Russo-American Propositions

Regarded With Suspicion by the Press of Old London.

Disposition to Distrust Li Hung Chang-Comments of the Leading Newspapers-Text of Russia's Official Note to the Other Powers.

London, Friday, Aug. 31-3:20 a.m.- | The telegraph is working from Aguin The Russo-American "surprise," as it the advance were three officers and 22 morning papers. While Russia's part in the proposal is regarded with considerable suspicion, it is generally recognized that the flight of the empress dowager and the emperor renders the situation extremely difficult, and, therefore, that it might be wise to adopt the Russo-American programme as the best solution of the problem. At the same time, a very

a more vigorous line of policy. VARIOUS VIEWS. The Daily Graphic says: "The United States are almost morbidly anxious to wash their hands of the Chinese to hear that their anxiety is shared by Russia. With the possible excepdictate to other powers a far eastern to the American representative in pelicy, insuring the accomplishment of China in the spirit of the Russian note. Russian designs, which would be greatly facilitated by the acceptance of Li Hung Chang as plenipotentiary. The powers should refuse to accept any intermediary or to evacuate which would be interpreted as a sign Petersburg: of weakness.'

Chang or of the Chinese authorities. The Standard says: "It is not easy to overrate the importance of the decision of the United States. The deof both Washington and Petersburg to withdraw from Pekin is very intelligible. Public opinion in America is adverse to foreign complications, while Russia has discovered that conditions are not propitious for her schemes of conquest. the necessary large army, and wants the Trans-Siberian Railway completed before she can stretch her arms over Northern Asia. The powers must, how-ever, retain their hold on the capital. Withdrawal, although consistent with the dignity of the Washington government, would be quite impracticable for the others. It would be counted as a triumph by the anti-foreign party in China. The Daily News says: "Considering that the empress dowager openly en-couraged the attacks upon the foreigners, the suggestion that the imperial personages are about to return to Pekin is rather startling, and the latest development of Russian diplomacy requires explanation at least." The Daily Telegraph observes: "Acceptance of Li Hung Chang is almost the only thing that the allies can do. His intervention would undoubtedly make for peace. It is pretty clear that unless statesmen can do something to relieve the tension, affairs, so far as the military can deal with them, have arrived at a deadlock."

The Times makes no comment upon the Russian proposals.

NOTES FROM PEKIN.

According to the Pekin correspondent of the Daily Mail, writing Aug. 15, when on the approach of the allies the Tsung Li Yamen asked an interview with the besieged, four of the ministers opposed and seven favored complying with the request. An appointment was made for the next day, but the Chinese ministers did not come. During the siege every scrap of metal, including candlesticks and ornaments, was converted into am-munition. Ten thousand sandbags were made of silk brocade material, valued at $5 per bag. Sir Claude Macdonald, the British minister, sent a message recommending the water gate for the entry of the troops.

PANIC AT AMOY.

There is a great panic in Amoy, according to the Hong Kong correspondent of the Daily Mail, writing yesterday, owing to the landing of the Japanese. The Chinese are looting indiscriminately.

The British cruiser Isis will land 60 marines at the British concession at Amoy today. The transport Formosa will proceed to Taku, though the commander of the British force at Pekin wires that he does not require any more troops, except cavalry.

The Japanese consul at Amoy has been assured by the Chinese authorities of their readiness to afford full protection to the foreign residents and their property at that port, and it is said that the Japanese Government have already ordered the withdrawal of the marines detailed to protect the Japanese property in the native town, and are prepared to withdraw the rest of the marines as soon as they are satisfied the peace and order of the

Suggestions

London, Aug. 30 .- The officials of the foreign office informed a representative of the Associated Press this afternoon that Russia has made cerstrong feeling is displayed in favor of tain suggestions relative to China, but they were unwilling to consent to their publication at present.

Washington, Aug. 30. - The course of the United States in the pending Chinese negotiations was made more clear today by an important note, embarrassment. This has long been embodying a communication from apparent. But it is rather surprising Russia and advising the powers of the action taken by the government. The Russian note declared the interdiction by Russia. ### THE RUSSIAN NOTE. Telegram sent to the representatives of the United States in Berlin, Vienna, Paris, London, Rome, Tokio and St.

"Department of State, Washington, The Daily Express and the Daily Aug. 24, 1900 .- The following note was Chronicle protest against placing any received by us from the charge of the reliance on the professions of Li Hung Russian Government at this capital, Aug. 17: "I have fust received a communica tion from the imperial government informing me of the resolution of the admirals of the allied fleets interdicting the plenipotentiary of the Chinese Government, Li Hung Chang, from all communication with the Chinese authorities in the event of his arrival at Taku. This resolution being inexplicable, in view of the fact that all powers have recognized the utility of admitting his (Li Hung Chang's) services in the eventful negotiations for peace, and especially because it would be impossible for him to fulfill his mission in the character of plenipotentiary. If this were done, it would be desirable that the interested governments should give orders to countermand the above ## mentioned decision."

WHAT REMY SAYS. "Inquiry of Admiral Remy, com-manding our fleet at Taku, was first answered that no such resolution had been adopted. He now cables that the admirals have agreed to write the dean of the legations at Pekin instructions, in case Li Hung Chang Gedacht. We have occupied Watervalshould arrive at Taku, and meantime not to allow him to communicate with the Chinese shore authorities. Remey dissented from the last proposition. AGREE WITH RUSSIA.

"We take the same view expressed in the Russian note. In the interests of peace, and the effective presentation of the just demands of all the powers against China, it seems important that the Chinese plenipotentiary should be able to communicate both with his own government and its military commandant, whose action will be sary to the suspension of hostilities as required in my telegram to you of the The Chinese minister here is without power or advice. Li Hung Chang is, prima facie, authorized by imperial decree to negotiate, and is the only representative of responsible authority now in China, so far as we are advised. We have instructed our representative in China in the spirit of the Russian note. Any misunderstanding or divergent action on the subject the representatives of the powers in China would be unfortunate, and we would be glad to learn from other powers if there are reasons not known to us which, in their judgment, should lead to a view different from that which we take. You will communicate this to the minister of foreign affairs. Awaiting early response. (Signed) Adee, acting."

THE PROPOSAL TO WITHDRAW FROM PEKIN.

The state department has dispatched its instructions to the United States diplomatic representatives abroad in conformity with the decision reached yesterday by the cabinet upon the Russian proposal to withdraw the troops in Pekin in order to allow the empress dowager and Emperor Kwang Su to return to the capital to institute negotiations for a settlement with the powers. All of these steps are matters of common agreement, so it was not possible for two of the nations concerned (Russia and the United States) to make agreements between themselves, at this stage, at least, as it is necessary to advise each of the governments represented in China of the various propositions as they are

The remainder of the conditions, namely, those looking to the future protection of American interests, are yet to be complied with. A Glencoe syndicate is negotiating for the purchase of some property on the shores of Lake Erie, to be converted into a summer resort.

The death occurred at Glencoe Wednesday morning of Elizabeth Ann, wife of Mr. George Long, aged 32 years and 9 days. Mrs. Long had been ill for about two years with consumption of the bowels. She was a daughter of Mr. Malcolm Root, of Weidman, and went to Glencoe with her husband and

An awful accident occurred at the home of Wellington Fisher, in South Caradoc, the other morning, costing the life of his bright little daughter, Greta May, aged 2 years, 5 months and 13 days. When Mrs. Fisher started to light the morning fire the little one, eager to help, lit a match and set a piece of paper blazing. ### FISTIC.

BETT. New York, Aug. 30 .- The long-promised and long-looked-for meeting between James J. Corbett and Charles (Kid) McCoy, took place under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club at Madison Square Garden, and in less than five rounds Corbett proved himself to be the better man. Keen judges of the game who saw tonight's fight declare that it was the cleverest exhibition ever witnessed in the ring. Up to the inoment that the men stepped into the squared oircle, opinions as to their respective ability were widely divergent. Many claimed, with his hands, eyes and feet as the former champion, and in addition to this they said that the "Kid" could towards his corner, where his seconds abs, he did bett's skin, nor did he land a single On the other hand, Corbett, to slug, landed hard rights and lefts, which simply took McCoy's guard away, and when Corbett found a vulnerable spot in the region of McCoy's heart, two lefts, divided by a right, ended the battle. Both men entered the ring in superb condition. McCoy was heavier by several pounds than any previous occasion when he battle against other opponents. He said himself that he never felt better fit as he was for this contest. Corbett was also in tip-top shape; the rumors that were circulated early in the day that Corbett was afflicted with rheumatism were exaggerated, as Corbett himself said he was as fit as a fiddle, and had only experienced a little stiffness when he awoke this morning. In the opening round Mc-Coy showed up to much better advantage than Corbett. McCoy seemed very confident, though careful, while Corbett was nervous and ill at ease. McCoy started out with his usual coolness, but Corbett was fidgety. The round was taken up with the cleverest kind of feinting and sparring on Mc-Coy's part, while Corbett's work left wery little to be desired. In the second round Corbett came up in better form, and his uneasy feeling had evidently left him, and he gave an exhibition which could only be given by a man thoroughly posted in the innermost points of the scientific art of boxeither in the first round, the greater part of the second was equally as unfruitful of damage to either boxer.

In the third they got to each of the second round, and it was in the other oftener, but it was in the fourth that Corbett began to take McCoy's measure. At times Corbett stopped his scientific work and resorted to slugging practices, which proved very effective. McCoy was forced to clinch, and it was then seen Ex-Champion Corbett Much the that Corbett was getting the upper hand. McCoy had to break ground frequently, and after the bell sent them to their corners both men looked fatigued. McCoy was very weary. In the fifth and concluding round Corbett forced McCoy into the former's corner, where the Kid kept blocking and sparring for an opening to get out. Corbett swung for the head, but McCoy ducked underneath it very cleverly and jumped to the center of the ring. Jim rushed him across the oflor of the ring, and by clever work About $15,000 - Results of Racing on Many Tracks - Easeball Scores in to the Kid's head. This was the beginning of McCoy's undoing. Corbest went to him, using both hands, swinging and stabbing and occasionally upper cutting with the left. Mc-Coy's defense availed him little against MCCOY KNOCKED OUT BY COR- this onslaught, and Corbett soon had the "Kid" at his mercy. McCoy was that he was no longer able to ward off the big fellow's blows and threw his arms across his face holding his head down in the hope of saving himself from a knock-out punch. Corbett relentless showered lefts and rights, which straightened McCoy up, and then Jim swung a left which crash-ed into McCoy's body. McCoy doubled up, and in doing so held Corbett's left glove with his right arm. Corbett then drove McCoy away from him with a right over the heart, and as the "Kid" went back staggering, Jim went after him, landing another left smash in the same spot, and the "Kid" dropped to and rightly, too, that Corbett would the floor. McCoy bravely tried to get prove to be the stronger as well as up, but these three blows had taken up, but these three blows had taken the cleverer, and it was through his all his strength away, and while he superb feinting and heavy slugging made frantic endeavors to get up that he put McCoy down and out. Charley White counted off the ominous McCoy's friends all along have claim-ed that he was equally as dexterous human effort McCoy stood up after he hit harder than Corbett. Among the Corbett followers was Terry McGovern, who made two bets of $200 to $160 on Jim. Tod Sloan sent out a commission of $1,000 to $650 on Corbett, and he was soon accommodated. Al. McCoy entered the ring accompanied by his seconds, and met with a hearty While not a blow was landed by reception when he made his appearance. He wore nothing but a pair of white cotton running pants. Both of his hands were bandaged. He looked to be in superb condition and very confident. Corbett followed in about three minutes, smiling and bowing as he passed through the crowd. As he entered the ring he passed alongside of McCoy, to whom he extended his hand, but McCoy refused to take it, and Corbett walked across the ring to his corner. This action on McCoy's part met with some hisses. Corbett was enveloped in a blue and white bath robe, which he discarded as soon as he reached his corner. He wore black trunks and had no bandages on his hands. Corbett seemed to be in fine fettle, and smiled continually, while McCoy's face wore a very serious look. Referee White entered the ring while the two pugilists with their handlers were examining the gloves in the ring. Both men examined the gloves very carefully and tried them on their hands. As soon as they had se-lected the gloves Corbett's seconds placed bandages on his hands also. Corbett said he weighed 183 pounds, but both he and McCoy looked to be about 188 and 175 respectively. The pair of gloves Corbett wore were tan color, while McCoy's were of reddish Plenty of rosin was sprinkled in both corners while the men were donning the gloves. As soon as McCoy had his gloves adjusted he walked about the ring testing the floor with his feet. The men were announced to go 25 rounds under Marquis of Queensbury rules, and as each was introduced the applause was about equal. At 10:35 the referee called the men to the center of the ring and instructed them. A moment later they advanced to the center of the ring. Just before the men began Referee White cautioned the

and Editor John Cameron

London, Friday, August 31.

"Too English!" "Not English

Enough!" La Presse, of Montreal, gives promin-ence to Sir Charles Tupper's statement that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is too English for him—too English in his ideas and political service. In this province the premier is represented as being too French. He cannot be both. Which is ? Bir Charles should make his choice. -Kingston Whig.

There is no necessity for the Opposition leader making a choice on the subect if the acts of his agents in the two rovinces mean anything. The simple acts are as stated by our contemporry. The intention is to trust to the guillibility of the electorate, and run the two opposite types of campaigns gainst Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the hope o make votes by the miserable exedient. Sir Charles Tupper assured he reporter of the paper printed in French, which was founded under his uspices, to promote his political fortunes, that Sir Wilfrid was "too English" for him. That is said in order that, without indorsing Pamphlet No. , the oppsition leader may lend his influence to the attack made against Sir Wilfrid by the opposition leaders, it eing persistently contended on platform and in the press, that Sir Wilfrid should be punished because he sent Canadians to aid Great Britain in combatting the Boers. In Ontario, as we know, the opposition programme has been to condemn Sir Wilfrid and his government because they did not move fast enough. In Quebec, the action of the government is misrepresented, and the Prime Minister and his colleagues are condemned by opposition leaders and in opposition campaign literature because he moved at all.

Judging by the fact that the opposition deems it necessary to resort to this two-faced policy, the unprejudiced citizen must reach the conclusion that the action of the Premier with regard to the contingents was just right, and such as all patriotic candidates ought to indorse. By so doing they will condemn the miserable appeals to race prejudice that are being made in both provinces in the hope that political advantage may accrue.

The Non-Voter.

The man who doesn't vote is an enemy to his neighbor, his country and himself. He is a menace to good government, a friend to corruption, a hindrance to progress. He is either a conited, supercilious snob, or a sniveling, fault-finding, thick-headed ignoramus-and in either case he's a mighty poor specimen.-Waterbury American.

might be improved upon, but if it directs attention to the lack of patriotism which characterises those members of the community who fail to go to the polls and vote for the man that they believe most likely to serve the public interests it may have beneficial effects.

The man who does not value his vote enough to record it on election day should be deprived of it.

A vote is a trust to be exercised, not to be treated with contemptuous indif-

Canada and the Paris Exhibition.

The products of Canada, whether natural or manufactured, have taken a very high place at the great international exhibition now being held in Paris, as the prizes awarded to the Dominion so far undoubtedly prove. Everyone who has visited the exhibiion has the same view as to Canada's esition in it: the exhibits are most editable, and the results likely to ace from the enterprise displayed are certainly to be widereaching and highly profitable to the people of Canada. As Hon. Mr. Tarte said on his return the Canadian exhibits have opened the eyes of Europe, and properly followed up the exhibition cannot fail to vastly improve and extend our business dealings with every country in Europe, and for that matter with most parts of the civilized world. Hon. Mr. Tarte has very modestly protested against being personally credited with the results uchieved, but even those who are politically opposed to him have to concede that his one thought, as honorary Canadian commissioner at the exhibition, was to promote the interests of his native land. We find in the Paris correspondence of the Montreal Gazette, the leading Conservative journal in Quebec, very strong support to the view that Canada's display at the exhibition has been a splendid self-paying one, and that the Minister of Public Works has done not a little to make it so. Says this correspondent: "Credit is due to Mr. Tarte for the recognition which Canada has obtained here among the nations. But for the stand taken by him and before his Canada, the bulk of her exhibits would have been scattered and lost sight of among the various sections. As they are now altogether (with a few exceptions), they make a brave show. I have already remarked on the iamentable absence of Greater Britain and the comparative insignificance of the collection of British exhibits here in almost every section of the exhibition. This, of course, is not the fault of the exhibition authorities."

There has been some attempt on the part of opposition politicians to stir up prejudice against the present government, because of the manner in which the Canadian affairs at the exhibition have been managed, but such testimony as this, coming as it does from a far from friendly source, ought to effectively discredit the misrepresentations of these unfair critics.

When Laurier and Tupper begin their big speaking, this will happen: Laurier will say the right thing, every time; while nearly every time, Tupper will put his foot into it up to the

The British and foreign trade of Canada was $239,000,000 in 1896 and $372,-000,000 in 1900, an increase of $133,000,000 in four years. In the whole eighteen years of Conservative administration the trade increased by $66,000,000, or one-half of the increase of the last

The St. Marys Argus (R. W. Dillon, manager and editor) is well named. The Argus of St. Marys is always alert, and nothing | Belfact, Aug. 28: of interest to its district is overlooked.

As Canada now grows nearly everything, it is not surprising that it "growed" two of the best war correspondents of modern battlefields in Messrs. Hamilton and Ewan, of the Toronto Globe. The work by the latter in the Spanish-American war, and by both in South Africa, has not been surpassed anywhere. The Advertiser salutes them as a credit to their pro-

Discussing Mr. Smalley's eulogy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Montreal Witness says: "Sir Wilfrid Laurier, as a French-Canadian, of whom French Canadians are justly proud, was able to secure the dispatch of the contingents with the least possible amount of racial friction. This is what the Times correspondent points out in his letter; and it was pointed out by the Witness at the time the contingents were sent and again when the matter was debated in the Dominion Parliament. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the leader of the French-Canadians, and all but a few followed his lead in this matter. Mr. Bergeron, Mr. Casgrain and Mr. Monk, all Conservatives, supported the sending of the contingents as loyally and patriotically as Sir Wilfrid, and would have supported Sir Charles Tupper had he been in power in sending the contingents. But would any one of all of these French-Canadian Conservative leaders have exercised one-half the effective influence which Sir Wilfrid Laurier as Premier was able to exercise? To ask the question is to answer it. But the division on Mr. Bourassa's motion, in which as many Conservatives as Liberals voted with Mr. Bourassa, proves that the united influence of the French Conservative leaders over their very small Tunisian with 13 invalided Canadians, party was not anything like as effec- is expected in port about 6 o'clock totive as Sir Wilfrid's over the Liberals. This language is pretty severe, and It was certainly a most fortunate thing for Canada, for Great Britain, for the whole empire, and for the cause of Imperialism, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the Premier of Canada during the past

A Criminal Campaign.

[Hamilton Times.]

There is something humiliating and repulsive in the Tory proposal to conduct a campaign on the proposal to demand from Great Britain something more than the free and welcome ad-mission of our goods, and the protection of her fleets and armies, in return for more liberal treatment under our tariff than we give the world, friendly or hostile. The hedging of the Tory leaders shows that they feel the pro-posal is debasing to Canadian manhood. In a word we say to Britain:
"We are spongers. We want you to

We prate about loyalty, but when it comes to treating you better than we treat our enemies, our loyalty won't stand the strain. are not ashamed to take your protection and enjoy your free markets while we try to bleed you to the utmost." No honorable Tory, looking at the question | Ryerson said: fairly can with self-respect approve such a mendicant, dead-beat campaign. BOTHA FLITS.

The attempted British enveloping movement at Machadodorp has apparently not succeeded. Gen. Botha has gone north with the Lydenburg road open. Gen. French is nearest to him, with better mounts than he has had hitherto in the campaign, and there may be an exciting pursuit. The country is difficult, and fever is following the rains. Gen. Botha claims to have 15,000 men, of whom 5,000 will fight until death. President Kruger is reported to be at Watervalonder, sticking to the railway. A LONG MARCH

Pretoria, Aug. 30.-The force of Gen. Baden-Powell and Hickman's Mounted Infantry are holding Warm Baths, 60 miles north of Pretoria. Gen. Ian Hamilton and Col. Mahon had only two days' rest last month. He made many long marches, and took 12 prisoners a day on an average.

THE BRITISH HOSPITALS. Toronto, Aug. 31.—Mr. Burdett-Coutts, M.P., who gained notoriety in England through his exposure of alleged scandals in the treatment of the sick and wounded in South Africa, has taken upon himself to reply to Dr. Ryerson's defense of British hospital administration during the present campaign. He says: "Why, if Dr. Ryerson had unlimited resources at his command at Bloemfontein, did he not have the hospitals supplied with the many things they needed? Dr. Ryerson's statement. further claims, "has been contradicted by the remarks in the House of Commons of Mr. George Wyndham, parliamentary under secretary of state for war, acknowledging the very great difficulty encountered in the transport of hospital supplies up country during the progress of the war." DR. RYERSON'S REPLY. On being shown these remarks, Dr.

I then continuited much that Burdett-Coutts had said, and I also stated that Mr. Coutts had visited my depot, but had made no remark to me whatever, either of the condition of the depot, quantity of stores or condition of the hospitals. AT THE EAST. Mr. Archie Campbell and Mrs. Campbell are in Ottawa on their way home from a month's trip east. Mr. Campbell has for some time past been urged by a large circle of friends in and about Toronto to contest West York against N. Clarke Wallace. old friends in Kent, and he had not yet come to a decision. During his trip east Mr. Campbell visited most of the business centers in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Everywhere he found the most unquestionable evidence of prosperity. "Why," he said, "to get accommodaton at the hotels I had to telegraph ahead in almost every case. Prosperity and satisfaction with the existing order of things are everywhere apparent. From what I can find out, Mr. Fielding and Mr. Blair will each come back with an increased following. I was not in Prince Edward Island, but I under-stand that the chances of the Liberals are also improving there."

Mr. Lavergne, when asked his opinion, said: sweep things down there. Their number will be considerably increased. This is not simply an impression, it is a conviction with me. As for myself, my constituency seems favorably disposed towards me, and there should be no difficulty there." AT THE WEST

Lieut.-Col. J. M. Gibson, the attorney-general of Ontario, in speaking of the political situation, remarked that the feeling in Western Ontario was exceptionally good, and was, moreover, growing in the right direction. The Ross government was strong in the approval of the people, and would continue so. With reference to Dominion politics; he could speak with a knowledge of facts that assured him of the strong hold on the minds of the people which Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his government now enjoy. ## WALKED THE CARPET

Ald. Frank Plant Spends an Anxious Quarter of an Hour Before a Tribunal of His Fellow-Employes.

When it became known that Ald. Frank J. Plant had received an appointment in the Department of Labor at Ottawa, his fellow-employes of The London Advertiser felt that he should not be permitted to depart without being made aware of the sentiments entertained toward him, because of his pleasant relations with them in the past. A bill of charges against him was accordingly formulated, and at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the worthy alderman was arraigned before his fellow-workmen, while Foreman Lewis Clark, of The Advertiser job department, read the following address:

Ald. Frank J. Plant: Dear Fellow-Craftsman,-The undersigned, your fellow-workers in the various departments of The London Advertiser, have heard with pleasure of your appointment to a responsible position in the Department of Labor at Ottawa, and while regretting your departure from our midst, we desire to tender you our heartiest congratulations on your well-merited promotion.
For twenty-three years you have been our associate, during which time your sterling uprightness, amiable disposition and gentlemanly deportment have won for you our highest esteem; and the agreement agreement to the coast, who went out on strike one month ago, returned to work on thursday. The schedules of the machinists, the allied mechanics, and the conganized and others are in process of incubation. we are confident that in departing, you leave behind none but the sincerest friends and well-wishers for your future prosperity Your record in the ranks of labor is one to be proud of, and we can heartily testify to your untiring efforts for many years on behalf of the workers of all ranks, and the good that has resulted therefrom. Such constant application to the cause has well adapted you for the position which you are about to assume; and while local labor organizations may feel your loss keenly, we have no doubt that the working classes in general throughout our fair Dominion will be greatly benefited by your wise counsels, and the exercise of that mature judgment of which we all know you are possessed.

It is unnecessary to review your record at this time. It stands out boldly in grand results achieved, and will remain indelibly printed in the history of progress in the circles of labor.

Before taking leave of you we would ask your acceptance of this travelingcase, as a slight expression of our esteem for you; and we hope that in your many journeyings in the performance of your arduous duties, it may serve as a reminder of the friends you leave behind in The Advertiser. We shall miss you.

LOCAL GAME ON LABOR DAY. London's rejuvenated and much-improved team will meet the champion Alerts of St. Marys on the afternoon of Labor Day, at Tecumseh Park, The match was arranged this morning, and the local team had to give the Alerts a big guarantee to come. On Monday the home team will have the assistance help to the defense, and with Forrest. Kelleher and Smith to help him out, they will make the St. Marys home think hard. London's home division will be much stronger than it was against Brantford last Wednesday, and they will have a couple of the fastest fielders in this end of the country to keep things going. This will be, wi out doubt, the hardest struggle of the season, as the two teams are strong rivals, and both are out to win. After the excellent showing that London made against Brantford the chances of the home team look rosy indeed, and London is picked to win out. The game will be called at 2:30 sharp.

The Morris Goldstein inquest at Toronto has been adjourned for a week.

On account of the increased mechanical cost of production, and especially because of the seriously enhanced cost of white news printing paper, to the extent of almost doubling, the cost, the publishers of the daily newspapers of the city find it imperatively necessary to make a slight advance in the prices of their publications, to which they believe the public will readily agree, as both reasonable and moderate in the circumstances.

-Dr. Paton, the venerable missionary who is to occupy the pulpits of the First Presbyterian Church in the morning and St. Andrew's in the evening of next Sabbath, is one of the most prominent and picturesque figures in the world of foreign missions. His appearance is most attractive: his long years of heroic toil among the natives of the New Hebrides testify to his ardent spirit and consuming zeal. As he is well up in the seventies it is unlikely that another opportunity will be given to the people of London to hear him tell the story of his life-work, and young and old should take advantage of his visit to London. The surplus offering is to be handed to Dr. Paton for the furtherance of his work, and it hoped that those who hear him will be generous.

During the evening Mr. Foot was presented with a handsome gold watch, accompanied with the best wishes from the club for his success in his new sphere. Although much surprised, Mr. Foot heartily thanked the club, and said that although he was going away to live beneath the Stars and Stripes, he would always love the Union Jack, and long remember the club and its pleasant associations, and hoped that although far away, he would be able to come back occasionally and renew old acquaintances. # THE PAPERS

At the American-Russian Scheme Regarding Pekin.

The Imperial Summer Palace Captured -Native Newspapers in Canton Suppressed by the Viceroy.

London, Aug. 31.-The afternoon papers today appear to be perplexed at the prompt evacuation of Pekin. They point out how completely this upsets preconceived notions of how the powers would be grouped on the Chinese question. The consensus of editorial opinion is that the proposals are antagonistic to British interests, and that the allies should remain in Pekin until the Chinese government shall be re-established and the ringleaders of the present uprising punished. The Globe accuses the United States of breaking the concord of the powers and playing into the hands of Russia against Great Britain, by supporting the suggestion of the employment of Li Hung Chang, who, the paper declares, is notoriously hostile to Great Britain and friendly to Russia. Globe urges that the British government oppose to the uttermost the evacuation of Pekin, in which course, the paper adds, it will be supported by Emperor William of Germany.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.-Gen. The Russian artillerymen have also unearthed at Pekin 30 cannon and many rifles. A large quantity of silver was found at the Tsung Yamen.

Washington, Aug. 31.-The Chinese negotiations remain at the same point that they occupied yesterday. It is stated that no conclusion has been reached as to the last phase—namely, the Russian proposal of withdrawal; also as to the proposition to recognize Li Hung Chang as an envoy the negotiations remain at a standstill. is reason to believe, however, that the way has been opened for the settlement of this latter question at the proper time on the basis of the Japanese proposition, which is that Li Hung Chang be reinforced by Prince Ching and the viceroys of the two great southern provinces, Nanking and Hankow.

Sample of Duplication in the Northumberland Ridings.

Political Possibilities in Some Eastern and Central Ontario Ridings.

A comparison of the voters' lists for the ridings used at the last Dominion and Provincial elections respectively indicates the extent of the duplicate and non-resident vote in East and West Northumberland, which may be taken as fair samples of other constituencies of a similar character. the same population and boundaries, the number of voters on the list in East Northumberland for Dominion purposes was 7,818, and for Provincial purposes 6,304. For the west riding there were 3,755 names on the list for Provincial purposes, and 4,743 under the Dominion franchise act, which the Laurier government repealed. In each riding the voters under the franchise act exceeded by nearly 30 per cent the number of voters who, under the oneman-one-vote principle, Provincial lists. To that extent it re-presents the duplicate and non-resident vote, which has now been eliminated.

LIBERALS HOPE TO WIN NIPIS-

SING. Nipissing, which was created in 1892, is represented by Mr. J. B. Klock, who defeated Mr. Conmee in 1896 by a large majority. He has recently disposed of his large interest in lumbering and other industries, and is not nearly as strong in the riding as formerly. With a strong candidate the Liberals expect to be able to wipe out the majority recorded against them at the last election. PROBABILITIES. In the tier of counties embracing Hastings and Prince Edward on the east and Simcoe on the west including Nipissing and Muskoka, there are twenty constituencies. Of these seats ten are held by Conservatives, six by Liberals, three by independents, and one (South Simcoe) is vacant, but was until recently represented by a Con-servative. Of the seats held by Conservatives in the present parliament, the Liberals confidently believe in their ability to redeem at least four-East and West Northumberland, Nipissing and East Simcoe. In all these counties agriculture is the principal industry, with some lumbering in the northern districts and a good sprinkling of manufactures in the thriving towns along the front and at several other points. In all these constituencies the farmers have found the demand for their products greater, the exports of farm products to Great Britain have been increased by leaps and bounds, so that the record of four years has equaled the record of eighteen years of Conservative rule, and the merchants and manufacturers have shared in the general buoyancy of trade, and with the farmers have enjoyed a greater measure of prosperity than ever before. There is a general leaning towards the policy which has produced such satisfactory results, and Liberal gains at the polls are certain in consequence.

The cave ceiling is not so high as that of Mammoth cave, and the geologic formations are not as wonderful as those of Luray, but it has many attractions, and one in particular—the dryness of the at-mosphere—which is said to afford instant and complete relief to asthmatic people. The temperature of the cave is about 45 degrees the year round, being unaffected by the variations of the thermometer outside, but the variations of the barometer are sharply perceptible. When the mer-cury rises on the outside a current of air flows into the cave and follows a certain direction. When the glass falls this current changes and the air flows in another direction. This phenomenon has not been studied by competent meteorologists, but is so apparent that it attracted the attention of the early explorers of the canon. The effect of the air of the cave upon asthmatic people is equally peculiar. A sufferer from that disease finds immediate relief upon entering the cave, and there will be no return of the trouble for several days after. This has suggested the possibility of a permanent cure for such as can have the privilege of visiting the cave frequently, and a hotel is planned for their accommodation .- Chicago Record.

"No, dear," he at length returned, "I have reasons for thinking that such a proceeding would not be best. I will not stop to tell you now how I happen to be confined here; there will not be time for that if you must go in half an hour; but, of course, you know that when I disappeared a large amount of money disappeared with me."

"What does the world believe about it? Do people think that I absconded with it?" Louis asked, anxiously. "Some do." Margaret was forced to admit," but those who know you best believe that there was foul play, and that your father had some hand in it.' "The foulest in the world, though they are mistaken as to its author, Louis said, his face growing dark and stern. "But never mind that now," he went on; "what I wanted to tell you was, I believe that money is concealed somewhere in this building."
"In the safe." interrupted Mar

eagerly. "Oh, no, it never would have done to have put it inside this coop with me; the wretch was too cunning for that, for he could not get at it without com-ing in contact with me. But I am confident from his movements when he comes here, that it is not very far off, and, Margaret, if people believe that I have been the thief, I can never show my face until I am able to restore it to the company."

'But perhaps you can never do that," said the young girl, anxiously. "I must, the money was in my keeping. I am responsible for it," said Louis, with decision.

"Let me go for papa," Margaret pleaded, "he can at least have Arthur arrested, and he could be made to confess the whole plot."

'I am afraid that cannot be easily done, for he is made of pretty resolute stuff, as I can truthfully bear witness. I have an idea, however, that by using a little strategy. I can accomplish what I wish, and when I appear in the world again I can restore the treasure that was in my keeping."

Margaret looked greatly distressed. "Louis, I cannot bear the thought of your remaining here another hour; you have suffered enough already-you are very thin and haggard," she said, gazing wistfully into his face.

"I know it, dear," he said, smiling; "but I am no longer destitute of hope and I shall soon build up again. Now listen to what I have to propose, for much still depends upon you. The first thing I have to do is to get outside of this wretched cage."

'Yes, but how?" Margaret asked. "It will be comparatively easy now," he answered; "you have keys to this building, and can come and go at your pleasure?

"I am crazy to know how you obtained them—but never mind that now. I am going to tell you, though," he said, smiling, "to go home like a good girl and sleep to night the sleep of the just. You shall come to me every day to cheer me with the sight of your dear face, and to learn how I am progressing. Let me once discover where that treasure is contained in great or small tracts as rapidly as possible, and now his rangers are the only denizens. There are five of the mountains. discover where that treasure is concealed, then you shall notify Mr. Houghton; he can inform the police, who will, of course, immediately arrest Aspinwall, and my vindication will be shots. One of them comes to meet the shots. One of their comes to meet the complete. On the other hand, if he should have the slightest suspicion that my place of concealment had been pilgrims and looks at their permit, which is a very important piece of paper. This forester, whose name is Kearns, is a type of the rangers, goodhumored, tall and strong, well mountain the second strong and the second strong and second seco discovered, he would decamp with his ill-gotten gains before anyone could ed, with repeating rifle slung at his back, saddle bags and poncho. To him these mountain wilds are like an thousand dollars would be lost forever.
"I had expected that he would adopt extreme measures before this. I am confident, however, that he does not want to stain his hands with blood; open book, and upon him and his associates a great and incessant responsibility devolves. They must keep open the roads and the trails, see that the way of disposing of me, but I believe boundary fence, three hundred miles in length, is all right; keep out poachers, look after the game and the trout, present. No one, he believes, suspects that I am here; no one has an idea and always be on the alert for timber that he had anything to do with the stealers. The poachers would come from near and far to catch the trout, robbery, so until he begins to think of leaving Paris, I believe he will keep me a prisoner in this place. One thing, however, puzzles me," Louis con-tinued, looking perplexed, "and that is how he came to know that there was or rather to kill them by exploding dynamite cartridges in the deep pools, where the big fellows lurk; or to kill the deer, the grouse (or pheasants, as they are known popularly), or the wild turkeys. At an incredible dissuch a large sum of money in my safe. No one besides myself and the cashier tance the trained ear of the ranger will hear the explosion of dynamite, tioned it to you that evening."
"That was how he discovered it,"
Margaret said, eagerly; and then she and he tracks the offender unerringly, even into other counties, and once into Tennessee. gave her reasons for believing that Arthur was concealed behind the curtains

There are 265 miles of trail in this forest, the trails leading alongside each trout stream. There are seventy miles of road passable for wagons. Of course, he heard all our plans that night, and it must have made him desperate, while my speaking of the money gave him the very opportunity he desired. He meant to make it appear that I had absconded with it, thus getting rid of me, disgracing me forever in your sight and the ing me forever in your sight and the world's, and giving him a chance to world's, and giving him a chance to perfect and so dense is the cover that win you for himself by and by." win you for himself by and by." the deer can lie unseen only a few "I think so, too," Margaret replied, feet away. treetop eighty yards away. Though Mr. Vanderbiit is not a sportsman, but a student, yet, as stated, all things are kept ready for him. His pleasure is the pleasure of others. On his last visit he only caught one trout, nor did he fire a gun. His wife was with him. She is a good horsewoman, and rode a pony up and down the steepest trails. Under protection native trout are rapidly restocking the streams without artificial propagation. In some of the streams rainbow trout from California have been placed, but these are not so satisrich colors, and have to be quickly eaten to be palatable, while the trout of the locality, properly dressed, keep well. In the old days, before there was protection, there were caught in two days in this very forest 1,650 trout, and most of this needless slaughter —time enough for a brief outline of the occurrences of that eventful night, he was pure waste.

At Baltimore Mr. Vanderbilt has an arboretum, one of the largest in the world, and the pioneer in the United States. This was formerly under the direction of Gifford Pinchot, who is at present head forester of the United States; it is now under the direction of Dr. Schneck as forester. In this arboretum more than three hundred thousand trees and shrubs have been planted. Pisgah forest is the complement of the arboretum, and in these wild woods Dr. Schneck has a lodge where he spends much of each summer with his class. In the latter are often youths of wealth and high social position, who wish to study forestryevery step, and passed across the vesti- a study which the United States sorely needs, since so many millions are daily devoting themselves to the task of forest destruction and so few to conservation.

In it the sound of and I saw Aspinwall down on his knees man's shoeless feet on a stair at 1:30 before the safe. He had robbed me of my keys, entered the office, opened the o'clock in the morning would waken a policeman haif a mile away.

The machine is an ordinary phonograph with a trumpet about four feet long. Inside this trumpet is a mechanism resembling a steam whisle. The phonograph cylinder is of silver marked by a sapphire needle, and when this thought best to feign unconsciousness needle has traveled over the cylinder a still, thinking perhaps he might not be second time the sound waves pour out of the trumpet in a way to eclipse a steam siren. Experiments have been made at Devil's Dyke, near Brighton. The machine was placed on the roof of the shops at that place and made to re-peat a number of sentences. Ten miles away every word was intelligible. With a favoring wind an unknown message was sent from the machine and taken down in shorthand twelve miles away. Over water the sounds will carry even further.

Its adaptability is almost limitless in some directions. On a lighthouse or lightship its use would displace foghorns and detonators. On shipboard, in time of wreck or in thick fogs, meseages could be sent and warnings and advice given.

Let Sir Charles Choose.

[Toronto Star.]

In his forthcoming Ontario tour Sir Charles Tupper should everywhere explain what he meant by saying in his interview published in French in La Presse, of Montreal, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier "is too English for me, with his programme of imperial federation." Spoken under the circumstances, delivered as the message of the Conservative leader to the French-speaking = people of Quebec, the entire meaning of the message should be explained by the man who sent it. In this province we are entitled to know wherein Sir Wilfrid Laurier is "too English" to suit Sir Charles Tupper. Up here the people are well versed in the reasons why Sir Charles Tupper considers Sir Wilfrid not English enough to suit him. here.

THE ARLINGTON HOP. The Arlington Club held another of vilion last night. The Arlingtons have a reputation for doing things well, and their summer hops have given further evidence of their ability to conduct affairs of a social nature in a successful way. Last night more young people than usual attended, it was an ideal night for a dance, the music was excellent, and it was only natural, with the considerate interest in their guests' welfare shown by the club members, should have an exceedingly pleasurable evening. That the last waltz was played at midnight was by no means the least attractive feature, for by stopping so early the young people were enabled to be back in the city in good times. These hops are proving to be one of the most popular means of entertainment attempted by the Arlingtons.

Discussed the Usefulness of City Inspectors.

Engineer Defends the Inspecting System-Sidewalk Grades Complained Of - Ald, Garratt Doesn't Like "Boulders" on the Road - London West Breakwater.

A meeting of No. 2 committee was held last night. The item of $110 07 for wages for nine city works inspectors for one week provoked considerable discussion, in the course of which several aldermen talked against the system of employing inspectors, while their usefulness was as vigorously defended by Engineer Graydon. The fact that the inspector on the painting of the city bridges is costing a considerable proportion of the total ence of inspectors inferior oil might be used and the work otherwise scamped. He also said that there were half a million dollars' worth of sewers put down without inspection that were practically useless, Dundas street, for instance. Ald. Ald. Garratt complained of 'huge boulders" on the street in front of his property. It was wrong to give the engineer so much power, he said. The engineer explained that $800 or $900 had been spent this season on the block where Ald. Garratt resides, that the road had been curbed on both sides, the boulevards fixed up, and the roadway graded, graveled and rolled, "and he wants me to make him a macadam road for nothing," said the engineer. Ald. Garratt had taken upon himself to order the gravel spreader to put on more material than the engineer had instructed him. The man had done so and had been discharged by the engineer.

The sum of $1,556 was spent last year on the London breakwater. The agreement calls for the expenditure of $1,000 yearly, and Ald. Douglass wants the balance spent this year. The engineer says the breakwater is in no danger, and he is opposed to the spending of the money in "drib-The engineer will report.

Glasgow, Aug. 31.—Eleven persons are now suffering from bubonic plague, and five others have some symptoms of the plague. The post-mortem exami-nation of the body of the person who died from the plague on Aug. 27 establishes it to be bubonic plague. This has been officially announced by Dr. Chalmers, the chief medical and is supported by Prof. Muir and Dr. Brownlie. The foreign consuls are in communication with the medical authorities, and all Glasgow ships may be quarantined. United States Consul Taylor, at Glasgow, reports to the state department nine suspected cases of bubonic plague in that city, two deaths, and that the disease is spreading. Surgeon-General Wyman received the following cablegram: "Glasgow, Aug. 30.—One suspicious death, several suspicious cases plague. Bacteriological examination not yet complete. All contacts disinfected and under medical observation in crowded tenement districts. Source not traced. Arrived all right. Address telegrams care of consul.-Thomas." Surgeon Thomas is the marine hospital official in charge at London, who was ordered to proceed to Glasgow to investigate the reported outbreak of plague. Surgeon Thomas has been instructed to co-operate with the authorities at Glasgow in the inspection of vessels leaving there for the United States. Health officials at all United States ports will be unusually rigorous in their inspections of vessels arriving from Glasgow, and special instructions supplementary to the regulations governing such cases will be issued. The insidiousness of its entry into a locality is a characteristic of the dis-ease, and marine hospital officials fear the run from Buffalo to New York in a cality is a characteristic of the disthe existence of a "walking" case, or mild case of plague aboard incoming shipping more than cases of thorough infection, on account of the greater likelihood of the former passing the inspection. For this reason all inspectors of this country have been instructed to make the most thorough inspec-tion of all individuals on incoming
