BY ELECTRICITY!

No more trouble in getting children's pictures taken. I am now working in connection with my Camera, an ingeniously constructed apparatus, worked by Electricity, enabling me to produce a beautiful Picture of any child in one second of time—All we need now is a wink from the little folks, and we have a facsimile of them securely made.

In thanking the people of Miramichi for their very liberal patronage during my stay in Chatham, I can assure them in future of getting even better work done by me than in the past. For the greater facilities, greater will be the results. I have just procured at a great expense the very latest improvements in apparatus. I keep on hand a large stock of pictures, such as Oil paintings, Chromos, and Motives. Also a very large stock of picture frames and mouldings. Pictures framed in any style desired, with but short notice and price to suit the times. I do not wish as I am the only photographer here to create unreasonably high prices. Old faded likenesses and pictures that have been taken by inexperienced workmen, can be renewed by me, enlarged and finished in Ink, Oil, Water Colors or Crayon. Rooms—opposite Masonic Hall. T. R. COLLIPS, Chatham, May 6, 1881—3m Proprietor.

LOCAL MATTERS.

NOTICE.

The public are hereby cautioned against having subscriptions or notices for advertisements to any person on behalf of the STATE, unless said person hold written authority from me to collect and receive the same.

J. E. COLLINS, Ed. "Star."

Fall of Salmon.

The price of salmon in the United States has fallen from 40 cts., to 11 to 13 cts. per lb. This is due to the enormous quantities of fish, especially shad, caught in other waters.

Why?

Why should our fishermen sacrifice their salmon in the U. S. markets, when they have freer seas to keep their fish till November, when they could load a brigantine for England?

Bank Charges

The Bank of Nova Scotia, established at Newcastle, charges only an eighth per cent. on drafts the same as those for which our business men have been so long paying a quarter per cent.

Salmon.

The salmon catches so far, have been comparatively good; especially around the Islands down the Miramichi River. Mr T. Williamson who fishes on Bay du Vin Island, seems to be in very good luck.

Hay for Sale.

People throughout the country are complaining of the scarcity of hay. There is a quantity in town, owned by persons who will sell it on reasonable terms. Enquire at the Star office.—1 f.

An Aged Resident Gone.

Mrs. John Keating, an aged and highly respected resident of the Back Lots, Chatham, died at her son's residence on Wednesday morning, aged 76 years. The remains will be interred Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Gaspereaux.

Gaspereaux are becoming more plentiful every year since the liberty to send them has been taken away. The year after the privilege being cancelled, not more than 300 bbls. were taken at the North, while so far this season not less than 2,000 bbls. have been caught. The gaspereaux is taken in a set net.

Boom Meeting.

A meeting of the S. W. Boom Directors was held yesterday in Judge Willingtons office, Newcastle. They intend taking steps to have the navigation opened on the South West next week. Owing to ill health Judge Williston resigned as Sec-Treasurer of the Company and W. A. Park, Esq., was elected in his stead.

Shad.

Is more plentiful this year, than for a number of years past. They are numerous especially about Bay du Vin Bay. For this reason Mr W. S. Loggie has decided to fill one third of his freezer with shad. In consequence of the great catches of shad in United States waters, it does not pay to ship salmon hence to the United States markets. The shad is caught in salmon nets.

A Caution.

The Harbor Master has informed the proprietors of the different ballast wharves that they will be obliged to build new side blocks to their wharves, to prevent the ballast falling into the river. The Hutchinson wharf is in a scandalous state, and the proprietor should have been brought to book before this to answer for its condition. And this is not the only one.

Personal.

The Governor General will take a trip to Great Britain after his return from the North-West.

Sir A. T. Galt and family sail on the 30th inst. He will visit the North-West, discuss emigration with the Government and return to London in October.

Mr. William Jermaine who has for some time past been studying law with Mr. A. H. Johnston, has decided to give up his legal studies for the present, and has entered the office of Messrs. R. A. & J. Stewart, Newcastle.

The following is by special to the Globe, London, June 2: Dr. Andrew Clarke has seen J. McDonald and after careful examination says that no organic disease troubles Sir John, but there is prostration requiring careful treatment under which it is expected he will recover.

Temperance Affairs.

The Annual meeting of the St. Michael's C. T. A. Society, was held at their Hall on Sunday evening last. This Society has now been about eight years in existence and has 90 members on the roll. Its financial circumstances are good. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—

President—Jas. Connors.—1st Vice do., Nicholas Cunningham.—2nd Vice do., Wm. Whalen.

Sec. Secretary—Richard Carroll. Fin. do.—Robert Allen. Treasurer—Wm. F. Connors. Conductor—Jas. F. Maher. Librarian—Richard Sutton—Assistant do., Wm. Regan.

Directors—Peter Brown, Wm. Foley, Wm. Keenan, Jr., Chas. Monahan, Mich'l Doyle, Sr., John O'Keefe, Jr., David Doyle, John Gurvie, R. F. Waddleton, B. Moran, Charles Perry, William McEschren.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

A Literary Contest—the Statesman vs. the Poet—The Reciprocations, and the close of each side by Messrs McDade and Duffy.

"Kritis" kindly sends us the conclusion of the entertaining and creditable discussion between the St. Aloysius and the Father Mathew Societies in St. John. (Concluded.)

occupied the platform nearly two hours and a half in justification of the statesman's claim to superiority as a civilizer. Possessing all the essential requisites which go to the formation of the perfect orator, to these the speaker imparted a vigor and warmth of expression which rendered his argument forcible, his illustrations clear and his delivery graceful to a high degree. It was impossible owing to limited space to give an extended account of the gentleman's able argument. We shall confine ourselves to a very limited and imperfect summary of the statements he advanced. We shall not speak of his splendid refutation or able exposition of facts based on the authenticity of history; nor shall we dwell on the scathing invectives he directed against the immoralities of the poet, or how he substantiated his own position while rebutting that of his adversary—all this is a pleasure which we would fain enjoy, but which circumstances oblige us to relinquish.

Drawing aside the veil which separates antiquity from the less remote periods, Mr. McDade summoned into the arena of present existence forms that for centuries have slept in the dust, names which have been transmitted to us on the billows of the sea of time—names whose glory shall never fade, whose mention shall never cease to thrill! Minos and Lycurgus, Solon and Draco, Epaminondas and the second Zoroaster were marshalled as civilizers against contemporaneous poets. Coming down to a later date he cited the glory and opulence of Rome in the Augustinian, and of Greece in the Pericleian age to be directly due to the prevalence of good government which is the essential to a nation's stability. Still later, the celebrated code promulgated by Justinian was reviewed as well as the laws of the Gauls or Druids, while the speaker expatiated on the civilizing tendencies of a Theodosius, Emperor of the East, or a Malachi and O'Connell, of Ireland, of a cardinal Ximenes of Spain, not forgetting in his enumeration the incalculable advantages bestowed on mankind by such acts as the Magna Charta and Habeas Corpus. Indeed, the substance of Mr McDade's argument went to show that as in ancient and medieval times statesmen aided the progress of true civilization by favoring the diffusion of education among the masses, by creating institutions to repress the turbulent passions of the semi-barbarous multitudes of Europe and by bringing them under the salutary influence of law and order, so have they always maintained public prosperity and private security while they prevented any flagrant violation of individual rights and privileges. Such is a short and very imperfect sketch of the arguments advanced by the leader of the gentlemen espousing the negative.

MR. F. DUFFY

Leader of the F. M. Association camp, dwell during nearly the hours of the superior code promulgated as a civilizer. Without wishing to draw any invidious distinction, we certainly feel justified in declaring that of all the speeches delivered at any time during the discussion, the most erudite and most argumentative came from Mr Duffy. With no exterior affectation of display, but with a calmness and legal bearing which seldom fail to carry conviction, the speaker set forth in glowing colors the strong points of his case treating it in all its different phases in a manner both masterly and commendable. We pay this slight tribute to Mr. Duffy feeling that on account of the deep research and numerous reference to authorities which his effort called forth, he is eminently deserving of the highest praise. Our limited space obliges us to confine ourselves to some of the most important arguments contained in his brilliant discourse.

He, too, like his talented predecessor, indulged in a retrospective, and going back in imagination on the wings of the departed past, by the dimly-lighted tapers of the early dawn, he read the scroll of Nature's children, who sang their songs in the long ago. The epics of Homer, Aeschylus and Tyrtæus; the satires of Horace, the tragedies of Sophocles, the pastorals of Virgil, the lyrics of Pindar and a score upon whose names and deeds will live to the remotest posterity as landmarks on the desert wastes of antiquity, were claimed as necessarily civilizing the age in which they lived by playing on the multitudinous chords of the human heart soothing influences and lofty aspirations.

Leaving the ancient, Mr. Duffy came down to more recent times and entwined garlands to the memory of our modern poets: Dante, Tasso, and "Chatterton, the marvelous boy, The sleepless soul that perished in his pride," no less than the immortal masterpieces of Shakespeare and Milton; the narrative of element predominating in Chaucer and his contemporaries; the dramatic in the Elizabethan age; the satirical in the reigns of Charles II. and Queen Anne; later Thompson, Cowper and Goldsmith, Wordsworth, Shelley and Byron, and others too numerous to mention were evidenced as civilizers in so much as they elevate man by appealing to the generous and lofty sympathies of his soul.

The closing speeches of the leaders might perhaps be well called the "learned recantation," for they were a rare intellectual treat. The human mind in all its phases from the mechanical form of tele-

EVICITION IN IRELAND.

Two Addresses by Archbishop Croke at Thurles.

A PROTEST AND AN APPEAL.

The Position and aim of the LAND LEAGUE.

DUBLIN, June 2.

Archbishop Croke concluded at Thurles yesterday one of the most extraordinary campaigns ever known in Irish ecclesiastical history. His Grace wound up with two speeches containing several passages of the highest importance at the present moment. In the forenoon he made a remarkable appeal to Mr. Gladstone to put a stop to evictions. His Grace said—"I appeal to this great statesman solemnly, as an Irish patriot, as an Irish bishop, in the name of Trinity, and in the name of Ireland, to let his fiat go out that there are to be no more evictions during his present term. (Great cheering.) It is a curious fact that the word eviction, in the sense in which it is used here, is scarcely known in any other country in the world. There is no such word and no such thing elsewhere. It is a word of evil omen. It is a word that imports the depopulation of our country, that imports the degradation of our people, that imports the dying of them beyond the waters to foreign lands in search of the means of livelihood, carrying with them the spirit of vengeance against what is certainly the greatest empire in the world, but what is no less certainly the empire which has treated Ireland worse than ever empire treated dependency. (Loud cheers.) Therefore, I would say to that great statesman, 'If you value the friendship of Ireland, if you value the good name of England, if you do not wish to perpetuate that have ruled in this country for ages, blot out from the statute book the word eviction, and let no man henceforth be turned out of his land unless it is quite clear that the money which should have met his engagements was wastefully and foolishly dissipated.' (Loud cheers.) It was only the other day that the venerable parish priest of Moycarckrub told me that when he became the priest of that parish it contained twelve hundred families. There are at present only four hundred. Let me ask Mr Gladstone what has become of the eight hundred families, once so happy in their humble homes, who have disappeared from the parish? Many of them have gone into the grave, many into the workhouse, and many to the great Republic of the west, bearing with them undying hatred to the country that banished them from their native land. (Great cheering.) At the same time, if the evictions are to go on, I would advise you low to act. Do not bring yourselves into collision with the authorities. They are too strong for you. If not even for conscience sake, for our own preservation—for the sake of expediency, if not of principle—we offer passive resistance to those opposed to us, and in that way they will get tired of the contest, because a whole united people have never yet been defeated.

THE NATIONAL FEUD AND THE SAGUNARY TRADITIONS

In the evening his Grace entered fully into the present

POSITION AND AIMS OF THE LAND LEAGUE.

He declared that the agitation was not due to David or Parnell, nor to their followers, but to the fact that there was a weighty grievance, and that the Irish people at last contemplated it manfully, and were determined to remove it. Without the priesthood of Ireland it would have been impossible, said his Grace, for the movement to reach its present mighty dimensions. It had been said that Mr Parnell did not wish the co-operation of the priesthood, but the Archbishop declared authoritatively that two years ago Mr Parnell waited on him in Dublin and literally went down on his knees to him to ask him to use all his influence to have the priests join the movement. His Grace concluded with the following remarkable declaration—"I have to say that this movement is not a revolutionary movement in the strict sense of the word. It is a constitutional movement. It is a lawful movement. It is a movement which we intend to push forward by moral force alone. (Cheers.) We do not intend to violate any law. We intend to exhaust all constitutional remedies. We are perfectly certain that the elasticity of the constitution will allow us the means of working energetically to the aim, and finally achieving the result we aim at. We wish to produce the effect upon England not by physical force, but by moral means. We want to make our grievances known before the entire world, to tell France, and Spain, and Italy, the United States, and the great colonies that acknowledge the way of Great Britain, that as in this country we have been kept down by bayonets to the present time, and as by bayonets we are kept down at present, please God we are now fully determined, BAYONETS OR NO BAYONETS —(great cheering)—to proclaim, at all events, our wants, and to proclaim that we will not be satisfied until we get our rights, and that we will insist on our rights, not the sword, nor the gun, nor the cannon of France, or of Spain, or of Italy, or of the United States, but the intelligent opinion of all the intelligen-

DIED.

At Chatham, on the 29th ult., of Diphtheria, Sarah, aged 4 years, daughter of Edward and Mary Ann McDonald.

Gently close those patient eyelids, Fold the waxen hands so white; She hath crossed the deep, dark river To the shores of endless light.

Fair young life, so brief and cloudy, Full of sorrow, grief and pain, Gently turn the Shepherd led her To his pastures fresh and green.

One more scrap in the bright world, One more vacant chair at home, Loving hands may find a solace, Strengthened by the recollection, To his pastures fresh and green.

Farewell Sarah, sweet and gentle, Life's young dawn was not to thee, Strengthened by the recollection, Of the words, "He leadeth me."

In the Resurrection morning, When the "Resurrection" work is done, May we join thee in the chorus, "Death is conquered! Life is won."

Young's New Axle Cutter Patented in the United States and Dominion of Canada. We would call the attention of all owners of carriages or waggons to this Machine and the benefits derived from its use. All wagon axles after being two or more years in use become worn till they become loose, requiring the use of leather washers to take up the lateral play; the washers soon filling with sand, cause the axles to wear much faster, and the axle is soon sprung, or nearly so.

THE REMEDY.
By the aid of this very simple machine, the shoulder for the axle nut is cut back and the thread extended, allowing the nut to be screwed further on, causing the wheel to turn as evenly as when new. Give us a call before purchasing elsewhere. A Paint shop is in connection with the Factory.

EXHIBITION OF NERVE

Barnard Koehler and F. Higgen, two house painters began painting a large house at Betts street and Centre avenue N. Y. Three o'clock the afternoon found them crouching under the eaves of the house and sixty-five feet from ground. They had just finished the surface within reach, and started to lower the scaffold few feet. When the required distance had been reached, Higgen called to his partner to hold on to the rope until he (Higgen) tied his own, when he would come over and perform a service for him. Higgen had completed his own knot when Koehler cried out: "Come quick, I can't hold it." Higgen, as quickly as possible, started across the aerial bridge, but not gone two steps when he felt the ladder give way beneath him. As he began the fall, the energy of desperation with both hands, grasped almost smooth top of the four story window cornice and then hung in the air, a distance sixty feet from the pavement. He then gave an exhibition nerve that terrified every one who saw it. Placing the toe of one foot against the window frame he gave his body a slight pendulum motion away from the house. A second push gave him a better impetus, and as swung on the return toward window he released his hold, went crashing through the glass safely to the floor of the four story room, from whence he immediately looked out through the aperture he had made to what had become of his companion Koehler had not quite so fortunate. As he was shooting through the air, he caught the hanging rope with both hands and lessened speed all the way down at expense of all the cuticle of palms, which was burnt off the friction. He landed in sitting position on the sidewalk and was taken to the hospital with a pair of very sore hips.

FOUND DEAD IN THE WOODS

The following is from Ottawa the 2nd inst. Some time ago a drover named McHugh mysteriously disappeared from an inn he was staying at in this vicinity. He left the hotel on a stormy night at the end of January, walking in the direction of the woods adjoining the city. He was not heard of for several days until today, when intelligence reached the city that his body had been found in the woods, at Bear Brook, in the township of Cumberland, eight miles from the city. It was thought the unfortunate was suffering from delirium tremens at the time of his disappearance, and that he walked until he became exhausted.
