DIVIDE YOUR DOLLARS WITH YOUR NEIGHBORS! BUY AT HOME!

Everybody has a certain amount of civic pride—that sort of pride which helps make a village a town, and a town a metropolitan city.

The growth of any community is dependent upon the support given its citizens. If you fail in your co-operation the town either stands still or retrogrades.

If you uphold the town by sustaining it wholeheartedly you help yourself and the community. The theme of this reader is: "Help your town, buy at home!"

Divide your dollars among your merchants and others who have the interests of the populace at heart. Help them and they will help you to greater values—for increased volume means decreased costs.

The town needs your support and you need the support of the town. Let's get together and share our prosperity.

—And, buy from the advertisers.

The most important magazine in its field the world over devotes a page to Moirs Bridge Box, praising its "attractive and colorful cover" and the idea of enclosing playing cards and score sheets with a pound of chocolates.

Presidents of large American corporations, managers, and other officials have written to Moirs ordering the Bridge Box as a gift for bridge friends and a prize at games.

So occasionally a Maritime industry can pioneer not merely for Canada, but the continent.

BEAUTIFUL QUEEN 3,600 YEARS AGO

A woman whose amazing beauty enchants the eye and the mind, although she died in Egypt 3,600 years ago, is causing a sensation in the third Egyptian room of the British Museum in London.

She is Queen Nefertiti, wife of the Pharaoh Akhnaton, and mother-in-law of Tutankhamen.

The almost life-size, colored bust which has been presented to the museum is a replica of the original found in the ruins of Tell-el-Amarna and now in the Berlin Museum.

"She is the finest example of Egyptian portraiture," said Dr. Hall, keeper of the Egyptian antiquities in the British Museum.

Famous archaeologists and artists who have seen her agree that she is the most beautiful woman of antiquity, and that as a work of art her portrait bust is the most living thing that has come down from the ancient world.

Nefertiti's small head, set on a long, slim neck, is surrounded by the curious high crown which her husband, Akhnaton, evidently invented for her and her daughters.

There is a sad half-smile on her face, and the general impression is that of a woman of great delicacy and breeding.

Nefertiti is linked with the first royal love affair pictured by artists. Earlier and later queens of Egypt are sculptured beside their husbands in conventional attitudes, but Akhnaton commanded his artists at El Amarna to paint himself and his wife not as king and queen of Egypt, but as human beings.

It looks like spring, it feels like spring. Perhaps it is spring.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEHOLD

Cut rounds out of bid felt hats and glue them to the feet of all the furniture that has not casters. In this way polished floors will be spared many a mark.

To utilize left-over asparagus tips combine them with poached eggs served on toast covered with melted cheese.

Rosettes of mashed potatoes shaped with the pastry tube make an attractive garnish for meat and stew.

A little mayonnaise can be made to go a long way if the entire amount is added by the spoonful to the beaten white of an egg or eggs.

It is possible to buy porcelain tops for kitchen tables and they are a great help in keeping the table clean. They can be obtained at very moderate prices, but when the purchase, it is good economy always to buy the best quality in porcelain goods, for the inferior grade chip easily.

Rinse fine lingerie and silk stockings in water of the same temperature as the suds in which they are washed.

When making tarts of juicy fruit, mix a little cornstarch with the sugar. This will prevent it from boiling over.

After removing clothes from the line fold them carefully before putting them into the basket. If crushed into the clothes basket there will be more wrinkles to iron out.

CAPITAL LEVY

France is close to a capital levy as the only discernible means of improving her finances. The plan is one of the most remarkable fiscal schemes ever placed before parliament. No one knows whether it will work or not. No one knows whether it will be tried, for that depends on the French Senate. A careful study of the text of the bill shows that what the government proposes is not a capital levy, but a forced consolidation loan, by which it is sought to obtain 10 per cent of the acquired wealth of the country. Calling it a loan, when the men of wealth are forced to contribute will not make the plan any more popular. No exact calculation has been made, even by the government, as to what the plan will produce. Generally, it is calculated that the capital wealth of France before the war, being about two hundred and fifty billion francs gold, six or seven hundred billion is a fair estimate of the present capital wealth in paper francs. If the project is two-thirds successful, which may be optimistic, the yield over the five years provided for subscriptions to the forced loan would be around forty billion francs. It would be the saving in a similar step, interest from six or seven to three per cent on this amount, which would be the measure of benefit to the treasury.

WON'T KEEP PROMISES

Great Britain's experience, since she recognized the Soviets, about a year ago, will not give much encouragement to any other nation that may be contemplating a similar step. Ramsey MacDonald's recognition of the Bolsheviks has brought none of the expected results. There has been no widespread restoration of trade between Britain and Russia. And there has been no cessation of "Red" propaganda from Moscow. There has been no reformation of the Moscow regime, and, while diplomatic relations have been resumed in name, they may not have been in fact. Britain has discovered that Moscow will not keep her promises to reduce propaganda. It is encouraging to learn that the existing British Government has no intention of having anything to do with Moscow until the Soviets drop the Third International. And that the Moscow Government has no intention of having anything to do with Britain until they have given the appearance of intending to do so. The men who are governing Russia at the present time are disloyal and unreliable beyond the administration of an uncivilized world. They seem to get upon the principle that they are not expected to keep their engagements, and are willing to make treaties without the slightest intention of carrying out their undertakings. Russia must work out its own problems and return to sanity before it will be safe for any other nation to have cordial relations with that country.

WHY THEY REMAIN DOWN

Their hearts are not in their work. They expect mastery without apprenticeship, knowledge, without study, wealth, without work. They have no confidence in their own ability, nor the admiration of their employers and by their indifferent behavior cut off their own source of advancement. They fooled away their time when they should have been studying and preparing for a better job. They were not made up of their minds that they have never found their special niche. They live in dreams and reveries and regret for the past never boldly grappling with the present and making the most of it. They waste their time and energy and weaken their initiative, by constantly forming new plans and resolutions which they never carry out. They long for success, but want it at a discount. They are not willing to pay the full price for it. They have no strong purpose running through their lives, the one thing which will give them strength to their faculties. They thought that if they only kept on working, even if they were not paid, they would arrive at the success port. They are afraid of the new, they are afraid of the old, they are afraid of the future. They want other people to do the experimenting, while they get into ruts and cling to the old, be conventional and out-of-date. They prefer to remain on a low range of life's ladder, for the sake of temporary comfort and ease rather than put forth the efforts that would carry them upwards.

When cleaning a grate mix the blacklead with a little turpentine.

KNOCKED OUT

"There were two men got in a fight in front of the store today," said one of Austin's fore men merchants at the supper table, "and I tell you it looked pretty tough for one of them. The bigger one he grabbed a cart-stake and drew it back. I thought sure he was going to knock the others brains out and I jumped in between them."

The family listened with rapid attention and as the father paused in his narrative, the young heir, whose respect for his father's bravery was immeasurable, proudly remarked:

"He couldn't knock any brains out of you, could he father?"

The head of the family gazed long and earnestly at the heir as if to detect evidences of a dawning humorist, but as the youth continued with great innocence to munch his fourth tart, he gasped and resumed his supper.

LANGUAGE

If the nations of Europe had one language it would be impossible to organize that continent upon the model of the United States of America. There is not a single state in Europe with as large an area as the state of Texas, and many of them are smaller than the average American state. What a great blessing it would be to the world if Europe could be united under a Federal Constitution. The only obstacle in the way of so desirable a consummation is the "battleground of language."

"OUR COUNTRY"

Greatest country! bravest people! Finest churches—tallest steeples! Fastest horses—fastest women. Biggest lakes that fishes swim in. Most of railroad—longest rivers—Beats creation all to shivers. Never finishing—never finking. Some of one thing—mostly pumpkin. Jumps the highest—squats the lowest. Runs the fastest—walks the slowest. Parted through individual attendance upon Sunday School and Church will open criminal impulses. Any man not contributing to support some church or organized religious work is living on charity—riding on some other man's transportation. If he really desires abatement of crime he should ally himself with their agencies which prevent or abate crime.

THE BOY WHO FITTED IN

One of the world's successful men told some young men recently how when he was a boy working in a hardware store, he wanted to leave when he was put to cleaning windows, and the young girls he called on saw him at his mental occupation. He was put to cleaning windows, and the young girls he called on saw him at his mental occupation.

Another boy asked a merchant for position. He was given one, and he went well for a few days. Then the boy was set to work cleaning windows. His pride rebelled; he threw up his job and went home in a few hours another boy appeared. "I'm Jim's brother," he announced "and I'd like to have his job. I clean windows or do whatever you want me to do."

"and I'd like to have his job. I clean windows or do whatever you want me to do."

VALUE OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

Striking testimony to the high value of the Sunday School is given by Judge Lewis L. Fawcett, of the Supreme Court of New York. He has been on the bench eighteen years. In that time he has had before him more than 40,000 boys under twenty-one years of age, charged with various degrees of crime. But of this large number only three were members of a Sunday School at the time of the commission of their crimes.

"And," says Justice Fawcett, "Even these three exceptional cases were technical in character and devoid of heinousness, so that they are scarcely worth mentioning. All these cases had a girl in them. In one, a young man who wished to make a pleasing impression on a new sweetheart, and not being well clad, stole an overcoat. In another, the young man was arrested for carrying a pistol without a permit. He said he wished to protect himself against a gang member, who had become aggressive because he had taken his girl from him. A third, the young man drew a penknife on his opponent in a quarrel over a girl. In view of this significant showing, I do not hesitate to express the conviction that the Sunday School is a most effective work, with its refining atmosphere, is a sign of preventive against crime on the part of the young men of America. In 1892 suspended sentences, only sixty-two of the young men were brought back for violation of the conditions of their paroles. In each suspended sentence case I insisted upon the return of the youth if he was Protestant, to a Sunday School; if a Roman Catholic, to attendance at mass; if a Jew, so attendance at a synagogue or a temple. In each instance I had the earnest cooperation of the minister, the priest or the rabbi, and each case I say to it that the young man had a job to do as soon as he was freed on parole. In virtually all the suspended cases the reform was quick and I believe permanent."

The method that will produce the desired results in Brooklyn, believes Justice Fawcett, will produce them anywhere. He asserts: "The sustained, wholesome, moral atmosphere imparted through habitual attendance upon Sunday School and Church will open criminal impulses. Any man not contributing to support some church or organized religious work is living on charity—riding on some other man's transportation. If he really desires abatement of crime he should ally himself with their agencies which prevent or abate crime."

SMALL TOWN vs. BIG CITY

The small town has been the butt of the cheap humorist ever since the somewhat larger town came into existence.

A small town is one town smaller than the town in which the humorist lives. If he lives in a town of 1,000 a town of 500 is a joke. If he lives in a town of 5,000, any town of 1,000 is a joke and so on up.

City folk call small towns by witty names — tank towns, hick towns, towns in the sticks, towns on the bowl and by circles.

Small towns do not have scandals, jazz orchestras, gun men, floating indecency or traffic problems.

A man can park his car in front of his place of business and leave it there for weeks if he so desires.

On a hot day he can take off his coat and walk down the main street without losing public esteem.

In a small town bluff doesn't get him anywhere. People like him for what he is, not what he pretends to be.

He lives too close to his fellow-man to be other than his real self.

In a small town there are neighbors who will in and help in sickness who like you just as well in your old clothes as in your new clothes, who put on no airs and make no pretensions.

In a city a young man may take his girl to the theatre, then a jazz palace and then via the taxicab back home all at a cost of $25.

It is said that a young man can take his girl to the movies, stop at the ice cream parlor, and be home and sitting in his girl's porch swing by 10:30 p.m., having spent 75 cents and had all the fun the town afforded.

Teaching Staff of Middleton Schools

At the last meeting of the Middleton School Board, teachers were engaged for the ensuing year as follows:—Principal, H. L. Bustin; Vice Principal, G. V. Jacques; Grades VII and VIII, Miss W. Braine; Grades V and VI, Mrs. E. Poole; Grades III and IV, Miss J. Brown; Grades I and II, Mrs. C. Ilsey; Household Science, Miss M. Harlow; Mechanic Science, C. C. Crowl.

The "A" work will again be taught next year, several pupils having already signified their intention to study this work.

For Mothers of Young Children

Mothers are quick to praise anything which brings health and comfort to their little ones—and medicine that will make the baby well and keep him well will always receive hearty recommendation from the mother. That is why Baby's Own Tablets are so popular. Thousands of mothers, throughout the country, not only use them for their own little ones but are always delighted to be asked to recommend them to other mothers. Thousands of mothers have proved Baby's Own Tablets to be without an equal in relieving their little ones of any of the many minor ailments which arise out of a derangement of the stomach and bowels. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal laxative—easy to take but thorough in action. They banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers; expel worms and make the soothing period easy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WHAT WILL THE RESULT BE?

The German Republic is facing a crisis in the election of a new President. As long as Herr Eberts lived he was able to hold the Monarchists in check. Had he remained as President for another decade it is probable that the Republic would have been firmly established. And it may be that the democratic idea holds a substantial majority of the electors. That is the point to be determined at a decisive election to be held on April 28. In the primary voting that took place on March 29, the largest poll was secured by Jarres, the candidate of the Right, or Monarchical Party. He lacked a majority, however, so another poll is to be taken this month. The total number of votes cast was 3,000,000 less than in the election for the Reichstag, which indicates a lack of interest in the result. Of the total 13,000,000 votes cast, Jarres received over 10,000,000. Only by opposing parties uniting can Jarres be defeated. Correspondents at Berlin confidently predict that this union will take place and that the Centrist Marx will be the choice. The co-operation of the three democratic parties—Centrist, Socialists and Democrats—would be effective in defeating the Monarchists. The question is will they do it? Outside of Germany there is a strong desire for the strengthening of the Republic. That is necessary for peace. If the party of the Right should win, the junkies who lead the nation into war would be in the saddle cherishing the design of world domination. Germany, under those conditions, would be the same menace to the security of France and the peace of the world that it was under the Kaiser. Indeed the Holsteins might reign again. For the sake of the German people themselves and for the general welfare of the world, it is to be hoped the Republic will exist permanently.

THE BRITISH FLEET

A steady decline in the strength of the British fleet is revealed by official figures, and they are not cheerful to those who realize the complete dependence of the British people on sea power. The particulars of all the various types of men-of-war of the maritime nations of the world, which indicate those built, building, or authorized, shows the naval expert of the London "Daily Telegraph" that the battle fleet of the British Empire is being "eaten" in order that a condition of absolute equality with the United States may be reached. This authority, Archibald Hurd, goes on to say that the figures are not surprising because they show merely that effect is being given to the terms of the Washington Treaty, and he adds: "Whereas we possessed sixty-eight capital ships ten years ago, now we have only twenty-two. When the 'Nelson' and 'Rodney' now under construction, are completed in the course of next year the number will fall to twenty; and ten years later the minimum of fifteen will be reached." Corresponding to the number of units under the American flag. This reduction in strength represents a great sacrifice of British tradition, and the sacrifice is much greater than most people appreciate. While in many respects the dominions have claimed to exercise the full rights of nationhood, the restrictions of the Washington Treaty apply to the whole Empire. The ratio of battleship tonnage and aircraft tonnage include every Dominion as well as the Mother Country. If, for instance, each of the four great Dominions decided to build a vessel of more than 10,000 tons, the number of battleships or aircraft carriers which the Mother Country maintains would have to be reduced eventually to eleven. What it comes to is that the British Empire, in other respects regarded as a league of nations with a large measure of independence, is for naval purposes treated as a single unit with only one battle fleet, and that battle fleet of a restricted size, although its responsibility extend to all the seas and oceans. When it is contended, as it has been in certain quarters in the United States, that the American people were tricked into an agreement unfavorable to them, these broader considerations ought not to be ignored.

A large population is in no way essential to national greatness.

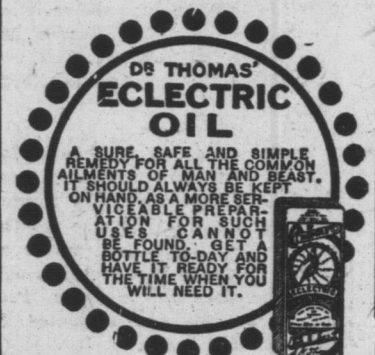

FROLICS OF WHEAT MARKET

Wheat speculators had heavy losses a fortnight ago. A decline of 13 points in the price of the May option wiped out millions of dollars of paper profits that they had made by months of gambling on the exchanges. The lands had been reaped before, and the last crash caught the professional. Of all the forms of gambling, the wheat market is the most alluring and because of that, the most dangerous. The feverish hopes of the gambler keep him in a state of anxiety that quite unfit him for serious work, and dissipates the energy he would otherwise have for legitimate activities. All gambling and speculation is destructive of that ease of mind which is essential of constructive effort. The desire to get rich quick lies at the root of gambling. It takes many different forms, but it is a sense of satisfaction that is never enjoyed by one who has made millions by chance. And when we think of the number who must lose to make one gambler rich, the trail of disappointment, and even disaster, that is left in his train, even though it may not fully be realized, carries with it none of the pleasure that is derived from the fruits of honest toil or legitimate trade. The wheat market during the past year was strewn with dead hopes and regrets.

THROUGH THE EARTH'S CRUST

Radio waves can be transmitted by the crust of the earth, it has been discovered. Dr. James H. Rogers, of Washington, has perfected an underground transmitting set, and has successfully communicated with the Pacific Coast by the use of a 300-watt tube set placed underground in Maryland. He expects to accomplish trans-oceanic broadcasting with a 600-foot cable antenna which he intends to lay underground. The discovery of radio communication, wonderful as the results are so far, seems to have just been touched by the scientists. What further discoveries await their researches and experiments no person can forecast. The secrets of the air and the earth are being revealed to mankind so rapidly that the most amazing things are now treated almost as commonplaces. Oceans now separate continents by but a moment of time. Surely we must all bring about those closer relations and better understandings to which look for peace and good will to men.

Philosophy—I would rather be able to appreciate things I am not able to appreciate.

MAKIN' AN EDITOR OUTER O' HIM

By Will M. Carlton

Good mornin' Sir, Mr. Printer, how's your body today? I'm glad you're home for you fellers is always a runnin' away. Your paper last week wasn't so spicy nor sharp as the one week before.

But I s'pose when the 'lection campaign is opened you'll be whoopin' it up to 'em more.

That feller that's printin' The Smasher is gona for you pretty smart. And, our folks said this mornin' at breakfast, they thought he was gettin' the start.

But I bushed 'em right up in a minute, and said a good word for you. I told 'em I believed you was tryin' to do just as well as you know.

And I told 'em that some one was sayin' and whoever 'twas it is so that you can't expect much of no one man, nor blame him for what he didn't know.

But layin' aside pleasure for business I've brought you my little boy Jim; And I thought I would see if you couldn't make an editor outer o' him. My family stock is increasin' while other folks seem to run short.

I've got a right smart of a family—It's one of the old-fashioned sort—There's Ichabod, Isack and Israel workin' away on the farm.

They do 'bout as much as one good boy and make things go off like a charm.

There's Moses and Aaron are sly ones and slip like a couple of eels. But they're tofats steady in one thing, they always git round to their meek.

There's Peter is busy inventin' the what he invents I can't see. And Joseph is studin' medicine— and both of 'em boardin' with me.

There's Abham and Albert is married each workin' my farm for his self.

And Sam smashed his nose at a schoolin', and so he is laid on the shelf.

The rest of the boys are all growin' 'cept this little runt which is Jim; And I thought that perhaps I'd be makin' an editor outer o' him.

He ain't no great shakes for to labor, though I've labored with him a good deal.

And give him some straplin' good arguments I kno he couldn't help but feel.

But he's built out of second growth timber and nothin' about him is big. Exceptin' his appetite only, and there he's as good as a pig.

I keep on carryin' luncheon and miltin' and bringin' the jugs and take him among the petaters, and set him to pickin' the bugs.

And then there's things to be doin' a helpin' the women indoors.

There's Charmin' and washin' dishes and other descriptions of chores. But he don't take to nothin' but victuals and he'll never be much I'm afraid.

So I thought it would be a good notion to turn him the editor's trade. His body's too small for a farmer, his judgment is rather too slim. But I thought we perhaps could be makin' an editor outer o' him.

It ain't much to get up a paper, it wouldn't take him long fer to learn. He could take the machine I'm thinkin' with a good straplin' feller to turn.

And things that was once hard to do in is easy enough now to do. Just keep your eye on your machinery— I can see it all plain enough now.

And poetry too is constructed by machines of different designs. Each one with a gauge and a chopper to see the length of the lines. And I hear a New York clairvoyant is runnin' one slicker than grease.

And a-venturin' her heaven-born production at a couple of dollars apiece. An' since the whole trade has grown easy 'twould be easy enough I've a whin.

If you was agreed to be makin' an editor outer o' Jim.

The editor sat in his sanctum and looked the old man in the eye.

Then glanced at the grinning young hopeful and mournfully made his reply.

"Is your son a small unbound edition of Moses and Solomon both?"

Can he compass his spirit with meekness and strangle a natural oath?"

Can he leave all his wrongs to the future and carry his heart in his cheek?"

Can he do an hour's work in a minute and live on a sixpence a week?"

Can he be courageously talk to an equal and brow-beat an impudent dunce?"

Can he keep things in apple-pie order and do half a dozen at once?"

Can he press all the springs of knowledge with quick and reliable touch?"

And be sure that he knows how much to know and knows how much to not know?"

Does he know how to spur up his virtue and put a check-rein on his pride?"

Can he carry a gentleman's manners within a rhinoceros' hide?"

Can he know all and do all and be all with cheerfulness, courage and vim?"

If so we perhaps can be "makin' an editor 'outer o' him."

The farmer stood curiously listening while wonder his visage o'er-spread.

And he said, "Jim, I guess we'll be goin', he's probably out of his head."

Getting out a newspaper is no joke. It is one of the hardest problems in the world, especially if folks continue to be absent-minded about their subscriptions and other small accounts.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 4

The Two Types of Tea

There are two distinct types of tea, namely Black Tea and Green Tea. Both are made from the same bush and both are equally pure. The difference is in the process of manufacture which gives each a different flavour. Black Tea after it is plucked is withered and partially 'fired' or dried, then allowed to oxidize by being exposed to the air. This gives Black Tea its dark reddish colour when drawn. Green tea is immediately steamed after plucking, which prevents oxidation. There are delicious blends of "SALADA" in both of these types and also a unique blend of Black and Green Tea Mixed. All are sold in four qualities.

Extraordinary Construction Feat at Famous Mountain Resort

Right, the shell in course of erection. Left, the cover beneath which the construction work is being done. Below, the new Lake Louise, as it will appear upon completion.

Architects and builders all over America are much interested in the progress of the re-building of the Canadian Pacific hotel at Lake Louise, winter days when 56 below zero is on record. It was imperative that the new wing, which is being built to replace that burned down last summer, should be finished and open for the coming season, and that work on it should, therefore, not be interrupted by winter weather.

Several architects and contractors from United States cities, who have visited the site, expressed doubts as to whether the job could be done during the cold weather, particularly in view of the fact that so much of the work consisted in pouring cement. This had to be safeguarded from freezing, and it was finally decided to build a huge wooden, tarpaper lined, shell around the entire space to be occupied by the new wing of the hotel. On the inside of this shell were hung thousands of feet of temporary steam coils, kept hot by 380 horse-power steam boilers, the effect of which was to provide a safe, summer-like atmosphere for the carrying on of the work.

The erection of so important a building in a position so comparatively remote from the world, with a night and day service, and in spite of ice and snow, over 26,000 tons of material and coal are being delivered by the winding narrow-gauge tramway on a four per cent grade for a distance of 3 1/2 miles from Lake Louise depot to the Chateau. Canadian Pacific forces are supervising the work, supplying steam and electricity and delivering material to the site.

This extension will enable the Chateau to accommodate seven hundred guests in a fireproof building, with every modern convenience, and one of its features will be the magnificent view of the lake and the group of mountains surrounding it from the ball room, rotunda, lounge and dining room through enormous plate glass windows which feature the whole length of the building. The extension was designed by Messrs. Barrett and Blackader, of Montreal, who have done other important work in connection with Canadian Pacific hotels and the contract was underwritten by Messrs. Carter-Halls and Aldinger, of Winnipeg.

Miscellaneous News

During the past season the Canadian Pacific Railway used on all its lines approximately 6,500,000 ties, according to a report just issued.
The woods used include British Columbia fir, hemlock, tamarac, jack pine, spruce, maple and birch.

Tourist traffic in New Brunswick during the past summer left nearly $5,000,000 in the province, an amount almost equal to the total provincial revenue, according to an estimate of the New Brunswick Tourist Association. Approximately 70,000 tourists visited the province.

One thousand British Columbia rose bushes are being shipped to Portland, Ore., "the Rose City." Portland, famous all over the continent for its roses, buys the varieties produced in British Columbia because they are the hardiest and best suited for growing in North America.

Silver production in Ontario for 1924 will not vary materially from that of 1923, judging by figures available for the first nine months of the year from the reports of several operating companies, though some increases will be shown. Production to date has amounted to about $19,500 a day.

Caribou have been seen in very large numbers this season in the northern part of Yukon territory.
Old-timers say that the main herd must have numbered tens of thousands, while in some of the smaller herds that had broken temporarily from the main herd there were hundreds and sometimes thousands.

The very first aerial stowaway ever known was discovered recently aboard a plane in the Laurentide Air Service, Limited, operating on its Roissy gold fields service in association with the Canadian Pacific Railway. The serious effect of the extra weight on the flying powers of the machine was so noticeable that it led to the man's discovery.
As he had hidden himself with a desire to see his sick wife and child, he was not punished.

The enormous contribution to the wealth of Canada made by the Canadian Pacific Railway was alluded to by E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President of the Company, when, speaking at Welland, Ont., on November 7th, at the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the building of the first Welland Canal, he stated that the company in 1923 dispersed in the Dominion $262,000,000
in wages and materials, and $7,000, 000 in taxes of all kinds.

November 7th was the 39th anniversary of the driving of the last spike in the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, an event which completed the Dominion's first transcontinental railroad, fulfilled the terms of Confederation and made Canada a nation. A stone monument now marks the spot at

Individuality For Only $2

There is always a way in which the individuality of a person is determined. Every lady, girl and young man appreciates a distinctiveness. The Outlook gets out a line of Personal Stationery that has found a certainly wonderful favor wherever shown. Of course only the very best paper is used for this class of work. There is nothing trashy about this stationery, and we are justly proud of this product. We tell you exactly what kind of paper is used, not merely saying a linen paper which is very vague. We tell you it is genuine "NORMAN" Linen, with an elegant writing surface. The price is very moderate, being only $2.00 for 100 sheets of folded paper and 100 Envelopes printed up with your name and address. The printing is the same on both envelope and paper. HE HAD A LOT OF SENSE

There was an old Geeser he had a lot of sense

He started up a business on a dollar and eight cents,
The dollar for the stock, and the eighty cents for an Ad.
Brought three lovely dollars a day,
by Dad.

Well, he bought more goods and a little more space
And he played the system with a smile on his face.
The customers flocked to his two by four,
Soon he had to rustle for a regular store.

Up on the Square where the people pass
He gobbled up a corner that was all plate glass,

He fixed up the windows with the best he had
And he told them about it in a half page Ad.

He soon had em coming, and he never quit.
And he wouldn't cut down his Ads
one bit,
And he's kept things bumping in the town ever since,
And every one calls him the Merchant
Prince.

Some say it is luck, but that's all bunk.
Why he was doing business when the times were punk.
People have to purchase, and the Geeser was wise,
For he knew the way to get 'em was
to ADVERTISE.

"Child's Eyelids Inflamed Stuck Together and Bled"

Mr. E. P. Kimball, Entwistle, Alta., writes:
"Our little girl from birth was troubled with inflamed eyelids and in spite of several remedies, grew worse until at the age of sixteen months her eyes could not be opened after sleep without bleeding, a waxy discharge sticking the lids together and adhering with great tenacity. The child's grandmothers were consulted by mail, and both responded with a little sample box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. These were used as directed, and lasted until we could obtain a further supply from Edmonton. Improvement was very marked from the first application.
The waxy discharge was easier removed and did not reappear. Inflammation subsided and has not returned."

The student had been spending somewhat too freely, and was short.
It was near the holidays and he had
home, the suit was still unredeemed.
He hurriedly scraped up cash enough to get it back, packed it in the grip and was off. His mother was helping him unpack, "Henry," she asked
"what is this ticket on your coat for?" "Why, mother, he replied, "I went to a dance the other evening and had my coat checked." She continued putting away his garments, ed to write home for money. As a last resort he pawned his dress suit.

When the time came to leave for
home, the suit was still unredeemed.

Tonic Treatment
For Indigestion

The Surest Way to Relieve Stomach Trouble is Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

When the stomach is feeble and food lies in it undigested, the poisonous gases "distend the walls of the stomach and cause serious indigestion and with the other organs, especially with the action of the heart and lungs. These poisonous gases are absorbed by the blood and so weaken and corrupt it as to cause aches in remote parts of the body and the formation of unhealthy tissue everywhere. Experience shows that these troubles vanish just as soon as the stomach is made strong enough to digest the food. In other words, it needs a tonic that will enable it to do the work of changing the food into nourishment. The tonic used ought to be one that will agree with the most delicate stomach and this is exactly what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do.

Here is a bit of convincing proof given by Mrs. Chas. Ladner, Ellerslie, P. E. I., who says:—"For some years I was a sufferer from stomach trouble. Everything I ate caused distress, sour stomach, and belching. I could not eat meat or potatoes, and I grew weak and very nervous. No medicine seemed to help me until I was persuaded to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these simply worked wonders. I took the pills faithfully for a couple of months, by which time every symptom of my trouble had disappeared, and there has not since been the slightest symptom of stomach trouble. No wonder I praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MADE FOLKS GO TO CHURCH

Out of the strife over Church Union at least one good thing has come. It has deepened the loyalty of Presbyterians to the Church of their fathers.

From all over eastern Canada come reports that men who have been neglected in attendance in the past are found at the services with the most gratifying regularity. Many who treated lightly their duty to attend public worship, have been aroused to a sense of their responsibility to give more of their time and effort to the work of their church. May it not be that their indifference left them largely out of the calculations of the promoters of Union, who dealt with the active membership. But when the issue became the disappearance of the church organization in which they had been reared, and its absorption under a new name, the zeal of former times was revived, and led them back to their own religious home. The continuing Presbyterians will have a membership of about 76,000. That must be a vital force in the life of the country. The question arises, how long will these presently active members display their earnestness and give their effort and means to support the old church. And what will be the tendency of the next generation. There will be a certain appeal from the United Church to which numbers will succumb. They will be the friends and relatives whose influence, exerted unconsciously, perhaps, will have its effect in gradually bringing about a more complete union on this possible today. This act—ties so noticeable now will be so noticeable by then, and ultimately there will be a broad union of Protestantism that will embrace the other churches. That is the trend over in England where the Anglican Church is established. It ought to come more quickly in Canada.—Ex.

Sheik of Mena Village Host to Canadians

Photographed above are Nasr Enani Khattab, who recently succeeded his father as sheik of Mena Village, and Deane H. Dickason, well-known newspaperman accompanying the Canadian Pacific S.S. "Empress of France" on cruise of the world, who sent the following interesting dispatch covering the caravan trip of the Canadian and American tourists, and the death of their host, Enani Khattab (right).

"Thirty-two of us left Cairo by river steamer, debarking sixteen miles up the Nile at Bedouin, whence we journeyed by camel, donkey and sand-cart through Old Memphis and its necropolis Sakkara, an other sixteen miles out on the Lybian desert. There a Bedouin camp was pitched. We ate Bedouin food, listened to Bedouin music and watched Bedouin dancers far into the night. We did not reach camp until 8 o'clock the last two hours' riding having been made in the light of the moon. At midnight the moon was at eclipse. Our host, Enani Khattab, undoubtedly the most popular and probably the most wealthy of the Bedouin sheiks of Egypt, had been laughing, dancing and conversing with the rest of us. At one he went to his village, Mena, at the base of the Pyramids, to rest prior to returning with us to Cairo the next morning.

He was conversing with his young daughter when he was seized with an attack of the heart and died almost instantly. His son Nasr, 24, popular and handsome dragonman, who had guided us from Cairo to the camp, succeeds him as sheik of the Mena Village, with about 6,000 inhabitants. The guests were permitted to finish their breakfast before the news was broken to them. We returned—an humble horde, saddened and grieving—after a night of exquisite adventure. More than 10,000 attended his funeral in the quaint little village among them a considerable number of our passengers who had grown to respect and admire Enani after a few short hours' with him. He spoke seven languages and in a gentle, well modulated voice that must have earned him great reverence from his subjects, who as sheik-mayor, police magistrate, justice of the peace, city council, at all—he ruled nobly and well.

A PERSONAL AFFAIR

After all, religion is first of all a personal matter. It is not an abstraction, a form, a fashion; it is a question as to how we stand before God. Afterward it is a question of witnessing to that salvation so other men in sin, in failure and ruin may hear the glad news—the Gospel—and themselves be delivered. Is it not a mistake to dispute that witnessing by so many other things? The world is filled with those other things. The world will attend to that. Ours in the church is a specialty. Why are we not more loyal to it, more inspired in the telling of it, more consumed with the passion to make that witness known to others?

The robins have returned showing that they have no doubt as to the future of this country. 28-31p

When you pull down the town in which is your home, you are pulling down yourself; and when you build up your town, you are building up yourself and your neighbor. Try and banish from your mind the mistaken idea that all good things are away off in some other locality. Give your town all the praise it can legitimately bear. It certainly will do you no harm and will cost you nothing; and above all patronize your home institutions—including the printing office.

Bill Nye had the truth well told when he said: "A man may use a wart on the back of his neck for a collar button; ride on the back coach of a railroad train to save interest on money (in the conductor gets around); stop his watch at night to save wear and tare; leave his" or "or" without dot or cross to save ink; pasture his mother's grave to save corn; but a man of this sort is a scholar compared to a scholar compared to the fellow that will take a newspaper for two or three years and when asked to put it into the office and has it marked "refused".

REAL CAUSE FOR REGRET

The other day a "country weekly" closed up shop, after an existence of thirty years.

The item recording the happening had the bare announcement, and a few words intimating that the country weekly "is passing."

Not one word of regret! And, yet, that little old newspaper did more for that small community than all the financiers, promoters, efficiency experts, politicians and other big fellows who have been in and out of the place in the last thirty years.

It is quite probable that every inhabitant of the locality owes that little old paper a debt of gratitude—and, possibly, a good many of those who have come and gone in the thirty years owe it other debts, which may have something to do with the "passing" of the paper.

A country weekly may not be the life-blood of its territory, but it has very much to do with the lubrication required to keep things moving.

The local paper is the clearing house of the community. There's more real news in a column of its items than in a page of the horrors, near horrors, bunk sensations, and fabrications that decorate the front pages of most of the city papers.

It is a hopeless community that is without some pride in itself, and so dumb as to forget that the last place upon which the shutters should be allowed to go up is the front window of the local newspaper office.

The town which permits such a happening goes automatically into the list of the dead ones.

There are always people who try to use the newspaper as a medium to thrust the knife into some person they do not care for. This is one of the smallest acts known in the civilized world.

FLOWERS! WE HANDLE ORDERS FOR FLOWERS OF ALL KINDS, PROMPTLY. CHARGES SAME AS WHEN ORDERED DIRECT. MRS. F. H. ROOP.

We had a regular old winter's snow storm on Monday of this week. Mr. D. B. Foster was in our office that day and informed us that exactly 21 years ago, the 30th of April we had just such a storm. Guess history repeats itself.

The Town of Middleton and District contributed in cash $200.25 to the Cape Breton relief, which was divided between Sydney Mines and Glace Bay. Letters have been received thanking the Town of Middleton and District for the help. Collections were carried on through organizations of the Churches.

Mr. John Martin who has been at the Memorial Hospital for some time was taken to his home last week, and we are glad to report, is progressing very nicely. Mrs. Martin too, has been very ill, and her many friends will be pleased to learn that she is also on the mend. Mrs. Payson of Torbrook is caring for the household at present.

When you pull down the town in which is your home, you are pulling down yourself and when you build up your town, you are building up yourself and your neighbor. Try and banish from your mind the mistaken idea that all good things are away off in some other locality. Give your town all the praise it can legitimately bear. It certainly will do you no harm and will cost you nothing; and above all patronize your home institutions including the printing office.

Bill Nye has the truth well told when he said: "A man may use a wart on the back of his neck for a collar button; ride on the back coach of a railroad train to save interest on his money; till the conductor gets around; stop his watch at night to save wear and tare; leave his 'no' or 'it' without a dot or cross to save ink; pasture his mother's grave to save corn; but a man of this sort is a gentleman and a scholar compared to the fellow that will take a newspaper or two or three years and when asked to pay for it puts it into the office and has it marked 'refused'."

REAL CAUSE FOR REGRET

The other day a "country weekly" closed up shop, after an existence of thirty years.

The item recording the happening had the bare announcement, and a few words intimating that the country weekly "is passing."

Not one word of regret! And yet, that little old newspaper did more for that small community than all the financiers, promoters, efficiency experts, politicians and other big fellows who have been in and out of the place in the last thirty years.

It is quite probable that every inhabitant of the locality owes that little old paper a debt of gratitude — without some pride in itself, and so and, possibly, a good many of those who have come and gone in the thirty years owe it other debts, which may have something to do with the "passing" of the paper.

A country weekly may not be the life-blood of its territory, but it has very much to do with the lubrication required to keep things moving.

The local paper is the clearing house of the community. There's more real news in a column of its items than in a page of the horrors, near horrors, bunk sensations, and fabrications that decorate the front pages of most of the city papers.

It is a hopeless community that is, honest only because they are watched,

Tonic Treatment For Indigestion

The Surest Way to Relieve Stomach Trouble is Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

When the stomach is feeble and food lies in it undigested, the poisonous gases "distend the walls of the stomach and cause serious interference with the other organs, and especially with the action of the heart and lungs. These poisonous gases have their ill effects on the formation of unhealthy tissue everywhere. Experience shows that these troubles vanish just as soon as the stomach is made strong enough to digest the food. In other words, it needs a tonic that will enable the stomach to change the food into nourishment. The tonic used ought to be one that will agree with the delicate stomach and this is exactly what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do.

Here is a story of convincing proof given by Mrs. Chas. Ladner, Ellerslie, P. E. I., who says:—"For some years I was suffering from stomach trouble. Everything I ate caused distress, sour stomach, and belching. I could not eat meat or potatoes, and grew weak and very nervous. No medicine seemed to help me until I was persuaded to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these simply worked wonders. I took the pills faithfully for a couple of months, by which time every symptom of the trouble had disappeared, and there has not since been the slightest return of stomach trouble. No wonder I praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills!"
You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Our community has suffered from the ravages of influenza. We are glad to state that all the victims are on the road to recovery. Mr. Phineas Whitman was probably the most severe sufferer, and is still very weak.

Mrs. F. B. Dunlap of Sydney Mines accompanied by her sons, Arthur and Clarence of Acadia College, spent the Easter holidays at the home of E. J. Whitman. Owing to the illness of her father, Mrs. Dunlap will remain here for a short time.

MADE FOLKS GO TO CHURCH

Out of the strife over Church Union at least one good thing has come. It has deepened the loyalty of Presbyterians to the Church of their fathers. From all over eastern Canada come reports that men who have been neglectful in attendance in the past have found at the services with the most gratifying regularity. Many who treated lightly their duty to attend public worship, have been aroused to a sense of their responsibility to give more of their time and effort to the work of their church. May it not be that their indifference left them largely out of the calculations of the promoters of Union, who dealt with the active membership. But when the issue became the disappearance of the church organization, in which they had been reared, and its absorption under a new name, the zeal of former times was revived, and led them back to their own religious home. The continuing Presbyterians and give their effort and means to support the old body. And what will be the tendency of the next generation. There will be a certain apathy from the Union church to which numbers will succumb. They will have friends and relatives there whose influence, exerted unconsciously, perhaps, will have its effect in gradually bringing about a more complete union of the two bodies. But the activities so noticeable now will be softened by time, and ultimately there will be a broader range of Protestantism that will embrace the other churches. That is the trend over in England where the Anglican church is established. It ought to come more quickly in Canada.—Ex.

THOSE FOOLISH QUESTIONS

The poor man was in terrible straits. He had fallen through a coal-hole from some foolish coalman had left uncovered, and as a result he lay groaning on the floor with a sprained ankle, several bruises, and only a few lumps of coal to comfort him.
He had called for help in vain. Meanwhile the pain increased till the unfortunate man almost fainted.
After a spasm of agony he opened his eyes and saw a kindly and benevolent-looking old gentleman looking down at him.
"Dear me," remarked the kind-hearted pedestrian, "have you fallen through that coal-hole?"
"Not at all," replied the injured one sweetly, "as you appear interested, I will tell you what happened. I chanced to be in here and they built the pavement around me!"

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND

Two young women, evidently strangers to each other, were seated at the same table in a popular restaurant.
One of them had already finished her lunch, the other had just arrived and was about to begin.
The girl who had just finished leaned back in her chair, producing a silver cigarette-case and lighting up.
The other appeared to resent this and tidily enquired:
"I suppose you do not object to my getting white to you smoke?"
The first girl regarded her for a moment and then retorted brightly:
"Oh, no, not a bit, as long as I can hear the orchestra."

THE PEACEMAKER

Dean Stanley, in one of his famous sermons to the young at Westminster Abbey, on "Innocents' Day," said: "I knew once a very famous man, who lived to be very old, who lived to be eighty-eight. He was always the dearest of those about him. He always stood up for what was right. His eye was like an eagle's when it flashed fire at what was wrong. And how early do you think he began to do this? I have an old grammar which belonged to him, all tattered and torn, which he had when a little boy at school; and what do you think I found written in his own hand, in the very last page? Why, these words, 'Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace, to silence vicious tongues—be just, and fear not.' That was his character all through life, and he was loved and honored down to the day when he was carried to his grave."

When we "pass on" we will leave behind what we have, and take with us what we are.

Remove the skin that comes next to the fat on mutton before you cook it as this is what gives the strong disagreeable flavor to the meat.

Sheik of Mena Village Host to Canadians

Photographed above are Nasr Enani Khattab, who recently succeeded his father as sheik of Mena Village, and Deane H. Dickson, well-known newspaper man accompanying the Canadian Pacific S.S. "Empress of France" on cruise of the world, who sent the following interesting dispatch covering the caravan trip of the Canadian and American tourists and the death of their host, Enani Khattab (right).
"Thirty-two of us left Cairo by river steamer, debarking sixteen miles up the Nile at Bedouin. We journeyed by camel, donkey and sand-cart through Old Memphis and the necropolis of Sakara, another sixteen miles out on the Libyan desert. There a Bedouin camp was pitched. We ate Bedouin food, listened to Bedouin music and watched Bedouin dancers far into the night. We did not reach camp until 8 o'clock the last two hours' riding having been made in the light of the moon. At midnight the moon was at eclipse. Our host, Enani Khattab, undoubtedly the most popular and probably the most wealthy of the Bedouin sheiks of Egypt, had been laughing, joking and conversing with the rest of us. At one he went to his village, Mena, at the base of the Pyramids, to rest prior to returning to us to Cairo the next morning."
