SECY. BRYAN SAYS HE FEARS A WAR AND BACKS OUT

To Attach His Signature Would, in the Opinion of Late Secretary of State, Be Unfair to the Cause He Advocates, Prevention of War.

Washington, June 9.—William J. Bryan has resigned as Secretary of State, and his resignation has been accepted by President Wilson, to take effect immediately.

Mr. Bryan retires from the Wilson Administration because he is not able conscientiously to sign the note which the President is about to despatch to Germany. To attach his signature to this communication would, in the opinion of Mr. Bryan, be unfair to the cause nearest his heart—namely, the prevention of war.

At the direction of President Wilson, Robert Lansing Acting Secretary of State, has signed the note. It has been rushed into the hands of State Department experts to be coded, and will be on its way to Berlin by the time the public is reading the startling details of Mr. Bryan's refusal to lend his name to it as "Secretary of State."

The note to which Mr. Bryan was unable to subscribe firmly reiterates the position of the United States, reiterates President Wilson's previous demands and calls upon Germany for a prompt expression whether or not she intends to abide by the principles of international law and humanity.

MR. BRYAN'S LETTER.

Here is Secretary Bryan's letter of resignation:

"Washington, June 8, 1915.

"My Dear Mr. President,—It is with sincere regret that I have reached the conclusion that I should return to you the commission of Secretary of State with which you honored me at the beginning of your administration.

"Obedient to your sense of duty, and actuated by the highest motives, you have prepared for transmission to the German Government a note in which I cannot join, without violation of what I deem to be an obligation to my country, and the issue involved of such moment that to remain a member of the Cabinet would be as unfair to you as it would be to the cause which is nearest my heart, namely, the prevention of war.

"I, therefore, respectfully tender my resignation, to take effect when the note is sent unless you prefer an earlier hour. Alike desirous of reaching a peaceful solution of the problems arising out of the use of submarines against merchantmen, we find ourselves different irreconcilably

GERMAN ENVOY'S EMISSARY ON WAY TO BERLIN

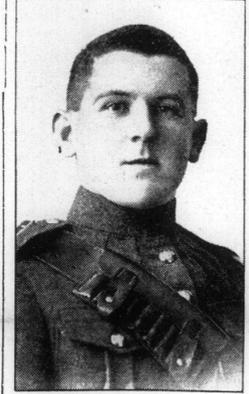

DR. MEYER GERHARD.

Dr. Meyer Gerhard is said to be the personal emissary of the German Ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, who left New York for Berlin, where he will enlighten the German government on the state of public opinion in America regarding Germany's undersea warfare.

It is understood Dr. Gerhard arrived in the United States in August last in company with Dr. Bernhard Dernburg and Count Sierstorff. At one time he was connected with the Interior Office in Berlin and also the German Colonial Office. He was born in Gibraltar in 1868 and studied in the universities of Marburg and Berlin. During 1895 and 1907 he was Chief Justice of German Southeast Africa. He has passed much time in London and is familiar with conditions in England. He has lectured in the United States giving the German side of the European controversy.

THE DOUBLE HONOR.

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Paris, June 9.—A. J. Warneford, the young Canadian aviator in the service of the British army, who Monday destroyed a German Zeppelin from his monoplane while the airship was flying over Belgium, has been given the Cross of the Legion of Honor for his exploit, on the recommendation of General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces.

Warneford was yesterday given the Victoria Cross by King George for his achievement.

IMPORTANT MATTERS BEFORE HOSPITAL BOARD GOVERNORS

New Operating Room to be Erected at Once—New Maternity Ward Equipped by Junior Hospital Aid is Now Ready—Financial Statement.

A number of important matters came up at a meeting of the Hospital Governors held yesterday afternoon. Present: Messrs. C. H. Waterson (President), G. Watt, Warden, Cooke, Dr. Bell, R. Sanderson, T. H. Preston, A. K. Bunnell, F. D. Reville.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

Miss Ford submitted a lengthy report for the month of May of which the following are extracts:

Number of admissions 90; number of discharges 93; number of operations 45; number in isolation 2; number of deaths 8.

The work in the hospital has been somewhat lighter, or has seemed lighter owing to the improved conditions, with the public wards in running order, and beds for all comers (at present), doing away with the constant changing of patients from one ward to another, to make room. In some instances, a patient brought in for a vacant bed, before the necessary changing of mattress, etc., could be accomplished, has made the general work more sympathetic and satisfactory. The board will notice that the operations for the month ran April a close second.

The date for the Nurses' Graduation has not yet been set, but would advise making it as early as possible. A fixed date for the exercises should be made. The Doctors' lectures and the class work can be completed by June 1st, and by adopting the first Wednesday or Thursday in June would avoid these movable dates. The hospital grounds are then looking their best, and fine weather can usually be counted on.

I deeply regret the fact that my assistant, Miss Robertson, has sent in her resignation which was to take effect May 31st, but has kindly consented to remain, however, for a limited time, until her place can be filled. Miss Robertson refuses to reconsider her resignation.

TWO GENEROUS DONORS.

The two rooms so beautifully furnished through Mrs. Peter Wood's generosity are now completed, and we feel extremely proud of them. One is occupied at the original price of $15.00 per week, and it remains for the board to determine whether the price is to be raised or remain as formerly.

PRIVATE C. NUTTYCOMBE SENDS A DESPATCH ON HIS FIRST FIGHT

Hot Corner With the Bosches Making Death Easy—Lay in a Ditch For Hours Before He Got Them to the Dressing Station.

Private C. Nuttycombe sends a vivid and exciting despatch from the hospital in Boulogne and later the continuing from a letter address at 26 Ashford Road, Lutley, Plymouth, Devon.

Nuttycombe had quite a hot corner to share for a time before he got to the dressing station with his wounds.

"Ashford Road, Lutley, Plymouth, Devon, England.

"My dear (Mr. Bowden).—Many thanks for your kind letter to me which I received this morning. I have heard from Albert for a fortnight now and I get very anxious. I got you a little of what Albert wrote to me. After being moved from the place where I received my wound I have been to three hospitals now. I am writing this letter in Boulogne, but we are waiting to go to another hospital somewhere. Well—I am glad to say my wound is not very serious, but it has been, you see where we were fighting we had it pretty hot. I lay down on the 22nd, (we were being driven down between our flank when the order came to pack up and fall in outside our billets at 2 a.m.

BRYAN GOES BACK TO PRIVATE LIFE--WILSON REMAINS FIRM

---PEACE ADVOCATE RETIRES FROM CABINET---

WILL SUPPORT WILSON.

Through his friends it is learned Mr. Bryan intends to continue his political support of the president. He has given Mr. Wilson much assistance through his influence in Congress heretofore, and plans to go on with work for the maintenance of Democratic policies.

The outstanding feature, however, of the situation was the effect of Mr. Bryan's resignation on the situation between the United States and Germany. Heretofore there have been many intimations from official sources in Berlin that the viewpoint of the United States as expressed in the notes sent could not be taken seriously because of the knowledge that Secretary Bryan was committed against drastic measures. In one of his speeches Mr. Bryan had said that while he was secretary of state, there never would be war. His withdrawal at a critical moment over the very question of adopting a firm and vigorous policy was regarded in official and diplomatic quarters here as likely to produce a profound impression on the German government.

TO GO FORWARD TO-DAY.

The note to Germany on which the president has been working for several days and which had the approval of the cabinet with the exception of Mr. Bryan was expected to go forward to-day. It should, therefore, reach Ambassador Gerard about Thursday of this week for presentation to the German Foreign Office. While no arrangements have been made as yet concerning publication, it probably will be made public on Thursday. An answer is not expected from the German foreign office for at least a week thereafter.

Realizing that for the present there is little to do but await the German answer to the American note, many Cabinet officers took a vacation to-day.

WISDOM TO BE READY.

Officials and diplomatists, who have followed the situation very closely, pointed out that the president stood with Mr. Bryan in the doing of everything possible to prevent war, but believed it necessary also to be ready for any eventualities in case Germany refused to acquiesce in the American point of view as to neutral rights on the high seas and continued her attacks on American lives and property.

STUNCHED FOR PEACE.

Staunch in his advocacy of peace and firmly set against any communication to Germany which might involve the United States in war, Mr. Bryan found himself opposed not only by the president, but by a majority of the members of the cabinet in the methods of dealing with the situation. The president in his letter expressing regret over Mr. Bryan's resignation said he was not separating himself from Mr. Bryan in the objects sought in the present crisis, but only in the method by which they were to be accomplished. Mr. Wilson and his advisers are equally anxious to prevent war but, in asserting the rights of the United States, they hold it absolutely necessary to affirm the American position in such a way as to leave no doubt abroad of the firm intention of the United States to enforce its rights, if necessary to secure protection for American citizens on the high seas.

AMERICAN PRESS HAILS HIS RESIGNATION IN TERMS OF SATISFACTION

Bryan Severely Criticized For Deserting His Guns at Such a Time—"Good Riddance" Says One—"Victory For Thorough Going Americanism," Says Another.

VICTORY FOR AMERICANISM

The Cleveland Leader—The resignation of William Jennings Bryan as secretary of state is a distinct and important victory for strong and thorough-going Americanism. It is a triumph of the upstanding and vigorous elements in the national life of his republic. The plain truth is that Mr. Bryan has been out of place in the office he has quit. He has steadily lost the confidence and support of the people. His retirement will be good for the president, good for his administration, and good for the country.

UNANIMOUS VERDICT

The Chicago Herald—Probably for the first time in his public career, William Jennings Bryan will find the people of America practically unanimous in favor of something he has put forward—his resignation from the cabinet.

Mr. Bryan, as a private citizen, will be less a menace to the peace of the nation, than he has been as secretary of state. Therein the country and President Wilson are to be congratulated.

BEST THING HE HAS ONE

The Philadelphia Public Ledger—Nothing in Mr. Bryan's tenure of the office of secretary of state becomes him like the leaving it. His letter to the president proffering his resignation, is an honest and manly statement of the reasons for his action, from can no longer support a policy contrary to his convictions. The sincerity of the president's regret need not be questioned. He probably likes Mr. Bryan personally and he realizes Germany has been doing, both in the estimation of Americans.

MIXING RELATIONSHIPS

The Buffalo Courier—At a time like this all Americans, men of all parties, should put behind them the temptation to mix up domestic politics with foreign relations. And why should a disagreement between a president and a secretary of state over a question of mere method in dealing with a

THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND MORE MEN TO BE ENLISTED IN CANADA

Eight Battalions of Infantry From Ontario and Six New Batteries of Artillery Will be Organized—Recruiting Officers are Very Busy.

Montreal, June 8.—Major-General Hughes announced here last night that an appeal would be immediately made to recruit nearly 35,000 more men to go to the firing line in France. This new force will be composed of regiments of infantry and six battalions of artillery, to be recruited from all parts of Canada. With the formation of this new force the number of men raised for active service in Canada will total upwards of 150,000.

In the new contingent there will be four new Highland regiments, one recruited from Vancouver, Victoria and Winnipeg, a second from Ontario and two Highland regiments from Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

As far as Montreal is concerned Lieut.-Col. Gascoigne's regiment, the 6th battalion, is comprised in the new contingent, while three new French-Canadian regiments from Quebec Province, including the 57th under Lieut.-Col. Paquette, will be recruited.

EIGHT ONTARIO BATTALIONS

In the London division two new regiments will be recruited. In the Toronto division four new regiments will be raised. Two regiments will be allotted to Eastern Ontario, which comprises the district from Kingston to Ottawa. Two regiments will be raised in the Maritime Provinces, the number in Winnipeg, one regiment in Manitoba, two in Saskatchewan.

The Russians again have occupied positions on the right bank of the Wyszyn. The Bavarian troops suffered heavily in the fighting between Grodek and Komarino. The Russians have stopped the German advance on the Dniester."

BIG ALLIED ADVANCE IS MADE ON THE DARDANELLES STRAITS

Forward Movement on Gallipoli Peninsula Continuous and Noteworthy—Australasian Troops' Great Work--Constantinople in Great State.

Athens, June 9.—"Everything is going well for the allies." Such is the gist of the news received from the Dardanelles region direct through the most reliable channel. The general offensive commenced by the allies at the end of last week continues with most important results. Progress has been realized at all points despite the previous hard work. The Australasian and New Zealanders in the Sarrhair region are fighting magnificently and scoring well.

ADVANCE THREE MILES

Early Saturday morning the line held by the forces in the southern portion of the peninsula was straightened by a brilliant piece of work and dash in carrying a gully held in considerable force by the enemy. Our men got into the enemy with the bayonet and very few of the Turkish force holding the position were able to escape. The position of the allied troops was suitable for a general advance and the forward movement has been continuous and noteworthy since then. My informant tells me that altogether an advance of three miles has been registered, and yesterday our forces were established along a line, including the positions on the slopes of Trek Peak. It is now expected that progress will be continuous.

The feature of the past three days' fighting has been the extremely se-

PROUD OF WORKERS.
Paris responded so nobly on the 4th of June to boom Rose Day for the Brantford County Hospital, they certainly can be proud of all their workers as they so quietly accomplished great things. Paris gives and gives and still is not impoverished. This has been the best year since it became an annual affair—$82,200 given in half a year's canvassing. At 5 o'clock the Brantford contingent and all members of the W. H. A. were entertained with refreshments on Mrs. (Mrs.) Lovett's lawn. Monday the 7th was counting day. It was a pleasant and grateful sight to see numerous tables surrounded with ladies in the supply room, on Colborne street. Mrs. George E. DR. CHAS CROMPTON WRITES AFTER SAFE VOYAGE

No Escort Till Near Britain—Passengers Very Nervous.

Letter from Dr. Chas. R. B. Crompton, giving particulars of passage of Toronto base hospital staff, divisional ammunition column, and cycle corps. On board S. S. Corinthian, May 26th. My Dear People—We have had a wonderful trip so far, but no escort at all until to-day at 12.50 p.m. when to our great relief, out of the slight fog that was hanging over the smooth sea, two destroyers came suddenly into sight, and at first we did not know whether they were British or German vessels, as they were disguised so as to exactly imitate the German type. Then we saw the stern of one of them with the ensign flag flying, and believe me, a mighty cheer went up from our boat; then they signalled for quite a long time, using some of our signalers, as they did not want to use the wireless, as it might be picked up. After a while when the captain had received his orders, one of them dropped astern and disappeared, going to escort the "Carpathia," another transport, not so very far behind us.

You can quite realize that the nervous strain has been considerable, especially since getting into dangerous waters. Many of the nurses for the last three or four days have been going all over the ship with their life belts on, and usually rather fidgety and nervous.

Right from the day we started, we were in the lookout for our escort, and it is now eleven days since we left. It may seem a long time, and did, to look forward to, but I have been very busy, as I was given charge of the hospital on board. We have had quite an epidemic of sore throat, and a sickness of course, has been in evidence.

We have on board with us the Divisional Ammunition Column, the Cycle Corps, (one division from Toronto and one from Montreal). We expect, if all goes well, and we do not strike a fog, to land about tomorrow at about 10 or 12 o'clock, when I shall cable you as promptly as possible.

The quarters for the men have not been all too rosy, and the food fair, however, there is not much complaining. The doctors have had meals and berths the same as the officers of the contingent, so we have had nothing to complain of.

We have two sick parades a day, one at 8.30 and one at 10.30 p.m., and we have had quite a bit to do, with 1300 men on board. The Colonel says we shall likely have a few days time off, after we arrive, so I am going to expect, if all goes well, to go and see our own friends in London.

The destroyer that met us from Davenport, close to Plymouth; so I was going to see the land at Plymouth. She was called the "Linnet," and is one of the most modern type, able to make 34 knots an hour, has four torpedo tubes and three 4-inch guns, one aft, one at the bow and one in the middle, and is very low in the water, and I can assure you she was a fine sight for sore eyes like ours were, sore from looking for them.

We left Montreal about 4 p.m. on Sunday the 16th, and came out south of Newfoundland. Any time we saw any sort of a ship in the offing we changed our course. At the moment, we are about 180 miles off "Lands End," and be sure we cannot get there too soon to suit me, as I am quite anxious to get my feet on dry land again (leaving the briny deep) on board a tram car or motor bus, or some form of terra firma locomotion. I do not know of course for certain, but we expect to be under canvas for a short time, but just keep the address I left you, and use it until otherwise instructed.

During the voyage we had physical drill twice a day, two sick parades, three meals, and any amount of time for sleeping and reading in the interspace.

I have felt fine all the way over, but we have had some sick men with us, and it almost made you sorry, to see them render tribute to Neptune, the way some of them did. The bugle has gone for parade, so I shall have to go for the moment, but will add a few lines at the last minute.

The sight coming into harbor has been extremely delightful, my chum and I have been up all night. We passed two torpedo boats, torpedo destroyers, armed trawlers, and little fishing smacks. We came in sight of land at 4.30 this morning, May 27th, and I can assure you they had about twenty lookouts, on the destroyer, on this transport, besides the military, and not a periscope of a submarine did we see. At 11.30 last night we were going 13 miles an hour, and the "Linnet" by, first alone, and then astern, when two blasts sounded from our whistle (as a signal of some alarm), she just raced like a greyhound, shot past us, back and forth like a spectre ship, and then gradually came back along side. I felt queer to see our spectre large ship, and that little greyhound, and to think of the comfort she provided us with on the most dangerous and perilous part of our journey. When she left us this morning at Plymouth pier, three mighty cheers went up from our boat, and be sure, we all meant it.

I am not going on shore until high tide, which will be about 9 o'clock. Thankful that we have been protected from danger during all the journey.

About two days ago our captain had a release to the effect that the marines had been very active off the south coast of Ireland, evidently we have avoided them, as it is now 3 o'clock and the breakfast gong has sounded, and as we disembark at 10 a.m., with kindest regards, I will close.

This organization was made up of well-known Brantfordites of fifty years ago. It took its name from M. H. C. Bingham, who was quite a singer, and went by the name of "Gid." The band also used to sing, although its efforts along these lines were principally devoted to serenading. The band used to meet over Lauterback's tavern, which was on Colborne street. Most of the members of Gideon's Band were Masons, and were in the habit of dropping into Lauterback's after meetings in the evening. This, no doubt, was the start of the band.
Two of Brantford's oldest and most highly respected citizens, Mr. George H. Wilkes and Mr. J. Y. Morton, have been celebrating birthdays, which is a way we all have if we stay alive long enough.
Mr. Wilkes was 79 years old yesterday. He was born here on June 8th, 1836, the son of the late Mr. James Wilkes, for many years city treasurer, and has resided in the place ever since. He is consequently the oldest native-born inhabitant. This thriving community was only a village when he first saw the light of day in a frame house on Colborne street, below the Kerby House. The structure still stands quite a distance back from the street, with stores in front. Mr. Wilkes left school when he was 14 years old and became a clerk with John Brethour. Next he became a clerk on a steamboat which then com-

LONDON WINNERS IN SEVENTEENTH

Cockneys and Champions Establish a Canadian League Record.

London, June 9.—Old "Cy" Reidy's single past third with two men on, brought in the winning run of a 17-inning game with Ottawa yesterday afternoon, the longest contest in the history of the Canadian League, London winning by a score of three to two, Ottawa had a patched up team owing to the absence of Fuller, who was called home on account of sickness. Graham pitched a masterly game, allowing only three hits and striking out eleven men. Both of Ottawa's runs were scored without a hit. Spectacular catches by Lamy and Reidy featured the score.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Boston, June 9.—Errors caused the Red Sox to lose yesterday's game to Chicago, the score being 4 to 3, thus putting Chicago back in first place. Mays threw wild to Gardner in the seventh, a perfectly useless play, and Roth scored. This tied the game up. In the next session a pass to E. Collins, a wild throw to Hohlitzel by Mays, an out, and J. Collins' single put over the winning run. Score: R.H.E. Chicago 001000210—4 8 2 Boston 002001000—3 11 5 At New York—"Wild Bill" Donovan of New York, shook up his batting order with good effect yesterday, as his club checked its long losing streak, and defeated Detroit in the last game of the series by a score of 4 to 1. Score: R.H.E. Detroit 010000000—1 7 2 New York 003000100—4 6 0 At Philadelphia—In a featureless game, which was long drawn out, the Athletics took the final game from St. Louis yesterday 5 to 2. Bressler would have earned a shut out had it not been for a muff by Lear. Lear, the Villnova college lad, played his first game, but was so nervous he was taken out of the game in the sixth after striking out twice and making two errors. Score: R.H.E. St. Louis 200000000—2 9 5 Philadelphia 00100022X—5 7 4 At Washington—Washington made it three out of four games from Cleveland yesterday, 3 to 2. The locals earned one run off Coombe, while errors were responsible for the other two. Cleveland threatened to tie the score in the ninth when, followed by a triple, brought in two runs. However, Foster's great stop of O'Neill's grounder ended the game. Score: R.H.E. Cleveland 000000002—2 8 3 Washington 00010100X—3 8 0

Bowling

Yesterday the Dufferin bowlers entertained their fellow-brothers of the ancient pastime on the Dufferin greens, and a keen contest resulted. The Duffs came out on top, winning four out of the five rinks, thus putting to rout the opposition. They carried the honors fairly easily, but the worthy knights of St. George promise to make matters straight when the local bowlers visit the home of their visitors of last evening. The MASQUERADER

By Katherine Cecil Thurston, Author of "The Circle," etc. Copyright, 1904, by Harper & Brothers

"Succeed? Oh, yes, he succeeded." She also smiled involuntarily. "Poor Ko Ko was stowed away under the luggage van, and after quite a lot of trouble he pulled him out. When it was all done the dog was quite unburied and livelier than ever, but the Englishman had his finger almost bitten through. Ko Ko was a dear, but his teeth and his temper were both very sharp." She laughed once more in soft amusement.

She drew quite close to Loder and sidled gently to her knees.

Loder was silent for a second, then he too laughed—Chilcote's short, sarcastic laugh. "And you tied up the wound, I suppose?"

She glanced up, half displeased. "We were both staying at the little inn," she said, as though no further explanation could be needed. Then again her manner changed. She moved imperceptibly nearer and touched his right hand. His left, which was farther away from her, was well in the shadow of the cushions.

"Jack," she said carelessly, "it isn't to tell you this stupid old story that I've brought you here. It's really to tell you a sort of sequel." She struck his hand gently once or twice. "As I say, I met this man and we—we became very fond of each other. You understand? Then we quarrelled—quarrelled quite badly—and I came away. I've remembered him rather longer than I remember most people—he was one of those dogged individuals who stick in one's mind. But he has stayed in mine for another reason"— Again she looked up. "He has stayed because you helped to keep him there. You know how I have sometimes put my hands over your mouth and told you that your eyes reminded me of some one else? Well, that some one else was my Englishman. But you mustn't be jealous. He was a horrid, obstinate person, and you—well, you know what I think of you"— She pressed his hand. "But to come to the end of the story. I never saw this man since that long ago time until—the night of Blanche's party." She spoke slowly, to give full effect to her words. Then she waited for his surprise.

But the result was not what she expected. He said nothing, and, with an abrupt movement, he drew his hand from between her legs. "Aren't you surprised?" she asked at last, with a delicate note of reproach. He started slightly, as if recalled to the necessity of the moment. "Surprised?" he said. "Why should I be surprised? One person more or less at a big party isn't astonishing. Besides, you expect a man to turn up sooner or later in his own country. Why should I be surprised?"

She lay back luxuriously. "Because, my dear boy," she said softly, "it is a mystery! It's one of those fascinating mysteries that come once in a lifetime."

Loder made no movement. "You must explain," he said very quietly. Lillian smiled. "That's just what I want to do. When I was in my tent on the night of Blanche's party, a man came to be gazed for. He came just like anybody else and laid his hands upon the table. He had strong, thin hands like—well, rather like yours. But he wore two rings on the third finger of his left hand—a heavy signet ring and a plain gold one."

Loder moved his hand imperceptibly till the cushion covered it. Lillian's words caused him to surprise, scarcely even a trepidation. He felt now that he had expected them, even waited for them, all along.

"I asked him to take off his rings," she went on, "and just for a second he hesitated—I could feel him hesitate. Then he seemed to have made up his mind, for he drew them off. He drew them off, Jack, and guess what I saw! Do you guess?"

For the first time Loder involuntarily drew back to the corner of the couch. "I never guess," he said brusquely.

"Then I'll tell you. His hands were the hands of my Englishman! The rings covered the scars made by Ko Ko's teeth. I knew it instantly—the second my eyes rested on it. It was the same scar that I had bound up dozens of times, that I had seen healed before I left Santasalaro."

"And you? What did you do?" Loder felt it singularly difficult and unpleasant to speak. "Ah, that's the point. That's where I was stupid and made my mistake. I should have spoken to him on the moment, but I didn't. You know how one sometimes hesitates. Afterward it was too late."

"But you saw him afterward—in the rooms?" Loder spoke unwillingly. "No, I didn't—that's the other point. I didn't see him in the rooms, and I haven't seen him since. Directly he was gone I left the tent—I pretended to be hungry and bored—but, though I went through every room, he was nowhere to be found. Over"—she hesitated and laughed again—"once I thought I had found him, but it was only you—you, as you stood in that doorway with your mouth and chin hidden by Leonard Kaine's head. Wasn't it a quaint mistake?"

There was an uncertain pause. Then Loder, feeling the need of speech, broke the silence suddenly. "Where do I come in?" he asked abruptly. "What am I wanted for?"

"To help to throw light on the mystery? I've seen Blanche's list of people and there wasn't a man I couldn't place—no outsider ever—squeezes through Blanche's door. I have questioned Bobby Blessington, but he can't remember who came to the tent last. And Bobby was supposed to have kept count!" She spoke in deep scorn, but almost immediately the scorn faded and she smiled again. "Now that I've explained, Jack," she added, "what do you suggest?"

Then for the first time Loder knew what his presence in the room really meant, and at best the knowledge was disconcerting. It is not every day that a man is called upon to unearth himself.

"Suggest?" he repeated blankly. "Yes, I'd rather have your idea of the affair than anybody else's. You are so dear and sarcastic and keen that you can't help getting straight at the middle of a fact."

When Lillian wanted anything she could be very sweet. She suddenly dropped her half petulant tone; she suddenly ceased to be a spoiled child. With a perfectly graceful movement she drew quite close to Loder and sidled gently to her knees.

This is an attitude that few women can safely assume. It requires all the attributes of youth, suppleness and a certain buoyant ease. But Lillian never acted without justification and as she leaned toward Loder, her face lifted, her slight figure and pale hair softened by the firelight, she made a picture that it would have been difficult to criticise.

But the person who should have appreciated it stared steadily beyond it to the fire. His mind was absorbed by one question—the question of how he might reasonably leave the house before discovery became assured.

Lillian, attentively watchful of him, said the uneasy look, and her own face fell. But as she looked, an inspiration came to her—a remembrance of many interviews with Chilcote smoothed and facilitated by the timely use of tobacco.

"Jack," she said softly, "before you say another word I insist on your lighting a cigarette." She leaned forward, resting against his knee. At her words Loder's eyes left the fire. His attention was suddenly needed for a new and more imminent difficulty. "Thanks!" he said quickly. "I—I have no wish to smoke."

"It isn't a matter of what you wish, but of what I say." She smiled. She knew that with a cigarette between his lips was infinitely more tractable than Chilcote sitting idle, and she had no intention of ignoring the knowledge.

But Loder caught at her words. "Before you ordered me to smoke," he said, "you told me to give you some advice. Your first command must have prior claim." He grasped unhesitatingly at the less risky theme.

EXPOSE IS PROMISED IN THE KAUFF CASE

Federal Star Sues New York Giants for $5,000 Bonus.

New York, June 8.—Benny Kauff, the hard-hitting outfielder of the Brooklyn Federal League club, who jumped to the Giants one fine May afternoon, only to find that he had to return to the Brookfeds, is looking for a $5,000 bonus which Manager McGraw and President N. Hempstead promised him the day he signed the New York contract.

The Ty. Cobb of the outlaws has secured Attorney John M. Ward, a diamond wizard in the days of Anson, Sam Crane and others around and over the Oser limit, to get him the $5,000. Mr. Ward will take the case to court if Mr. Hempstead refuses to settle with Benny.

"We will give you $5,000 if you sign this contract," Hempstead and McGraw are alleged to have told Benny. So Benny affixed his John Hancock. Then he asked for the $5,000. Did he get it? He did not.

Kauff signed an agreement for the seasons of 1915-1916-1917, at a salary of $8,000 per. The second he signed this contract he was to receive a bonus of $5,000. Before the ink had dried Kauff asked for the bonus. Boston refused to play with Kauff. In the game. Then came the big squabble. Kauff finally was forced to return to the Brookfeds. Since that day he has been asking for his $5,000. Asking hasn't brought it, so to-day Benny stepped into the limelight.

Kauff promises some very excellent reading matter in case he is forced to go into the courts to get his bonus. It's just possible that the New York club will settle with him rather than let the inside facts of his case get before the public.

Brant Boys Write Home From Hospital

The following letters are from Bert Meates, who left with Captain Macs company, and who is well known throughout the city. Bert wants a "smoke" pretty badly, and it is to be hoped that the first Courier tobacco box is there by this time. He got his box of chocolate alright, the kiddies are being blessed for it.

Dear Brother—Just a few lines to let you know that I received your letter and photo a few days ago. Was very pleased to see you looking so well. I am keeping well myself and I hope you are all the same, mother and Harry included. I wish you would tell Harry that I have not received the tobacco yet. There might be such a thing as that it went down with the Lusitania when she was sunk, for I have not got it yet. We are having some dandy weather here now, it is like summer. I have moved from the Am. column now. I am with the first brigade transport, so you will have to change my address to First Brigade Headquarters Staff, 44108, 1st Canadian Division, B.E.F.

How are things going in the working line. I guess things are pretty slack now, but they ought to be picking up now. The Germans are still around where we are to-day, a piece of shrapnel just dropped about ten feet from me.

Lizzie did not get one of the last photos for I am sending this one that I had for my self. I do not know whether you got one or not, but mention in your next letter whether you did or not. Will you kindly send it on to Lizzie. Well I will close this now and write some in another letter, with best wishes from your loving brother. B. J. MEATES.

Well, Dick, I am going to write you some more, so as to keep you reading for a little while. I am with P. Small, name on the transport. I would like you to send me some tobacco as soon as that money gets over there. Never mind the expense. I must have some McDonald chewing tobacco, for I am lost without it. I just got a box of chocolate from the kiddies of Brantford. The stuff laid in Salisbury since Christmas, but all the boys that are alive will get one. They are a very dainty little box with six pieces of Cowie's chocolate. To-day is the 24th of May, and believe me we do not need any fireworks. I wish you would remember me to all of the boys. I have just been on this job about two weeks. I was in the big fight after came through all right. I guess I will close now. B. MEATES.

PTE. A. PROUSE. Pte. A. Prouse sends a short note to say that he is in hospital with a nervous breakdown, but does not state where. It is evidently a Canadian hospital, for he states that the doctors and nurses are Canadian, and that, as any boy from home would say, "makes it better."

Dear Mother and Sister—Have arrived safe at the hospital, with a nervous breakdown, a piece of shrapnel wounded my arm, but otherwise I feel alright and am getting along nicely. We certainly have nice nurses and doctors here, and what makes it better, they are Canadians. I have been in the trenches for three days, and I certainly have seen some awful sights, but I guess the Germans have seen just as bad if not worse. I lost a couple of chums along beside me by a big smoke box dropping alongside them in the trench and nothing was left. The night before, our artillery certainly did play havoc with the Germans. Well, mother, I guess this is all I have to say for this time, hoping there will be a big change in the war; also it won't last much longer, as Italy has gone in. I guess I will now close, hoping this will find you all well, from your loving son, ARTHUR.

TREMENDOUS MAJORITY FAVORS CHURCH UNION

General Assembly, 368 to 74, Sends Question to the People.

KINGSTON, June 9.—By the unprecedented vote of 368 to 74 the Presbyterian General Assembly agreed yesterday afternoon to send the question of Church union to the congregations and Presbyteries.

Many predicted a smaller vote for union than last year, but the returns as compared with those of the last Assembly show a large gain for Church union. The best vote secured at last year's Assembly against union was 29 per cent, this year the anti got only 16 1/2 per cent. of the Assembly on their side.

When the Moderator put the question: "All in favor of the amendment?" the ranks of the anti were thin and scattered, and were easily counted by the Clerks. When those against the amendment arose it was impossible to count them, and the Senior Clerk asked that the Commissioners should raise five rows at a time. Phalanx after phalanx of unionists stood up till all were counted.
