AWAIT ULSTER VIEW OF IRISH FREE DOMINION

British Public Anxious Concerning Expected Pronouncement by Sir James Craig.

CARSON OPPOSES PLAN

King George Calls Session of Parliament To Ratify Agreement.

BULLETIN.
London, Dec. 7.—King George today issued a proclamation, releasing all political prisoners interned in Ireland.

Belfast, Dec. 7.—Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, told the Ulster Parliament today, he did not think it expedient to make any statement with regard to the details of the new Irish proposals, as there were ambiguities here and there in the document.

There was, he said, a considerable amount of further information he must have in his possession before he could come to the right conclusion.

London, England, Dec. 7.—Ulster's attitude toward the establishment of the Irish free state was expected to be defined today at a meeting of Sir James Craig's cabinet. A copy of the treaty signed by the British and Sinn Féin peace delegates reached Belfast while parliament was sitting, but the premier delayed its presentation until he should have time to study it.

It is certain that the treaty will undergo most searching examination before receiving the approval of Ulster and many modifications undoubtedly will be proposed. Her consent, however, is not necessary, as under the treaty terms she is given the option of retaining her present status, after revision of her boundaries by a commission.

Sinn Féin Favor Certain.
Favorable action by the Dail Eireann is thought to be fairly well assured, and that of the imperial parliament which has been summoned to meet Dec. 14, is foregone should the Dail approve the treaty.

In some quarters it is said that the attitude of the Irish extremists is causing anxiety to the delegates. These warnings, however, are accompanied by expressions of hope and belief that the difficulties can be overcome.

The only opposing voice of consequence thus far is that of Sir Edward Carson, former Ulster leader, who is quoted by the Morning Post as declaring: "I never thought that I should live to see a day of such abject humiliation for Great Britain."

Prince as Vice-Royal.
The Westminster Gazette expresses an opinion that the Irish Republicans may in the interim may be given amnesty immediately. The old rumor is revived that one of the King's sons may be appointed the first governor-general of Ireland.

King George Will Open Parliament in Person
London, England, Dec. 7.—King George came to London from Sandringham today to preside at a meeting of the Cabinet on Dec. 7, 1921.

CANADIAN RETURNS ARE SURPRISE TO ENGLAND

London, England, Dec. 7.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Canadian general election, owing to the domestic nature of the issues in the campaign, aroused comparatively small interest among the English people generally, especially with the settlement of the Irish question occupying so much attention.

The Canadian community in London, though, made eager inquiries as to the result. The announcement that the Liberal party had apparently swept victoriously through the Dominion aroused as the British people received their election results this morning, and caused considerable surprise. The election prophets in this country generally had anticipated a much closer result.

WINDSOR FIRE LOSS $1500.

King Will Be Canada's First Bachelor Premier

CANADA'S next premier, the Right Hon. Mackenzie King, will be the first bachelor premier that Canada has ever had. Though Canada has gone through many parliamentary sessions without a first lady, at times when widowers were premier, never before has one been placed at the head of a Canadian government who was not a benedict.

With a furnished house and every other matrimonial requirement, except the minor detail of a wife, Mackenzie King will take up the leadership of Canada. The house was bequeathed to him by the late Lady Laurier, with an accompanying request that if he were to at a future date, assume the reins of government that he take up his abode there.

CLAIMS $2,012 DUE AS COMMISSION

J. Roger Anderson Enters Suit in Supreme Court.

Two more supreme court actions have been entered for trial at the sittings which commence at the court house on Dec. 12.

J. Roger Anderson is suing the Rugles Truck Company and John Bridge for $2,012.49 commission, which he alleges is due on sales of stock he made for the company. He states that on Dec. 20, 1920, he entered into a contract with Mr. Bridge and was appointed sales manager of the company to sell $184,000 worth of Rugles stock at $100 a share.

He was to receive 1 per cent on all sales made under his direction and 5 per cent on all sales made by himself, and a bonus of 2 per cent if the entire amount of stock was sold before Feb. 7, 1921. This was not found possible, and it was not until April 2, 1921, that the entire block of stock was disposed of.

The plaintiff claims that he was entitled to $2,012.49 commission, and that he received $2,426.79 with expenses charged to him of $1,414.30.

The defendant company denies having entered into any contract with Mr. Anderson, while Mr. Bridge declares that he entered into an arrangement with the plaintiff to sell stock and that his commission has been paid.

Meredith & Meredith for plaintiff; Ivey, Elliott & Ivey for defence.

3 KILLED IN FIGHTING
IN GUATEMALA CITY

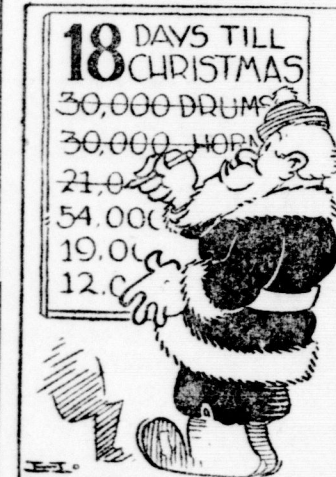

Guatemala City, Guatemala, Dec. 7.—The government of President Carlos Herrera was overthrown at midnight last night, after fighting in which three persons were killed and several were wounded.

The president surrendered his powers to a provisional government headed by Gen. Jose Maria Lima, Gen. Orellana and Miguel Larraive, former undersecretary of war.

ON CHRISTMAS MORN

HERE ARE TWO of Santa Claus' letters which will make your heart ache when you read them. And then you will dig deep down in your pockets and bring out handfuls of good things for these small kiddies of your own city, so that they may be happy at Christmas time.

"Dear Santa," says one:

"Will you please call to Mrs. R.'s home, as the little girl and the little boy are afraid you will not call there because they are poor. Their daddy is in Victoria Hospital and the little girl is in St. Joseph's Hospital at present. Please call on them, Santa, as they are in need."

"A Little Subscriber," writes another:

"Will you come to my house and bring me and my sister a doll and a bed and a Christmas stocking and my brother a pair of skates. Daddy isn't working, and mother says she can't get us anything this year."

The treasurer of the "Goodfellows' Christmas Cheer Fund" is getting busier every day and the goodfellows come in numbers to meet the appeals for help at Christmas time.

ROY BRAMMER AND FRED MASON APPEAR BEFORE JUDGE TALBOT MACHETH.

The December sessions of the county court opened before Judge Talbot Macheth Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Members of the grand jury selected several weeks ago were told by Judge Macheth that they would have very little to do, but two cases coming before them.

The grand jury brought in a true bill against Wesley Shillington for a serious offence, and against Ernest C. Partidge for theft and conspiracy in connection with some tickets, the property of the L. and P. S., and they will be tried later on in the session. The grand jury will inspect the county jail and the Ontario Hospital.

CLAIMS DAMAGES FROM CONTRACTOR

London Township Sues W. Godson For Breach of Contract.

The township of London is taking action for damages for breach of contract against the London and Lancashire Guarantee and Accident Company and Walter P. Godson.

The township claims that in September, 1919, Godson contracted to clean out a certain drain for $10,146, and the company gave a bond to indemnify the plaintiff against any damage by reason of non-performance of the work to the extent of $5,000.

The work, it is alleged, was not completed, and the township was obliged to enter into another contract at a price of $15,000, which with $1,600 paid Godson, made a difference of $8,452.

The company claims that there was no breach of contract, and that they did not receive proper notice of any default or neglect.

Meredith & Meredith for plaintiff; Hughes & Aker, Toronto, for the company; and Thos. J. Ager, Toronto, for Godson.

P. J. FLANNERY MAY BE NAMED DEPUTY

Night Postoffice Chief Likely To Secure Promotion.

While the Hon. William Mackenzie King has said that there would be no appointments to the civil service until after the general election, it is fully expected that the three applications confronting the postmaster-general's department for the position of deputy-postmaster in the city of London will now be considered.

While it has never been mentioned before, P. J. Flannery, one of the night chiefs at that institution, was one of the applicants among three others.

With 26 years' of continual service, Mr. Flannery, according to the bulk of the members of the staff, is the one man fully qualified to hold the vacancy. He has 26 complete years' of experience. It is fully understood that local Tories tried their utmost to have the position filled before the election, having sent one man to Ottawa on two separate occasions to have the position filled.

FEAR LIVES LOST AT SEA.
St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 7.—A heavy toll of human life and casualties in the Newfoundland sailing fleet are feared following a terrific storm which Monday and Tuesday swept the northern and eastern coasts of Newfoundland, according to reports reaching government departments here.

CABLE OUTLINE OF AGREEMENT

Arms Parley Delegates Submit New Proposals to Tokio and London.

U. S. CONCEALS ATTITUDE

Washington, Dec. 7.—A tentative proposal for an agreement between the United States and other powers to replace the Anglo-Japanese alliance has been cabled to London as well as to Tokio, as a result of the last meeting of the arms conference's "big three."

Official confirmation that the suggestion for a new international concert has taken definite form, was given today by the British. Details were not revealed, but an authorized British spokesman said that "certain suggestions were formulated and telegraphed to London," after the conference last week between Secretary Hughes, Arthur J. Balfour and Admiral Baron Kato.

The British spokesman added that it might fairly be inferred that if these proposals should find general acceptance they would have the effect of terminating the Anglo-Japanese alliance, for which there would be no further use.

Although no similar official statement has been made by the Japanese, it is known that the tentative agreement was cabled also to Tokio.

Meaning the United States delegation is revealing nothing whatever regarding its attitude toward the proposed arrangement.

Today's disclosures of the British spokesman were an official step toward dissolving the secrecy with which the conversations have been surrounded.

Press Comments On the Results

The following editorial comments on election results appear in Canadian morning newspapers:

"Under the caption, 'The King is Dead, the New King Comes,' the Ottawa Journal says: 'The National Liberal and Conservative party has been smashed for the time being. It will mean that the protective tariff is reasonably safe. True, the Liberal party, by its platform of 1919, is pledged to radical interference with the tariff, but the majority of the Liberal party elected by the Province of Quebec, and the Province of Quebec is protectionist and will not allow radical interference with the tariff.'"

Ottawa Citizen: "The country has placed a tremendous responsibility on Mr. Mackenzie King and the Liberal party. It is just as well that the majority is sufficiently definite to make a coalition unnecessary. Doubtless, an effort will be made to bring in some of the Progressives, to give the next administration more weight in the west."

"While no one will regret the conclusive retirement of Mr. Rowley, the public like the feeling towards Mr. Meighen is different.

"Proportional representation is needed to give reasonable assurance of re-election to the minority. (Independent Liberal): 'The result is a bad blow to the old historic Conservative party, for there is not now a single Conservative administration from sea to sea. Now that the battle is over and the issue settled, what is needed in Canada is a united national spirit that will face the burdens of the country with courage and faith, and give the new government every encouragement and help.'"

Kitchener Record (Independent Liberal): "Canada cleaned house yesterday, ending an era of wasteful extravagance and providing for stable and economic government. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, the premier, with the knowledge that he has the support of the great majority of the people. For the citizens of Kitchener his victory is especially significant; they realize that he has put this city, which has been a good light on the Manitoba Free Press: 'For the first time in many years western opinion upon the larger questions of public policy will be set forth in parliament without being censored or suppressed by the interests of a party which had given hostages to special eastern interests.'"

Halifax Herald: "The government which lost yesterday afternoon for a principle which notwithstanding defeat of the administration, is bound to command the favorable consideration of the incoming government."

Halifax Chronicle: "The Meighen government was swept out of existence by a wave of outraged public opinion, going down to the most disastrous defeat ever experienced by any party in the history of the country."

Montreal Gazette: "The verdict is decisive. It has been a good light on the part of the prime minister, but a feeble one on the part of his party. A lack of touch between ministers and members on the one hand and the electorate on the other, has chilled the ardor of old-time Conservatives."

Evening News, Quebec: "The Liberal majority is small, but will increase rapidly, because the country does not want another struggle like this one, and is satisfied with the new regime, thanks to Sir Lomer Gouin's block of supporters. The defeat of Hon. Arthur Meighen is to be regretted, but he will not long be outside of the political arena."

The prediction of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when introducing Mr. King to a Kitchener audience in 1908 as "a future premier of Canada," has been fulfilled sooner than perhaps any who heard it dreamed it would be.

CANADIAN ELECTORS FROM COAST TO COAST VOTE TO TURN OUT GOVERNMENT

Avalanche at Polls For Liberalism Has Its Inception in Mr. King's Constituency in North York, Which the Liberal Leader Carried by a Majority of 1,103 Over His Near-est Opponent—Hon. T. A. Crerar Elected in Marquette—Premier Meighen Defeated by Farmer Opponent in Portage La Prairie.

Latest completed returns of the federal elections Tuesday indicate that the Liberals have obtained a total of 121 seats throughout the Dominion, the Progressives 60, the Conservatives 51 and the Independents 2.

The only constituency which remains to be heard from is the district of Yukon, contested by the Liberals and Conservatives.

Eight members of the government have been defeated. At Portage la Prairie Premier Meighen met defeat. Hon. F. B. McCurdy, minister of public works, and Hon. E. K. Spinney, minister without portfolio, both from Nova Scotia, have failed to hold their constituencies. In Quebec, five members of the government have gone down to defeat: Hon. L. P. Normand, president of the privy council; Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine and fisheries; Hon. A. Fauteux, solicitor-general; Hon. L. C. Belley, postmaster-general, and Hon. Rodolphe Mont, secretary of state.

Progressives defeated both old-line parties in the two ridings of Middlesex County. A. L. Hodgins won the seat in East Middlesex, having a plurality of 600 over S. F. Glass, Conservative, and Duncan C. Ross, Liberal, obtaining a plurality of 4,000.

Results in Ontario constituencies show the standing for the parties in the province to be as follows: Conservatives, 38; Liberals, 23; Progressives, 21. Total, 82.

The people of the Dominion of Canada have spoken, and their voice has been heard from the far-flung districts of the Yukon to the little Island of Prince Edward.

The Right Hon. Arthur Meighen and his seven associates who suffered defeat with him on Tuesday, Dec. 6, have learned that their reign of plutocracy and autocracy in Canada has reached an inevitable conclusion, to be replaced by a Liberal administration at Ottawa, under the leadership of Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King.

FINDS ELECTION IN CANADA QUIET

Distinguished Englishwoman Rejoices in Victory of Canadian Liberalism.

MRS. SPENDER VISITS CITY

The new Advertiser headquarters had a distinguished visitor on Tuesday evening, among the throngs that crowded into the foyer to hear the returns, hot from the wires.

In the assemblage, there was no one more enthusiastic over the victory for Liberalism in Canada than Mrs. J. A. Spender, wife of the editor of the Westminster Gazette and one of the ablest members of the British delegation to the disarmament conference in Washington. Mrs. Spender came over from Washington a few days ago to see London the less, and pay a visit in the house of Dr. Clifford H. Reason, a friend of her husband's and her own of war days.

"How quiet you are over an election in Canada," exclaimed Mrs. Spender, after several minutes spent in study of the great enthusiasm with which she was surrounded. "I have been struck with that all through your downtown district tonight. In England, we make a great deal more noise, and yet we are supposed to be the most restrained people in the world."

England Would Make Din.
"If this were England, there would be a regular din."

"Both sides have had a victory, the Conservatives in London, the Liberals in the country, and yet it seems to be taken quite as a matter of course."

"How do I feel about it? As an ardent Liberal, I naturally rejoice in a triumph for Liberalism, and it is an experience I will always cherish that I have been in Canada to actually receive the election returns among the Canadian people. This defeat must be a very great disappointment to Mr. Meighen. Did I see anything of him when he was over in London this year? Oh, yes, we had a couple of meetings with the other Canadians, Mr. Rowell and Mr. Hazen."

Sneaks of Arms Parley.
What of the disarmament conference from the woman's point of view? "I am afraid there is very little I can say," answered Mrs. Spender. "The hospitality extended to the wives of the delegates has been wonderful, and we have been so busy being entertained, we have had no time to say anything."

Recover 13 Bodies From Wreckage of Dynamite Works in Prussia

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—The bodies of only thirteen of more than one hundred persons killed in the explosion yesterday, at the Nobel dynamite works at Saarbrücken, Rhinish Prussia, have been recovered, according to the latest reports received here.

The explosion, which occurred in an oil tank, destroyed the greater part of the factory. Houses in the neighborhood suffered badly, roofs being blown off and the walls collapsing. Fire which started in the ruins spread to the surrounding forests.

The explosion, which occurred in an oil tank, destroyed the greater part of the factory. Houses in the neighborhood suffered badly, roofs being blown off and the walls collapsing. Fire which started in the ruins spread to the surrounding forests.

The morning after finds the constituency of Frontenac decisively in the Progressive column. W. S. Reid, Progressive, having defeated Dr. J. W. Edwards, Conservative, and former member, by a majority of 112, while scattered polls to hear from. Temiskaming and Lennox and Addington are both fairly in the Progressive list this morning, the latter being a Progressive gain as well as Frontenac.

In and about Toronto, five election deposits are forfeited to the Dominion treasury. As a result of the returns yesterday, the following are elected: John Bruce, Labor; South York, Ronald Palmer, Labor; West Toronto, Mrs. Spencer, Labor; and West York, James Cameron, Progressive.

John Currie Defeated.
The defeat of Col. John Currie, Conservative, and former M. P. in North York, was unexpected in independent circles. All the sudden came, however, in the Toronto and Yorks were defeated. They were Gen. Robert Rennie, Liberal, North Toronto; Sgt. W. L. Rayfield, V. C., East Toronto; Col. A. E. Hunter, West Toronto; and Major J. E. Stewart, West York. All were endorsed by the Liberals. In East Toronto, Mrs. Kieley, Liberal candidate, retired in favor of Sgt. Rayfield.

The prime minister himself has been beaten in his home constituency of Portage la Prairie.

A sharp contrast to the fate of Mr. Meighen is the sudden victory in his riding of North York by Mackenzie King. Complete returns give King 5,141, Armstrong (Con.) 4,941, and Burnaby (Farmer) 2,970.

In his own constituency, the Hon. T. A. Crerar, the leader of the Progressives, was elected.

Solid Block Solid.
Another outstanding feature of the annihilation of the Conservatives has been the fact that the solid block of the province of Quebec (the seat which that was to be split in half, according to Tory claims) remains as solid as ever, or even more so, the province having returned 65 Liberal members of Parliament out of a possible 65.

No less remarkable has been the result in the Maritime Provinces. A salient feature of the voting was the exceedingly poor showing as compared with the expectations of their leaders. The Federal Conservatives of Ontario, while on the other hand, the Liberals have actually gained more seats in this province than some of their sanguine supporters had considered possible.

At the best some fifteen seats had been expected, while 23 ridings have been placed to the credit of Mr. King.

Won Prairie Provinces.
As they promised, the Progressives have had their day in the western Prairie Provinces. They swept Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan. One lonely Tory survives in Alberta, while four Liberals and one Labor man were returned throughout the three provinces.

Hon. R. B. Bennett carried West Calgary, while William Irvine, Labor-Farmer in East Calgary, was elected by a substantial majority.

Beside the "whirlwind of the West," the Hon. R. B. Bennett of Calgary, the only other Meighen ministers to survive the conflict are seemingly the Hon. J. R. M. Baxter, minister of customs; Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance; Hon. Dr. Toimie, minister of agriculture, and Hon. Edmund Bristol, minister without portfolio.

The others failed to stage the "come-back" promised.

Contrary to the belief of the Tory party, it was in the province of Ontario that they lost the most ground. At dissolution they had 62 seats. They retained 35.

To many the showing of the Progressives will come as a complete surprise.

While sweeping the western provinces they did not secure the support in the East that they anticipated.

Fail in Rural Ridings.
They hoped to sweep the Ontario Turn to Page 5, Column 2.

WANTS CLOUD OF SUSPICION CLEARED AWAY

Board of Education Unable To Grant Trustee Eggett's Request.

SUPERVISING PRINCIPAL

At the regular meeting of the board of education Tuesday afternoon, after the correspondence had been dealt with, Dr. E. W. Fuller, school dentist, asked the board to appoint another dentist to help him with his work among the school children of the city. He outlined the work that the dentists were doing, and urged the appointment because he said that they were now working up to the limit, and there was still a lot of children not getting the dental service necessary. He thought another dentist would overcome this situation.

Senior Public School Inspector Green's report recommended the appointment of G. A. Wheable, principal of Empress Avenue School, to be assistant supervising principal until such a time as a suitable assistant inspector can be appointed. The recommendation was acted on by the board, and Mr. Wheable was appointed.

At this point the tender for electric fixtures for the new collegiate institute was brought up and discussed freely. The chairman of the committee said that they had given the contract to the Galt firm because they thought that they were getting the best deal, not only in price, but in other ways. This led the way for discussion as to why a London firm had not been given the contract, and the answer was that all the tenders were figured out on the basis of supplying the same fixture, and that the tender had been let to the lowest bidder. The tenders were brought out and this was found to be correct.

Trustee Rowe discussed the question and expressed himself as favorable to patronizing a London concern other things being equal.

Furnishing Contracts. When the report of the contracts concerning the furnishing of the institute was submitted, Trustee Rowe asked why it was that more time was not given in which to receive tenders. Local firms had not been given a chance to get their estimates together and present them in time. Trustee Langford replied that they had not had a list of requirements until shortly before the meeting was called, but when they had the list they had advertised right away, and owing to the fact that the school was to be opened so soon they had limited the time for the contracts to be received.

It was at this point that Trustee Eggett said that a cloud of suspicion was hanging over the board in the eyes of the public, and he wished, since he was not to be on the board next year, that anything that could be cleared up in regard to this would be done before he left the board. He asked that a committee be appointed to investigate the actions of all standing and special committees with this end in view, but this was ruled out of order.

Wortley Road Lights. Trustee Bice at the end of the report of the audit committee recommended that a clause be added or a notice attached to every bill paid by the board of education similar to that attached to the bills of the council, to the effect that no member of the board was connected in any way with the transaction

'Everyday' Is Play All Made by Women

MARY DONNELLY, WHO IS STARRING IN "EVERYDAY."

BY JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—"Everyday" is an interesting contribution to the stage because it was written by a woman, staged by a woman and the burden of its story enacted by women.

It is from the pen of Rachel Crothers, a patron of the theatre for several years, who for the first time announces herself as a producer. The first act of "Everyday" leads one to believe that there is about to be enacted another "Main Street."

A girl returns after five years of travel and education to "the best wired home in town." The second act dwells upon the dilemma of the girl choosing between a politician who can give her position and wealth and the son of a butcher who has talent and high ideals. The mother wants her to choose "ideals," the father, "position."

and received no benefit therefrom. The recommendation was laid over for further consideration.

Trustee Rowe asked for an explanation concerning the lights in Wortley road school, which he said was mentioned in the press some days ago, and which were supposed to have been changed without apparent authority. The paper containing the news was correct.

Trustee Wright said he had been under the impression that when they had met in Wortley road school to decide what lights they should equip the school with, they had chosen the hydro light, but that others had been installed; and when he had been questioned about it by the press he had said what he thought was correct. The architect, however, said that they had chosen the lights with which the school

SLIGHTLY HURT IN FALL DOWN ELEVATOR SHAFT

George L. Lennox, 909 Dame street, shipper at the Wm. Ward clear factory, fell down the elevator shaft from the first floor to the cellar shortly after 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Lennox was badly bruised, according to his physician, Dr. Angus Graham, but his injuries were not of a serious nature.

Nine months before another harvest

1921 has not proved a profitable year for the farmer. Cattle prices have been cut in two and wheat has dropped from over $2.00 a bushel to less than $1.00.

In the face of these conditions what are many farmers doing today to help fill their pocketbooks with more cash during the spring and summer months of 1922?

They are looking into the earning power of their money. A few hundred dollars or a few thousand dollars put "out at interest" will safely yield a good interest rate in The Huron & Erie. Whether you place money on deposit—where it can be withdrawn at any time—on debenture for twelve months or more, there is an attractive rate provided by this Half-Century-Old Corporation for your funds. Here are the particulars:

DEPOSITS		"SPECIAL INTEREST DEPOSITS"
Money deposited in the Savings Department may be withdrawn by check. You receive interest at the "higher - than - ordinary" rate of	3 1/2% per annum payable half-yearly	In this Department you are asked to leave on deposit $1,000 or more. You are given the privilege of issuing up to five checks each month against the account. This new and increased rate is especially attractive to those who have substantial sums on deposit and who issue but few checks. This rate may be obtained upon application to the Manager.	4% per annum payable half-yearly
GUARANTEED TRUST CERTIFICATES		DEBENTURES
Any sum of $500 or over placed with The Canada Trust Company Guaranteed Trust Certificate Department is withdrawable on the first day of any month on 30 days' notice. Interest is paid for the full term of the investment at the rate of	4 1/2% per annum payable half-yearly	Surplus money which can be spared for twelve months or longer may be invested in the Debenture Department. Any term, one to five years. Any sum of money, $100 or more, is accepted. Interest coupons are payable each half year at the rate of...	5 1/2% per annum

TO FARMERS' WIVES: Your deposit accounts will receive careful attention at The Huron & Erie. Extra interest dollars are equally as welcome to women as to men. You are cordially invited to place your money on deposit at The Huron & Erie Branch most convenient to you.

ASK PAYMENT FOR CARE OF CIVIC BEARS

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 5.—No. 1 committee of the city council, in charge of the finances of the city, were treated to a warm session at their regular meeting Monday night, when a deputation from the St. Thomas Humane Society waited upon them to urge payment of an account of $285, which the society claims is due them for the care of bears which suffered from tallow last summer in the city zoo.

Mrs. Dr. Alice Grey, secretary, and J. E. Mattie, provincial and city inspector of the Humane Society, presented the case of the society. A compromise was reached when a committee composed of Aldermen McIntyre, Butler, Raven and D. A. Cavanagh, Mrs. Dr. A. Grey and Dr. Ball of the Humane Society were appointed to go into the matter with power to reach a settlement.

The committee voted a grant of $250 to the St. Thomas Poultry Association towards the cost of a poultry show to be held during the last week of December. The sum was an increase of $50 over the usual annual grant.

SHRINERS HOLD FALL CEREMONIAL

Londoners Provide Royal Welcome for 1,500 Visiting Brethren.

London Shriner of the Mocha Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., are extending a cordial welcome to visiting Shriner, to the number of 1,500, who are in the city Wednesday to attend the fall ceremonial.

The business session began at 10:30 Wednesday morning, at which session all business matters for the year were disposed of. During the session $2,500 was voted for the endowment of a room in the Children's Hospital.

One hundred candidates are to be initiated during the ceremonial. The officers for the year 1922 will be elected in the afternoon, the election beginning at 2 p.m.

The reception committee, in charge of W. W. Gammage has provided a royal time for the visitors.

During the afternoon the Mocha Temple Band will provide a well selected musical program under the leadership of Roselle Pucioke.

W. A. WILSON DELAYING DEMAND FOR RECOUNT

Mr. W. A. Wilson, defeated on Monday in the contest for the 1922 county, has not as yet asked to secure a recount of the aldermanic ballots cast in Ward 4. Before he can start the necessary machinery going, Wilson will have to appear before one of the county judges and take an affidavit setting up what he believes the count of the ballots to be in error. He was going to do that on Tuesday he said, but put it off until Wednesday. He has 14 days in which to act.

have had very little time to think of the serious work our husbands are doing. The British delegation, as you know, is not in Washington, but in New York, at present, sitting there. I imagine things will be very quiet until after the Christmas season, and then speed up again.

"We will have to turn our swords to plowshares in a literal sense," declared the wife of the editor of the Westminster Gazette, "and our workshops into merchant marine. The co-operation of the whole world will be required, because you cannot drop a link and have a chain hold together."

Feels Quite At Home.
"I feel very much at home in Canada," Mrs. Spender announced to a little group by whom she was surrounded, "because of the many splendid Canadian soldiers I knew during the war."

One who knew told to The Advertiser the story of Mrs. Spender's big private hospital at Tankerton, near London, where she ministered to thousands of Canadian boys during the war years.

Striking looking and most gracious woman. She takes a keen and practical interest in her husband's literary work, giving him most valuable assistance in this and in his other public activities.

Speaks to Canadian Club.
Mrs. Spender, who came to the city Friday, to address the Canadian Club, was a member of the Egyptian committee under Lord Hailey. A distinguished graduate of Oxford, he is considered one of the "brainiest" of the British representatives to Washington. Though a number of other places have been visited in London, he is the only one in Canada in which Mr. Spender can arrange to speak.

PRISON REFORM MAKES STRIDES IN AUSTRALIA

Special Farm and Afforestation Camp Justify Their Existence.

RELEASE ON PROBATION

Special Board Has Charge of Offenders Sentenced to Indeterminate Periods.

Melbourne, Victoria, Dec. 6.—Prison reform has not made the same strides forward throughout Australia as it has in some old world penitentiaries, but the island continent has made immense strides forward since the days described in the powerful work, "For the Term of His Natural Life." Victoria has good reasons for pride in her successful experimental work.

A special prison farm at Castlemaine and an afforestation camp on French Island, the former for young offenders and the latter for the so-called hardened type, have justified their existence. The change from prison walls, the greater liberty, the outdoor work and the possibilities of winning release on probation have worked wonders. In connection with these reform schemes, the indeterminate sentence has proved its value. A special board has charge of the offenders sentenced in this way and it has the right to release a prisoner in many cases and then release on probation, which is known to prisoners as "Kathleen Mavourneen" by reason of a line in that well-known song, "It may be for years, and it may be for ever."

At the close of the business an excellent report was partaken of, followed by a pleasant time at various games and pastimes.

SYNDICALISM IN U.S. BEGINS TO SHOW BREADTH

Recent Economic Agitation Launched in Moscow Has Wide Effect.

COMMUNISTS UNITE

Conjunction Enables Propaganda To Be More Effectively Carried On.

Washington, Dec. 6.—The movement launched by the Third or Communist Internationale at Moscow to gain control of the trade and industrial unions throughout the world is "meeting with marked success in so far as it relates to syndicalist unions in the United States," says the French newspaper, "Le Journal," in its report today of Attorney-General Daugherty.

Communist parties in this country, Mr. Daugherty says, have united to more effectively carry on propaganda and the policy is to endeavor to gain control of the labor organizations through the control of the executive committees or other governing bodies therein.

The Attorney-General says there has been a noticeable effort upon the part of various so-called defense societies to propagate and carry on agitation in behalf of the ultraradicals in the United States.

"In conspicuous individuals in the ultraradical movement apprehended locally," he asserts, "are martyred and propaganda started in their behalf, not only within the United States, but throughout the entire world. In many instances the so-called defense organizations are found to be merely a camouflage for such movements as the United Communist party which must conduct its activities underground."

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Dec. 7.—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Selected issues again were brought forward by bull pools at the opening of today's stock market.

Famous Players, common and preferred, American Woolen, Beet Sugar preferred and American Car rose 1 to 2 1/2. The recent buying movement in motors and rubber specialties made further progress. Among the more substantial shares, Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western strengthened. Foreign exchanges were weak, while the British rate held all of yesterday's gain. French, Italian and German quotations were moderately lower.

Toronto, Dec. 7.—With the exception of moderate declines in Canadian Pacific Railway, Steamships preferred and General Electric, there was very little life to the local stock market this morning. C. P. R. was strong, and scored an advance of 1 1/2 for the morning, with closing sales at 131 1/2. Steamships preferred, after an early advance of 1/4 to 53, reacted 3/4, with a net loss of 3/4 for the morning. General Electric closed unchanged. War bonds dull.

WIDE INTEREST TAKEN IN BIRD PRESERVATION

Shelborne Society, London,
England. Purchase Brent Valley Refuge.

WILL PROVE MECCA

Many Species Abound in Wild Life of Rural English Districts.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(By Canadian Press.)—Public interest in bird sanctuaries has been considerably freshened as a result of a recent dinner held in this city by the Shelborne Society in celebration of the purchase of the Brent Valley Bird Sanctuary, one of the most remarkable refuges of wild life, from its lying within bounds of the world's greatest city. This refuge is a small oak wood near Greenford, Middlesex, and there the nightingale, blackcap and many other birds which would otherwise surely have been banished by the spread of Greater London, may live in peace and security and propagate their kind.

Earl Grey of Fallodon, who presided at the Shelborne Society dinner, is one of Great Britain's most conspicuous bird-lovers. He and the late Lord Lucas and a few other bird-loving friends bought an estate in the "broad" district of Norfolk before the war and turned it into a sanctuary for rare local birds with appreciable success. One feature of this refuge was the return of breeding bitterns to Norfolk, and their steady increase is regarded as one of the most heartening chapters in recent bird history.

Sanctuaries of wild life require a vigilant eye and often a controlling hand. The vast of all enemies of rare British birds is the collector of their eggs. When the last half-dozen British kites were preserved from extinction in Mid-Wales the nest trees had literally to be watched day and night. Bird and animal pests may be only less destructive than human raiders. A bird sanctuary if uncontrolled may simply become a happy hunting-ground of jays, crows, stoats, weasels, rats, sparrows, starlings, magpies, or whatever other species may be artificially in the ascendant. These sanctuaries need not only be formed, but maintained.

Marsh birds are chiefly extinguished by drainage, and many wood birds are banished by scientific forestry which eliminates old rotten trees. In England today there are a few such entirely primitive tracts of woodland as Noddle Forest, on the shore of Hawes Water, which Manchester is to wipe out.

In Australia it is not necessary for a bird sanctuary to be absolutely closed against mankind. Given adequate protection from interference, which is best secured by an educated public opinion, there would seem to be nothing to prevent any of the larger wild-life sanctuaries from being maintained as a popular resort. A good example is to be found in the National Park of New South Wales—an immense area of primitive Australian scenery, accessible both by road and rail and equipped with an hotel for visitors. Here the lyre bird still breeds in safety. Though naturally a ground-nester, it has co-operated in its own preservation by preferring to build in the crowns of tree-ferns, out of the reach of foxes. Other inmates are the curious rock-warbler, cockatoo and the curious rock-warbler, a species peculiar to New South Wales, which hangs its nest from the roof of small caves by a thread.

In New Zealand the protection of rare native birds from bush fires and predatory animals is more difficult than in Australia, since, owing to the segregation during uncounted ages, many species of diverse families had lost the power or the habit of flight. There is little hope of the permanent protection of the kiwi, the kapapo or owl parrot, and other flightless or in-eradicably ground-hunting species, except in small islands from which four-footed enemies can be excluded. In forming its sanctuaries, the New Zealand government has been alive to this point.

A remarkable natural sanctuary was discovered in 1914 by a prospector on certain crown land in South Island, New Zealand, where kiwis, kakapos, the very rare New Zealand creeper, and a wealth of other rare species were found thriving in primitive seclusion. The district was promptly gazetted as a sanctuary, but specimens were left to replenish the stocks on Little Barrier Island, near Auckland.

EGYPT MAKES TREATY WITH BRITISH GOVT.

Terms Proposed Offer Sovereign Independence, While Guaranteeing Safety of Communications.

GREEK STARTED RIOTS
Hope Expressed That Britain
Will Not Withdraw Her Garrisons.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
LONDON, England, Dec. 6.—Considerable satisfaction is expressed in official circles here at the calm manner in which the termination of the negotiations between the British Government and Sir Adly Yehia Pasha has been received in Egypt.

Though the terms of the treaty as proposed by Lord Curzon are not yet published, it is safe to say that the sovereign independence of Egypt has been offered whilst reserving certain rights which will guarantee the safety of communications with the East under all conditions.

Anticipated Influence.
In arriving at a decision as to what comprises adequate safety it is understood that the British foreign office has been influenced to a great extent by the representations made by Australia, New Zealand and India at the imperial conference.

It is the firm conviction among the dominions that communications by way of the Suez Canal must be safeguarded at all costs. The canal is looked upon as a vital link in the empire, and the proposals of the Egyptians that such protection should have to rely upon the solitary British force in the isolated canal area meets with much disapproval in the British dominions east of Suez.

This view is received with considerable sympathy in official circles here.
It is felt that the recent riots in Alexandria offered sufficient proof that as yet the Egyptian police are wholly incapable of dealing with serious disturbances.

Greek Offered Indignity.
These riots, it will be remembered, started from trivial circumstances during a native procession in which a Greek offered some indignity. From the outset the Egyptian police were left to deal with the situation. Not until fighting had assumed alarming proportions and the chief commissioner of the local police force appealed to Gen. Allenby did British troops intervene and put an end to the rioting.

Even the Italian residents, who have no particular sympathy for the British occupation, felt constrained to express their gratitude to Gen. Allenby for the British intervention. Furthermore, it is considered certain that had there been no British force on the spot, troops would undoubtedly have been dispatched from Italy. This is precisely the condition that has to be considered when viewing the possibility of withdrawing the British garrisons.

Natives Easily Aroused.
Apart from the Alexandria riots even Zaghlul Pasha's recent tour of Upper Egypt has shown how rapidly native feeling is aroused and mobs get out of hand. Nothing is considered more certain than that in the event of Great Britain withdrawing her garrisons and the native police proving unable to control a serious rising foreign intervention on the part of Italy, Greece or France would be inevitable.

Partly on this account, but mainly for the reason of the vigorous representations put forward by the dominion delegates at the imperial conference, the garrisons will be maintained in Egypt until good and sufficient guarantees are forthcoming in regard to the safety of communications with the British commonwealth.

Treaty To Be Published.
Documents, including the treaty as proposed by the British Government, and Sir Adly's reply will shortly be published in full. Meantime the capital that Zaghlul Pasha had hoped to make out of the rupture in the negotiations has proved negligible. His recent tour and the manner in which his appeal was made to the native mind has caused him to suffer considerable discredit at the hands of numbers of his former supporters.

Many members of the legislative assembly have publicly withdrawn the mandate which Zaghlul Pasha had formerly enjoyed, and have declared openly that Sir Adly's administration is worthy of full support. Whether Sir Adly put his threat to resign the premiership into practice or not, it is considered that Zaghlul Pasha has practically destroyed all his chances of being elected prime minister.

In official circles sincere hope is expressed that Sir Adly, though the negotiations have for the moment failed, will retain the premiership, for he has earned the respect of all with whom he has come in contact. Furthermore, he is considered an able negotiator,
who has the confidence of the educated and intelligent classes throughout Egypt.

Explains "Northern Lights" Mysteries

The non-magnetic ship "Carnegie" and map of two hemispheres, showing magnetic equator and magnetic poles.

BY HERWARD CARRINGTON
[Special to The London Advertiser.]

The S.S. "Carnegie" has just returned from a trip around the world, which has taken several years to complete, bringing with it valuable data as to the magnetism of the earth.

This little vessel was especially built,
and not a single piece of iron was on board—not a knife, not a nail—nothing might influence the magnetic lines of the earth by its presence.

This expedition was rendered possible
by the Carnegie Institute Foundation; and several years have been occupied in a systematic study of the magnetic lines of force on our globe.

Much valuable material has thus been collected, which it will take a long time to work over and publish. A preliminary account of some of the simpler elements of the earth's magnetism may, however, render the full report, when issued, more intelligible to the average reader.

The "Magnetic Poles."
We know that there are two "magnetic poles" in the world, a north pole and a south pole, which do not correspond with the true geographical poles. The north magnetic pole was discovered by Sir James Ross in 1831. It was then about 1,400 miles distant from the true north pole. The south magnetic pole is about 1,600 miles from the true south pole.

Lines of magnetic force run across our earth, from the "magnetic equator," to the north and south magnetic poles.
The magnetic equator lies near the true equator but runs both north and south of it, and crosses the latter in at least four places.

Starting from this equator, lines of force run north and south, just as you can see them, by means of iron filings, issuing from a horse-shoe magnet. The earth is thus a huge magnet. These lines of force influence magnetized steel, causing it to point due north and south;
and this is the basis of the "compass"
in common use.

These lines of magnetism, on the earth, have lately been shown to explain many hitherto ill-understood tar-restrial phenomena, such as the Aurora Borealis. The sun is constantly shooting off, into space, millions of tiny particles known as corpuscles.

These would naturally hit our earth in greater numbers near the equator, since this is the part of the earth most exposed to their influence. These corpuscles are caught by the magnetic lines of force, and carried towards the north and south poles, getting nearer and nearer the surface of the earth all the time.

At a certain distance from the poles,
they find themselves in an atmosphere
resembling that in high vacuum tubes (such as the X-ray tubes), and they then begin to give forth the shifting and dancing lines of the so-called "Cathode rays."

Puzzled Scientists.
It is these shifting and dancing lines of the Cathode rays which account for the Aurora Borealis, as well as other phenomena which have long puzzled scientists; and the connection, now traced, between the sunspots and the Aurora can thus be shown also, since a connection naturally exists between these spots and the energy of the corpuscles emitted by the sun.

These investigations, therefore, may be said to have thrown a new light upon many old and served to explain them in a satisfactory manner.

Helium is non-inflammable.
The helium used in inflating the C-7 is the product of the government plant at Fort Worth.

Helium can be made in commercial quantities only from the oil obtained from certain wells in Oklahoma and Texas fields, and the United States. If necessary, can prevent other nations from obtaining it, and thus possess great military advantage over them. The plant at Fort Worth, which cost several million dollars, was built during the war and is now under the joint operation of the army and navy. Helium is separated from the other gases in the oil by means of complicated refrigerating apparatus and the process is costly. The high cost of the gas, according to authorities, is its only drawback.

Headaches Gone
Perhaps you can imagine what this means to one who has suffered terribly with headaches for ten years.

Read about it in this latter.
Mrs. Tena A. Smith, Country
Harbor Cross Roads, N. S., writes:

"I feel that if anyone can recommend Dr. Chase's medicines I certainly can. I suffered for ten years from severe headaches, and although I took all kinds of headache powders they just relieved me at the time. I became very nervous and run-down, and everything seemed to trouble me. I have taken eighteen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and it has made an entirely new person of me. I felt that I could not have lived without it. I do not have one headache now for every hundred I used to have, and my nerves are good and strong. I just weighed 109 pounds when I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and now I weigh 121. Knowing what this treatment has done for me, I cannot too highly recommend it to others."

BUSINESS BRISK IN NORTH ATLANTIC

SYDNEY, N. S., Dec. 6.—Steamers that play between North Sydney and those attractive isles of the North Atlantic—St. Pierre and Miquelon—are carrying ever-increasing numbers of very busy American "businessmen" these days. Shipowners comment on the passenger business as a post-war boom, but the customs officials do not comment—they merely wonder.

There is a persistently-told story in customs agency ranks that the coming and going of these business-like folk has to do with intoxicating liquors, of which there is quite a store at St. Pierre and Miquelon. It is said that the parties of well-dressed, black-clad, smoking gentlemen go to the isles for the purpose of purchasing and arranging delivery of whiskey and the like to Canadian and United States "bootlegging."

It is common talk among seafaring folk hereabout that handsome bounties are being offered—and paid—to the skippers and crews of small craft willing to run the gauntlet of revenue cutters employed in the enforcement of the law, and there is gossip, too, of certain sailors who used to be impecunious, but have become free spenders and snappy dressers.

Several small craft have been caught running liquor and pitched battles have ensued, but officials here stated that the revenue fleet was too small to cope with the situation, and for every rum-running schooner overhauled and captured a dozen had escaped, to land their cargoes on a thousand thrifty beaches from Cape Breton to Florida.

SPECKLED TROUT ABOUND IN WEST

THE PAS, Man., Dec. 6.—The speckled trout streams of Northern Ontario, invaded yearly by sportsmen from all over the continent, may have a rival in Northern Manitoba for genuine speckled trout, identical with those found in the Nipigon River, have been caught in the Kettle Rapids on the Nelson River. With all the skeptics satisfied, that officials here stated that some of the lakes, such as Clearwater, with the specimen of these fish as an inducement to sportsmen, and many advocates of this plan believe a few more years may see fishermen from all over the world streaming into the north-country after the speckled trout.

It had often been claimed that there were no speckled trout north of the great divide in the waters emptying into Hudson's Bay, but all doubts have been set aside by a local resident, formerly engaged in the fish hatchery business, who has caught trout at Kettle and declares them to be the same as those found in Ontario waters.
The fish are said to be of a good size and very plentiful.

FRANK WHITE ELECTED TO COMMONS, WINNING BY MAJORITY OF 1,802

London's New Parliamentary Representative Makes Better Showing Than His Own Supporters Anticipated — C. R. Somerville, Liberal Candidate, Secures 8,218 Votes.

J. Franklin White is London's new representative in the House of Commons at Ottawa. He defeated C. R. Somerville, the Liberal candidate, by just two over 1,800 votes and was 5,600 votes ahead of Arthur Mould, the Labor candidate.

It was a clear-cut win for the Conservatives, and it is believed that the result far exceeded the expectations of Mr. White's own supporters.

The vote was 19,418 for the Conservatives, 11,616 for Mr. White, and 3,184 for Mr. Mould. Of course there were quite a few women who exercised the franchise.

In the 1917 election the total was a little over 17,000. Of course there were quite a few women who exercised the franchise. The campaign in London was a clean one. Personalities stood far in the background and it was only after the polls had been counted that the battle between the three candidates.

For a long time after the returns started to reach The London Advertiser, the right was decided as to who would win. It was only after about half the polls had been heard from that it could be said that Mr. White started to draw away into a comfortable lead.

Mr. Somerville drew an excellent vote, but Mr. White's lead was so great that it was only after about half the polls had been heard from that it could be said that Mr. White started to draw away into a comfortable lead.

The last time a Labor man contested the London seat was in 1905. W. McCandless. He drew 2,957 votes. Did Not Have a Majority.

Mr. White did not have a majority over his two opponents, his lead over Mr. Somerville was 1,802 votes, and Mr. Mould's lead in the 1917 contest. At that time, however, there were only two candidates in the field.

It is also to be noted that Tuesday's contest was the second in which there has been a three-cornered contest in the history of parliamentary fights in the city. The first and only other occasion was in 1900, when C. S. Hyman defeated the late Thos. Beattie and Robert Roadhouse.

The London Advertiser foyer at the newspaper's new home at Richmond and York streets was packed to capacity as the election returns came in, and during the evening several speakers addressed the large crowd.

"I don't think we realize just what we have been lucky in London," said C. R. Somerville. "If so it doesn't seem like it. There are plenty of white spots behind the cloud that is clearing away, and it doesn't look like defeat at all."

"I desire to thank you all for the splendid support which you gave me. Seemingly our effort was not good enough, and so we will have to leave it to another occasion when we will be able to do more, and the others not so much. A lot depends on having the government behind you. They won't have the next time, as it is certain that our next government is going to be Liberal."

"We can be justly proud of what the country has done. Why we lost in London, it is hard to understand. Perhaps we will learn things later that will show the reason."

Congratulations Mould. Mr. Somerville congratulated Mr. Mould on the clean contest he had just won, and also Mr. White on his election.

T. H. Purdon, K.C., likened the election to a shower of rain, and the carrying of the country by the Liberals to the rainbow that usually follows a sun shower.

This beautiful rainbow, Mr. Purdon said, would stretch over the whole of Canada from ocean to ocean, and would have written on it the names of King, Fielding, Lapointe and other Liberal leaders in the country.

These men, he said, would make the strongest government which the country ever had.

"I feel confident Mr. King has carried the country."

N. S. APPLES WIN PRIZE IN BRITAIN

Exhibit Shows Fruit Greatly Improved in Last Decade.

HALIFAX, Dec. 4.—Nova Scotia apples took first prize at the recent imperial fruit show in London, England, an achievement indicative of the recent rapid progress of apple culture in this province. Ten years ago Nova Scotia apples had a rather poor reputation, and on the British markets were bringing from 4 to 10 shillings per barrel, but now they are selling for 12 to 14 shillings.

The People Spoke.

The Meighen government, now, untried and unknown, went to the country, and in that going attempted to dictate to the people of Canada the lines on which they would be judged. They have had their answer, and that answer has been an unqualified repudiation.

The Meighen party scared the voters in 1911—they tried it again in 1921. They won in 1911, but the 1921 campaign of deliberately falsifying the position, the aims and ideals of political opponents, received a rebuke from an indignant electorate that will go down as a classic in the annals of Canadian political history.

As this edition of The Advertiser goes to press, it is conceded that Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is premier of Canada.

His victory is a tribute to the Canadian conception of fair play—it is a stinging rebuke to dragging in the remnants of the anti-American sentiment that was nursed by the Conservatives in 1911.

It is more than that. It is the victory of the common people.

It is a blow at combines that do not come under Mackenzie King's classification as earning a legitimate profit.

It is the voice of the people, who are burdened with more taxes than they are able to pay.

It is the protest, spoken in tones of thunder, of the working people of the Dominion, who resented with every ounce of British blood in their veins the threats of employers being levelled at their daily bread if they dared to vote according to their own reasoning and their own views.

It is the serving of notice on the government at Ottawa that the people of Canada want the affairs of this Dominion transacted in the open House of Commons, and not behind closed doors.

It is a token that the rule of order-in-council has ended; that the gag has been taken from the mouth of the government minority—no matter what political party may constitute that minority.

Above and beyond all else, it is the pronouncing of judgment on a campaign that sought to take the tariff as a camouflage, and under the cover of this smoke-screen bluff the electors into forgetting the scores they had to reckon against the Meighen rule.

Hon. Wm. Lyon Mackenzie King, yesterday the leader of Canadian Liberalism—today the premier of Canada—the Dominion greets you as its chief executive.

To you has been committed a task so stupendous that a man with less courage and vision might shrink from it.

To you the Canadian people have turned in a manner so decisive as to place the full responsibility upon the shoulders of yourself and the men you shall choose to surround you.

To you is given the task of undoing much that has been done—to you is assigned the duty of placing this Canada of ours on the road to honest success and worthy effort.

Your illustrious predecessor, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in 1896 did that very thing for Canada. To you is assigned a great and sacred task, and may the blessing of the Almighty follow you as you set your hand to the helm.

The Result in London.

The result in the city of London was a disappointment to one of the most loyal organizations that was ever brought together to back a political candidate, C. R. Somerville can have the satisfaction of knowing that he went to defeat honorably—that he played the issues and nothing else—that he refrained from any suggestion of intimidation or threats in the entire course of his canvass.

It is an easy matter after any election to indulge in bitter comment on the progress of the campaign. C. R. Somerville fought hard the start was prepared to take, he did not wait until the last moment to deliver straight-from-the-shoulder treatment.

That is the spirit in which C. R. Somerville accepts the verdict of the city of London.

The London Conservatives went to the limit in their fight. They did

Be It Ever So Humble!—Editorial.

—WHEN YOU GO TO SEE YOUR BEST GIRL AND

not hesitate to put threats before the bread and butter of the working-men of London.

The Advertiser considers that London has made a mistake, but it is certain that the industries of this city are just as safe in the hands of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King as they were in the hands of Arthur Meighen, and we are certain that conditions will be such as to prove to the hilt the folly of the species of forced hysteria on which the government campaign was conducted in this city.

Now that the contest is over The Advertiser is willing, with the above reservations, to accept the verdict of the voters of London. We feel certain that any measure Mr. Frank White has to bring before the Commons in the interests of the city of London will receive generous and fair treatment at the hands of the Liberal government.

Another Mistake.

It is generally realized that it was a serious mistake on the part of firms to unduly press upon their employees the fact that the company was voting one way or the other in the election. There have been all sorts of attempts made to justify this form of election campaign. The most popular method is to show that the interests of the firm and the interests of the employees are wrapped up together, and what is good for the firm is bound to be good sooner or later for the employees. The changes have been rung fairly regularly on this plea, and apart from that there is hardly anything that can be said in favor of the practice of trying to unduly influence employees to vote according to the desires or wishes of their employers.

Against the practice there is much to be said. One of the greatest considerations is the effect of such action on the future conduct and service of the employees. There is not a man in existence who will not roundly resent being told that it is very much in his own interests that he shall go ahead and vote for such and such a candidate. He quite rightly regards his vote as a thing that is granted to him as a right because of his citizenship in the country. His citizenship to him means freedom, and if that freedom does not work out in actual practice, then he is not going to prize it very highly.

The fortunate part of it is that there are many more firms which never mention elections to their employees than those which seek to dominate and unduly influence the way in which they shall vote.

Trying to browbeat voters is poor policy. It is building on foundations of sand and old timbers.

State Ownership.

Schemes of government ownership that came into existence during the war in European countries are having varied success in making good in present times.

A drastic arrangement of state ownership in France is contained in the Revue des Deux Mondes, one of France's highest economic authorities, the writer being Raphael Georges Levy.

Large groups of railroads, including those recently acquired with Alsace-Lorraine, are now operated by the French government. The tobacco industry and the match business also are under control of the government, as are the telephone and telegraph.

The charge of M. Levy is because government ownership means over-loaded payrolls, relaxed individual effort, waste and extravagance, and also the tendency to collect less government revenue from these concerns than if they were under private operation. A government wants to make a showing in order to have a talking point when appealing to the people.

What then, should a government do to function properly? M. Levy has this to say:

"Let us restrict the government to its true attributes. National defence, foreign affairs, the administration of justice, public works beyond municipal resources, and public instruction without pretending to assume complete monopoly of the same—these are a field large enough to engage the activities of ministers and parliaments. Everywhere else let us permit the country to do its own business, and let us replace functionaries with free men responsible for their enterprises."

Or, in other words, M. Levy believes, as many Canadians believe, that a government has no business doing for the people those things which the people can do better for themselves.

Be Careful.

A cat has adopted a young rat, creating great excitement on Wyoming street, Charleston, W. Va. This must make heated argument among older rats. The adopted rat, granted that his mother warned him against cats, probably thinks he is lucky, and that a change has come over the rules of procedure.

Nevertheless, the cat's appetite for rats is a natural law, and we earnestly urge this young rat to keep an eye on the teeth of the tabby who is mothering him.

At some time or other, nearly every one of us is like the adopted rat. We think we have found "easy picking"—that the inexorable laws of nature will make an exception in our case. Doctors and bankrupt courts know differently. The road to everything worth while is a long, hard road, with very few shortcuts.

LITTLE 'TISERS

All the political scoundrels, on all sides of politics, will now please fold their tents like the Arabs, and as silently steal away.

The big political issue in Western Canada, says the office boy, is which party first let in the grasshoppers to eat bands off the wheat sheaves.

The advice given to their employees by a number of industrial concerns in Canada, in plain English, ran like this: "Vote the way you're told, or out you go."

A Nova Scotia farmer fell into a tank of hard cider. The rescue party worked so diligently that there ain't a dipper of cider left, even by turning the tank on edge.

The family with the head of the house out of work will be pleased to learn that Mr. O'Connor has tucked away another $8,000 of the country's money for "revising the statutes."

Down East a political candidate was being chased, when he took refuge in the cellar. In most places when neighbors see a man heading for the cellar, the chase would become even more acute.

The critics who are certain that the Washington conference is a deep scheme to kill Britain pay scant courtesy to Hon. Arthur Balfour and Admiral Beatty. They are there, and approve of the proceedings.

The bravest man in the world is the Washington reporter who asked Sir Robert Borden if reciprocity wouldn't be a good thing for Canada. Of course the reporters didn't know that reciprocity was the boat hook that Sir Robert used to pull his scow out of the swamp.

A California town has an oil gusher that is going to make so much money that the folks there will not have to pay taxes. Guelph also had a scheme once that was to lead straight to the taxless age. Some day, now that elections are over, perhaps the Guelph Mercury can tell us how it didn't work.

A Windsor woman has two husbands, both of whom live under the same roof. The trio got into court a few days ago, and told the beak that all was going well. Quite so. Perhaps you've noticed that families which are getting along all right rarely find it necessary to tell the world about it in the police court news.

Mail clerks in United States are being armed with sawed-off muskets to use on robbers. Wonder if they have never heard of a good old charge of rock salt in a muzzle loader? That used to be the standard side-arm of the man who had a good crop of apples, especially if they were ripe and the fence had a lot of holes in it.

The Woodstock Sentinel-Review has this to say of long-winded speakers: "But the long-winded speaker who usually has nothing to say, and who, once he gets on his feet, seems to forget how to sit down, is just an affliction. There is far too much talking." Boy, look up the back papers and see when O'Connor or Bennett spoke in Woodstock.

Some of the Canadian banks are doing effective advertising by showing, from a perusal of the "Lost and Found" columns of the daily papers, how much property of value is carried carelessly? From there the point is made that valuables are much safer in the keeping of a bank. The advertiser who makes his copy human and readable is going to attract attention.

The Toronto Mail did its best to chip in on the election now and then. Here is its reason No. 10, why people should vote for Meighen:

10. That the anti-British element, the Red element, and extremists generally are with the Opposition in this fight.

Now, how did the Mail happen to forget the I. W. W. and the I. O. U. group?

Out of the flood of political wisdom that passed under the old mill during the late campaign, we retain this gem from the Hamilton Spectator:

"A statesman like Premier Meighen must be imbued with the loftiest ideals, to be able to withstand the abuse and calumny heaped upon him by a venomously partisan press."

For the benefit of new-comers we hasten to remark that the Spec. is a Tory paper.

The total circulation of newspapers has doubled since 1914. People are learning to look to newspapers for their information. News-papers are the backbone of the movement that keeps Canada from being inundated with U. S. literature. It is a fact that newspapers are more thoroughly read now than ever before. The advertising columns are more interesting than they used to be. The advertisers have learned the art of putting news and reading value in their appeals. Advertising today has real news value.

"Wireless" will play an important part in the near future, says the Christian Science Monitor, in making Australia and the United States better known to each other, whether the means of communication be an imperial relay system or a semi-private undertaking. The recent statement in the Australian House of Representatives by the Prime Minister, Mr. W. M. Hughes, should place the fact beyond doubt. But it will depend upon the quality of the news and the ability of the propagandist to meddle effectively whether the wireless is to sow national ill-feeling or cement brotherhood.

The Vancouver Province claims to have discovered a real orator in Eastern Canada, who wound up his campaign like this: "The eastern campaign orator is credited with closing his speech with the following terse words left nothing unsaid that he might have said 'Elect me or not as you will,' declared the perspiring windjammer, 'I shall at least have the satisfaction of having conducted a clean and courteous campaign, devoid of mud-slinging or misrepresentation or abuse. Rather than descend to personalities, as has that social leper, that moral outcast, that vituperative and villainous viper, my esteemed opponent, I should prefer to remain at home—'"

TO THE EDITOR

LONDON'S FUTURE.

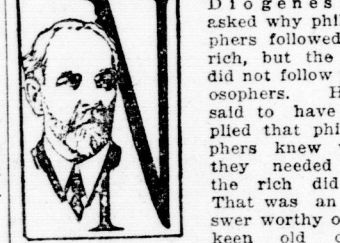

Editor Advertiser:
Sir,—A short time ago there appeared in your valuable paper a very prominent article on the proposed building of a bridge over the river from "Windsor to Detroit."

The article as then published suggested to my mind the tremendous possibilities arising from the carrying out of that project for this dear little city of ours. To my mind this city is second to none in the Dominion as a natural beauty spot, and I laud the sentiments and business foresight of the men in our councils who have been trying to direct the attention of this community towards making parks and glens, with boating facilities on the river between the city and Springbank.

As I sit in quiet meditation, trying to visualize this city twenty years from now, there comes before my mind's eye a picture of that great bridge at Windsor, the greatest feat of engineering genius attracting hundreds of thousands of tourists, who, like tourists all over the world, are out to see the sights, most attractive with the greatest amount of added pleasure, which must be catered for, by good highways, good hotels and holiday accommodations. I fancy that now, with such an attractive feature for tourists' eyes in that wonderful bridge, there will come to London, an increased awakening and desire to make this city of ours a real resting place and holiday resort, where tourists will stay for a few weeks, before speeding on to see the other wonders of Canadian enterprise which may be situated in other quarters by this great bridge. I feel so unable to express all I want to say about this project, without encroaching too much on pen and greater mind may see fit to take advantage of this line of thought for the bettering and beautifying of our even now very pretty little, yet big city. It can be done. Yours truly,
VISIONIST,

WEALTH OF KNOWLEDGE

BY DR. WM. E. BARTON.

Philosophers knew that they lacked money, and they knew what money would buy; rich men did not realize how many things they lacked that could not be bought with money.

This same Diogenes, when visited by Alexander the Great, received his royal visitor without rising; and when the king asked him, "What can I do for you?" replied, "Stand out of my sunshine."

Alexander is said to have remarked, "Were I not Alexander, I would be Diogenes."

I would not, I would rather be Plato or Aristotle, broad and benignant, or Socrates, great and massive and serene in faith, than to be brilliant and cynical like Diogenes. Diogenes was a kind of sordid Socrates.

But Diogenes was right about the purchases of money and those of truth. A wiser man than he wrote of wisdom that "After merchandise is better than the merchandise of silver, and none of the things thou canst desire are to be compared to her."

There are limits to what a man can do with his material wealth. He may buy 10 automobiles, but he cannot ride in more than one at a time.

He may order from his tailor a hundred coats, but he has only one back.

He may direct his cook to prepare a feast for 20 men, but he can eat only one man's portion.

Some years ago a man reputed to be the richest in the world gave a banquet to his friends. They feasted on the good things he prepared and paid for, and he sat at the head of the table eating a bowl of crackers and milk. His physician would not permit him to eat anything else. His money would not buy him good digestion.

But one reaches no such limit in knowledge. Its wealth compounds its dividends constantly. Its bank never defaults. An ancient wise man said, "Buy the truth and sell it not." Invest in knowledge, and use it.

ETON COLLARS LIMITED.
London, England, Dec. 6.—The famous Eton collar is now restricted to younger students. The athletic committee has passed a resolution permitting members of the football team to wear stand-up collars.

SONG BRINGS LIGHT.
Beaconsfield, England.—When the lights failed during the services at the Congregational church here, Dr. Harrison, the pastor, asked the congregation to sing "Lead, Kindly Light." Then the lights went up.

Preston Forest; secretary, treasurer, Miss E. Buchanan; Petrolia; committee, Miss M. Donald, Sarnia, and R. W. Sharpe, London.

H. Ruthven McDonald has been engaged to assist in furnishing the program for the Presbyterian Sabbath School at Dutton on Christmas night.

The first contest for a Demorest silver medal in Glencoe was held on Thursday night in the Thompson Hall, under the auspices of the R. T. of T. Rev. R. W. Ross, M.A., occupied the chair, and the judges were Messrs. George M. Harrison, N. M. Bell, B.A., and J. Y. McLachlin, M.D.

The following competed for the medal: Misses Electa Darville, B. Brown, Maud Nison, Mary Crothers, Helen Young, Minnie Doble and Master Oscar Howard. The medal was awarded to Miss Helen Young.

The missionary conference held in the Baptist Church, Tillsonburg, was well attended. Revs. McEwen and McLaren of Toronto; Dack of Simcoe; Shaw of Brownsville, and Bosworth of the Grand Linge Mission were present, and took part in the discussions.

At Seaforth on Friday a poultry and pet stock Association was formed for the county. M. Y. McLean, Seaforth, was elected honorary president; Dr. Scott, Seaforth, president; Albert Orisk, Clinton, vice-president; W. Hartley, Seaforth, secretary. Among the directors are: Rev. W. J. Ford and Walter Coats, Clinton.

The regular general meeting of the Western Ontario Commercial Travelers' Association was held in the rooms of the association on Saturday night last, and was very largely attended. The popular president, Mr. J. M. Dillon, occupied the chair, and among others present were Messrs. Alf Robinson (secretary), Alex. Fraser, Wm. Connor, Sam Munro, Jos. Pocock, W. S. Case, Harry Line, James Smith, C. W. Nicholls, J. M. Logan, E. H. Grenfell.

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL.
TONSILS AND ADENOIDS

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.
HERE must be thousands of children who are attending school and making little headway through no fault of their own.

Such children have adenoids and enlarged tonsils, and their parents more than likely if not absolutely ignorant of the condition, are either indifferent or fear to have the operation performed.

The fear of operation, even the simple one that it is, for tonsils and adenoids, is one of the greatest obstacles modern surgery confronts, and will allow themselves to be endangered by disease and death.

That is what neglect to remove enlarged tonsils and adenoids amounts to. The best time to remove adenoids and enlarged tonsils is when they are first recognizable by a physician. If they remain long they lower the resistance of the body to disease, making the child particularly susceptible to diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough.

Adenoids are a small, soft, reddish growth, which comes in the back of the throat, where the nose and throat join. A child having adenoids breathes with open mouth, has frequent colds, and may have constant earache or become deaf.

Adenoids often dull the expression of the eye, destroy the resonance of the voice and distort the facial expression so as to produce a blank, idiotic stare. They hinder mental development by interfering with proper physical development. For this reason "repeaters" at school are frequently found to be afflicted with adenoids.

Adenoids and large tonsils hold poisonous germs. These germs often are carried by the blood to the heart and cause heart disease. Sometimes they are carried in quantities to the joints and cause rheumatism.

Both adenoids and tonsils can be removed at the same time by a simple and practically harmless operation.

READ YOUR CHARACTER
(By Digby Phillips.)

NO. 54—SMALL WRITING.

There's one thing to be remembered about the difference in reading character by physical indications and by writing. The physical signs are significant because they are inherited from the same sources that the characteristics are. In the case of handwriting, however, the signs are the direct result of character.

Assuming that the writing you are considering has not been done by a small hand for a special purpose, but as a result of nature's tendency, there are many things to be learned from you may draw as to the character of the writer.

The phrase "still waters run deep" should be written in a very small hand, because it applies rather well to the writers of small hands.

Such people are as a rule marked by more than average intellectuality, as well as by a natural leaning toward culture.

Again, they have a tendency to come to their conclusions through reason rather than instinct of desire. They readily develop more than average originality, and possess the faculty of concentration in high degree.

They're not likely to be impulsive, but rather patient, self-contained and self-restrained, capable of holding quietly to their opinions, and not easily dominated either by the wills or suggestions of others. They make pretty good "hermits," being self-sufficient in the literal sense, but not necessarily secluded. They are primarily good brain-workers, and able to stand fatigue well.

TO REDUCE PRINTERS' STRIKE ASSESSMENT

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—Word was received today from the headquarters of the International Typographical Union by Secretary George Murray, of the Toronto Typos, that the strike assessment had been reduced from ten per cent a week to seven per cent, beginning with the December earnings of the union printers. The assessment has created a revenue in the United States and Canada of about a million dollars a month, whereas the strike pay each month has been about $800,000.

CLAIM MONTREAL MAN PLANNED IMPERSONATION

MONTREAL, Dec. 6.—Ernest Pitt, prominent real estate broker and one of the leaders in the political organization of Herbert M. Marler, Liberal candidate in St. Lawrence-St. George division this city, was arrested this afternoon, charged with conspiring to impersonate.

He was arrested by private detectives, who entered the Liberal headquarters, placed Pitt in an automobile and took him before Judge Leet, after which he was released on $2500 personal bail. The warrant was sworn out by Thomas J. Smith, 44 St. Patrick street, who gave his occupation as sailor.

As a Man Thinketh

THE old adage which said a man's thinking controlled his subsequent activities and condition, is equally true of a community for the very simple reason that achievement is always preceded by thought, so, whatever is accomplished in the life of a man or community is the result of thought.

What are you thinking about current topics pertaining to your community—London? You might say—"What good is my opinion?"

Suppose Edison had said that; suppose Marconi took that attitude; suppose Alexander Graham Bell felt as you do; can you imagine how it would have retarded our civilization?

It is true, we cannot all be Edisons, Marconis or Bells, but we are all endowed with the faculty for thinking intelligently.

So that you might give expression to your thoughts on any subject of public interest, the "Letters to the Editor" section was started and is maintained in

GREEKS BATTLE WITH TURKS ON 120-MILE FRONT

General Describes the Greek Position As Being Purely a Defensive One.

TROOPS WRECK RAILWAY

Capture of Turkish War Material Revealed It Was Being Made in Russia.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Greeks and Turks are facing each other on a 120-mile front of trenches and earthworks in Asia Minor. These positions are likely to remain stationary until the spring, according to Sir Gen. Xanthopoulos, Strategos of the Greek general staff.

The general, who has come to London with Premier Gounaris and Foreign Minister Baltazis, described the present Greek position as a purely defensive one. Twelve divisions of 9,500 combatants each are holding a line almost due north to south between Eskishehr and Afium Karahissar, at a distance of about twenty miles east of the railway connecting these two important strategic points, with adequate protection on both ends.

"Although no big fighting has occurred for about a month, it must not be imagined that military activity has entirely ceased," said the general. "Skirmishes and minor raids are of daily occurrence."

Gen. Strategos then described the Greek dash for Ankara by nine divisions last August. The River Sangaria, often mentioned in dispatches, first runs west to east, then turns northward, and then flows again westward, forming a kind of hollow square. It is here that the last big operations took place.

The Greek forces launched their attack crossing the upper course of the Sangaria southward, and then made a semi-circular sweep northward in the direction of Ankara, through the salt desert, driving back the Turks from position to position on most difficult terrain.

"Although the capture of the enemy capital was not our immediate object, we would have taken Ankara if we had had another month of summer," the general explained. "But after twenty-four days of hard fighting and marching, the troops were very much in need of a rest."

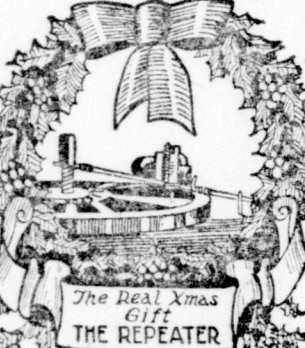

"We were then only some forty miles from Ankara; but if he had pushed on after the necessary period of rest, it would have meant starting a fresh offensive about the end of September, when the bad season sets in. Our forces, therefore, recrossed the Sangaria, this time on the south to north bend, in perfect order and not in flight, as had been erroneously reported. The Turks, thinking that they had us beaten, crossed after us, but we threw them back across the river. That was between Sept. 15 and 20."

"Meanwhile we broke up the railway running eastward from Eski-Shehr to Ankara. We tore it up by rail. This again proves that we were not in flight. No fleeing army could do that. We did the job thoroughly—there is practically nothing left of that railway now."

"We next set about to raze the hollow square, with a view to making our position quite secure. On one occasion, Sept. 23, the Kemalists cavalry made a

U. S. SETS LIMIT FOR PICKETING

Must Not Extend to Point of "Importunity and Dogging."

SUPREME COURT RULING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Picketing in connection with a labor strike is unjustifiable if carried to the point of "importunity and dogging," the supreme court ruled in a decision handed down yesterday.

Decision as to whether specific instances of picketing come within the court's inhibition must be left for determination on the facts in each case. It was declared, but the court suggested that pickets should have the right of "conversation, communication and persuasion," and might further be limited to "one representative for each point of ingress and egress."

One Dissenting Judge. The opinion of the court, which was read by Chief Justice Taft, was approved by all the associate justices except Mr. Clark, who did not state the grounds of his dissent.

The case arose out of a strike at the American steel foundry plant at Granite City, Cal., where 1,600 men were normally employed. After shutting down its resumed operations as an open shop with about 350 men, about one-half of whom belonged to labor unions.

The Tri-City Trades Council, upon the refusal of the manager of the plant to negotiate, declared a strike, and established pickets. There was considerable violence by the picketers in all the courts intervened and restricted their activities. The council thereupon contested the authority of the courts to interfere with its picketing plan.

"In going to and from work, men have a right to a free passage without obstruction as the streets are," the supreme court held, "consistent with the rights of others to enjoy the privilege."

Dogging Is Unjustifiable. While attempts to influence another's action cannot be regarded as aggression or a violation of the other's right, the court continued, "importunity and dogging become unjustifiable annoyance and obstruction which is likely to soon savor of intimidation."

In the present case "all arguments advanced and all persuasion used were intimidation." It was declared, adding that pickets should "not be abusive, libelous or threatening," nor "approach individuals together." This rule, the court explained, might "be varied in other cases." The courts must, however, "prevent the inevitable intimidation of the presence of groups of pickets, but to allow missionaries."

The action of the council in calling the strike under consideration was declared not "malicious."

Principle Still Remains. "The strike became a lawful instrument in a lawful economic struggle or competition between employer and employee," the chief justice stated, "as to the share or division between them of the joint product of labor and capital. The principle of the unlawfulness of maliciously criticizing laborers still remains, and action may be maintained therefor in proper cases, but to make it applicable to local labor unions, in such a case as this, seems to us to be unreasonable."

3 BROTHERS IN CHARGE OF ANGLICAN PARISHES

FREDERICTON, N. B., Dec. 6.—Rev. E. B. Hooper, rector of All Saints' Church, St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, who has lately been created a canon of Christ Church Cathedral in the Diocese of Fredericton, is one of three brothers in the Anglican ministry in Canada. They are sons of the late Capt. F. H. Hooper, who, after retiring from service with the Imperial army in India, came to Canada, resided in Fredericton for some years, and afterwards removed to Toronto.

The other two of the late Capt. Hooper's sons in the Anglican ministry are Rev. Hugh Hooper, formerly of the Diocese of Fredericton, and now of North Vancouver, B.C., and Rev. Lewis Hooper, formerly of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and now chaplain of the Canadian naval base at Vancouver.

Canon Hooper, who was rector of St. Paul's (Valley) Church, St. John, before the war, had a distinguished career overseas with the chaplain services of the Canadian expeditionary forces, and upon his return was engaged as a D. S. C. R. chaplain for some time.

BOARD OPPOSES BECK TRACK PLAN

Offers Another Proposition Regarding Radial Entrance To Toronto.

TORONTO, Dec. 6.—The board of harbor commissioners for Toronto sent a letter to Mayor T. L. Church today stating that the commissioners would not consent to "alienating the whole six-track right-of-way" from the Humber River, in the west end of the city, to Morley avenue on the east, as has been insisted upon by Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Power Commission, in connection with the prospective power and radial railway "clean-up," which Sir Adam is conducting on behalf of the hydro commission and the City of Toronto. Instead, the harbor commission offers to provide a double track right-of-way for the proposed radial entrance into this city.

The mayor expressed disappointment upon reading the harbor commissioners' letter. He said there would be a conference tomorrow between the board of control and harbor commission on the matter.

and you will enjoy the best of health. Mrs. Frank Wilsey, R. R. 3, Belmont, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with constipation for nearly two years. I had bad headaches, faint and dizzy spells, and would blot terribly. I was nearly discouraged, for I had tried so many things that gave me no relief. My mother got me a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and told me to give them a fair trial. After I had taken one vial I felt much better and continued their use. Now I have no faint and dizzy spells and am gaining nicely. I would not be without Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for the world."

FAVORS RANCHING IN SOUTH ALBERTA

George Lane Declares Country Unsuitable for General Farming.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 5.—Expressing the belief that Southern Alberta is naturally a ranching country and an unsafe country to farm in, George Lane, widely-known rancher of the Bar-U Ranch, Alberta, when interviewed here deplored the falling off in population of the small towns scattered throughout the southern ranching districts as shown by the recent census.

"It has been demonstrated by this time that a lot of the country in Southern Alberta and Southern Saskatchewan is ranching land suited to no other kind of agricultural use," Mr. Lane said. "For my part," he continued, "I have always thought it a very unsafe country to farm in. I have always said so, and have always acted upon my belief that it was an ideal country to ranch in."

"This was seen by Sir Clifford Sifton, who, when minister of the interior, had the country mapped out for ranching and for ranching only, based on the advice and experience of some of the best experts in his department. His decision has proved to have been absolutely right."

"The shrinking populations are, it may be said," Mr. Lane declared, "the latest evidence of the rightfulness of the position Sir Clifford took in the matter. If other proofs be looked for, I have only to mention the fact that the country which was so profitable as a ranching area, has under the present settled form cost both the Dominion and provincial governments millions of dollars, which they have expended in trying to uphold and keep on the land the people who were unwisely allowed to go in there at the outset."

WANT TO VOTE RIGHT IF THEY VOTE AT ALL

Trip Gaily, But Seriously, To Federal Polls.

"I'm out bright and early to vote for Mr. Somerville," announced a pretty young matron as she tripped down the street to the polling booth in the bright hours of the early forenoon on Tuesday. "I think he will make such a splendid mayor."

"But, it isn't mayor he is running for this time. It is the House of Commons," corrected her acquaintance.

"I don't care what he is running for. He will be a good one, anyway," said the young matron. "Don't you know what a fine mayor he was?"

And with that she passed along to mark her ballot for the Liberal candidate.

Not every woman in London took her politics in such a casual and happy-go-lucky manner as the June bride, who just couldn't give her attention to public affairs when she had so much settling up of her own home to do, but vote? You couldn't cheat her out of that.

Women Serious.

Great seriousness and quiet enthusiasm characterized women voters, both nature and just past their majority. Some of the girls, especially, were jubilant over the right of exercising the franchise. Others confessed they didn't feel satisfied that they had mastered sufficiently the election issues before ballot-marking day came upon them. Most of the women voters took voting seriously as a matter of course. Even the grandmothers seemed to forget that they hadn't been accustomed to possessing the franchise all their lives. In a good many cases they had to be shown how to fold their ballots, but apart from that, retiring into a polling booth and placing a cross opposite the name of the favorite candidate came as natural as if a federal election were a daily event.

"I think that the Dominion franchise is one of the greatest educational factors that has ever come to our Canadian women," was the opinion expressed by Mrs. F. E. Leonard, president of the Women's Canadian Club. "I have been delighted at the splendid awakening of women to the importance of understanding and keeping in touch with national issues. The right to vote, I believe, is giving to our womanhood a new sense of citizenship. Because they enjoy the right to vote they feel they must inform themselves on national as well as civic question. I feel strongly that our Canadian Club has had great value from an educational standpoint, and it possesses great possibilities for the future in giving women wider knowledge and broader vision to fit them for their full citizenship."

Campaign Puzzled.

The charming and capable young president of the Girls' Canadian Club, Miss Gladys Baldwin, felt that election day had come all too soon for herself and some, at least, of her equally earnest associates.

"Personally," she said, "Tuesday morning found me a bit bewildered. We asked the different candidates to present their platforms to us and we tried to read the different sides. The result was that it was puzzling, to say the least.

"Statements seemed so contradictory. Before another federal election, however, we will be thoroughly prepared. I feel that the Girls' Canadian Club can be a real school to educate us along citizenship lines. We must be ready to vote with certainty, not only along but by the time of the next municipal elections."

"By the way, it doesn't look as if the women of London were taking their municipal franchise very seriously when they permit women candidates for the school board to go down and out," said Miss Margaret McCrimmon, regent of the Sir George Ross Chapter, I.O.D.E., and an earnest and talented young social welfare worker, was at the polling place betimes.

Wants Ideals in Politics.

"I think it is a wonderful privilege to vote," she said, her eyes shining with pleasure and satisfaction. "But this isn't my first vote. I came home from a visit and missed a dance in order to vote on the prohibition referendum. I was so thrilled then that my vote was going to count. I felt as if the little polling booth couldn't hold me. With regard to federal politics, I feel strongly that there is a very great deal we younger women have to learn and to understand. Watching this election campaign which is just over, I have felt keenly that I would like to see more ideals and vision in public life, otherwise there doesn't seem much point in having a part in it. Rectification and mud-throwing are very distasteful."

"Why not make your chosen party live up to its ideals?"

The young regent laughed. "That would be a worth while mission," she said.

Miss Beth Pennington, secretary of the Ontario Provincial Council of Girl Guides, sees in voting a logical development for the Girl Guide. "Girl Guide training," she said to The Advertiser, "teaches a girl to be self-reliant, to think and act for herself. Its aim is to teach her to be a good, intelligent citizen. When the Girl Guide who is trained today develops into a voter some years hence, it is to be expected that she will exercise her judgment."

Must Decide For Themselves.

Miss Phyllis Kennedy, treasurer of the Girls' Canadian Club, felt satisfied that after a thorough study of platforms she had voted for the right candidate. "Now that we have the franchise," she said, "and it is a wonderful privilege, I feel that it is our duty to take it most seriously and to thoroughly inform ourselves on issues. I think it is a great mistake to tie up to a party just because one's family has belonged to that party. In the next five years we will have an opportunity to watch closely the records of the men elected now. What our young women must do is to learn to think and decide for themselves."

Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, secretary of the War Memorial Children's Hospital committee, and regent of the Campbell Becher Chapter, I.O.D.E., laughingly remarked as she reached her own door after voting, "I feel as if I had come of age, just like the boys. With their federal vote, I think a good many wo-

Fitting "Misfit" Misses With Frocks

Designer Who Does It Says "Perfect 36" Is a Snare and Delusion.

Three of Madame Edna Renaud's models, all of different heights, but wearing the same dress. Inset: Madame Renaud.

BY MARIAN HALE.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—An expert at figures. That's Madame Edna Renaud. But she's not a bookkeeper—Not a bank teller—Not an auditor.

She's a designer of frocks for "misfits" for a Cleveland garment manufacturer.

Madame Renaud has made a study of women's figures for ten years. Here's how she boils down her knowledge for you:

"The perfect 36 is a snare and a delusion. Measurements of this so-called standard figure were adopted by pattern makers more than 50 years ago and the figure of the modern woman is much different.

"Insurance statistics say 68 per cent of American women are less than five feet five and one-half inches high. So the short woman, not the perfect 36, is the standard woman.

"According to the old 'perfect 36' standard, 95 per cent of the women nowadays are misfits. And that's what keeps me busy."

"The usual way of making a dress for a small woman has been to take a 36 pattern and 'grade down' two inches all around.

"That fails to take into consideration that the small woman usually has a short waist and wide shoulder spread."

Madame Renaud can put the same dress on three types of women and have it fit—without alteration.

She makes four sizes for quality production—14½, 16½, 18½ and 20½. But they're all really size 16½ and will fit a short girl, medium-sized girl or tall girl without being changed.

MAKE FAREWELL PRESENTATION

A happy evening was spent on Saturday at the home of Mr. William Taylor, Piccadilly street, when the bakers of the Neel Baking Company presented Mr. William Webber with a gold watchchain ornament and knife, suitably inscribed, taking also the opportunity of wishing him bon voyage previous to his departure for England. Mr. Frank Lawson made the presentation. The evening was spent in music and cards and a tempting buffet supper was served.

USE SLOAN'S TO WARD OFF PAIN

LITTLE aches grow into big pains unless warded off by an application of Sloan's. Don't rub, as it penetrates. A counter-irritant, Sloan's scatters congestion, and soon relieves the ache and pain.

Rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, lame back, stiff joints, sprains and strains won't fight long against Sloan's Liniment.

Always keep it handy for instant use. For more than forty years, Sloan's Liniment has helped thousands the world over. You won't be an exception. It certainly does produce relief. You just know from its stimulating, healthy odor that it will do you good. Ask your neighbor.

REPORT ON TALENT MONEY.

Reports on success in raising "talent money" constituted an interesting feature of the meeting Tuesday afternoon in the armories of the 7th Regiment, Chapter, I. O. D. E.

GIVING $2,500 TO HOSPITAL.

The Trafalgar Chapter, I. O. D. E., of which Mrs. Ram is regent, has decided to increase its subscription to the War Memorial Children's Hospital from $1,000 to $2,500. This step was taken at the meeting held Tuesday afternoon, of which Mrs. N. J. Atkins was hostess, in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Atkins, 14 Bellevue avenue. Plans were made for a series of card parties in order to raise the money.

KNOLLWOOD PARK BAZAAR.

A successful event in Knollwood Park Presbyterian Church was the annual bazaar held by the Women's Association, under the convener'ship of the president, Mrs. Short. Gaily decorated, the booths lent to the schoolroom a most festive appearance.

Those presiding at the various booths were: Sewing and fancywork, convener, Mrs. Taylor, assisted by Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Pool and Mrs. Horner; home-made cooking, Mrs. Eller, Mrs. Swick and Mrs. Dixon; home-made candy booth, Mrs. A. Greenslade, Miss Emily Bagot, Miss Neome Greenslade; tearoom, Mrs. Baugh, Mrs. Arnold, Mrs. Mould, Mrs. Scottick; bran tub grab, Mr. Fox.

HYATT AVENUE MISSION CIRCLE.

The Christmas meeting of the Do-Your-Bit Mission Circle of the Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Bluman, 239 Buryway street. The Christmas thankoffering was taken, after which Miss Hyford and Miss Hutchinson gave a delightful duet. Following the meeting, the president, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Heritage, served a dainty supper.

CLEAR $125.

The sum of one hundred and twenty-five dollars was cleared from a bazaar held on Saturday afternoon in the primary room of Dundas Centre Methodist Church in aid of the Mission Band. The booths were artistically adorned with Christmas decorations and vari-colored flowers were effectively used on the tables, which displayed pretty wares. A dainty tea-room, in charge of Miss L. McCulloch, attracted many. Here Mrs. Weeks, president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Gordon, president of the Mission Circle, presided over the tea cups. Miss Jean McNaughton was convener of a most successful fancy work booth. Miss Lillian Brazil in charge of a home-made cooking stall laden with an array of tempting cookies, pies and cakes, and Miss Bonnie Banks sold delicious candy. Mrs. Wm. Edlington, superintendent of the Mission Band, general convener, welcomed the shoppers.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN. HOLIDAY MENUS

UNTIL we study menus and recipes of other people we little realize how simple our meals are. The English Christmas dinner is amazing in its array of meats and side dishes. A typical dinner in the ordinary English household would begin with soup, remove scum. Simmer slowly for two and a half hours. Strain through cheesecloth and cool stock. Remove fat. Put stock in kettle with the egg white and crushed shell, and the coarsely chopped beef and veal, moistened with a little cold water. Stir well and bring to the boiling point. Simmer 20 minutes.

Strain into a fresh saucepan, add lemon juice, and about 3/4-cup of the meat of the head cut in small, neat pieces. Taste and add more salt and pepper if necessary. Let boil up once and serve. This will serve eight persons.

Chicken Creams.
One pound raw chicken, free from skin and bone; 1/2-cup thick white sauce, 1/2-cup double cream, 1 egg, salt and pepper, truffles.

Chop chicken finely and pound until smooth, adding egg and white sauce gradually. Rub through a sieve. Whip cream and fold into first mixture. Season with salt and pepper. Fill eight very small buttered molds. Steam about 25 minutes.

Remove from molds onto small plates, garnish with truffles and serve with a white sauce to which the yolk of an egg has been added. The sauce should not be poured over the creams, but served in a dish.

Christmas Pudding.
One and one-half cups light brown sugar, 1 cup cleaned currants, 1 cup seeded raisins, 1 cup chopped suet, 1 cup mashed potato, 1/2-cup grated raw carrot, 1 cup browned bread crumbs, 1 cup flour, 2 ounces shredded candied orange peel, 1/2-teaspoon salt, 1/2-teaspoon grated nutmeg, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk.

The coarse stale crumbs from the soft part of the loaf. Spread on a pie pan and brown in the oven. Scald milk and pour over crumbs. Let stand half an hour. Mix dry ingredients, add eggs well beaten and the softened crumbs. Mix thoroughly and turn into two well-buttered molds. Steam four hours. Serve with lemon sauce.

Black Coffee.
Allow 3 tablespoons ground coffee to each cup of boiling water. Scald coffee pot and put in coffee. The coffee may be tied in a large cotton cloth bag. Pour boiling water through bag, pressing it with a silver fork. Pour off a cup and pour back through bag. Do this two or three times. Cover closely and let stand ten minutes on the back of the stove.

MOTHER!

Move Child's Bowels with
"California Fig Syrup"

Even a cross, fidgety, bilious, or constipated child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." A teaspoonful never fails to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the sour bile and undigested food out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

BY CYNTHIA GREY.
A noisy man or woman is not necessarily ill-bred, but we should watch ourselves very carefully, for we are inclined to be loud, not to give this impression.

There are occasions when we should be almost noiseless, and one of these is when we are eating. In the serving of our meals, we should try to provide perfect silence. The cheap ill-managed restaurant has a perpetual clatter, the waiters rattle dishes and call out orders, while in the perfectly appointed dining-room there is absolute quietness and calm. The waiters move silently and handle the dishes in such a way that there is no confusion.

We, too, can acquire this atmosphere in our private dining-rooms by using our knives and forks and eating carefully.

It is not too much to say that the ability to remain silent when necessary is the test of good breeding. The man or woman who shifts noisily about in a chair in a public place, who whispers and drops a program, sighs aloud and shuffles the feet at the theatre, is lacking in good breeding.

RETURNS SONGS.
Dear Miss Grey—I am sending the songs back that you sent me, and thank you very much for them. I have made an extra copy of both songs for you, as they are asked for so much. It will soon be Christmas again; can you tell me a nice present for a girl friend? Forget-Me-Not, I have been looking for a letter from you.

Thank you for making extra copies of the songs. If you had told me the age of your friend, I might have been able to help you with a few suggestions.

SENDS CORNCOB.
Dear Miss Grey—I send you a corncob teapot handle by today's mail. Hope you get it all right. I see among the letters some time ago where someone was wanting velvet patches for a quilt. If that person will pay postage on same, I have a lot I will send her, as I have completed my quilt. Have any of the Boxes a house hydrangea, or an outdoor one? I would like to get one of each. I am getting along fine with my block. I have collected $2.10 on it, besides the names Miss Grey and Tip sent me, and everyone declares it is a pretty block.

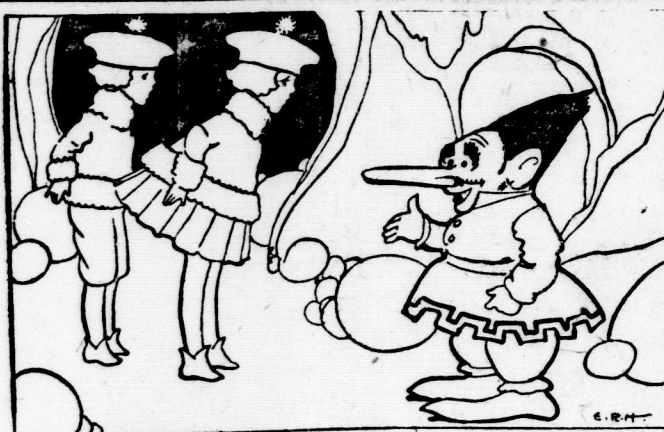

EASTERN STAR.
The corncob reached me this morning, and I think it is very pretty. They are so useful. Am pleased to hear your block is coming on so nicely.

WANTS SONGS.
Dear Cynthia—I have written to your page several times, and I certainly do think it is wonderful. I would like to get the songs "Marry," "I Know What It Means to be Lonely," and "Bells of St. Mary's." If anyone wishes to get red or yellow dahlias, I will leave my address with Miss Grey, and I am also enclosing a recipe for a King Edward cake, which I think is very good.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS. A GAME

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

"So you like to play 'truth, eh?' he was saying.

When I told you that the 'Land of Underneath' was a beautiful place, I forgot about Gnome village. Gnome village was not beautiful—it was ugly. The streets were narrow and hilly and dark; the houses were ugly and crooked and mean, and the gnomes themselves were far from lovely. The Twins thought they had never seen such long, long noses anywhere before in their lives. They decided to find Kip right away, if they could, and return at once to Brownland to help Mr. Pim Pim. They had almost forgotten about the little fellow who had unlocked the gate and let them in.

But his rough little voice reminded them now. "So you like to play 'truth, eh?' he was saying, and then Nancy remembered that he had asked them about it when they were still in the passage.

Some other gnomes came crowding up, curious to see the strangers, but they had also heard the word "truth"

Nancy and Dick, you know, are the little boy and girl in "The Adventures of the Twins," which has been appearing in The London Advertiser.

Their adventures have been printed in book form—five volumes. The Advertiser is going to give a set of the books to the little boy or girl who writes the best adventure for Nancy and Dick.

And there will be nine other prizes offered as well.

For second prize a big golden-haired doll or the best-running sled that can be procured; for third prize, a fine sled or a beautiful doll; for fourth prize, a baseball glove or a doll's tea set; fifth prize, a two-pound box of chocolates; sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth prizes, through the courtesy of the management, two seats at Loew's Theatre for Friday night, Dec. 23.

Write an adventure of not more than 200 words, using but one side of the paper, and mail it to the "Fairy Queen," care of The London Advertiser, before Dec. 12. Put your age, name and address at the top of your story.

tablespoons molasses, one cup of raisins boiled in hot water.

Thank you, Busy Bee, for sending us one of your favorite recipes, also for offering your dahlias. If the songs are sent in I shall forward them to you.

Ex-Schoolmarm.—Will you kindly send in your name and address, as there is a letter in the Mail-Box waiting to be forwarded to you.

WILL HELP HOSPITAL.
Members of the Kintore branch Women's Institute at the meeting last week decided to make a donation to the War Memorial Children's Hospital, and Mesdames W. Dunlop, Watt, Armstrong and Henderson were appointed a committee to make inquiries and report at the December meeting.

Program features included a paper on "Library Work" by Mrs. W. R. McDonald; a paper on "Little Bits of Helps" by Mrs. D. McCall, and a report of the Western Ontario convention, given by Mrs. (Dr.) Allison. Mrs. H. Irvine presided, and it was decided to hold the next meeting on Dec. 28.

Mrs. E. Land, Mrs. McGee, Mrs. Dunlop and Mrs. Alderson to take charge. The ladies are planning to make the school meeting previous to their own.

QUILT BRINGS $104.
The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church, Courtwright, held a very successful tea and bazaar at the home of the Misses Mary and Jessie Stewart, St. Andrew's Day. The proceeds amounted to $104. The autograph quilt was bought by Mrs. A. C. Quick, Harlow, who was a former resident of Courtwright.

DOMINION-WIDE ORGANIZATION OF MILITARY ATHLETICS PLANNED

SPORTS BIGGER ITEM IN TRAINING THAN EVER

Local District Has City Units Already Well Organized to Carry On—Should Attract Best Manhood of Country to Service.

[By C. S. Grafton.]

A Dominion-wide organization of militia districts into a military athletic body, which is starting at Kingston and Ottawa, and which will provide sport competition for both permanent and the non-permanent units of the Canadian militia, will find Military District No. 1, with headquarters here, ripe for inclusion.

More and more the tendency of the militia training has tended to sport rather than the drill square methods of old, and while the Canadian militia will live up to its soldierly traditions of the past, athletics are bound to have a bigger share than ever in the conditioning of the men. Such a plan, well organized, and with the armories dotting the Dominion as potential gymnasiums, if not already fitted up, would draw the best class of young Canadians into the mild but efficient type of preparedness found in the aims and objectives of the Canadian militia.

Made Start Here.

The city units included in Military District No. 1 have already made a start in athletics by forming garrison leagues in winter sports, both indoor and outdoor. Most of the units have already been represented in the other sports of the city for the past two years. Thus they have provided their men with clean, healthful sport, in which they otherwise might not have had the chance to participate. This is especially true of youths but newly-arrived in the city, who form a big proportion of the strength of the various units.

There are many athletic opportunities for the citizens of London, but there are few who will deny that this new departure will offer something unique, and at once two-sided in its usefulness in the way of sport.

Headquarters staff here have given evidence on every hand in the last two years of being ready and willing to foster military sports in every way, and the units have profited by this to the extent that should the plan go through at any time London would be in a particularly good position to fall in line.

Naturally, the cities and big centres would be organized first, but the objective of the proposal includes the country units, as well, and these would all be organized in time, thus making the Canadian militia a big factor in the athletic development of the Dominion.

Practically every man in Japan who does not join a Buddhist monastery marries.

THURSDAY NIGHT.
12th Battery vs. W. O. R. Seconds.
R.C.R. vs. C.O.T.C. (Western U.)

The dark horses in junior hockey games are being kept very dark by both clubs. Neither Manhattan nor Alerts have any move to announce the names of the youngsters they've signed, but both have run out of certificates. Alerts stole a march on Manhattan by getting double the number of certificates.

Meantime, there will be some material left by both teams, but it will take life on the ponds to bring it to the fore.

Arguments in favor of either including both London Juniors in one group or separating them, all have desirable features. It will mean little difference financially except as the Alerts point out, more accommodation would be available for the fans of out-of-town teams at the east end rink than at the games of the Manhattan club on their own ice.

Edmund Bouchard, a hockey player from Quebec City, who recently turned down an offer to play professional hockey for the Canadian Club of the National Hockey League, and who said he would continue in amateur hockey and would play for the Voltigeurs hockey team in the Quebec league, is in the limelight in connection with his standing as an amateur.

A Saturday Montreal paper publishes an affidavit from Raoul Latrelle, former financial manager of the Montreal team of the Montreal Hockey League, declaring that Bouchard received pay of $50 for each game in which he participated for the Hochelaga club during the 1919-20 season.

This affidavit is likely to raise the question as to how many of the Hochelaga amateur players received pay for their services, and may reopen the whole problem of amateurs' standing in the province, resulting in a scandal comparable to the Dufresne case of last season.

Bouchard was in Hamilton all summer. "Scotty Cawell and 'Eddie' Rodden will turn out with the Aura Lee senior team this week. Cawell is also wanted by St. Francis for the Red and White two years ago in an exhibition game.

Agnes left for Pittsburgh with the following players: local, Gallahue, Duff, Lout and Cain, forwards; Walter, Wright, Sullivan and Mollenhauer. They will play two games in the St. Francis City. If the Double Blue can win with that line-up local fandom will be amazed.

There is a possibility that Frank Sullivan will reconsider and play for the Argonaut hockey team instead of Drummondville. He has more players than they need and with Smith, Grey and others waiting for a chance and the regular playing up to form their team, little opportunity of breaking in will be the Grantes.

It was reported at the Arena on Saturday night that "Dunc" Munro, star football and hockey player, is ready to join the professionals, but Munro's father stated last night that "Dunc" will continue as an amateur. He is regarded as one of the best defense men in the O. H. A., classing with Stan Brown and Beatty Ramsay of the University of Toronto champions.

Some of the Aura Lee players did not play up to the mark on Saturday night. The reason was probably the reason. There may be a few changes in the line-up when the Avenue road squad get into action in the O. H. A. campaign.

Goalie "Vern" Evans has accepted terms and will again guard the net for the "green shirts." Corbett Denney, Reg. Noble and Babe" have signed, while Cameron has been forwarded transportation. Stuart, the sorrel-topped defence man from the Maritime Provinces, is in the city and has signed.

Dr. "Red" Smylie, the ex-Dental star, who took the jump into "pro" ranks last winter, will most likely be in uniform before the opening game rolls around. He is practicing his profession at St. Michael's Hospital, but Manager O'Donoghue is confident that he will come to terms. "Ken" Randie has refused to sign a contract, but it is understood that no strenuous effort will be made to retain him.

FIGHT TO DRAW.
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Mike O'Dowd, former world's middleweight champion, and Lou Bogash of Bridgeport, Conn., fought 12 rounds to a draw today. O'Dowd was the aggressor throughout. Both men weighed 160 pounds.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by flatulence, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Acid ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisulphate of Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will move the gas, wind and acid out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation, and there is no harm in eating. Bisulphate of Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk)—harmless to the stomach, expensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Adv.

PRINTERS' LEAGUE.

The fast-traveling Picas were no match for the much-strengthened Minors yesterday, and they dropped two out of three games. Captain Tommy Bell and President Cameron led their team, while "Shorty" Millett and "Slim" Wilson were away off form. "Willie" Vincent is improving with every game, and was high man at the top, with 536. When "Willie" gets a little more practice with his whirl ball he should be able to knock them good. In the last game the Minors made a record for the league to date, with a total of 830.

ON THE ALLEYS

PRINTERS' LEAGUE.

The fast-traveling Picas were no match for the much-strengthened Minors yesterday, and they dropped two out of three games. Captain Tommy Bell and President Cameron led their team, while "Shorty" Millett and "Slim" Wilson were away off form. "Willie" Vincent is improving with every game, and was high man at the top, with 536. When "Willie" gets a little more practice with his whirl ball he should be able to knock them good. In the last game the Minors made a record for the league to date, with a total of 830.

RUTH'S PENALTY AROUSES INTEREST

Decision Overshadows All Else At Annual Meeting of Baseball League.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 6.—The penalty imposed upon Babe Ruth and two other players of the New York American League team for disregarding an order against playing in exhibition games following the world's series contest, yesterday overshadowed all else in interest among the baseball men, minor and major, here for the 21st annual meeting of the National Association of Baseball Leagues.

Deals for players, Michael H. Sexton's campaign for greater economy in the management of amateur leagues, and the possibility of reinstating the draft system between minors and majors, were temporarily sidetracked while the managers and players discussed. Commissioner Landis' ruling and its possible effect on the national game next season, was the generally expressed opinion that the best interests of the game demanded disciplining of the players, and that the penalty imposed would have the effect of putting a stop to barnstorming after future world's series.

The national board of arbitration yesterday afternoon took up 126 cases of disputes over contracts, releases and other issues growing out of the season's play by minor league players. Secretary John H. Farrell of Auburn, who presided at yesterday's session of the arbitration board, announced that the next board will consist of seven, instead of ten members as at present. Each class of minor leagues will be represented, and each will choose its own members. Two members will be named to represent Class A leagues, which are the highest of the International, American Association and the Pacific Coast. Class A leagues, of which there are four, will be represented by two members, and Classes B, C and D each will have one representative. All will meet for next year's meeting of the minors.

The first session of the National Association will be held today.

National League

Two hundred and forty-five players took part in games for the National League clubs during the past season. The number of players who played in more than one game was 150. The National League batting history of the previous year repeated itself, as both Rogers Hornsby and Lou Gehrig led the league in batting honors for the second successive year.

Hornsby's batting mark of .337 is the highest average since 1899, when Ed-ward Delahanty of Philadelphia led the league with an average of .408. It is a net gain of .009 over his 1920 average. St. Louis club, which led in club batting with a percentage of .298, improved its mark of 1920 by nineteen percentage points.

Rogers Hornsby made most hits, 455, led in two-base hits with 44, and tied with Ray Powell of Boston for the most three-baggers with 18. Rogers Hornsby of Pittsburgh is the leading one

GERMAN COURT SYSTEM FAILS

Inhabitants Lose Confidence On Account of Failure to Try Kapp Revolutionists.

MONARCHISTS CYNICAL

BERLIN, Dec. 6.—Germany's confidence in her courts and judges is slumping with the German mark.

The average German has become convinced that the court system is bad. The cause is the failure of the high court at Leipzig—the same that tried the "war criminals" for the Allies—to have brought before the perpetrators of the Kapp revolt of twenty months ago.

Two Sides to Question. There are two sides to the question. While the Democrats term the failure to try the monarchist conspirators "outrageous," the monarchist element, still a powerful factor, contentedly, if cynically, comments: "Our friends 'cause it go wrongs'." The Kapp revolt cost hundreds of lives and billions of marks, and the ordinary German has not forgiven the people responsible for it. It was demanded that the conspirators be prosecuted, and their arrest and trial was ordered. So far none of them have been tried.

Until last spring the prosecutor floundered by saying he could not find out the names of the conspirators. Then a Reichstag investigation revealed that von Jagow, one of the leading representatives of the old regime, had always been within reach in Berlin. The minister of justice told the Reichstag that von Jagow had not been arrested because of illness, which he had proved by a doctor's certificate. Von Jagow promptly issued a statement denying that he had been ill at all.

Court Ordered to Begin.

The result of the investigation was that the court was ordered to begin the trial as soon as possible. Oct. 27 was fixed as the date. A week before the trial was to begin the court postponed the trial. The minister of justice told the Reichstag that von Jagow had not been arrested because of illness, which he had proved by a doctor's certificate. Von Jagow promptly issued a statement denying that he had been ill at all.

Meanwhile another rebel, Dr. Schlieker, who had been in hiding since the revolt, had been arrested and released on 100,000 marks bail. The day after the postponement Capt. Eberhardt issued a statement saying he had no intention of appearing at Leipzig, because he had not sufficient guarantee that the court would not arrest him after the Kapp trial for the Erzberger murder, which was said, as the court was accused of committing.

"There has been nothing done since the Kapp conspirators are at liberty and happy, hoping, and perhaps preparing for another revolt."

REPORTS GERMAN AFTER OLD TRADE

Commercial Counselor Declares German Goods Appearing On Shanghai Market.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Germans are gradually returning to China and picking up the threads of their former business, not trading for the present under their own names but in partnership with Chinese, says a report on the commercial situation of China, by H. H. Fox, commercial counselor of the British legation in Peking.

German dyes and paints, needles, retails, drugs and sundries are beginning to appear on the Shanghai market, the report goes on, and it is stated that several important orders for machinery and electric plant have recently been placed by German firms.

There is no doubt, the report says, that the Germans, assisted by the comparative cheapness of their products, will gradually recover the share they held in China's trade before the war, but the process will be slow, as they have lost valuable connections; the business organizations they had so ably built up have been shattered, and they have suffered a serious loss of prestige in the eyes of the Chinese.

SECURES MONTREAL PARK. Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 6.—A possible shift in the new International League was indicated last night when Ernest C. Landgraf, owner of the Syracuse franchise, announced he had secured an option on Atwood Park, Montreal, and would ask for a transfer to that city at a annual meeting in New York Dec. 12.

A New Yorker has developed a new form of electric heater that may also be used as a toaster.

Scientists have crossed herring with whitefish, producing a fish as well-flavored as the herring, with less bones.

Forest lands in Sweden are cultivated as carefully as are farms in Canada.

The Man Who Should Insure NOW

Dear Jack:

Would it not be a bitter disappointment if you could never get insurance protection for your family when you want it badly?

Think of your children!

Can you afford to risk delaying until it is TOO LATE?

Your loving sister,

Mary.

Holdress Parade in Styles Worn Over 100,000 Years Ago

LONDON, Dec. 6.—A dress parade of styles in vogue during the period of 100,000 B.C. was the feature of a ball held at Devonshire House in London, under the patronage of the queen. Upsetting all popular notions regarding the primitive clothing of women, the fashion show, which was held Nov. 25, attracted considerable attention, the London Chronicle reports.

"The style of the hat worn by the cave belle of the period 100,000 B.C. reproduced from the oldest drawings in the world—on the oldest drawings of Altamira—was found, with its pendant straight feathers, to be almost identical with the latest creation in women's headgear. Experts who gave special study to the subject, declared that despite the many early styles presented, they would attract little attention if presented on the streets today."

"Diving back to long before the Grecian or Egyptian era," said one of the experts, "a woman's dress was discovered in a coffin in Denmark. The upturned head of the woman, whose skeleton was found, was open to the waist, but laced up and fastened with a brooch. She had, also, a skirt with a sort of loose girdle like a dressing gown. This costume was reproduced in the exhibition yesterday."

The earliest Egyptian style—not that familiar on the stage—was represented, also, and the Grecian and Roman.

"Roodie's dress, produced from a description in existence, was peculiarly interesting. It was a pattern of the skin in little squares of red, blue and green, believed to be the origin of the Scottish tartan."

"Prior to the staging of the affair, much curiosity was evinced as to how it would be possible to reproduce the Catherine de Medici costume, with its thirteen-inch waist, which necessitated a steel corset. The management received letters from women in Paris, who said they could wear a fifteen-inch corset, and thought they could negotiate a thirteen-inch one in a pinch."

HOLDS TURKEY-EATING RECORD

Nantucket Citizens Consume More Than Pound Per Head Thanksgiving Day.

PROVIDES WORK FOR ALL

Nantucket, Dec. 6.—With a record of consuming 350 turkeys in the process of giving thanks for the past year, Nantucket, whose population is 3,000, believes it has a good claim to the world's title for per capita decapitation of the national bird.

Though turkeys were sold in local markets at 45 to 70 cents a pound to give every man, woman and child more than a pound apiece. If you figure six persons to a household, two out of every three families answered the question, "Light or dark?" when father held the carving knife aloft Nov. 24.

This gives an idea of the extraordinary prosperity Nantucket is experiencing. While alterations on the existing horizon for signs of reviving industry, the islanders have more work than they can swing to. Not only has there been absolutely no unemployment since last year, or this, but workers are actually being imported from the mainland. Every able-bodied man who wants to work is working.

Carpenters are in especial demand. One contracting carpenter, who employs 40 men, has work enough ahead for two years. More houses are going up than at any time in the last decade, and builders are swamped with orders for additions and alterations on existing property. Lumber shipments to the island this fall have been almost double those of a year ago, yet there were no idle moments in the building trades.

The fisheries show a steady gain. Exports average about 200 barrels a day. On a recent trip the New Bedford boat carried 700 barrels. Fishermen met on the pier making their winter port, find no houses to rent.

Make Golf Course.

Several large undertakings are under way or about to begin. At Saksatz Head four tracts and a large gang of men have been busy since August clearing 285 acres of densely covered scrub oak morland to make the new Saksatz Golf Club one of the best in the country. A handsome clubhouse is being erected.

In Siasconnet work will soon start on the installation of a new water supply system. In the town of Nantucket the yacht club is adding to its grounds by filling in flats at the end of the harbor. The steamboat company is to spend $15,000 on its wharf in the next few months. And so it goes.

Thus, while its neighbors in the United States have felt the jabs of deflation in curtailment of credit, cancelling of orders, shutting down of industries, and unemployment and reduced wages, Nantucket, whose main industry is the summer visitor, goes its way undaunted.

Prosperity based on luxury demands may or may not be a house built on sand. Your Nantucketer should worry! The summer visitor run on half-time during the two summers America was in the war, but he did not shut down and he has been traveling full time ever since. As long as he continues to do so the islanders will not deflate. Au contraire, as the French would say, they will eat turkey.

OFFICERS GAIN LOST PRESTIGE

Old Leaders of Russian Army Recover Many Privileges of Rank.

SOVIET REOPENS SCHOOLS

Riga, Latvia, Dec. 6.—The Russian army officer, stripped of most of his authority by Premier Kerensky at the start of his regime in 1917, and persecuted in the early days of the Bolshevik rule as the personification of all that was to be despised in a "bourgeois" or aristocrat, is about to be restored to practically the same position he held before the revolution.

The authority of an army officer in the field has been recognized by the Bolsheviks during the past three years, and nowhere has discipline, at least on paper, been stricter than in the Red army, but, as a rule, officers did not find their work attractive. Their pay was not very much higher than that of the men, nor was there any great difference in their rations, while the responsibility was heavy.

If they came from the old officer class, they were constantly under suspicion and surveillance by the communist commissars, one of whom was attached to each separate military unit.

Admits Principle Untenable.

Now the Soviet government has come out with an admission that officers and men cannot be treated alike, and that in order to secure sufficient officers, they must be proved for on a much higher scale than the soldiers, and "it should be realized that the principle of equality is not acceptable."

From the very beginning of the Bolshevik regime, many officers of the army of the late Emperor Nicholas have served the Reds. Some were attracted by the promise of food at the time civilians were starving, while still others, liberal-minded politically, volunteered, considering the Red army, still full, Russian to the core. Their numbers have been constantly increasing during the past year, due to Trotsky's insistence that the Russian army be as efficient as any other in the world, and also to the gradual progress made toward bettering their lot.

"CHET" SMITH TO SEEK SEAT ON CITY COUNCIL

ST. THOMAS, Dec. 6.—Chester Smith, insurance agent, has announced his candidacy for aldermen in the forthcoming municipal elections.

Mr. Smith is believed to be the only one of younger citizens who will likely aspire to seats at the 1922 council board.

"Chet" Smith is a capable young man with an excellent record, and should make a good run.

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of That Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered for two years."

saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the paper and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial."

Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 542, Hopkins, Minn.

It has been said that not one woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. Those dreadful hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, are only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., about your health.

URGE RAILROADS SIFT 'HARVESTERS'

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 6.—To eliminate the trouble experienced last fall in the West when it was found that many farmers were unable to get sufficient help despite the large number of men brought in from Eastern Canada, a movement will be inaugurated at once to get the support of the Canadian railways in an effort to prevent any but bona fide harvesters taking advantage of cheap fares from Eastern Canada in the future.

The support of Manitoba in this move is being sought by T. M. Molloy, commissioner of labor for Saskatchewan, who declares that if Manitoba authorities are willing to co-operate, Saskatchewan intends to ask the railways to adopt more drastic regulations concerning the bringing of harvest workers to the West.

"Last fall railway figures showed that 38,000 harvesters were brought in to Saskatchewan, and during the rush we asked the railways to cancel further excursions, yet when the men were all placed on farms it was found many farmers were without sufficient help," said Mr. Molloy, in a report on the investigation. It was found that many hundreds took advantage of the cheap fares to take a long-desired trip west with the result we were deceived in the actual number of harvesters available."

2 STRIKE SYMPATHIZERS SHOT AT FORT WORTH

FORT WORTH, Texas, Dec. 6.—Two brothers, Tom and Tracy Macin, strike sympathizers, were shot and seriously wounded late today in a disorder growing out of the local packing house strike.

Fred Rouse, a negro, who is said to have been responsible for the shooting of the Macin brothers, was taken to a hospital following a severe beating he received at the hands of a large crowd of men. The shooting took place in front of the Armour & Co. plant.

Sir J. Y. Simpson of Edinburgh in 1847 discovered the anaesthetic properties of chloroform.

Chief sources of graphite have been England, Bohemia, Germany, France and the United States.

Sidelights At Washington Parley

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Madame Viaggi can't sit on American chairs. She's a little mite of a person, and she has to perch precariously on the edge of a chair if she wants her "fat on the floor."

"Ze American chairs—zey not built for me," she complains.

Sir Robert Borden, former premier of Canada, has more trouble finding his gloves than adjusting the most delicate diplomatic problem.

Or rather—his wife, Lady Laura, has the trouble of finding them. Usually she finds them under his silk hat!

A gigantic body. Big, powerful hands. A slump when he sits down. A deep, throaty, genial laugh. That's Dr. W. S. Abernathy, pastor of U. S. President Harding's church. He offered the opening prayer of the conference.

"Mother used to tell me she wished I knew more names of missionaries and fewer names of baseball stars when I was a boy," he says. "I started out to be a civil engineer, and turned out a Baptist minister."

Abernathy, who preaches for the president and prays for the president of the world's greatest men, was so timid as a youth that his instructors despaired of teaching him public speaking!

Washington's taxi drivers are off the conference for good.

Whereas they expected a rich harvest with foreign officials darning higher and higher in tax, and easily misled in the matter of fare and change, the visitors are supplied free with army automobiles and chauffeurs.

And also, there's no business doing "on the side." Having automatic status and bringing their supplies of liquors with them, the visitors furnish no market for the bottled goods which some drivers carry as a side line.

"What do you think of our journalistic speed?" a correspondent asked a member of the French delegation, Colonel Bohemier, Germany, France and the United States.

"Ah—yes," was the answer. "Get ies all eet les said to be. Ze prayer of Mistaire Abernathy, for instance, opening conference. Eet was printed and given out an advance, so zat it reached ze newspapers even before eet reached God."

The Will Hays of England. That's Sir Arthur Willert of the British delegation.

PACING BACK AND FORTH—

You've seen the U. S. postmaster-general pacing back and forth while he hurls forth words with amazing speed? Just so Sir Arthur.

"Ah, sit down! Do sit down!" he says.

And then he takes up the endless trek from one side of the room to the other, talking the while.

STORM GOOD TO FISH.
