the imposing range of hills, from which Kings Co. has added beauty.

MOTOR PLANT RE-OPENS

Muskegon, Mich., Jan. 14.—The Continental Motors Corporation re-opened its local plant today with several hundred men. Other industries here plan to resume in a few days with small forces, which will be gradually increased.

HEARTBURN LIVER TROUBLE

When the liver becomes torpid and unable to do its normal work, it causes trouble to the bowels, thus causing them to become constipated. The stomach is also affected. In the case of heartburn there is a gnawing and burning pain in the stomach, attended by disturbed appetite, caused by great acidity. Whenever too much food is taken, it is liable to ferment, and become extremely sour, vomiting often occurs; and what is termed "acid indigestion" is caused by the same.

Keep your liver active by using Sibbern's Liver Pills and you will have no heartburn or other liver troubles. Being purely vegetable they do not grip, weaken or sicken like the old-fashioned purgatives generally do. Mrs. Mary Strum, Oshawa, Ont., writes: "I have used Sibbern's Liver Pills, and they have cleared me of heartburn and liver trouble. I don't think they can be beaten by any other medicine, and I can highly recommend them." Price 25c, a trial of all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. H. Barron Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Hurl Bombs in The Best Part of Dublin

Dublin, Jan. 14.—Shortly after one o'clock last night, an attempt was made to ambush a touring car containing auxiliary officers in Merion Square, one of the fashionable residential districts of Dublin. Two bombs were thrown, from a side street. One exploded and the other was afterwards found by the police. The car accelerated its speed, the occupants discharging their revolvers in the direction from which the bombs were flung. There were no casualties to the police and, so far as is known, the assailants also escaped.

Carried Lewis Gun

A woman crossing a field just outside Cork attracted the attention of a military and police patrol, according to a statement issued by Dublin Castle. The patrol followed her and discovered that she had dropped a Lewis gun. A search of the field revealed dugouts, which contained rifles, revolvers, a quantity of ammunition and other military equipment and certain papers.

The Leather Famine and Its Cause During the war leather goods were ordered without regard for the needs of the Army; nearly a million saddles were purchased for only 291,000 horses and mules; manufacturers were urged to deliver a million sets of harness, three for each animal, in the shortest possible time, and the number of harness specified was 2,552,833—seven for each mule and horse. The demands of the Government were so excessive as to require 200,000 more hides than were produced in the United States, and, of course, the shoe manufacturers were obliged to pay extravagant prices because of the reckless buying of the Federal agents, who seemed to have no sense of proportion.

ALLEGED BRUTE HEARS MOST DAMAGING EVIDENCE

George Drew on Preliminary Hearing in Police Court for Assaulting Northrup Children—Identified by Five Witnesses—Mother of Outraged Girls Breaks Down.

The preliminary hearing of George Drew was continued behind closed doors in the police court yesterday afternoon. Five witnesses positively swore to having seen him with the two little Northrup children, on whose persons he is charged with having committed a grievous assault and crime, on the day, and at times varying within a half hour of when the crime was alleged to have taken place.

The condition of the children on arriving home and on admittance to the hospital, and their present condition, was testified to by their mother, Dr. D. C. Malcolm, Dr. Campbell, and Miss Eva Smith, a nurse at the public hospital.

Drew did not maintain the composure that has been his since the time of his arrest. He protested to the Magistrate that Sergeant Detective Powers, by asking leading questions, was giving the evidence and not the witnesses. He said one witness was "making a hell of a mistake," and called him a liar.

Mrs. Northrup.
Mrs. Northrup, the mother of the children, broke down and wept several times, both before giving evidence and while on the stand. When asked by the Magistrate if she would like to take a seat near the table so she might hear all the evidence, she declined saying that if she got any nearer the accused she would tear his insides out.

On taking the stand she said she was the mother of a family of four girls, aged eight, six, four and two years respectively. The two children in the hospital, Evelyn and Pearl, were six and four. They left the house about four in the afternoon of December 29th and returned at about 4.30 both crying.

The mother was sitting by the stove in the kitchen, and Evelyn, in a faint, came into the room, fell in a faint into her lap.

Mrs. Northrup said she became greatly excited and asked Pearl what was the matter. She replied "Oh mama, the man killed me." He called me a — and spit in my face."

Broke Down.
At this juncture in her evidence Mrs. Northrup broke down, and turning to the Magistrate said, "Oh your Honor, I don't see why I have to sit here and look at the likes of him," pointing to the accused.

Regaining her composure after some few moments she continued, saying that she questioned the child as to who the man was but could get no answer. She then noticed blood on the little one, and on examining both of them laid them on the bed and hurriedly called a doctor.

Dr. F. T. Dunlop responded, and after seeing the children phoned for Detective Powers. The children were then taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Northrup identified the framer and children's underwear produced in court as that of her little ones. She said the younger child told her the man had taken her sister and herself down by the track for a drive.

Arnold Henriksen.
In answer to Sergeant Detective Powers, the next witness, Arnold Henriksen, aged 12, of Winter street, said that he saw Drew hauling two children on a sled on Stanley street on the 29th December. Just as the lad concluded his testimony Drew stood up in the dock and said: "Four Honor, Detective Power has been giving evidence ever since it started. Everybody's evidence has been from his mouth."

Magistrate Ritchie commended the prisoner on his protest, saying he was quite within his rights. He had not noticed the detective put any leading questions, he said, but would see to it that he did not do so in the future.

You Are The Man.
He then told Drew to come forward and question the witness. "He doesn't Drew did so, saying: "He doesn't

Joint Meeting At General Hospital

Agreement on Necessity of New Hospital Building, Epidemic and Remodelling Old

At a joint meeting of the Commissioners and staff of the General Public Hospital, it was agreed to lay before the Municipal Council the following proposals:

These technical advice should be procured upon the erection of a building to give accommodation to 125 general patients, maternity cases and children; that a new epidemic to provide accommodation for sixty patients should be built; and that the present hospital shall be remodelled.

Yesterday afternoon the Board of Hospital Commissioners met and transacted important business concerning the shortage of men, complaints from the staff and needs of the institution generally. M. E. Agar presided, and the following commissioners were present: Mrs. J. V. McLellan, F. Fiewelling, W. Emerson, J. L. O'Brien, Hon. Dr. Roberts, and Mr. McMillan, Dr. Henry Hedden, superintendent.

On behalf of the board, Mr. Agar cordially welcomed Mrs. J. V. McLellan to the board as its first lady member.

Staff Report
A report from the staff was read and discussed. The matter of providing accommodation was seen to be serious, and to be the reason for some complaints made. These complaints concerned a lack of head nurses to accompany visiting physicians on their rounds, imperfect charting of patients, inadequate supply of clean linen, incomplete reporting of symptoms. On motion it was passed that complaints of physicians shall be made first to the superintendent, in regard to linen, Dr. Hedden said that no one was responsible for the linen and that there has been a leakage. The question should be settled at once, and some checking system adopted. Following a committee were appointed to report at next meeting: Hon. Dr. Roberts, Mrs. J. V. McLellan and Alex. McMillan.

Miss Scott, superintendent of nurses, was asked to appear, and matters discussed with her. She suggested the placing of senior nurses in other houses, so as to accommodate more practitioners and so increase the nursing staff.

Miscellaneous Business
A list of Christmas donations received will be acknowledged. It was decided to order a certain quantity of milk from D. A. Porter, Haymarket Square. On motion, several medical students will be admitted to the hospital during the summer months. A meeting with the board for a bonus. A meeting with the vestrymen of St. Mary's church will be arranged to discuss a certain question. Dr. Hedden read the report from a doctor at the Royal Victoria Hospital, offering to give training to an anesthetist. The matter of a new engine, required for the laundry, was referred to Commissioners O'Brien, Emerson and Fiewelling. The meeting then adjourned for supper, which was served in the staff dining-room.

Hundred and Fifty Patients
In the discussion, Dr. Hedden stated there are 150 patients in the 150 beds of the hospital, and told of cleaning difficulties. Dr. Roberts insisted that perfect cleanliness is necessary and a liberal use of soap and water would greatly improve conditions. A committee was appointed to ask the Sub-District Board of Health for permission to send patients with contagious diseases to the Isolation Hospital, pending the closing of the epidemic for a thorough cleaning.

Re-classification of rooms in regard to higher prices was discussed and an increase was decided upon. The following members of the staff were then admitted: Drs. Addy, White, MacLaren, Bentley, Allingham, Abramson, McMillan, Curran and Kenner. The joint meeting agreed upon the necessity of a new hospital building, a new epidemic, and the remodelling of the present hospital. The following committee was appointed to appear before the municipal council: Commissioners Agar, O'Brien, Roberts, Emerson and the following physicians, Drs. Skinner, White, Addy, Barry and Curran.

East St. John Ratepayers Meet
Estimate of Cost of Installation of Water and Sewerage Amounts to $51,300.

The second meeting of the ratepayers of the East St. John district was held in the Edith Avenue Mission East St. John last evening. An interim report with a plan prepared by Mr. Murdoch who made a survey of the district under consideration. A rough estimate of the cost of installation of water and sewerage on Park, Mount Pleasant and Edith Avenues, from the Reg Head to Beacon street, Coleridge Bay Heights, forming a distance of approximately 10,000 feet, including cross streets, was estimated at about $51,300.

As it is a matter of considerable moment to the residents of the included district, it was decided to get fuller particulars as to the actual cost, and also ascertain if East St. John were to join St. John, what proposition the city was willing to make.

The general expression of the meeting was against uniting with the city. Before coming to any definite conclusion it was thought better to ascertain all the facts to enable the citizens to consider the matter in an intelligent manner.
