German Endeavor to Cross the River in Turning Movement for Drive on Paris Meets With Vigorous Resistance and Troops Retire

THROWN AGAINST SEVEN

United States Senate is Told of Serious Situation Confronting the Allies---More American Troops to Be Sent Over.

Washington, June 1 .- With the Germans within 45 miles of Paris the situation, the senators were told, is serious. Military experts here, they were dvised, are a unit in realizing the dangers confronting the allies. The senators were told that the rapidity of the German advance since their ofbegan last Monday was unexpected by virtually all allied military experts. Twenty German divisions, it was said, were thrown against seven of the allies. The territory taken during the last few days has been rded as easily defended and a prisoners. all force had been left to hold it. uccess of the enemy was ascribed by the war council largely to improved use of gas shells. Altho few new types of gas offensive have been developed, the senators were told, the Germans are employing former types to much better advantage, using nine-inch gas shells to shell territory from seven to eight miles back of allied lines. This, it was expected, forced an extensive retirement. The French, it was said, found their second line eight miles to the rear untenable.

Present enemy successes and prospective renewal of the offensive, the senators were told, emphasizes the troops Constantly Harass the Foe and Have Secured necessity for urgent transportations of forces abroad. The program for shipment of men in May was exceeded the senators were told. More than 200,000 Americans—and these exceeding the usual ratio of fighting men, which has been 60 per cent.—were sent. In June it is planned to send even larger numbers, with larger Prospects of troops.

So far, according to the French official reports, his progress has been small, despite most desperate efforts. On the important front between Soissons and Chateau Thierry, on the Marne, indeed, the french has been impetuously counter-attacking and at points the enemy not only has failed to advance but has been forced to give ground.

This was notably the case immediately to the south of Soissons, where the enemy was thrown back upon the Crise River, which runs in an almost north and south line thru that town. Farther south the Germans had worked some three miles west of the Soissons-Chateat. Thierry road, and had taken the village of Chaudun. The French drove in here determinedly, however, and recaptured the place, which they now hold. NEW TROOPS THROWN INTO THE FIGHT.

With the French Army in France, June 1.-The enemy is increasing unceasingly the number of troops engaged in the battle. The general idea when the offensive began appears to have been that each enemy division should occupy a front of only 2000 yards. Since that time the line of battle has been extended, and in order to maintain the density of the attacking army further units have been brought from the rear and thrown into the fight. The time and place of the return he well in and growing in a most promising way. Every one must now turn in to help to do the final planting, and then to start in to get off the hay toward the end of June. The dairy farmers never did as well as they are doing now ;so also those of measles Toronto is remarkably free they are doing now ; so also those raising live stock. It looks at this return blow by the allies seem to be puzzling the German commanders who are endeavoring to secure strong points for pivots. The task of strengthening the retiring divisions of the allies where it is necessary was placed in the hands of local reserves. It has been carried out exceedingly well under the difficult circumstances. The fortyphoid. By pushing on to the northern bank of the Marne the Germans have brought the point of their fan-like movement to a sharp salient. They evidently are anxious to develop the advantage thus gained by pressing westward, from Charteves to Chateau Thierry. RETURNED SOLDIERS TO GET CITY JOBS

Various Civic Committees Ask Council to Approve of Appointments of Men at Specified Salaries.

The various civic committees are asking the council to approve the appointment of a number of returned soldiers to positions in the city's employ. Among them are the following: W. R. Ausman, motorman on St. Clair car line, at 30c an hour, with a war bonus of 32-3c an hour; F. G. Hadlaw, conductor on the eastern division of the civic car system at the same rate of pay, as well as E.

Father of Murdered Man Died Saturday of Injuries

The death occurred Saturday morning of Henry Tucker. Orangeville, father of Geo. Tucker, who was murdered in a box car in Weston on May 19. The late Henry Tucker died as the result of injuries received in trying to stop a runaway team in Orangeville on Wednesday. He attempted to stop the team by jumping off his wagon in front of them, and received a fractured skull and other injuries. Mr. Tucker was about 52 years of age. One son, W. H. Tucker, is with the R.A.F. at Leaside. His widow, another son and three daughters are strengthen. rs also survive.

INQUEST NOT DECIDED UPON.

The question of an inquest on the death of Air Cadet Jan G. Lawrie has not yet been decided. A question of the jurisdiction of Chief Coroner Johnson in the case has arisen, on account of the fact that the alleged neglect which may have brought about the death of the cadet, did not take place in Toronto, but at Camp Borden. On Saturday Dr. Johnson had not made up his mind, as he was waiting to hear from Mr. Lawrie, the dead man's father, and until he had done so he could not state definitely.

SUNDAY MORNING JUNE 2 1918

The many homes which will be furnished by us during this month should exceed in artistic taste and comfort the many thousands that owe their creation to our efforts in the past.

The result of our buyers' excursions into the world's best markets for homefurnishings has found us better prepared to supply those needfuls than ever before. Stocks are wonderfully complete, attractive and comprehensive.

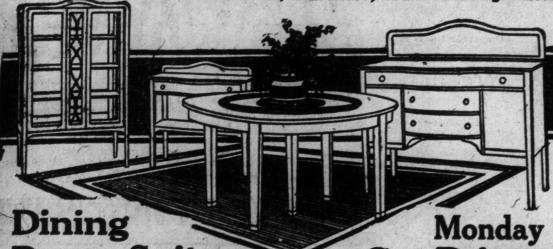

Young folks contemplating matrimony are invited to come to our Store, go through our magnificent stocks, make whatever selections suitable, and have our estimate. Such an estimate, we believe, would be an agreeable surprise.

When we acquaint you with the liberal arrangements for extended payments that we will make, your delight will be instant.

The Adams' Store is Ready

Come and see the Bungalow Apartment House, where three and four-room outfits are shown complete from $145 up. See the many suites in separate sections through the Store, which are shown with artistic room backgrounds, giving you the effect you would get in your home.

Let us help you with our thirty-six years' experience making cosy homes. Whether you know exactly what you want, or have no idea to guide you, in either case we can fix you up a home which you'll be proud to own. Consult us freely.

Room Suites ed quarter-cut oak, fumed and Old English finishes, in Artcraft, Jacobean and William and Mary period designs, consisting of roomy buffets fitted with mirror back, single and double glass door china cabinets, round to extension tables with pedestal or 5-leg five diners and arm chair with full box

The pathetic thing about the whole situation is that there comes no real-ization of that which is missing. Life has lost its largest and fullest neaning; it is limited to the routine of getting a living.

Many a factory or shop girl, after a hard day's work, is compelled to spend the evening in further monotonous toil in the home, because of the poverty of her parents or because of her own limited means. To such there can be little or no development of those qualities which make for the highest type of woman-

Food Board Contradicts Statement Regarding Home Canning.

EVERY OUNCE WANTED

Strongly Urged to Produce Garden Truck on Widest Possible Scale.

Ottawa, June 1—An unfortunate impression has got abroad, according to Mr. Fred Abraham, chairman of the garden section of the food board, that home canning is dangerous on account of boltuism, a form of ptomaine poisoning. This has been given currency thru some remarks made at the recent medical congress held in Hamilton.

"Boltuism is not a new disease, nor in Hamilton.

"Boltuism is not a new disease, nor can it occur if vegetables are thoroly sterilized," said Mr. Abraham. "If all home-canned fruits and vegetables re cooked poisoning cannot occur. This point has been missed by a good many readers and has caused anxiety in the minds of amateur gardeners whose fears are naturally easily aroused in the absence of knowledge. It is especially unfortunate that any misapprehension should exist at a time when every ounce of food that can be produced will be required. I therefore, strongly urge everyone who can produce garden truck to do so on the widest possible scale. Women and children can especially help in this branch of production."

Admiral Viscount Jellicoe, addressing the meeting, paid a warm tribute to the work of the mercantile marine, saying that it was as a result of its effort that Great Britain today was so well fed and clothed, and enjoyed such comforts. Alluding to the submarine concerning sailors, both British and foreign, whose ships had been torpedoed, who had been subjected to gun fire, abandoned at sea or drowned intentionally by the enemy, in the hope of destroying their morale, seemed incredible. Yet never a man flinched, were only slightly injured.

With the American Army in France, May 31.—A Russian prisoner who recently was returned from Germany has made a statement at Moscow which is now available here, to the effect that he saw American prisoners of war in a camp at Tuchel, West Prussia, and that they asked him to let it be known that they were being treated brutally. The prisoners said they were hungry and penniless and the huts in which they are living, are damp, cold and unfit for habitation. When the Americans arrived at the camp, according to this account, the Germans removed all their clothes. They told the prisoners they should not wear expensive clothing and shoes while working, and that their property would e taken care of. The Russians said, however, that everyone knows what that means.

A consul—the Russian was not sure whether he was Swiss or Spanish—visited the camp. Complaint was made to him by the Americans, and their clothes were returned, but as the consul seldom visited the camp, the Germans had opportunity to practice many injustices.

King George's Measage.

The Marquis of Crewe, who presided at the meeting, read a telegram from King George, congratulating the society. In the course of his speech the marquis referred to the demands for reprisals for German atrocities. He said he knew of no rule of Divine justice or human procedure which, when the enemy sank a ship or attacked hospitals on land, would forbid trial of the perpetrators by drumhead court-martial and their execution, not by shooting them as brave men, but hanging them as brave men, but hanging them as brave men, out to hanging them as brave men, out to hanging them as malefactors.

"If, however, we were so to act, entirely within our right," he continued, "the enemy would put to death an equal or larger number of our men against whom no offense could be alleged. But let it not be supposed that the barbarities of German warfare will be forgotten when the time comes to consider the conditions for ending the war. We shall then possess the power of exerting iron pressure on the central powers, thru our undiminished command of the sea and our control of raw materials. These could and cought to be applied against those outrages as well as in offseting any territorial gains which the enemy might enjoy when peace is made."

Careful Measurements Result in Lo-cating of Great German Gun by French Artillery Officers.

New York, June 1.-Careful meassingle shell in passing thru two awnings in a Paris factory enabled French artillery officers to locate the great German gun by a feat of mathematics To Chester M. Wright, a member of American labor mission, which has returned from Europe, French officers explained how the direction and distance of the guns was figured from data obtained from the two shell holes.

The two awnings were several feet other gave perfect data of the course which the shell had taken as it approached the earth. After the apershell became a problem on paper. By applying the laws governing the flight of projectiles, and allowing the wind and the state of the atmosphere and other considerations French artillery officers were able to follow back the course of the snell to the mouth of the cannon in the forest of St. Gobain, after which it was speedily demolished by French artillery.

HOW TO PRONOUNCE FOCH. There was much discussion among the Angio-American colony as to the pronunciation of the 'namo of the new general-in-chief. As the name of the Church of St. Roch is always pronounced with a hard "k," the obvious inference was that the general's name would be Fock, since no one supposed for a moment that it would have the Teutonic pronounciation. As a matter of fact the name is pronounced Fosh by the French. "kitchen" is the worst break one could possibly make.

"Kitchen work must come into the forefront of patriotic work today," said Miss Martin, of the Ontario Government Employment Bureau. "Our farmers' wives are crying out for help in their kitchens. If the production is to be increased, and more help taken on outdoors, these extra helpers must be fed, and the housewife complains that it is next to impossible unless she gets inside assistance."

No, madam.

Couldn't you tell me, if I told you all the symptoms?

No, madam. My remedy, called Mother's Friend, expels Worms, is an excellent Tonic and Builder, good for the Nerves and is an excellent medicine for Regulating the Bowels; it brings away all filth and small intestinal Worms, is perfectly harmless and can be given to the smallest infant without fear of doing harm. A lady who is living on Shaw Street got a bottle of this medicine for her baby two years old. She said she had no peace with this child night or day for four months; the doctor was calling regularly and did not help the child in the least; the little one took a bad spell and was choking, the mother opened its mouth and pulled out a stomach worm that was strangling the child. She rushed over to me and brought the child, also the worm, which measured eight inches long, with her. She purchased a bottle of Mother's Friend, and the second dose brought 17 more away. She was horrified at the sight, and brought the worms to me, which I have here in a bottle in my office, and many others from many happy mothers. So if you think it is a good investment to try Mother's Friend, it is $1.00 per bottle and 6c for postage in the city, and 20c extra for postage outside Toronto. Now, you understand, it is not necessary to waste car fare bringing your children here, as I do not practice medicine, and have only the one remedy for sick children, which expels Worms if they are there. New York, June 1.—Miss Elaine Rosenthal, formerly woman western champion, and Chick Evans, national amateur and open golf champion, have been communicating from Chicago with Jerome Travers, former national champion, and Mrs. W. A. Gavin, the English player, with a view to arranging a series of Red Cross golf contests in both eastern and midwest cities. It is expected the matches will be arranged for midsummer. All four golfers are engaged in a series of Red Cross exhibitions, and the proposed series would differ from these only in that there would be a series of contests between the same pairs,

HE RESPONDS TO PRESSURE

Big Jeff Tesrcau, the former Leaf, a few years ago considered one of the gamest right-handers, went so badly last season that Manager John McGraw made plans for dropping him from the Giants this year, but finally agreed to let Jeff stay along on trial. If he didn't pitch winning ball he would be shown the gate, and that was made plain to the pitcher. The result was that Jeff buckled down to work and has been showing what he can really do when he tries. He has been one of the Glants' best bets this spring. Tesreau, who comes from the Ozark Mountains, took up his residence as a New Yorker after his marriage a couple of years ago, and his admirers down in the hills aver that city life was a bad thing for him. They think their "Big Bear" would be better off if he would return to his native haunts to spend his winters and rough it with them as he used to do. Maybe Jeff will show he can be a Broadway light and still retain all his stamina.

SECOND TRY AT SYRACUSE STARS PETERSON PITCHING SELECTI

Two Reasons Why the Cardinals Are Resting on the Bottom Rung

Manager Jack Hendricks of the St. Louis Cardinals believes he pulled an unanswerable alibi when in giving reasons for the failure pulled an unanswerable alibi when in giving reasons for the failure of his team to get in the running this season he pointed to the team's hitting, or lack of it, and asked that the figures be compared with those of 1917. Hendricks had the dope, and it is pretty hard to get away from it. Last year Hornsby ran second to Ed. Roush as a hitter in the National, with an average of .327. This year he is just now getting up to .250, and for the first month of the season scarcely approached .200. Cruise last year batted around .340 for the first six weeks of the season, and wound up with a mark of .295. This year he has been wobbling around the .200 mark and, according to last records issued, still was under .230. If that is not enough, Jack Smith, a .300 latter last year, has been averaging about .180 this season. When Hornsby and Cruise and Smith and Gonzales and a few other Cardinals get to swinging their bats on something besides the atmosphere the story of the Cardinals probably will be different. At least Hendricks says so in his explanation of why his team is down and not up.

more than made good. So far as working behind the plate is concerned he is a much better man than Howley, and he will nip off a dozen runners where Dan will only get one, also Red has a better batting average than the manager. However, he falls down in running the cushions, while Howley shines, but from all records, with the exception of Ben Egan, Fisher is as good a catcher as there is in the league. Twice he has been used as a pinch hitter, and both times he has got on, and when one considers that he is not supposed to come under that heading. It simply means that his average is about 1000, which certainly cannot be beaten.

OLD COUNTRY TEAM

DEFEATS IMPERIALS

The game was of a very scrappy nature, the wind spolling the game. In the first half Old Country scored thru Jackson, whilst in the second half goals were scored by Rigby and Buchan for the Imperials, and Jackson and Catterson for Old Country. The final score was three to two in favor of Old Country.

Referee: W. Allen.

The game commenced 30 minutes late, partly due to an enthusiastic Rotary gardener who objected to the ball landing on his plot, and called in the police to stop the game.

The game, however, was called. Old Country took the field with nine men.

Hit The Trail To Scotland Woolen Mills And Save

20to 30%

We've made thousands of converts to our Mill-to-Man Tailoring System. To-day you can find them in every city, town, and hamlet in Canada.

Thousands of prejudiced and sceptical men came here, and these thousands became our staunchest supporters. Conservative, intelligent, economical, prudent men, of all classes, recognized the advantages we had to offer over the older system of buying and selling.

MILL-TO-MAN TAILORING

As we know it, gives you individually tailored-to-your-measure clothes at savings of 20 to 30 per cent., that for real style, fit, tailoring, and variety of materials is not obtainable where fabrics are bought and sold under the old fogey middleman methods.

Direct From The Mills Placed On Sale To-morrow

We have recently received another shipment of SPRING and SUM-MER SUITINGS. Weaves and patterns that you will not be able to obtain in any other tailoring house. These are very scarce fabrics. We know several good sized tailoring firms that would pay us GOOD MONEY for some of these bolts of cloth. THEY CAN'T GET THEM at any price. They're here for our customers to morrow at 20% to 20% less than the other fellows would ask.

OUT-OF-TOWN MEN Take your own measure and your Spring Clothes. Our style book, samples, and simple measuring outfit is sent FREE to any address. You can take your own measure with our simple measuring method as correct as any tailor, and we positively guarantee to refund all money if not satisfied.

Cross-country runs—not races, should have a slow bunch and a fast should have a slow bunch and a fast bunch, which gives all a chance to take part. Those not fully developed in speed or those who want to run just for the exercise should go out with the slow bunch and leave the speedy ones to make their own pace. The benefit gained, is confidence in one's own ability to keep up with the others, while heart, lungs, and legs receive their quota of exercise.

It is a well-known fact that those sports and physical activities that become familiar to the youngsters, are what they are most likely to prefer in maturity, so that is all the more reason why proper recreative sport should be encouraged among the boys of the 'teen age.

These runs should always have an experienced coach in charge. With-appreciated because it is a natural and not forced exercise.

These runs should always have an experienced coach in charge. Without a coach, it is a very easy thing during the early stages for the novice to overdo things, as he is likely to suddenly feel lots of strength and pep to overdo things, as he is likely to suddenly feel lots of strength and pep and wants to go ahead too fast, and, of course, upset the rest in their efforts to keep up. Here is where the coach is needed, he should be strict in not allowing any to proceed faster than deemed necessary for the majority. One good test to go by, when conducting a run, is, if everybody is enjoying it and not pulling that strained look that tells of the race. The coach should know by the look of the bunch whether the pace is too fast or not, he should remember the run is only for recreation and not ask the muscles and systems of the boys to do too much.

Cross-country running, principally and particularly promotes the proper functional activity of the respiratory organs, the skin, the circulation and organs of digestion. A satisfactory development of the whole body results. It is performed in the open air which alone places it in front of exercise in the gymnasium and helps the youth, to be active and develops his power of endurance. Athletes taking charge of church clubs could do nothing better than take the boys for a Saturday afternoon run across the country. Most all large schools in England and United States have encouraged this class of sport among the 'teen boys as they realize it is a means of encouraging the mental qualities and attributes of character as courage, resolution, sense of honor, presence of mind and a feelacter as courage, resolution, sense of honor, presence of mind and a feeling of good fellowship.

By all means let us boost cross-country running to build the found tion for other events in life.

Ernest Mensen's Endurance
Has Never Been Equaled in Sport Circles.

London, June 1.—The most remarkable feats of pedestrianism ever accomplished are recorded in the exploits of Ernest Mensen, a Norwesian sailor, in the last century. Mensen first attracted attention by running from London to Portamouth in inine hours, and soon afterwards he ran from London to Liverpool in thirty-two hours.

Having distinguished himself at the battle of Navarino in 1827, he left the navy and became a professional runner. After winning a number of matches, he undertook the feat of running from Paris to Moscow, and accomplished the distance of 1769 miles in thirteen days and eighteen hours.

The employment of Mensen as a counter-extraordinary soon became a popular amsement in European courts. He ran from country to country, bearing messages of congratulation and condolence, or despatches, and always beat mounted couriers when matched against them. He never walked, but invariably ran, his only refreshment being biscuits and an ounce of raspherry syrup per day, and two short rests of ten or fifteen minutes each in twenty-four hours. These rests he took standing and leanning against a tree or other support. At such times he covered his face with a handkerchief and slept.

Even Montrealers admit that the streets were never in such a condition as they are this year. The pavements on Notre Dame, St. James and ments on Notre Dame, St. James and St. Catherine streets are full of deep holes, some even going below the foundations of the roadway. Auto owners entered a vigorous protest to the commissioners yesterday about the state of the roadways. But it will cost at least $500,000 to repair them and there is no money in sight for the work. The administrative commissioners have started to save by the work. The administrative commissioners have started to save by dismissing unneeded civic employes. In this way they hope to get enough to fix some of the more necessary streets. At the new library thirteen applicant are to see, saving $13,000: employes are to go, saving $13,000; and other departments will be served in the same way.

The New Policy.

The new policy of placing the entire city under five departmental heads has come into effect. Interest is centred chiefly upon the public safety department, which is under five departmental heads has come into effect. Interest is centred chiefly upon the public safety department, which is under fire city under five departmental heads has come into effect. Interest is centred chiefly upon the public safety department, which is under fire chief Tremblay. The fire and police brigades will be administered by Mr. Tremblay. He has made a big reputation as a fire head, and now he has a chance at the combined post.

Montreal could do many things—if it had money. But it has none in the civic treasury, and as a result broken stones are being carted now by the city and used to fill up the holes in the roadways. What the auto owners say is awful.

partment of labor at Ottawa to take part in the negotiations.

Ministers Go Overseas.

Two more Montreal ministers are going overseas. The Rev. Geo. Adam, the brilliant Scot. who ministers at Emmanual Congregational Church, will tour the front with Harry Lauder, the companion the comedian, again. Last summer he took Lauder to the graveside of his son at Albert and ever since Lauder and Adam have been inti-

The other minister to go is the Rev. Dr. O. C. S. Wallace, formerly chancellor of McMaster University, and now minister of the Westmount Baptist Church here. He will carry to the Baptist boys at the front the greetings of the people on this side of the weas.

The young French-Canadians continue to pour into barracks in response to the call to the colors. A fair sample was on Wednesday when 166 men responded to the call sent out from the City of Quebec. As a result, the city will soon have a com-plete battalion of home men ready for overseas

Lieut.-Col. Pauze, who is in command of the depot battallon, says:
"By the way things are going now, and with 210 men ordered to report daily, we will soon have a complete battalion of draftees." All the Laval C.O.T.C. boys are in uniform. So great is their enthusiasm that two sections will beformer. Until recently the majority of the boys looked upon military service as a bogey. ed upon military service as a bogey, now, however, all is different and they now, however, all is different and they are a happy lot.

The Montreal units will go to Valcartier within a few days. Arrangements have been completed for the summer camp which Lt.-Col. Rogers will command. Only a small force will be left at the various barracks in the city—just sufficient to handle the draftees as they report. Then the men will be sent to the camp for training.

General Mewburn visited the local depots and reviewed the two batta-lions on Wednesday and expressed his delight at the way the French-Canadian young men were coming into the barracks. Up to the 28th of May, out of 10,332 men ordered to report at Montreal, 6470 had report-ed at once.

Since the first of the year the General, Royal Victoria and Western hospitals have had over 7000 cases. In addition there are half a dozen small hospitals where many people are taken. The casuaky list is a Root Vegstables Scarce.

Have you any well preserved root vegetables left over from last season? Perhaps you have had some stored in sand in the cellar and now that the fresh salads are ready to use, methinks you are puzzled to know what to do with the "left-overs." A warning has gone forth that the seed supto do with the "left-overs." A warning has gone forth that the seed supply for 1919 is liable to be insufficient for the demand. So it behooves us to look over our stock of "left overs" and selecting those free of blemish and of good formation and find a place for them to be replanted in the vegetable garden. What for? To raise sceds for next year's plantings. It takes two years growth for root crops such as carrots, beets, onions, turnips, parsnips, salsify, etc., to bring forth the seeds desired. Radish tops make excellent "camouflaged" spinach. Cut off the leaves, cook according to directions for spinach. When cooked, chop or mash thru a sieve, season to taste, etc. Radishes, which are too big for table use, may be cooked and served with a cream sauce.

Do not discard lettuce leaves that have become coarse. My cook, who is the "last word" in thrift (being English), served lettuce soup for a luncheon dish the other day. After washing thoroly she cut the lettuce in small pieces and popped them into a frying pan with fat, just browning slightly. This was then added to thickened milk, seasoned, and the result was well worth trying. Or the lettuce can be cooked, strained thru a sieve and used for coloring in cream soup. blazing wood out of the brazier and held it out at arm's length into the darkness. The burning torch lit up his hand and arm, and on the sloeve of his tunic there was a crimson smear of blood. Crawling carefully over the jumble of feet and equipment he leaned over and shook the soldier in the corner by the arm. "Eben Davies!" he called again. The man lifted up his head and stared blankly into the corporal's face with uncomprehending eyes.

"You'd better come out into the trench with me, Eben," he said. The soldier looked at the red streak on the corporal's sleeve, then read the truth in his face. The man in the corner sat still there for a moment, with his knees drawn up. Inside the spockets of his great coat his two hands, white-knuckled, were elenched savagely until the nails bit into the rough palm. He looked past the corporal as if he did not see him.

"The be there now, corporal," he said presently.

Outside the dugout he stood up, on the wooden duck-board of the trench and blinked in the unaccustomed darkness; a great massive man with troad, heavy shoulders. Then he lurched after the corporal along the slippery boards. Round the second traverse he stumbled into two figures carrying something on a sagging stretcher. The stretcher-bearers halted and laid their burden hown quietly on the duck-boards. Just then a flare hissed up and burst high over the parapet throwing the shadows of the four men, monstrous and grotesque, against the sand bag wall of the parados, and lighting the ghastly white stretcher. London Papers Comment Anxiously on News Coming From Western Front.

NOT PAST RETRIEVING

Daily Telegraph Has Faith Possibilities of Strategic Situation.

London, June 1.—The gravity of the news from the western front is emphasized in this morning's newspapers, which comment anxiously on the situation, altho they express hopefulness as to the final outcome. The Daily News says the statement given last night by a military authority to The Associated Press, in which the situation was depicted as a very anxious one, is disquieting, since it must be accepted as reliable. This newspaper, however, encourages the view that the situation is in nowise past retrieving. The Daily Telegraph sees great possibilities in the strategic situation. Asserting that the anxiety and stress of the last few days are not diminishing, it adds:

Second Battle of the Marne.

"It would appear that a second bat the of the Marne, of far greater intensity and weight than in 1914, is opening, but in totally different circumstances. The difference, however, is as much to the advantage of the allies as the communication.

Confidence in American help is shown in the comment of several newspapers. The Daily Mail enumerates the strong points in favor of the allies, including "the rapid arrival of American troops, which will speedily restore the aliles' preponderance in numbers"

In a report from one of their own officers made to the department at Ottawa the main building was said to require practically no alterations. The heating system, kitchens, plumbing and general layout of the dormitories and class rooms could be used on the and class rooms could be used as they stood. The front on the Chemin des Dames under assault was held by only seven divisions, three of them being tired British troops sent there to rest. Occurring to defects in the airplane observation to defects in the airplane observation to defects in the airplane observation the allies, who knew of a large German concentration about Laon, did not realize that the attack was coming, apparently, till two days before it actually broke.

The Germans threw in 25 divisions against the allied seven stationed on this front, and as these allied troops were fatigued by recent fighting, they could not stand the shock, but had to retreat at a rapid pace.

Somebody to Blame

A statement issued by the British general staff on this offensive makes certain excuses, showing a desire to avoid blame. This action may suffice to show that somebouy is to blame, and is trying to avoid the consequences.

The fault lies in the fact not so much that the enemy attacked where he did and made initial gains, but that the dispositions of the troops were such as to have an important sector held by fatigued troops. The French had also three divisions holding the crossings of the Alsne River, immediately south of the Chemin des Dames, but these were not strong enough to resist the enemy when the front line troops fell back, and they had to join in the general retirement. As a result they were unable to exact the full price of the enemy for his advance. The same is not true of Soissons. Here the French evacuated the town in the first day, and on the second day of the attack they fought the same were not strong enough to resist the enemy for his advance. Old Tactics Repeated

The enemy tactics is in brief an attempted repetition of his tactics in Galicia and Poland in 1915. It will be remembered that he then cut into the When the faucets all stop dripping
And the bathtub never leaks;
When the house has weather strippin
Against the blizzard weeks; remembered that he then cut into the Russian front at an elbow just north of Carpathian barrier, and then advanced into Galicia, turned about and cleared the Russians out of Poland, and thus the Russians out of Poland out of Russians out of Russians out of Russians out of Poland out of Russians out of compelled them to straighten the lines from Riga to the Rumanian frontier. The conception of this present design, as of the other, is obviously the work of Von Mackensen. The allies, howonly at a war-wedding, but in other lands, even in peace times, mournful ever, are in a much better position ceremonies are intermingled with the than the Russians. The enemy outlands, even in peace times, mournful bridal-day rejoicings. In Japan it is the numbered and outgunned and outshell-recognized custom to give the bride a ed the Russians. These had to resist bridal-day rejoicings. In Japan it is the recognized custom to give the bride a long white veil, which covers her from head to foot. After wearing this at her wedding she puts it away, and it is never used again till the day of her burial, when it becomes her shroud.

In Scandinavia a very similar custom prevails. The bride gives her future hustand a shirt, which he wears during hustand a shirt her did the Russians. As these lines are being written the allies will have soon enough reserves on the spot to offer stronger resistance, and the point for speculation is how long it will take them to stop the Germans. They are still advancing expeditiously.

Strong Diversion The enemy attack which opened on Friday upon the Ailette River, west of the Chemin des Dames, is a strong diversion. The allies there held an advantageous position for the launching of a counter-attack against the neck of the new salient driven south of the Aisne. The German blow compelled a retirement of five miles to the Oise River line.

How came it that the Germans gained such a start as they have is the question which comes to the lips of many people. This is not so difficult to explain as it seems. In the first place the enemy attacked the allies in the ratio of about five to one in the

there a Guide or officer who can beat this record?

Mrs. Juliette Low, who has personally financed and directed the constructive war work done by the Girl Scouts of the United States, has inaugurated an interesting activity among the girls to raise carrier pigeons for the war department, officials of which have approved the plan.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Herbert Hoover the Girl Scouts of Washington have established a melting pot, from the proceeds of which they expect to buy an ambulance for France.

The War Service Badge is awarded to a Guide who does 100 hours' work in connection with the war. Muriel Douglas (under 16) has written the following:

Up to the present the operations have the character of a large local battle. The object of the Germans in advancing in battle concentration is to force the French to give battle They had the same object in respect to the British army in Picardy last March and April. The British and the French then, however, refused battle and merely contented themselves with stopping the German advance. The question remains whether Foch will accept battle before Paris, or whether he will merely effect a counter-concentration sufficient to check the enemy advance and hold him in his tracks.

In boldly resuming their offensive in the Champagne the Germans have precipitated one of the decisive battles of the war, and, indeed, of the world's history.'

The enemy advance from the Chemin des Dames marks a new and gradiose plan, which if it attained full success, would destroy a large section of the allied armies, and result in the capture of Paris. This is the way the allied general headquarters interprets.

THE CHURCH OF GOLD,

There is no structure just like St. Mark's, in Venice, in the world, its bulbshaped domes and minaret-like belifies remind the visitor of the orient. It seems more like a Mohammedan than a Christian temple. In the facade are scores of variously-colored marble columns, each one a monolite, and all possessing an eventful history. Some are from Ephesus, others from Smyrna, other from Ephesus, others

The walls and roof are so profusely covered with mosaics and precious marbles that it is easy to understand why St. Mark's has been called the "Church of Gold."

GALLIEL AND THE SWINGING LAMP.

The boy Galileo, sitting with hundreds of others in the Cathedral of Pisa on a Sunday morning, saw an attendant draw acide the heavy hanging lamp to light it, and then let it swing. Many other eyes saw the same thing, but there was only that pair in Galileo's head which really observed what happened, He-salone noticed that, as the swings of the huge lamp became smaller and smaller, they always took the same time. He proved it by counting them with his pulse. He had made a great discovery, out of which grew the pendulum clock and the accurate measurement of time.

accommodation.

Many Tenants Becoming Owners.
Another interesting result of the present situation is that increasing rents are largely responsible for changing many tenants into owners Real estate agents report this increasing tendency.

In the case of most houses now being offered for sale in Toronto, prices asked are well within reason. Many of them are offered at prices for which they could not be constructed today with the high cost of materials, labor, with the high cost of materials, labor, etc. Many owners are placing on their houses values which prevailed before the war. It should be taken into consideration, however, that the cost of construction has increased about 50 per cent. since the outbreak of war. When more buildings are constructed, possibly later in the season, prices of houses may be expected to advance, for builders will then be faced with the higher costs of materials in a very real manner. Present purchasers of houses may therefore be looked upon as doing a good stroke of business in acquiring house properties at this time.

The demand for apartments has never been stronger. Several factors have combined to produce this condition. The coal shortage is a potent factor, and while the prevailing warm weather seems to discount the importance of this consideration, many Torontonians will not seen forget the inconvenience of the past two winters in securing sufficient coal supplies. The desire to escape from the burdens of high house rents or heavier taxes is another factor. The number of apartment houses is not increasing to any great extent, and there is a scramble whenever a vacancy occurs.

and there is a scramble whenever a vacancy occurs.

No Longer Bought for investment.

An interesting point brought out by real estate men is that the buying of houses as investments with the intention of renting them to tenants, is no longer as big a factor as k was prior to the war. Buying of houses is now done as a necessity and for the purpose of home-making. It must not be thought, however, that the present scale of rentals gives no return on the investment, for rents have increased to the point where

These figures indicate that during the continuation of the war it is likely that the amount of money spend in building will be pretty near to an average of $25,000,000.

War Bulletin Has Effect of

New York, June 1.—Trading in stocks today was wholly influenced by the tension in the war situation. The active list fell back sharply at the outset, but made moderate recoveries later on the more hopeful tone of the French bulletin. Marine preferred was again the sensational feature, opening at a decline of 1½ points, but immediately rallied six points, only to forfeit virtually all its gate at the end. Standard raits and a few equipments fully regained their losses on the short covering of the final dealings. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 300,000 shares.

Liberty 3½'s sold at $99.70 to $99.88. The first 4's made a new low record on their further decline from $93.96 to $93.70; also the second 4's at $93.90 to $93.60 and the 4'4's at $96.80 to $96.30. International war bonds, notably Paris 6's, also yielded.

"We realize that women and girls in every class are eager to do all In every class are eager to do all—they can to support the fighting forces. The year 1918 will probably be decisive in the history of the war, and we venture to call upon women to lead the way in a sphere of national service which is of the first importance, the practice and teaching of personal economy. Thousands are rendering this service already, but there are still far too many men and women alike whose thoughtless spending is weakening the cause of the allies.

"The facts are obvious. Needless expenditure on articles requiring labor and material at a time when both are scarce and all that can be spared are wanted for our fighting men is to sacrifice their lives in blind ingratitude.

"We earnestly appeal to well-to-do women to lead the way. The example of many is counteracted by the ostentatious display of a minority. This is especially true with regard to dress. Changes of fashion imply serious waste of labor and ma'erial. We beg all women to deny themselves for the sake of victory and to support loyally all restrictions which the government may impose whould be lent to the state.

The matter is urgent, and we have written in the belief that the women and girls of Great Britain, in grateful memory of the men who have laid down their lives in the war, and to show their sympathy with those whe are now fighting, can and will abstain from all unnecessary personal expenditure, and will set aside the money thus saved and invest it week by week in national war bonds or war savings certificates in order that

Sixteen Hundred Mile Tramp Thru Frozen Russia to Freedom

Spurred by Brutality of Their Austrian Jailors, Cathedral." St. Paul's These Soldiers of Italy Planned Their Escape By Signs Under Eyes of Guard.

BY R. A. FOSTER

It has always been considered fair game in war for prisoners to escape from confinement wherever opportunity presents itself, and to make what opportunities they can for themselves, on the clear understanding that they take their lives in their own sands, it being no offense against the rules of the game for their pursuers to shoot them dead on coming within range of them.

The present war has done everything on a larger scale than any war in the history of the world; and perhaps if all the previous wars were added together, or all their most striking episodes, the war that now devastates Europe would outweigh the

On one occasion an Italian soldiers whe escaped from an Austrian and a Cornowitz. The Janain and abuse of an Austrian officer, could not refrain from retalisting by landing a clow with his clenched fist full in the officer's face, knocking him senseless to the ground. The punishment which followed this act of insubordination was of an indescribable nature. The least severe part of it took the form of tying the Italian's hands to his feet and leaving him in that bent position for three days and three nights, so that when he was released, the poor fellew rolled on the floor to all appearance dead. He was brought to consciousness by the barbarous restorative of the lash. The Italian soldiers mentioned many other horrors which they such determined to escape.

Twenty-four hours hed passed by, and the men were still in the same place. They had taken up their position on the noon of the previous day, and now with the midday sun overhead they were tired and hungry, and no sign of relief was at hand.

Their mates had soon pressed back into the Village of Givenchy.

Whanever any of the men looked ever the parapet they could see forms in field gray slinking from cover to cover on the left and right. But mune of these seemed to come straight on, Evading the sap which held death for so many of them they were presumably trying to get round it and get the defenders from the rear. But possibly they did not even know that the sap was occupied, for the air was ripped with machine gundire which might have come from anywhere, and in the midst of this hell it was difficult to ascertain the locality from which any particular bullet came. Several times a party of Germans came straight towards the sap, but never reached it, for the midso of the three soldiers found them and the parties or unumpled up. When Donelly looked over the top he could see a number of figures in German uniform lying on the foreground and very near. These were the enemy dead, the men who had tried to approach the position a few hours earlier.

One of the boys sat down and rested, out to take you in. My company is about 200 yards behind here, so you'd better come back with me."

"By God, and we think the same," said Donelly. "We're sick iv this old hole. But we've been killing Germans

Turn north and continue to the second side road, the town line between Vaughan and Markham on the one side and York and Scarboro on the other. Turn east, crossing the Schmidt bridge at the second concession. A few rods south of this is the Burton bridge, a concrete truss. Continuing east on the town line the Horsesboe arch is crossed in the next concession. Continue east about seven and execution of the spanned by Freeman's bridge. On either side of this bridge at short distances are two plain concrete slab bridges of 16 feet span.

The bridge at Highland Creek is also of concrete, altho the original steel bridge still remains. This was a light steel span, and on one occasion it nearly let a heavy load thru. Forms were hung to the steel span and concrete run in around its mambers, so that it is now a concrete bridge of the deck truss type with the old steel span as part of the reinforcement.

A shorter trip can be made to take in the Birrell, Oriole, Russell and Massey bridges, including some of the others not crossed on the longer reute. Their location is made plain on the Etobicoke Creek on the boundary between York and Peel counties. This was a joint undertaking of the two counties and the two boards of road commissioners met to decide the type of bridge to be adopted George S. Henry, M.P.P., was Reeve of York Township at that time and wardsh of the county. He had become a convert to concrete as a result of the successful work done in York Township; and the Peel commissioners, after inspecting the bridges elready served wave of the same mind Tenders were mixed both for steel and concrete, but the latter won out both in price and general favor.

An arch was not practicable in this case, as it could not be built so as to utilize the old abutments, which were still good, so it was decided to adopt the concrete trues form of construction. The bridges attention in the engineering profession all a concrete trues form in concrete trues form in the engineering profession all a concrete trues bridges, built subsequently are shown in our illustrations, the lambton Golf Club bridge and the lambton Golf Club bridge of the type of bridge is well known, but is usually used for long spans. In this stell bridge, the lam neering, but because it will be crossed in the motor trip outlined in the accompanying map. This is a suspension bridge over the Rouge River in Scarboro Township. The suspension type of bridge is well known, but is usually used for long spans. In this case it proved to be less costly than either concrete or the usual type of steel bridge. The novel feature, hewever, lies in the fact that it has a concrete floor, being the first bridge of this type constructed anywhere. A similar bridge was recently built in Europe and widely heralded as the first of its kind and as a very wonderful piece of engineering, but as the Scarboro bridge was already in operation before the other was started the honor of priority belongs to it. This is also one of Mr. Barber's bridges.

Still Unfinished.

Of the other illustrations, that of the Russell arch shows one of the earlier bridges of this type, while that of the Massey bridge shows one of the latest. The Russell arch, crossing the West Don on Bayview avenue, is rather a sore point with the township authorities, as there was a nasty lawsuit with the contractors before the bridge was finished and as a conserather a sore point with the township authorities, as there was a nasty law-suit with the contractors before the bridge was finished and as a consequence it was left in the rough, not presenting nearly so pleasing an appearance as its design and situation would warrant. It is to be hoped that they will think better of it some day and have it rubbed down.

The Massey bridge was finished in 1914 and is a beautiful concrete arch of handsome and chaste design. It is so closely fianked with large willows that it is difficult to get a good view of it or to see it so as to appreciate its beauty at its full worth. Our photograph was taken from the field on the west side of the road, but even from there it is largely obscured by the foliage. A better view of the bridge, altho a less pleasing prospect as a whole, may be obtained at the season when the leaves have fallen.

An interesting Trip.

Following is an outline of an interesting motor trip which can be made in a single afternoon from Toronto, taking in fifteen of these bridges as will as a number of steel bridges and others of an older type. It will afford a favorable opportunity of seeing the progress being made in this line and of comparing the new class of structure with the old, an excellent object lesson in the development of public taste in York County. The trip can be made in either direction or broken into two or more trips as desired, as may be seen by the accompanying map.

Dunlop and Auto History

I Practically speaking the automobile has been in existence in Canada only since 1903.

I Years before that we made hundreds of thousands of tires for the bicycle.

¶ And since that time we have made hundreds of thousands of tires for the automobile, until the manufacture of Dunlop Auto Tires-"Traction," "Special," "Plain"-has become a big industry in itself. To you it is as important that Dunlop preceded the automobile as it is that Dunlop grew with it-became an every-day factor in this new utility of the nation.

The automobile knows no better running matethan Dunlop Tires.

"'A stitch in time saves nine," saye William H. Stewart, Jr., president of he Stewart Automobile School. "If you want to reduce your tire bills you hem before they become larger. First vide hot water, a small box to sit on; all gravel and sand. Long-nosed pli permanent patch of vulcanized rubber. These vulcanizing outfits are low in permanent patch of vulcanized rubber. These vulcanizing outfits are low in cost and are very serviceable. Full directions come with each outfit. They must be used in the house, however, as most vulcanizers use gasoline, and an open fiame is forbidden in garages. The electric vulcanizers are not open to this objection.

"If a portable vulcanizer is not used you may readily fill all cuts with tire putty. This patch is a little softer than the vulcanized patch, but it is much more quickly applied. The cut must be cleaned with gasoline first and allowed to dry. A small piece of the putty is worked between the fingers to soften it, after which it is forced into the cut, filling it completely, and rising slightly above to allow for shrinkage and wear. This prevents the cut from opening more and picking up grit which forces its way in until it meets the breaker strip. Here it spreads sideways, loosening the tread and accumulating at the side in a so-called "sand pocket." This must be cleaned out and vulcanized—a job for the professional vulcanized—a job for the professional vulcanizer, as the average owner has neither the skill nor the apparatus to do it properly.

"You will readily understand that repairs on the casing are limited to small cuts, as a cut or tear thru the fabric means a large repair, which can only be prepared by a skilled workman and vulcanized on special appare."

"You will readily understand that epairs on the casing are limited to small cuts, as a cut or tear thru the abric means a large repair, which can only be prepared by a skilled workman and yulcanized on special apparatus.

"Repairs to the tube should next engage the attention. To find a leak pump enough air into the tube to make it round. If it is inflated too much it will burst. Put tube under water and look for bubbles. Mark the leak with an indelible pencil, making a rins around it. When all leaks are located dry tube thoroly and patch. If a piece of the tube is blown out, making a hole half-an-inch or more in size, have it vulcanized. But small punctures may be done at home by using tire putty, as above described, a gasoline patch or the portable vulcanizer. To use the putty rub place with sandpaper and clean with gasoline, smear rubber cement around leak, let it dry and press a small lump of the putty down into the hole and of the putty down into the hole and shape the edges so that they are thin. "For a gasoline patch prepare the surface the same way, but instead of putty use a patch. The cement is on it already, so it only needs a softening with gasoline. Press down carefully. The portable vulcanizer will make a better repair, but the best possible method is to have the leak vulcanized by a professional. This is the only repair which sives unfailing satisfaction."

The news has also been received that George A. Storm, of Port Coquittam, British Columbia, has undertaken to ride across Canada on a bicycle within the next five months. His some lies entirely within the Dominton with the exception of a stretch thru the Rocky Mountains, where he is forced to cross the border on account of the roads. This part of the journey will be over the Sunset Highway in the United States. This rider has been on the road for several weeks and he is traveling at the rate of 250 miles per week. After arriving in Halifax he intends to tour by bicycle hack across the continent.

RACERS FOR VANCOUVER.

Con Jones, the Vancouver sport impresario, who is boosting bicycle racing on the Pacific coast, has secured several track racing men from various parts of Canada for the series of meets which he is staging at Brockton Point grounds. One of these is David Peyrout, of Winnipeg, a French reservist who has spent more than three years with the French army. Pierre Lemauviel, of Edmonton, Alberta, also a veteran of the war, has also arrived in Vancouver to take part in coming races. Norman Webster, of Stavely, Alberta, the former champion of Toronto, has also decided to pay a visit to Vancouver to start in several important races.

The quarter-mile track at Brockton Point, Vancouver, has been surfaced with asphalt to permit fast riding, and a large sum of money has been spent in fitting up the grounds for bicycle racing.

ECONOMY STRONG

Low Operating Cost De-

Motorcades of cars driven thru from the factories are a commonplace sight in Toronto now, and have been for a considerable length of time. However, Toronto motorists on the Highway Saturday last were treated to a new driveaway economy spectacle when a big Duplex four-wheel drive truck bearing a big seven-passenger Reo rolled by on the last lap of its run from Lausing, Mich., to its Reo Motor Sales Company's showrooms, 592-593 Yonge street. The mammoth truck is said to have made as high a rate of speed as 25 miles per hour, and it is claimed, has a draw-bar pull of twenty-five tons.

E Portland Cement were discovered, it has been apparent that Concrete made from Portland Cement, sand and crushed stone must become the most useful of all building materials. War-time conditions have speeded-up our appreciation of Concrete. To the overwhelming natural advantages of this type of construction, there are now added the special advantages surrounding a material that is readily obtainable where others are not. Buildings of concrete go up rapidly they stay up forever; because Concrete actually becomes harder with age. The materials required for concrete are staple products, readily obtainable at all times and in all localities. Moreover, skilled labor is not required. We have learned that Concrete is ideal, alike for the smallest job on the farm—and for the largest of engineering enterprises. We use it for roadbuilding; for bridge construction; and for the building of factories, warehouses, office buildings, tanks, reservoirs, ore bins, grain elevators, garages, barges; and, most wonderful of all, for ships that sail the ocean. Concrete has these four great qualities—it is economical, durable, efficient and fireproof—besides many lesser advantages which are fully explained in our interesting literature, copies of which we send free to all who write us for them. artistic purpose underlying the work accomplished. The works performed by the players, ranging from junior to senior afforded a progressive picture of artists in the making, and accentuated the manifold advantages attendant on the systematic development attained thru a carefully planned scheme of work. Withal the individualism of the students had been carefully fostered and it was interesting to discern the purely personal touches evinced so naively. That such fine training could be obtained was extremely gratifying as was also the earnest response of the leager students. The advanced program included Concerto No. 19, Kreutzer, Daniel Dineen; sonata in E major, Handel, Helen Hunt; concerto, No. 8, Rode, Harry Rottenberg; concerto, No. 22, Viotti, Rosalind Palmer; military concerto, Lipinski, Doris Robins; adagio and allegro, Pugnanf-Kreisler, Dorothy Wade; concerto, No. 7, Rode, Kalamos Jappan. Henry Weldon, Celebrated Toronto is to have the pleasure of hearing the Metropolitan Quartet again in October next, and to hear for the first time that clever young Russian violinist, Toscha Seidel.

At the "Faust" performance being produced in Massey Hall by Signor Carboni on June 11, in ald of the Italian Red Cross, Henry Weldon, the celebrated base, will take the role of Mephisto. Mr. Weldon returned recently from Europe on account of conditions created there by the war. He made his debut in Paris several years ago, and later sang with great success in Marsellies, Bordeaux, Toulouse and other large cities, and was enaded to sing principal roles at "La Monnaie," Brusselles, where he remained four years. His coming to Toronto is an ext of appreciation and eriement of tone. Their work proved that Mr. Fickard's plane pupils gave a recital at the Canadian Academy of Music, which-was thoroly enjoyed by a large audience. THIS WEEK'S PLAY BILLS

ALEXANDRA

70 stock presentation ever made in Toronto has aroused such universal interest in things theatrical as the announcement by Edward H. Robins that he has secured the first stock rights to "General Post," the comedy of English social conditions during the present war and also the fact that he has secured the services of Thos. A. Wise, who will appear in his original character of Sir Dennys Broughton. Mr. Robins will be seen in the part of Smith, the tailor, which was played by William Courtney when "General Post" was produced locally a few weeks ago by Charles Dillingham. "General Post," which was described by The New York World as "One of the most delightful comedies that has come out of England in a long time," tells in a humgrous way of the elimination of social caste, as one of the direct influences of the great war.

VER THE TOP," the greatest of all pictures, will be given the first showing in Toronto at the Grand Opera House all this week, with a matinee every day. It is the greatest story of the war, because it was written by a man who has been there -Sergt. Guy Empey-who has suffered seven wounds and been promoted for bravery because it is full of humor, anecdotes that bring the smile rather than the tear-because of humor, anecdotes that bring the smile rather than the tear—because it has the vigor, the dash and the indomitable optimism of the true Canadian thorobred. The film is an illustration extraordinary of Empey's famous book. It is stirring, startling, sensational, and as straight from the shoulder as Empey himself. Trench life is shown "face up and face down," with its hardships and diversions. It is full of scenes that bring vividly before the spectator the nature of the struggle in which we are now engaged. Patriotism, real genuine patriotism, and a sincerity unequalled, mark every foot of the film from beginning to end.

MBRACING in its cast a notable array of screen players, and unfolding a story of intense dramatic interest, "The Whispering Chorus," based upon the magazine story by Perley Poore Sheehan, will be 1 feature photodrama of this week's offerings at Loew's Yonge Street Fine Character Actor to Be tratre and Winter Garden. The story is of unusual strength of concepand its development masterly thruout. Included in the cast are achlyn Williams, Raymond Hatton, Elliott Dexter, Tully Marshall, James still and others. The surrounding vaudeville is of the highest calibre. the feature of which is Charles W. Boyer's 1918 edition of the Petticoat Minstrels, who make their initial appearance at these popular playhouses. A dazzling array of girls, nattily costumed, will present all the latest fads and frolics in minstrelsy. Guy Sampsel and Lily Leonard, late stars of the "Flora Bella" and "Good Night" musical productions, accompanied by and routes in interestry. On Mathews, at the plano, will introduce odd quips and songs. Fifteen simules of genuine laughter is guaranteed by Tom Mahoney. Dawson, annigan and Covert, the dancing "phiends," will introduce some new test and Loew's comedy and universal pic pictures round off a bumper program.

IPPODROME

THE new William Fox star, Tom Mix, the hero of the thrilling new film production, "Cupid's Round-Up," which will be shown in conjuction with six vaudeville turns this week at Shea's Hippodrome, has a personality that has given him fame in every place where moving pictures have been shown. Tall and handsome, extremely attelled; near the has reasoned in mind and body, he represents the highest class of a moving pictures have been shown. To make the star that he has retained all his agility as a horseman and, as a cattle puncher, in spite of his familiarity with the great Metropolitan centres of the world. The new play in which Tom Mix makes his feramatic debut, is peculiarly fitted to him. The act is a girlie spectacle de luxe. Another entertaining feature will be the Ball Bros.' Troupe, offering "Happy sternly. Hooligan's Last Trip to Grassville," a decidedly eccentric pantomime novelty, in which laughter remains supreme. The McMahon Sisters, singing the latest melodies, classical and popular, are sure to live up to their reputation, already well known to Shea patrons, and Boston and Vaughan can be counted upon to produce many happy moments in their latest variety concoction, "Almost Human." Jeanette Childs, late of the Winter Garden show, is a charming character comedienne, with a new budget of songs. Ross and Ashton, in their own original version of "The New Surveyor," an amusing sketch, brimful of delightful humor, and a new series of the Pathe Weekly pictures, complete the bill.

ANAGER PIERCE announces the "Mirthful Maidens" as this week's attraction at the Star. A new burlesque, entitled, "The Toast of Paris," is the offering, and is up to date in every manner. Lou wers still remains as the leading comedian, and will be supported by to Nugent, Joe Lyons, Max Hymans, John Weber, Frances Tait, Evelyne trell and Buster Thompson. The story of the play is laid in Paris and res ample opportunities for novel and startling sensations, together with any comedy situations and mirthful musical interpolations. During the tion of the second act, a scene which represents the famous Maxims, aris, will be introduced. Numerous specialties are introduced, among tem being: Weber and Sorrell, in their rendition of classical duets and olos; Miss Frances Tait and Mr. Joe Lyons, the dancing marvel.

Nazimova is admirably fitted physi cally to portray the entire gallery of predatory females. That is why she did it at first. A foothold once obtained, this intelligent actress turned swiftly to the roles of her choice, leaving strewn behind her the imp lay figures into which she had briefly breathed a semblance of credibility. the Latin mobility to a degree that causes movie directors to rave with pure joy. In one moment the eyes can be dull and heavy with an ancient sorrow; in the next they are wide with the apprehension of a child. The nose is now disdainfully aristocratic; in a flash the nostrils are distended in a distilled rage that is second only in nence to the animal-like tempests

"Tarzan of the Apes." a story that millions have read and marveled at, has been, transformed into one of the most stupendous ad amazing film productions in the world's history. It is the film sensation of the season, and after being shown to the largest audiences that have ver ascend and astrosishment.

four weeks in advance. On more than one occasion it was necessary to call out extra police so great was the throng anxious to gain admittance to the theatre. There has never been anything shown anywhere that is quite the equal of this masterpiece, and the surprise to everyone will be that it was possible to make such a film.

Imagine you are in the jungles of Brazil. Here is a lad, the/son of Lord Greystoke, who, with his parents, have been marconned by sailors after they had mutinied. His mother dies and he is stolen by an ape mother. The film traces the growth of the boy, half ape, half human, till his twentieth year. Wild beasts roam thru the scenes, a kindly elephant takes the white man upon his back. The joy of the film lies in its kindly wild life rather than its civilized brutality.

The boy becomes a giant. He has all the agility of the ape, more strength than the lion. The great beasts of the forest skulk away at his approach. When his ape mother is killed by a cannibal chief. Tarzan races thru the jungle. Leaping from tree to tree with the speed of a bird he overtakes the fear-stricken black, grasps him in his hands and flings him into the lagoon. NAVAL EXPEDITION WITHOUT A CASUALTY

Cleared the Germans From District Lake Tanganyika in Africa.

An account of the smallest and one of the most successful British naval expeditions sent out during the present war—that which cleared the Germans from the district of Lake Tanganytta in Africa—has just been published by the Colonial Institute here.

The expedition included only 28 men, and it went thru the campaign without a single casualty. Its two boats were transported 3000 miles by sea and then 3500 miles by land before they reached the scene of their objective. NOVELTIES COMPRISE BILL AT LOEW'S

SUNDAY MORNING JUNE 2 1918

Light Entertainment With Variety of Feature Acts Promised.

'PETTICOAT MINSTRELS'

Fine Musical Act Tops Show This Week at Loew's and Winter Garden.

Pienty of light entertainment, music and noveities comprise the vaudeville specialties which will be furnished this week at Loew's Yonge Street. Theatre and Winter Garden. The vaudeville will be headed by the Petticoat Minstrels, the premier organization of its kind on the variety stage. As the film feature, Kathlyn Williams, the great emotional star, assisted by an all-star cast, will be seen in her latest film release, "The Whispering Chorus," which has been shown to capacity crowds in New York and Chicago. The seventh instalment of the "Mutt and Jeff" animated cartoons, and Loew's comedy and Universal topic pictures, are also programmed.

The Petticoat Minstrels, called the 1918 version, will offer the latest fads and frolics of minstrelsy in two scenes, elaborately produced, one representing a watermelon patch, and the other an old-fashioned room of lavender and laces. There are nine beautiful girls in the act. This form of entertainment is always welcome, because the donners of "black cork" are always suggestive of songs and dances of the rollicking kind, adjuncts which are furnished in abundance. The cast embraces names of former musical comedy stars familiar to the musical style of entertainment, and includes, amongst others, singers of reputation.

In the minstrel line-up appear the Misses Titus and Broderick, Elleen Rogar, the Dreman Sisters, and Dottic Clair, whose individual hits lend to the characters they represent a dash and "go" that quickly places them on a most friendly footing with the audience. The introductory numbers of the time-honored first past suggest ensembles, finales, pretty stage groupings, costuming and many other effects which are only possible in organizations of a large roster. As an added attraction, Sampsel and Leonard, late stars of the "Flora-Bella" and "Good-Night, Paul," production, accompanied by Don Mathews at the plano, will appear. Tom Mahoney, known as the most versatile man in vaudeville, will offer his latest monolog, "The Irish Chairman at a Hodcarriers' Meeting."

"OVER THE TOP" A WONDERFUL FILM Theatre and Winter Garden. The theme of self-sacrifice, which is the dominating note of this great picture, has been treated in a highly artistic manner and from every standpoint, perhaps, this is one of the finest pictures of the kind ever shown. In the cast are Kathlyn Williams, Raymond Hatton, Elliott Dexter, Tully Marshall and other noted screen stars, all familiar to Loew's patrons. The story is exceptionally strong in conception and treatment, and all its various details are worked out with unisual skill of craftmanship. John Trimble, an employe of a large corporation. "Over the Top," the greatest war picture ever produced, featuring the veteran, Sergt. Arthur Guy Empey, will be shown at the Grand Opera House all this week. The picture is a thrilling tale of love and war, and holds the attention of the audience from the first to the last scene. The person sitting in the audience is drawn closer and closer to the realization of what war means as the story is unfolded, and is floo made to see the great danger which faced the United States when war broke out as a result of the country bewhich faced the United States when war broke out as a result of the country being overrun with German spies.

The picture opens with America in a peaceful state, with many of her troops mobilized on the Mexican border. Sergt. Empey is among these as a rough rider, and secures his honorable discharge. Soon after, his old nurse is sailing for England to see her wounded son on the fill-fated Lusitania, and she is among the rescued who are landed in Ireland. She is in a critical condition as a result of exposure, and her last message to her young friend in America before her death is to tell the people of the U. S. A, that England needs their help.

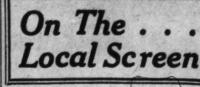

Upon receiving the message Sgt. Empey immediately sails for England, and is finally attached to a regiment and sent to France. He is wounded in a gallant action and invalided back and given his discharge. Soon after returning to America that country enters the war, and he is given a commission in a United States regiment, with which he proceeds to France.

to France. He is wounded in a gallant action and invalided back and given his discharge. Soon after returning to America that country enters the war, and he is given a commission in a United States regiment, with which he proceeds to France.

While making patriotic speeches before going overseas for the second time, he meets the beautiful young society girl, the role of which is taken by Lois Meredith, who is acquainted with Frederich Emden, a German spy. The sergeant frustrates a plot of the German spy, who succeeds in abducting the heroine and taking her to France. Her brother later enlists and is commanded by the sergeant, who is now known as Major Garry. Owen. The brother becomes terrified the first time he enters the trenches, and is to be shot for deserting his post. He escapes from his prison, however, and, but is without ammunition. pany. The company carries the trench, but is without ammunition. The young man, who was called a coward, rushes out and mans a machine gun the crew of which had been killed. He pays for his brave deed with his life.

Major Owen, while leading a trench raiding party, is met with overwhelming numbers of the enemy and is taken prisoner. Learning that the woman he/abducted from America is in love with Major Owen. Emden, who is now known as Von Dessler, orders him to be brought before him. The woman is forced to promise to marry the German commander when he threatens to crucify her lover. The headquarters of the comander is in an old French chateau, and the servant, an old lady, states that she will kill the German officer with poisoned wine, which she had kept in bitter memory of what happened to her beloved France in 1870. The battle scenes in "Over the Top" have never been equaled in any production since the war commenced. The bursting shells, the machine guns, the howitzers and the trench mortars are plainly seen in the picture, while the numerous scenes of men making their way thru the storm of bursting shells brings home to the audience the scene of the battlefield. Sergt. Empey had many an occasion himself, he certainly was able to give the motion pictures splendid materiai for a real war picture. He served in France for many months, and it is stated that for a lengthy period he was with the "Famous Eighteenth." and it is stated that for a lengthy periode was with the "Famous Eighteenth."

CLARA K. YOUNG IN "HOUSE OF GLASS"

Great Dramatic Actress to Be Seen at Allen Till Friday.

GOOD PRESENTATION

Max Marcin's Stage Masterpiece Superbly Screened With Great Cast.

"The House of Glass," Clara Kimball Young's latest production, which is the attraction at the Allen Theatre this week up to Friday, is a telling illustration of the fact that, of all the forms of dramatic expresion, the melodrama is the most truly American in its psychology and emotional por-trayal. Of the hundreds of plays presented on the American stags dur-life; his character delineation, his glot development, his dramatic crafts-monship, all mark "The House of Glass" a matter-melodrama. The film possibilities of this work were recognized immediately upon its stage presentation; all the rig picture producers have dangled golden lures before the owners of the dramatic rights, and it was only after keen competition and by payment of an unprecedented price, that Miss Young acquired it.

In this picture, Clara Visual and the daughter of the ranch manager. The contrast between the life of the city's white lights and the healthful, expanding existence in the open country, is decidedly marked. "Playing the Game" was written by Julien Josephson, and is said to be the most impelling story that has been given Mr. Ray in a long time. Miss Doris Lee is delightfully cast as a brave, resourceful Arizona girl.

VIOLA DANA STARRED

IN STIRRING.

In this picture, Clara Kimball Young follows a long list of successful portrayals and sympathetic characterizations of well-known heroines with a delication of the role of Mar-garet Case, in which her high artistry rises to even relater heights than in the past. Supported by an exceptionally high-grade cast, adequately directed and sumptuously produced, Clara Kimball Young and her own company have given in this picturization.

MARY MILES MINTER

Sunshine Girl of the Movies Shares Headline Honors.

For the first half of the coming week one of the two features of an extraordinarily attractive "double-header" bill at the Strand Theatre will be a re-issue of "Easy Street," which is deemed by many people to be the most popular and successful of all the Charlie Chaplin comedies. Those who have seen "Easy Street" will be first and foremost in resolving to see it again. Those who have not seen it again. Those who have not seen it should insure doing so without fail, if they want to enjoy the "scream" of their little lives. It is pretty safe to say that Chaplin is at his funniest and his best—at his most humorous and his most human—in this particular comedy. Somehow or other it gives him more scope for the display of that eccentricity and "pep" which are his peculiar prerogatives than any other vehicle in which one has seen him. It is a veritable masterpiece—the most shining of all the gems in the Chaplin repertoire. In "Easy Street," Charlie takes the part of a cop, whose beat (about the toughest kind of a beat imaginable) has been given that name in derision. Among the toughest of that tough street's frequenters is a giant of a man between whom and Charlie it is a case of hate at first sight. The giant, it should be mentioned, is capable of making about six, and of licking about a dozen, of the funny little man. But the race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong. As usual, Charlie more than holds his own, but the manner in which he contrives to do so constitutes a piece of acting that for real, rollicking, riotous fun is just about a record. than holds his own, but the manner in which he contrives to do so constitutes a piece of acting that for real, rollicking, riotous fun is just about a "Deutschland uber alles."

It falls into the possession of a very charming girl, who believes that it has been brought to her by her spendthrift brother. She places the green bead ornament around her neck and falls under the spell of its power. But the necklace was the property of a handsome young man, and its pursuit by him leads to the coming true of the Hindu legend which runs:

"PLAYING THE GAME" HAS TREMENDOUS APPEAL

Fine Photoplay Feature Opens at the Allen on Saturday for Week's Engagement.

A splendid argument for the "back to the soil" movement is disclosed in "Playing the Game," the newest Paramount picture featuring Charles ring the last decade, a bare half-dozen stand uot as being made of the stuff which endures, and all of them are melodramas. The national traits of speedy decision, quick action, starting development, and whole-souled emotion are best revealed and typing development, and whole-souled emotion are best revealed and typing development, and whole-souled emotion are best revealed and typing development, and whole-souled emotion are best revealed and typing development, and whole-souled emotion are best revealed and typing development, and whole-souled in this form of the drama. The feature for the latter half of the orthcoming week at the Strand Theatre will be "Breakers Ahead," a five-act Metro photodrama of herosim and romance, starring wondrous and winsome Viola Dana. The part that she plays has been especilly written to suit her rarely charming and magnetic personality. "Breakers Ahead" is a story of the sea and of sea-faring people. There is the bluff old captain, there is his first mate, there is the ruffian who is willing to steer the boat upon the rocks in order to collect the insurance money, there is the little waif, Ruth, who grows up with the sound of the salt sea pounding in her ears—all these become very real to the spectators. The photoplay will appeal to all who have seen the sea, and not only to these, for everyone everywhere must admire the extreme beauty of the sea scenes. The part of Ruth makes immense demands on the star. She is first shown as a child of ten years and then at different stages until she reaches charming womanhood. Both comedy and tragedy are represented and the very powerful dramatic scenes have been wonderfully handled by Miss Dana, who has already shown her capability in this kind of work. In short, "Breakers Ahead" deals with the real emotions of real people.

STORY OF GOLD RUSH

Romance and Daring Adventures, Combine to Make Sensational Feature.

There is a splendid life and thrill in hapid's Round-up," the latest William is film production, starring Tom Mix, Scapid's Round-up." the latest William Fox film production, starring Tom Mix, which will be shown this week at Shea's Hippedrome. Play and star and production are perfectly fitted to each other. In this production Tom Mix, who is making his debut as a dramatic star, rides his horse in the same old daring fashion, and his love-making is quite romantic, touched as it is by a deep, abiding sentiment of the life on the western plains, where love-making is heroic, and where a woman's heart is sometimes hedged in by rough, unromantic, unthinkable and selfish natures, counterbalanced by that sturdy square dealing masculine heart that predominates in the west.

Altogether this new photoplay has in it every feature that makes the love interest thrilling, while interwoven in the drama are many humorous touches. The cast that supports the star is well chosen, his chief support being Miss Wanda Petiti, well-known for her work in "The Heart of a Lion," and other successful productions. Then there are Eugene Forde, Verene Mesereau, Roy Watson, Barney Furey and Al Padgett.

The story of "Cupid's Round-up" tells of James Kelly and Tom Baldwin, as young men who went to the Black Hills together during the gold rush. They struggled, suffered, succeeded—became brothers in all save blood. With $1,000,000 each they returned to New York, married, engaged in separate business, and each became the parent of a child. The Baldwins moved to Paris. Larry spends much time on his ranch in Montan. Helen becomes secretary to her fether, and eventually he gives her his ranch in Mexico, which she manages by mail. When the girl is seventeen Larry's father insiste that Larry renew his betrothal, so he writes to Helen. Produced by their sense of duty to their parents they agree to wed within a year.

Shortly before the marriage the Baldwins and for New York, whereupon Larry soes to the Mexican border. Meanwhile, Helen, seeking diversion, decides to visit her ranch. She hides her identity by changing places with her maid, Peggy. At the border Larry Mabel Normand, as versatile as she is bewitching, has the part of Joan, a chartor orphan and the drudge of a dour and dreary institution, who yet believes herself to be the reincarnation of the immortal Maid of Orleans, Joan of Arc. In this way, the past and present meet, and while there are no scenes not laid in the present, the poor little drudge imagines herself clad in mail at the head of an army. Her imagination, of course, takes definite form on the screen. Subsequently, in actual fact, ghe renders her country a very signal accretion. as star, Goldwyn auspices, and sequently, in actual fact, she renders her country a very signal service, the not on the battlefield Naturally, the appearance of Mabel Normand in a role such as this is an event of very unusual interest in the world of the silent drama.

An altogether unusual photoplay is "Broken Ties," 'featuring that distinguished trio of stars, June Elvidge, Montagu Love, and Arthur Azhley, which will headline the Madison bill for Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The picture is a World-Brady one, and each of the three talented stars is seen in a highly effective role. The story deals with the distressing situation, in which a high-minded, conscientous attorney is placed by conscientous attorney is placed by reason of his deep sense of duty. He ceels profoundly that it is his duty to do everything to help his client's case. He acts up to this standard, even when, in ferreting out a murder, of which one of his clients is accused, the trail leads him to his wife, and it looks as the she were suity of the crime. THE HUMBLE ANGLEWORM.

"The fiercest fight we had," he writes,
"was when the enemy massed troops with the object of widening the gap he had made. The attempt was made in open country, where we were able to mass a number of battalions against him, and the fighting was very fierce. Our Liverpool battalion had the post of honor. When the Germans started to throw their troops against us we poured into their ranks a very heavy fire and did terrific execution.

"Immediately in front of us a German company got caught between our fire and that of another English regiment, with the result that they could neither advance nor go back. They kept on trying to reach our square, but were shot down one by one until only six of them remained. These six threw down their rifles and signified that they wished to surrender. But they were seen by a order to his men, and the six were shot down by their own comrades before they could reach us."

And slip him on a hook.

I'd like to put my hand once more
Into a rusty can,
And turn those squirmy creatures o'er,
Like nuggets in a pan,
And for a big one, once again,
With eager eyes I'd look,
As did a boy I knew, and then
Impale it on a hook.

I've had my share of fishing joy;
I've fished with patent bait,
With chub and minnow, but the boy
Is lord of sport's estate,
And no such pleasure comes to man
So rare as when he took
A worm from a tomato can
And slipped it on a hook.

I'd like to gaze with glowing eyes
Upon that precious bait,
To view each fat worm as a prize,
To be accounted great,
And opened age's book,
I still would like to put a worm
That wriggled on a hook.

OF PET SUPERSTITION That King of Sorsen Comedians is Not Immune.

Stage and screen stars are known the world over as very superstitious people, and it has often been a source of speculation as to who really took the capital prize for having the most weird obsession in the line of super-weird obsession in the line of super-stition.

Some are fearful of black cats, others believe it very unlucky to whistle in a dressing-room, others think it an ill omen to place a hat on a bed, whilst still others would never go before the footlights or camera without first stepping out with the left foot. It remained, however, for Charlie Chaplin to bring to light the queerest and yet withal not unlogical superstition.

"TARZAN OF THE APES" AT REGENT THEATRE

It is said that there are 218 thrills in the wonder motion picture spectacle "Tarzan of the Apes," which will be presented at the Regent Theatre all this week. Whether this count is official matters but little, nevertheless, the idea conveyed is that there are enough situations, enough strange happenings, to make the story unforgettable.

It is said that 40,000,000 people sat up at night to read the book, that the life of the child Tarzan, as he grew up under the guardianship of his foster ape mother was so interesting, so different from any other life ever written about that the people simply could not put the book away.

The same is true of the motion picture which vividly shows every incident written about in the book. One is carried into the jungles of Brazil there to find a giant white man of whom the great beasts of the forest are afraid; he is so powerful he can slay a lion; his shriek brings terror to the inhabitants of the wilds. The elephant is his friend and together they raid the cannibal village and destroy it. Because of its nature element, the picture is educational and every boy should see it.

Nover before has there been such a magnificent production. It will draw immense audiences to the Regent. It is expected that the theatre will be taxed to capacity, so great is the interest already manifested. It is new, it is different, it is not a war story. To miss it is to miss one of the greatest treats in a life time.

Yesterday I was shown a letter written by Captain Nobbs to a friend which makes it evident that the suggestion that he write a book about his experiences came originally from Dr. Henry Van Dyke, the distinguished American author and former min-ister at The Hague, who, it is reported from the United States, has become a chaplain in our naval reserve. It seems that in August of last year, or soon after Captain Nobb's release from captivity, he, Dr. Van Dyke and two others were lunching together at the Athenaeum Club in London. The blinded officer gave an account of his experiences, and at the end remarked, can tell by the tone of your voices that you fellows are pitying me be-cause I am blind. Please don't. SOME OF THE THINGS WHICH FIGHTING MEN CANNOT DO WITHOUT

There are two things the French soldier cannot do without. One is wine, the other is music. Here are two Poilus with string instruments fashioned of material found on battlefield.

Tommy Atkins believes that he cannot fight unless he is clean. These British boys have built themselves a swimming pool and enjoy themselves just like the small boys are doing the world over now in their favorite swimming hole.

The Poilu cannot get along without his wine. The French Government has recognized this fact and sees to it that the French fighter gets his share of light wine at every meal.

The British Tommy cannot, of course, do without his tea, so the British Government sees to it that Tommy has his share. The line-up shows that it is appreciated.

A soldier can do without most of the things which, as a civilian, he feels necessary to his existence. A few things, however, he must have. A deck of cards is almost a necessity to the Australian fighters and helps to while away the lonely hours.

The American soldier can do without a lot of things, but must have his cigarets and revolver practise. Here is a group in possession of plenty of cigarets resting after revolver practise.

Crutches and Their Accessories

At no time in the history of Canada has the question of value in the use of Crutches and Rubber Tips been so fully appreciated as it is today.

Developments have led up to many comparisons and demonstrations in both Crutch and Tip, and we feel that our many years of practical experience and interest in the construction of comfort-giving features, classes us as experts and reliable authorities.

Most important are the three points of comfort—Arm Rest, Grip and Rubber Tip Security.

We believe that our Spring Arm Rest Crutch, equipped with Vimy Rubber Tip cannot be beaten for comfort. The Vimy Tip is positively Non-Skid in all weathers. This Tip forms a vacuum under pressure, and provides the cushion effect which eliminates the hard jar felt under the arm. The rubber is of the best quality, which yields to pressure rather than to grinding wear. Fits any plain bottom crutch, and will wear for months.

Juice of Lemons! How to Make Skin White and Beautiful

Because there is a shortage of dress material no one is warranted in concluding that women will "look like frights." It is doubtful whether women have ever looked as well as since adopting the uniforms that seemed necessary for the various masculine pursuits taken over by women. The secret of simplicity in line and the elimination of the superfluous has been discovered by designing rs, and today women's clothes are the embodiment of smartness and trimness.

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full elemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sal-lowness and tan, and is the ideal skin

Jade and Tertoise.

Jade and tortoise shell have come into sudden favor, writes one fashion expert. Jade bracelets seem to accentuate the whiteness of a woman's arm, and exquisitely carved jade pendants are the rage. The very newest thing in pendants are of tortoise shell carved a jour, which when hung from the conduction of the neck line to prevent the neck line to prevent the neck line to prevent the same kind for clothes. The very newest thing in pendants are of tortoise shell carved a jour, which when hung from a chain of tortoise shell links look particularly well against the filmy whiteness of a georgette or lingerie blouse. The craze for tortoise shell has spread to handbag mountings. The Rue de la Paix shops are filled with fascinating designs, one of the best being of striped black and old blue silk, with a dark tortoise shell mounting, in which a crest was outlined in tiny brilliants. For those who cannot afford brilliants marcassite is also much used for monograms. The Electric Torch.

Another ephemeral fancy of the hour is the electric torch, to be carried on nights when the Gothas drive one to the sheltering cellar, down stairs of Stygian blackness. These torches vary from the ordinary flashight to livtle works of art made of ivory, or Russian boxwood, or enamel banded with gold and set with semi-precious stones. Even in these days of stress luxury is rampant; and then put a pique or linen collar faround the back to end at the collar bone in front.

Others have adopted a new kind of fine pique collar, which is cut on the exact line of the long revers that are on the majority of jackets, and this is basted carefully on the inside of the coat and pressed flatly over the edge.

Another feature of the new neck arrangement which it is well to absorb into the mind is that the blouse with the Italian decodetage is the best to wear under all coats. It is wiser to avoid superimposing one collar on another.

This Italian neck line may be round, or straight across the shoulders, or brought to the base of the neck. The general facts of curve which is employed.

The Best Should Be Theirs.

Ine Best Should Be Iners.

ION must have flooded thousands of hearts and homes on learning anton objections put forth by certain residents of Rosedale against ent to use old St. Andrew's College as a convalescent home for idliers. As was expressed by two of the men themselves in a he Toronto World, the objections simply branded the men as in the vicinity of whom it would be dangerous to live, uch charges, or insinuations, which amounted to charges, could allowed utterance, is a humiliation embracing the entire city, milidoes against the good name which Toronto has borne as the most acce of the entire continent. The offence to our soldiers is one that dis nor money can wipe out, and nothing but the adoption of the to give the college, a section of High Park, and other choice spots are that the objections have not the support of citizens generally.

There are thousands at this moment who are waiting in d trembling for the day when they must present themselves at the tion polls to answer the questions prepared for the occasion, their tar being that the moment their talents and ability are known to the ment thru the medium of pen, ink and paper, they will be confiscated to the company with any without without their contents.

Registration of a people is by no means a new idea in the world. In the of the Roman Caesars it was the generally accepted condition, and ple were not accommodated as now with booths wherever they might be ing, but had to travel to certain centres for enrollment. Help the Farmer's Wife-Not the Farmer.

The statement made by Mrs. Buchanan of Ravenna, who is no a well-known figure at gatherings in the interest of conservation and production, that the unskilled labor of women does not appeal to the farmer, is easy to understand. Unskilled labor in any shape is never welcome. There are times, it is true, when men and women of affairs have leisure sufficient to instruct a likely pupil who may later make good in a special line of work, but that leisure never comes to the farmer, either at the beginning, middle or end of the señacon, unless he has so much help that his time becomes more or less his own—a state sparcely conceivable.

This being the condition of things, and without throwing discouragement from those who are preparing themselves at the agricultural colleges—or those who are preparing themselves at the agricultural colleges—or those who are preparing themselves at the agricultural colleges—or those who are preparing themselves at the agricultural colleges—or those who are preparing themselves at the agricultural colleges—or those who are preparing themselves at the agricultural colleges—or those who are preparing themselves at the agricultural colleges—or those who are preparing themselves at the agricultural colleges—or those who are preparing themselves the subtract of the winds which has been salarged by the would be to offer to assist not the farmer, but the farmer's wife.

Washing dishes we know does not commend itself as an enjoyable pastime, neither does sweeping, making of beds, pecling potatoes and the many other things which make up the round of housekeeping, both in the city and town. Nevertheless, they have to be done, and the farmer's wife who has to prepare make to leave Toronto? Because if there is where the city girl may do good work during her holidays. The tesuit was that some of those, boys who had told me they were so downnearted and lonesome made girl siends that evening that they will have as friends for the rest of their lives. Not in a sentimental way; but just good pals.

Then the parks. There is High Park, which one would have to go to Stanley Park in Vancouver to surpass in natural beauty. There is our beautiful Queen's Park, with an avenue that is not anywhere quite duplicated. There are the ravines at Rosedale which have a continental reputation, and also many small parks. One thing that often eludes recognition is the presence of bony lesions as a cause of ill temper or disobedience. Children tumble around in so many ways that if their bones were not pretty soft they would have all sorts of lesions all the time. As it is, they do twist their necks and wrench their backs and disturb the relations of their ribs more frequently than is often suspected. It is easy enough to notice instathing a child whether its body is equal on the two sides and whether there are any areas where the rubbing of the towel causes the little fellow to flinch or to cry out. When these conditions are noticed the child should be taken to a competent physician for examination.

Sensible parents nowadays take their children to dentists once or twice a year in order that slight injuries to the teeth may receive immediate attention and thus the later more serious conditions be avoided. It would be an equally important and sensible thing if all children could be taken to a doctor once or twice a year for examination. This would prevent the development of very many spinal curvatures, as well as of many organic diseases. The various epidemics of contagious diseases would lose much of their virulence if the children in any community had their bodies kept constantly in correct structural relationships and their diet and habits of living kept in harmony with sensible pygiene.

Better brains go with better bodies and better morals go with better brains. There would, no doubt, be sickness and crime in the world even if every child had a perfectly normal spinal column, but certainly goodness, sanity and strength thrive more luxuriantly in a body structurally perfect.

We went to church on Sunday morning. We might have worshipped just as earnestly and just as reverently in the beautiful outdoors—but the church is on the corner of our farm, so we went. And most of the time I watched the Chief in the orchard.

Apple blossoms! You know that exquisite lyric by Henry Martin. I've recited it to thousands and thousands of people and thought I did it well. But never did I get the real fragrance of the blossoms into it until Sunday morning, when I read it to the bluest of skies and greenest of earths with our own blossoms held against my face. What a feeling that "my own" can give at times.

DEAR SUNSHINE: Many thanks for your kind offer, but I cannot publish the names of the prisoners of war to whom we write. If you send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I will mail you a card from a prisoner in Germany for you to answer and also a card of directions about mailing your letter. I find this a much simpler method than publishing the letters and names. Indeed I do hope you will let me know the results. It may take a long time for the answers to come to us, but I shall be anxious to hear how successful our efforts have been.

DEAR ROSALIND:

The happy inspiration of your cheery idea to write the prisoners of war in Germany brings me to a point which I noticed in your bright card received a few days ago, Friend, are we allowed to send any enclosures in our letters? I gather no: from a word with Fane Sewell a short while ago. You know he is one who has been trying to do his bit sending bread. I understood only letters could go and above all else the letter would be very plainly addressed and one side of the large letter paper only, written small. You can get in a whole heap of jokes, can you not?

Wishing you success—you know, the idea is just fine.

DEAR BAKER MAN: Your too brief note is a positive inspiration! I publish it that others may be persuaded to take up the work.

I am sorry, but we cannot enclose anything in our letters. The mail would be returned if we did so; and, that would be disappointing beyond words. Indeed it was Mr. Sewell himself who started us, and whose cheery encouragement keeps us going. He seems indefatigable in his great labor of love, and I am so anxious that we shall not fall him. Write again, Friend Baker.

him. Write again, Friend Baker.

DEAR ROSALIND:

I have been a constant reader of your columns for some time and I find it very interesting tudeed. I intended to write last week to you and ask you to send me a lonely soldier's address, but you see I am a school girl and we are busy with our exams and I did not have time, but, however, I have found time now. I don't think I know enough about French to adopt your Frenchman, but I could keep one soldier supplied in cheery letters. I have nobody that I write to at the front for my brothers are too young to join. If you will send me an address I shall see that he does not want for news.

P. B. W., SUDBURY.

All right, little girl. Just as soon as ever I can you shall have your prisoner of war card. I am publishing your little letter so that other girls may see that one doosn't have to be grown up to write happy, cheering letters to lonely prisoners.

DEAR ROSALIND:

I am a young boy 18 years old and would like to ask your advice. I am in love with a girl two years my junior that I have known for about a year. I often go to her place and she treats me just like a good friend. I go to parties and dances with her, but she never takes me for her partner; she always takes some other friend. Now, dear Rosalind, she is a little bit taller than I am and I think that is why she will never go out with me. I have often asked her to go to the show, but she always acts as the she thinks an awful lot of me; and she is always telling me to hurry up and grow. Now, dear Rosalind, I feel as if she is the only girl for me, and that I cannot live without her. She has lots of boy friends, but she treats us all alike. She is very pretty and always in for a good time. Maybe she thinks people will laugh at her. Now, dear Rosalind, I speak to her about this or try to forget about her.

Four years ago—that is, in the spring which preceded the outbreak of the war—the natural rate of increase in the population of those twelve cities was 18,000.

Before the war government officials realized what population meant to their national life and aspirations; they began the war because they were satisfied that their numerical strength would give them victory. They are finding that numbers alone do not bring victory. While they have been flinging away men with reckless pro-bid imagination. In life it seemed to me, he harped too much upon death.

"The Mother" was a pronounced example of this.

Good poetry should be the outcome of the central empires. It is not Germany who is bringing England to her knees by a process of starvation. It is Germany slowly dying from the very thing she boast-

THE ETERNAL MASTER.

For the Head is the place
Where Ambition lurks,
Where Lust for Power gestures,
Where Shadows of Empire
Frolic and fight
And Logic rules
As the God of Might,
And the Great Mind grinds
Its Royal grist
Clothed in Satanic vestures,

But the Heart is the home
Where Honor abides.
Where Love and Kindness linger,
Where Smiles are born.
Where Laughter grows,
And Gentleness
its Grandeur shows,
And all mankind
Is Sanctified
By the touch of its magic finger.

Yes—the Heart of the World
Will always reign.
It's the Kingdom of Heaven in Man.
For the Heart can Smile
And the Heart can Sing—
It's just a piece
Of an Angel's wing.
And the Head must meet
Its Eternal Master

THE FLOWERS THAT TALKED TOO MUCH

SUNDAY MORNING JUNE 2 1918

"Silence, every one of you!" cried the Tiger-lily, waving itself passionately from side to side, and trembling with eads straight to it—at least, no leasn't do that—" (after going a yards along the path, and turning real sharp corners), "but I suppose will at last. But how curiously it its! It's more like a corkscrew a path! Well, this turn goes to hill, I suppose—no, it doesn't! soes straight back to the house! hill, I suppose-no, it doesn't!

ventures!"
So, resolutely turning her back upthe house, she set out once more wan the path, determined to keep right on till she got to the hill. For few minutes all went on well, and the was just saying, "I really shall do this time—" when the path gave sudden twist and shook itself (as she scribed it afterwards), and the next oment she found herself actually alking in at the door.
"Oh, it's too bad!" she cried. "I wer saw such a house for getting in

"O Tiger-lily," said Alice, address-ing herself to one that was waving tracefully about in the wind, "I wish you could talk."

Alice was so astonished that she couldn't speak for a minute; it quite seemed to take her breath away. At length, as the Tiger-lily only went on waving about, she spoke again, in a timid voice—almost in a whisper. "And can all the flowers talk?"

"As well as you can," said the Tiger-lily. "And a great deal louder."

"It isn't manners for us to begin, you know," said the Rose, "and I really was wondering when you'd speak!

"Didn't you know that?" cried another Daisy, and here they all began shouting together, till the air seemed quite full of little shrill voices. "Oh, it's too bad!" she cried. "I mone of his books, Robert Louis Stevenson writes of his friend, John Tood, a shepherd who had spent his days herding sheep on the Pentland Hills, in Scotland. Many a talk these two had together as they roamed the hillsides with the dogs and sheep, and John had endless stories of the days when the drove roads, which now lie green and softary, were busy thorofares, thronged with drovers and their the drove that was waving the middle.

"O Tiger-lily," said Alice, address, sherself to one that was waving the middle.

proach to John and a slur upon the dog; and both were alive to their misfortune. Word came, after some days, that a farmer named Braid had found a pair of sheep, and thither went John and the dog to ask for restitution. tution. But the farmer was a hard man and stood upon his rights 'How were they marked?' he asked, and since John had bought right and left from many sellers he had no notion was wondering when you'd speak! from many sellers he had no notion Said I to myself, 'Her face has got of the marks. 'Very well, said the Said I to myself. 'Her face has got some sense in it tho it's not a clever one!' Still, you're the right color, and that goes a long way."

'I don't care about the color," the iger-lily remarked. 'If only her petals curled up a little more, she'd be all right."

Alice didn't like being criticized, so she began asking questions. "Aren't you sometimes frightened at being planted out here, with nobody to take care of you?"

"There's the tree in the middle," said the Rose; "what else is it good for?"

"But what could it do...?" Alice asked.

"It could bark," said the Rose.

"It could bark," said the Rose.

"It says Bough-wough!" cried a Daisy; "that's why its branches are called boughs!"

"Cried and of the marks. 'Very well, said the iarmer, 'then it's only right that I should keep them.' Well, said John. 'It's a fact that. I cannae tell the sheep, but if my dog can, will ye let me have them?" The farmer was honest as well as hard, and oesides I dare say well as hard, and oesides I dare say well as hard, and turned John's dog into their midst. That hairy man of business knew his errand well; he knew what John and he had bought two sheep and (to their shame) lost them about Boroughmuirhead; he knew besides. . . that they were come to Brald for their recovery, and without pause or blunder singled out, first one and then another, the two waifs. And the shepherd and his dog—what do I say? the true shepherd and his dog and the market. Then it's only right that I should keep them.' Well, said the shoep, will ye let me have them?" the farmer, 'then it's only right that I should keep them.' Well, said the shoep, will ye let me have them?" The farmer was honest as well as hard, and oesides I dare say well as hard, and oesides I dare say well as hard, and tensel the shoep, but if my dog can, will ye let me have them?" The farmer was hones in the shoep, but if my dog can, will ye let me have them?" the had bitte far of the ordea! to he had all the sheep, was hard, and oesides I dare say well as hard, and oesides I dare say th white.

"That's right!" said the Tiger-lily.

"The dasies are worst of all. When one speaks, they all begin together, and it's enough to make one wither to hear the way they go on!"

"How is it you can talk so nicely?"
Alice said, hoping to get it into a better temper by a compliment. "I've been in many gardens before, but none of the flowers could talk."

"Put your hand down, and feel the ground," said the Tiger-lily. "Then you'll know why."

Alice did so. "It's very hard," she said, "but I don't see what that has to do with it."

"In most gardens," the Tiger-lily said, "they make the beds too soft—so that the flowers are always asleep."

This sounded a very good reason, and Alice was quite pleased to know it. "I never thought of that before!" she said.

THE CROWS AND THE SILVER MONEY

ONCE in the heart of a dense pine forest lived a flock of crows. There were large crows and small crows, crows with jet black shiny feathers, and some that were not at all shiny. The crows did not live here the year round. In the summer they scattered over the country and picked grain and berries, and some of them, it must be confessed, lived upon birdlings and eggs.

Now there are some folks who think that a crow's a crow, and that one is grasp, and let it drop on a stone in the consistence of the wicked crows was called Terrible Claws. The other leade rwas named Whitefeather, for the reason that long ago one of this band had boasted of one pure white feather among all the jet black ones. The members of the Whitefeathers had always lived most honorable lives, and when they were in power the farmer folk had nothing bad to say of the crows.

But now it was the wicked Terrible Claws who held the leadership, and there was nothing but plunder far and wide. The Whitefeathers, meanwhile, being forced to sit back and at least not interfere in the evil doings.

Quite near the pine grove was an old tumble down ruin. It had been the dwelling house of one of the constant of the crows meanwhile standing well not open.

"Can you make out what is in the box." casked Terrible Claws.

"Oh, I'm sure it is money, or silves of some kind," said the crafty fox. With that they all crowded closs. "Hear how it rattles," said the fox. Closer still came the crows in their greed. Suddenly Squire Fox turned, and as quick as a flash had pounced on Terrible Claws. The rest of the crows, giving one terrified caw, rose in the air and left their unhappy leader to his fate. And you may be sure that Mr. Fox made short work of Terrible Claws.

One day while pottering around in the crumbling stone they came upon an old tin box with stout clasps. As they scratched about the box rolled."

The path was mottled everywhere by now, with silver moomight that sparkled pearl-like with the dew.

"I never could abide fish!"

There, in a bright spot on the path, they saw just wriggling from a tunnel in the ground, a brown-red earth worm. He was cross, for he had fish on the brain.

"I don't see why it is that when we stay below within our funnels underground, we are called earth worms, as we should be; but when the dew falls and we etick our noses out to get a whiff of cool night air, we change to angle worms, to fish worms, to bait; and bait for fish, mind ye!"

The disgusted wiggler drew back to his tunnel home again, as if afraid that Dick and Nick O'Dee had fishhooks in their pockets.

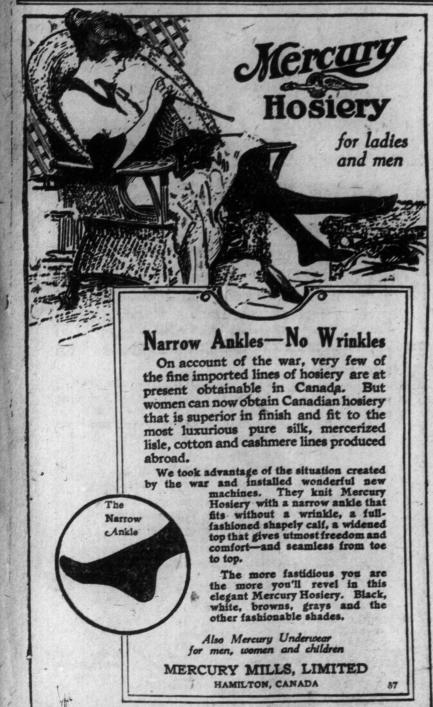

They strolled on till they neared a little open glade, and at the entrance got a greeting unexpected. "Hoot! toot! here comes the pair"

They saw a little lady coming toward them in the moonlight. Her fairy gown, her fairy wings, were all a-glimmer with the blue of iris and the pink and white of liky bud.

The skies were all so clear that when the stars came out, each twinkling light made all the heavens seem like some gem of clear and changing lights with diamonds set within.

Dick heard the bed-time twitterings from the nests, the first clear night-call of the Whip-poor-Will, and on the breeze so softly stealing, came to the laddie's ears:

There's a soft, cosy bed For each tired little head, In the summer-sweet Lullaby Lane; And the rose-fairies there, Of the dream-buds so fair, Make a sleepy-time flowery chain.

During the year 1705, the fact that

Half a century afterwards, a Prussian chemist obtained sugar crystals from beets experimentally, but he failed to prosecute the work to a conclusion. The first beet sugar factory in the world was erected at Cunern, Silesia, supported by Frederick William III. In 1811 Napoleon Bonaparte, firmly established the beet sugar industry cape most of the minor ills that make life miserable for others. Finding this preliminary skirmeven so much as to draw the enemy and locate his posifire of the enemy and locate his position (for Ruggles merely listened to the detonations from his masked trench without so much as shooting a question in reply). Mr. Livingstone tried argument. Wasn't it better for the girl to marry an American gentleman than some scrub of a titled foreigner who would eat up or drink up or do-something-else-worse-up with her fortune and throw her over when he'd got all re wanted of her? Ruggles agreed with him. Well, then, why not—etc., etc. Ruggles waited until he had got rather tired of talking for so long a time without liquid refreshment, then asked him if he had ever been in any sort of business. Livingstone said that he had not, in the strictly commercial sense, Ruggles then pointed out that he himself was a business man and had formed the habit of looking at things from a business point of view. In this particular mass he was the trustee of a million france to be put into a marriage partnership. If Livingstone could raise an squal sum, why then he might come around and talk business. Otherwise there was "nothing doing." Livingstone, world-bitten adventurer and soldier of fortune, took a good look at Ruggles' pale, set face, and being a keen judge of men, decided that there was no use in a further waste of powder. SYNOPSIS FOR FICLING HIS OWN

Ruggles, the hero of the story, is engaged as a clerk in the Walkeasy Shoe store, Paris, which is one of many owned by the Downings, One day he meets an English girl, Darthea Wostbrooke, with whom he becomes friends, but who snubs him when she learns he is merely a shoe clerk comes friends, but who snubs him when she learns he is merely a shoe clerk.

Ruggles expects to get the managership of the Vienna store, but thru a friend's treachery loses it.

In the meantime he has made friends with a Lord Pembroke, with whom he goes to the Balkans. He saves the life of Col. Hamid Pasha, who later dies, leaving Ruggles his fortune and the guardianship of four beautiful girls.

Ruggles brings them to Paris and there sets up an establishment for the purpose of marrying off the girls. He accidentally meets Ruth Downing, who has always shown a kindly interest in him, and tells her of his good fortune. Ruggles has always worshipped Ruth from afar, while Ruth is becoming interested.

Mr. Falconer, a friend of Hamid Pasha's, gives a party and invites Ruggles friends and Darthea Westbrooke, and Ruth Downing' are among the guests.

Ruggles asks Darthea's aunt, Miss Challand, to take charge of his household and to chaperone his four charges, but his plans are somewhat upset when Miss Elliott, the girls' governess, informs him that all four girls are engaged to be married.

Ruggles finds on making enquiries that the suitors of the girls are not financially very well fixed, all except Lord Pembroke, and him he wishes to save from Roxana. The girls accept his decision with protest.

I never looked ab it that way until I met you and Mr. Falconer and Hamid Pasha and some others that were the real thing. But there's another hing—this girl Roxana's only about half-civilized. Twe watched her and I know. For all of her wonderful looks, she's a regular she-devil inside, and it only needs a lojk to bring it out. What sort of a wife would she be for you? This time may be employed in many different ways. It all depends on the individual's tastes. One man, for instance, used to get up very early in the morning and take long horseback rides in the park, because he said that only in this way, by getting away from his kind and close to nature, could he get in accord with himself and work out his business problems.

To get off to one's self now and then is far more essential to the happiness and contentment of women than of men. Men do not begin to have the same fretting cares than women have. Their lives are adjusted in an entirely different way.

If a man's business is of any scope at all he has assistance in running it. His stenographer not only takes his dictation and writes his letters, but it frequently happens that she looks over the mail and answers the letters from a few appended notes. For no one can go about an endless chain of duties, never resting the tired body or the harassed nerves, without losing some of that bright outlook on life which is more necessary to the comfort of the home circle than to anything else in the world.

If you cannot find the time to dress and go out every day, you can at least find the time to read a story, or your favorite magazine. It is true that when you do this, Mary's little frock may be waiting to be tucked, or father's socks may be in need of darning.

But it is not at all necessary to put a dozen tucks in even the pretiest frock; a few would be far more sensible and just as pretty, and it is more than likely that if you spoke to your husband about it he would much rather give you the money to buy some gnew socks than to wear the muchdarned hose.

them not only overrunning the counters of all shops, but we see them in the hands of every smart woman. No woman who dresses well nowadays blinks at tithe importance in her complete costume of the handbag she carries.

It is not, of course, true that we must have a handbag for each frock tustili we must have several handbags. And as a plea for the saving of leather is coincident with a fashion for handbags of silk, satin and velvet, any woman clever with the needle may fashion her own bags and so increase the number that she may have for a given expenditure.

There are two general ways of making handbags: One is with a frame of some sort, on which the fabric of the bag is hung.

The shops sell now many tops to which the bags may be easily attached. There are rings of various sorts and sizes, from the small rings of silver, just large enough to slip easily over the hand, to the very large rings of bone or tortoise, that are almost large enough for knitting bags. And according to the size of the ring may the fabric be chosen. A heavy but soft brocade may be used with the small silver rings and a velvet with the larger ones.

Bags With Frames.

Bags With Frames.

Then the shops sell frames of imitation tortoise. These may be had for as little as $2. These may be had for as little clamp closings and with rings thru which a cord or ribbon handle may be slipped. Frames of a similar sort may be had in black and white combination, and these are really striking with black silk or velvet as the fabric from which they are made. Another sort of frame consists of two whalebones as wide as the top

Another sort of frame consists of two whalebones as wide as the top of the bag. The fabric is shirred to these bones and then they are covered with a biss band of silk. They spring open, of course, when you wish to get into the bag.

If desired, a couple of ball and socket fasteners may be used for greater security. And cords for handles finish this bag. Silk cord in many octors and different thicknesses may be bought by the yard, and this is the most satisfactory handle. It is also possible to get gilt and silver cords, and with velvet bags especially these are attractive.

Tassels are sometimes used to finish the bottoms of the bags. Probably the newest tassel is the one triumed with the little colored wooden beads strung on the silk strands of the tassel.

blue, yellow and red—are nevertheless interesting against the black or blue of the tassels of double loops of chenille are another good finish for the bag of velvet, and gilt and silver cords are used where rope handles of gilt or silver are used.

Speed being one of the essential elements in the present wooden ship-building program, it is of interest to know that a calking machine, designed to accomplish the work of 10 men, has been developed, says the April Popular Mechanics magazine. The apparatus is provided with two tandem rotary disks that tamp the tarred oakum into the seams as it is guided along between the planks.

Don't let corns ache twice! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers-Here's magic!

For a few cents you can get a small bottle of the magic freezone discovered by a Cincinnati chemist.

Just ask at any drug store for a small bottle of freezone.

Apply a few drops upon a tender, aching corn and instantly that old bothersome corn stops hurting, then shortly you can lift it out, root and all, with the fingers.

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying freezons or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns, or corns between the toes, also hardened calluses on bottom of feet shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. Ladies! Keep freezone handy on your dresser. Wonderful!

Of His Sorrow and Solace.

Harry Lauder had become to many people Harry Lauder Tells a synonym for close-fistedness, but after reading "A Minstrel in France" (Toronto, McClelland, Goodchild and Stewart, $2), one gets a truer view of a large-hearted, simpleminded and kindly human creature, stricken to the heart with our common sorrows, because pierced through and through with the loss of his only son in battle. The eighth and ninth chapters of this book, telling of his premonitions, the reception of the telegram with the fatal news, the realization of that bitterness, the anguish endured by himself and his wife, the solicitude of his friends, and the gradually returning conviction in all its fullness that the future would bring again the broken joys, are as impressive as anything of the kind in literature. Their simplicity, their directness, their candid truth, carry conviction. "We shall come, some day, his mother and I, to the place where he is waiting for us, and we shall ail be as happy there as we were on this earth in the happy days before the war. My eyes will rest again upon his face. I will hear his fresh young voice again as he sees me and cries out his greeting. I know what he will say. He will spy me, and his voice will ring out as it used to do. 'Hello, Dad!' he will call, as he sees me. And I will feel the grip of his young strong arms about me, just as in the happy days before that day that is of all the days of my life the most terrible and the most hateful in my memory—the day when they told me that he had been killed. That is my belief. That is the comfort that God has given me in my grief and my sorrow." This is the language of deep and sincere feeling, couched in exquisitely simple and beautiful Saxon English.

But Harry Lauder was not the man to give up the fight in useless repining. At first, "no thing was further from all my thoughts than that I should ever step upon a stage again." Then his friends pleaded that he should not retire at his age and wither away in dry rot. "There'll be plenty for me to be doing." he told them. "I'll not be idle." Then another sort of argument came to him. "People wrote to me, men and women, who, like me, had lost their sons. Their letters brought the tears to my eyes anew. They were tender letters, and beautiful letters, most of them, and letters to make proud and glad, as well as sad, the heart of the man to whom they were written." There was one message these letters bore. "Don't desert us now, Harry!" And so he began to think of them.' And there were others of whom he had to think. There were three hundred people in the cast of "Three Cheers," at the Shaftesbury Theatre, London, and he began to hear that unless he went back the show would have to be closed, and all of them would be out of work. "It's what John would have wanted," was the plea that finally prevailed with him. He took the train to London, "and as I rode in the train it seemed to me that the roar of the wheels made a refrain, and I could hear them pounding out those two words, in my boy's voice: 'Carry On!'" But one must read the account Harry Lauder gives of the demonstration that greeted his return to the stage. Harry was not satisfied with this, however. He conceived the idea of singing to the men in the trenches. The official objection that it had never been done was overcome at last, and that is the reason for what is one of the most amusing, inspiring, touching books that have been written. Humour and pathos are never far apart, and this is the whole secret of Harry Lauder's success as a minstrel, and will make his book a classic in a class of its own.

. A movement is on foot in America for the utilization of peat as a fertilizer. There was a time in the history of American farming when manure was carted to the nearest river and dumped in. But it is realized now that the richest soil may be exhausted, and fertilizers of every description are sought and valued. Peat has been used in Ireland and elsewhere for manuring purposes, and when mixed with sewage, which is done when cesspools are cleaned out, the combination is ideal for farm purposes. It is pointed out in the valuable report of the Commission of Conservation in an article on peat as a source of fuel, that the nitrogen content of peat is very high. It becomes, therefore, highly valuable for the manufacture of ammonia and other nitrogen compounds. As nitrogen is one of the principal elements upon which plant life depends, the amount taken out of the soil by a crop must be returned in some way if the fertility of the land is to be maintained. Sulphate of ammonia is the most common nitrogen compound used for this purpose. The demand for this product has been increasing so rapidly in recent years that in all civilized countries coking plants are being adapted to the recovery of the nitrogen content in the fuel in the form of ammonia, which is then combined with sulphuric acid to form ammonia sulphate. Thirteen bogs in Ontario are reported by the Commission of Conservation to have a fuel content of 43,000,000 tons of 25 per cent. moisture peat. The content of nitrogen corresponds to 560,000 tons, which would yield 1,800,000 tons of am-The quantity of peat mentioned could, if all were burned in a by-product-recovery-producer-gas-plant, produce sufficient power gas to generate approximately 40,000 h.p. continuously day and night for 100 years. Either in its natural form or thru manufacture peat is destined to play an important part in farm work, as well as in
