Mr. Brownlee was asked if he knew anything of what had been done regarding the city's draft agreement re elevated tracks, which was sent 'to Montreal several months ago, and which has not been heard of since.

He was next questioned regarding the statements which had been made to the effect that the company had at one time brought timbers here for the purpose of using them in the construction of the track elevation through the city, but had recently removed them to Toronto.

Mr. Brownlee admitted that the timbers had been brought here, but denied that their removal to Toronto, which he admitted, could be taken to indicate that the company had given up all intention of elevating the tracks through the city.

"Yes." he said, "the company did bring some timbers to London some time ago for the purpose of using them in the construction of the overhead earth would be continually settling, track, but the Gemand for such tim- and a great deal of filling in would bers was so great that for its own con- have to be done.

the company had been raising its tracks east of Ridout street, for the purpose of easing off the grade toward the higher elevation to the west of that street Mr. Brownlee, however, denied that the rails had been raised. "Our tracks have been set and new ties put under them," Mr. Brownlee said, "but they have not been elevated more than an inch or two. This is the custom when resetting tracks, so that when they settle into the roadbed they will be at the same level as they were before being repaired."

Inspected Elevation. Mr. Brownlee inspected the elevation and found everything in good order, and the work progressing favorably. He stated that within ten days the double tracks will be in use and that the work will be practically complete. The old cove bridge, which has been used while decision. the new structure was being built, will by that time have been taken away. Mr. Brownlee, while saying that the work would be completed within ten days, stated that it would be necessary to keep a gang of men working on the elevation for some months, because the

CORONER'S INQUIRY IN RUSSELL CASE

Investigation Into the Death of Miss Russell Opens.

THE STOMACH TO BE ANALYZED

Friends of the Deceased and He Physicians Tell of the Fatal

An inquest was opened last night at the police station under Coroner Mac-Laren, in connection with the death of the late Miss Agnes Russell, who died on Wednesday, July 3, at the Brown Hotel, after a brief illness. After hearing the testimony of several witnesses, including the statements of Doctors Campbell and Mason, who Engineer Graydon Puts His Foot attended Miss Russell, the jury adjourned to meet on the evening of Tuesday, July 23, at the police station, when the result of the analysis of the stomach and other tissues, sent to Toronto to be analyzed, will be made known to the jury.

Health Generally Good.

Miss Laura Judd, an employe at the Brown House, was the first witness called. She stated that during the two years that she had been at the hotel Miss Russell had been employed as cook there. So far as she knew the woman had never been away from the hotel for any length of time with the exception of one week, when she had gone to Owen Sound. She had never heard her complain of being very ill peatedly warned Mr. Davidson that at any time, and always understood that she had been enjoying the best of health. The fact that Mr. Brown

The room occupied by Miss Brown was off here, through the breaking of walks, the private parlor, while next to it was the room occupied by Mr. Brown's children, and just across the parlor was the room occupied by Mr. Brown. Mr. McKillop then cross-questioned Miss Judd, to make sure that she had not heard Miss Russell complain during the week prior to her death, or had known her to be sick. The Fatal Illness.

Miss Judd then went on to tell of going into the laundry-room, adjoining the kitchen, to iron, after dinner, and of seeing Miss Russell in the kitchen of her until she heard Mr. Brown eal: WEST LONDON CASE ed. ### UNWORTHY TACTICS.

"By installing meters as proposed the independent fire-fighting scheme, the workingman will help to pay for a system that will give protection only to the downtown section and the manufacturers."-Free Press.

This is sheer misrepresentation, and an unworthy appeal to class-feeling. It is not the spirit in which a question of vital importance to the citizens of London should be discussed. Manufacturers, merchants, and workingmen have a common concern in the solution of the water problem. Any attempt to array one section of the community against the other in this matter is a crime against the interests of the city.

system are not limited to the business- proposition. Today every navy has its men and the owners of down-town property, although the latter would be so built, others constructed as fast required to pay the larger part of the armed cruisers, but both kinds for the cost. It will be seen that the advantages of the dual system would be diffused through the whole city. The criticism of the meter system is as untruthful as the statement that the high-pressure system is for the benefit of one class. The advocates of the independent scheme gradually in the larger premises where most of the waste of water occurs. Whether meters would be placed on all the services would be a question to be decided some years hence, in the light of experience. It is also unfair and misleading to assert that meters will increase the cost of water. They merely decrease the cost of pumping, and the water rates may be so adjusted that the consumer will get the benefit of this saving, or will not be than under the old system. The only person who will pay more for water arena. under the new method is the one who allows water to go to waste, carelessly or wantonly. This is the class of consumers who increase the waterworks expenses and consequently the water rates. They can be effectually checked only by the meter.

LEGISLATING FOR CANADA.

Canada's legislative dependence is again brought forcibly to mind by the Imperial Parliament. The Dominion Government and eight of the nine provincial governments of this country agreed at the recent inter-provincial conference upon financial terms which were to be a final and unalterable settlement, but the British Government struck the words "final and unalterable" from the bill. The result will be that when the provinces again become squeezed for money they will be free to organize another raid on the federal treasury. A more curious illustration of Canada's subordinate status was the attempt of a single member of the British Parliament, Sir Frederick Banbury, to amend the bill. He moved that the additional grant of $100,000 annually to British Columbia, which the inter-provincial conference bia University Press.] conceded in view of the special claims of the coast province, be extended administration of the Cleveland waterfrom ten to thirty years. ### THE HAGUE CONFERENCE

While it seems settled that the question of the reduction of armaments will not be discussed at the present conference at The Hague, there is good reason to hope that something will be accomplished toward the amelioration of war. There is strong probability that the Russian proposal for an arbitration court that will meet annually, which in turn will appoint a smaller court to sit permanently, will be adopted. Such a court might prove the entering wedge for a permanent international peace congress, which has long been urged by peace advocates. The proposition put forward by Mr.

Choate on behalf of the United States delegates in favor of the exempting of all private property in war time, has not been favorably received. The head of the Russian delegation, M. Nelidoff, urged that such exemption would render war more frequent, and say, though I don't think it proper for me The benefits of the high-pressure thus destroy the peace purpose of the commerce destroyers-some avowedly purpose of capturing or sinking unmore entitled to receive supplies than Furthermore, the use of river water is the beleaguered garrison of a city, for street watering, sewer cleaning, But the abolition of the capture of lawns, factories, livery stables, etc., private property at sea would not prevent the blocking of harbors nor the prohibition of the importation of munitions of war. The primary aim is the safeguarding of the merchant interested as any other class in the vessel of a non-combatant carrying a conservation of London's splendid non-contraband cargo from one country to another. It is pretty safe to poses. This is one of the strong assume that whatever makes for civilization also makes for peace, and beyond all question the exingmen have no direct interest in the emption of private property at sea tricts. But it is to be feared that until some equally effective method of making such people as the Venezulans meet their obligations can be found, coercion will have to be resorted to. Experience has proven this.

Impressive and Inspiring Ceremonies at the Askin Street Church.

The three cornerstones of the new Sunday school building and addition to the Askin Street Methodist Church were laid yesterday afternoon with very impressive ceremonies. The new pastor, Rev. Mr. Birks, presided, while on behalf of the trustees, Mr. James Durkin laid the cornerstone, with a trowel presented by Mr. J. A. Childs. Another cornerstone was laid by Mrs. Rowell, in behalf of the Ladies' Aid Rowell, in behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church, with a trowel presented by Mrs. J. F. Maine. The third cornerstone, that of the Sunday school, was laid by Mr. A. M. Hunt, with a trowel presented by Mr. John Ward. Several splendid addresses marked the ceremonies, which were listened to by a large gathering of members of the congregation and their friends. The temporary floor of the new building formed an excellent platform, from which the singing, speechmaking and other features of the ceremony were conducted. Rev. Mr. Birks opened the ceremonies with prayer, which was followed with the singing of hymn, and an invocation by Dean Davis, of St. James' Church.

Rev. W. J. Ford, LL.B., president of the conference, was then called upon to speak a few words. He complimented the congregation on having the word progress engraved upon the cornerstone, and went on to say that the watchwords of the Methodist Church were adaptation and progress. In this connection he pointed out that it had always been the aim of the church to adapt itself to the particular surroundings in which it was placed, and that whenever new and better methods were suggested the church adopted them. He expressed the hope that the church would never be bound to traditions, even Wesleyan traditions. In closing he exhorted the congregation not to be content with allowing the new building to mark progress in mortar and bricks, but to mark extension in Christian work.

At the conclusion of Rev. Mr. Ford's address, the first cornerstone was laid, and into it were put copies of the Bible and church hymn book, and also copies of the following periodicals, Discipline, the Guardian, the Missionary Outlook, the Canadian Epworth Era, Onward and Pleasant Hours, Current copies of the local daily papers and the financial report for the year ending May 31, 1907, giving the names of the former and present pastors, the trustee board, the quarterly official board, the officers of the Sunday school and of the Epworth League, Woman's Missionary Society, Mission Circle, the Mission Band, Cradle Roll, and a lot of the Sunday school teachers were also inserted. The stone also contained a brief history of the Ladies' Aid from its inception, written by Mrs.

Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronto, of Mrs. Rowell, who the cornerstone, that the Ladies' Aid. Mr. Rowrecalled the time when he had been connected with the Askin Street Church, at first as a Sunday school pupil, and then as a teacher. That was sixteen years ago, and he found that great progress had been made. He then went on to speak of the functions of the church. In the Arst place the church should help us as individuals to lead upright and good lives. It should point out the way in which men could overcome temptation, and should call men constantly to lives of great service and to sacrifice.

In closing, he pointed out the great work which lies before the church in Canada, declaring the church stands as the most potent force for good in the community. The great question before Canada today was not that of transportation, or that of education, great as these might be, but was the preaching of the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the millions of foreigners who are flocking into the Canadian west every year.

Mr. Rowell thanked the congregation for having chosen his mother to lay the cornerstone, which, he said, was about as great an honor as they could have conferred upon him. Several other speakers took part, including Rev. E. B. Lanceley, who addressed the gathering briefly.

When completed it is estimated that the new Sunday school and addition to the church will cost in the neighborhood of $24,000, of which over $11, 600 has been subscribed, while including yesterday's collection; $3,700 had been paid up. The church auditorium, which is to be extended back some twenty feet, will have a seating capacity for 1,400, while the new schoolroom will have a capacity for 800. During the afternoon the Imperial Male Quartet rendered some excellent music, while the new organist of the church, Mr. Quantz, officiated at the

GRAFTON'S FAMOUS HALF-YEARLY SALE

Sale Begins Saturday, July 13.

First Come, First Choice

The people of Canada are too well acquainted with the House of Grafton and the methods governing the conduct of this mighty business to need any words of an introductory character. We can assure our friends that this will be by far the most important sale we have held in the 54 years of our business history. We honestly believe that no sale event in any store in this entire Dominion has ever rivaled this one in importance. Weeks have been spent in preparation for this occasion. Words cannot be marshaled that are strong enough to do full justice to the extraordinary values and vast assortments that here await you. Tens of thousands of dollars worth of the very best made and most perfect Clothing in Canada will be sacrificed in this great sale. "Facts are stubborn things and figures won't lie"-That quotation never applied more forcibly than to this great sale movement. If we can only impress you with the facts and the values, we will have the biggest success we have ever attained. In every department prices are amazingly low. It is a fact that we have outdone our greatest efforts of the past; it is a fact that we are better equipped to handle an immense business than ever before; it is a fact that the bargains are the greatest and the assortments the largest that have been offered in Canada for years. We urge you to come and investigate these facts. It will pay you to make a trip to this store from any distance—this will indeed be a sale vast in scope, immense in volume and magnificent in value giving, presenting unparalleled chances of saving money on all kinds of Clothing and Furnishings for the old man, the young man, the youth, the boy, the child. An array of male attire that is a credit to the manufacturing ability and equipment of any firm or country.

BECKLEY'S NEW BASEBALL THEORY

Says Pennants Are Won Through Exercise of Will Power and Faith.

New York, July 10 .- After all baseball success may be a condition of the mind and not the loosening of the whip or the willow and the clout.

According to Jake Beckley, the St. Louis first baseman, who has probably Steele and Broadfoot, 17; Greig and had as much experience as any man on the diamond today, the winning of the baseball pennant is largely a question of psychology. The word in its Parkes and Scott, 12; Burrows and unbroken state sounded so big to even Beckley that he dropped in an exwill power and faith. In other words, Grieve and Westcott, 12; Dick and as the Christian Scientists say, the power of mind over material matter. Of course, Mr. Beckley and others readily admit that it may be some time before Rube Waddell enters into a psychic discussion with any of the more learned followers of Mrs. Eddy on the question of brain cultivation and control, but we are moving right along in our humble little way in trying to figure out the "nut." But Beckley is serious about this thing, and we have got to give it to him for a fellow who thinks. "In my day," says Beckley, "I've seen lots of ball clubs beaten for the pennant when they were still the best ball clubs in the league. Now, how are you going to figure that. You can't say it is entirely luck, for there are 154 games played every season by every team and the club can't have its own way all the time in the matter of the lucky New York, July 10 .- Some politicians breaks. Mr. McKillop asked witness if she had been told that the wash basin had been tipped over on the floor of the children's room. She answered in the affirmative, but stated that she had not gone into the room to see whether the statement was correct or not.

Complained of Illness.

Mrs. Lyda McKnight was then called to give evidence. She had been employed at the hotel a little over a month. She knew Miss Agnes Russell and heard her often complain of pains in the back in the morning, but could not say whether any of these complaints had been made just before her death or not. On Wednesday she $ had seen deceased, who at that time $ appeared to be better than usual in health, and in excellent spirits. She hurried up the stairs into the hall, through the sitting-room, into the children's bedroom, and found ner sister leaning against the foot of the bed partly sitting on the floor. Deceased was only partially dressed. She did not notice where the rest of her clothing was. Mr. Brown and Mrs. McKnight then carried her into her own room, and put her to bed. Miss Russell did not then or at any time afterwards speak, but was moaning continually, and frothing at the mouth. Witness did not notice anything unusual about the room in held at Port Stanley, July 10, when which she first found Miss Russell, about 800 parents and children en- except that on the floor there was a big rug soaked with water. Witness remained at the hotel until 10 o'clock, when she thought her sister to be recovering, as she had ceased to moan and appeared to be asleep.

Evidence of Doctors. Dr. J. J. Mason stated that he had Sertie Bendle, 3 Mabel Case, 4 Norma frequently seen Miss Agnes Russell, but that he did not know her. He told W. Broadley, 3 J. She began to breathe quite naturally after he arrived, and he de cided that she was recovering from convulsion. The eyes were dilated.

Witness, upon examination, found that deceased was suffering considerable pain. He concluded that she was suffering from a nervous hysterical convulsion. He administered medicine. After staying for 10 minutes, and as there was no sign of the convulsions returning, Dr. Mason left. He returned Running long jump-1 Nelles Living- at 5 o'clock, and found her still unconscious, and in the same condition as when he had left her. Dr. Mason's second visit was brief. He afterwards ingstone, 2 Thos. Atkinson, 3 George left the case with Dr. Campbell, her own physician. The fact that Miss Brown died next morning at 4 a.m. led Dr. Mason to change his opinion as to the cause of her sickness. Dr. J. B. Campbell was then sworn. He told of being called to attend Miss Russell. He had known Miss Russell and had attended her several times to treat her for minor ailments. Last spring, about three months ago, he attended her, just after legal precedings between Mr. and Mrs. Brown. She came to his office, and seemed to be worried and depressed, and complained of loss of appetite and loss of sleep.
