

A FLY ON THE WHEEL.

Notes of a 200 Mile Jaunt on a Bicycle.

"O magic wheel of fortune, what part of myself thou art. As we roll along 'tis the hurrying throng that peoples the busy mart."

The Wheelman, Sept. No.

DEAR SIR:—It can hardly be necessary for me to enter into a panegyric on the bicycle as a practical vehicle of locomotion or a means of health-giving enjoyment. It has now nearly outgrown the prejudice which met it on its first appearance, and has come to be regarded as an institution. In the hands of such men as Keith, Falconer and Lennox who have ridden from John O'Grat's to the Land's End, or of our own friend Perry Doolittle, who has completed his ten thousand miles on a bicycle. It has been proved to be something more than a toy; and worthy of a wider recognition as a practical and USEFUL MEANS OF TRAVEL.

Whether for an hour's ride, a day's run, or a week's tour, it is equally available, always ready to hand and foot, requiring no food and far less care than a horse; untiring, and, if properly used, uncomplaining, whatever amount of work be required of it. The moral aspect of the question is also worthy of consideration, not only is its use beneficial to health, but conducive to temperance—for no man of intemperate habits can ever be a successful bicyclist—and it never takes its rider into low company. The great majority of bicycle riders are

and correct habits, whose physical condition enables them to accomplish without excessive fatigue, a day's run that few horses could attempt; and who can appreciate the beauties of nature sufficiently to enable them to enjoy without weariness the ever-changing scenery incident to a country tour. If bicycling increases in popularity as much in the next five years as it has done in the past, the G. P. R. James of the future instead of commencing his novels with the well-known "solitary horseman," will in deference to the popular taste begin his opening chapters with a "solitary wheelman." Among the celebrities of the silent steed are numbered statesmen, authors, poets, artists, doctors and even ministers of the Gospel; and I had almost forgotten to add, editors. With such a class of men as its leading spirits there is little fear of the noble sport ever being brought down to the level of jockeys and blacklegs, while its constantly increasing popularity has created a freemasonry among the craft which extends the world over, wherever a wheelman is found. As for its pleasures they can be better felt than described. None but the initiated know the delight of a rattling spin over a smooth country road, in the

while the woods are musical with the song of birds, and the air is filled with the sweet scent of the newly-cut hay and clover, mingled with the faint odor of the far off skunk. Excuse me if I appear to verge upon the poetical, but the theme is so worthy of an abler pen; worthy even of the graphic descriptive powers of a certain Clinton paper's Gode-rich correspondent, or the soul-stirring lays of the inspired Hubbard, the bard of Milwaukee. However, when I'm on my bicycle I'm on my hobby, and be it excused if I ride rather hard occasionally. But not to digress further, I will endeavor to give you some account of my wanderings. I had for some time contemplated a week's holiday on the wheel, and with this end in view made preparations and planned my route; and having carefully packed my luggage, mainly consisting of a clean pair of socks and pocket comb, which, with one or two other necessities I strapped on the handle bar, I was ready for the road. On Thursday, September 27th, at 4.15 p.m. I left my room, accompanied by two other members of the club, whose native modesty makes them dread to have their names in print. The weather looked decidedly threatening, and their was evidently a storm somewhere in the vicinity, but we were bound to go, and went

we took the road to the right, past the brewery, and on past Fisher's farm, up to Smith's Hill, which we reached at 5 p.m. and immediately started in the direction of Lucknow. Shortly after leaving the Hill it began to rain, but as it is a principle among bicyclers never to turn back, we at once struck a 15 mile cut for the Nile, where we arrived slightly damped, and, as the weather showed no signs of improvement, decided to remain for the night. Next morning was cloudy, but fine, so, after an early breakfast, we started at 6.40 a.m. for Lucknow. The road was fine and the pace consequently lively, which soon began to tell on our junior member, who was not accustomed to touring, and he fell somewhat to the rear. On reaching Belfast we remained for a smoke and sent him on ahead giving him 15 minutes start. Another sharp spin brought us to

at 8.10, our friend having arrived about 5 minutes previously; while here we met Mr. Siddall, a local wheelman, and hoped also to have seen Mr. Cameron, but he was presumably in the arms of Morphew, it being considerably before banking hours. We were informed here that the road to Wingham was somewhat hilly, and it certainly fulfilled our expectations. It much resembles the road to Porter's Hill, only more so, and entailed a good deal of pedestrian exercise. The natives call the distance 12 miles, but if rolled out it would be at least 14. Within three or four miles of Wingham we got some fairly good road, and I pushed ahead into town, closely followed by Harry. After waiting some time and seeing no sign of my friend, Harry started back for him, and found that the youth had become a victim of the ambulance—in other words, being rather "tucked out." He had induced a good natured old gentleman to take him and his machine into his buggy and give him

A LIFT INTO TOWN.

The principal objects of interest in the neighborhood appear to be bridges and railroad crossings which are quite numerous. Our appearance was the signal for anxious enquiries respecting the members of the Gode-rich cricket club, who were to have been there to play a return match, but who had not put in an appearance. One or two appeared to think we were simply the advance guard of the club, who were all coming on the wheel. After about an hour's rest in Wingham, my two companions started for home, via Blyth, and I was left to pursue my journey alone. Another hour's rest and dinner at the Brunwick, made me feel more like going, and as I wanted to fetch

SEAFORTH BEFORE DARK.

I had no time to lose. The road from Wingham to Bluevale was a good mud road, and very fair riding. On reaching Bluevale, I found the bridge over the river gone, and had to carry the machine across a dam, through a saw mill and over a pile of slabs, which occasioned about 20 minutes delay. On reaching the gravel road I found it good to within about 2 miles of when it became so bad that I had to dismount and walk. On arriving at the hotel the first familiar countenance that met my gaze was that of our esteemed friend, "Gif." We smiled. I then called on our old friend, Mr. Rogers, of the county council, but as my time was limited, having to make Seaforth before dark, I could only make a few minutes' stay. I did not like to say anything to hurt our friend's feelings, or I might have suggested that he stir up the pathmaster to improve the execrable roads in that vicinity. I don't wonder that I saw no bicycles in Brussels. Leaving there at 4.1 I rode for about a mile and a half when I was again obliged to take the shoe-leather route, the road consisting of a pile of stones on one side and a foot or more of mud on the other. This state of things continued as far as some 5 miles from Brussels. Here the road became ridable and I put on and reached the Queen's hotel just about dark, somewhat tired and as hungry as a wolf. If Mr. Stephens had observed the amount of supper I stored away, he wouldn't consider bicyclers very prosaic travellers to entertain, and might think himself lucky that he had not the whole club. I certainly did full justice to his excellent table. After a good night's rest, I felt as fresh as a daisy and ready for another start, but the weather was unfavorable. Saturday morning was raw with a drizzling rain, so I had nothing for it but to wait for a clear up. Towards mid-day it looked brighter, and at 2 p.m. I determined to make a start for Stratford. The road was in a horrible condition—nothing but mud—and I had great difficulty in pushing the machine through it. After passing Dublin it improved wonderfully, and I made good time from there to Mitchell which place I reached at 3.40, and after a few minutes rest and a schooner of lemonade, made a fresh start. A few miles out an apple orchard by the roadside looked so tempting that I dismounted with the idea of helping myself to a few, and was just about to climb the fence when it occurred to me that there might be a dog on the premises. My suspicions were well founded, as just then a young girl came out of the house, accompanied by an ugly looking collie, who evinced decidedly hostile intentions. I asked her for a few apples and as she did not appear to understand me, pointed to the tree. She evidently grasped my meaning as she plucked three or four and came forward with them. Her approach showed her to be a rather pretty little Dutch girl. I endeavored to express my thanks for her kindness, but as she did not understand English and I was equally at a loss for Dutch, a good deal had to be taken for granted. A little further on I climbed which is said to be the highest point in Western Ontario, and from the top obtained a magnificent view in all directions. Looking east I could see far beyond Stratford—in fact the whole county appeared like a panorama around me. From here I had a rattling spin down grade through Sebringville, and as the weather again threatened rain, I struck a lively gallop to beat it into which I succeeded in doing by about ten minutes, arriving at the Windsor a few minutes before six. The first man I met on my entrance was our old friend, Sergeant O'Conroy, formerly of the British, who appeared rather surprised to see me, and especially at my mode of travelling. Sunday morning was clear and bright, with every prospect of a fine day, but as there had been considerable rain in the night I concluded to remain till after dinner, to give the roads time to dry a little. 2.30 p.m. saw me again in the saddle and on the road to St. Mary's. This was the most thoroughly enjoyable ride of the whole trip. With a bright, clear sky overhead, a breeze in the right direction, and a fine gravel road under me, it seemed the realization of an ideal bicycle ride, and I spun along at a glorious rate. As most of your readers have doubtless visited

FROM SEAFORTH TO DUBLIN.

ST. MARY'S.

I need say no more than it appears to be very prettily situated on the north branch of the Thames, and has a fine agricultural country around it. On enquiring the way, I found I had a choice of two roads, one straight on, across the river, the other down by way of Thorndale. I made the mistake of choosing the latter, and afterwards taking a wrong turning got into some mud stile lines, so that instead of making London before dark, I found myself at 6 o'clock just entering Thorndale, with 12 or 14 miles further to go. As it was getting dark, and I had no lamp, I was reluctantly compelled to stay there for the night, and as there were only two hotels, one about as bad as the other, I chose the first I came to. The people of the house were respectable enough, but there were such a hard-looking crowd of hoodlums about that I began to think I had got into the same sort of a mess as the man who went down from Jerusalem to Jericho. Their looks, however, must have been the worst of them, as I had no trouble with them. Next morning, at 7 a.m. I was again under way for London. The roads were decidedly poor until I struck the gravel road a mile or two east of Crumlin, when I had

where I arrived about 9 a.m. My original intention was to have gone on through St. Thomas and Wallacestown, over the route of the Chicago tourists, as far as Wallace, and home by boat, but when I got among my old friends of the Forest City and Ariel clubs, their solitations, in addition to the attractions of the fair, changed my plans, and I remained. On Wednesday I ran and back, to see the place and renew my acquaintance with Capt. Hepinstall, of the St. Thomas club; and the same evening joined the party of hotelmen on the fair ground by electric light. Friday morning saw me en route for home, over the old familiar route. After passing St. John's, where the bridge was not yet repaired, and another place further on where the road was new it became so good that I rode from 10 miles below Lucan to the Central hotel at Exeter, some 23 miles, with this distance, over the 13 miles brought me to Brucefield, where I halted for dinner; and then came the cream of the trip, the 10 miles from Brucefield to Bayfield, the finest stretch of road I was ever on. The staunch old wheel seemed to know she was as she bounded along with scarcely an effort, the rapidity of the pace making her sing under me like a delightful Thomas cat. 48 minutes at this pace saw me in Bayfield, and after a half of 5 minutes at Morgan's, I entered on the last stage of my journey, and reached home shortly after 4 p.m., in good order and without having loosened a spoke or nut during the trip. I may remark, in conclusion, that I never felt a mark in my life, and would recommend any individual suffering from indigestion, biliousness or loss of appetite, to supplement the Scriptural injunction by the purchase of a bicycle and to "go and do likewise."

Frightened to Death.

A Warning to Senseless Parents and Cruel Nurses.

Few people seem to properly estimate the great wrong of frightening children. Nearly every household has its "ugly night," or its "great old bear." The terrible old man, or the great old bear are powerful factors in nursery discipline. "Come along here, now," a mother or a nurse will say to a child, "and let me put you to bed." "I can't want to go to bed now," the child replies. "You'd better come on here now, or I'll tell that ugly old man to come and take you away. There he comes now." This has the intended effect, and the child, trembling in bed, submits at once and goes to bed, probably to see in imagination all kinds of horrible faces. The sad death of a little girl, which occurred recently, shows that so strong an impression she would stand at the gate and clap her little hand with glee when her father came to dinner and when he would take her on his shoulder she would shout and call to everyone to look how high she was. One day a large, shaggy dog came into the yard and ran up to her. She held a flower to his nose, he growled and turned away. She was terribly frightened, and the black nurse, who stood near, was not slow in making a mental note of the impression the dog had made. Several nights afterward, when bedtime came, the child was unusually weeping.

Results Tell.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating, and the proof of the extraordinary power over pain of Polson's Nervine never fails to perform wonders in every case of pain. It cannot fail for it is composed of powerful pain subduing remedies. It goes right to the bottom, and pain is banished at once. Nervine cures all kinds of pain, internal or external. Go to Wilson's drug store and get a 10 or 25 cent bottle, and be delighted by its promptitude in doing its work. At Wilson's.

Do Not Be Duped.

A recently advertised and highly puffed remedy for deafness has lately been exposed as an unmitigated fraud. Not so with Haggard's Yellow Oil; none name it but to praise John Clark, of Millbridge, testifies that it cured him of deafness.

A Life-Saving Present.

Mr. M. E. Allison, Hutchinson, Kan., saved his life by a simple Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, for Consumption, which caused him to procure a large bottle, that completely cured him, when Doctors, change of climate and everything else had failed. Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, Severe Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, it is guaranteed to cure. Trial Bottles at J. Wilson's drug store. Large size $1. (U.S.)

Shall the People of Canada be subject to Military Government?

From the Toronto World (Independent)

At this stage of the history of our country, when, after the people of Ontario have passed through a general provincial election with that order which has always distinguished the men of our province, reformers and conservatives alike, but when at the last of the elections, namely, that of Algoma, we find the central authorities at Ottawa, instigated by the hostile government of Manitoba, sending a battery of artillery from Winnipeg into our province professing to preserve order, but in reality to overawe and intimidate our fellow citizens of Ontario who were not rioting or law breaking but holding peaceable discussions and meetings usual before an election, surely it is in season for our people, irrespective of political party leanings, to ask themselves: Shall the people of Canada be subject to military government?

If we understand the men of this free province, we are quite sure the answer will go forth emphatically "no." The will and smoke of the political battle which ended in the contest of Algoma having cleared away, we—who are belonging to no party, but are Ontario first, last, and always,—can look on the act of the dominion government free from feelings of party hostility, and with some degree of confidence appeal to the great and terrible danger we are to be subjected to should the use of artillery be brought into requisition on every occasion where two partisan justices of the peace make affirmation that they apprehend disturbance at an election, and request military aid in preserving order. The government of Sir John A. Macdonald has received fair play from this journal. Never have we said a harsh thing of him in a partisan spirit. We have supported, and still support much of his trade policy, but that is no reason why we should not protest against a military force being sent to our province to be used against our fellow citizens of Ontario. Had the soldiers been our own fellow citizens of Ontario the offence would have been great, but the soldiers of a province hostile to us, with interests antagonistic to ours, having been sent with their murderous artillery and machine guns, to shoot down, if an excuse could be got, our fellow provincials, was in our opinion one of the greatest outrages ever perpetrated on the electorate and freemen of our country.

A Common Annoyance.

Many people suffer from distressing attacks of sick headache, nausea, and other bilious troubles, which might easily be cured by Burdock Blood Bitters. It cured Lotie Howard, of Buffalo, N. Y., of this complaint, and she praises it highly.

A Remarkable Result.

W. A. Edgars, of Frankville, was a terrible sufferer from Chronic Kidney and Liver Complaint, and at one time was so bad that his life was despaired of. He was cured by four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters.

Dear Sirs,—I have been a sufferer from Costiveness, Sick Headache, and Loss of Appetite for many years, felt always tired, so that life was a burden and all seemed dark to me. I have had medical attendance, and have tried almost all the advertised remedies, but without effect. A number of my neighbors, who had used your Fountain of Health, urged me to give it a trial, three bottles of which made me feel like a new woman.

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

"78 E. 54th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

Mrs. J. C. AYER & Co., Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely find any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SASSAPARILLA, by observation in many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking the above-named disorder. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred percent stronger, and I attribute these results to the use of the SASSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used, in all, less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS.

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SASSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

MANN NO MORE.

Penitent and content in the Hereafter—He Explains His Awful Crime—The Murderer of the Cook Family—Calms His Fate.

L'Original, Oct. 12.—This little village has been greatly agitated all this week over the intended execution of Frederick Mann, the murderer of the Cook family at Little Rideau on Jan. 2nd, last. This morning the excitement reached its climax, and by to-morrow people will have resumed their normal state of mind.

It was engaged three men to act as executioners, so that if one or two backed out, he would have a third to do the deed. The Rev. Mr. Phillips, who has attended to Mann's spiritual wants ever since sentence was passed, was with him at the last trying moment, and took part in the melancholy procession to the scaffold, which was headed by Sheriff Merrick.

He stepped upon the fatal trap door with firmness, carefully inspected the pining of his legs, wore a cheerful smile, said "good-bye to his attendants, and dropped into the everlasting, after an impressive prayer had been offered-up by the Anglican minister. The executioner did his work in a cool manner, and nine and a quarter minutes after he had touched the fatal spring, the pulsations of the murderer's heart ceased. He died apparently without a struggle, and is credited with having said, "It's only a nap, step and a leap from a sinful world into "AN ETERNITY OF LOVE." This morning he joined heartily in the devotional exercises, singing with great zest a good tenor to that beautiful hymn, "Abide with me, first falls the eventide." At 8.30 o'clock, the body was cut down, and an inquest is now in progress. About fifty persons witnessed the execution.

Some Geographical Names and Their Derivations.

The following is a list of some American geographical names, with their derivation, which will doubtless be interesting. It would be a good plan for school children to cut it out and preserve for future reference. America, named after Amerigo Vespucci who, in 1497, landed upon the continent, south of the equator. Arizona, sand hills. Bermuda, named after Juan Bernardez, the Spanish discoverer. Canada, a collection of huts. Cayuga, a long lake. Chicago, a French form of an Indian word signifying a skunk; also, a wild onion, from its strong and disagreeable odor. Chili, land of snow. Colorado, red or colored. Columbia, named after Christopher Columbus. Detroit, named from the river or strait on which it is built. Ecuador, equator, so named from its position under the line. Erie, wild cat, the name of a fierce tribe exterminated by the Iroquois. Iowa, the French form of an Indian word signifying "the droxy" or the "sleepy ones," a Sioux name of the Pahoya or "Gray-nose" tribe. Kansas, smoky water; also said to signify good potato. Kentucky, at the head of a river. Labrador, named by the Spaniards Terra Labrador, "the white land," to distinguish it from Greenland. Manitoulin, spirit islands. Michigan, a weir for fish. Milwaukee, rich land. Mississippi, great and long river. Missouri, muddy. Montreal, Royal Mountain—so named by the French explorer, Jacques Cartier, 1534-35. Newfoundland, so named by its discoverer, John Cabot, in 1497, first applied to all the territory discovered by him, but afterward restricted to the island to which it is now applied. New York, named after the Duke of York, afterwards James II. Niagara, neck of water—connecting Lake Erie with Lake Ontario. Nova Scotia, New Scotland. Ohio, beautiful. Ontario, from Onontio, "a village on a mountain," the chief-son of the Onondagas. Oregon, named by Carver, Oregon or Oregon, i. e., River of the West. Ottawa, traders. Quebec, an Algonquin term, meaning "take care of the rock." Saskatchewan, swift current. Toronto, an Iroquois term denoting oak trees rising from the lake. Vancouver Island, named after Vancouver, who visited the island in 1792. Winnipeg, turbid water.

Nervousness in Speaking.

A youthful speaker, nervous at the prospect of addressing a literary society on its anniversary, was advised by a clergyman to look upon the audience as if it were so many cabbage-heads. The suggestion was not a bad one, provided the youth had thoroughly prepared his speech for heads with brains. The young man, though he did not know it, held in that nervousness at least one claim to a place among orators. For there is scarcely a speaker whose words move men who does not feel a similar tremor every time he rises before a great audience.

Patrick Henry usually began with a hesitating timidity, which continued until the excitement of speaking threw off. When Pinkney, a haughty, defiant and venal orator, would turn pale when about to speak, and his knees would tremble as if he were Belshazzar gazing at the mysterious hand writing on the wall. Even years of practice failed to repress this nervousness.

It is fortunate for the orator that years do not do this. For without the sensibility which begets it one of the forces of oratory would be wanting.

Tristram Burgess, the bald eagle of Rhode Island, while speaking on some important question, suddenly pointed his forefinger towards his opponent and made a long pause.

"That pause was terrible," said a colleague to Mr. Burgess, on leaving the House. "To no one so terrible as to me," replied the orator, "for I couldn't think of anything to say."

"Nothing but strong excitement and a great occasion," wrote Lord Macaulay, while he was looked upon as one of the orators of the House of Commons, "overcame a certain reserve and scientific habit (bashfulness) which I have in speaking; not a natural habit which in the least confuses me or makes me hesitate for a word, but which keeps me from putting any fervor into my tone or action."

Dr. Storrs, the most finished of pulpit orators, whose extempore sermons are marvels of rhetoric, though in consequence, it is said made a dead failure when he first preached without notes. After floundering for twenty-five minutes he came to a full stop.

"I sank back in the chair," he said, describing his mortification, "almost wishing that I had been with Pharoah and his hosts when the Red Sea went over them."

"My Lords," said the Earl of Rochester, as he began a speech in the House of Lords, "I—I—I rise this time—my lords, I—I divide my discourse into four branches. My lords, if ever I rise again in this house, I give you leave to cut me off root and branch, forever."

The lesson taught by these incidents is this: The orator should master, but not eradicate, his nervousness. Canning, one of England's wittiest and most classical orators, used to say he was aware of speaking his best if he rose in a fright. The more his heart beat, the more certain he was that the heart of the audience would soon beat in responsive sympathetic rhythm.—[Youth's Companion.]

In the late elections just held in Ohio and Iowa the liquor question was pushed prominently to the front. The women took up the cause of prohibition and made an active canvass in favour of it. They seem to have made headway. But the result to the Republicans of adopting the prohibition plank has been to lose them the support of the Germans. The Germans are a peaceful and law-abiding class of the community, but they dearly love their beer. They went over to the Democrats, and the result has been a Democratic victory. As is usual in cases in which one side is fighting simply for what it believes to be right and the other is fighting for its bread and butter nothing was left undone by the latter side to ensure victory. Money was freely spent. This is where the liquor interest always has the advantage. It is a question of life and death with it, as it is known that if prohibition were carried it would have to close its bars.

Can any one bring us a case of Kidney or Liver Complaint that Electric Bitters will not speedily cure? We say they cannot, as thousands of cases already permanently cured and who are daily recommending Electric Bitters, will prove Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Weak Back, or any urinary complaint quickly cured. They purify the blood, regulate the bowels, and acts directly on the diseased parts. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale at 50c. a bottle by J. Wilson. [1]

Now that there is a reliable remedy for kidney troubles, half the terrors attached to these complaints have been removed. For this let all be thankful, and to Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure award all praise for having thus removed a hitherto considered fatal disease from our path. It was never known to fail. Sold by J. Wilson. 2m

The unseating of Sir John Macdonald in Lennox, on the ground of bribery by agents will make no difference as far as he is concerned. He was elected for two constituencies, and now that he has been deprived of one, can fall back upon the other. Lennox having shown him the door, Carleton still stands with open arms and will be delighted to have him all to herself. Up to the present, Carleton and Lennox were represented by half a man each, but no doubt they agreed that it was better to be represented by half a man like Sir John Macdonald than by a whole man of less ability and brain. It is a pity that he was not born twin, as then they could each have had one of him.—[Toronto Telegram.]

Some one has taken the trouble to ascertain how far a farmer must walk to put in and tend forty acres of corn. To plough the ground with a sixteen-inch three-horse plough he travels 350 miles; to harrow the ground thoroughly before planting he will have to travel 100 miles; to cultivate the same he travels fifty miles; to cultivate it three times he will have to travel 150 miles—making a total of 600 hundred miles besides the gathering.

How a Feather Grows.

In the skin of a fowl, where a feather is to appear, there is to be seen a little pit, and in the bottom of this rises a little mound or pyramid. Around this pyramid certain little grooves extend from the base and seeming to radiate from one large groove at one side—all growing shallower, and finally disappearing at the top. This whole pyramid is covered with a skin composed of the same scales, or flattened cells, as those which cover the whole body. In the ordinary process of growth the new formations on the surface of the body throw off, as effete matter, the older portions of the skin; but here they are retained, and become so closely united to each other that they form a sort of horny coat more or less strong (according to its age), over the surface of the pyramid. As new cells grow at the base they push up this little horny protuberance till it breaks at its thinnest point, which is opposite the large groove. Then as new growths still push it onward and flatten it, it assumes the form of a feather, the ridge in the middle the side grooves being the separate barbs of the vein. When all this web of the feather is completed the pyramid loses its grooves and becomes smooth. All parts are of equal thickness, and so hard as not to break easily, but remain tubular and firm, the quill is thus formed. The finger nails, and even single hairs are developed and formed in the same way; and every one who has injured a nail and lost it knows by how long a process—some three or four months—the missing finish to his digit is being reproduced.

Tristram Burgess, the bald eagle of Rhode Island, while speaking on some important question, suddenly pointed his forefinger towards his opponent and made a long pause.

"That pause was terrible," said a colleague to Mr. Burgess, on leaving the House. "To no one so terrible as to me," replied the orator, "for I couldn't think of anything to say."

To Make a Happy Home.

- 1. Learn to govern yourself, and to be gentle and patient.
2. Guard your tempers, especially in seasons of ill-health, irritation and trouble, and soften them by prayers, and a sense of your own shortcomings and errors.
3. Never speak or act in anger until you have prayed over your words or acts, and concluded that Christ would have done so in your place.
4. Remember that, valuable as is the gift of speech, silence is often much more valuable.
5. Do not expect too much from others, but remember that all have an evil nature, whose development we must expect, and which we should forbear and forgive, as we often desire forbearance and forgiveness ourselves.
6. Never retort a sharp or angry word. It is the second word that makes the quarrel.
7. Beware of the first disagreement.
8. Learn to speak in a gentle tone of voice.
9. Learn to say kind and pleasant things whenever an opportunity offers.
10. Study the character of each, and sympathize with all in their troubles, however small.
11. Do not neglect little things, if they can affect the comfort of others in the smallest degree.
12. Avoid moods and pets, and fits of sulkiness.
13. Learn to deny yourself, and to prefer others.
14. Beware of meddlers and tale-bearers.
15. Never charge a bad motive, if a good one is conceivable.
16. Be gentle but firm with children.
17. Do not allow your children to be away from home at night without knowing where they are at the same time.
18. Do not allow them to go where they please on the Sabbath.
19. Do not furnish them with much spending money.
20. Remember the grave, the judgment seat, and the scenes of eternity, and so order your home on earth that you shall have a home in heaven.—[Pres. Chronicle.]

Sound Advice to Farmers.

In your conversation ask as many questions as possible that require an immediate answer. Swallowing soap doesn't injure a person seriously.

After you have thoroughly soaped your customer's face, seize him by the nose and begin operations. This enables him to breathe through his ears.

Never fail to remind a man that his head is full of dandruff. The tonsorial artist who neglects this plain duty doesn't know any more about his business than a barber.

Do not think of selling your "Egyptian Lustre" for less than a dollar a bottle. Affairs in Egypt are somewhat unsettled, and, besides, glass bottles cost money—a little.

If you have been eating onions and drinking gin be frank with your customer and tell him so. Otherwise he may think it is the sewer, and bother some daily newspaper writing letters about it.

If you find that your customer is about to swallow his "Adam's apple" you should at once shave in that direction. In this way you can cut a hole in his throat, and it will apparently be his own fault.

Never fail to call the attention of your customer to the celebrated tonic of your own manufacture. The fact that you made it yourself will go a long way toward effecting a sale—particularly with strangers.

If while cutting hair and watching a dog fight on the street at the same time you find that your shears come to an abrupt stop, neglect the dog-fight for a moment. Otherwise you may cut off somebody's ear.

If your customer wears a pair of fourteen dollar calfskin boots, a brass watch chain and a coloured shirt, you are safe in assuming that he is a business man on a passenger train, and you can proceed to colour his moustache a stolen black.

When a man comes in whom you know to be a stranger, always ask him if he "has a cup?" He will say no, of course; but his manner will indicate that he is pleased. As a rule none but bankers, brokers, stationery and editors indulge in the luxury of a private cup.

Thousands bear witness to the positive curative powers of the GREAT GERMAN INVIGORATOR, the only remedy that has proved itself a specific for general debility, senile weakness, impotency, etc., and all diseases that arise from a deficient or overtaxed brain, finally ending in consumption, insanity and a premature grave. Sold by all druggists, or will be sent free on receipt of $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.—Address F. J. CHENEY, Toledo, Ohio, sole agent for the United States. Send for circular and testimonials of genuine cures. Geo. Rhynas, G. derich. 3m

BULL'S EYES AND BANK NOTES.

We think A. H. Roe has gained for himself a name and a fame that will guarantee him a front place in the ranks of the electoral corruptionists of Canada.

John Shields, Frank Madill, "Big Push" Wilkinson, "Gum Swamp" Anderson, and the other bribers, too numerous to mention, will now have to hide their diminished heads, and acknowledge that A. H. Roe has outstripped them all in the art of buying votes and voters.

The impudence of the fellow Murphy, who is managing the Guelph lottery, is innumerable. He has just sent us for distribution a number of his circulars. We have before expressed our opinion of the Guelph Opera House Co. Trust.

It is a lottery, and a swindle. We warn our readers against Murphy and his scheme. He and his colleagues are trying to make money in another way than by fairly and squarely earning it.

Two classes of people are getting tickets for this lottery—fools and knaves. The knaves are going to get the money. The bigger the knave the more money he will get. Mr. Murphy will have a full pocket after the "wheel goes round."

WHEN one of the school series agents who attended the West Huron Teachers Convention on Saturday last wanted to depreciate the value of the rival reader, he might have taken another method of doing so instead of showing his ignorance of recognized English authors.

Our friends over in Wingham are not going to let the railway question drop. The Advance says:—"A very important meeting was held in the Council chamber on Monday evening last. We were beginning to get the impression that our leading men had given up the idea of trying to get another railway into Wingham, but now they appear to have taken up the matter again in right good earnest, and our readers may not be surprised if they succeed in getting a branch of the T. G. & B. railway into Wingham next spring.

THE TRIAL OF MRS. COATS for the poisoning of her husband was concluded at Sherbrooke Thursday, and a verdict of "not guilty" returned by the jury after an hour's deliberation.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

The Educators of West Huron Meet in Convention—And They Talked, and Talked, and Talked.

GODERICH, Oct. 12.

The semi-annual meeting of the West Huron Teachers' Association was held in the high school this morning at 10.45 a.m., the president in the chair.

H. I. Strang presided in prayer.

The following committees were then appointed: Business—Thos. Gregory, W. R. Miller, Geo. Baird, Jr.

Resolutions—W. S. Lawrence, A. H. Craswell, Wm. Leigh.

The business committee reported as follows: Order for the morning—"Decimals," G. M. Kilty; "On Duty," J. C. Smith.

Order for afternoon—"Report of delegate to Provincial Association," Thos. Gregory; "Monthly Examination," R. H. Morrish; "Spelling Reform," H. I. Strang; "Chat with the Teachers," J. W. Songough; "Teachers and Teaching," T. F. Young.

J. C. Smith read a very interesting essay, "On Duty," in which he impressed on teachers their duty, (1) to their pupils, (2) to themselves, and their fellow teachers.

After a few congratulatory remarks by the president, it was Moved by Thos. Gregory, seconded by W. R. Miller, that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to Mr. Smith for his essay. Carried.

Mr. Kilty not being present, R. E. Brown was called upon, and read his essay on "The Means and Ends of Education." He said that book learning did not constitute a good education unless connected with practical life. He did not think our present system was practical enough.

P. Strang made a few remarks which were replied to by Mr. Brown, and then a vote of thanks to Mr. Brown was moved by S. P. Halls, seconded by P. Strang. Carried.

It was then moved by S. P. Halls, seconded by A. J. Moore, that the agents of the rival series of readers be allowed 15 minutes each the first thing this afternoon, with five minutes each for reply.

Moved in amendment by W. R. Miller, seconded by Mr. Lane, that the agents be allowed 25 minutes each tomorrow morning with five minutes for reply.

The original motion was carried. Session adjourned at 12.30.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The association re-assembled at 2.15 p.m.

T. Gregory, the delegate to the Provincial Teachers' Association, made his report. He read extracts from the addresses delivered at the association.

H. I. Strang moved, seconded by Inspector Miller, that a vote of thanks be given to Mr. Gregory for his report, and that the treasurer be instructed to pay his expenses. Carried.

Mr. Walmesley advocated the case of the Nelson-Campbell Royal Reader series of readers, and was followed by Mr. Moran, who pointed out the merits of the Gage Canadian Readers. Each gentleman had five minutes for reply.

Geo. Kilty then took up the subject of Decimals, and showed his method of teaching that branch of arithmetic. He received a vote of thanks.

Moved by H. I. Strang, seconded by S. P. Halls, that the executive be instructed to have the subject of Mr. Bryant's paper at the late Provincial Association discussed at the next meeting of the Institute, and that the secretary furnish each member of the Institute with a copy of the minutes of the Provincial Association. Carried.

J. W. Bengough then made a few humorous remarks, keeping the institute in a continual roar of laughter, after which the meeting adjourned.

FRIDAY NIGHT.

J. W. Bengough lectured in Victoria Hall under the auspices of the Association to an immense audience. A report appears in our local columns.

SATURDAY MORNING.

Goderich Oct 13, 1883.

Association met in the High School.

The Inspector led in prayer.

J. R. Miller, I. P. S. made a few remarks on the subject of bringing up Mr. Bryant's paper at the next meeting of the Institute, for discussion, as he was not present at the time, the motion to bring it up was passed.

Messrs. W. R. Miller, A. J. Moore, and H. I. Strang also spoke on the question, and eventually it was moved by R. E. Brown, seconded by Jas. Markman, that the resolution annex Mr. Bryant's paper be reconsidered. Lost.

W. R. Miller then moved, and Mr. Gregory seconded, that the agents of the rival readers be allowed ten minutes each after the teachers had discussed the question. Carried.

A discussion on the Readers question then ensued in which Messrs. H. I. Strang, J. R. Miller, P. Strang, W. R. Miller, W. M. Leigh, R. H. Morrish, Jas. Markman, Mr. McLean, W. Lane, R. E. Brown, and Jas. Morgan took part.

After which the following resolution and amendments were made: Moved W. R. Miller seconded by P. Strang that at the close of this discussion the voice of the meeting be taken on the merits of the different readers and a committee of six appointed to consult with a similar committee from East Huron, said committee of 12 to have power to decide, and in case of not being able to come to a decision, they have the power of calling a joint meeting of the two associations.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Markman seconded by Mr. McLean, that the association decide, immediately as to which series of readers shall be introduced in West Huron.

Moved in amendment to the amendment by H. I. Strang, seconded by Mr. Gregory, that while strongly of opinion that it would be better that not more than one series of readers should be authorized, yet the Government having decided otherwise this association would respectfully urge that the 2nd series, known as the Royal Canadian Readers, should also be authorized, and in the meantime would recommend the trustees to defer introducing any new readers until the question of its authorization is finally settled.

The resolution carried. Moved by H. I. Strang, seconded by

TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

The Educators of West Huron Meet in Convention—And They Talked, and Talked, and Talked.

GODERICH, Oct. 12.

The semi-annual meeting of the West Huron Teachers' Association was held in the high school this morning at 10.45 a.m., the president in the chair.

H. I. Strang presided in prayer.

The following committees were then appointed: Business—Thos. Gregory, W. R. Miller, Geo. Baird, Jr.

Resolutions—W. S. Lawrence, A. H. Craswell, Wm. Leigh.

The business committee reported as follows: Order for the morning—"Decimals," G. M. Kilty; "On Duty," J. C. Smith.

Order for afternoon—"Report of delegate to Provincial Association," Thos. Gregory; "Monthly Examination," R. H. Morrish; "Spelling Reform," H. I. Strang; "Chat with the Teachers," J. W. Songough; "Teachers and Teaching," T. F. Young.

J. C. Smith read a very interesting essay, "On Duty," in which he impressed on teachers their duty, (1) to their pupils, (2) to themselves, and their fellow teachers.

After a few congratulatory remarks by the president, it was Moved by Thos. Gregory, seconded by W. R. Miller, that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to Mr. Smith for his essay. Carried.

Mr. Kilty not being present, R. E. Brown was called upon, and read his essay on "The Means and Ends of Education." He said that book learning did not constitute a good education unless connected with practical life. He did not think our present system was practical enough.

P. Strang made a few remarks which were replied to by Mr. Brown, and then a vote of thanks to Mr. Brown was moved by S. P. Halls, seconded by P. Strang. Carried.

It was then moved by S. P. Halls, seconded by A. J. Moore, that the agents of the rival series of readers be allowed 15 minutes each the first thing this afternoon, with five minutes each for reply.

Moved in amendment by W. R. Miller, seconded by Mr. Lane, that the agents be allowed 25 minutes each tomorrow morning with five minutes for reply.

The original motion was carried. Session adjourned at 12.30.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The association re-assembled at 2.15 p.m.

T. Gregory, the delegate to the Provincial Teachers' Association, made his report. He read extracts from the addresses delivered at the association.

H. I. Strang moved, seconded by Inspector Miller, that a vote of thanks be given to Mr. Gregory for his report, and that the treasurer be instructed to pay his expenses. Carried.

Mr. Walmesley advocated the case of the Nelson-Campbell Royal Reader series of readers, and was followed by Mr. Moran, who pointed out the merits of the Gage Canadian Readers. Each gentleman had five minutes for reply.

Geo. Kilty then took up the subject of Decimals, and showed his method of teaching that branch of arithmetic. He received a vote of thanks.

Moved by H. I. Strang, seconded by S. P. Halls, that the executive be instructed to have the subject of Mr. Bryant's paper at the late Provincial Association discussed at the next meeting of the Institute, and that the secretary furnish each member of the Institute with a copy of the minutes of the Provincial Association. Carried.

J. W. Bengough then made a few humorous remarks, keeping the institute in a continual roar of laughter, after which the meeting adjourned.

THE NEW BISHOP.

Dr. Sullivan Elected as Bishop Hellmuth's Successor.

London, Oct. 17.—To-day the election of a successor to Bishop Hellmuth took place. Dr. Sullivan, bishop of Algoma, received a majority of the entire vote, both clerical and lay.

On the first ballot the other candidates were Rev. Dr. Lohley, Rev. F. Courtney, Rev. Canon Carmichael, Rev. Rural Dean Cooper, Very Rev. Dean Baldwin, Rev. Henry H. Waters, Rev. Canon Innes, Rev. J. Richardson, Rev. Archdeacon Myrah, Rev. Mr. Boomer and Rev. Mr. Ramsford. The following is the vote.

Table with 2 columns: Name and Votes. Sullivan 118, Courtney 15, Lohley 13, Innes 4, Marsh 2, Carmichael 0, Cooper 0, Baldwin 0, Waters 0, Richardson 0, Ramsford 1, Boomer 1.

COUNTY NEWS.

Called from our Local Exchanges.

Win Gauley, formerly of Clinton, will shortly take charge of Summerhill public school.

Duncan McLaughlin, of Grey, has sold one of his heavy draught mares to Mr. Smilie for $200.

Robert Coleman has sold his farm in McKillop, being lot 7, con. 4, to John Maloney, for $3,375. The farm contains 663 acres.

Chas. W. Scott, of Birr, a former teacher in this locality, has been engaged for the Lucan Public School at a salary of $525.00.

Mr. Linklater, at one time a pupil of the Clinton High School, has been engaged as a teacher in the place of Mr. Connolly, resigned.

Robert Darnion, of Wroster, is building a saw mill on the lot west of the school and expects to have it in running order in a short time.

Messrs. E. Gaunt & Sons, who were exhibitors at the Provincial, sold two ram lambs for $25 each; a shearing ram for $40, and their shearing ram which took the first prize was sold for $50. All these sheep are of the Leicester breed.

W. R. Porter, of Seaford, was in Kincardine on Wednesday last week. He went to bed at the Royal leaving his room door unfastened. In the morning he reported having lost some $81, which he was satisfied had been taken out of his pants pocket while he slept.

Thos. Russell, of Osborne, recently sold a thoroughbred bull calf eight months old, to David Mitchell, of Hibbert, for $300. He also sold a six months old bull calf to David McCallum, of Watford, for $250. Both these calves were bred from Mr. Russell's own herd.

On Friday the citizens of Exeter were surprised to hear of the death of John Mack, flour and feed merchant. He ate his supper as usual, and shortly afterwards expired. Deceased was 59 years of age, has resided in Exeter for a long time, and was very highly esteemed.

ARM BOXERS.—A son of Samuel Smith, of McKillop, about 15 years of age, fell from the wagon in the barn and broke his arm near the shoulder and dislocated the shoulder joint. The fracture is a particularly bad one, but under proper medical treatment he is recovering.

A painful accident occurred Monday night at the farm of Kinnon McKinnon, man named Angus McLeod accidentally slipped into the cylinder of a threshing machine, frightfully mangled his leg. Dr. Mackie was immediately sent for, and found it necessary to amputate the limb. The patient is now doing well.

On the evening of Thursday, 11th inst., about fifty friends met at the residence of Chas. Lovett, Summerhill, and presented G. M. Kilty, teacher, with ten volumes of standard literature and a beautiful wall pocket. Mr. Kilty has given up the school at Summerhill, and accepted the position of senior teacher at Belfast school.

On Wednesday last J. D. Roundly received an order from Port Arthur for a steam fire engine and two horse reels and a set of hose, the same to be delivered before the close of navigation. The engine now in the shop will be ready to leave by the 20th inst. The town of Meaford has also carried their by-law for the purchase of the Brussels engine.

Burglars are abroad in the county, Scott's banking office, Wingham, was entered by burglars Thursday night, 11th inst. The entrance was effected by breaking a pane of glass in one of the back windows. All the burglars obtained for the trouble he was $25 in silver, which was in the vault. They, however, carried off some books which are valuable to Mr. Scott as records of the office.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—A little daughter of Robert McMichael, of Hullett, met with a most painful accident one day last week. She was playing in a buggy which had been left standing near the house, when she fell on, fracturing the large bone of the left arm near the elbow. The limb has been properly set, and the patient is getting along as well as could be expected, but as the fracture is so near the elbow it is feared her arm will remain stiff.

A MELANCHOLY OCCURRENCE.—On Monday morning last Joseph Brown, of Harpurhey, received a telegraph conveying to him the melancholy intelligence that his son James had died in Fargo, Dakota, the previous day. The deceased was a strong, robust young man of about 24 years of age. He went to Dakota with John Shaw about five months ago and was employed with him in the plastering business. He was a very steady, industrious man, and was doing well. About ten days previous to his death he was prostrated with an attack of what is called Red River Fever, and although he received every possible care and attention the system was unable to bear up under the violence of the disease.—Exp.ist.

A man named John Command was killed by the midnight express going west near Carleton Place Monday night. It is thought he had been drinking and fell asleep on the track. The body was dreadfully mangled.

Household Hints.

POTATO PUDDING.—Two pounds of potatoes boiled and mashed, one-half pound sugar, one-half pound butter, six eggs, one nutmeg. Bake quick. Take a white china plate and spread a thin covering of common lard over it...

After the dust has been thoroughly beaten out of carpets, and they are tacked down again, they can be brightened very much by scattering corn meal mixed with salt over them, and then sweeping it all off. Mix the salt and meal in equal proportions.

A pretty new jacket for housewear is gathered at the waist in the back and has a ribbon belt, which, beginning at the garters, ties across the front precisely like the belts of the large wraps; in fact, the English of this garment is "a dust cloak cut shorter."

There is a way of using the small strips of crazy patchwork to be found in the houses of many women, who, without sufficient deliberate wickedness to make a whole quilt, have yet had the naughtiness to think of it. They may be used to trim the ends of mantle scarfs and toilet covers.

To whiten flannels; a solution of one and a half pounds of white soap and two thirds of an ounce of spirits of ammonia dissolved in twelve gallons of soft water, will impart a beautiful and lasting whiteness to any flannels nipped in it...

Boil one smoked beef tongue until thoroughly done; when cold grate it fine. Take the yolks of four hard-boiled eggs, mashed fine, add two tablespoonfuls of made mustard, half a teaspoonful of salt, pepper to taste, and about a quarter of a pint of good vinegar; beat the dressing well; when the salad is wanted, mix the dressing with the beef tongue. This makes a nice sandwich.

Take small cucumbers and let them lie for thirty-six or forty-eight hours in a brine that will make them as you like them for eating. Take two quarts cool cider vinegar, with cinnamon, red pepper and horseradish to taste; boil hard for fifteen minutes, then throw in the pickles and put enough vinegar to cover them. Let them scald, not boil, set back and keep hot until they are green, then pack in jars. Seal fresh.

A dressy little apron for afternoon wear can be made by taking a piece of cheese-cloth twenty-nine inches long by twenty-one wide, and after hemming the sides, fringing out the bottom in the shape of four inches; a couple inches above the fringe draw the threads for two more, and run in either satin or ottoman ribbon of light weight. If the ribbon is pink, embroider in the left hand corner above it a spray of wild roses in natural colors in outline stitches. If the apron is white, it may be shown at the top of the apron make two small gorges so that it will fit smoothly, and after banding with the cheese-cloth, tuck on a piece of the ribbon long enough to tie in a bow at the back. For one it requires one yard of cheese-cloth and three yards of ribbon, two inches wide. The design for embroidering can be drawn or traced with a pencil from something else. These aprons are very pretty for fairs or little party presents, and are both inexpensive and quickly made.

Fried in Toronto. Mrs. Mary Thompson, of Toronto, reports the removal of eight feet of tapeworm by the use of one bottle of Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup. This medicine is reliable for all kinds of worms that afflict children or adults.

Morris Fall Show. The Morris Branch Agricultural Society held its show at Blyth on Thursday and Friday, 11th and 12th inst., and although the weather was not favorable, owing to the rain, the attendance was good. The outside departments, consisting of horses, cattle, sheep, pigs, poultry, &c. were better, as a whole, than they had ever been there, in fact, better horses have not been shown anywhere in this section this year. The grade cattle gave evidence of much improvement, and the sheep were really first-class. The inside department was not equal to some former years, which is not to be wondered at, as the season is for some kinds of fruit and vegetables, besides being a bad year for them. In implements the show was very good, and more numerous entries than in some that have been held. The following is the prize list:
