ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., AUGUST 6, 1902.

UNAPPRECIATED WEALTH.

St. John is gradually learning to appreciate itself. There is, of course, such a thing as undue self-appreciation, manifest in some communities as well as in individuals, but this city has not erred in that direction. There has been a more generous recognition of commercial and individual possibilities than of some others, but none too much in any direction. It took a long time and much self-sacrificing effort on the part of a few before the advantages of the city as a tourist resort were recognized, and we are still far from a full realization of the possibilities in that direction. It was only a year or so ago the discovery was made that the waters hereabout were warm enough to entice bathers, if the other facilities were provided. The buckboard ride to points of interest, the opening of the park, the Bay Shore and suburban resorts are all of the nature of comparatively new developments. The population of the city has not notably increased for a good many years, but the citizens have been making discoveries about themselves, their capacity for enjoyment, and the charms of their neighborhood.

But that which most impresses the stranger has not yet been really discovered by ourselves. The St. John river is a source of pride, but of very little personal enjoyment so far as the average citizen is concerned. Some day some enterprising man or group of men will discover the lovely basin at Indiantown, and the picturesque scenery up through the Narrows. They will advertise their discovery, and point out that for a man or a man and woman, or a small party, to take a light and easily propelled rowboat at the Indiantown wharves on a summer afternoon or evening and leisurely pull up the river as far as they cared to go, perhaps lunching in some nook on the shore, and then row home again is about as pleasant an outing as one could wish. The harbor, with its strong tides, will never be popular as a place for boating, but Indiantown offers advantages and scenic beauty that are unsurpassed. A few people know it. On every fine evening from the Millford heights one may see a few boats moving up or down, and catch the sound of laughter or song. To the business man or clerk, busy all day in an office or about town, and to the woman who has been all day indoors the charm of an hour or two on the calm waters, under the shadow of the lofty cliffs would bring an exhilarating pleasure not to be forgotten through the toil of the coming day.

In England they know better than we do how to enjoy their natural advantages. Go down the Thames from Hampton Court to London on a fine summer afternoon, especially if it be on Sunday, and for a large part of the way the stream, which is a mere brook compared with New Brunswick rivers, is almost crowded with craft of all kinds, from the tiny shell or canoe to the excursion steamer, while along shore are many houseboats.

ASPHALT PAVING.

The Toronto Telegram discovers evidence in that city that asphalt paving is in the end the most profitable, assuming that it has at the outset a good foundation. The cost of renewal is small. Bay street, Toronto, was paved with asphalt thirteen years ago. A new surface of asphalt is now being put on, at a cost of $6,799. The Telegram remarks:

Asphalt is a paving material which, judged by results, makes the best roadways ever put down in Toronto. Bay street is an example. The original pavement was put down nearly thirteen years ago, and a new surface makes the roadway as good as new. The effects of wear and tear are written on the surface of asphalt pavement. The effects of wear and tear go to the very foundations of other pavements.

The traffic of thirteen years wore away the surface of the Bay street pavement, and an expenditure of $6,799 makes that pavement as good as new. That has the traffic of less than thirty years done to the cedar block pavements and other so-called cheap roadways?

The first cost of a pavement is not always a test of its cheapness.

The growth of Winnipeg continues on a scale that indicates a very rapidly increasing importance for the prairie capital. A despatch says:

"Winnipeg is experiencing one of the greatest building booms in its history. According to the figures furnished by Building Inspector Rodgers the value of the buildings constructed this year to date amounts to $1,823,800. This is $400,000 in excess of last year, which closely approaches a record-breaker."

TALE OF AMMI INNITT.

Solomon Describeth Fluently the Manner of Making the Summer Man a Joy Unto the Sight.

Now, behold there was a man whose name was Ammi Innitt.

And he was the son of Izzy Innitt, who was descended from the patriarch, Gettin Innitt.

And Ammi Innitt made conversation with himself, saying:

"Lo, the summer is come and the warm water is here, and the voice of the soft crab dealer is heard in the land;

"Yet am I still wearing the raiment wherewith I decked myself withal when it was yet winter.

"Yea, verily, I seen as one who is more fitted to gambol about the Christmas tree than to bask in the shadow of the linen.

"Now, therefore, must I get a move upon myself and array myself in garments bright and fair to see.

"That I may shine as a summer man."

And he went unto them that sell gaudy raiment for mankind.

And told them that he would fain garb himself even unto the limit, for he was a lallapalooza, as the common speech hath it.

And he gat himself shoes that were gaudy, the ankle and high in the price, and that sat upon his feet in such wise that they looked like unto pumpkin seeds fastened against darning needles.

He put upon his feet also hose, the which was red and blue and green; and upon his work between the stripes and filligree work up and down thereupon.

For trousers he procured them that are made of crash, that there might be harmony between them and the sound of his hose.

He went then many shacksels for a shirtwaist that was tucked about the bosom and ruffled about the shoulders;

And the color thereof was as a dying sunset upon which had been hurled many sad eggs.

About his alabaster neck he twined a stock that was voluminous and noisy, like a remonstrant prayer rug.

Then for a hat to go upon his head he sought them that deal in panamas.

And when the dealer had told him how that they who make the panama hat do work the braid under the water, and how that they who make the imitation panama do imitate the working of the imitation braid under imitation water.

He took forth his purse and spent all that he had for an imitation panama.

Then was he a joy unto the sight and a gladness unto the eye.

And the people marvelled greatly at his attire, saying one to another:

"Lo, but look upon Ammi Innitt, the son of Izzy Innitt, the son of Wozzy Innitt, the son of Gettin Innitt."

"Is he not also the brother of Putme Innitt, and the cousin of Mostly Innitt?"

And is he not a gladsome spectacle to the eye?"

But there came a time when Ammi Innitt was upon the street and the rain descended and the floods came and beat upon his raiment.

And the imitation panama became as an imitation haystack.

And the crash trousers shrank within themselves unto the diameter of a belt and choked him mightily.

And many other things happened unto him.

For all them that had hailed him with joyful speeches now kidded the life out of him.

And he went unto the habitation and hid himself, that he might wait until the time of the winter came again.

Now, many there be that are of the tribe of Innitt.

Today they are cheered unto the echo and a few feet beyond.

And tomorrow they are given the hoarse laugh and the merry ha, ha.

For such is life.

Is it not so, even as it is written hereon in perspiration and much strong language toward the weatherman?

Yea, surely it is so.—Josh Wink in Baltimore American.

CONSULTED A FORTUNE TELLER.

Anent the arrival of the bark Birnam Wood, Capt. Swatridge, with yellow fever, from Rio Janeiro, at this port last night, the following well authenticated story is of local interest:

Some two months ago or thereabouts, Mrs. Swatridge, wife of the present commander of the Birnam Wood, consulted a female fortune teller on Union street and was told that her husband was then captain of a large ship and long distance away from St. John and that he would meet much trouble on his voyage. The story so impressed Mrs. Swatridge that she was sick all the next day.

E. P. Easton, who submitted the report of the distribution committee.

Dr. Mullin submitted the report of the delegates to the supreme court, which met in Los Angeles. It was signed by Chapman, Mullin, Woods, Scovill and Macrae.

The supreme chief ranger being called on made a very interesting address. He said I. O. F. stood at the topmost notch of fraternal organizations. The British Institute of actuaries openly declares this fact, and the London Saturday Review in its last issue declared the I. O. F. to be the best of the fraternal societies and to have carried the cheapening of insurance perhaps to the utmost extreme. Referring to the organization of the Union Trusts Co. to invest the surplus funds of the order, he said Hon. Geo. E. Foster, managing director, had managed its affairs with extraordinary ability, investing all the funds placed in his control in gilt edged securities at an average of over seven per cent. (Great applause).

Over half a million dollars have been so invested by the Union Trusts Co. The supreme chief said that from January 1st to July 31st over 25,000 applications for membership in the order were received. Over $300,000 had been added to the surplus, and he looked forward to seeing the surplus soon reach ten millions.

The supreme chief ranger conferred on High Secretary Emmerson the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor amid great applause in the high court.

ST. STEPHEN, Aug. 5.—A vast audience gathered in the skating rink to hear addresses by prominent Foresters.

Mayor Murphy, one behalf of the citizens, extended a cordial welcome to the visitors, and E. R. Chapman replied on behalf of the high court, paying a high compliment to St. Stephen as a convention town and referring briefly to the order of Foresters.

A quartette composed of Wry, DeWolfe and Moore sang and then Aid Macrae delivered an eloquent address on Independent Forestry, which he said gives the maximum of insurance at the minimum of cost. After a talk by Miss Wry and a selection by the Maple Leaf band of St. Stephen, Oronhyateka was introduced and was given a magnificent reception. He delivered a brilliant address on Forestry and was frequently interrupted by applause. He set forth with great clearness the claims of Forestry and made many witty allusions that provoked hearty laughter. F. W. Sinkley of Calais gave a reading and was heartily encored. There were nearly two thousand people at the meeting.

The high court will conclude its work tomorrow.

SHERIFF PEARSON DEAD.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 6.—Sheriff Pearson died at Portland, White Oak Springs hotel at 12.15 this morning.

With him at the time of his death were his daughter, Miss Evageline, and his physician, Dr. Norcross of Lewiston.

The sheriff became unconscious last Sunday evening and did not recover from that condition.

Sheriff Pearson went to White Oak Springs hotel five weeks ago. The worry incident to his office had caused him to fall rapidly in health and almost compelled by his friends, he went away for a rest. Three weeks ago lightning struck the hotel and the excitement incident to this affair affected his heart and his illness thereafter assumed a critical form. He has fallen rapidly since then, though with occasional slight periods of improvement. Little or no hope has been entertained of his recovery for a week or more.

A SAD DEATH.

The death took place last evening of George Harold, eldest son of Isaac and Emma Carlin, in his fourteenth year, after a brief illness. Young Carlin was taken slightly ill on Friday last, but it was not until yesterday that his symptoms became alarming. Dr. Daniel, the attending physician, advised his removal to the hospital, and his father, who was working at McAdam, was notified by telegraph. Mr. Carlin wired back to do all possible for his son's recovery. When a consultation of physicians was held it was found that the case had advanced too far to justify an operation for appendicitis, although the boy insisted that he was physically able to stand it. Young Carlin was a recent graduate of the St. John school, was a bright and manly young fellow, and was respected by all his companions. The heart broken father arrived by the late train last night from McAdam.

ARTILLERY CAMP AT FORT DUFFERIN.

Major Paul Weatherbe, the chief engineer of the militia department, who is at present in the city, is busily engaged in making preparations for the artillery camp to be held at Fort Dufferin commencing on the 20th inst.

The 12 pr. Q. F. guns are already here and two 6 pr. Q. F. guns arrived yesterday. The firing will be carried on by both classes of guns at moving targets, which will probably be about 1,500 yards from Fort Dufferin. The targets used consist of a series of targets, the leading a pilot target is a sort of flat bottomed boat without any superstructure. The towing line is attached to this target and it helps to sustain the weight of the wire. About 30 feet behind the leading target comes the second or main target, which has a superstructure 6 feet long by 4 feet high. A third target comes 100 feet behind and is used to give the necessary resistance so as to keep the two steady. It also has a similar superstructure.

Sergeant Instructor Lafleur, from Quebec, has arrived and will instruct the firing detachment of the 3rd Regiment in the drill with these guns.

A CHILD'S BODY.

There was quite an excitement about Indiantown yesterday afternoon when Fireman Hawkes and two deckhands of the steamer Majestic saw what they believed to be the body of a child floating down river.

They left the steamer at once and hurried to the Point Pleasant ferry landing, where they informed Capt. Leary of the ferry steamer E. Ross. The men were quickly given a boat and started to look for the supposed body. Capt. Leonard, realizing that the tide was setting up, started on foot along the water front and carefully examined every nook and corner while the men with the boat made an equally careful search, but without success.

WOULD GIVE HIM A LESSON.

A reporter who is the father of a year old youngster met his pastor on Sunday afternoon.

"Why weren't you at church this morning?" was the first question of the spiritual adviser.

"I couldn't come," was the answer. "I had to stop at home and mind the baby. Our nurse is ill."

"That's no excuse," said the pastor. "It isn't? Well, next Sunday I'll bring him to church with me and see how you like it."

SUCCESSFUL ACTRESS.

Miss Mollison's Work Has Been a Revelation and a Delight.

The dramatic critic of the Montreal Herald on Saturday had this to say concerning the work of Miss Ethel K. Mollison:

Miss Mollison during the past week has been a revelation to the dilettanti and a delight to the discerning. One should not be too enthusiastic about the strength of two plays ("Captain Swift" need not count), but in truth her parts in these two have been so diverse, and she has been so thoroughly and intelligently at home in each of them, as Mrs. Dane the frightened and Mrs. Bulmer the unfrightened, that one is forced to something more than passive interest in what she is going to do hereafter. Miss Mollison is not by nature a type, vocally and otherwise, of the English society woman, but she has evidently studied very good models with very great care. As a society woman, if we substituted the essentially English element, she is as perfect a representative as any woman on the stage this side of the Atlantic today. Her playing in "Wheels Within Wheels," however, was as much ahead of her Mrs. Dane as the latter performance was ahead of her Mrs. Bulmer. In the latter play this week she has been seen at her best. The break-down scene of "Mrs. Dane's Defence" was the weakest point of the personation, in proportion as it was the point where a great tragedienne would have been most convincing. In the latter play this week there were no weak spots in Miss Mollison's assumption. If there was one place less interesting than the rest, it was the one moment when she was alone on the stage, reading her sister-in-law's letter. Here the situation called for absolute naturalism and abandonment of society finesse. And this we did not get.

MOORISH SLAVERY.

It would do those good who write passionate articles on Moorish slavery to see the well fed, lazy slave of Wazan lounging in the sun, kiff pipe in mouth and scarcely doing a stroke of work from week's end to week's end. The most ordinary English kitchenmaid would accomplish in a couple of hours what a Wazan slave does in a week. All are free to come and go as they please, but none avails himself of this freedom. The reason is not far to seek. In Wazan they are fed and clothed by the sheikhs and on holidays and feast days receive presents of money. Thus all the necessities of life are found them without their having to work for them, which otherwise they would be obliged to do. Nor is it only the necessities of life that are thus supplied to them free, but they are given each his room to live in and married at the expense of the sheikhs to slave women. Their children, by law slaves, are not necessarily so and are often apprenticed to workmen to learn some trade or if they wish are free to seek their fortune in other lands. —Blackwood's Magazine.

GEESSE THAT LAY GOLDEN EGGS.

Once upon a time there was a promoter who owned a common, every-day goose who laid the usual, ordinary goose eggs. He conceived the scheme of syndicating the goose on a gold basis and proceeded to do so. He informed the trusting public that soon his goose would lay an egg of gold each day and offered for sale stock in the Golden Goose Egg company, limited, at bedrock prices. There was a wild rush for the stock and the promoter suddenly found himself wealthy. He continued to sell the stock as long as there were buyers, for he did not want to kill the goose that laid the egg. His goose continued the same ordinary fowl as before. Moral—There are featherless geese that lay golden eggs.—New York Herald.

A LUCK ESCAPE.

A elephant hunt on the Muar river is described in the Straits Times of Singapore. The beast turned hunter, and the man, fleeing, caught his foot in a rattan creeper and fell. He discovered his frightened animal and fortunately escaped. The Times continues: "It is not every man who has the good luck when pursued by an elephant to be crossing a swamp, so that when the animal has carefully kneaded his prostate for and passed along thinking him completely pulverized, the said man should come up smiling behind the elephant none the worse for his massage treatment. This actually happened to a well known man in the Straits Settlements."

A UNIQUE HOME.

In Sweden and Norway there are several homes for spinners. One of these at least is as attractive as it is unique. It is a monument to the memory of an expeditiously wealthy old man, dying more than 200 years ago, left the major part of his fortune to the old maids among his descendants. A superb home was built, furnished and managed by salaried trustees. It flourished and has continued. Any unmarried woman who can prove blood relationship to the founder of the institution is entitled to admission to the home. She is given a suit of rooms, a servant, private meals and is subject to no rules save such as ordinary good behavior demands.

MINISTERS' MAIDS.

"Are you a minister's wife?" was a query encountered so frequently by a young matron in search of a maid that she asked a story.

"Why this means to live under the droppings of the sanctuary?" inquired the matron or words to that effect.

Then it appeared that the minister's family is considered a most desirable place because of the opportunities for witness fees in wedding cases. There are few bridegrooms who come without a witness to be married to who will bestow a generous tip upon the girl who furnishes this small but necessary feature of the ceremony.—New York Tribune.

VOLCANOES.

Some Facts About These Vents to the Earth's Interior Fire.

Sons ago the earth on which we live was a huge mass of "fire mist." Astronomers tell us that today in the heavens we can see vast nebulæ, suggesting what the earth was once. Gradually the surface of the "fire mist" cooled and hardened, but the interior is still intensely hot. Whether it is solid, liquid or viscous we do not know. This heat, raging miles below the surface, at times escapes through the hard crust by vents or volcanoes.

There are from 300 to 350 volcanoes on the globe. This estimate includes merely live volcanoes which within recent times have been in action. If we should count the many mountains scattered over the earth which show today signs of volcanic action in more remote parts, the estimate would have to be increased by many hundreds.

Volcanoes would seem to be arranged with more or less symmetry in belts circling the great oceans. A ring of fire surrounds the Pacific. Starting at the South Shetland Islands, several hundred miles south of Cape Horn, a belt of volcanoes extends up the west coast of South America, Central America and North America; from Alaska across the Pacific along the Aleutian Islands to Kamchatka; thence it follows the east edge of the Pacific through the Kurile Islands, Japan, Formosa, the Philippines, the Moluccas, the Solomon Islands, the North Hebrides, New Zealand and finally ends in Mounts Terror and Erebus, the Antarctic continent. —Geographic Magazine.

A 20,000 BOTTLE MAN.

A Story With a Remark by Bismarck on Champagne.

Baron von Hengervar, who has represented Austria-Hungary successively in Berlin, Paris and London, and finally in Washington, has just been raised to the dignity of ambassador. Years ago, when he was assistant secretary of the Austrian embassy at Berlin, Bismarck gave a dinner to which the baron was invited. All the guests except Von Hengervar drank champagne, and Bismarck, noting the young man's abstinence, asked the reason therefor. "I have not yet earned the right so to indulge," was the reply.

"Ah, that will not do," remarked Bismarck, "it is allotted to every able-bodied man in this world to consume in his lifetime 10,000 bottles of champagne. So you should begin now, lest you fall to secure your just portion."

"If 10,000 bottles be the allotment for the ordinary man," responded the young diplomatist, bowing to the Iron Chancellor, "your excellency should have double allowance, and I therefore take great pleasure in awarding my share to you."

"I thank you," Bismarck replied, "but permit me to inform you that without waiting for your grand renunciation I have already passed the 20,000 mark." —Golden Penny.

ECONOMICAL.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

A young man living on Walnut Hill is a close worker in money matters—he is, he stays close to the shore under his expenditures. He has the good luck to marry a girl whose parents are quite wealthy and is at present living with his wife in one of his father-in-law's houses.

One day not long since while discussing affairs with a friend the latter asked:

"Did the old gentleman give you that house?"

"Well—er—no, not exactly," was the answer. "He offered it to me, but I wouldn't accept it."

"How's that?" asked the friend.

"Well," answered the man who had made the lucky matrimonial venture, "you see, the house really belongs to me. I'm living in it, rent free, and I'll get it when the old man dies. If I accepted it now, I'd have to pay the taxes."

ONLY A GIRL'S PURSE.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Poems and stories used to be written about the infinite variety of articles to be found in a boy's pocket. Girls do not have pockets—so much the worse for them—but the things they stow away in their pocketbooks would put a boy to the blush.

A girl emptied her purse the other day. "I have to clean it out," she explained, "every once in a while, just as I do my bureau drawers." These are some of the things that were in it: Two one dollar bills, a fifty cent piece, two quarters, a five cent piece (lead) and ten pennies, a "lucky Italian coin," a Japanese "pocket piece," two receipts, three bills, a parlor car check, four street railway transfers, five mutilated stamps, a pencil stub, matinee coupon, three keys, newspaper clippings and a cleaner's check for gloves. That was not at all an unusual case. Almost any girl can match it.

WHIMS OF FAMOUS SINGERS.

(Exchange.)

Mme. Schachli was in a very sad way if she met any one who squinted, and she would go through a whole host of evolutions to rid herself of the evil spell.

Mario's foible was smoking. As smoking was forbidden at the theatre, he would never sign a contract until the clause which made him an exception to the rule was inserted. He would have his valet waiting in the wings with a match and a cigar and would rush off the stage, take a few whiffs and then return to a smoldering love scene. The cigars that he smoked cost him half a crown, and he never more than partially finished one. Even the street boys in London know him, and when they followed his carriage, cheering, he would have a handful of coins ready to toss to them.

THE GIVING OF TIPS.

Tips were always out of harmony with the independence and self respect of true Americans. Good pay for good work, with no unnecessary gratuities to be begged, and everywhere else should be the custom. Tips are degrading both to the giver and receiver, and the whole system of tipping is unsound and inexcusable. It cannot endure. No club of any real distinction and importance permits the giving of tips within its jurisdiction, and the practice of distributing gifts for services which have been amply and even generously remunerated has no basis which is wise and wholesome. Never yet has there been an argument in apology for the abuse which was worth a moment's consideration.—New York Tribune.

PUBLIC PLAY-GROUNDS.

Rules in Boston—What Montreal Has Done.

A Boston millionaire who has spent a great deal of money in vacation playgrounds in this city gives the following rules for conducting these places of recreation:

First—Three ages should be kept separate: 1. Under seven years; 2. Seven to eleven; 3. Eleven to sixteen; 4. Over sixteen. It is best to divide the space. If there is not room for that, divide the time. Fathers and mothers should always be admitted.

Second—Have plenty of benches for spectators.

Third—Keep open all day in vacation and after school at other times.

Fourth—Prizes should be useless and unsaleable.

Fifth—Balls and bats should be free to boys under seven years; a cap or coat for older boys. These should be given back on return of the balls, or what remains of them, or on receipt of very satisfactory explanation of how they were lost. Sometimes there is another boy on the other side of the fence.

Sixth—Have sports on all holidays.

Seventh—Have gymnasium classes in winter and a few in summer also. Have the boys buy costumes for themselves.

Eighth—Connect in every possible way with the schools.

ABERNETHY'S PRESCRIPTION.

(English Paper.)

Abernethy, the celebrated physician, one day was consulted by a patient, obese and overfed, who perpetually reverted to the smallness of his appetite. "I know what's wrong with you," said Abernethy. "Thank heaven," exclaimed the patient, "now I shall have relief!"

"Sir," replied the physician, "the Almighty has provided you with but one stomach, and you devour enough for five. That's what's the matter. Two gulches, please."

FIELD'S FIRST TOUR.

A Coroner's Fees Aided in Securing Passage to Civilization.

"Twenty years ago a comedy trio left Denver which had some rather unusual experiences, says the St. Louis Republic. Eugene Field, Otto Rothaker, and myself were the three performers," said Howard Saxby of Cincinnati in a recent interview. "We decided that there was money in the show business and started out to demonstrate to the world our great ability as entertainers. We were all three employed on the Denver Republic, but we decided that newspaper life was too monotonous, interested a partner who sold a horse to get money enough to put up on the road, and started for Colorado Springs, where we were to play our first engagement."

"Field and I were to read humorous selections of our own compositions and Rothaker was to give some of Tennyson's poems that there might be variety in the entertainment. Our success in Colorado Springs was remarkable. We had 427 people in the audience, and everything went off smoothly. All of our stunts were very polite, and it was necessary for each of us to wear a dress coat. We had only one dress coat, and consequently it was impossible for us to do any reading in concert. As soon as a performer dashed off the stage he skinned off that stock coat and the man who was to do the next number slipped into it. Unfortunately, all of us were larger than Rothaker, and I was larger than Rothaker and the coat was as much too small for us as it was too large for Rothaker."

"We liked Colorado Springs so well that we came pretty near not getting to Pueblo, our next stop. Our first success wasn't repeated in Pueblo. Several people came out to hear us, and that was the most exacting audience I ever saw. It was painfully candid and had no hesitation about expressing its opinion in plain Colorado English."

"Field had just begun his Primer at that time. When nothing but jeers and derision greeted him, Field decided that he would try some of the Primer on the audience. He stepped on the stage with great assurance at the conclusion of a reading by Rothaker which brought out more catcalls than I ever imagined seventeen men could muster. After asking for order, Field began to read from the Primer. It wasn't a Field crowd, and the Primer failed to entertain."

"Well, we left Pueblo pretty badly discouraged. Our next stop was to be in New Mexico. By pawning Field's coat and Rothaker's umbrella we raised money enough to buy tickets most of the way and we walked the remainder of the distance. Another Pueblo reception greeted us, and we found ourselves stranded. We had nothing to pawn but the dress coat, and there wasn't much demand for full evening old man who had a room at the hotel adjoining mine committed suicide during the night. When the coroner came to hold an inquest we three were the first applicants for places on the jury, and the fee we received enabled us to get back to Colorado."

MAN'S WONDERFUL STOMACH.

The human stomach possesses most wonderful powers of adaptation to circumstances. When Lieutenant Bligh and his eighteen men were cast from the Bounty by the mutineers in an open boat they subsisted forty-one days on a daily allowance of one and a quarter of a pound of biscuit per man and a quart of a pint of water. Dr. Tanner in 1880 fasted for forty days, subsisting, it is said, on water alone, and Succi and other fasting men have since excelled this.

KATHU, NORTH AMERICAN INDIANS.

Kathu, North American Indians and the fat birds in Pickwick may well be quoted as fearful examples of voracity, but even their gastronomic feats are exceeded by the full-grown Eskimo, who fills daily cat twenty pounds of fish and oil if he has the chance, while on the authority of Admiral Sarichev a Yakut of Siberia has been known to consume in twenty-four hours "the hind quarter of a large ox, twenty pounds of butter, and a quantity of melted butter for his drink!"

TONSILLOID REPARTEE.

"How do you part your hair?" said the barber after he had finished cutting it.

"With a comb," replied the irritable customer.

"Didn't know. It looked when you came in as if you might have been doing it with a hayrake."

MONTREAL, AUG. 5.—The steamer Rus-

ington, previously reported ashore on Barnaby Island, arrived in port today. She was so high out of water at low tide that the wrecking crew were able to plug the holes in her side and her pumps were sufficient to keep the water down. The damage is not thought to be serious.

The opera house will be 60x32 feet, with a balcony on three sides, and have a seating capacity of nearly 1,000. LOCAL NEWS.

A musical entertainment will be given tomorrow evening in Carpenter's hall.

Robert Meehan of New York, president of the New Brunswick Southern railway, accompanied by Mrs. Meehan, came to the city by the noon train today.

Two new cases of smallpox have developed at Marysville. The houses have been quarantined. It is not known where the patients, a man and a woman, contracted the disease.

A good programme has been arranged for the Calvin church concert tomorrow evening. Prof. Wilber will play a grand march of his own composition and Finn Simpson, the Norwegian violinist, will take part.

All members of Nos. 1 and 2 Scots Companies are requested to meet at their drill room tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in plain clothes, in order to attend the funeral of their late comrade, Geo. Carlin.

ORONYATEKHA.

Dr. Oranyatekha, supreme chief of the I. O. F., passed through the city by the noon train today on his way from St. Stephen to Prince Edward Island. He was accompanied by Deputy Supreme Chief Joseph Clark.

In conversation with the Star Dr. Oronyatekha said that he was highly pleased with the meeting of the high court at St. Stephen. He states that the order is now in a firmer condition than ever and growing very rapidly. During the first seven months of this year no less than twenty-three thousand applications for membership were received, which in his opinion is a larger number than will be taken by the five leading Canadian insurance companies during the entire year. In the past year eight hundred thousand dollars was added to the surplus of the order.

Dr. Oronyatekha says that he is now enjoying better health than at any time during the past six or seven years. He has lost considerably in weight but feels younger than ever. He will attend the meeting to be held in Tignish, P. E. Island, tomorrow, and will return on Friday on his way to Ontario where the high court meets at Windsor on August 12th.

THE FLYING MACHINE.

The flying machine moved a couple of feet today and is still keeping ahead of the men who are putting down the paving blocks. This is accounted for by some, by the fact that the paving gage have to regulate their work by the progress of the machine.

Since the commencement of the operations five men, when working quickly, have been able to hoist a bucket in less than four minutes. This was evidently considered a waste of energy for today an ingenious combination of blocks and ropes, assisted by a second steering wheel, has been fitted to the machine for hoisting purposes and now four men can haul up a bucket in seven minutes. It is hoped that by tomorrow afternoon it will be possible to raise the buckets by means of jackscrews.

There are now three colored men assisting in the handling of the machine.

ILLEGAL MOOSE KILLING.

Residents of Margerville who are in the city today, says the Gleaner, report that the discovery was made yesterday of the carcasses of three moose which had been illegally killed. John McGuire was putting hay into his barn, situated on the back road, and found the carcasses of three moose hidden in the barn. The heads of the animals were found not far from the barn and also a piece of moose meat in a barrel. It was evident that some person had slaughtered the moose intending to carry away the meat and had hidden it in the barn until opportunity to do so presented itself. Surveyor General Dunn, in whose department the protection of game comes, will be in the city this evening and he will no doubt give immediate attention to the matter.

FUNERAL OF JAMES KELLY.

The funeral of the late James Kelly took place at half-past two o'clock this afternoon from his late residence, 50 High street, and was largely attended. Services were conducted at the house and grave by the Rev. T. F. Fotheringham and the body was interred in Cedar Hill. Pall bearers were chosen from the members of the Loyal Orange lodges who walked in a body in the procession. Many beautiful floral pieces were placed on the casket, among them being a large wreath from the Orange lodges bearing the letters "L. O. L. of N. B."; a basket of flowers from Andrew J. Armstrong; a beautiful anchor on an ivory pedestal from the I. C. R. depot employees; and a wreath from the freight department staff.

YERKES' SYSTEM WON.

LONDON, July 31.—The parliamentary committee in the proposed tube railways decided yesterday to make a report giving the Yerkes underground electric railway all needed legislative right of way for the completion of its entire system. The Morgan company's bills to authorize the paralleling of the main portions of Yerkes' routes was put over to the next session of parliament.

CORONATION DAY.

The Programme as Already Arranged. Promises to Be a Good One.

Although the common council do not seem to be taking any action to arrange for the fitting celebration of Coronation Day, the militia, polymorphians and others intend making the day as enjoyable as possible. The following programme has been arranged and will be carried out:

9 a. m.—The 62nd Regt, 3rd Regt. C. A., No. 4 Bearer Co., and a squadron of the 8th Hussars will assemble at the barracks and will march from there to Douglas Avenue. The different companies of the boys brigade, and all the returned soldiers, will also meet and join the militia on the march.

10 a. m.—A baseball match between the Roses and Alerts will take place on the Shamrock grounds. The Alerts expect to have their team strengthened by several new players.

11 a. m.—The ceremony of laying the corner stone of the monument on the new memorial park will commence.

12 a. m.—A Royal salute and feu de joie will be fired by the artillery and the other militia at the memorial park, after which the parade will return to the city.

1 p. m.—As the tide is high at this hour, the races on the harbor under the auspices of the Haymarket Square polymorphians will commence. There will be four events, four oared, double scull, single scull and fisherman's races. The subscription list for prizes is ever being circulated and entries are being received. It is expected that the part of the day's programme will not occupy more than two hours.

3 p. m.—The second game of baseball between the Roses and Alerts takes place on the Victorian grounds.

7 p. m.—The polymorphians will assemble at Victoria rink and will shortly afterwards hold a torchlight procession, marching through the principal streets of the city. Upon their return to the rink a reception and entertainment will be given by the ladies auxiliary and a display of fireworks made from the roof of the rink. During the evening the supplies of fireworks purchased some time ago by the city will be put off from the different fire stations.

POLICE COURT.

Ryan Swift, a young fellow who came here with a party of tourists, was arrested last night for being drunk on the north side of King Square. He had intended going with his friends to Digby this morning, but they did not know where he was and went without him. He was fined four dollars.

Harry Alexander was charged with stealing a horse from C. S. Goggin's stable. It appears that Alexander went to the stable, harnessed the horse, and last evening drove out to the bishop's picnic at Torriburn. Upon his return he was arrested. This morning Alexander said that he was working for Mr. Goggin, having been engaged by someone known as Bill, and had just taken the horse for a drive to the one-mile house. When confronted by a witness who had seen him at Torriburn the prisoner admitted that he had gone there. Mr. Goggin denied that Alexander was working for him. The case was adjourned until "Bill" could be notified.

Edward Callaghan reported a Mr. Hanley for keeping a dog which had bitten his horse. The magistrate ordered that Mr. Hanley should dispose of the dog in a manner agreeable to Mr. Callaghan.

THE BIRNAM WOOD.

The bark Birnam Wood, having a number of cases of yellow fever on board, reached this port about six o'clock last evening in tow of the tug Neptune, and anchored off Partridge Island. From the story told by Capt. Swatridge it appears that the disease first broke out about the first of July. There were ten cases in all during the voyage, three of which resulted fatally.

Axel Johnsen of Norway died on July 18th; John McGregor from Wales died on July 23rd and Charles Rosendal of New York on August 2nd.

Capt. Swatridge became ill on Aug. 3rd, and the other six victims are now convalescent.

This forenoon the captain and some of the crew were transferred to the island, the others are being moved this afternoon. The vessel will be disinfected at once.

TEMPLE OF HONOR.

The annual session of the supreme council, Temple of Honor, convened last evening in the Market building at eight o'clock. M. W. T. G. C. Gates, president. Representatives from this jurisdiction and Massachusetts who were eligible to seats in the supreme council were initiated. At this forenoon's session the reports of the supreme officers were presented and referred to the different committees and other routine business was transacted. This afternoon the delegates will be entertained on an excursion upriver to the quarter Star, leaving Indian-town at quarter to three.

HER SENSE OF HUMOR.

A sense of humor is not always a part of the literary equipment. It was a very clever and successful woman novelist who recently met at a dinner the daughter of another woman writer. "You are Mrs. A.—'s daughter?" said the older woman graciously. "I hope you don't mind being introduced in that fashion."

"Oh, no," laughed the daughter of genius. "I'm quite used to having no identity. It's an accepted fact that very brilliant mothers never have clever daughters."

"Not at all; not at all," the novelist protested. "I have two daughters who are quite clever."

And she doesn't know why the unimportant woman smiled.

DOHERTY'S DEATH

Shots Were Heard Between Twelve and Two Saturday Morning.

Believed That He Came to His End at That Time—The Result of the Coroner's Inquiry.

From information secured by the Star it now appears that William Doherty was shot and killed between twelve and two o'clock on Friday night and the supposition is that the body was moved after the shooting.

Mrs. William J. Cox, of 15 Spruce street, heard three shots fired.

On Friday night, Mrs. Cox, whose residence is within a few yards of the entrance to the park, was awake during the greater part of the time attending to her little baby, who was restless. She says that between twelve and two o'clock she was startled to hear three shots fired in quick succession, seeming from the somewhat open space right at the gate to the gardens. The sound of shots is by no means uncommon in this vicinity, but they have never before been heard at such an hour, and Mrs. Cox became rather nervous. She hurried to her window, which was open, and looked out, but could not see anything. Just then Mrs. Cox's mother, who was occupying another room in the house, and who had been awakened by the shots, hurried into Mrs. Cox's room also for the purpose of looking out the window. They listened for some little time, but heard nothing further, and finally decided that one of the park men must have been shooting at a dog. This, Mrs. Cox is of the opinion was between twelve and one o'clock, but she is absolutely certain that it was between twelve and two o'clock.

In the morning she and other members of the family were jokingly observing that a prominent member of the Horticultural Association had chosen a rather unusual hour for shooting dogs, but as nothing was heard next day they thought no more of the affair.

Mrs. Cox is unwilling to become in any way mixed up in the affair and on this account has not previously mentioned what she heard.

THE INQUEST.

The inquest began shortly after seven o'clock in the county court room, which was filled with an interested crowd. The jury was impaneled by Coroner Berryman as follows: Foreman, J. S. Armstrong; Fred. Melick, Richard Rogers, David Watson, S. T. Golding, W. H. Arnold and R. B. Gilmore.

A. Geo. Blair appeared on behalf of the crown.

Henry Beckwith, the first witness, told of the finding of the body as has already been related. His evidence did not bring forth any new facts.

Joseph Doherty said his son would have been 17 years old on Oct. 15th next. Had last seen him at noon on Friday.

Harley A. Knox, one of the park policemen, gave evidence regarding his part in the moving of the body. He often saw people walking out Lovers' Lane. Was sure no cart had gone up that way either on Friday or Saturday evening. Had warned two or three persons whom he had suspected of following couples in the park and had not seen anything like that for some months.

Dr. John F. Macaulay, who with Dr. W. L. Ellis, had made the post mortem said among other things, that at five o'clock Monday, Doherty had been dead for 48 or 50 hours. External examination of the head and face revealed twelve or fourteen wounds. Only two of them were just through the skin. There was one large wound on the left side of the forehead one inch long piercing the flesh and fracturing the bone. It extended from over the eyebrow to the roots of the hair. The wound was sharp and clean cut and in the fracture of the skull was found

A SMALL PIECE OF STONE.

The bones of the nose were broken and a large number of superficial wounds were all over the face. Turning the body four penetrating wounds on the back were seen, one at the angle of the left shoulder blade, another just to the left of the median line and a little lower; another on the right side of the median line on the border of the last rib, and the fourth in the region over the crest of the right hip bone. These wounds were all similar and apparently due to bullets. Two of them bled quite freely.

Upon probing, the probe would only penetrate any considerable distance into the second wound. There was extravasation of blood in the tissues about the wounds, showing they had certainly been inflicted before death. Then the body was opened at the chest. The left lung was perforated by a wound and a bullet was found in the lower lobe of the lung. It had penetrated about four inches into the substance of the lung. Removing the intestines a large hemorrhage was found in the abdomen. The next bullet was found in the clot of blood in the abdomen. One of the bullets had passed right through to the hip bone into the abdomen. Upon removing the right kidney a bullet wound was found 3-1/2 inches long piercing across the kidney. A wound was found through the under surface of the right lobe of the liver. The large intestine showed one perforation. The wounds ran in a row diagonally across the body from the right hip bone to the left shoulder blade. From the appearance of one wound the deceased was evidently on an elevation above the murderer when the shot was fired. The others were evidently inflicted when both were on a level.

The fourth bullet was found embedded into the left shoulder blade together with a piece of coat which had been carried in.

Upon examination of the head, a depressed fracture of the skull was found on the left side of the forehead and a small piece of bone had been driven into the brain. There was also a fracture on the left temple extending to the base of the skull. There was no

HEAVY RAINS

Do Many Thousand Dollars of Damage in Colorado.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 6.—A general rain has fallen all over Eastern Colorado. In many places it amounted to a cloudburst, washing out the railroad tracks. At Torco, forty miles from Trinidad the Colorado and Wyoming railroad depot was moved from its foundation. At Manitou the damage from a cloudburst amounted to $10,000, while near Pueblo the damage will amount to $25,000. The rain was of inestimable benefit to crops and will relieve the water famine in Denver and other Colorado cities for a time at least.

A SOLEMN QUESTION.

One of the Pranks Artemus Ward Played Upon His Bpther.

In the days when Cyrus Browne, better known as "Artemus Ward," lived in Waterford, "the little Maine village that nestled among the hills and never did anything else but nestle," Charles delighted to play practical jokes on Cyrus. Charles came home one freezing night, says the narrator of the following prank in the Boston Herald, at an hour that would be thought early in a metropolis, but was not so considered in Waterford. The family were sleeping soundly in the warm comfort of their beds when the future showman halted under the window of Cyrus, and raised an alarm.

"Cy! Oh, Cy! Come out here, Cy!" After a time Cyrus appeared at the window. "What do you want?" he demanded through the crack he had opened.

"I want you to come down!" with great earnestness. "I want to ask you a question, Cy."

"Oh, go 'way!" said Cyrus, his teeth chattering in the awful cold. "It's only one of your jokes."

"Really, Cy, it's a very important question!" persisted Charles with increased earnestness. "It's a solemn thing, and I want you to come down, Cy; I want you bad."

Finally, after grumbling and expostulating, Cyrus slipped on some clothes and came reluctantly downstairs and out into the arctic cold. "Now what in the world is it that you want?" he asked.

Charles came up close, laid his hands on his brother's shivering shoulders, and in that voice of plaintive solemnity which in after years moved so many people to mirth, said:

"I want to ask you, Cy, if you think slavery is wrong?"

SNOW STOPS BULLETS.

Experiments which have been made near Christiania, in Norway, with the Krag-Jorgensen rifle, seem to show that during a winter campaign snow can be used most effectively by the soldiers. The experiments showed that a bullet from this rifle could not penetrate loose snow more than a yard and a half. The same result was obtained no matter from what distance the shot was fired. Military experts, consequently, point out that snow offers more resistance to the penetration of such a bullet than any kind of wood, and almost as much as earth, and that therefore, it might be advisable, whenever it is possible, to use snow as a material for intrenchments and other works during a campaign.—Golden Penny.

THE WIFE BEATER.

Police Magistrate Denison of Toronto a day or two ago sent to jail for nine months a man who hit his wife with a baseball bat. The sentence is most satisfactory in every respect but one—what is the wife and family to do for their living during nine months? High time civilization was developing a plan of making such men work overtime when in jail, and turning over their earnings to their families.

MANUAL TRAINING.

Prof. Robertson and Prof. Fletcher, of Ottawa, who have been attending and addressing the Summer School at St. Stephen, went to Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island yesterday. Next week Prof. Robertson is to go to Fredericton to confer with Dr. Inch regarding manual training in the public schools.

RETURNED SOLDIERS' MEETING.

All returned African soldiers are requested to meet on King Square at eight o'clock this evening, to consider what part is to be taken in the Coronation Day celebration. Quite a large number of the men have already secured horses and equipment and will join in the procession with the squadron of hussars.
