SMALLPOX IN KITLEY

Dr. Macaulay, Brockville's Medical Health Officer, at the request of Dr. Bourns of Frankville, paid a visit on Thursday last to the home of Peter Heffernan, a farmer north of Toledo, and found that gentleman suffering from a virulent type of smallpox. Heffernan had been complaining of illness for ten days or longer and on Sunday last Dr. Bourns, diagnosed the case as smallpox and took the usual precautions of having the house and its occupants quarantined. Through a window Dr. Macaulay had no difficulty confirming Dr. Bourns' diagnosis.

Heffernan is about fifty years of age and his wife and two children are in quarantine with him. The occupants of the neighboring house, who were exposed to the infection from contact with the Heffernan family, have also been placed in quarantine under instruction from the Medical Health Officer of the township. A constable is on guard to see that the law is not being violated in this respect.

Heffernan is at present being nursed by his wife. Dr. Macaulay was called up over long distance phone on Friday last from Toledo to procure a trained nurse in Brockville but was unable to find any one willing to go. It is difficult to understand where Heffernan contracted the disease as he was not away from home. Papers recently came to the family from Watertown and the contagion may have spread in this way.—Times.

Later—the patient is now in charge of a competent nurse and is reported to be doing well. A complete quarantine is maintained.

BURNING ASHES

Altoona, Pa., April 17.—The remarkable ashes-burning secret discovered by John Ellmore, an Altoona cobbler, which has excited attention almost the world over, is out. Almost every household in Altoona is now converting his ashes into fuel, with great saving in coal bills.

Several well-known chemists, immediately it was announced that Ellmore had solved the problem of obtaining heat from ashes, set to work to try and discover the formula. They were successful, and here it is: Moisture with either salt water or salt water in which oxalic acid has been dissolved a mixture containing one part coal and three parts ashes, and a better fuel than pure coal is obtained. The ashes of Anthracite coal burn as readily as do those of bituminous coal. This mixture will, upon being placed upon a burning fire, fuse into a coke like mass and deposit but little residue. The salt water may be obtained by the dissolution of common salt in water.

Maintenance of Pupils

A clause embodied in the statute law amendment act in the Legislature settles the vexed question as to maintenance of High School pupils from outside municipalities. The clause provides that this cost must be borne by municipalities whence the pupils come. This will be tried for one year, and if it does not work out satisfactorily may be subjected to still further amendment.

The question has caused a great deal of trouble. Judges have given different interpretations of the present law, and municipalities and trustee boards have quarrelled about it.

BROAD-MEEHAN

A very pretty wedding took place last Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. Thos. Meehan, Algonquin, when that gentleman's eldest daughter, Miss Laura, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Broad, of Athens. The ceremony that united the happy couple for life was performed by Rev. Dr. Meyer, pastor of the Methodist Church, in the presence of the family and a few relatives of the contracting parties. Promptly at 7.30 o'clock the couple entered the parlor, the bride leaning on the arm of her father, and looked handsome dressed in a neatly made suit of navy blue. They were unattended. The ceremony over and congratulations extended, an adjournment was made to the dining-room where an excellent repast was partaken of, after which a few hours was most pleasantly spent in social intercourse, music etc. The bride will be aided by her associates here, and she was the recipient of many useful presents. The groom is a well known shoemaker and they leave next week for Winchester, where he will have charge of a factory for the third season. The Reporter extends congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Broad on the occasion of their marriage and wishes them many years of happiness.

A Pansy Social

The Pansy Mission Band of the Methodist Church held a very enjoyable social on Saturday afternoon. Instruction and entertainment were very nicely combined in the programme, and a most interesting feature of which was an excursion to Japan, personally conducted by Mrs. G. W. Beach and Miss E. A. Patterson, B.A. At each Mission station in the Flowering Kingdom a well informed guide was stationed, and the excursionists were fully informed of the conditions at present prevailing in that country. Mrs. Hughes gave an appropriate address, a quartette was rendered by Misses Blanche McLean, Geraldine Eyre, Kathleen and Winona Massey, and recitations were given by Miss Nellie Kelly and Miss Nellie Earl. The report of the sec'y-treas showed the Band to be in a flourishing condition. Refreshments were served in the basement of the church and were much enjoyed.

WE DELIVER THE GOODS!

How do you like it when you go to a store that advertises up to date clothes—latest this, that and the other—and you find they haven't got 'em? Men frequently tell us they have made the rounds of four or five stores and have had just this experience—When they get around to us they find what they are looking for and quickly say:

That's What I Want!

Our clothes are the best in the world! That's saying a good deal, isn't it? But the facts warrant the assertion—the world's best makers make them. If examined critically, our clothes are found to exhibit

All the Niceties Known to the Tailoring art.

Let any man "with eyes in his head" look carefully at one of our Suits or Overcoats and then go to other stores and see their's.

RIDEAU LAKE INDUSTRY

(Rideau Record)

The factory at Washburn on Rideau river, now in course of erection for the manufacture of brick will employ one hundred men during the present year, and it is expected fully two hundred next year. Fifty thousand bricks a day will be turned out the first season. The amount of suitable material to be found in that vicinity for the manufacture of brick and tile products seems to be almost unlimited. In one 35 acre of a boring which went down 42 feet failed to come to the end of the clay. The company which has been formed to operate this belt has secured from the government the right for 21 years to use the clay of the Rideau from Kings ton Mills to Jones' Falls. The company expects to derive a good revenue from the supply of raw material to United States potteries and brickyards, much of the material now being used by these firms being at present imported from Italy at enormous expense.

GIVEN $750 DAMAGES

At Brockville assizes last week a jury awarded J. B. Wilson, a leading Leeds county dairyman, a verdict of $750 damages against Edgar McDougal, president of the Caledonian Iron Works, Montreal. On August 24, 1906, McDonald was making the run from Montreal to Belleville in his auto car. Near Gananoque, he met Wilson driving home in the opposite direction. The horse took fright, causing the buggy to overturn, and Wilson was thrown out, receiving injuries from the effects of which he says he has not yet recovered. Wilson based his claim for damages on the ground that Mr. McDougal did not exercise reasonable precaution in controlling the speed of the machine, which the plaintiff and several other witnesses swore was running at from 20 to 25 miles an hour, exceeding the limit on country highways.

Cart-Wheel Shades

A good substitute for missing shade trees is made as follows: Plant a stout post, nine feet high, where you want the shade, setting the post in two feet of earth; then nail firmly to the top of it, at right angles, two seven-foot strips of two-by-two-inch stuff. The next thing to do is to get two old tires from cart or wagon wheels, have the blacksmith weld them into a big ring, and fasten the ring tightly to the end of the cross-pieces. Set a three-year old grapevine right against the post, coax it to rapid growth, and the thing is done. When the vine ends lap over the rim, let them hang down all around it. Seats may be set underneath.—From the May Delicatur.

The Athens Reporter

On common fences the continuous wire stays are sure to bend and the locks to lose their grip under continual pressure of your horses or cattle. And once they do, the top wire, soon followed by these below, will sag and destroy the efficiency of your fence.

Nothing like that can happen to our Dillon Hinge-Stay Fence. The short, stiff hard steel wire in our hinge-stays cannot bend when the lateral wires are weighted down, owing to their being so short and joined at each strand wire.

Pressure of a horse on the top wire brings the "hinges" in the stays into action and prevents them from bending, and when pressure is relieved the fence springs back into place again.

The lateral wires are High-Carbon Hard Steel and coiled to provide for expansion and contraction by heat and cold, and are also crimped at the intersection of the stays and strands to prevent the stays from slipping sideways—therefore no locks are needed.

Buy the Dillon Hinge-Stay Fence. It's "twice as strong." Twice as good an investment. Catalogue free.

To Our Readers

There are many things happening of public interest that newspapers never get hold of, such for instance, as family unions, farm sales, wedding, accidents, and items of a similar nature. Some of these newspapers may get, but there are others that do not get into print. Now, if parties interested would send these to the Reporter, we would be glad at all times to publish them. Write out an account of them and sign your name. Never mind if the article is not well written. Put in the facts, and we will fix it up. The name will not be published, but is required as an evidence that the item is genuine. You could put a lot of items on a post card. Try it.

A Hint to Merchants

The other day a merchant in the town of Mitchell saw a farmer receiving goods at the station from a Toronto mail order house. The goods were in his lide, and the same as he carried in his store for years. He approached the farmer and said, "I could have sold you every article you have there for less money than you paid the Toronto house, and saved you the freight besides." "Then why on earth didn't you say so?" answered the farmer, "I have taken the Mitchell Advocate for years, and have never seen a line about your selling these goods. The Toronto house sent advertising matter to me asking me for my trade, and they got it." The same thing is happening every day in other towns. If you have bargains have them put in the papers, so that the farmers can catch on.

HONORS ARE EVEN

A good story is going the round regarding Mr. Donovan the genial representative of the Mutual Life of New York, whose headquarters are in the Bank of Commerce building, Toronto, and who arrived in the city last evening on business.

Mr. Donovan very closely resembles Mr. Graham the new Liberal leader for Ontario, and whom by the bye he ran against in Brockville the last provincial election.

The yarn goes that he took a walk last evening when he was slapped on the back by a stranger to him who at the same time grabbed his trusty right hand and exclaimed:

"Still here eh, Mr. Graham? That was a great speech you made in the Liberal rooms the other night, but say strictly between ourselves that man Whitney is a darned hard headed fellow and I don't think we have much chance. We were too long in power you know and too much accumulated."

Mr. Donovan took a fresh grip on life and was about to explain when the stranger exclaimed:

"Have a drink!"

"No thanks" exclaimed Mr. Donovan "I don't take anything."

"Have a smoke then?"

"No thanks; don't smoke."

"Say, Mr. Graham don't get away from the sports. They're the boys who'll elect you if you ever do get in. Loosen up a bit; loosen up."

By this time the Mutual Life representative got a chance to say

"I'm not Mr. Graham."

"Oh come off," said the stranger; "you can't sidetrack your friends like that; it's not politics."

"Honestly" came the reply; "I'm not Mr. Graham but I came within a few votes of licking him last election so that you came pretty close to it after all."

Vamoso act on the part of the stranger who was heard to make some heated comments on the nerve of men who had the assurance to look so much like each other.

Death of Mrs. D. R. Reed

The death occurred at Edmouton, April 14th, of Mrs. D. R. Reed, a former resident of Athens, after an illness of six weeks. She was attacked with la grippe, but subsequently fever set in and she succumbed despite the best of Medical attention and careful nursing. The deceased before her marriage was Miss Pennock, of Elgin. Her parents were with her when the end came. She was 34 years of age. She is survived by her husband and son, Stephen.

The funeral was very largely attended, the service being conducted at Grace Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Tuttle. The remains were interred in the Edmouton cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of David Allan Townsend, who died on March 2nd, aged one year and six months.

He came a little tender flower
On earth to bud and bloom,
But ere two summers he had seen,
Death laid him in the tomb.

Among the angels now, he stands,
All decked in spotless white;
God called the little darling home
For He had thought it right.

Then weep not for your loved one;
He stands and waves his hand,
And beckons you to follow him
To a fair and brighter land;

Where death can never harm you
Nor sickness give you pain,
Where you can see your Saviour
And meet your loved again.

But how we miss his pattering feet,
His little prattling tongue!
How could fell Death make him its prey,
So pure, so fair, and young!

No more dear Allan's winning smile
Shall brighten up the home;
Death laid him low and cold as snow,
Oh God! "Thy will be done."

Agility of Hares and Rabbits.

Interesting figures on the relative agility of hares and rabbits are given in a volume by J. G. Millais. "When running at ease," he says, "the length of the hare's stride is about four feet, but under conditions of fear its leaps extend to ten and twelve feet, while some authors claim that it can jump ten ditches twenty to twenty-five feet in width. Perpendicularly a hare can jump on to a five foot wall, but seems to be nonplussed by one about six feet. The stride of the rabbit is about two feet. When necessary it can make leaps of six or seven feet horizontally. About three feet is the highest that a rabbit can attain to even when helped by the asperities of a stone wall." Mr. Millais tells how rabbits swim—when compelled to: "They swim with the head held as high as possible, while the hocks of the hind legs appear above the element at each stroke. The shoulders and front part of the body are buried beneath the water, while the rump and tail are high and dry."

Tyranny of Clothes.

Place a man in a silk hat and frock coat and transport him to a farmyard. Agricultural pursuits may be the one passion of his life, but clad in these garments he feels in such surroundings miserable, out of place, essentially urban. Cloth him, conversely, in fannels or knickers and place him in a church, and it is utterly impossible for him to assume a fittingly devotional frame of mind. Unlimited autonomy itself cannot impose such tyrannies on the subject. Civilization is the slave of its clothes, and there is no prospect of freedom.—London Graphic.

The Juice of the Grape.

The Arabs say that when the first grapevine was planted the demon Iblis sacrificed a peacock on the spot where the plant was set. As soon as it began to sprout forth he sacrificed an ape over it. When the grapes began to appear he slaughtered a lion, and when these were ripe he offered up a pig; hence it is that he who drinks wine feels at first as proud as a peacock and becomes subsequently as tricky as an ape, as bold as a lion and at length as stupid as a swine.

Definitions.

Asked to define a suffragist, a British schoolboy answered, "A person who creates a disturbance." One boy described "air" as "a form of seaweed which grows in the Pacific ocean." In an essay on the canine race a pupil declared that "small dogs improve by keep-lake," and another gave the singular of "wain" as "worsted."

The Hospital for Sick Children, College Street, Toronto, appeals to farmers and mothers of Ontario for funds to maintain the thousand sick children that it nurses within its walls every year.

The Hospital is not a local institution—but Provincial. The sick child from any place in Ontario who can't afford to pay has the same privileges as the child living in Toronto and is treated free.

The Hospital had last year in the beds and cots 856 patients—351 of these were from 231 places outside of Toronto. The cost is $37 cts. per patient per day, and there were 138 sick lit the ones a day in the Hospital.

Since its organization the Hospital has treated 12,120 children. About 8,500 of these were unable to pay and were treated free.

NEW PICTURE BOOKS, JUST ARRIVED.

Your money can put gold in hinges on the door of the Hospital's mercy.

Every body's dollar may be the friend in need of somebody's child.

Your dollar may be a door of hope to somebody's child. The Hospital pays out dividends of health and happiness to suffering childhood on every dollar that is paid by friends of little children.

If you know of any child in your neighborhood who is sick or crippled or has club feet send the parent's name to the Hospital.

See what can be done for club-foot children. There were 26 like cases last year and hundreds in 31 years.

ALLED DOG OF ALL TRADES.

Airedale Terrier Can Do the Work of Any Other Canine Breed.

"A dog of all trades" is the Airedale terrier. They will do the work of almost every other breed.

They will hunt rats, mice and other vermin; run deer, foxes or rabbits; beat for birds, bait haddock, draw traps, retrieve game, under any conditions, with equal gusto and success.

They flourish as well in the far-off frozen north as in the sunburned, scorched tropics; as well as in the burned, scorched plains of Arizona and New Mexico as in the cool air of Canada or Maine.

The German police have come to the conclusion that this breed makes the ideal police dog. In Paris the river police use these dogs with great success as provokers of suicides.

An Airedale quickly learns to herd and drive sheep or cattle as well as any collie, and is particularly useful as a guard or house dog.

In disposition the Airedale is faithful, loving and obedient; a culmination of all that has always been admired in the dog. The story of the dog of this breed that dragged through four miles of howling blizzard the dead body of a man who had been killed in a hunting party, is a story of a dog's loyalty.

The origin of this many-sided dog is of comparatively recent date. He appeared in Yorkshire, particularly in the valley of the Aire, from which he gets his name, about fifty years ago.

Although the dog's official name is Airedale terrier still, common usage, especially in England, has led to a dropping of the "Airedale" and he is now universally known and loved as the Airedale. He was crossed, if the term be correct, by those who had no knowledge of scientific dog breeding, but who desired a good all-around dog—big enough to take care of himself and his pack, hunting vermin, especially along the little streams.

To do this they mated other breeds with all possible combinations of terriers and by a series of haphazard crossings and crossings produced the water-dog terrier, as he was then called. From this mixed and doubtful breed dog the early breeders, by careful breeding and some modifications, produced the breed dog that is now so rapidly becoming a general favorite, but well as they did their work the breeders of the past are often cropping out in long, thread-like ears or white markings that should not be.

It came and came to the men on the vessel that brought it to this country. Here some part of the money is paid to the swayers who got out the log from the forests whence cabinet makers who fashion the casket into its final form.

"For the carving alone, all hand work and requiring months for the labor, were paid out $200. The casket is fashioned together with brass screws and copper nails—something to the makers of these. It has a copper lining—some of the money for the casket goes to the copper smith. The varnish and the rubber must be paid, and some of the money goes to the weavers of the silk with which the casket is lined, and some goes to the maker's upholsterer, as other parts go to still others whose labor may be required upon it.

In fact, if we were to go back to the men who mined the metals which in finished forms are contained in it and to those engaged in the original processes of production of all its other various materials, and to those who in various ways took part in assembling them we should find that not a bare score of people, but 100 or maybe more were in some way concerned in it and viewed in that light we might not look upon the amount paid for the costly casket as an expenditure of extravagance.

"And for that matter as to the distribution of the amounts paid for them, the same would hold true as to all caskets, whether costly or inexpensive, to greater or less degree, as it would hold, indeed, as to all funeral expenses of whatever nature, for it is not the cost of the casket, but the cost of the funeral, that is the thing to be considered. It is not only the cost of the casket, but the cost of the funeral, that is the thing to be considered. It is not only the cost of the casket, but the cost of the funeral, that is the thing to be considered.

They are the Suez Canal, the Corinth Canal, the Manchester Ship Canal, the Kaiser Wilhelm, the Elbe and Trave, the Welland and the two canals connecting Lake Superior and Lake Huron, between Canada and this country.

In a single year a greater number of ships pass through the lake canals of the north than through the Suez Canal, though there is no doubt that the latter is by far the most important water link in the world. It is the longest, being ninety miles from entrance to exit, and it costs more than $100,000,000 to build.

PERKINS DIED OF STRYCHNINE.

Cayuga, April 17.—Only sixteen of the fifty-two witnesses subpoenaed in the Perkins murder case were called before the Grand Jury yesterday afternoon by Frank Arnold, Toronto, the Crown prosecutor. The Crown sprang a surprise by not calling Dr. J. W. Edgar, who has been prominent in the case since the inquest. The doctor was informed that he would not be called, and he left for Hamilton at once. This action caused quite a sensation, and there was some indignation felt when it was noised around that one of the Hamilton poison experts had been dropped because he did not agree with Toronto physicians who have been called into the case. The Toronto experts who are here for the Crown are Dr. Bruce Smith, Inspector of Jails and Prisons; Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnston, and Prof. Ellis. The last-named figured at the preliminary hearing, and it is said that he will not have any new to add, although he has made further analyses of the deceased's organs. The amount of strychnine found in the kidneys and liver was one-sixth of a grain. Dr. Bauer, of Hamilton, will be the other medical witness for the Crown. The defence intends to meet the medical testimony for the Crown with medical testimony, and will endeavor to show that the condition of Perkins before his death was not that of a man suffering from strychnine poisoning. Dr. Walter McKewen, Dr. Graham Chambers, and Dr. W. Kaylor, all of Toronto, are the medical experts for the defence.

True Bill Returned.
The grand jury brought in a true bill against Mrs. Perkins at 11.30, after considering the evidence submitted by the crown for a short time. The judge ordered that Mrs. Perkins be brought in, and she was produced in court after a look by the high constable. She was then arraigned, and she pleaded "not guilty," in a clear voice. Asked if she was ready for her trial, she replied, "I certainly am."

The First Witness.
The first witness, John S. Darragh, who lived on the Perkins farm, told a visit made to his house on the Sunday before Christmas. Perkins took sick and vomited. Witness' wife gave him salt and water, and later gave him whiskey and water. Perkins asked that his collar be removed, as he felt a choking sensation. Perkins recovered after a time, and left for home about 2 o'clock.

Cross-examined by Mr. Johnston. Mr. Darragh said Perkins used to run the farm himself up to about two years ago, but gave it up on account of ill-health. It was reported, on the day in question, witness admitted to himself and the weather was cold. When Perkins recovered he wanted to walk home, although the witness sent him home in a rig against his will.

Gossip About Mrs. Perkins. Mrs. Darragh followed her husband on the stand, and said Perkins complained of illness, after he and Mrs. Perkins returned from a trip to Detroit. She said that Perkins was employed by her husband for some months, as a builder. Perkins said he was awfully sick when he arrived at the house. He retched several times, but was not able to vomit till he reached the house. He said Perkins threw back his head and drew up his arms. About six weeks before Perkins' death, Mrs. Perkins told the witness that she had heard the gossipers were talking about her and Tom McDonald. She said that her husband had been sick for some time, and she was sure he was sick of her.

Knows Him for Years. Nelson Flanders, a neighbor of the deceased, said he had known Perkins for many years. He said Perkins was a boy, he said Perkins on the Sunday before Christmas, early in the morning. Witness asked Perkins how he was and Perkins replied that he was all right.

Mr. Johnston's Examination. To Mr. Johnston, Mr. Flanders said the salutation was just a formal one and said he may have replied that he was feeling pretty well.

Witnesses for the Crown. Cayuga, April 18.—After court adjourned for luncheon, hundreds of persons with lunch boxes and baskets filled in and took possession of the court room to hear the trial of Mrs. Perkins for the murder of her husband. The room was very crowded, however, when the court resumed this afternoon. John Neigal, undertaker at Cayuga, was first called. He said on Christmas Day Tom McDonald went to his parlors and asked him to prepare Perkins for burial, and have the funeral at 1 o'clock on Thursday, two days later. He said he had other engagements and the funeral was arranged for Friday, and that to effect being prevented. When he went to Cayuga and had a statement by Mrs. Perkins' sister, the witness said new notices would have to be gotten out, that the funeral would take place on Thursday. Witness said he would have another undertaker to take charge of the funeral on Thursday, and was done. Witness said he had no objection to the statement, and that Mrs. Perkins' marital relatives, and a stamper embossed fluid, was used. The body was quite rigid, but this was twelve hours after death.

To Mr. Johnston witness said the first time he was advised about the funeral Mr. Heslip, a brother-in-law of the prisoner, was the man who went to his place. McDonald came in shortly afterwards. Heslip said he thought it would be all right to have the funeral on Friday, but McDonald said, "I don't think so, as 'Mattie' has arranged to have it on Thursday." Mrs. Heslip told him that the funeral had been announced for Thursday, and Mrs. Perkins said new notices would have to be gotten out.

After telling of taking three jars from Coroner Arroll to Prof. Ellis, at Toronto, High Constable Farrell told of searching Mrs. Perkins' house after the arrest and finding a pass book on the last page of which was the word, "Ptoimaine." Detective Greer found a pill box which he identified. A search was made for Henry Perkins' trunk, but it was not found. A search was also made at Ralph Curry's house in Cayuga, where Mrs. Perkins was arrested. He asked for a trunk which he saw going into the house a few days prior. Mrs. Perkins said, "It is for you to find it." Witness searched in the house but did not find it. To Mr. Johnston he said that the searchers were always together in making the search.

Prof. Ellis, the provincial analyst, reported that the urine contained a small quantity, sections of the kidney about one thirty-fifth, and the stomach about one-sixth of a grain of strychnine. Sticking to the bottom of the box, found, it is claimed, by Provincial Detective Greer in the Perkins home, Prof. Ellis explained, there were some small crystals of strychnine. Prof. Ellis admitted to Mr. Johnston that he made the special test of the organs for strychnine. That strychnine is found in the stomach is no definite evidence that it was the cause of death. Prof. Ellis admitted that strychnine was commonly used in tonics and medicines.

"Then this is not the only case in which a man may have got an overdose of strychnine?" observed the defence counsel.
Prof. Ellis said that if a man has toxic elements in his blood and is given strychnine it is very likely to have serious results. A fatal dose is from one to three grains, but lesser quantities have been known to kill under certain circumstances.

"You found in the test of the pill-box the reaction of strychnine?" asked the defence counsel.
"Yes," replied Prof. Ellis.
"Ordinary pills are often kept in boxes like that?"
"Yes."

"You know Detective Greer was carrying around a box of strychnine when you received that box?"
"Yes."
"In the same kind of a box?"
"Yes."

"You received on April 12 a box which was found on February 10, and Detective Greer when he gave it to you had the same kind of a box and lots of strychnine on him?"
"That will do, Dr. Ellis," was Mr. Johnston's snarling shot, satisfied that he had obtained a most important admission.

Dr. Kerr, of Dunville, was on the stand for over an hour and he had a very unpleasant time of it. He had been the family physician for many years, and his wife for about twelve years. Last July he was called to attend the deceased who had vomiting and diarrhoea. About a year before that Perkins had complained to him about his stomach. Perkins told him that he had given samples of his urine to two doctors who told him he had diabetes. Witness examined his water and told him that there was nothing the matter with his kidneys. Monday, Dec. 24, he was called to see Perkins at Cayuga. Perkins' pulse was very low and the patient said he was quite sick. The doctor left some medicine for him to take the following day and some tablets to take at once, and every hour till five were taken. The heart tablets were from a manufacturing chemist's pharmacy and he thought Perkins was to follow the directions closely—not to give more than directed—as there was strychnine in them. When he looked up the formula, to testify at the inquest he discovered that there was no strychnine in them as he supposed. On Monday he received a telegram saying Perkins was worse and for him to come at once. He drove over to Cayuga, but Perkins was dead when he arrived. Mrs. Perkins gave him an account of what had happened in regard to the medicine he left the previous day. She said that he had not had any of the medicine since the previous evening, as it had affected him badly. Perkins had taken some of the tablets. She told him Perkins got up on Tuesday morning and dressed, but did not eat any breakfast. One of the men present told him that Perkins had a nervous attack and some convulsions. The question of issuing a death certificate was talked over by the doctor and Mrs. Perkins. The doctor said deceased might have had an ulcer and that a perforation of the bowels might have caused death, but that a post-mortem should be held. Mrs. Perkins replied that "she did not want any scandal," and she objected to the body being cut up. He then issued a certificate.

Some time after the funeral Ralph Curry telephoned to him to go to see Mrs. Perkins. He went and Mrs. Perkins asked him to see Crown Attorney Murphy and use his influence to prevent her husband's body being exhumed and an inquest held. Murphy, she said, was talking of having the body taken up in view of some village gossip.

In view of what Prof. Ellis reported having found in Perkins' organs and what he had learned since the death, he was satisfied that Perkins died of strychnine poisoning. A reference was made to a statement he had made regarding Mrs. Perkins' marital relatives.

patients and your profession" asked the prisoner's counsel.
"I did tell in this case, in talking the matter over with a Crown officer," replied the doctor.
"Do you wish us to measure your actions in the box now by the same test of honor that you showed in that matter?"
"I don't understand you."
Continuing this line of questioning, Mr. Johnston forced the witness to admit that he had volunteered the information to the Crown that Mrs. Perkins gave him as a patient of his and that it was not of such a nature as to reflect on the domestic relationship of the couple, and was a condition that he naturally expected to find.

Regarding his warning to Mrs. Perkins that there was strychnine in the tablets, and not to give more than the prescription called for he said it was the usual thing to do. He admitted that as a Coroner he had authority to order an inquest without consulting Mrs. Perkins and also that her request not to have her husband cut up was what nearly any widow and most friends of dead people would make. It was natural that they did not like to have the bodies of loved ones cut up. There was not any influence on the part of Mrs. Perkins to prevent an inquest. Mrs. Perkins and her sister thought if Dr. Kerr explained the matter to the Crown Attorney the latter would not consider an inquest necessary.

Asked to enumerate the symptoms given of Perkins' illness which illustrate strychnine poisoning, witness said the contraction of the muscles and the throat and neck. Dilation of the pupils of the eyes and the position of the deceased in bed before he died. When asked to eliminate the developments of Tuesday and tell what symptoms of strychnine poisoning were seen on Monday and Sunday, the doctor simply replied slow pulse, which he admitted was present in many forms of illness.

In the course of the cross-examination the witness was visibly nervous, and failed to respond to repeated requests to speak louder. The judge said he was a disgrace to his profession, to appear as a witness in court and show such a disregard to the requests of the court and Crown.

Prof. Ellis was recalled to testify as to the ingredients of two samples of tablets sent by Dr. Kerr for analysis. The tablets were left at his office by Detective Greer.
Dr. Bauer's Evidence.
In view of the frequent disturbances in the court room during the trial, the judge ordered that only persons having business in the court be admitted to the rest of the sessions. Consequently there were less than sixty people at the night session. Dr. Bauer, of Hamilton, who made the post-mortem examination, gave his report of the autopsy. The left lung was congested and the blood vessels in the kidneys were much enlarged. Bright's disease, but not sufficient in his opinion, to cause death. The right side of the heart was enlarged and there were clots of blood on both sides. He was asked: "After looking at the case from a pathological viewpoint, what do you think caused death?"
"I should say strychnine caused death," replied the witness.

This opinion was based on the condition of the kidneys and the result of Prof. Ellis' report of the analysis. A certain amount of the strychnine ingested would pass through and some would be absorbed and traces of it lost. Strychnine is carried off quickly. It acts on the spinal cord and the base of the brain, causing spasm and stiffening of the muscles. Quite a large quantity of strychnine must have been taken, in view of what was found in the urine and the organs analyzed. A fatal dose is from one-half a grain upwards, according to the patient, the condition of the stomach and other organs.

To Mr. Johnston he said a microscopic examination of the parts was made by himself and Dr. Edgar, a specialist, who testified for the Crown at the preliminary examination. A chronic condition of Bright's disease may be developed into an acute condition by a severe chill, or a condition such as would be produced by strychnine. He admitted the text books may say that the symptoms in strychnine poison are more marked than in other poisons. He admitted that these marked symptoms were missing in this case: perspiration, wide and staring eyes; lockjaw; arched back; toes in normal condition, instead of being drawn up; fairly hard clenching of the hands.

Uræmia there is an acute condition of the kidneys, but no lockjaw. Witness said he would not expect a pulse in strychnine. He could not give any estimate of the amount of the poison swallowed by Perkins.
Dr. Bauer said that the fact that twenty minutes before Perkins died he was "Mattie" when his wife asked him how he was, was an evidence that the deceased was not in a stupor which occurs in a case of uræmia. He considered it a comparatively slow poison.

At the conclusion of this witness' testimony the Crown called Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnston, Toronto, and defendant's counsel asked that he be permitted to defer his cross-examination till the morning. As he was getting weary. The Crown would not consent to this, and the court adjourned till this morning.

Another Conference. Calgary, April 22.—Another conference between the miners and the operators has been arranged, which will be held in Fernie on April 23. It is expected that the same delegates who attended the last meeting will be delegates again. Vice-President T. L. Lewis, of the International Mine Workers' Union, will be present at the meeting, arriving in Fernie on April 20. Messrs. Gaillard, Rogers and Stockett waited upon the District Board yesterday and made arrangements for the meeting. This news is very satisfactory here, and it is expected that all the miners will return to work.
Fernie, B. C., April 18.—One thousand miners are now out on strike, and more are quitting daily. These cover a dozen mining camps along the Crow's Nest line. The situation is desperate, and the railroad supply of coal will not last ten days.
In reply to a wire from Hon. Mr. Lemieux, warning him the miners were violating the law, and urging them to await the Government investigation, President Sherman, of the United Mine Workers' Union wired Ottawa: "Your plea comes too late. We look upon investigation as a farce. We will carry this fight to the foot of the throne."
The men hope to avoid the law's penalty on the plea that they are just quitting their jobs and not striking.

Industries throughout British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan are closing up, and no one can be secured. The Government has been urged to arrest Sherman, and this move is expected. The men are quiet, but determined.
The Government is prepared to place a strong force of militia on the scene. Passenger trains will not be abandoned on that part of the C. P. R. system, and perishable freight will be moved.

HEMMEED BY FIRE.
HEARTRENDING SCENES AT A MONTREAL LAUNDRY BLAZE.
Of Thirty Women, Three People Killed—Building Soaked With Benzine Was a Veritable Fire-trap—Two Bodies Unrecognizable.

A Montreal despatch: A most disastrous fire broke out at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the premises of the Canada steam laundry and dye works, corner of St. Justin and St. Catherine streets. As a result of the fire two charred and burned bodies, supposed to be those of Mrs. Furlong and Wm. Martineau, lie in the morgue, and Mrs. Giroux, who was seriously injured, has since died, making the third victim.

The severely injured are: Mrs. Diagle, severely burned and fractured limbs; Albertina Paradis, broken arm and severe burns; Albertina Proulx, fractured leg and burns; Janet Leith, face and hand severely injured by fall—all in the General Hospital.

The others injured are Miss Emma Etienne, burned and rib broken; Miss Bertha McKercher, burns on face and arm; Mrs. Leveigne, burns on face and back; Miss Rodrigue, suffering from burns and shock; Miss Doyenneau, burns on back.

The fire broke out in the second story of a three-story building through the explosion of benzine in the engine room. The building was old and thoroughly saturated with benzine, and as a result the flames spread with fearful rapidity, and in an incredibly short period the building was a mass of flames. Thirty women and girls were in the second and third stories, and became panic-stricken as the devouring flames cut off their way to the fire escape in front.

NEW PATENTS BILL.

PASSES SECOND READING IN BRITISH COMMONS.

Aimed Particularly at Foreign Manufacturers of Machinery—Patents Granted in Britain May Be Revoked After Three Years.

London, April 22.—The patents and designs bill introduced into the House of Commons yesterday by Mr. Lloyd George, President of the Board of Trade, and passed its second reading. It is aimed at foreign manufacturers of machinery, who have secured patent rights in Great Britain, continue to supply British factories with machines made outside the country, principally in America.

The measure is designed to compel these manufacturers to make in Great Britain the machines which they sell or lease there. The bill, which is supported by both political parties, will eventually become law, but whether it will be effective in enforcing its object is questioned in some quarters and those favoring it are agitating for more stringent regulations before the bill is passed.

Clause 16 of the bill enacts that any time not less than three years after the grant of a patent any person interested may apply for the revocation of the patent on the ground that the patented article is manufactured exclusively or mainly outside the United Kingdom. The Controller may revoke the patent unless the patentee proves that the patented article is manufactured to an adequate extent in the United Kingdom or give satisfactory reasons why the article is not so manufactured. American manufacturers have many machines of this kind in England which would be affected by this clause should it become law.

SAN FRANCISCO RISES.
Rapidly Recovering From the Effects of the Earthquake.
San Francisco, April 22.—At the annual meeting of the Merchants' Association held to-night on the anniversary of the great earthquake President Frank J. Symmes said: "From a building point of view we are rapidly recovering, our progress has been creditable and satisfactory and no man need feel the future in this direction. Building permits to April 1st, 1907, have been issued to the extent of $5,658,756. The Labor Commissioner reports a wage payment of a million a week. The bank clearings have never weakened, but are showing an average increase of ten per cent. over the corresponding periods of 1905. The bank deposits increased $61,430,000 from April 14th to December 31st, 1906. There has been no bank failure, and not a single important mercantile failure as a result of the fire. The custom houses duties increased from $7,317,000 in 1905 to $9,091,000 in 1906. Our exports in 1906 were over $50,000,000, and our imports in 1906 were over $48,900,000."

MR. BLAIR'S ESTATE.
The Late Minister Leaves Two Hundred Thousand Dollars.
St. John, N. B., April 22.—That the estate of the late Hon. Andrew G. Blair will total not less than $200,000 is indicated by information which reaches St. John from a reliable source. The will has been entered for probate in the Probate Court at Ottawa, and the draft inventory fixes the value of the estate at about two hundred thousand dollars, of which a considerable portion is life insurance. Probate has not yet been granted, because of a disagreement with regard to the Ontario Government, but it is anticipated that a settlement will shortly be reached.

SNOW AND GREEN BUGS.
Five Inches of White Covering Portion of Western States.
Omaha, Neb., April 22.—Five inches of snow fell during last night and continued today. The fall was general over Eastern Nebraska and is the heaviest known in April for many years. In grain circles it is believed the snow will kill all the green bugs, which have been threatening the winter wheat crop and spreading over the central portion of the State.

A Norfolk, Neb., despatch says: "Northern Nebraska, southern South Dakota, Northeast Wyoming and the Black Hills are covered with a blanket of snow six inches deep on the level, which is still falling."

THE PLAGUE IN INDIA.
Seventy-five Thousand Deaths During Last Week.
Simla, India, April 22.—There were 75,000 deaths from the plague in India during the week ending April 13. Seventy thousand of these occurred in Rawalpindi, the United Provinces and the Punjab. The epidemic began in the Punjab in October, 1897, and has since been carried by a million and a half of its victims.

A STRANGE STORY.

AN EXTRAORDINARY KIDNAPPING CASE FROM LOBO TOWNSHIP.

Frank Attwood Accuses Arthur Scott and Others of Forcing Their Way Into His House, Tying Him Fast With a Rope, and Running Away With His Wife and Baby.

A London, Ont., despatch: A startling case of kidnaping was reported to the Middlesex police to-day by Frank Attwood, a well-to-do young Lobo farmer living near Poplar Hill, and on the strength of Attwood's information a warrant was issued for the arrest of Arthur Scott, son of a respectable farmer living on the town line of Lobo township, near the Attwood home. The police at Sarnia, Windsor and Niagara Falls have also been notified to be on the lookout for Scott, who, it is believed, has gone to the States with Mrs. Attwood. The charge against Scott alleges that he "forcibly seized and confined Frank Attwood." Scott is not charged with forcibly seizing the wife of Attwood, as the complainant believes that she was a party to the affair and knew of the plans.

According to the despatch, at 3 o'clock this morning three men drove up to his house, and without any ceremony, entered, the door having been left unlocked. The intruders proceeded upstairs and, seizing Attwood, bound him first with a rope about the size of a clothes line, and then tied him to the bed.

Meantime Mrs. Attwood was in her bedroom on the ground floor, preparing to leave and take her baby with her. What awoke Attwood this morning was a party to the affair is the fact that she did not raise a cry, neither was one of the kidnapers left downstairs to prevent her from going to a neighbor's and raising an alarm. When the wife and baby were ready the party entered a house, to which a team of horses was attached, and drove away. They also took with them a trunk and valise filled with the clothing of the woman and child.

It was 5 o'clock—two hours after Attwood was bound—before the young farmer was able to free himself (his hands being tied behind his back) from the rope that fastened his legs to the bedstead. Then, with his hands still tied, he made his way to a neighbor's house and gave the alarm. A search was made for his foot print, and the county authorities here and he either went to Detroit himself or had his neighbor go to that place to telephone High Constable Hughes. After all, it was nearly 9 o'clock before the High Constable was notified, and then the message was misleading.

Officers were sent to watch the roads leading from London to Hlooron, but they watched in vain. Shortly before 11 o'clock Attwood reached the city, and processed the warrant for the arrest of Scott. Whether or not Attwood recognized the other two the police will not say.

It was learned that Scott secured a rig and team from Dyer's livery on Dundas street, in view of the Advertiser, about 9 o'clock last night, stating that he wanted to drive to the country. This morning at 5 o'clock the team was returned.

It is believed that Scott and Mrs. Attwood left in the G. T. R. train for Windsor at 6.30 a. m. It is learned that the night agent at the depot sold two tickets for Windsor, the stubs in the office showing that the tickets were to adults.

Scott was employed as a farmhand by Attwood in January, 1906. He remained with him for several months, but was discharged because of improper conduct.

The relations between Attwood and his wife had been strained for some months, but the husband allowed his wife to continue at home on account of their three little children, the youngest of whom is only eight months old. Mrs. Attwood, the woman in the case, was an adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, formerly of London township, but now residing at 284 Waverly road, West London.

WON'T TAX IMMIGRANTS.
Opposition Tries to Have Government Impose a Head Tax.
London, April 22.—In the House of Commons yesterday Sir Charles Howard, a Liberal, in a debate on the well-known immigration department of the United States left up by means of a head tax levied on immigrants, asked the Government if it would consider following the American example to the extent of taxing each immigrant to the amount of five shillings ($12.50). Herbert Gladstone, Home Secretary, replied that the suggestion was impracticable.

BELFAST GERS UNIONIST.
Mr. George S. Clark Elected to the North Division.
London, April 22.—The bye-election held yesterday in the North Division of Belfast, made vacant by the death of Sir Daniel Dixon, resulted in the victory of George S. Clark, Unionist. Mr. Clark, who is a member of the shipbuilding firm of Messrs. Clark & Company, Limited, received 8,021 votes. William Walker, the Labor candidate, received 4,124 votes. The election shows no increase in the Unionist vote in the North Division of Belfast. Sir Daniel Dixon, a Unionist, was elected in 1905 and 4,967 votes, and his opponent, the same William Walker, 4,615.

RECIPROCITY IN BARRISTERS.
Still Far Off in Case of Britain and Colombia.
London, April 22.—The annual meeting of the Bar Society was held to-day. The Attorney-General stated that the offer of reciprocity between the barristers of Britain and the colonies was one which required very careful handling. Mr. Warrington, K. C., said they had no objection to the offer of reciprocity, but the training of barristers in the colonies was a matter which the English

The annual meeting of Brockville Dairymen's Board of trade will be held on May 4th for the election of officers, etc.

In fifty-eight years there has been no April that has developed weather so cold as has characterized the present month. All over the province the conditions have been very similar, and as a result farm operations have been greatly retarded. This is in contrast with the month of March, which was five degrees above the average for thirty-three years.

On Monday evening the fire alarm called citizens to fight a fire that had started in a small stable near the Bullis mill. There is no tank to supply the fire engine in that part of the village, and with the high wind that prevailed the destruction of the building was a foregone conclusion. Mr. James Fenlog occupied the house close by and had two engine belts stored in the building, and these with a quantity of hay were destroyed. The house caught fire several times and the furniture was removed, but the building was finally saved. There was no person at home when the fire started, and it is supposed to have been caused by a spark from the saw-mill.
