The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

National Library of Canada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol → (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ▽ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Bibliothèque nationale du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole → signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ▽ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

We call attention to the following statements of disinterested Scientific and Practical men :

ROBERT BELL, Esq., of Geological Survey of Canada and Professor of Natural Sciences in Queen's College Kingston, in an essay, read before the Natural History Society, says:—"Among the desirable qualities of a good Slate are uniformity of color, smoothness of surface, durability and strength with lightness, all of which are possessed in an eminent degree by those of the Walton (now Melbourne Co's) Quarry, the Slates from it being equal to any in the world. They are of a bluish black color, contain no carbonate of lime, are unaffected by acids and are almost perfectly non-absorbent, and thus can in no way be affected by the weather. The rock is fine grainod and splits with great facility when newly taken from the Quarry, but the Slates harden rapidly and acquire great toughness and strength.

MR. CHARLES ROBB, of Montreal, Mining Engineer, in an article published in the "Journal of the Board of Arts and Manufactures for Upper Canada," June, 1863, with reference to this Quarry, among other things, remarks:—

"As regards the excellent quality of the Melbourne Slates, I can speak with the utmost confidence. The Quarry has only been worked to the depth of seventy feet, while some of the Welsh Slate Quarries are worked (as this is capable of being) to the depth of 400 feet below the surface. It is well known that the Slate always improves in hardness, toughness, uniformity of color, and all other desirable qualites the deeper it is wrought; but even at the moderate depth hitherto attained the Melbourne lates Sleeve little further to be desired in these respects and are not inferior to any in the world. Their color is unaffected by acids, they are perfectly non-absorbent of water: and consequently unaffected by frost, and when struck with a hard body, emit the metallic ring so much prized by Slaters.

With regard to quantity it will be obvious from the extent of the Slate rock on the property and its probable uniformity of character that these Quarries may be regarded as practically inexhaustible.

SIR WILLIAM E. LOGAN, in his "descriptive Catalogue of Economic Minerals of Canada sent to the London International Exhibition for 1862," thus speaks in remarking of this Quarry, the band of Slate is in immediate contact with the summit of serpentine, it has a breadth of  $\frac{1}{4}$  of a mile, the face now exposed has a height of seventy-five feet, and the fall from the position where the Quarry is now worked to the level of the St. Francis, is upwards of four hundred feet. Slate as a covering costs about  $\frac{1}{4}$  more than Skingles,  $\frac{1}{2}$  less than Tin, and  $\frac{1}{3}$  less than Galvanized Iron. To shew that slate as a covering is well adapted to resist the influences of a Canadian climate it may be here stated that Slates from Angers in France have been exposed on the roof of the Seminary Building, on the corner of Notre Dame and St. Francois Xavier Streets, Montreal, for upwards of 100 years without any perceptible deterioration. The strong resemblance between these and the Slates at Melbourne, as well as those of Bangor, Wales, may be seen in the following comparative analysis by Mr. T. Sterry Hunt:

—Sir Wm. Logan's Descriptive Catalogue, page 41.

Mr. Wm. LOGAN, on another occasion, remarks of the Slates of the Melbourne Slate Co.'s (formerly Walton's) Quarry:—"Within the last two years considerable quantities of these Slates have been brought into the Canadian Market where they are likely to replace to a great extent, the metal roofing hitherto so commonly employed. The Slate is bluish-purple in color, fine grained, and splits with facility into thin plates, which have the smoothness and strength required for good roofing Slates, and will compare favourably with the best from other countries. This Slate is entirely free from carbonate of lime, and does not appear to be affected by the action of the weather."

In addition to the foregoing, it may not be improper to add that Mr. Walton was awarded an Exhibition Medal for the excellence of his slates, forwarded to the International Exhibition at London in 1862, by Sir Wm. Logan.

G. W. REED, Esq., an experienced Slate Merchant of Montreal, says of these Slates:—"I have used for several years, the Slate from Mr. Walton's Quarries in Melbourne. The color of these Slates, which is a dark blue, is of a very pleasing hue, and is remarkably uniform; their cleavage is perfect, as the grain is very distinct, they punch perfectly without scalp, they are a strong Slate, especially with the grain, and are free from deleterious ingredients, such as iron, lime &c.; they will not be liable to tarnish or decay, and are of such a quality as to render the importation of foreign Slate altogether unnecessary."

Similar statements of Slaters who have had large experience in laying Slates produced at different Quarries, at home and abroad, might be added to any desirable extent, to prove the character of our slate, if it were necessary.
