L'Orpheon des Trois-Rivieres

Under the direction of M. Leo Carle, L'Orpheon des Trois-Rivieres, delighted a capacity audience in Memorial Hall last Sunday evening. The renowned French Canadian choral group were presented by the Creative Arts Committee of UNB.

An enthusiastic audience at Mem Hall Sunday evening applauded the sparkling performance of L'Orpheon des Trois-Rivieres. Acclaimed as one of the finest choral groups in Canada, the French Canadian choir gave an excellent demonstration of its polished technique and versatility. Under the direction of M. Leo Carle, L'Orpheon presented a programme of folk-songs of French, English and Russian origin, balanced by light classical selections.

Some unusual effects were produced by the choir's renditions of two Russian songs, "Hospody Polmiluy" and "The Song of the Volga Boatmen".

The singers were at their best in the performance of French and French Canadian folk-songs, which they sang with obvious enjoyment and exuberance. The most notable of these were "Dans Tous Les Cantons", "Coucou", "Les P'tits Oignons" and "Chinoiserie".

The eye-catching costumes of the group, dressed in white satin shirts, dark trousers and bright striped sashes added more colour to the programme.

The choir's tremendous power and control, as well as its spirit and vitality brought resounding applause from the large audience which filled the hall. As encores, the chorus sang a Russian folk-song without words, and a spirited French tune, which in English was "a real get-together".

At the end of the concert a spokesman expressed hope that the audience had enjoyed the performance which embodied the intelligence, the heart and the harmony of L'Orpheon des Trois-Rivieres.

University Naval Training Division; Off To Fast Start

The University Naval Training Division under the Command of Lieutenant-Commander J. C. Murray is off to a fast start this year with the first drill being held Thursday night.

More than twenty new students are seeking admission to the division which unfortunately has a quota of only 12 first year cadets. After the opening parade and the commanding officer's inspection, second and third year cadets started their training while the first year cadets were being "screened" and "documented".

The other officers of the division are Lieutenant David

McLay (assistant professor of physics) who is executive officer, or second in command, and Sub Lieutenants Ed Daughney '61, Mike Denny '61, Art McKay '61 and Bill Colpitts '61.

These four seniors were promoted to commissioned rank last summer and will serve as "term" lieutenants and instruct in navigation, seamanship, warfare and other subjects which the cadets must become proficient in before they are sent to the Atlantic or Pacific coast for intensive training and cruises in her Majesty's Canadian sea-going ships.

HELP SOLVE UNEMPLOYMENT!

In these days of growing unemployment, the Canadian Highway Safety Council feels every automobile operator should know how to contribute his full share to keeping the tire-makers busy. As a public service, it offers these gems of advice from the Rubber

1. Always travel at the highest speed.
2. Turn corners as fast as possible.

NEW ELECTION TO REPLACE FORMER STUDENT PRESIDENT

WINNIPEG (CUP)—An unprecedented student election to replace University of Manitoba student president Lindley Abdulah who failed his year, will be held October 3.

The move to hold the election in the fall—instead of allowing vice-president Duncan Wallace to assume the presidency—came at an emergency meeting of the Students' Union last week.

But, before an election can be held the U of M constitution must be amended, as it permits only spring elections.

Abdulah, elected president last spring, was forced to resign two weeks ago because he failed supplemental Geography and English examinations this summer. It was the second time he failed a year at Manitoba.

He may be forced to leave Canada since he is a Trinidadian, and can remain here only so long as he is in university. However, he may be permitted to write his exams again or be granted special permission to remain at university by the administration, provided he would not take part in extra-curricular activities.

Considering the necessity of a fall election, the entire council executive, except the vice-president, favored an election over the raising of Wallace to the presidency.

Treasurer Allan Darling told the council that they faced a "situation unique in UMSU history." He said that there were two courses of action open to the council, "but the constitution in its entirety implies there must be an election."

Law representative Peter Freeman objected to the election, stating that committees had spent six months planning during the summer and, "We have gone too far to turn back."

ROD AND GUN CLUB SPONSORS HEAVIEST DEER CONTEST

A "Heaviest Deer" contest sponsored by the UNB Rod and Gun Club was the feature attraction of the organizational meeting of the newest club on campus.

Describing details of the contest, newly elected club president Andy Coté stated that only Rod and Gun members would be eligible for the prizes. Prizes will be a trophy donated by Fredericton Mayor, Bill Walker, and a prize from Federal Hardware.

Entry into the spirit of the occasion, the Brunswickan, offers a third prize, a large glossy photograph of the sharpshooter and his prizewinning deer.

Other executive officers of the club are Al Wainwright, secretary; Ralph Francis, treasurer; and Public Relation Manager, Bill Lewis.

Discussed at the meeting were plans for holding several deer and migration bird hunting trips to be held before the close of the season. Several members proposed the establishment of a hunting lodge.

Next meeting for all interested will be Thursday, Oct. 6, at 7.30 in the Student's Centre.

Gals are welcome!

BRIDGE PREXY REVEALS PLANS

UNB Duplicate Bridge Club President, Jim Murphy, revealed that plans are in the incubation stage to organize the largest intercollegiate Bridge Tournament ever held in Canada. Every university in Eastern Canada will be invited to send an official team or independent representatives to this major event.

With Winter Carnival co-operation this tournament will possibly be one of the feature events next February.

These items will be discussed tonight at the first meeting of the club, 7.00 pm in the Oak Room of the Student Centre.

An election for Secretary-Treasurer and the teaching of beginners will also be covered.

Rumours are prevalent that eight co-eds are going to storm the club. An anonymous Maggie Jeaner reports that these girls have been practising all summer and are out to win berths of the UNB Intercollegiate Bridge Team.

A bridge club official questioned the authenticity of the preceding statement and himself stated "Most of the bridge playing co-eds were apparently frightened to put their abilities to the test last year and we doubt if the situation will change this year".

From this reporter's view it shapes up like a battle between male logic and card analysis and female intuition.

The time again, for all bridge fiends, is 7.00 pm at the Oak Room.

A Successful First

The first dance "up the hill" this year was sponsored by the UNB Arts Society last Saturday night in Mem Hall. The approximately 150 people who attended, danced by candlelight, to soft music which suggested a Hernando's Hideaway theme. Refreshments were served at 11.00 p.m.

All and all, the dance was a great success and showed some indication of the exciting social season ahead.

Yearbook officials report that unless all seniors immediately get on the ball and send in their photographs and writeups, they will have no alternative but to leave them out. Seniors have exactly one month, deadline October 31, to get their material to the Yearbook staff.

LAWYERS ISSUE WRIT TO CO-EDS

On Wednesday night, October 5, from 7-9 p.m., the students of the UNB Law School will be At Home to the university co-eds.

As most people know, the School moved from Saint John to Somerville House in the fall of 1959. The fact of being off-campus, and its corollary that the students are unable to play as active a role in activities "up the hill" as they would like, has led to the sponsoring of the First Annual Co-ed Tea.

As many co-eds as possible have been notified, but there exists the possibility that, through some error, someone has been missed. Thus, to re-emphasize, this invitation is open to ALL UNB CO-EDS.

Treasure Van Comes Early

WUSC's Treasure Van visits the UNB campus early this year, from Monday, October 17 to Thursday, October 20th. Fourteen countries will be represented with their handicrafts, it was recently announced by Mr. Douglas Meyer, National Secretary.

UNB will be the first stop for the Treasure Van on the Maritime university circuit. Consequently, students, faculty, and surrounding areas may be assured of a wide selection of unusual handicrafts at very reasonable prices.

Plans are being formed to have different campus societies and residences sponsor countries or continents in the four-day sale. The Treasure Van is an annual event that provides an opportunity to buy rare gifts for Christmas and other occasions.

WHICH FOR YOU?

Recently in Aitken House there has been a move to improve the dress of the students. First of all the President of Aitken House sent a circular out to all prospective residents telling them of the idea of dressing up during the academic year. On arriving in residence all freshmen were expected to dress up. The seniors were "encouraged" to follow this example.

This dress up policy consists of a shirt, tie and jacket for everyday wear. In an interview, Al Chandler, Aitken House president, said that "I hope that by encouraging the residents of Aitken to dress up the idea might spread throughout the campus". Mr. Chandler stated that "the idea started when Dr. Mackay spoke at a meeting in Aitken and stated that he would like to see the students of UNB dress better". He finished the interview by stating that good dress created ambition and initiative.

This policy of dress up being pushed by Aitken House brings a pertinent question into the limelight.

Are UNB student sloppy dressers, or in other words do they dress too informally? This has been brought up many times in the past but never really solved. Many people have said that since UNB is small and outside the city, that there is no real need to dress up. These same people say that dressing up creates a more formal atmosphere. Also, it would cost money to keep good clothes clean.

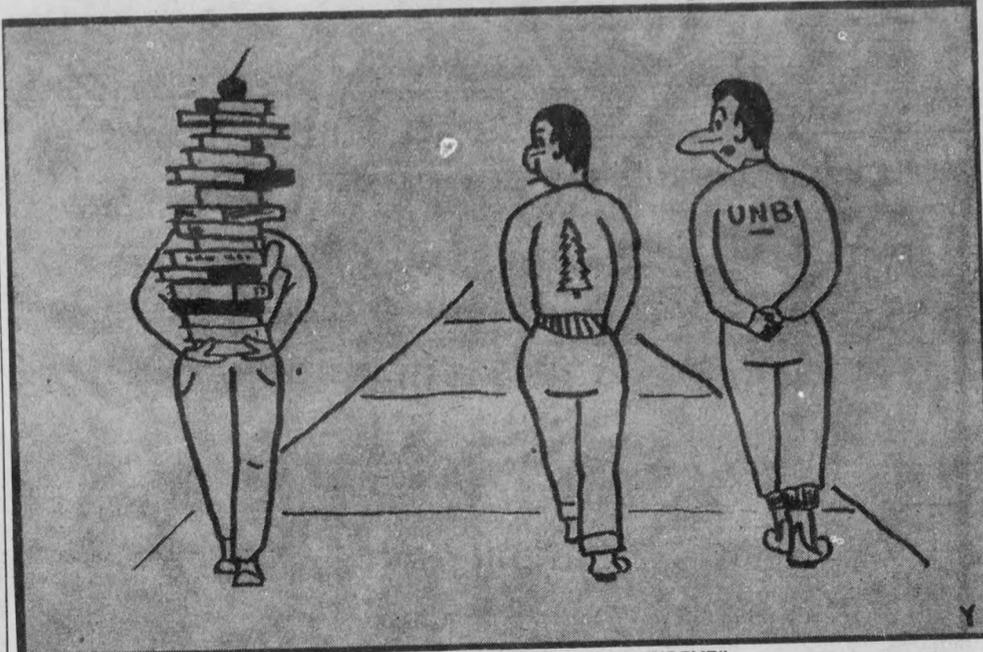

On the other hand, UNB is no longer a small university, as it has grown both in size and prestige and now ranks with some of the top universities in the country. And, in keeping in step with UNB we should change our mode of dress. One can also say that having the students dress up would brighten up the appearance of the campus, as well as create interest.

In a poll taken among the Brunswickan staff the general consensus was against dressing up. The reasons ranged from it being too impractical to "why start dressing up now when we're going to have to dress up for the rest of our lives anyway".

A faculty member who wishes to remain anonymous for obvious reasons stated that "one gets rather nauseated by continually looking over a sea of mottled red".

There are both sides of the argument, and it is up to you, the student body of UNB to decide which stand to take.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Bell,
The Column.

Dear Sir,

In your column of September 27, you state it would be best for the town girls to pack up and go to some other university. This, we feel, is unfair. Being Fredericton natives we have steeped in UNB spirit all our lives. Would you have these bulwarks of UNB loyalty leave to attend Mount A or some other subversive institute of higher learning? For shame! True, residence life has its advantages, but we feel the benefits of living at home—free room and board; good home-cooked meals; no worry of expulsion; freedom to come and go as we please—more than outweigh the disadvantages. And you would have us leave?

THE COLUMN

Ed
BELL

After four Columns, some of which have been mildly controversial, perhaps it would be a good idea to make an explanation of the subject matter of The Column and the way in which it is treated. The best way to arouse interest is to state views which disagree with those of the reader. In this way, people are brought to think of the reason why my views are wrong. If The Column succeeds in making people think . . . even argue . . . then it will have achieved its goal. Please do not interpret this to mean that the subject matter of this column is to be solely critical and controversial. Nor does the Column intend to "pick on" any individual or group simply for the sake of sensationalism. The object is to stimulate interest and to provide lively reading material. If, by accident and/or my own ignorance, somebody should be offended; The Brunswickan will gladly express your own views in the form of a letter to the Editor.

Enough by the way of explanation . . . now on to more interesting ground. After making our co-eds reluctant even to think about going out to The Flame, they think that the story of the average Freshman at UNB should be told. Perhaps I should make his story exaggerated enough to include all the extreme cases of male student behaviour (and misbehaviour) up the hill. It is much harder to pick a representative character from about fourteen hundred fellows than it is to distinguish a few isolated cases of the Freshette Complex among three hundred girls . . . especially since Mr. Crozier of Jones House thinks I spend more time concerned about the Maggie Jean than I should . . . neglecting a thorough study of Jones House. When Jones House acquires what the Maggie Jean has to offer . . . I'll be living there.

At any rate, on with the story of Freddie the Freshman. I now apologize to every Freshman named Fred . . . avoiding the rather uncomfortable experience of again meeting a Freshette named Sally. And fortunately, very few of our Freshmen are like Freddie. Not that Freddie is all bad . . . he has not yet learned to channel his energies into worthwhile channels.

Freddie begins his life at UNB by making a night-long train trip from Montreal to Fredericton. On the train he sees many nice-looking girls bound for the same destination (that is . . . while he is still in a condition where he can see anything). The sight of these lovely creatures excites Freddie with delusions of grandeur. His befogged mind picture life at UNB as a gay round of bacchanal social life with a limitless supply of females. Poor Freddie, he thinks that the fabulous life he used to brag about to his friends in his home city is about to be supplanted with a life that will be gayer than ever . . . as long as daddy's money lasts.

Freddie begins his life at UNB proper by assuming what he thinks is a new and improved personality. The boy who had kissed momma good-bye forty-eight hours ago is now a man of the world, experienced in the ways of women (no longer girls) and a superb judge of good liquor (no longer stolen from his daddy's liquor cabinet). He is rather startled to discover so many other men (as he now terms himself) on the campus, but "puts on the dog" even a little more to combat this fact. Hooray . . . he gets a date with a Freshette . . . not just any Freshette either, but one of the better looking ones (one of the many in my opinion). After having spent three days bragging about his approaching date . . . it arrives. He spends two hours describing his prowess and good qualities in no uncertain terms. Then he is bewildered and hurt to find that he is getting a "cold shoulder" from the girl. Why, this is not the way that an experienced man of the world should be treated!

So Freddie immediately brands the young lady as one of the psychological type that have been discussed so fully in the last week or so. The fact that it might be he who is conceived never enters his mind. The solution to his problem . . . return a hurt for a hurt. This is the stage where the true petty nature of Freddie comes into force. Clipping the story of Sally Freshette from the college newspaper, he encloses it with a poison-pen note and sends it anonymously to the one who has spurned him.

All is now well, Freddie's pride is appeased . . . but his popularity is falling. What will happen now? Will Freddie wake up and start to be a good guy, much to the relief of the people in his own place of abode? Will his childish conceit be replaced by reason and common sense? Whatever happens to Freddie, he is sure to be constantly reminded that UNB is still a pretty small place and that there can be few secrets and undiscovered deceptions.

Seniors: Woodrow Wilson Scholarships

Princeton, N.J. — An election campaign promising rich rewards for the successful candidates gets under way today as thousands of faculty members from universities and colleges in the United States and Canada begin to nominate college seniors for Woodrow Wilson graduate fellowships.

In announcing the opening of the competition for the academic year 1961-62, Dr. Hugh Taylor, President of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, estimated that well over 9,000 students will be nominated by the closing date of October 31.

Designed to reduce a nationwide shortage of qualified college teachers, the program annually awards 1000 fellowships for first year graduate study at any university of the recipient's choice in the United States or Canada. Candidates are elected only after rigorous screening and personal interviews by one of fifteen regional committees of educators. Each elected fellow receives a $1500 stipend for living expenses plus full tuition and family allowances.

The program is open to college graduates mainly in the humanities and social sciences. Both men and women are eligible, and there is no limit on the age of the candidate or on the number of years he may have been out of college. Those who receive awards are not asked to commit themselves to college teaching, but merely to "consider it seriously" as a possible career.

The program, designed to encourage college seniors of outstanding ability to study for advanced degrees with faculty jobs as their goal, is administered by the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship Foundation under a $24,500,000 five year grant from the Ford Foundation.

Dr. Hans Rosenhaupt, National Director of the Wilson Fellowship Foundation, in an analysis of the past years' activities, reported that the highly selected grants have been awarded to graduates from 560 different colleges. This is convincing proof that many colleges throughout the country, not only the few well-known ones, offer high quality education. He estimated the annual need for new college teachers at 30,000 a year for the next ten years.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation does not accept applications directly from students. Every candidate for the award must be nominated by a faculty member. Nominated students are invited to declare themselves active candidates for the award by sending the necessary application forms to the chairman of the selection committee for the region in which the prospective candidate is now located. News for the Engineers

Glad to see you poke your nose into the blueprint again. Work is steadily piling up . . . still . . . let's try to get the Engineers rolling in intramural athletics . . . we have a strong crew and many of the sports should be pushovers. In fact, according to "Sobaco" Isaacs, all-star water polo defenseman, the Engineers should walk away with the honors. Many thanks go out to Mr. Isaacs for his useful comments. Among other sports on campus tennis has its share of supporters. Several of our fellow Engineers have been working out regularly. It warms the heart to see them give up the "Giggle Juice" so early in the year.

We see where Mr. Sherrard is very fortunate in that he has two foremen around him as he works on his car . . . What say Pauler and Al?

For you Civils who may be interested in formwork . . . the new residences being built on campus have a relatively new type of formwork on their foundations. Interlocking steel plates are being used, and it's a chance to hear some choice language as the carpenters try to install them. Apparently, these plates are very practical for walls having a minimum of checks in them . . . however, the new building is of another type.

Trav Buskard looking healthier than ever as he returns to the grindstone after a good summer in Montreal . . . Sober yet? One conscientious Engineering Prof seen cleaning up the campus with a Range Pole today. Good luck T. D.

Latest word has it that 4th and 5th year Civils have declared it a draw in the contest "Confuse your Prof! Confuse your Buddy! and Confuse yourself" . . . a contest which originated at UNB this year in which you try to see how many times you can have a Prof give the right lecture to the wrong class.

Items of interest should be dropped in the box located in the lobby of the Engineering Building.

UNB may have to be content with second place over Dalhousie in the AFL unless a stronger line is developed. Note that we say developed as we certainly have the quality of player but not necessarily the skill needed for an invulnerable line. The entire backfield, including Pete Rylander, were immobilized by the X-men as they repeatedly broke through our weak defence. Statistics show X-men gaining 481 yards while UNB rested with a Minus 19. Passing-wise; however, Rylander completed 8 for 15 for a total of 215 yards against 3 for 7 with 62 yards for the X-men.

St. FX managed to fumble four times with recoveries by Gord Foster, Brian Hough, Milt Sherwood, and Jack Dedham, while UNB only dropped one. Pete Rylander proved to be the star of the game when late in the fourth quarter with the score at 52-0, he let loose with two bullet passes hitting Hughes and Harvey. The first effort was a 37 yard toss into Hughes' chest who then carried the ball another 30 yards for the six points. This play surprised everyone in the stadium including Rylander, so he tried it again with a 44 yard pass and run play to Harvey for another six. Needless to say, both convert attempts were smothered by the rushing X-Men.

Big men for St. FX were two yankees, Bill Moynihan who travelled 174 yards on the ground of 3 TD's, and Joe Francoise who went 147 for two. Both men are excellent players, Moynihan being the top scorer in the Nova Scotia League last year, and Francoise an ex-Marine in his freshman year.

With the downfall of the Red Tiddlers (The Varsity Tiddley-Winks Team) more through sprained thumbs and hangnails than poor gamesmanship, efforts are being exerted to form an alternative activity which will foster the interests of those students looking for athletic endeavours a little less exerting than football et al.

We are, in the fair city of Fredericton, blessed with an Academy of Higher Learning and Skills known in some circles as The Pool Hall. It is our intention to bring out the best in hidden talent through the medium of the age-old activity of pushing the little coloured balls about on green felt. The feeling of power and mastery gleaned from this activity is not to be found in most athletic pursuits, nor for that matter in educational ones either. Therefore, those readers who are seeking other outlets of expression are urged to enrol in the INTRAMURAL POOL tournament. Applications are now being accepted in the Clock Tower of LBR. Those students having their own cues are asked to report at 1 am, and those with gold plated chalk holders at 3 am.

GOLF FACULTY VS STUDENTS

For the past three years, the Faculty of UNB have been trying to wrest the Golf crown from the clutches of the students. Sunday afternoon at the Fredericton Golf Club, their wildest hopes were fulfilled. The 31st annual tournament saw 42 participating in the men's division and nine in the ladies section. The final tallies put the faculty in top spot with 30½ points and students with 29½. Our informant was reluctant to mention individual scores for fear of humiliating individual students... so he says! It might be pointed out that one of the faculty members is a Golf Pro during the summer months. Ladies students defeated ladies faculty 9 to 6 with 9 competitors.

INTRAMURAL GOLF

At the Fredericton Golf Club Saturday, 23 students participated in the annual golf match. Despite cool and windy weather, good scores were turned in. Gordon Tripp and Tom Calkin turned in the best scores of the day with 75 each. In the playoff Sunday, Tripp came out on top with a 76 while Calkin went around in 81. Third place was awarded to Peter Davidson with 79 and fourth place ties went to Jack Brownell and Jim Boland with a pair of 81's. The following students are now competing for positions on the four-man Varsity squad representing UNB in the Intercollegiate Golf tournament to be held on October 10th at the Fredericton Club: Gordon Tripp 75, Tom Calkin 75, Peter Davidson 79, Jack Brownell 81, Jim Boland 81, Doug Sanders 83, John Nelson 83, Peter Kilborn 85, Gordon Petrie 85, Ted Pond 86, Roger Bartlett 86, Gordon Conley 88, and Bill Francis 88.

On the distaff side, Judy Henderson turned in a 112, Sandra Pond 114, and Peggy Jane Gammon 114.

TENNIS

A rather disappointing crowd was on hand Sunday afternoon to witness the finals and semi-finals of the Intramural Tennis championships. In the semi-finals, Bill Redden and N. B. Nickerson met with a 6-1, 6-0 putting Redden into the finals, and John McDougall met Ron Andrea for a 6-2, 6-4 final, fending off a final volley to take the game, set, and match. (We threw that in just to let the reader know we know something about tennis). McDougall and Redden met in the final with McDougall winning the championship 6-4, 6-1. According to Michael Reinhart, the match organizer, the competition was run very smoothly with a good turn-out and very few defaults.

REDSHIRTS FACE TEST

On Tuesday evening at 7 pm the Redshirts will open their season with an exhibition game against the Black Watch from Camp Gagetown. It is expected that this will be a hard fought game as 'The Watch' have been playing together for some time and the UNB team have always found them hard to beat; the last time the two sides met, UNB eventually won the game after 137 minutes of playing time. The Redshirts have been hampered in training by minor injuries and the late return of some holdovers; however, the team should be at full strength for Tuesday's encounter.

The side seems to have the same aggressive spirit which helped so much last year but a singular lack of inclination to shoot in front of the goal has developed and this must be corrected.
