TRAVELLING BOARD TO BE HERE THURSDAY

Students Honoured; Turner at Meeting

It has just been announced by the Engineering Institute of Canada that the Martin Murphy prize for an original paper on any Engineering subject has been awarded to Mr. James L. Belyea and that Mr. Fred W. Davidson was awarded second place.

Mr. Belyea was a '44 graduate in Electrical Engineering and the subject of his paper was "The Cathode Ray Oscilloscope and its application to industry." At the present time Mr. Belyea is Radar Officer with a unit of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Fred is one of our Senior Electricals and has been very active in the Engineering Society. He is the present president of the Society, and last year was winner of the Junior Engineering prize for the most efficient Engineer. The subject of Fred's paper was "Principles of the Transformer" and he received high commendation from the selective committee.

The fact that our present and past students have done so well in open competition speaks very highly of our Electrical Department and with the new facilities this department will offer every opportunity to the present students. (Continued on page five)

I.R.C. to Hear Dr. Wright

Plans for this term were made at a recent meeting of the executive of the International Relations Club. From time to time outside speakers will be invited to address the members. Whenever noted people are in the city, the Club plans to take advantage of the opportunities provided. It is hoped that speakers representing the various political parties can be secured to present their views to the Club.

A further project which has been suggested is a Mock Parliament. If this plan is carried out, a discussion, patterned after the debates in the House of Commons, would be conducted. It would deal with some of the questions affecting the country as a whole. In this way, students could familiarize themselves with parliamentary procedure, and could become more aware of some of our post-war problems.

For the first meeting, which is to be held Wednesday, January 24, at 8 p.m., Dr. Bailey's Lecture Room, the Club has invited Prof. Wright to speak on "The Impact of Science on International Affairs." Dr. Wright who has made a number of radio addresses on related topics, has promised a talk both informative and interesting.

Dr. Prince, president of the Rotary Club, has expressed his willingness to aid the I.R.C. by getting guest speakers at the Rotary to address the members of the Relations Club.

Victory Ball Plans Made

The War Effort Committee called together last Tuesday evening, January 16, by Chairman Stuart Baxter, rolled up, sleeves and went to work for a two hour session. By the end of the meeting plans had formulated for the annual Victory Ball.

The formal will be held in the Gym on February 2, with dancing from 9 p.m. until 2 a.m. Arrangements for music have not yet been completed.

Students will be admitted for $2.00 per couple, while admission for others will be $3.00 per couple. Helen Gibson and Eric Teed, who are in charge of decorations, intend to use flags of the United Nations as part of a patriotic theme. (Continued on page five)

First U-Y Group Formed on Campus

On Saturday, January 13, the U-Y Club held a supper meeting at the Community Y. Professor Wright was the speaker and he gave a most interesting and rambling talk on service clubs and different methods of doing services. There were also several guests present.

A short business meeting was held and a new project brought up and discussed. This project is the collecting, arranging and presenting to the library of old examination papers. All students who have old paper dating from B.C. to the future are asked to give them to any U-Y member. (Continued on page five)

DISCUSSION HELD AT S.C.M.

The first meeting of the S.C.M. this term was held in the "Y" room, last Sunday night. A brief business meeting was held. Bob Lawrence read a letter from the S.C.M. at Dalhousie University. A meeting had been held at Dal earlier this month to discuss the possibility of having a Maritime Secretary for the S.C.M. The idea was discouraged both by the group at Dal and by our own S.C.M. Roy McInerney reported that the sale of student directories this year had been very successful. The possibilities of a social were discussed, but no definite agreement was reached.

Mr. McPherson, pastor of George St. Baptist Church, led a group discussion on the intellectual problem. (Continued on page five)

OPPORTUNITY FOR NON-TECHNICAL GRADUATES

A travelling board of personnel consisting of officers of the Army and Navy and representatives of the Wartime Bureau of Technical Personnel will visit U.N.B. on Thursday, January 25. Interviews for seniors will begin at 8.30 a.m. and will probably be completed during the forenoon. The average time for an individual interview will be ten minutes.

Seniors will be interviewed in the afternoon and technical students of both the senior and junior classes will attend a meeting at 4 p.m. when they will receive information regarding the man power controls now in effect.

Every student who is graduating in 1945 in Engineering or Science and who has indicated on his de- (Continued on page five)

SELECTIVE SERVICE

OTTAWA: Right now, there's a good deal of activity in Selective Service Headquarters here and rumours are floating around about a revision in the call-up regulations as they affect university students. No one in authority will do more than say that the regulations are subject to continual review, that they are therefore under consideration now, that the manpower situation is growing more critical, and that it is possible a revision may be necessary.

It is obvious, of course, that if the regulations of Selective Service (Continued on page five)

Chemical Society Hears Dr. Toole

Amidst the inspiring atmosphere of test tubes, beakers and bunsen burners, the Chemical Society held its first meeting of the present term last Wednesday evening in the Chemistry lecture room. For the first time since re-establishment, the society was privileged to hear Dr. Toole, who gave an interesting talk entitled "The Social Function of Science." He told about the gradually increasing impact of science on human welfare and especially stressed the relationship between the progress of science at a certain stage and the economic conditions which prevailed at that stage. Dr. Toole illustrated the importance of the scientist by pointing out that the scientist, who, previous to the last war, was regarded as a luxury, is now regarded as an absolute necessity. At the close of the talk a discussion period followed during which tea was served. (Continued on page five)

Gruesome Setting At Old Time Party

College Play Next Month

"Yes, my dearest!—now tell me... Cedric please don't stutter so. Don't be nervous."

"Oh, my darling! Oh, my sweet. You don't know how I've prayed for this, every night on the boat... Darling, yes, YES, a thousand times yes!"

Here it is everyone, the big news is out at last about the Dramatic Society play. The above is a snatch from the three act comedy "The Man Who Came to Dinner" by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, being February 8th and 9th by our own society.

The Dramatic Society play this year is sure to be of the usual high standard. The play was written by (Continued on page five)

House Makes Plans For Annual Dance

The residents of "The House" met last Wednesday night in the lounge for their first regular meeting of the term. Routine business was brought up. The financial statement of the society was read by the president, Fred Davidson.

The most important topic of the meeting was the planning for the annual "at home" night—the House Dance. Preliminary arrangements for the dance were made. Uffe Andersen was elected as chairman of the dance committee.

Always considered as one of the finest social events on the campus, the dance this year is expected to live up to its same fine tradition. (Continued on page five)

DR. PETRIE AT NEWMAN CLUB

Sunday evening Dr. Petrie addressed the Newman Club on "Post War Reconstruction in New Brunswick." He began his address by describing the economic history of our province from the early nineteenth century until the present period. With this background of information laid, Dr. Petrie went on to discuss the opportunities which could await New Brunswick in the post war era.

All through his address the important position of the lumber industry in regard to New Brunswick's economic system past, present and future, was strikingly shown. He went on to explain that New Brunswick as an export country must put her own house in order before hoping to compete in peace (Continued on page five)

Last Friday night Memorial Hall sprung to life as the Pre-Med Old Time Party got underway. Plaid shirts with tails out, loud sox, and a flood of bow ties decked out the guys and gals. At 9.30 p.m. the failliar strains of the Depo . . . oooooo! the unfamiliar strains of the Five Jacks, featuring a drum, let loose with a quaint rendition of some nameless melodie. By 10 the hall was shaking.

The decorating scheme was made up of bones, skulls, hands, feet, salvaged no doubt from victims of last year's Barn Dance. Pop and ice cream made up the refreshments.

But let's look around and see what's none of our business. Evans—dressed for a masquerade—must have arrived at the dance by mistake. Kay, minus tooth, enjoyed a pipe smoke. As Maye arrived she dropped a warm pair of red handkerchiefs(?) No one picked it up for her. Then Boog arrived with a surprise. With Lawrence enjoying a strong coke, and a few upstarts getting green on their first cigarettes, let's get back on the floor.

By this time, the Society has acquired a reputation—for the or- (Continued on page five)

Listeners Hold Meet.

Proving itself to be doing a worthwhile job as well as having a lot of fun at the same time is the S.C.M. listening group.

This small band of disciples congregates every Tuesday night in Mrs. Thompson's apartment in the Arts Building to hear "Of Things to Come."

The group, one of the coziest of organizations, every so often has a "refresher" meeting on another spot of the campus: "Easel Inn", better known as the Observatory and Art Centre, where four or five couples, as the case may be, discuss in the midst of pine-scented stuffed fawns, cob webs, and brush-marked canvasses.

The "Two Maes" provide a taxi service for the gentler members both to and from the meeting; great fun!

While watching the clock intently to be it time for the program, we finally hear the station call by our own silver-tongued announcer. After the program there followed discussion on the materials presented.

Back through the snow the band wends its way homeward after the session, returning Stu Baxter's radio to him.

This listening group is the first to be started on the campus. The purpose is to listen to the program and send in answers to questions which are sent to the various listening groups from the provincial office.

RED AND BLACK CAGEMEN GROUND No. 5

SPORT SHOTS

VARSIITY BASKETBALL . . . .

After a slow start in the first quarter, our boys proceeded to get their sea legs and walked away with a smart victory over Moncton R. C. A. F. That "two seconds after the initial whistle" score of Demers' was a honey. Also the team work of Elgee, Stohart and Owens was something you read about but never believe. It was hard to pick out any special one for being tops for they all were stars. If this team does not make itself felt in the Dominion Playoffs—then we will eat the paper this is written on. Just think what our basketweavers would have done (on the floor) if they had not been at the Earn Dance the nite before!!!!

GIRLS' BASKETBALL . . . .

Once again we must extend congrats to the girls' team. Although many of the girls have never played this game before coming to the University, they are showing their heels to the rest of the teams in the local league. The line of Harquail, Deiong and Vince showed the High School team the finer points of the game last Friday, when they chalked another win to their undefeated record. Betty (The Brain) Price seems as much at ease on the court as she does when she is sitting there writing exams.

(Gee! a write-up like that should be worth at least one date during co-ed week.)

HOCKEY COACH . . . .

After being held up for nearly a week by a heavy snowfall, the varsity hockey team finally got rolling. At the helm is Charlie Fleet, one of the fastest forwards during the '20's and early '30's in the Maritimes. Following his graduation from U.N.B. in '24, he proceeded to the New England States where he played for Hershey Bears and the New Haven "Eagles". He was the regular referee for all the home games for Princeton University. He was captain of the U. N. B. team that went to New Haven, Jersey City, Toronto and Montreal—all on one trip. (Now we have a hard time to even get to Bathurst.) One of his team mates is the quiet gentleman in the office of the Arts Building, known to most as the Registrar.

SKIING . . . .

For the first time in four years, we have too much snow. But from the standpoint of the ashwood pushers it is heaven on earth. Bill Gibson has been chosen President of the reorganized Ski Club—ably supported by Vice-President Fran McLean. The first ski hike will be next Sunday (by bus) to the Maysville ski club. The first casualty, Duke Waring, is back in circulation again. The other world is full of people playing harps or shovelling coal for attempting less hazardous feats. He is the first freshman to sport a "super-duper" haircut twice in the same year.

INTERCLASS HOCKEY . . . .

The Seniors are still top dogs in this league. The only threat to their monopoly seem to be the Freshmen. Jake Wicks heads the scoring list, for goalies, with 22 goals scored (against him). The tough house spirit of Andersen, Crofoot, Reid and Rhee McDonald has the makings of a long casualty list, unless stricter enforcement of hockey rules is observed by the referees.

INTERCLASH HOCKEY

The pace-setting Seniors scored three goals against the Freshmen during the last ten minutes of play in a fast rugged close checking game to gain their second straight win and proved that they are the team to beat this year. Stan Spicer, playing a standout game in the Seniors net, was robbed of a shut out with a few minutes of play remaining on a slow tricky shot by Shanahan of the freshman team. Mackenzie, Ayers and Reid shared the net. (Continued on page five)

Airmen Downed in Second Half

Varsity Seniors just about doubled the score on No. 5 Equipment Depot of the R.C.A.F., Moncton, in the opening senior hoop encounter of the season at the Beaverbrook gym Saturday night. The final results were U.N.B. 44, R.C.A.F. 24, with the college five leading by ten points—22-to-12—at the halfway mark.

The visitors gave Coach Howie Ryan and his Red and Black stalwarts a snipe early in the first quarter by snatching the lead for a while. Finally the homesters overtook the opposition and, once in front, staved there.

Gerry Lockhart and Ted Owens put on a fine exhibition at their centre and defence positions and with Dave Stohart back in U.N.B. togethery after a sojourn in the Air Force. Ryan had another of his former mainstays on hand Saturday against No. 5. Some of his utility men of last winter are now in the senior lineup and showed to advantage in fast company Saturday night. Newcomers with the team are also showing promise.

Two of those who graduated to the senior cage division, Neil Elgee and Art Demers, accounted for 11 and 8 points respectively as forwards. Lockhart, centre, posted the top for the evening, 12, and Stohart came through with 10, alternating at guard and forward. Kergan, leading scorer for the losers, shot six of his 8 points in the first half, and played an outstanding game at centre. Rose, with 7, came next, and was the pick of the visitors in the second half.

J. R. Varsity

On Monday evening, January 15, Junior Varsity waded into the V.T.S. cagers at the Experimental Farm and proceeded to plough them under to the tune of 34-13. With this as their initial tryout in the 1945 season the U.N.B. Juniors displayed plenty of zip and many a glowing prophecy was made for the Senior Varsity teams of '46 and '47. High scorer for Junior Varsity was MacDiarmid, with 8 points, while the V.T.S. had no individual high scorer.

Lineups:
U.N.B.—MacDiarmid 8, Worthen 5, Scott 7, Haines, Jacobson, Wylie 2, McEachern 2, Brooks 2, Sidwell 2, Secvil, Holmes 4.

CO-ED B. B.

U.N.B. co-ed varsity chalked up two more victories in the City League basketball games this week.

The first game was played in the Normal School on Tuesday afternoon, where over the cheats of "Cigarettes, cigarettes, butts, butts, butts, etc." the girls from up the hill tallied up a score of 38 with 19 for the Normalites. The game was fast and rough with plenty of fouls handed out on both sides. The line of Delong, Vince and Harquail rang up a score of 27 points. Margaret Vince tied with J. Boles of P.N.S. for top scoring honors, each caging 16 points.

Lineup:
U.N.B.—Delong f 2, Vipee f 16, Harquail f 9, MacLaggan f 2, Price f 7, Quinn f 2, Fickard g, Kinney g, Ritchie g, Wright g, Montietti g, Mooers g, Dohaney g, Long.
P.N.S.—Ed Madsen f, M. Warner f, L. McElroy f, J. Y. Campbell f, J. Boles f 16, L. Austin, F. Walsh, E. Black, L. Yeomans, I. Carvell.
Referees: H. Ryan, K. Reid.

The second game was played at the U.N.B. gym on Friday evening when the co-eds again came out on the front end of a 23-17 score over F.H.S. girls.

The game began slowly, both teams playing warily. In the second half the plays speeded up and the whole game accelerated. Fouls were plentiful and the game became almost a free-for-all.

Bouquets to captain Mavis DeLong, E. MacLaggan, J. Pickard and S. Kinney for playing a swell game. Gwen Horsnell provided the scoring rebility for the F.H.S. team and W. Schofield played an outstanding game in the guard line.

Lineup:
U.N.B.—Delong f 10, Harquail f, Vince f 8, Kinnie, Pickard, Ritchie, Mooers, Eudovitch, Dohaney, Wright, Quinn f, Long f, Price f 2, MacLaggan f 2.
F.H.S.—Horsnell f 19, Hawkes f 4, VanWart f 1, E. Wylie, W. Schofield, Bearisto, F. Horsnell f 7, Dorian f, F. Rowley f, M. Brown.

V.T.S.—Chance 2, Brennenstul, Faulkner 4, Hill, Riddle 4, Britton, Sharkey 1, Grey, Thompson, Portwine, Mallory, Jabber 2.

In the second fixture of Friday night's basketball games, Junior Varsity outscored Woodstock High 27-15. It took the varsity boys a little while to get underway, but they had the game well in hand up to the last whistle. W.H.S. floored a nice team and should prove a real threat for the title in the coming Interscholastic Tournament.

BOWLING

The University bowlers were hard at it again last Saturday afternoon and reeled off six more games of their schedule. Scores in general were low, showing the effects of the new pins placed on the alleys for the games. Wildcats and Tigers moved up to a first place tie.

The Wildcats took three points from the Maroons, sweeping the first string by 61 pins, and winning the second on Paul Robinson's beautiful spare on the last box by a one-pin margin. Jim MacKenzie was again the pick of the losers, while Keith Sidwell topped the winners.

The Clippers edged the Giants 2-1, coming back for a 50 pin verdict in the second string after dropping the first by 4 pins. Fred Cumming and Ced MacDiarmid paced the Clippers, with George Bond sparking the Giants.

The Tigers carried off three points in their match with the Pirates, winning by a total margin of 49 pins. Frank Horsan and Reno Cyr bowled well for the winners, and Connie Muirhead for the Pirates.

The Beavers took three points from the Spartans in the most hotly contested game of the afternoon. After doing the first string, the Beavers carried the second by 9 pins to win all the glory. Ed Napke and Bob LeBel topped a well balanced team of winners, although the losers kept in there through the fine effort of Skippy Ayers and Art O'Connor.

The Aces swept three points from the Rockets, getting a hard fight in the second string when they won by only 4 pins. Uffe Andersen and Gern Wheeler led the winners with Stewart showing up well for the Rockets.

Eagles stopped the former league-leading Hornets with a 2-1 edge, carrying the first by 77, and standing off the 54 pin closing rush of the Hornets. Don Boyaner and Percy Fairer rolled high for the Eagles, and Angelo DiCarlo and Ray Tower were the big guns of the Hornets' artillery.

With the boys finding the range very difficult, Fred Cumming's 118 was easily the high single, although Bud Taylor chalked up 111, Ray Tower 109, Sidwell 108, and R. Anderson 106. Cumming also rolled high total of 205, followed by T. Andersen 201, Stewart 196, Bond 194 and Boyaner 193.

In Search

The very first sight that met the sparkling blue eyes of "Turk" Mallory, a young Irish-American song writer, as he entered the U.N.B. library was a parrot. It was huddled on its perch—a shabby, moth-eaten, dejected bundle of green feathers with one bedraggled plume, all that was left of a once resplendent green tail. It eyed the world in general and the approaching Turk in particular with a glare pessimistic and malicious. Suddenly it sat up and shrieked at him, "Sant up, you miserable bird!" Turk jumped and a little gray-haired librarian, looking up and laying one finger on her lips, reproached him with a loud "shhh". As the student body turned their heads to stare at him, Turk blushed to the roots of his rumpled, wavy black hair. He mumbled something apologetic, nervously loosened his shirt collar, and then tipped into the stacks.

Absently he picked up a small, green, leather-covered volume entitled History of the Spruce Bud Worm. "Ugh! bugs!" He set it down hastily on the shelf, then happened to glance down toward his feet. "Yowie! Glass floors!" His knees buckled and he began edging gingerly toward the door.

The parrot poked its head in. "How're you making out with that keg of beer, Toots?" It bawled Turk made a mental note to the effect that parrots were extremely disagreeable creatures. He roamed on, having forgotten about the glass floors. On the shelves he saw novels, poetry, modern languages, natural history—what was there to interest an up-and-coming songwriter. James Edward Mallory of New York, who had come to this insignificant outpost university in order to study the folk tunes of the New Brunswick natives? Thus far he had only met with partial success. All morning a portable gramophone on the second floor of the Arts building had alternated between "How Many Hearts Have You Broken?" and "I'll Walk Alone" until Turk hoped he might never hear them again. The boys had been a little more cooperative. From the crisp morning hours that brought them, puffing and panting up the hill until the last lab dragged to its close, they whistled little snippets of anything and everything. There was one frequently recurring tune—something about a girl and a brand of sweetened pop corn sold in boxes—Turk already knew the tune by heart and he was sure he would recognize the words should he ever see or hear them.

Having reached a staircase in the library, he decided to go up to the second floor, secretly hoping to get beyond reach of the parrot's raucous voice. The books were even less enticing. Peering down between the stacks, he saw beneath him a shiny, round dome that was exactly the color of yellow parchment. Around it straggled a sparse ring of graying hair. By traveling down Turk could see slanting eyes under horn-rimmed spectacles and a benign, oriental countenance which he felt sure must belong to the Chinese professor, Dr. Lin, who was doing research in history and writing a book: Canada's Post-War Relations with the Orient. Just then a fly settled on the bald head; it was a tempting mark, and Turk seizing a convenient book, searched through the aperture. Thwack! The heavy volume dropped from the professor's hands and foilsap pages closely covered with a fine, rapidly hand-writing. New in all directions. The professor whirled about clutching his fringe with both hands and letting forth a mingled torrent of English and Chinese. He saw no one; his eyes widened; he dropped his dignity and rushed from the stacks shouting that the Phantom had tried to assassinate him in the library.

Immediately an uproar broke forth in the reading room outside. The mysterious Phantom, one of whose activities was editing the snoop column, was claimed by the Engineers to be a Senior beerman who at that very moment was preparing his column behind locked doors on the top floor of the Civil Engineering building. They doubted the professor's words and told him so. The professor swore vigorously at the Engineers and his parrot followed—had not the Electricals stripped it of all but one measly tail feather in order to insulate the wiring for the new gym-

Immediately an uproar broke forth in the reading room outside. The mysterious Phantom, one of whose activities was editing the snoop column, was claimed by the Engineers to be a Senior beerman who at that very moment was preparing his column behind locked doors on the top floor of the Civil Engineering building. They doubted the professor's words and told him so. The professor swore vigorously at the Engineers and his parrot followed—had not the Electricians stripped it of all but one measly tail feather in order to insulate the wiring for the new gymnasium loudspeaker? The parrot wazed furious while Turk, dreaming only of his song, heard nothing but the word "engineer" tossed back and forth. He rose from his knees, dusted off his tweed trousers, and stepped backward bumping into a tall, attractive co-ed who was running her finger down a column of books marked Biology.

"Good gracious!" gasped Evelyn Taylor, dropping her books but retaining the air of cool, self-confidence and complete detachment that she wore as casually as she did her shining, brown, shoulder-length bob and pastel plaid suit. She was not a little impressed by this tall, broad-shouldered young man with the rumped black hair, rather red face, bright, dancing blue eyes and amused expression. He was already scrambling after her books and soon handed them to her. Taking them, Evelyn only asked, a trifle breathlessly, "What course are you taking?"

Turk's ingenuity did not desert him. His mouth was open to tell her wasn't a student, but instead of putting his foot into it, he said, "Engineering... uh... Civil Engineering."

"I don't ever remember seeing you on the campus before," Turk started to tell the truth, "I just came yesterday," he said slowly, "and... uh... I couldn't register because the office wasn't open." The last few words came out in a rush.

"A Freshman?" Turk felt hurt. "Not all the time. Sometimes I'm a real nice fellow. You... you ought to get to know me."

Evelyn laughed and her grey-blue eyes danced merrily. "Perhaps I will," she said. "Look here, I'll bet you haven't even bought one of the new publications yet. It's our College Songs and Yells. Fifty cents please."

Hardly realizing it, Turk handed her two quarters in return for a smart black-bound book with the title and the gymnast depicted on it in red. Evelyn glanced at her watch. "Oh, gee! It's after two-thirty and I have a lab. See you later—and don't forget to register some time before Encaenia."

"You can call me Turk." As she vanished he turned the book over and opened it. Staring up from the first page he saw THE song: "My girl's a crack-jack. She wears the red and black. She goes to U.N.B., I go there too..."

Then Evelyn's words about registering drifted back to him. He'd better hurry. Here it was a month after opening. Exams would be coming up and he didn't even know what subjects he was taking. When do Freshman Civils write their papers? Never mind. He would find out everything at the office. One of the boys he talked to yesterday wore a crest with some kind of a tripod on it—a transit they called it. He'd have to get a crest and sew it on his jacket.

A few seconds later Turk Mallory was striding across the campus with the wind ruffling his dark hair and his heart light within him. He was whistling and as he bounded up the Arts building steps to the office, a fragment of song floated from his lips: "... She goes to U.N.B., I go there too-o-o-o..."

(Honorable Mention in Varsity Contest)

Sleeping soldiers, sprawling, snoring.
Dirty coaches, whistles roaring
Sooty windows, sticky sashes
Faulty lighting winks and flashes.
Tired trainmen hoarsely bawling
Names of stops or place of calling.
Sandwich sellers shuffle by
Waking sleepers with their cry.
Giggling baggage, painted, cheap;
Tired old ladies try to sleep.
Stretch of breath and beer and heat.
Empty bottles by a seat.
Engine's noise and motion weary
Motor's madd'ning movement sending Conches clatter, dull and dreary.
Never changing, never ending.

CAMPUS PERSONALITIES

KAY SIMCOCK

This week we would like to present one of our Senior gals of whom we can always be very proud and to whom we can point with joy as a product of U.N.B.—Kay Simcock. Yes, sir, Kay always "creams" with apparent ease when the long trail up to the gym gets underway in December and May.

Fredericton is Kay's home town and each year Kay brings fresh honors to her field. Her first year Kay capped several prizes, took more the second and her third year also found her gathering in the harvest.

Kay has taken a keen interest in debating and this year is President of Delta Rho. Last year she also served on the executive of the society, when she acted in the capacity of Vice-President. In her Sophomore year Kay participated in an intercollegiate debate with Dalhousie, and in her Junior year was also in there pitching against Mt. A.

Being in charge of the Refreshment Committee for the Newman Club in her Junior year kept Kay pretty busy rustling up those Sunday night lunches.

Kay has always taken an interest in Co-ed Hockey as she lends her support to the Reading Room squad. Kay also does a spot of writing for the Brunswickian now and then.

For a job well done, Kay can always be depended upon to lend a supporting hand. When you go out with your parchment in May, Kay, you'll leave an enviable scholastic record and a trail of honors. A swell friend to have, Kay—we have confidence you'll bring more laurels to U.N.B. in the future.

Questioning Jill

IF YOU KNEW YOU HAD ONLY ONE MORE YEAR TO LIVE, WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

I would go out on a year-long tour.

MAVIS DELONG

I'd travel for 360 days, and then die a peaceful death.

MILTON ZIDES

I'd get married.

MARIE GRAHAM

I'd turn into an amateur philanthropist—on a small scale, of course.

HUGH GAILEY

I would travel around the world.

BETTY DOUGHERTY

I think I'd go to sea.

BOB EVANS

Well, I wouldn't go to school. I think I'd get married.

MAXINE TRACY

I'd take life easy and spend all my money.

CARLISLE HANSON

I'd have one devil of a good time.

ELLEN MacLAGGAN

Well, life ain't a matter of holding good cards, but playing a poor hand well, so I'd give up the idea of trying to become educated and enter upon a career of shookey and building jig-saw puzzles.

JOE KAPLAN

I'd make the most of every minute.

MARION MORRISON

I'd get married and spend the rest of my days in the South Sea Islands.

ED WALTER

Well, I've never been so happy as I have been here, so I think that I'd just stay here and do what I am doing.

KOKA ROY

I'd do a little bit of everything.

FRAN McLEAN

Virtue is like a rich stone—best plain set.

The Most of Little

"There is Drama in Everyday Life" writes Hal Skovmand on trip West to join Navy

I spent Christmas eve and Christmas day on a train—in fact, most of the week before Christmas was spent on a train or in a strange city. You can visualize what I did while I was on those trains.

I saw many instances of people trying to make Christmas eve and Christmas mean something. Some of the attempts were good and some were not so good, but here is one which I think is worthy of more notice than I am able to give it.

It happened on a tourist sleeper "somewhere" between Toronto and Winnipeg on the C.N.R. The time was Christmas eve, night and morning. There was a group of sailors from Windsor, Ontario, going home on leave—getting home after Christmas and leaving before New Years since they had so far to go. There were also two or three girls and an airman with a couple of soldiers. Around supper time a couple of sailors, came into the diner and asked for an axe or a large knife. The cook found a huge knife and they went triumphantly and secretly off with it. Soon the train stopped at some whistling post for a few moments and we saw those two sailors jump off the train with the airman and a soldier, rush into the woods and come running back with two Christmas trees as the train began to move. How they had ever whittled those two trees off in that length of time I will never know, but there they were. Then they set to work to decorate one of them. Anyone who has a bit of bright paper and ribbon contributed to the cause. The porter did a beautiful job of making a star for the top of the tree and when they finished I can truthfully say I never saw a better job done with so little. Then they set the tree up in an upper berth and any one who was giving something to one of his pals put it under the tree. This done, they took the other tree and broke off the branches and proceeded to do a job on the whole car. People have the darndest things in suitcases and apparently Christmas decorations aren't the least of them.

After all the work was done they settled back to have some fun and enjoy themselves. One of the girls had an accordion, two or three mouthorgans appeared and they sang. They sang everything but mostly carols. Everyone took part and sang, whistled or merely hummed or "beat it out" on the window.

Everyone brought out his Christmas supplies and sacrificed them to the crowd. The best of chocolates were freely passed around along with sherry and the best navy rum. Yes there was some drinking but just enough to make even the quiet ones sing and these youngsters did such a good job of quitting when they had enough that it was a treat to see especially after all the roary eyes I had the displeasure of dealing with all during that week.

Next morning they appointed a Santa Claus and with much pomp and ceremony the presents were handed out and no one was missed. A little later they set to work to help the porter clean up the mess and by the time we rolled into Winnipeg, order was restored and so too the decorations to their rightful owners.

This was their Christmas, not as good as they would have had at home but they did their level best. My only regret about it all was that I couldn't take part for I had to work. I did donate my trumpet to a sergeant who beat out a few "hot" ones for them. The C.N.R. gave me a really good Christmas dinner which a lot of them didn't get.

CO-ED CAPERS

By Marion Morrison

Sunday afternoon the senior girls and the Glee Club of the University of New Brunswick were entertained at the home of Mrs. F. J. Toole, who was assisted by Mrs. M. J. Thompson, Mrs. A. G. Bailey, Dr. Louise Thompson, Miss Marjorie Barberie, Miss Eileen Wallace, Miss M. L. Whimster, Miss Katherine McNaughton, Miss Frances Gay and Mrs. Harry Saunders. Mrs. C. C. Jones poured and invited also were Dr. and Mrs. M. F. Gregg and Dr. Bailey. This was the fourth in a series of teas given by the members of the Faculty Women's Club for the lady students at U.N.B.

On Tuesday the 16th, our first C.O.T.C. day of this term, the co-eds had the pleasure of listening to Miss Mary Louise Whimster telling of her travels abroad. Miss Whimster's informal talk about a tour she took to France, Italy, Belgium, England and Scotland, was most enjoyable. She told us many interesting things about the countries she visited and the people she saw. Miss Whimster was heartily thanked by the girls and upon their insistence promised to tell us more about her trip at some other time.

Co-ed week activities are now well underway. A tentative schedule has been drawn up as follows: First of all February 11-18 has been chosen as our week to howl.

Monday—Sleigh ride, informal dance and food in reading room afterward.

Tuesday—Delta Rho Bridge.

Wednesday—Wolfing.

Thursday—Co-ed Lockey game with Faculty (if possible).

Friday—Co-ed Dance.

Saturday—Show.

The co-ed edition of the Brunswickian will be published Wednesday, February 14 which is Valentine's Day. Rather appropriate, don't you think?

Jean Smith '45 and Mardie Long '47 will be the co-editors of this edition.

At the Ladies' Society meeting Thursday, Betty Page '45 was elected this year's captain of the co-ed hockey team. Blanche Lav '46 was elected as manager. Congratulations go to both of you. It looks like a good choice to us.

The sleigh ride, a new venture this year, is under the capable direction of Kay Bell. Her committee is as follows: Ellen McLaggan, Mazy Whalen, Betty Price, Doreen Miller.

The co-eds will also participate in the swim meet Friday, February 2. Coach Ryan is planning on having three events, a 20-yd. free style, a 20-yd. sidestroke and a 120-yd. relay for the girls. The co-eds are swimming to give the competing teams a break. Among those participating are Katie Bell, Ann Gibson, Ellen McLaggan, Jackie Pickard, Marion Morrison.

The fool doth think he is wise, but the wise man knows himself to be a fool.

DRIPPINGS from the Editor's Pen

No doubt you are interested in Insurance.

Most people of financial means subscribe to some type of life insurance. Property holders have long since found the value of fire insurance. Shippers continue to make use of the different types of insurance which are offered as protection in their business. In short, insurance has arisen from its gameing ancestry into an accepted position in the social and commercial world of today.

Unfortunately the only personal insurance obtainable is designed to be payable in case of accident, death or old age. The Insurance Companies obviously cannot afford to chance the risks of a professional, social or marital misfortune at a reasonable rate for the average middle class man. The only insurance that a person can purchase for these personal accidents is a knowledge derived from instruction and experience.

That the University student is interested in an insurance is evident in the fact that he is willing to spend at least four years of his youth in an institution of learning. At such an institution he is afforded the opportunity of learning something about the social media if he is interested. He learns little or nothing about matrimony.

Our knowledge of "sex education" at this university is negligible. Several of the more progressive colleges of this continent prescribe courses for all students designed to teach the student about the human body and its intrinsic anomalies. The Public Health Service of many cities offer courses of instruction to prospective mothers and to prospective fathers.

Obviously it is impractical at this college to offer an extensive course in anything nearly as advanced as this. However, it appears probably that elementary courses in the functions of the various organs of the human body could be taught.

Under the system of education followed here, only those following biology are fortunate enough to receive instruction regarding some of the enigmas of life. The Engineer knows more about the operation of a generator than he does about his stomach or liver. The Forester probably understands the reproduction of pinus whereas that of sapiens remains a mystery.

Looking Around C. U. P.

Campus Cat

Dr. Sniffy Waller, noted geophysicist, has been reported long overdue at the faculty desk in the Library and is officially listed as missing. The Varsity learned early today. Next of kin have been notified.

Dr. Waller, who does not ordinarily use books, is understood to have entered the Library Jungle in quest of Whitman's Leaves of Grass. For some time past, Prof. Waller, in co-operation with Premier Georgeous Pew, of Queen's Park has been working on a theory that the population of Ontario can be increased indefinitely, each raw family being maintained on a small patch of grass or scrub. Whitman's book is regarded as a pioneer work in the field.

Last seen wearing the regulation professorial battered hat and torn raincoat, Dr. Waller disappeared on the afternoon of Nov. 20. Speculation is rife in some quarters as to whether the missing savant, while wandering aimlessly around the stacks, was picked up by some Library mull and either taken to the cleaners or filed away for re-binding.

An alternative theory, given some credence in the Library office, is that Prof. Waller has been inadvertently wrapped up in a bundle of newspapers and put out for the salvage committee.

In any case, Library officials are jubilant over the scoring of another point over Hart House in the annual Lost Professors Contest. "Waller's disappearance puts us up 6-4 on Lickerbre's crew," exulted Librarian Walleye when interviewed in his office. "It looks as if we've got the same sewed up for this term."

He explained that the first round of the contest ends Dec. 26, and the second begins on Jan. 5, 1945. The intervening period is regarded as an open season during which no score is kept. "We don't want the affair to degenerate into a free-for-all," stated Mr. Walleye.

He hinted at collusion between Library officials and professors who disappear in the stacks, pointing out that it would be an easy matter for professors to be kept incognito among such miscellanea as Phys. Biz. Soc. Doc, etc., re-appearing after Dec. 20 in time to shave the first prize with Librarian Walleye. "They could hide there for months," he asserted, "without anybody being any the wiser. Including themselves."

At press time neither Dr. Cody nor Kidney Myth could be reached for comment.

Are You Writing Regularly?

"Write often, keep the family bonds strong enough to cross the Atlantic, send pictures of the family, neighbours and street. Pictures warm the hearts of men away from home. Fill your letters with the homely, everyday happenings that make your soldier know he is still part of the home."

chestra obtained. The Jacks let loose and the crowd labored through a square dance until bruised shins, wet brows and slipped slips beat everyone into submission.
During the intermission the Pre-Meds entertained with a rum sct in which Prof. Joz Kaplieniewicz starred as he rendered several solos on the tonette. Bystanders crooned. "How dry I am." Then the dance continued. Pet pests of the evening were a plague of woman snatching stags who floated away with one's partner while one sat out that dance.

Through the courtesy of the Montreal Engineering Company and the Calgary Power Company, Mr. E. O. Turner of our Civil Engineering Department will attend the Annual Meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada to be held at the Royal Alexandra Hotel in Winnipeg on February 7-8.
Dr. Turner is to act as the chairman of the session on Rural Electrification, having made a survey in this field during the past two summers in Calgary and Vancouver. He will also act in the capacity of Councillor of the Institute for New Brunswick.
Dr. Turner has always been very active in the Institute and it is largely due to his efforts that so many of the students at this university are enrolled and engage in competition within the organization.
Mrs. Turner will accompany her husband to Winnipeg.

MacMillan, Dot Johns, Eric Teed, Jack Jeans, Betty Brewster, Gerald Bailey, Marg Vince, Joseph Margolian, Bob McGowan and others.
It is expected that tickets will be on sale around the end of this month. Admission will be twenty-five cents for students and thirty-five cents for others.
Also being presented this term by the society, is a play for the Founders Day program.

Every member of the U-Y Club must be a student at the University. One of the Fredericton Y's men, who sponsored the club, said that.
The U-Y movement is the first of its kind in North America. As the Y.M.C.A. is an international movement, the club will do much to create interest in the University.

In conclusion Dr. Petrie pointed out that our future is not as rosy as was commonly believed, and since to survive we must be primarily an export nation, placing our raw materials on the world market, drastic changes would have to be made in our own local methods of production. Ending with a not too encouraging note Dr. Petrie said "The only bright spot I can see for New Brunswick lies in establishing export trade with China, South America and India."

are changed, they will be revised to make it more, not less, difficult for students to remain at university. Our armies need reinforcements and it is probable that, before this war is finished successfully, we will require even a lot of those who are now "low category" men. The United States has moved to use its "low categories" in combat areas, and it is quite possible that we may yet follow suit.
There is, however, nothing more to report than that, with so much smoke—part of which is a screen, here is probably some fire and that, before many weeks, we may see an announcement of new student regulations.

lems which confront young people when choosing a religion. Certain topics mentioned at the Youth Conference last November were brought up and discussed, and other questions of various kinds were asked.
After the meeting, refreshments were served in the blue room followed by a short dish wash.
Instruction in left-handed writing is given by Mrs. Marian Krueger, clinician in the University of Minnesota speech clinic, to left-handed persons desiring to write correctly.
Many left-handed people have difficulty in writing because the hand position is awkward, therefore, they cannot write fast or well and their hand often smears the ink.
Writing at the blackboard is the first step in learning to write correctly with the left-hand. It is almost like learning to write all over again as the letters are shaped from a different angle.
The trick is to pull the letters toward the body so the writing will slant the same as that of a right-handed person. After learning to make the letters at the blackboard, the class starts again and learns to do the same thing on paper. Small letters are always learned before attempting to make the capital letters. Some letters are more difficult than others to learn.

After our initial blast last week we envisioned pistols or lances or some such weapon at dawn, or even a lynching, but not having been reproached too harshly, another week brings more "news and views for youse".

Tidbits of info: George Bond reported looking over Spode (that's china, cups 'n saucers, fellas) in Shute's... "Oh, this is for my mother." Nothing like the old family devotion, in one family or another.—Bill Martia let us in on a secret which we share, i.e. Don Wilcox's engagement to an Ottawa girl. Seems Don could not keep both his I-know-something-that-you-don't-know look and his secret so he told his Forestry classmates the latter... Finally found thru information that Ladies' Society new phone no. is 81692, might come in handy in your directory. Smart new bulletin board in the Forestry and Geology Building outside Math lecture room.

Since we are writing before the budget meeting perhaps events won't follow the same course as this column, but if things retain their usual system our comments will not be wasted. At every budget meeting is first heard the gripe, "Why don't you cut the levy?"

Admittedly in some cases the questioner has reviewed the situation and sees room for lopping off some items which in the long run would leave us still in an unfavorable position, both financially and socially.

Without reference to any particular budgets it is immediately seen that the majority of the entire budget is expended on athletics—and as some non-thinking souls would have it ON ATHLETES. Mind you we are not building up a case for large expenditures to sports, because if the students feel that they don't want any part of championship participation in athletics, they will soon vote down proposed budgets. On the other hand comments are oftentimes forthcoming from people who have no inclinations whatsoever toward sport. But these biased individuals are more than balanced by their counterparts, the prejudiced sports lovers.

Just as the former would not care to see any games of any not care to see any games of any description so also would the latter not hudge toward supporting the debating society, or the I.R.C. We always like to think of George McClintock's choice words on the ban-on-athletics creature, "They think a basketball is a softball that has been over-vitaminized." But thank goodness because ours is a democratic way of living, all sides can air their views and not make their future actions be affected by their words. So again this year we will hear from well-meaning and good-intentioned sources a little advice on how to balance the budget by the paradoxical system of taking in less money and paying out more. Sounds simple doesn't it? Good budgeting everybody on Monday at 7...

see both the horse and the lady, and suddenly recognized the latter. It was none other than Queen Elizabeth. Quickly throwing his richly embroidered cloak around her, he said, Honi soit qui mal y pense" which means, "You need this Queenie, a lot more than I do." "Dieu et mon droit" stammered the Queen, which was her way of saying, "My God, you're right!"

Woman is the lesser man.

Jack Secvill and Bert Miller added the following anecdote to our collection: On their way to the hospital to visit Duke Waring they saw a never-to-be-forgotten sight, that of a man actually flying thru the air on a metal sheet. It seems the gent in question was seated comfortably on a stack of galvanized tin sheets in the back of a truck and when the truck came to a too-sudden halt, the top sheet went the opposite way creating a sensation for onlookers and participant alike. Naturally the tale loses its effect in telling, but we enjoyed hearing it so maybe you did as well.

Speaking of Duke Waring we overheard a new definition for skiing, viz. a "W(e)aring-out(ing)". And the Electricals of course came up with this one: "Where are you heading?" asked a young civil. "To transport lab," replied veteran electrical. "Where's that lab, Harry?" "Never heard of that lab before. "No, Jim's. We're transporting the electrical department to the new building." "Anything for a laugh, or didn't we achieve our purpose???"

You no doubt noticed the schedule of the co-ed basketballers in last week's issue of The Brunswickan, so that now you have no excuse for not showing up for the rest of the games. Only a handful put in an appearance for the C.W.A.C. game but more were on hand for the F.H.S. tussle last Friday nite, and the girls really gave you something to scream about. This is one of the few chances the co-eds have of showing their ability along different lines of endeavour, so how about it students, support the group that does the most work of any on this campus. (Not to co-eds: Don't let that last statement go to your heads.)

Other items on the Freshman agenda will include discussion of the budget and laying plans for a dance which the Freshmen have neglected to give to the upperclassmen as repayment for the Freshman Reception tendered the Freshmen last October by the Student Body through the Social Committee.

Freshmen to Meet Faculty

Among other Class meetings to be held this Friday at noon, the Class of '48 will meet in order to elect representatives to the S.R.C. As is customary the Freshman class has been without representation on the S.R.C. so far this year and will be represented for the first time at the Final Budget Meeting next Monday.

REQUIRES STUDENT SUPPORT

James Fettes, President of the Students Representative Council, in an interview after last night's Preliminary Budget Meeting, told The Brunswickan that he had been disappointed at the lack of student support at the meeting. He pointed out that of the total attendance of about fifty people almost half of them were members of the S.R.C. He expressed his hope that the majority of the student body would see fit to attend the Final Spring Budget Meeting to be held next Monday at 7.30 p.m. in the Mathe-esday, January 24, 1945.

PROPOSED TOTALS Skyrocket AT PRELIMINARY

Unusual in its small attendance, the Preliminary Spring Budget Meeting was not a lively gathering. With only a negligible amount of discussion, the record budget of $6,802.47 was benevolently reviewed by the quiescent Students' Council Representatives.

p.m., the treasurer feverishly began Scheduled to commence at 7.30 to inscribe the terrifying totals for public approval and, with the aid of anxious managers, hastily conscripted by the sly Owens, was able to sufficiently finish his performance by 8.00 so the meeting could commence. Consequently, sharp on the eighth stroke of "The Jones Boys" recurrent pealing from the most popular residence on the campus, President Fettes, of Hamburg fame, cleared his bearded throat and asked the Secretary to read the minutes of the last meeting.

Before approximately 30 people, the S.R.C. commenced to tackle regular business on hand. However, before they had settled down to the hibernation which they appeared to expect, Fred Davidson, Vice-President, tried to convince the body that the minutes read were a week late and before this stubborn gent could be convinced of his misapprehension, another "bunch of minutes" ticked past.

Among the regular items of business which were brought before the meeting was included Skip Ayer's announcement of a dance following the two basketball games to be held this Saturday. Then the clever B.B. manager demanded that his $82 budget for the Presque Isle game be passed. Twenty-five dollars of the War Effort Committee funds were granted to the I.O.L.E. book drive for Prisoners of War. The I.E.S. discussion was again reviewed by the president and after a brief pause during which no comment or suggestion was offered, the matter was tabled until April.

Editorial

In case you are wondering just why The Brunswickan has gone to the trouble to arrange a supplement for the Budget, we feel we should take this opportunity to explain our policy regarding Budgets.

Realizing that The Brunswickan is expected to be the "voice" of student opinion on the campus, we believe that we should give to the students as complete a coverage of the Budget Meetings and the Budget, as is possible. Consequently we have endeavoured, through these pages, to give you an account of the Preliminary Budget Meeting, not so much in dollars and cents, as in the details of the meeting which, we presume, would have interested you.

Unfortunately the most conspicuous detail of the Budget Meeting this year was the small attendance. Empty chairs are never a sign of a healthy government. Small groups of people are not apt to do the popular thing unless they can have some idea of what the masses of the people desire. This fact is among the important reasons why you should attend S.R.C. meetings.

Some of those students who are most affected by the action of the S. R. C. at budget meetings are prevented from attending. Those people who are active in athletics and in societies are often prevented from attending evening meetings of the S.R.C. because of practices or meetings. This, in our opinion, should not be. Often the S. R. C. is at liberty to cut budgets without hindrance, except from an inexperienced manager, who usually understands other than vicariously, only a few of the problems of his charge.

Taking these arguments into consideration we wish to propose that the members of the Council should make an effort to curtail all activities on the campus which take place at such a time that they interfere with the attendance at the Budget Meeting.

Budget Meeting

but effective firecracker) successfully threw the assemblage into a state of nervous uproar which succeeded in its purpose as this budget passed the Council with only minor questions.

With the Social Committee's budget for $716 came the usual questions regarding the prices of orchestras, the seemingly low gate receipts and the requests for last year's statements, which has never been granted by either the S.R.C. Treasurer or the Social Committee Chairman. The inconsistent ratios of orchestra salaries to gate receipts was further questioned as Bob Evans explained something in indeterminable double talk, with which he continually contradicted himself and his former policies. The badminton budget was passed without investigation.

The last budget of the evening was that of the Men's Common Room Committee for an estimated $500. Ayres, from the back seats, proposed that the Victory Bonds be utilized for this purpose. Bill Gibson, Committee Chairman, on hand be cashed and the money claimed that he could not "disclose any details until the end of the

The variety of the universe is infinite and incessant; it progresses eternally; history never repeats itself and no parallels are precisely true.

Knowledge must be orderly; one makes science with facts as a house of stones; but an accumulation of facts is no more a Science than is a heap of stones a house.

"Nature and Nature's laws lay hid in night God said, 'Let Newton be, and all was light.'" —Pope
How happy is he born and taught,
That serveth not another's will;
Whose armor is his honest thought,
And simple truth his utmost skill!

The summer hath his joys,
And winter his delights;
Though love and all his pleasures
are but toys,
They shorten tedious nights.

Ignorance of the law excuses no man; not that all men know the law, but because 'tis an excuse every man will plead, and no man can tell how to refute him.

Budget Meeting

versity Senate members be admitted to all sports events without charge. The President took pains to point out that the idea was given to him by Prof. Ryan, who believed that this plan, besides being a good will gesture, would increase Faculty attendance at games. After several comments were made regarding the original sponsor's aspirations, it was pointed out that the few professors who do attend athletic events, would probably scoff at the idea of gratis admission and further that this plan would have little influence on the Faculty attendance. The proposal was defeated.

The Constitution of the Veterans Club was introduced and was quickly accepted. The sum of twelve dollars was voted to the Football Manager for sweater repairs and the Engineers were officially granted the evening of March 9 and permission to hold a dance that night. The evening of February 2 was granted to the W.E.C. for the Victory Ball. Ted Owens reminded the Council that the forgetful Freshmen had not given the dance to the Upperclassmen which was scheduled for last fall.

The regular meeting ended with a motion that the Final Spring Budget Meeting be held January 29 at 7.30 p.m. in the Mathematics Lecture Room. Then the members relaxed in their seats and the important part of the agenda was introduced at 8.25.

The hurried Treasurer, thinking of his impending date with the Ladies' Society President, began his breathless progress through the proposed budgets (which are listed elsewhere in this paper). The first Budget was that of the A.A.A. and wasn't questioned. The Boxing Manager was quizzed regarding his advertising, which appears in three times and amounts, with tickets and score pads, to $56. The Manager, Dave MacDonald, icebly defended his policy by stating that his estimates were based on last year's budget and that he could spend that amount of money with ease. The Year Book, after collecting $603 last term presented a budget of $115, a custom which is new for this organization. This budget passed with a complete absence of comment.

The only questions asked of the Hockey Manager, whose proposals totalled $1,062.15, referred to taxis and referees at home games. In answering the latter inquiry, Frank Horgan stated that he expected his team to be playing games with Army, St. Thomas and Mt. Allison here. When the chair was asked for an explanation of the Bowling Budget a voice from the rear chair's candidly announced that Bowling Crests were for bowlers. However the manager explained that for the first time the league winners were to be granted crests and prizes.

Budgets for The Brunswickan, the International Relations Club and the Swimming Club were passed without query. When questioned regarding the ambiguous "etc" of the Glee Club, the Back Room Bunch again arose to the effort and gave answers varying from "oranges and gum" to a loud "tuning forks". After the shouting and tumult had died, one of Frankie's boys claimed that the obnoxious abbreviation stood for "sheet music repairs."

Some sleepy students awoke when the S.R.C. constitution was introduced and asked several questions regarding the Gym Police establishment. (About this time Bond and Mulherin, late of "aforesaid snow-fall fame", went into conference.) Skip Ayers was in the midst of explaining that the lack of Gym Police at last Saturday's game was due to the suddenness with which the game was arranged when the Campus Clown, Teed, came into the meeting room eating a goodly portion of the Bunnies' bread ration in his inimitable style.

With the Rink Budget came a revival of some of the old criticisms. The Hockey Manager declared that the rink was not yet ready for Hockey games and Bill Gibson, the Campus Critic, inquired why the Rink Manager had spent "$39 on a 1000 ft. of lumber," as the condition of the rink sides was far from acceptable to himself. The Ski and Track budgets were scanned with little comment, however "Better Government" Baxter, jealous that some should have seen his last year's performance for nothing, moved that admission be charged at Track Meets in the future. This motion was passed.

The Delta Rho and the Levy Collection budgets received no comment while that of Ladies Basketball was quizzed slightly. Fred Davidson, disregarding the impending Co-ed Week, suggested that room provision be deleted from the budget and the Secretary proposed that the whole of the St. Stephen budget be cancelled unless that team offers a guaranty.

Just at this point Bond and Mulherin came out of conference and announced that they had decided that no more than one member of the Gym Police was necessary at a basketball game. While Baxter was trying to dramatize the benefits to the caretaker with such alliterations as "Jack the Janitor", Evans declared that one local Constable was equal to 12 Gym Police and The Two sneaked their decision into a motion and had it passed. Teed then proposed that the Gym Police be given some form of more distinctive dress and, while Owens interjected "Black eye", Eric went on to explain that the public was inclined to think of the individuals in question as Zombies, rather than overseers of the law. As soon as Teed resumed his seat The Duet proposed another motion to the effect that should the Chief of Gym Police deem it necessary, he could approach the Council for more than the prescribed singleton. This motion was speedily passed and the confused members found themselves back at the same position as they had previously been, due to the fact that the new motions duplicate the constitutional clauses regarding Gym Police.

The next budget, and the biggest one of all, was that of the Men's Basketball, which called for a total expenditure of $1,203. After Owens had finished reading the lengthy cracle, one of The Team's ardent members (by means of an ancient
