HON. MR. CRERAR OUTLINES PLANS

Meeting in Woodstock Told of Platform of United Farmers—
Says High Tariff has De-

Woodstock, N.B., Dec. 10.—At a big public meeting this evening the platform of the United Farmers of Canada was outlined by Hon. T. A. Crerar, former minister of agriculture and president of the Grain Growers' Association of Canada; G. F. Chipman, editor and managing director of the Grand Growers' Guide of Winnipeg, and T. W. Caldwell, M.P. O. L. Smith, president of the United Farmers Co-operative Company of New Brunswick Ltd., was chairman and in introducing Mr. Crerar referred to him as probably the next premier of Canada.

Mr. Caldwell made a brief speech in which he thanked the electors of his constituency for the vote they had given him.

Mr. Chipman referred to the growth of the farmers' party movement, saying that the membership now in Alberta, Ontario, and Saskatchewan totaled about 150,000. The farmers' platform, he said, had been outlined by the Canadian Council of Agriculture and had favored public ownership of railways, postal and water navigation and mines.

Other planks in the platform included the abolition of titles, compelling newspapers to publish full facts with regard to their ownership, the abolition of the order-in-council form of government to be replaced by government by the legislature, direct legislation that is giving the people a voice in the government of the country when the legislature does not reflect the voice of the people; no natural resources to be alienated from the crown, but be given on short term leases; the basing of taxation on the prices fixed on lands for sale by land owners. This was in an effort to release vast tracts of land, which the speaker claimed, were held by speculators.

The speaker said that in Manitoba the method of raising campaign funds had been to have each elector in a group of ten give $1. the proceeds then being brought to the convention by the delegates and sufficient funds had been provided. He looked to see a large delegation of farmers in the next federal house—every rural seat in western Canada, he felt certain would elect a farmer.

Mr. Crerar received a fine reception when he arose to address the meeting. He first stated that the new national policy, which has been adopted, as the farmers' platform, was not a class policy as claimed by many. A study of the platform would show one of the most important planks in the farmers' policy was the tariff at which they were aiming for reduction in the necessities of life. Protection, Mr. Crerar said, meant the conferring of special privileges on the industries protected. It is claimed by the protectionists, Mr. Crerar said, that the high tariff aimed at the promotion of industries at home, but the net result has been that the manufacturer in Canada, producing under the same conditions as the American manufacturer, can set his prices at the same level as the manufacturer across the line, with the amount of the duty added.

The speaker condemned high tariff as demoralizing and said that our Canadian manufacturers were not so efficient as they would have been if they had had world competition. The protection of the tariff meant the extension of privileges to a few. To replace the revenue which at present accrued from customs duties the farmers advocated increased income tax and the taxing of the unimproved value of lands. In 1918, he said, Canada's income tax had totalled $20,000,000. New Zealand had raised the same amount with a population of only 1,000,000. He would like to see unity on all sides in Canada.

The chairman at the close of the meeting said the organization had no funds and a collection was taken to defray the expense of the meeting. A vote of thanks was tendered the speakers on motion of Mr. Caldwell.

SOME WOULD BOND THE TOWN

To Raise Money for Streets, Lights and Water Works

The town election will be held the first Tuesday in January. This shall mean the election of six aldermen and a mayor. For the best interest of the town there should be two full tickets, as experience has shown that the greatest amount of satisfaction comes from the popular election of any public body rather than election by acclamation.

The first Town Council was immediately confronted with a number of deep problems which were not easy to solve. One of these problems was the thankless task of trying to please everybody and the Council meets at the end of the year finding themselves very generally criticized with few who praised them.

The Observer has endeavored to get an expression of opinion and a very large number of citizens favor bonding the town for the purpose of furnishing proper streets, lights, sewerage and repairs to the water-works system.

A meeting is called to be held on the evening of Dec. 26 when the Council will be asked what they can promise the people if they seek re-election and a new element will probably be definitely heard from.

The EMPTY STOCKING

There's an empty stocking hanging from many a little bed,
Where a God-blown dream hangs over each sleeping curly head;
And the vision gathers nightly of a day that's soon to come,
Where little feet should patter to the music of the drum.

There's an empty stocking hanging by many a wind-blown door,
That must wait in vain for Christmas, in the gray haunts of the poor;
And eyes that now shine brightly shall, through a rain of tears,
See nothing there on Christmas but the sorrow of the years.

But out where splendor centers in the mansions of the great,
No call will go unanswered, no ear will vainly wait;
The Christmas horn will summon—the Christmas drum will roll
The tide of joy in magic through the gateway of each soul.

But where one gift would brighten the dark of weary days,
No reindeer's hoof will thunder o'er Poverty's drear ways;
And so, for God's white reason—for some we dreamer's cause—
Don't you think that you might whisper just a word to Santa Claus?

A Dance Among the Pioneers

WHEN the Prince of Wales and his immediate suite left the train at Orient Bay for three days' fishing, the reporters were shunted down to the townships of Nipigon and laid aside in the middle of the settlement on the C.P.R. tracks.

Some genius made a happy discovery—there was a Finn dance held every Saturday evening in the little yellow hall away behind the C.P.R. station, and there was a beautiful floor, and there were in normal times two men there to every woman, and there would be lots of fun, so let's all go. Well, all went from Mr. A. B. Calder, who represents the president of the C.P.R., to the little boy who peels the potatoes, and the marine orderlies of the Prince of Wales.

By nine o'clock at least fifty people from the royal train, almost half the outfit, had found their way to the little dance hall. Each paid his quarter, received his slip, and then handed it back to the fair-haired Finn at the door, who smilingly received each newcomer. It was a pleasant little hall, with a beautiful floor. A curtained stage at the end showed that it was used for other kinds of entertainment. Plain chairs lined the sides and ends. A single strong oil lamp swung from the middle of the ceiling, and lent the dim, soft light that makes the dance a dream. All around the wall were Finnish signs, "Do not smoke. Intoxicating liquors strictly prohibited." Over the stage was displayed a Finnish pennant which, translated, read "The place of gathering of the working people." On either side of the stage hung two Union Jacks.

The visitors distributed themselves on the chairs round the walls, not quite sure of the etiquette of the gathering, but the natives soon began to arrive, and they followed suit, so all felt at ease. Presently Nestor Mannila, the Finn accordion player, began to tune up. He was an artist, that Nestor. His hair was not worn a la Padonowski, but plastered down flat as paint streaks on a graven image. But his elaborate attitudinizing of the slow, solemn movement of his head from side to side as he laid one gaunt cheek after another on the ends of his instrument, the dreamy look in his deep-set eyes, all pointed to the musician of quality. He was a master and one felt it as he played. He started off with a waltz, waltz waltz, but with a waltz, waltz waltz, he broke into a waltz. The tune he played throughout the evening never varied except once when he broke unexpectedly into "Comin' Thru' the Rye," but he changed the time to suit the different dances.

Noise of the Anglo-Saxon party knew just how to start, but then Mrs. McKirdy, a dear old lady who constituted herself a sort of chaperone for the strangers, came up and asked if they would like to meet some of the ladies. Of course they would. Few had yet come, but she introduced two Swedish girls, Hulda Sjoland and Rogus Olsen, one dark, the other fair, both fine dancers and the floor was soon full.

Gradually more people came in and the dance went along merrily. All constraint wore off and the men went up and begged dances from the girls at random. There was no sitting out. You just led your partner back to her seat and bowed gravely. Chairs were at a premium and you had done your duty when you got her one.

The cosmopolitan nature of the affair, the strange chance that brought these people together from a hundred corners of the world to take pleasure for a few brief hours in each other's company, that was the outstanding feature of it all. If you glanced round the room between dances you saw first a group of Indians sitting together, half a dozen girls, mostly clad in black which they greatly admired, but one of them, a red like the first rosy bloom of the dawn tinging her dark cheeks and clad in a bright sweater, just out of the crowd, and half a dozen braves. Next to them sat the Swedish girls, fresh and comely and as well-dressed as the girls in Toronto and that the Canadian folk, women who had followed their men to the wilds for love of them. The majority of the Finlanders sat at the head of the hall.

The little Toronto girl danced as happily with the boy camp cook from the power plant as with the best dressed man there. A New York cameraman, who has travelled the world, waited with an Indian belle, who looked joyous enough to decorate a tombstone. A London clubman, who had burnt himself to a lean, long, brown shadow in twenty-five years of India's sun, tried to snap up with a fair-haired daughter of Sweden, but found that his training in British ballrooms could not give him a dancing equality with his partner in the latest American boy and had to lead her back to her seat, bending gracefully over her and murmuring many apologies. "Ben Morrison," a diminutive blue-coated English marine discovered a lady from London among the Canadians present and was happy for the rest of the night. A son of the Southern States, one of America's foremost "movie" camera men, was eloquent with his soft, slow, "Ah, don't know when I enjoyed myself so much," after leading back a speechless Finn girl to her seat.

Oh, Jehovah! if the little prince had only been there!

Dogs Eat Requiem Church.
In the Hudson Bay country, where the dogs are half wolves, a band of these famished animals actually ate up a church. The Requiem Christians had built a tiny chapel to hold twenty people. But the poor savants did not long enjoy the little church, of which they were so patriotically proud. The building was of whalebone, an edible substance, and one Sunday the pagan dogs ate every morsel of the sacred edifice.

Belgium Decorate Graves.
For the first time since the war the Belgians were allowed to commemorate the death of their fallen heroes on November 1st. All Saints' Day was celebrated with great pomp in Brussels. Burgomaster Max deposited flowers on the graves of Belgians, Canadians, British, French and Russians. Wreaths were also deposited on the grave of Van Campenhout, the composer of La Brabançonne, the Belgium national anthem.

COPENHAGEN

CHEWING TOBACCO

Copenhagen is used differently from ordinary chewing tobacco. Take a small pinch, for a start, and put it between the lower lip and gum, in the centre.

Afterwards you can increase the size of the pinch to suit the strength of the chew you desire.

Copenhagen is strong, because the tobacco of which it is made is cut into fine grains, which make it impart its strength thoroughly and quickly.

Hence, a little "pinch" goes a long way, showing that Copenhagen is not only an unusually economical chew, but also one of the finest quality, being made of the best, old, rich, high-flavored tobacco.

Clark's Hotel

This week I offer an exceptionally good opportunity to any person desiring to secure a hotel property that has been one of the best money-makers on the river. This is the Clark Hotel in the Town of Hartland. The building is one of the most attractive in town, very conveniently located, and very completely equipped with all furniture and utensils for a going concern. There are 15 good sleeping rooms, good office, ladies' parlor and large dining room. Here is a splendid opportunity to open a hotel catering exclusively to the best paying trade. This proposition will bear strict investigation.

One of the most valuable properties in the Town of Hartland is the Morgan property near the station. This consists of a well-built, two-story building, 24x40 feet. Entirely steel covered, the insurance rate is low, while the store is one best business stands on the river. The upper flat, with seven rooms and bath, is a very pleasant home for any one. Included in this property is a frost proof potato house and three hay sheds, with siding close to them. There is also sufficient land to erect another building. Over the warehouse are two well finished tenements, always rented at good prices. The rent value of the whole property exceeds $100 a month. This is a splendid buy for a man with the money; or part of the purchase price may remain on mortgage.

The land alone is worth more than half the price of the whole thing, while the buildings could not be built for a great deal more. With 180 feet frontage along the railway track the property is always easily saleable. Any person interested in this buy should speak quick. Price on application.

Another desirable property is a nicely situated residence, one of the most attractive in town of Hartland. This will surely interest any one wanting a cozy home not two minutes walk from the station or post office.

A partly completed house on a nice lot near the school is offered at a real bargain for a quick sale.

G. B. Nixon's Farm

G. Burton Nixon of Somerville has listed his fine big farm with me and if there is anyone wanting what many consider the very finest farm in Carleton county here is your chance to get it. The property consists of the Joseph McGee and the W. J. Boyer farms, side by side, containing upwards of 300 acres of arable land, with a down-hill haul from the back field to Hartland station. One of the biggest, newest and most modern barns in the province just a half a mile from the station. House is thoroughly modernized and occupies one of the most beautiful sites on the river. Investigate this rare opportunity of farming in big, modern business-like fashion.

A fine farm of 115 acres, 85 cleared, 5 miles from Hartland station and 2½ miles from Valley railway. All needed buildings including new garage. Pump in yard and unfailing springs on farm. Every foot of the land is tillable and very productive. There is plenty of fuel and quite an amount of good lumber, with easy haul to mill. This is priced most attractively.

A 200 acre farm, 7 miles from Hartland, 3 miles from Valley Railway. Complete set of buildings, a splendid potato farm under state of high cultivation. Lots of lumber and hardwood, and the early buyer gets a bargain.

A 300 acre farm only two miles from Hartland is a rare bargain for anyone who wants a big farm close to market.

For all details concerning any of these properties consult me at my office in the store of Hartland Drug Co., Ltd. If just what you want is not in the list we may be able to interest you in something else.

MRS. M. PECK HAS GAINED 25 POUNDS

Nine Years Trouble Ends and She Is Well and Happy Now

"I have gained twenty-five pounds since I commenced taking Tanlac, and the troubles that have been making life miserable for me for nine years have been completely overcome," said Mrs. Minnie Peck, who lives at 9874-55th Ave., Edmonton, the other day.

"When I commenced taking Tanlac," continued Mrs. Peck, "I was so weak and run down that I was hardly able to get about. Everything I ate disagreed with me, and I would suffer for two or three hours after every meal on account of gas forming and bloating me up. I would have severe cramping pains in the pit of my stomach. I was very nervous, so much that the slamming of a door would upset me terribly, and a good night's sleep was out of the question for me. I would actually get out of bed every morning feeling more tired and worn out than I did the night before. This condition just kept getting worse all the time until I got to where I was compelled to stay in bed most of the time."

"Then I decided to give Tanlac a trial, and it's the honest truth, I commenced to feel better before I had finished my first bottle of this wonderful medicine, and my condition just kept getting better until I am now as well as I ever was in my life. I never have a sign of stomach trouble now, and I have a fine appetite and eat just anything I want. I have gotten back all my strength and can easily do all my housework. My nerves are in perfect condition, and I sleep like a child every night. It is simply wonderful the way I have gained in weight, and in fact, I just feel fine all the time. Yes, Sir, Tanlac is a wonderful medicine and as long as I live I will never lose an opportunity to say a good word for it."

Tanlac is sold in Hartland by Bates & Curtis Co., in Bristol by Dr. G. W. Somerville, in Centerville by Stevens Bros., in Woodstock by E. W. Blair, in Benton by W. E. Porter, in River de Chate by Daniel B. Baird, and in Florenceville by A. B. Lovell and in Bath by Bath Drug Co.

THE VOCATIONAL SCHOOL

Much comment has been made relative to the Vocational School and its purpose since its activity became an established fact, due to the efforts of the gentlemen comprising the committee, which is entrusted with the development of the school. The comments made for the most part, we are glad to state, have been of a complimentary nature; it is realized by the majority of the people that the aims of the Vocational School are good and well worthy the necessary sympathetic support to make it a success. True, there are a few, a very few, who have ridiculed the project. This is not strange, it is quite natural. There always will be knockers, in fact, they are a necessary and, we might say, a useful evil in as much that rather than having a discouraging effect upon those conducting the affair, ridiculed, they stimulate them to the effort of convincing their critics that their conception is entirely wrong. However, to return to the majority, those who can readily see and appreciate the benefits to be derived from the courses given at the Vocational School, we might say that the unanimous verdict has been that "it certainly offers a good opportunity to the young boys and girls; they should certainly take advantage of it."

Now, to foster such an opinion and yet have eligible members of the family, who can well afford to spend the winter months at school, remaining at home, well, it would indicate one of two things, providing the comparatively small financial outlay is not the determining factor, and these are: That the influence of the parents in directing the welfare of the family is not truly evidenced in the home, or the family as a whole is resigned to await the verdict given the school by the students taking the initial courses.

Below is given the list of applicants to date for the Course in Agriculture and Farm Mechanic. They are all sons of truly progressive Carleton County farmers, and they realize that to "be shown" the policy should not be to wait but to enroll.

DAME PETER LAMMARE

"I think it my duty to tell you how much your medicine has done for me. I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good. Then, I used one box of 'South-Salve' and two boxes of 'Fruit-Salve' and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is a marvelous cure because no other medicine did me any good and I tried all the remedies I ever heard of, without benefit until I used 'South-Salve' and 'Fruit-Salve'."

'Fruit-Salve' cooled the blood and removed the cause of the disease, and 'South-Salve' completed the cure."

The Mysterious Gift

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union.)

In the little transfer depot of a railroad junction, Rolfe Dayton sat muffled up in his overcoat directly behind a bench containing five persons. These were an old man, a woman, evidently his wife, two little children and a young girl, whose grace and beauty were radiant even in the fitted glow of a spluttering oil lamp. Dayton was waiting for a southbound train, the little family group, he gathered from their conversation, for one bound in the opposite direction. Elston had been named as their destination and Dayton was interested, for that was where he resided.

He was a young man not more than thirty, but some adverse experience seemed to have clouded his life, to judge from a certain world weariness in eyes and face. He was courteous to those he came in contact with, but making no close friends or acquaintances.

From what Dayton overheard he was able to surmise that the man was Robert Lane, who had recently failed in the city, broken down in health, and he acted hopeless and discouraged.

The little ones were the orphan children of a married daughter. What attracted the attention of Dayton was the infinite pains of his other daughter, whom he called Arline, and of his wife to cheer him and make him comfortable.

"Only a few hours more, father dear," spoke the young girl soothingly, "and we will be in our new home. Then you must take a long rest and burden your poor tired soul with nothing for weeks and weeks."

"And what is to keep us all from drawing in the meantime?" asked the old man with a dismal sigh.

"Oh, we have arranged for everything," answered Arline brightly. We have been very fortunate to secure that cheap, pretty house in Elston. The rent is scarcely anything; the agent has been most kind in seeing that our furniture was received and put in place. I shall find work, mamma can help out with her sewing and oh! the agent writes me there is a large lot for gardening and chicken houses and buildings for a cow and all that."

"Which looks very fine," submitted the invalid, "but it costs money to stock up such a place."

"Yes, and fast as I earn money we will proceed to do it, if we have to buy only one chicken at a time," declared Arline buoyantly. "Oh! indeed, it will be rare, delight to gradually build up our lives new all over and forget our old troubles."

Their train arrived and Dayton, impelled by his strong human interest in these unfortunates, hastened to relieve Arline of one of the two satchels she carried. She bestowed a grateful word for the courtesy. Dayton stood watching the train till it was gone.

The new life began for the Lanes amid novel and engrossing experiences. Even the depressed father took an interest in life. They got the garden plat ready for planting meantime, and one morning little Edna came rushing into the house quivering with excitement.

"Oh, daddy!" she cried wildly, "the chicken house is just full of the most beautiful hens and roosters you ever saw!"

Arline hurried out to the rear of the lot. She could scarcely believe her eyes. Nearly thirty of the fowls of the tribe were visible where there had been emptiness. When had they come—who the generous donor? The mystery puzzled and disturbed, but as the days went on no explanation materialized and the Lanes were content to enjoy the gifts that the gods had bestowed.

One day Dayton passed the house and Arline learned that he was their landlord. He bowed politely on that occasion, on another paused to have a little chat with Mr. Lane and one afternoon when there was a circus in town took the two little ones to the entertainment. He seemed to experience a pleasure in witnessing the perfect harmony, industry and contentment of the happy home group.

He smiled indulgently as Arline told of her strange acquisition of live poultry and one day the mystery became so no longer. Some one had left the chicken yard gate open. Arline's cherished brood was gone. In great trepidation she ran out into the rear lane. In the distance she made out her faithful guests led by a majestic chanticleer making for new feeding grounds. As she caught up with them, breathless and excited, they fled into the garden and then into the chicken yard of Mr. Rolfe Dayton.

He himself smiled at her pretty confusion from the house porch. Arline was flushed and embarrassed as the truth flashed over her mind. "You were the generous donor," she burst forth in her impetuous way. "Why not? with plenty to spare," he challenged with a smile.

And that the broods are returned to your excellent charge. In fact I will myself get them back where they belong."

Which he did, and enjoyed the fun and excitement of chase and capture, and Arline joined him, and Dayton dined at the Lane home, the task accomplished and came again the next day, and the next.

And, so unconsciously had she won his wonder and from his loneliness, that he realized that he had found something worth living for and told Arline so one day, and she was glad.

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF, HAIR STOPS FALLING

Save your hair! Get a small bottle of Dandruff right now—also stops itching scalp.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is sure evidence of a neglected scalp, of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Dandruff tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Dandruff from any drug store. You surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Dandruff. Save your hair! Try it!

IF YOUR CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH, CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children, of all ages and for grown-ups.

10 CENT "CASCARETS" FOR LIVER AND BOWELS

Cure Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliouness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath—Candy Cathartic.

No odds how bad your liver, stomach or bowels; how much your head aches, how miserable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliouness and sluggish bowels—you always get relief with Cascarets. They immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet and head clear for months. They work while you sleep.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL ITEMS

On Tuesday evening of last week the Methodist parsonage was the scene of a merry party when a large number of members from the four corners of the circuit gathered to spend a pleasant evening with the Rev. J. B. and Mrs. Champion. After a most delightful social hour the friends were called to order by John Watters of Lakeville, who on behalf of the guests presented Mr. Champion with a purse of $175 as a token of good will. Refreshments were then served by the females which all heartily enjoyed.

Santa Claus is beginning to make his presence felt in the different stores and the little tots get much pleasure from a survey of the windows and telling of the great expectations they have for Christmas morning.

Best White returned last week from New Jersey whither he had gone with a consignment of potatoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Niles of Bridge water, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Niles on Saturday.

W. F. Tilley has moved his family into the James Smith house on Tracey Mills Road.

Rex Beckwith is improving his residence by the addition of a second veranda.

Mr. Kinsella of St. John spent last week in Fredericton with friends. Vaughan Grant spent part of last week in Fredericton with friends.

An extra good program was enjoyed by a good house on Saturday evening. The five reel drama "Whose findeth a wife," a sequel to Hall Caine's startling novel "The Woman thou gavest me," was a most interesting feature. Coupled with this was the comedy drama "Back to the Farm." Special feature programs have been arranged by the proprietor for both Christmas and New Year's nights.

While coasting swiftly down the hill on Saturday, Harry Wilkinson had the misfortune to upset his flyer and to sustain quite serious injuries about the head and shoulders. The wounds and bruises of youth however are quickly repaired and Harry is getting along nicely.

Mrs. E. W. Burt is spending a couple of weeks in Fort Fairfield with her son, Dr. G. J. Burt.

David Burt left on Saturday for Fort Fairfield, where he will enter the employ of Hopkins Bros.

George Estabrooks has resigned his connection with the Valley railway and will take a commercial course in St. John this winter.

Miss Joan Estabrooks who has been ill at her home here is convalescing.

B. H. Huestis of St. John and B. J. Amey of Montreal spent Wednesday and Thursday here on business.

A Family Gift

The best gift for one's family, one well thought of during a whole year is a year's subscription to the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. It costs only $1.25 if remitted for in December, and with it you get the very best portrait of the Prince of Wales ever taken. The portrait is 16 x 22 inches. It is said the Family Herald is overwhelmed with orders this season and no wonder, for it is the best value to be had. It is a great family and farm paper.

Card of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Ellis wish to express their grateful thanks to their many friends and neighbors for their great kindness during the illness and death of their little daughter, Barbara Jean.
