Directions for Halifax Harbour, taken from the printed Directions in the Custom-House at Halifax.

SAMBRO island and light house is in latitude 44 deg. 30 min. N. and longitude 63 deg. 32 min. W.

From the westward, bring the light to bear N. E. ; if it bears more easterly, stretch to the southward till it bears N. E. and as much more notherly as you please, there being no shoal or ledge to the southward ; then keep it open on your larboard bow ; give it more than a mile and a half birth, as much more as you please.

Note—The western ledges lie from the light S W distant two miles, the other W S W about one league ; the eastern ledges lie in a range nearly, some above water ; the outermost one mile and a half from the light, bearing from it E N E.

When the light bears north, distant about 2 miles, run N E 4 miles, then north will carry you to Chedabucto Head, at a proper distance clear of all danger.

When a-breast of Chedabucto Head, run N. $\frac{1}{2}$ W. for the south point of George's island.

When within $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile of George's island, you may enter the harbour west of it in 12 fathoms, or east of it in 15.

In passing between Sandwich point and Meagher's beach, run nearest the point, to shun a shoal which runs off S. W. from the beach.

There is also a shoal lying one mile south of Sandwich point.

Coming from the eastward, run for the light, and you cannot fail seeing Chedabucto Head as you open Halifax Harbour, the light being 4 miles distant from the Head to the S. W.

TO TRAVELLERS;

For the information of Travellers between Windsor and Parrsborough, &c.

THE Parrsborough Packet sails regularly between Windsor and Parrsborough every week, from the 1st April to Christmas, viz. leaves Parrsborough on Monday, wind and weather permitting so as to be at Windsor on Tuesday; and will sail from thence the first high water that happens at or after eight o'clock in the morning of that day: the Packet frequently goes twice or three times a week when business requires it.

Time of going through the Falls.

THE Fall are level (or still water) about three hours and an half on the Flood, and about two hours and an half on the ebb, which makes it passable four times in 24 hours, about 10 or 15 minutes each time.—No other rule can be given, as much depends on the floods in the River St. John, and the time of high water or full sea, which is often hastened by winds, and in the proportion to the height of them,

Red Currant Wines.

To every three pints or ripe currants put a quart of water : bruise the fruit, and let it stand for two days ; then strain off the liquor, and to every gallon put four pounds of good moist sugar ; turn it immediately, and lay the bung on it lightly : do not use any thing to work it. When it has ceased to work, put a bottle of brandy to every four gallons, and bung it close. If it be kept for three years, it will be a very fine wine.—N. B. For white currants use loaf sugar.

Ginger Wine

Boil, for an hour, twenty-eight pounds of lump sugar in nine gallons of water, and skim it often, then add one pound of ginger in small pieces, and the peel of nine lemons ; pour it off to cool and put with it the juice of nine lemons ; when it becomes lukewarm, add four pounds stoned raisins and a little yeast ; pour the whole into a cask and stir it daily ; when it has done working add a pint of brandy and bung the cask, but not tightly.

To make excellent Punch.

Take two moderate sized lemons, to which, when well squeezed, add a quarter of a pound of sugar. When the sugar is nearly dissolved, add a quart of boiling water : then put two wine glasses of rum, and a glass and a half of brandy.

PRESERVATIVES, &c.

Black or Red Currant Jelly,

Strip the fruit carefully from the stalks, and squeeze the juice from it through a tammy, and to every pint of juice add a pound of loaf sugar : put it into the juice in large lumps, and when nearly dissolved, put it into a preserving pan : let it simmer over a charcoal fire, and skim it carefully. When it will jelly on a plate, it is ready to put into the glasses or jars. Steep the paper in brandy, and keep it in a dry place.

To increase the growth of Hair.

Beat hartshorn, shaving fine, and mix with them oil ; this composition being rubbed in the head will much increase the growth of hair.

SUPERSTITION.

WE translate the annexed from a French publication, as an example of the superstitious opinions which even in our times prevail to a considerable degree, in an otherwise enlightened country. The subject, it will be seen, is a record of supernatural forewarnings of the murder of the Duke de Berri.

In ancient as well as modern times, on the approach of one of those events which change the destiny of nations, people have imagined the accustomed harmony of the universe to be broken, and that forebodings of a gloomy or a cheering nature, announced what they had either to hope or to fear.

These forebodings, real or imaginary, serve at least to shew the importance which people attach to certain events: thus for instance, the various miracles which took place at Rome previous to the assassination of Cæsar, enable us to judge of the horror which the death of that great man excited among the Romans; and the phantom which appeared to Brutus, on the eve of the battle in which he lost his life, proves how the attention of Rome was fixed on that event, which buried the republic in the tomb of Brutus. Finally when we call to mind the forebodings which tormented Henry IV. on the very morning of his assassination, it is natural to conclude that France, when she beheld the death of the conqueror of the League could not but fear that the League would again take up arms.

The Duc de Berri, the august victim of the ferocity of Louvel, has drawn as many tears as the victim of Ravail-lac; and the signs which announced the death of the late Prince, are now the theme of conversation in France.

The forebodings, dreams, and visions, which preceded the death of the Duc de Berri, have lately been collected and published in a pamphlet, from which we extract the following.

On the 13th February, Madame M was walking in the Faubourg, St. Honoré at the time when the Duc de Berri's carriage passed on its way to the Opera.—Some unaccountable fancy or horrible presentiment led her to observe to the Chevalier Dal, who accompanied her, "I did not know that funerals were suffered to take place at this late hour." "Funerals!" exclaimed M. Dal "Yes," added the lady, "a hearse has just now passed us." M. Dal looked round, and then turning to his companion, said, "You are mistaken; it was the Duc de Berri's carriage."—"Indeed!" said Madame

M with strong emotion, " how singular, that I should have taken it for a hearse ! "

We are informed by one of his late Royal Highness' grooms, that the Prince's favorite horse, did nothing but neigh and start during the night of the 13th of February.

It is remarkable, that several Ducs de Berri have suffered a melancholy death. Louis XVI. was a Duc de Berri.

At the Pension Royale of St Dennis, a young woman dreamt, on the 13th February, that she received a crown of white roses from his Majesty, and that after plucking off the flowers and the leaves, she placed the thorns on the head of the august widow of the most unfortunate of Princes.

The audience, on quitting the Bourdeaux Theatre on the 13th of February, beheld a luminous globe in the air, which did not vanish until day-break.

On the same night, a peasant of La Vendée three times heard the cry : to arms ! and three times he jumped up to seize his sword.

M. G , who died a few days after the Prince, had a most singular dream. The noble Peer, whom his Royal Highness honored with his friendship, dreamt, on the 11th January, that as he was standing with his Royal Highness at one of the windows of the Castle of the Tuilleries, they observed a magnificent procession advancing towards the Louvre. A hearse richly decorated, and drawn by eight horses having appeared in sight, the Prince asked ; — " Whose funeral is that ? " on which M. G replied, " it is yours, Prince ! " in a few moments, another hearse, less rich than the first appeared, and M. G having in his turn asked who was to be buried ? the Prince replied, " It is you, Count. " When M. G related this dream to His Royal Highness, the latter laughed.

An officer of the Royal Guard dreamt, on the 13th February, that a red cap was fixed on the top of the Opera House ; he was roused by the rolling of the thunder which he fancied he heard, and which, in his dream, appeared to destroy the Opera House, and the cap of the year 93.

The following is an anonymous letter which the Duc de Berri received an hour before he went to the Opera, and to which he unfortunately paid no attention.

Monseigneur, — Do not venture out without an escort. — A poignard is raised against you. Your confidence will prove fatal to you. Preserve your life for the sake of France, of which you are the idol and the hope. Distrust particularly fair men !

A Frenchman.
